1865

THE FRANCIS- VALENTINE CO.

Thirteenth St., near Mission, S. F. Cal.

Spacious Headquarters
for Theatrical Agents

PHONE—MARKET 2114

Send Bills of Lading to us. We will take care of your paper

Van Ness Theatre

Tonight will see the last performance of The Merry Widow, a show that has broken all records for San Francisco with the exception of grand opera. The three weeks have seen practically capacity business, with several extra matinees thrown in. Since Wednesday there have been no seats to be had for the balance of the engagement.

Valencia Theatre

The Valencia players take very naturally to farce and in consequence the unfolding of the story of Too Much Johnson this week is attended by the utmost hilarity. Paul McAllister and Robert Homans achieve the honors. Mr. McAllister, who makes the imperturbable Billings, a most fascinatingly plausible liar, in his keen and quiet way is extremely effective and acts as a fine foil to the boisterous, thick-headed Johnson. Both of these actors have put extreme plausibility into their work and they never get away from the character one minute. Mr. Homans, who has not been burdened with a surplus of opportunity, does what is undoubtedly the best thing he has shown since he has been here, in the part of Johnson. George Osbourne, as Faddish; Charles Clarke, as the Frenchman, and Lillian Andrews, as the mother-in-law, are extremely good. Robert McKim, as the young lover; Edith Lyle, as the bride-to-be, who has the most unhappy and unexpected experiences, and Grace Travers, as the young wife, did most commendable work in small parts.

American Theatre

The new stock company, organized to fill in the vacant time at the American Theater between the surrender of the Klaw & Erlanger shows and its assumption by the Shuberts, is a welcome surprise. The company is a worthy lot of players. To be sure, after that so-called musical comedy aggregation, otherwise known to questionable fame as the Murray & Mack Company, had been disporting about the stage of the American, dispensing in the name of comedy, doubtful humor and stupid horseplay, any kind of a change is thrice welcome. Whatever the faults of the departing comedians (?) may be, the people now at the American have demonstrated their right to the patronage and serious consideration of the San Francisco play-going public, by reason of their intrinsic merit. Henri Lavedan's play, The Duel, is a typical drama of the modern French realistic school. It is interesting, for many reasons. One is, because only a Frenchman could have written it. No American dramatist understands the exact relation that the Church of Rome occupies to the lives, not only of its communicants in an individual capacity, but to the national life of such characters as represent The Duel, save a man who has behind him generations of Catholic blood. Again, The Duel has a claim upon the serious student of the drama, being a departure from the earlier types of the realistic school, to which this piece belongs. Unlike its predecessors, Lavedan's play is not introspectively morbid. While it is as near a cross-section of life as a play can be, it is not a portrayal of degeneracy. Its characters are people with ideals, though like men and women of everyday existence, they fail to realize their abstract conceptions of right. The story of The Duel is simplicity itself. Two brothers have, unknown to each other, taken upon themselves the task of protecting the same woman. One man is a noble physician, an atheist. The other is a self-sacrificing Catholic priest, a believer in orthodox Christianity. The one man would have the body, the other the soul. She who is beset by such diametrically opposite influences, is at heart a good woman who has been unhappily married. The contest ends with the priest asking the woman to go to his brother, the doctor, feeling confident that she will be protected and loved by him as she has never been. The Abbe goes to Asia as a missionary, leaving the two together in their newly-found happiness. The duel is the combat between the minds of these two men. In the end both are victors and the emotion-tossed girl is saved, with no compromise upon her character. Herschal Mayall, as the man of holy orders, has done nothing better in San Francisco. His acting does not suggest the days of the Central, or of the Grand Opera House. The personal following of Mayall, one of the largest and most constant that any leading man has had in this city in recent years, has been in attendance nightly at the American, giving him a hearty welcome to San Francisco. Gerald Harcourt, as the blunt, brusque physician, out of patience with Christianity, was extremely good, and altogether satisfying. The part is a difficult one, and in the earlier scenes might be made repelling if not handled with judgment and good taste, as Harcourt has done. Harriet Worthington displayed a psychological insight into the character of the Duchess, which stamps her as a leading woman of more than usual mentality. The Duchess is a character that in the hands of a bungler would fail miserably. James Corrigan, heretofore known in San Francisco only as a comedian of the melodramatic sort, made an excellent Bishop Bolene. As The Duel consists, practically speaking, of but four speaking parts, little opportunity was given to the other members of the cast. Thurlow White played two small parts excellently. Percy Kilbride, as a Chinese boy, was all that the limited scope of the character exacted. Miss Bolton, as the housekeeper of the Abbe, had a few lines. Charles Swickard, the stage manager, though not in sight, demonstrated his thoroughness as a presenter of plays. No one could have done more than he in giving The Duel its proper display. Next week that idyl of the days of '49, Tennessee's Pardner, will be the bill.

Alcazar Theatre

The Silver Girl is having an easier time of it at the Alcazar this week than she did last. Many of the long speeches have been cut, or so divided that the piece goes with much more snap than when first put on. To criticize the play and the players too severely under the strain to which the company has been subjected during the past ten days would hardly be fair. All things taken into consideration, the bill goes remarkably well. Too much praise cannot be paid to Herbert Farjeon for the excellent manner in which he has staged the piece. The estrangement of Harrison Hunter from his foolish young wife is the main story of the play. E. L. Bennison acts the part of the millionaire mining man most consistently. Louise Brownell, as the wayward wife, has a thankless role, of which she makes the most that is possible. When it is borne in mind that she has assumed this part after the hurry-up call of last week and worked it up to its present proportions, it shows that the young lady is possessed of more than usual dramatic ability. The minor love affair of the piece, that of Richard Hunter, the son, and the governess of his sister, Julia Raymond, are both excellently portrayed by Thurlow Bergen and Bessie Barriscale. Nathan Hargrave, in the hands of Howard Hickman, left nothing to be desired. William Garwood and Claribel Becker were congenially placed. Next week The Girl and the Judge will be the bill. It will have a metropolitan production.

Princess Theatre

La Traviata, that beautiful and pathetic story of Camille, retold in song by Verdi, opened the last week of grand opera on Monday night, and it proved the supreme occasion (for Mme. Norelli as Violetta Valere—Camille), and right gloriously did she portray the character in voice, temperament and interpretation. Bari and Zara (father and son) were the next characters in point of importance, and they carried their respective parts well. The orchestra was magnificent, and the house was well filled. The performance from end to end (the orchestra included) was the most finished number of the entire repertoire during the six weeks' engagement of the company. The balance of the week was given over to a repertoire in the following order: Tuesday, Aida; Wednesday, Il Trovatore; Thursday, Fedora; Friday evening and Wednesday matinee, The Barber of Seville; Saturday, Carmen; Sunday, L'Amico Fritz.

Willard Mack Regains Health and Explains Conditions in Salt Lake

I notice in the issue of your interesting journal of July 10 a card that reads: T. N. Heppron, General Director, Leading Heavy, Willard Mack Company, Bungalow Theater, Salt Lake City. Mr. Heppron joined me last winter to play heavies. Shortly afterward I was taken ill with pneumonia and taken to the Holy Cross Hospital, this city, where I remained twenty weeks. Upon my going to a sick bed Mr. Dunsworth and Mr. Heppron obtained permission from Mr. Cort to continue the company under their management, thereby assuming control of company and the liabilities thereon attached. It was then that Mr. Heppron became director, the direction ceasing when I returned to again take control. Blanche Douglas has returned for the leading business and our cast is about the same as all season. In spite of extreme hot weather, business continues very good. Yours, very sincerely, WILLARD MACK.

MIRABEL SEYMOUR, who has been with the Baker stock company in Portland, opens with the Valencia stock next Monday.

New Princess Stock

The new musical comedy stock for the Princess will open Monday in The Belle of New York. Of the old stock, Budd Ross is the only one signed for the new company. Others in the company are: Octavia Broska, Olga Steck, Martha Golden, Edwin T. Emery, Albert Duncan, Arthur Cunningham, Sidney De Gray, Robert Wilson and Harris Maguire.

Following The Belle of New York Floradora will be offered.

Alex. Pantages May Build Stock House in Sacramento

Alex Pantages, owner of theatres in cities of the northwest and lessee of the Pantages theatre in Sacramento and San Francisco, is to erect a new theatre in Sacramento within a short time, according to announcement made yesterday in Sacramento. The theatre will be for a stock company and will be one of a circuit to include Portland, San Francisco, Seattle, Oakland and Tacoma.

$500 For a Song

Manager Oliver Morosco of Los Angeles has offered a reward of $500 for the best waltz written by an American composer. In doing so he desired to find a musical number to rival the famous Merry Widow waltz. Herr Franz Lehar, who wrote the Merry Widow waltz two years ago, is now said to be a millionaire.

Circus Dates

RINGLIN'S CIRCUS.—Red Bluff, Aug. 30; Chico, 31; Marysville, Sept. 1; Sacramento, 2; Santa Rosa, 3; Napa, 4; Oakland, 5-6; Santa Cruz, 7; Salinas, 8; San Francisco, 9-13; San Jose, 14; Stockton, 15; Fresno, 16; Visalia, 17; Bakersfield, 18; Santa Barbara, 20; Los Angeles, 21-22; Santa Ana, 24; San Bernardino, 25; Phoenix, 27; Tucson, 28.

WIEDEMAN'S ROUGH RIDERS AND INDIAN CONGRESS.—Williston, July 23; Roy, 24; Berthold, 26; Granville, 27; Tower, 28; Rugby, 29; Leeds, 30; Church's Ferry, 31.

AL FLOURNOY WRITES: No longer will I bask in the luring spotlight. After seven years of solid work on the Coast as vaudeville performer, manager for Sullivan & Considine and late leading man of the Jants P. Lee Comedy Players, I step down and out and accept a position as manager for a big lumber concern with headquarters at St. Paul Minn. All the comforts of home and an excellent salary (with no lay-offs) was the cause of my retiring from "good old show business." All my actor friends are cordially invited to call and see me when in the saintly city, and I promise them "fine board."

The Ketchell-Papke fight pictures are putting in a desultory week at the Novelty. Pretty soon fight promoters and film people will realize that Coast people don't want these exhibitions of brutality. Both the Johnson-Burns pictures and the Nelson-Gans pictures were frosts on the road.

Vaudeville

LLOYD C. FOUNTAIN, Editor

The Orpheum

A program to please the most fastidious and critical vaudevillian from the top of the gallery to the orchestra is playing to packed attendance this week. The Electrified Girl Review, the headline attraction, is headed by Clara Nelson and a sextette of trim looking damsels. The act depicts the drawings of Charles Dana Gibson, in which Miss Nelson is the widow and Harry Turpin the Gibson man. The finale of the act is most novel and exciting. A yacht is depicted on the curtain with the entire company aboard and apparently flying through the water. The incidental songs and lyrics are of a tuneful and catchy nature and splendidly rendered. Lily Lena, a dainty little bundle of femininity, has a tight hold on you before she has hardly said a word. Her songs are new, catchy and the way she sings them makes you feel like shouting more, more. Lily Lena is the hit of the show. Julius Tannen is a clever monologist with a good line of stuff, but spoils the effect of his stunt of looking quickly at someone if they laugh, by a too indulgent use of the habit. The Three Donals in feats of strength, show themselves to be remarkable gymnasts, but the act is over all too soon. The holdovers are Charlotte Parry, the Protean actress, in The Comstock Mystery; the Three Leightons; Selma Braatz; and Helena Frederick and company in The Patriot. Motion pictures complete the program.

Pantages-Empire

Manager Tiffany has a program far above the average presented at this house in some time, and increased attendance is testifying its appreciation. Buch Brothers, assisted by a bounding mat, contribute some knock-about acrobatic work that is as hilariously funny as it is clever. Roberts, Hayes and Roberts in a farce that is as ridiculous as it is funny, include some good singing and dancing with numerous changes of costume, which goes immensely. Princess Wladneroff in a combination of singing, dancing and instrumental work is well received. Stelle and McMasters in a strenuous acrobatic act on roller skates well deserve the hearty applause they receive. In Harry Von Fossen we have the blackface monologist again with the same old line of junk, only Harry has a way of talking so as not to be understood. It goes immensely with some of the audience. The motion pictures are exceptionally good and complete a performance that is well worth while.

Fischer's

Mr. Mazuma is the alluring title of a very funny concoction that is presented this week by the clever company headed by Carlton Chase. In this new leading man Herr Manager Fischer has an acquisition, for he is a big, handsome, classy young fellow, who can wear good clothes and act and sing as well. His assumption of the part of Tom Sawyer is most pleasing and his song, Kiss Your Minstrel Boy Good Bye, is rendered with spirit and in good taste. Maud Rockwell, who has become a great favorite, is still singing and using her glorious voice to advantage. "Heine" Auerbach, the new Dutch comedian, works diligently and gets many laughs out of the part of Augustave Wientdt. Will King in a new idea of the Jew is amusing, and Dave Morris, as the clerk, and Blanche Buford and Anna Clark, complete the list of principals.

The National

The only complaint to be found with the performance this week is that the show is too long, if such a reason may be construed as a complaint. There are eight acts besides the moving pictures, and the usual overflow attendance is in evidence at every performance. First to be mentioned is William Windom, who is a refreshing departure from the usual blackface act. Windom's work is of the confidential nature which keeps the audience continually clamoring for more. Billy is the most enjoyable of the bill. Albini the Great presents his latest illusion, The Bridal Chamber, in conjunction with several other mystifying stunts which keep you in a state of wonderment. Halton Brothers, club manipulators, introduce clever work which stamp them as being far above the average in their line. Mabel Crew, assisted by Jack Van Epps, pianist, renders some catchy songs with a number of decidedly neat costume changes. A pleasing and vivacious air combine to make Miss Crew a most entertaining feature of any bill. The Four Allen Sisters in their singing and dancing are most clever little performers and their dancing is exceedingly neat. Jack Wyatt and Blanche Rice present an amusing comedy act with (thank heaven) a new theme entitled The Unexpected, by Edmond Day. They are both good performers and cleverly handle the many comedy situations, although Mr. Wyatt has a propensity for making faces when speaking. Gillihan and Murray, billed as the Emperors of blackface, certainly have a great many subjects that wear the crown to greater advantage. Mlle. Rialta and company, with the emphasis of the company, present The Artist's Dream, which is all to the good so far as the singing is concerned, which may be said to be the best portion of the act. Figuratively speaking, Mlle. Rialta shows some form, but her appearance would not be quite so embarrassing to the feminine portion of the audience if some draperies were used—persons unaccustomed to the climate of San Francisco are very susceptible to Fogitis, and no doubt the turning of heads of the part of the ladies is the dread they hold for her health. Mlle. Rialta is taking awful chances in more ways than one. Operator Ford deserves mention for the splendid motion picture entitled An Unnatural Father, which is a combination of excellent comedy and dramatic effect which composes one of the most enjoyable features of the program.

The Star

This week's program is as usual satisfying in every particular. Chinese Walton presents his one-man Chinese tragedy, which, although unintelligible to the audience, neverthe-

Theatrical Tights

ALL COLORS, WEIGHTS AND QUALITIES—Cotton, 75c to $1.50; Wool, $2.50 to $3.50; Lisle or Silkline, $3.00 to $4.50; Silk, $5.00 to $12.50.

SYMMETRICALS BEST LINE MADE IN THE U. S. Calf, $5.00; Calf and Thigh, $10.00; Calf, Thigh and Hip, $12.50.

We also Make Padded Shirts, SWEATERS, JERSEYS, GYM, ATHLETIC and BATH SUITS, SUPPORTERS, ACROBATIC SHOES, GOOD UNDERWEAR Knit to Fit in All Materials.

We operate our own mills, carry a large stock and make goods to measure at reasonable prices. We suit the professional as if he were buying in Europe. Write us for prices and samples.

Gantner & Mattern Co.

Phone Kearny 3603

Corner Post and Grant Ave.

NATIONAL THEATRE

Mr. Sid Grauman,
General Manager

POST AND STEINER STS., SAN FRANCISCO

Leading Vaudeville Theatre on the Sullivan-Considine Circuit. No Act Too Good for us. Write.

Sullivan & Considine Circuit

W. P. REESE

California Representative

AMERICAN THEATRE BUILDING, 1117 MARKET ST.

Phone Market 6873

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

New York Office, Shubert Bldg. Lancaster, Pa., Family Theatre
Now Booking Summer Parks, Fairs and Vaudeville Theatres. Managers, write or wire.

50---THEATRES---50
THAT INDEPENDENT VAUDEVILLE AGENT

.... BERT LEVEY ....

Phone West 9098

2053 SUTTER ST., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

PANTAGES Western States Vaudeville Association

Controlling the longest, largest and best chain of vaudeville theatres in the United States.

Mr. Manager: No matter where your house is, how large or how small, we can supply you promptly with first-class vaudeville acts at reasonable prices, also lodges, clubs and entertainments furnished on short notice.

See O. S. BURNS, Representative.
Phone West 7140. Offices: Pantages Theatre, cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts., San Francisco, Cal.

Archie Levy's Amusement Ass'n

THE VAUDEVILLE EXCHANGE OF THE PACIFIC COAST
1643 FILLMORE STREET, SUITE 1-2-3, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers desiring talent Write. Artists send in your open time now.

In Spite of all ye Knocking Devils in H—

THE LAND OF BUNG-A-BOO, headed by Wise & Milton, are still going, while others are trying. This week, EMPIRE, half act. Next week, WIGWAM, full act. Vallejo, week of Aug. 1st.

DID WE? ?

Borden-Zeno & Haydn Bros.

In "BITS OF VAUDEVILLE" Featured Everywhere
Extract from a manager's opinion: "Gentlemanly performers, who have a novelty act that proved a big feature and success at the Wigwam, week of July 18, '09. With pleasure I recommend them.—Sam Harris, Mgr.
Week of August 1st, Crystal, Denver, Colo. Direction B. A. Myers, New York City.

less comes in for a big share of approval. Mickey Fealey brings forth many a laugh with some good comedy acrobatics. The Earle Sisters, singers and character change artists, contribute some clever work, which is duly appreciated. A clever performer on the banjo is found in Jimmy Polk, who is an enjoyable feature of the program. Yerxa in a series of tying and twisting himself into knots and numerous positions, succeeds in easily working his way into the good graces of the audience. Hobbs & London, in a singing and talking act, are well received. Olive Reed is again on the program, singing the illustrated songs. Motion pictures complete the program.

LOLITA ROBERTSON, last season Max Figman's leading woman, is visiting her parents in Redding.

Bookings

At the Sullivan & Considine, San Francisco Office, through Wm. P. Reese, their sole booking agent, for week of July 25, 1909:

Barnes-Reming Company; Sados; Carita Day and Boys; Ray and Brosche; Telegraph Four; Eva Mudge. BELL, Oakland—Mabel Carew and company; Gillihan and Murray; Wyatt and Rice; Billy Windom; Mlle. Rialta and company; Albini and Bessie Allen. WIGWAM, San Francisco—Ramsey Sisters; Frank Bacon and company; Slater Brockman; Seymour and Hill; Onaip. LOS ANGELES, Los Angeles—Dumitrescu-Vermette Troupe; Virginia Grant; Mann and Franks; Kelly and Reno; Leo Cooper and company; Daring Darts. QUEEN, San Diego—Brenon and Downing; Clara Thropp; Faust Brothers; The Torleys.

The Wigwam

Summer weather seems to have no effect upon the attendance at Manager Harris' popular house and many faces are to be seen repeating their call at this staple house this week. The long program has excellence written all over it, and it is hard to conceive of a better galaxy of talent being brought together for one program. The Wise-Milton Comedy Company present the Land of Bungaboo. The act abounds with catchy songs and music and lively dancing. The costuming, consisting of numerous changes, is decidedly artistic and special scenery of a picturesque nature is carried for the production. Borden-Zeno and Haydn Brothers, in a combination of bang-up dancing, singing and instrumental work, are without a doubt the best that have been seen in their class of offering this season. Several changes of apparel and the neatness of their appearance deserves special mention. Leo Cooper presents The Price of Power, from the pen of Harry D. Cottrell, whose work is well known in this city. The act is intensely dramatic, without the usual comedy vein in evidence, which saves many a sketch of a like nature from an early grave. Mr. Cooper ably upholds the dignity called for in his character and is given fair support by his co-worker. Virginia Grant has a splendid voice and more than makes good in a number of catchy songs. The Daring Darts contribute a clever portion to the bill in a series of juggling, clever marksmanship and cycle riding on a balancing ladder. Dorothy Bunch comes in for a good round of applause in a singing turn. Her dressing of the act is dainty and pretty, but would suggest more of a line of variety in her selection of songs. A novelty in horizontal bar work is offered by The Dumitresou-Vermette Troupe, which is far above the average gymnastic offering. Bicycle riding of an expert and daring nature is presented by The Torleys, especially so on the una-cycle, which is the best seen in some time. The motion pictures are as usual highly interesting.

Vaudeville Notes

May Boley will shortly begin a tour in vaudeville under the booking of Bert Levey, that independent agent.

La Loie Helene, presenting Cleopatra's death dance, under booking of Bert Levey, is in her second week at the Unique, Los Angeles.

Mrs. Anna Allen O'Rourke of San Francisco, a vaudeville actress, was found dead in her room in a Philadelphia hotel last Thursday. Heart disease is supposed to have caused her death. She, with her husband, William J. O'Rourke, and her son, Frank, appeared as the O'Rourke-Brunette Trio.

Work was commenced Monday on Grauman's new theatre on Market street, between Fifth and Sixth streets. It will be a handsome, modern vaudeville house.

Romance

I see before my mind's eye a handful of men facing the inevitable death which is darting about them in the form of half naked savages who fill the air with their exultant cries of bloodthirsty anticipation. Defiant, this pitiful handful of heroes are bravely fighting until at last their guns are empty and then, back to back, they face their savage foe with a courage that is sublime in its helplessness, until one by one they fall to join the hero comrades at their feet, with a look of defiance on their faces which even death cannot erase. Then the savage warcry of victory breaks forth and the bloody scalp lock is lifted on high. One is left unmolested, even in death reverential awe is shown by his conquerors clustered about him. I am looking on the battlefield of the Little Big Horn, the scene of the Custer Massacre, and as the picture fades from my vision I see in my hands before me a war bonnet of king eagle feathers, which was worn by one of the participants of this lamentable occasion, and is now being worn by Mr. Wise in his vaudeville act, The Land of the Bungaboo at the Wigwam this week. It was presented to Mr. Wise last year at Colorado Springs by Chief Pedro of the Pueblo tribe, an uncle of the original owner, the young warrior who wore it at the battle of the Little Big Horn. The moccasins and a tusk necklace worn by Mr. and Mrs. Wise were presented to them at the same time, and were taken from the dead body of Young Bear, a son of the famous Sioux warrior Sitting Bull after the battle of Wounded Knee. The most highly prized and interesting relic in their possession is a blanket or throw worn by Mrs. Wise, which is woven from Biati cloth, the Indian name given the cloth taken from the red coats of the British officers, which they secured in trade for pelts, etc. The age of this blanket is problematical and the only other of its kind known to be in existence is now in the possession of ex-President Roosevelt, which is about three times larger and is valued at $2,500. The above are but a few of the many interesting curios in the possession of Mr. Wise, who has one of the largest collections of this nature in this country and is rated as an authority on the subject of the American Indian and his traditions and customs.

Dates Ahead

ALCAZAR STOCK.—San Francisco.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Madison, Aug. 8; Stillwater, 9; St. Cloud, 10; Grand Forks, 11; Winnipeg, 12-14; Fargo, 16; Mandan, 17; Miles City, 18; Billings, 19; Livingston, 20; Bozeman, 21; Butte, 22-23; Anaconda, 24; Gr. Falls, 25; Helena, 26; Missoula, 27; Wallace, 28; Spokane, 29-31.

BELASCO STOCK CO.—Los Angeles.

BISHOP'S PLAYERS.—In stock, Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland.

FISCHER'S MUSICAL STOCK.—San Francisco.

GUY SMITH STOCK.—Oakland, Cal.

LYRIC STOCK CO.—Portland, Ore.

MOROSCO'S BURBANK STOCK.—Los Angeles.

PANTAGOS STOCK.—Seattle.

THE BLUE MOUSE (Shubert's; Ambrose Miller, mgr.)—Seattle, July 18, and week.

THE GIRL QUESTION (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Madison, Aug. 15; Stillwater, 16; St. Cloud, 17; Grand Forks, 18; Winnipeg, 19-21; Fargo, 23; Dickinson, 24; Miles City, 25; Billings, 26; Livingston, 27; Bozeman, 28; Butte, 29-30; Anaconda, 31.

THE MERRY WIDOW (Henry W. Savage; Henri Gressit, bus. mgr.)—San Francisco, July 4, and three weeks; Los Angeles, 26, and week; then week each in Salt Lake and Denver.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Madison, Aug. 1; St. Cloud, 2; Gr. Forks, 3; Winnipeg, 4-7; Fargo, 9; Valley City, 10; Jamestown, 11; Dickinson, 12; Miles City, 13; Billings, 14; Big Timber, 15; Livingston, 16; Bozeman, 17; Gr. Falls, 18; Helena, 19; Butte, 20-21; Missoula, 23; Wallace, 24; Lewiston, 25; Pullman, 26; Colfax, 27; Walla Walla, 28; Spokane, 29-31.

THREE WEEKS (Ernest Shuter, ahead.)—Astoria, July 17; Portland, 18, week; Seattle, 25, and two weeks; Tacoma, August 8-9; Victoria, 10; Vancouver, 11-12; Bellingham, 13; Everett, 14; North Yakima, 15; Spokane, 16-19; Helena, 20; Great Falls, 21; Butte, 22-23; Billings, 24; Grand Forks, 25; Winnipeg, 26; then St. Paul and Minneapolis.

YANKEE DOODLE STOCK CO. (Geo. V. Haliday, mgr.)—Hancock, July 19, week; Bessemer, 26, and week; Ironwood, Aug. 2, and week; Ashland, 9-21.

BLANCHE BATES, who has not appeared here in over four years, will be seen here at the Van Ness Theatre a few weeks hence in her latest success, The Fighting Hope. In the support of Miss Bates will be seen an array of well known players.

NEW CHUTES

FILLMORE, TURK, EDDY AND WEBSTER

DOLLAR SHOW FOR A DIME

Continues Concerts by the

ROYAL BANDA ROMA

led by the world-famous Signano.

DESPERADO

In His Death Defying Leap for Life.

DEMON.

The Human Engine on Wheels.

FLORENCE SPRAY

The Girl in the White Tights

IMPORTED MOTION PICTURES

Thrown on a Screen at the Lakes End.

SONGS AND MERRY MUSIC

By the Entertainers in Cafe and Grill.

These are some of the

FAVORITE FREE FEATURES

That Tickle the Throats That Take the Time

CHUTES JOY JAUNT

M. M. RILEY

G. A. KELLEY

THALIA

Concert Hall

514½ PACIFIC STREET

Up-to-Date Vaudeville

NO ACT TOO BIG FOR THIS HOUSE

IDORA

"The Park Beautiful"

B. P. MILLER, General Manager
Oakland, Calif.

20 Acres of High Grade
Amusement=20

The Handsomest
Park in America

Playing Only the World's Greatest Bands
and
Big Feature Acts

Performers desiring time, address
J. H. B. Fitzpatrick

Santa Fe BACK EAST EXCURSIONS

SALE DATES

Aug. 9 to 13, inclusive.

Sept. 7 to 10, 13 to 15, inclusive.

ROUND TRIP RATES

Chicago .....	$72.50	New Orleans .....	$ 67.50
Kansas City .....	60.00	New York .....	108.50
Memphis, Tenn. ....	67.50	St. Louis .....	67.50

Ask for Back East Excursion pamphlet. Gives details.

JAS. B. DUFFY, Gen. Agt., 673 Market St., San Francisco.

SANTA FE

The Bishop Stock of Oakland Giving Series of Great Performances

We have to hand it to Manager Harry Bishop for enterprise, not only has he been giving us the very best plays obtainable, but often he pays immense royalties and secures some big successes for his stock company. This week he is offering The Squaw Man, made famous by Faversham and Dustin Farnum. This is the first time that this well known play has ever been produced by a stock company at popular prices and the production is in every respect a credit to the management. The company was fully equal to the occasion and gave an excellent performance. Sidney Ayres in the principal role of Jim Carson, the Western ranch owner, acted the part as if he were born on the plains and handled himself in a free and easy manner that was refreshing. His costumes and make-up were very much in keeping with his part and the success of the play is due to a large extent to his untiring efforts. Shumer, Blair and Rand were typical cowboys and executed some good character work. Charley Blair, after a long absence, returned to the stage in the part of Shorty and scored a hit. As Tabawana, the Indian, Walter Whipple had a great make-up and was one of the hits of the performance. George Friend, Richard Claye, Robert Lawlor and George Schrand played the English roles very satisfactory, while the Pete and Parson of Max Weizman and James Phillip left nothing to be desired. As the Countess of Kerhill, Florence Oakley had a role that required but little acting, but she made as much as possible out of the part. Laura Hudson made an excellent Indian squaw; her Nat-uritch being very much appreciated. The production in its entirety is one that would pass muster anywhere and too much praise cannot be extended to Grace Wishaar, the scenic artist, and Charles Blair, Bishop's capable property man. The house is packed at every performance and everyone leaves with kind thoughts of the new company, as well as of Bishop's new stage director, George Webster, who is showing people that he knows the game from a to z. Next week The Man on the Box, with George Friend in the leading role. The Macdonough has been closed but will open 22nd with Polly of the Circus, to be followed by the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company. At the Broadway Smith's stock company is presenting Monte Cristo to good sized audiences. The play has not been seen here for a long time and seems to be as popular a drawing card as ever. Landers Stevens, as Edmund Dantes, is the center piece throughout the entire performance. As Mercedes, Georgie Cooper shows great versatility; first portraying the young girl of eighteen and then the mature woman of the world. At the last moment Jack Bennett, who was to have sustained the role of Caderouse, was taken ill, and without any opportunity whatever for studying the lines, Maurice Stewart was called upon to enact the role. Stewart had played the part about five years ago and gave a performance that, under the circumstances, was little short of marvelous. Georgie Woodthorpe, Al Hallett and Fred Munier do themselves credit. The storm scene outside of the Chateau d'If was realistic in the extreme. Monte Cristo will continue throughout the week and will be followed by Sapho. The Orpheum has a swell bill and is doing an immense business. Laddie Cliff is again on and is repeating last week's hit. Of the newcomers, Armstrong and Clark are probably the best, although the ladder balancing of Herr Londe is sensational enough to make one's heart stop beating. The balance of the program contains, Ollie Young and his three brothers; Eight Original Madcaps; Max Witt's Singing Colleens; Redpath Napanees; Three Sisters Athletas. Frank Bacon, the popular Oakland comedian, has returned from his Eastern tour and is presenting one of his favorite sketches at the Bell. Monday he was tendered a great reception by a packed house and throughout the entire week he has had an ovation at every performance. Idora still continues to be a favorite resort and is showing a decided increase in attendance. This week's attractions comprise: Innes Orchestra; The Four Bards and the Orton Family. At the Old Cross Roads and Rose of the Rancho will be given early productions at Ye Liberty. Word comes from Carmel by the Sea, that Manager Harry Bishop has had a good rest and is now enjoying much improved health. LOUIS SCHEELINE.

SAN DIEGO, July 21.—Garrick (J. M. Dodge, mgr.)—Week July 19—Hobart Bosworth and company in A Scrap of Paper are giving very creditable performances to fair business. August 3-4—The Merry Widow. Pickwick (Scott A. Palmer, mgr.)—James Post and Buty Korus are again with us and doing good business. The piece being presented this week is a musical absurdity with little or no plot, entitled Hot Nights. Of course Post has the leading comedy role, and as usual gets more than his share of laughs. Millar Bacon, Juliet Mahr, Lotus Moore and Jim Hayden are still with the company and are doing very good work in this production. The chorus works well together and is very well dressed. Queen (John Donnelan, mgr.)—The bill as presented this week is a good one and is headed by Cook and Miss Rothert, who have a good dancing and comedy act. Second to this act comes that of Petroff, the Russian violinist, who scored a big hit. Toma Hanlon also scored with her act. The Messer Sisters delighted with several songs. Moving pictures and the Peerless orchestra conclude. Grand (Fred Ballien, mgr.)—The Bahlien Sisters head the bill at the Grand this week. This act is undoubtedly one of the best juvenile acts seen here in many a week and scored an instantaneous hit. Martinez and Martinez pleased with their musical act. Hill Sisters have a new illustrated song. Moving pictures conclude.

CARL E. LUNDQUIST.

LONG BEACH, July 19.—Charles King, Marjorie Rambeau and the other Bentley stock company players are to leave Long Beach. It is reported on what is fairly reliable authority that on Saturday night, J. H. Ebrite, formerly of the Theatorium, and Fred Baldwin, the musical director, secured a lease on the Bentley Grand Theatre for one year from Mrs. L. H. Bentley, and, as a result of the change, the Bentley stock company goes and vaudeville will be put on in the playhouse. This week and next will be the last seen of the Bentley stock company favorites. During the last two weeks Charles King will put on two bills a week. This week he will play Montana Girl and A Bachelor's Romance, the last play beginning Thursday. Byron P. Glenn's new play, The Master Mind, will be produced for the first time on any stage for four performances, beginning a week from Thursday. Marjorie Rambeau and Mr. King are at present rehearsing a vaudeville act. They have been offered a remunerative contract by a leading circuit for their skit. Great regrets are expressed at the departure of the splendid talent which makes up the Bentley players. The cause of the change is a regrettable lack of patronage of the company. Harry G. Wire, 535 West Second Street, the owner of the Byde-a-Wyle Theatre building on The Pike, has given an option on the building to E. B. Campbell of Bakersfield, the purchase price stipulated being $35,000. This price includes the lot, 56½ feet by 135 feet in size, which is owned by the Strand Improvement Company. Campbell, who has erected six cottages on the west strand for renting purposes, plans to erect on the site eventually a modern theatre building in which first-class vaudeville will be featured. CARSON CITY—Carson Opera House (C. H. Peters, mgr.)—Elleford company, with the famous Osborn children, Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday matinee this week. The company will meet with a flattering reception, no doubt, as it is very popular with Carson City audiences. M. E. S.

Suit on Account of Color Line

WOODLAND, July 22.—All Woodland is watching the suit of Mrs. Ernest L. Dawson against Manager William Hunt of a local picture theatre. Hunt, it is charged, refuses to sell tickets to negroes, Japanese or Chinese for any section of the house, with one exception. Mrs. Dawson asks for $1,000 damages for alleged failure to sell her a seat anywhere except in this section.

JOHN CORT will arrive from Seattle next Friday on his way to New York.

HOWARD AND MARGARET NUGENT leave the Walter Sanford company in Calgary on August 7, to join the Roberts-Gillard company in Saskatchewan, Canada.

Andrews Opera Chairs

General Seating
School—Church—Bank
Office and Steel Rod
Furniture
Purchase direct from
manufacturer
THE A. H. ANDREWS CO.
Pacific Bldg., San Francisco
Chicago, New York, Tacoma

Imperial Amusement Co.

Star Theatre, Portland, Oregon
S. MORTON COHN, Pres.; MELVIN G.
WINSTOCK, Gen. Mgr.
Acts of every kind are requested to write
in, quoting lowest salary in first letter.
Satisfactory booking for right acts at right figures.

SCENERY

The Chas. F. Rosa Scenic Studio

Undersell any studio or individual in America.
Write for a "special" estimate.
Studio, Van Ness Theatre, S. F.

Hotel St. James, Van Ness Ave., at Fulton St., San Francisco

MISS E. MATTINGLY

Official Stenographer and Typewriter to Theatrical Agents and Managers
Theatrical Typewriting
Plays and manuscripts copied. Press
work and mimeographing.

J. B. REIGHLEY

Theatrical Hauling

Promptly Attended To
Telephone Market 1601
660 Guerrero Street, Bet. 18th and 19th

Opera, Folding and Assembly

Chairs

Full Line
See Samples at 770-776
Mission St.
Bet. 3d and 4th Sts.
SAN FRANCISCO
THE
WIGGIN CO.

Do you contemplate going to HONOLULU? If so, communicate with

J. C. COHEN

PROMOTER OF AMUSEMENT ENTERPRISES

Managing HAWAIIAN OPERA HOUSE and ORPHEUM THEATRE, Honolulu, H. T. Both houses thoroughly equipped and stage capable of handling any show.

Theatre for Rent for Vaudeville

Large, fine Theatre, with 800 seating capacity, large stage, in city of 5,000 people. Can be leased for vaudeville purposes. Rent, very reasonable.

Address, H., care of Dramatic Review.

Scene from Polly of the Circus at the Van Ness Theatre, commencing Sunday night, July 25th.

Polly of the Circus

"Entreat me not to leave thee. Whither thou goest I will go."

They are the immortal words of Ruth, put into the mouth of dear little Polly, the circus rider, lisped at first in uncertain wonder, as being something new and strange and different from the tanbark jargon that was the speech of her people, but later breathed in an agony of spirit as a plea against separation from the man she loved. Like a refrain they run through the pretty story of Polly's romance, alternating with echoes of the "barker's cry: "The greatest show on earth," and between these two utterances, so opposed to another, there is found the conflict of a charming play. The piece in question is Polly of the Circus, which comes to the Van Ness Theatre, beginning Sunday, July 25. The play makes a profound emotional appeal. As a dramatic work it is a thing of much substance; its story is simple and its plot along novel lines. It is profoundly touching, and without overwrought emotional stress lays a certain hold upon the heart. First of all, it has the deft touch of feminine authorship—coming from the pen of Margaret Mayo—and with womanly sympathy it does not wander from sentiment into sentimentality. Then, and this is the principal factor, its leading role is in the hands of a flowerlike actress, accomplished far beyond her years, whose personality is fragrant with the allure of delicate girlhood, and whose technique is so developed that she can strike a chord of emotion with exactly the right touch—light, vagrant, yet certain, evoking overtones that carry sincerity of feeling with subtle and wooing effect. Polly of the Circus is a dramatic study in tender sentiment, not a spectacle. The circus atmosphere is reserved for scenic effect until the last act, when in three different scenes, it is tinted into the general picture without violence to the action itself. In the first act Polly is brought into the home of a rural minister, after having been injured in one of her bare-back exploits under canvas; in the second act she is seen, about a year afterward, the protegee of the man who has befriended her, who has become her idol, and of whose heart she has taken quiet possession; and in the third act she is back with the show again, sacrificing her own yearnings in order to save the minister from scandal-bearing deacons and deaconesses. This last episode is in three scenes: first in the lot behind the main tent, where the story is worked out to its conclusion; then in the arena itself, for a whirling forty-five seconds' glimpse of a circus in action. The Thompsonesque finale is highly effective from the pictorial point of view, though the episode nature of the two last tableaux let the dramatic action leak away between them, and a few more touches of dialogue or pantomime are apparently necessary to round out the story. Be that as it may, the general impression is delightful. The clowns are bouncing about, the tumblers are tumbling, and the substitute equestrienne is performing genuine circus tricks on the back of a revolving steed, when Polly, frantic and distressed, bursts into the arena, bent upon sacrificing her love, and also professionally determined to prove that she can ride as well as in the days of her tanbark glory. But she only faints in a heap and breaks up the show. Then comes the last picture—the village by moonlight, with the little church steeple towering above the houses, and, winding their way over the distant hills, the departing lanterns of the circus caravan. And there stands Polly, remaining behind with the man of her fluttering little heart, and upon the words of Ruth again the play closes.

Spotlights

The Della Pringle Stock Company closed a year's successful stock run at Boise, Idaho, July 3d, most of the people returning to their homes in the East, having been with Miss Pringle since her opening a year ago. The company made good in every particular and left a record to be proud of. Miss Pringle and her husband are enjoying their vacation in taking auto trips in their big touring car, fishing and hunting in the mountain resorts that abound in Southern Idaho. Miss Pringle has a three-year lease on the Turner, and is making big improvements in the theatre.

Seattle is hitting up a fast pace in the erection of new playhouses, as well as in other lines of building. Eighteen months ago the Moore was thrown open, and now a second new house,

Novelty Theatre, San Francisco TO RENT

By the day, week or month. Fine, comfortable theatre, seating 1,200 people.
Large stage.
SPECIALLY ADAPTED TO POLITICAL MEETINGS

GOLDSTEIN & CO. COSTUMERS

for all Pacific Coast Theatres
Goldstein's Hair and Wig Store,
Make-Up, Play Books, Established 1876.
Lincoln Building, Market and Fifth Sts.

the Alhambra has been dedicated. Early in September the new Majestic will be completed, and believe John W. Considine, his Second Avenue playhouse will deserve the adjective "magnificent" to the fullest degree. It wouldn't surprise me if within a year's time Manager Considine also erected the new Orpheum Theatre on the site which he has reserved for it at the corner of Third and Madison.—Seattle Argus.

The company now playing The Climax at Weber's Theatre, New York, will be sent to Chicago for the Power's Theatre engagement. A new one will be placed in the popular playhouse during the time the original company is presenting the big Weber success in Chicago.

KATHRYN OSTERMAN has abandoned her starring tour for the coming season, and will remain in New York as an important member of David Belasco's company, which will open at the Belasco Theatre in August in the new comedy, Is Matrimony a Failure? It is an adaptation from the German by Leo Dietrichstein.

The Gentleman from Mississippi is one of the near-at-hand bookings at the Van Ness. It is from the pen of the well-known actor-playwright, Thomas A. Wise, who was last seen here in the original production of Are You a Mason?

Wanted

A FIRST-CLASS MUSICAL COMEDY OR REPERTOIRE COMPANY that is thoroughly organized and can change the bill twice a week, at the Turner Theatre, Boise, Idaho. Address, C. K. VAN ANKER, Mgr. Della Pringle Stock Co. Note—Miss Pringle is taking a rest.

SCENERY

We make Special Designs for Special Scenery. Modern Construction. Diamond Dye Scenery painted right.

Write for Prices.
Front and Sheridan Sts.
Portland, Oregon

C. F. Weber & Co. Opera Chairs

All Styles of
THEATRE AND
HALL SEATS

365-7 Market Street
San Francisco
210-212 N. Main St.
Los Angeles

FRED O. OSBORNE, Manager
Theatrical Code, "Santapole"
Home Phone F 5037

New York Dramatic Agency

Booking
Dramatic and Vaudeville Acts
Organizing and Routing Companies, Supplying "Scripts," Etc.
Belasco Theatre Building, Los Angeles
Entire Third Floor

CHARLES E. ROYAL AND ELLIOTT EDYTHER

IN VAUDEVILLE

Presenting Charles E. Royal's wonderful Burglar Playlet, "STRAIGHTENING A CROOK," and six other excellent playlets. "Best sketch ever presented at the Empire."—Eureka Times. "Full enough of dramatic and comedy situations to warrant a four-act play."—Eureka Herald. Chas. Royal and Edythe Elliott are finished artists in every sense and present a wonderfully clever act."—Watsonville Pajaronian. "Working All the Time." "Featured Everywhere."

BERT LEVEY, AGENT.

Personals

William Roche, manager of the Academy of Music, Chicago, has had the theatre all redecked, painted and carpeted, which now puts the house in the class known as Chicago's most beautiful theatres, preparatory to the opening of the Klont and Gazzele Stock Company at that house, on Sunday, July 25th. It was originally intended to open at the Bijou, but the plans have been changed to conform with the above. The opening bill will be Beulah Poynter's version of Mary J. Holmes' Lena Rivers. The management announces the return of all the Bijou favorites of last season's Klont players. The roster includes: Anne Brenaugh, Margaret Neville, Nellie Holland, Edna Hibbard, John Lane Connor, Lew O. Hart, Guy Coombs, George Fox and Charles Payton. During the season a number of New York successes will be offered. The Klont players made a very favorable impression at the Bijou last season, and the prospects are that the coming season will be even a more prosperous one.

John Findlay, who will be seen as Toby the clown in Polly of the Circus, at the Van Ness Theatre, will be remembered for his splendid performance as the waiter in Arnold Daly's production of You Never Can Tell. He created the part of Toby in the original production at the Liberty Theatre, New York, and has played it continuously since.

Joseph R. Helen, 2143 Pacific Avenue, Alameda, obtained a warrant on Monday for the arrest of J. Harry Smith on a charge of embezzling $200, March 17th.

Of the members of the Paid in Full Company, with which the Wagenhals & Kemper Company will open their New York season, William Riley Hatch, Florence Robinson and George Belden have played in the piece more than 500 consecutive performances.

MINNIE MAYFIELD

Heavies and Characters
Late of Richard Jose Co. At Liberty. Care
Dramatic Review

HERMAN HELLER

Musical Director
Valencia Theatre Social engagements filled

DAN KELLY

Comedian
Care Dramatic Review

CLARENCE J. ELMER

Bishop Players, Ye Liberty Theatre
Oakland, Cal.

AUSTA PIERCE

Characters
At Liberty for Summer Stock.
1210 Cedar St., San Diego, Cal.

ALBERT ROWLAND

Late of Chas. Frohman and Chas.
Dillingham
With Richard J. Jose, Season 1909-10.

LAURA LUCILE HEIMLICH

Leads
Everett, Wash.

FRED S. CUTLER

Late Manager for Richard Jose
Advance or back At Liberty
Address care Dramatic Review

GEORGIE WOODTHORPE

Characters
Broadway Theatre, Oakland

STEVE I. SIMMONS

MAXWELL ALEXANDER

Columbia Scenic Studio Co.

Estimates on all Classes of Theatrical Work

Office, 117 Fell St., S. F.

Stella Adams

Leading Woman

Unique Theatre, Los Angeles

George P. Webster

Stage Director

Ye Liberty Playhouse Stock, Oakland, Cal.

Howard—Nugent—Margaret

Characters

Walter Sanford's Co., Empress Theatre, Vancouver, B. C.
Re-engaged for Second Season, Opening September 1, 1909

Gerald Harcourt

Juveniles and Light Comedies

American Stock, San Francisco

Mr. & Mrs. Harry Bernard

Musical Comedy Producers

Live Managers Who Want LIVE Productions, Write Harry Bernard, Central Theatre, S. F.

Florence Oakley

Leading Woman

Ye Liberty Stock, Oakland

Paul McAllister

Leading Man

Valencia Theatre, S. F.

Louis Morrison

Belasco Stock Co.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Seibert & Lindley

Presenting the headline act, "HER OWN MOTHER," in vaudeville.

Florence Roberts

Starring for Summer, Alcazar Theatre, S. F.

Sidney B. Payne

Ed Redmond Stock, San Jose.

EDWARD B. LADA

General Music Director
for Belasco & Mayer

A. BURT WESNER

Alcazar Theatre, San Francisco

TEDDY WEBB

Comedian, San Francisco Opera Co.
Direction John Cort

HARRY J. LASK

Representative New York Clipper
N. E. Cor. Sansome and Pine Sts.

HARRY MARSHALL

Scenic Artist
At Liberty. 3748 Vermont Ave., Los Angeles

MINOR REED

Scenic Artist
At Liberty Address Dramatic Review

CARRIE CLARKE WARDE

Characters
Dick Ferris Stock, Minneapolis

GILMORE WALKER

Stage Manager
Valencia Theatre, San Francisco

EDDIE

Mitchell

Juveniles

CHESTER STEVENS

Heavies
Grand Opera House Stock, Los Angeles

MARY HARVEY-BARBOUR

Leads (Versatile)
3d Ave. Theatre, Seattle

FREDERICK GILBERT

Burbank Stock, Los Angeles

ARTHUR SHEPPARD

Scenic Artist Care Dramatic Review

Howard Foster

Light Comedy and Characters
At Liberty Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

IRENE OUTTRIM

Leads
Musical Comedy Co., Reno, Nevada

ROBERT LAWLER

Leading Man

SUSIE HOWARD

At Liberty. Soubrette or Boy Parts
Just closed with Richard Jose Co.
Care Dramatic Review

PIETRO SOSSO

Leading Man—Elleford Co.
Address, 179 De Long Ave., S. F.

FRED. C. CHARMAN

Juveniles and Light Comedy
General Delivery, Tucson, Arizona

WARDA HOWARD

Leads

Vancouver, B. C.

CHARLES MARRIOTT

Gardiner Stock Co. Victoria, B. C.

Walter H. Newman AND Bertha Foltz

Starring Jointly

High-Class Repertoire

Season 1909 and 1910

Darrell Standing

Lois Stock, Seattle

Alf. T. Layne Daisy D'Avra

Del Lawrence Stock, Victoria

T. N. Heffron

Gen. Director and Leading Heavy
Willard Mack—Bungalow Theatre, Salt Lake City.

Donald Bowles

Dramatic Director Geo. L. Baker's Attractions.
Address Bungalow Theatre, Portland, Oregon.
Loaned by Mr. Baker to direct Mr. James Neill's Company for him in St. Paul, Minn.

Reginald Holmes

Characters
Edmund Gardiner Stock, Victoria

Neva West

Care Dramatic Review

Permanent Address, 2110 Post Street

Johnny Williams, Jr.

"FRISCO"

"The Man in Front." Can Book or Wild Cat

Louise Kent

In Vaudeville
Her Own Company Pantages Circuit

Thurlow White

American Theatre Stock Co.

Care Dramatic Review

E. P. Foot

GENERAL MUSICAL DIRECTOR
Murray & Mack Co., Incorporated
Mason Opera House Bldg., Los Angeles.

Mildred Fitzgerald

Song and Dance Soubrette
Experienced in character and musical comedy stock.

Mina Crolus Gleason

At Liberty after June 12th.
In stock season or special engagements. Address this office.

Budd Ross

Comedian
Princess Theatre, San Francisco

Millar Bacon

Singing Light Comedian
James Post Co.

Al Hallett

Stage Director
Broadway Theatre, Oakland

F. F. Munier

Characters
Broadway Theatre Stock, Oakland

Priscilla Knowles Bennett Jack

Leads Characters
Broadway Theatre, Oakland

Milton Stallard

Stage Director
At Liberty Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Whit Brandon Ethel Tucker

Leading Man and Director At Liberty Leading Woman
Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Charles E. Gunn

Leads
Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

George B. Baldwin, Jr.

Alcazar Stock, San Francisco

Monroe Salisbury

Leads
Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Sydney Ayres

Leading Man
Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, Cal.

James Austin Gleason—Webster Lucile

Light Comedy and Character Juveniles and Comedy
At Liberty after June 12th. Address this office.

How the Lambs Came Into Being

Continued from page 4.

Frank J. Gould, J. Borden Harriman, James N. Gallatin and John Gilsey, capitalists; Frederic Remington, illustrator; Hubert Vos, portrait painter; E. W. Kemble, cartoonist; John Q. A. Ward and John H. Roudebush, sculptors; Allen W. Evarts and Joseph D. Redding, lawyers; H. Holbrook Curtis, Francis J. Quinlan and Daniel P. Pease, physicians; J. Harvey and Edwin R. Ladew and Edwin M. Post, bankers; H. P. Whittaker, hotel keeper, and Frederick Gebhard, James Hazen Hyde, and Henry Clews, Jr., pleasure seekers. The membership of the Lambs also includes a score or more of officers of the army and navy.

HEIRS OF LONDON LAMBS.

Now it so happened that, while the New York Lambs were growing fat and prosperous, the London organization from which they took their name was slowly dying, and it passed out of existence in 1879. Nineteen years later the surviving members of the London Lambs were unanimously elected honorary life members of the Fold on this side of the water, the number including such well-known names as: The late George Du Maurier, the famous artist of Punch and author of Trilby; John Hare and Sir Squire Bancroft, leading actor managers; Joseph Knight, dramatic critic of the London Times; Sir Douglas Straight, editor of the Pall Mall Gazette; Montagu Williams, a famous Queen's Counsel; H. Stacy Marks, Royal Academician, and half a dozen other Britishers of standing. In recognition of this courtesy the ex-Lambs of London presented the American Lambs with the relics of the former organization, which included an album containing the photographs of the original Lambs, and the badge of office and crook and bell used by the English Shepherd in keeping the flock in order. These were formally handed over to the New York Lambs by John Hare, at a supper tendered him in the old Thirty-first Street clubhouse in May, 1896, and now figure at all ceremonial functions of the club.

THE WASHINGS AND GAMBOLS.

The New York Lambs took many ideas from their English prototypes. The officers, who in similar organizations would be the president and vice-president, were designated the Shepherd and the Boy. The London Lambs had an annual "Washing," which meant an outing on the Thames, generally at classic Skindle's, at Maidenhead. The New York Lambs copied the Shepherd and the Boy and the annual Washing, and added to them the "Gambol," which signified the production of a burlesque of the drama of the time in the clubhouse by the members themselves, and to the master of ceremonies on these occasions was given the name of the "Col-lie." Some of the Washings of the Lambs have been elaborate affairs. To one of these ceremonials, given at the country-seat of a Lamb on Long Island, six yachts, all owned by Lambs, carried the others from New York. On the arrival of each craft a gun was fired, prize-officers were sent aboard, and the passengers paroled to appear before the Shepherd and his Council. At another Washing the visiting Lambs were held up at the entrance to the Washing Ground by others of their number, attired and mounted as Mexican vaqueros, who brought them captives before the Shepherd. Once the Lambs were received at a Washing by Arab sheiks in costume, and at each one of these annual outings some novel form of entertainment is devised. The most important of the festivities of the Lambs, however, have been the Gambols, both in the way of affording entertainment and as conducive to the club's prosperity. Inaugurated as a new form of amusement for members and their guests, to take the place of the customary monthly dinners, they speedily became the most considerable functions of the club, adding greatly to its prestige and membership, and finally, as public productions, becoming the means by which the Lambs have more than once averted financial disaster. To a club numbering among its active members nearly all of the best-know actors and most prominent dramatists in America, the mere suggestion of a burlesque was enough, and a scheme was speedily developed whereby current plays were travestied, in many cases by actors who burlesqued their own parts. It is impossible to imagine a more delightful entertainment of the kind than some of these Lambs' Gambols, as the writer can testify of his own knowledge. Given our best actors, playing for each other, in parts written for them by the keenest wits of the day, and what else is to be expected? The circumstance that these burlesques are produced in the players' own clubhouse, where there are no prejudices or conventionalities to mar artistic opportunity, and that the actors are more emulous of the good opinion of the members of their own profession than that of any public audience, makes a Lambs' Gambol something to be remembered. The first Gambol was in 1888, with Lester Wallack as Shepherd and E. M. Holland as Collie, the Lambs' Theatre in the Twenty-sixth Street clubhouse being opened on the occasion. Otis Skinner, Kyrle Bellew, Mark Smith, Thomas Whiffen and Joseph Holland were in the cast, and from an auspicious opening the Gambol grew into an institution. In 1891 the first public Gambol was held; and, as the proceeds enabled the club to weather a serious financial storm, the Lambs were encouraged to continue along that line. The all-star Gambols, the last one of which wonderful entertainments toured the country as far west as Chicago last May, were first introduced in 1898, when the purchase of the Thirty-sixth Street clubhouse imposed a heavy burden of indebtedness upon the Lambs, as the marble palace they are occupying today did eleven years later. The New York Dramatic Mirror declared that a conservative estimate of the weekly payroll that this last all-star Gambol would have cost a manager was $300,000. At none of the public Gambols of the Lambs, however, with the exception of the all-star tours, have seats for the performances been sold outside of the club membership. Dinners to visiting celebrities are another form of entertainment of the Lambs. They banqueted the officers of the Iowa just after the war with Spain, and among others, many now deceased, to whom they have accorded the courtesy are Irving, Salvini, Wilhelmj, Wilson Barrett, General Wil-

VAN NESS THEATRE

Two Weeks BEGINNING SUNDAY July 25th

Frederic Thompson Announces

AMERICA'S GREATEST DRAMATIC SUCCESS

Polly of the Circus

A Realistic Story of the Sawdust Ring, by Margaret Mayo
EXACTLY AS PRESENTED FOR ONE YEAR AT THE
LIBERTY THEATRE, NEW YORK

A Play for Fathers, Mothers, Wives, Sisters, Sweethearts and Children

A Company of Notable Players and Five Big Circus Acts

William T. Sherman, General Horace Porter, General John M. Schofield, Admiral Bancroft Gherard, Judge Noah Davis, Abram S. Hewitt, and Prince Henry of Prussia.

A CLASSIC WITTICISM.

To begin relating the witticisms of the individual Lambs would mean no stopping within bounds. One that is germane to the profession, on the part of perhaps the most popular of all the Lambs, may be recalled. It was when Maurice Barrymore was at the height of his histrionic fame that he came one July afternoon to the old club in Thirty-first Street, having, en route from his home, run the gauntlet of many hungry actors of the lower order along Broadway, to whom summer meant lack of employment and consequent distress, and to whom he had doled out dollars, half-dollars and quarters, as was his wont. Arriving at the club, he found a group of members in the big front room before an oil painting that had just been hung in a prominent position on the wall, the gift of a wealthy lay member. It was a landscape, and its title was "Summer." Whether it was a good or bad picture need not be taken into consideration. On Barrymore's entrance the other Lambs stood aside that he might inspect the new art treasure. Barrymore examined it closely, and then turned to the men who were awaiting his criticism. "Summer isn't as bad as it's painted, after all," was his comment.

FRANK BACON has been engaged to play the leading comedy part in Charley's Aunt at the Alcazar.

ALICE CONDON, one of our cleverest ingenues, has been signed by Menzel's Agency for the Lyric Theatre stock of Portland.

AUGUSTUS PHILLIPS has arrived from New York and will soon open at the Alcazar, probably in The Squaw Man.

For Season 1909-1910 -- Just Bear In Mind

Tennessee's Pardner

Can be secured for Road, Tour,
Stock or Repertoire

THAT

At
The Old Cross Roads

For Certain Stocks Only

En Tour, Play Again Season 1910-1911

Address

ARTHUR C. AISTON

Sole Owner

Room 304

1505 Broadway

N. Y. City

Tel. 941 Bryant

Edith Lyle

Ingenué — Valencia Stock

San Francisco

Carlton Chase

Leading Man

Fischer's Theatre, San Francisco

THE SAN FRANCISCO DRAMATIC REVIEW

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Published Continuously Since 1880. The Only Theatrical Publication in the Great West

Ten Cents a Copy—$4.00 a Year

San Francisco, Saturday, July 31, 1909

No. 23—Vol. XX—New Series

Godfrey
Matthews

Franz Lehar Tells of His Life

In view of the unprecedented success of The Merry Widow in this city, it will be interesting to San Franciscans to learn something more intimate of the life of the author of the opera, Franz Lehar, than is generally known. In response to a request from Tips and Tales, Herr Lehar has given the following interesting details of his career: I am a knapsack child. That is what they call in Austria-Hungary the children of soldiers who follow their parents from one garrison to another. My father was a son of a farmer, but he did not care for that vocation, preferring instead to fiddle on his small violin. After a term as musical director in the army he married and I was born in 1870. My mother often told me that in my infancy I was generally considered a "Wonder Child." Even as a four-year-old boy, I could always find to each melody the right accompaniment on a piano. When six years old I composed my first song and dedicated it to my mother. At eleven years of age I left home to go and study at Sternberg and a year later I became a student of a conservatory at Prague, my principal instrument being the violin. Director Bennewitz was my teacher. Those were hard days. I had little money and worked hard. It often happened that I fainted in the street from hunger. But when my mother came to see me once in Prague, I did not have the courage to complain. My teacher noticed that I was neglecting the violin and he advised me to study with Dvorak. In 1887 I submitted to Dvorak two compositions, Sonata Al'Antique in G major and Sonata Al'Antique in G minor. Dvorak looked at my work and said, "You're wasting your time. Hang your fiddle on the wall and devote yourself to composition." This was sound advice. But my father insisted on my becoming a first-class violinist. In 1888 I graduated from a conservatory, after which I accepted the position as first solo violinist. My salary was 150 marks (about $35 a month). I composed many songs and also had some financial difficulties. At that time I made my first attempt in the musical dramatic line; the name of the opera was Der Kurassier. On November 28, 1896, my opera Kuska, later called Titiana, was produced for the first time in Leipzig, but was not a success. I was now tired of composing operas and decided to try the lighter operettas. In this field I was more successful, as The Merry Widow has proved.

A New Operatic Sensation

After five weeks of secret rehearsals Manager Henry W. Savage produced for the first time in America at the Apollo Theatre in Atlantic City week before last the new Viennese operetta, The Gay Hussars. Under the title of Ein Herbstmanoever (An Autumn Maneuver), this opera is now a musical sensation in Vienna, Berlin, Munich and other European capitals. Both by music lovers and by critics it is extolled as a rival of The Merry Widow. In Europe its fascinating music is applauded nightly in the boulevard cafes and whistled about the streets in a way to bespeak world-wide fame for its heretofore unknown composer, Emerich Kalman. Karl von Bakonyi, who wrote the book, has been one of the best known dramatists on the continent for years, and it is largely due to the thrilling military romance of his libretto written in collaboration with Robert Bodenzky that the opera finds such quick response in the heart of everyone that hears it. Every returning tourist is talking of the opera's success, and America seems destined to be swept by another wave of frantic admiration like unto that which followed The Merry Widow. In presenting this charming work Mr. Savage has again surprised his brother managers by picking up a big success before its fame had become general. The Gay Hussars has been given one of the most pretentious productions ever sent out from Mr. Savage's studio. George Marion staged it after a visit to Vienna, where he secured all the original stage detail. The costumes for the women were brought from Paris, while the hussar costumes came from Vienna. Several imported singers appear in the big cast, the company numbering over a hundred with an orchestra of thirty and a Hungarian band on the stage. In its dramatic features The Gay Hussars is described as containing even a more interesting story than The Merry Widow. It is written about the love making and camp life of the handsome hussars—the most dashing soldiers of all Europe. It contains a wealth of waltzes, mad gallops, military quadrilles and tender love songs of the hussar and his sweetheart, every one of which is distinctly individual in its appeal. The English version is by Maurice Brown Kirby, with lyrics by Grant Stewart. New York will have an opportunity to hear The Gay Hussars in the near future.

Spotlights

A typical stage Johnny who had gained an introduction to Grace De Mar, the clever little actress who plays the part of Tillie Day in H. H. Frazer's A Knight for a Day company, butting in at a little supper after one of the performances in Pittsburg, last season, thought to make himself strong with her by an attempt at witticism. "Why is it, Miss DeMar," he said, with an idiotic chuckle, "that you people of the stage always call a fellow who generously puts up his good coin to back some one he takes a fancy to, an Angel? I never saw a picture of a he angel, did you? Now really did you ever see a picture of an angel that had whiskers?" "Ask me an easier one," replied Miss DeMar, with a wink at the others, "you see any fool can slide into our business on a gold coin, but no man ever gets into heaven except by a close shave."

The company to present Paid in Full at the Van Ness Theatre is to come direct from New York to this city without stopping en route, opening their tour of the United States in this city. Paid in Full made a big hit here last year and a splendid return engagement is looked for.

The season of the Ferris company in Minneapolis is most satisfactory. The end will come on August 28th.

The Sisters St. Leon, Ida and Elsie, with Polly of the Circus, have been connected with the New York

... Last Call For Dinner ...

We have about 200 SUMMER SUITS in stock which we intend closing out at once.

We offer these suits at half price, to wit:

$20 Suits	$25 Suits	$30 Suits	$35 Suits	$40 Suits
$10.00	$12.50	$15.00	$17.50	$20.00

A Small Charge for Alterations if Necessary.

Chas. S. Rosener

57 POWELL STREET San Francisco

Hippodrome and Luna Park for the last six years. Elsie St. Leon is one of the world's famous equestriennes. Her sister Ida will be seen in the role of Polly.

The Cohan & Harris Minstrels, with George Evans and one hundred Honeyboys, are in full rehearsal under the direction of George M. Cohan and James Gorman. Mr. Cohan has written a burlesque afterpiece, entitled The Firemen's Picnic, and new songs from his pen are scattered throughout the entire production. The minstrels will be sent out this year on a scale of excellence surpassing even the wonderful production and company of the initial season.

Following Polly of the Circus at the Van Ness Theatre will be seen Eugene Walters' dramatic work, Paid in Full, which came west for a limited season last year.

Joseph Weber and his big company, in a travesty on The Merry Widow and The Devil, will begin his tour in Newark, N. J., September 13th. Mr. Weber's engagement will include a trip to the Pacific Coast.

Fritz Williams and his wife, known on the stage as Katherine Florence, have been engaged by the Wagenhals & Kemper Company. They are always to appear together in the same play. They will be in Paid in Full, that reopens the Astor Theatre, August 2d, Mr. Williams as Joe Brooks, Miss Florence as Emma.

Beginning in September, Mrs. Leslie Carter will start on an extensive tour, which will embrace the principal cities of the Northwest and the Far West. Mrs. Carter realizes that her affairs has not always been conducted on strictly economic principles. High heaven and the scenic artist alone know exactly the original cost of Kassa, and only those intimately associated with Mrs. Carter's affairs understand the other numerous outlets through which her money has dribbled away. As a royal spender she has set a limit that will probably never be reached by another American actress. For the time being—until, in fact, Frederic Thompson calls for his services—that able veteran, E. D. Price, will act as Mrs. Carter's business manager. To him will be entrusted the task of engaging her company and attending to the other preliminary details of her campaign. Mr. Price, it may be remembered, was Mrs. Carter's first manager in the days of The Ugly Duckling and during the Miss Helyett period of her career.

Slightly Worn Wardrobe for Stage Purposes
Ladies' Handsome Evening Gowns and Opera Coats; good as new; in latest styles. Men's Full Dress and Tuxedo Suits. MRS. H. JACOBS, 1050 Golden Gate Avenue. Store Phone West 2185, Residence Phone Park 4238.

Sidney Payne, the popular heavy man with the Ed Redmond stock company, at present filling a long engagement at the Victory Theatre, will make his last appearance this evening with the Redmond forces, and after a short vacation will open in a vaudeville sketch over the Sullivan-Considine Circuit. The sketch, written by himself and entitled For Old Times' Sake, is a clever little vehicle, affording many opportunities to demonstrate Payne's ability as an actor of merit. He has been associated with the Redmond company for about thirty weeks, and has contributed in no small degree toward the success which has attended the efforts of the stock company by his clever acting and versatility. This is not the first time that the handsome heavy has deserted the "legit" for vaudeville, having appeared once or twice before in bright comedy skits over the big Western circuits.—San Jose Mercury.

Miss Eliza Warren, a well-known actress and head of a Cleveland school of elocution and acting, probably was fatally stabbed last Monday by her sister, Mrs. Mary Sutton, who was temporarily demented.

"Speaking of our much distressed 'easy morality plays,'" remarked Henry E. Dixey, who is now preparing for his second tour in Mary Jane's Pa, "I am fain to admit that one I recently saw reminds me much of the dinner gown of a young debutante I know. 'So this is your daughter's coming-out dinner, is it?' a friend said to the debutante's father. 'Yes,' the stern old man replied, 'and if I hadn't put my foot down on that dressmaker, she'd have been out even further than she is.'"—August Young's Magazine.

Hotel St. James

Cor. Van Ness Ave. and Fulton St.
San Francisco, California

Headquarters for Agents and Managers

Half Block from Van Ness Theatre.
Friars meet at the St. James every Friday night.

F. P. SHANLEY, Manager, formerly of New York

Most Plays Are Padded

A play is rarely produced that would not be improved, from a dramatic and artistic standpoint, if it were shortened from a third to a half. Many dramas that have succeeded would be far better condensed to one act. For instance, The Wolf, by Eugene Walter, would be much stronger in this tabloid form. The Fighting Chance, by W. J. Hurlburt, in which Blanche Bates is starring, bears all the earmarks of having been a one-act play stretched into three. It has material for about three-quarters of an hour at the most of exciting drama. Not even the wonderful skill of David Belasco, nor the acting of Blanche Bates and John Cope, can relieve the tedium of the whole first act and most of the second.—Hartley Davis in August Everybody's.

Mrs. Fiske's Company Is Lost In Montana

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 27.—The Manhattan Theatre company, including Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske and forty members, are lost somewhere in the State of Montana. The company is booked to play in the Lyric Theatre in Minneapolis next week in Salvation Nell. It is not known whether or not the company will be here to fill its engagement. It is booked to play at Winnipeg and Duluth this week. The company was on its way from Butte, Mont., to Winnipeg when the baggage car caught fire and the scenery was destroyed. The company may have been forced by this disaster to return East, but as no word has been received from them it is believed they are camping somewhere near Fort Keogh, Mont., where the fire occurred. If the scenery is all destroyed it puts an end to the Winnipeg and Duluth engagements unless they play with stock scenery. The company was scheduled to close its season here next week.

Walt Leslie Passed Two Restive Hours in Oakland

That Napoleon of managers and agents, that crack-a-jack of promoters, that hitherto undefeated welter-weight of boomers—Walt Leslie—played a two hours' fretful engagement with the Oakland police last Tuesday that resulted in the closing of the Murray & Mack Night on Broadway show (minus either Murray or Mack). It will be remembered that the company started from Los Angeles with the great Leslie in advance (he would show 'em). Before leaving, E. P. Foote, the well-known musical director, Ollie Mack and Leslie were to contribute $500 each. It is known Foote has several hundred thousand—Ollie Mack has had several thousand in his time—but honest, Walt, did you ever see $500? Well, to the story. Leslie was to be treasurer. Instead of depositing his $500, Leslie is said to have drawn out $442 of Foote's money and took his wife and himself along with the troupe. A Night on Broadway was played in Oakland, then in San Francisco, where it stranded. Leslie, it is alleged, wrote to Los Angeles asking for the books of the company, with instructions not to apprise Foote. Foote was informed and went post-haste to Oakland. He and his attorney started for the police. Leslie was apprehended on Twelfth Street and taken to the City Hall. Finally Mrs. Leslie made a search for coin, discovered $442, and Leslie was allowed to go. It is said he made a bee-line for Los Angeles, where he has the greatest bill distributing business in America. We admit this last statement is his version, and if anybody should know, he should. But it is a sure bet that E. P. Foote is not enamored of his ex-agent and erstwhile partner.

Another Theatre for Reno

RENO (Nev.), July 27.—R. W. Parry, owner of the Aetna Rink, which was destroyed in this city on Sunday morning at a loss of more than $90,000, states that he intends to immediately begin the construction of a larger building to be used for a theatre and automobile garage.

Improvements for Merced Theatre

The Bancroft Opera House in Merced is all torn up, on account of extensive alterations being made. Manager Frank Bancroft is building new dressing-rooms, a scenery-room 30x40 feet, putting in dimmers and making several other changes. Ample stage room will be the new condition, and almost any show can be played with entire satisfaction.

Spotlights

Fritzi Scheff has been booked for an engagement at the Van Ness in her latest production. The songbird left a great impression here by her performance of Mlle. Modiste.

George M. Cohan, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cohan and Josephine Cohan are all to appear in the cast of The Yankee Prince when the engagement is played in this city. It will be the first appearance here of these stars in a number of seasons. The production is said to be the greatest yet turned out by the actor-playwright.

Blanche Bates will be given a great reception when she appears at the Van Ness Theatre in September with her production of The Fighting Hope. There is no more popular star than Miss Bates, especially in this city, where she made her first great success on the stage. David Belasco has staged the piece with splendid effect.

When the first of the five Paid in Full companies that the Wagenhals & Kemper Company will have this season in Paid in Full opened in Asbury Park, N. J., last Monday night week, every seat in the Casino was sold, and this notwithstanding the fact that the play was there five times last winter.

The Elleford Company

For 1908-09 — All Royalty Plays

FALS, by Edmund Day
ALL DUE TO DIANA,
DORIS
FROM FARM TO FACTORY
A WOMAN'S SECRET

UNDER THE GASLIGHT,
DR. BILL
THE OTHER FELLOW
THE NEW CINDERELLA
And Several Others.

Pacific Coast Representative for Brady and Grismer's
MAN OF THE HOUR and WAY DOWN EAST
Managers, please note that I control exclusive Coast rights to these plays.

W. J. ELLEFORD, Sole Proprietor and Director
FRANK WYMAN, Manager
Permanent Address, Francis-Valentine Co., 285-287 13th St., S. F.

HOME OFFICE
BURBANK THEATRE BUILDING
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Oliver Morosco's Plays

Ready for Stock

The Judge and the Jury      The Halfbreed
The Empress and the Soldier
In South Car'liney

Is the New Majestic a winner? Well, we guess yes

MOROSCO'S
BURBANK THEATRE
Los Angeles, Cal.
"The Best in the West"
The Leading Stock House

Hamburger's MAJESTIC Theatre
The Handsomest in the West
Cost $300,000.00
Other Morosco's Plays on Mer
For time address: Jones Court

The
Garrick Theatre
San Diego, Cal.
MOROSCO & WYATT,
Lessees and Mgrs.

The next night at West End the audience was the biggest in the history of the Casino.

Four Paid in Full companies assembled at the Astor Theatre in New York one afternoon last week to see a fifth company in the Eugene Walter play. The occasion was a dress rehearsal by the first company to open the season in Paid in Full, and the entire audience was Paid in Fullers.

Rose Stahl, having been accorded one of the few enthusiastic receptions ever given to an American actress, closed her London engagement on July 17, in James Forbes' successful comedy, The Chorus Lady. Miss Stahl sailed on the Cedric on the 23d for America. It is a source of gratification to Henry B. Harris, the producer, James Forbes, the author, and Miss Stahl, the star, to have achieved a success after the theatrical "wiseacres" predicted a flat failure for a play that was steeped in Americanisms. That the play enjoyed a run of over one hundred nights and only closed by reason of pre-existing contracts which call for Miss Stahl's services in America in August. Now that Mr. Forbes has won recognition in London as a playwright, it is more than probable that The Traveling Salesman will be the next attraction of Mr. Harris' that will be sent abroad.

The Shubert shows here will probably be as follows: Going Some, The Witching Hour, The Bachelor and Corinne.

NEW AUDITORIUM

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CAL.
Seating capacity, 1,000, new stage, new scenery, stage 10x14 feet deep, sixty feet wide, large enough for any production, a population of 5,000 to draw from, now booking for 1909-10.
Address: WALTER A. CLARK, Mountain View, Cal.

Theatre Chairs For Sale

About 700 good Theatre Chair; 50 Large Loge Seat Chairs; Sheet Iron Moving Picture Operating Box, the best and largest one in this city; scenery, etc.; will sell at a bargain; delivery about Sept. 15. Address Room 5, 629½ S. Broadway, Los Angeles.

New Oxnard Opera House

OXNARD, CAL.
Factory Town and Wealthy Country
Five Thousand Population
New House and Doing Big Business
Write for Open Dates
GEO. P. AUSTIN . . . . . Manager

GONZALES OPERA HOUSE

GONZALES, CAL.
New, well appointed theatre, electric lighted, full stock of new scenery.
C. H. WIDEMAN, Mgr.

WOODLAND Opera House

WOODLAND, CAL.
Greatest show town for good shows in the West. A few good dates open in September and October. Stage big enough for any production. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

Hill Opera House

PETALUMA, CAL.
JOHN R. ROCHE, Lessee and Manager
The finest theatrical town outside of the big cities in the West. Magnificent new theatre, with stage large enough for any attraction, playing regularly from $500 to $700 a night. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.
287 Thirteenth St., S. F.

BARCROFT Opera House, Merced

Entirely remodeled. New stage, big enough for any production. Stage equipped with new scenery. Merced has 4,000 population. For time write F. R. BARCROFT, Manager.

Santa Cruz OPERA HOUSE

Santa Cruz, Cal.
L. A. KNIGHT, Manager
Rental or will play first-class companies on percentage

GORDAN TAILORING CO.

928 Market St., Bet. Powell and Mason
FINE CLOTHES MODERATE PRICES
No Branch Stores

For Rent Theatre Margarita

At Eureka, Cal.

May be leased by responsible parties. Theatre is new and modern in every respect.

Address,
C. P. CUTTEN, Agent,
Eureka, Cal.

WIGS ALL MAKES, GREASE PAINTS, POWDERS, ROUGE
Largest Line on Pacific Coast. MAKE-UP BOXES, PLAY BOOKS
Parent's Stationery Co. 818 Van Ness Avenue, S. F.

The Chutes Popular

The New Chutes has for some days been exhibiting the "smallest performers on earth" in the form of a flea circus made up of 300 "artists" who perform surprising feats. Beginning Sunday the Fillmore street park will exploit a troupe of the "largest performers on earth" in the form of a herd of trained elephants. The intelligence of the flea has been a matter of much dispute but the aptitude of the big mammal dates back to the days of the old wagon show, and it is said that the performers who are to go on at the Chutes represent the very latest thing in trained elephants. They will give their act from an open-air stage. All of the elephants are not large. One is a baby known in the circus world where he is considered the best clown performer in the business, as "Little Mike." "Mike" is said to be a real comedian of the jungle. His make-up consists of comical costumes that should delight the juveniles as much as will his lumbering antics. "Mike" dances the Merry Widow waltz, not gracefully, perhaps, for music which, when once developed in an elephant, is naturally enormous. Another of his feature acts is supplemented by a large hat and spectacles of the Roosevelt style. Thus costumed he discharges a gun pointed at the other members of the troupe who have been taught to play dead at the sound of the rifle. In addition the troupe form pyramids, walk on wooden pins, eat at table, ring bells and perform various other antics peculiar to the circus elephant. While the Glasscock elephants will be the feature act there will be many other attractions to entertain the crowds. Desperado will make his last appearance at the Chutes Sunday afternoon and night. Demon, who rides the fiery bicycle down the chutes, and Florence Spray, the diving girl, will be seen in feats of daring. The open-air motion picture show will have new stories to tell upon the screen at the lake's end and the entertainers in the cafe and grill render songs and instrumental music of the up-to-date variety. The Royal Banda Roma will put on two concerts of twelve numbers each. Brilliant marches and overtures will dominate the programs. Sirignano's popular composition, Regards to San Francisco, has scored a hit and it will be played tomorrow afternoon and night. Mme. Ermin Arnolde will sing operatic selections and several popular songs.

The Ketchel-Papke fight pictures will be presented at the Walker Theatre in Los Angeles next week.

Bookings for the Colonial

John Cort was in town yesterday for a while, conferring with Fred Bucey, who is superintending the remodeling of The Colonial. Mr. Cort expects the house to be ready early in September and has booked the following shows, opening with The Girl From Rector's; The Time, the Place and the Girl; A Knight for a Day; In Dreamland; The Girl Question; Fifty Miles From Boston; The Land of Nod; The Soul Kiss; Too Many Wives; Florence Gear in Fluffy Ruffles; The Girl at the Helm; King Dodo, and The Red Mill, all musical comedies—together with Max Figman in a repertoire of his best-liked plays:

Norman Hackett; the Right of Way; The Virginian, and In Old Kentucky.

The Orpheum

The program for next week will have for its chief new feature those clever and popular musical comedy stars, Sam Chip and Mary Marble, who will appear in what is termed a deft dialogue In Old Edam, written especially for them by Anna Marble Pollock. This little Dutch skit tells a pretty and human story in which Miss Marble and Mr. Chip personate two Dutch kiddies whose cantankerous old uncle (John W. Dunne) is finally outwitted by the pair. Clever songs, dances and dialogue help to make this one of the most attractive of recent vaudeville offerings. Something new in the way of dancing will be introduced by the six American dancers, Estelle and Adelaide Lovenburg, Evelyn Ramsey, Charles Connor and Purcella and Orden. The ever welcome comedians, Bob Matthews and Herbert Ashley, will be on hand with a diverting and novel skit, entitled Held Up. The scene represents a dock on East River, New York City, showing the East River Bridge, the Brooklyn Bridge and the Statue of Liberty in the distance. The action takes place on New Year's Eve and as the whistles are blowing and the chimes are ringing in the New Year, a Hebrew is seen returning from his brother's wedding and is held up by a footpad. The manner in which he turns the tables on the robber provides the humor of the sketch. An act which it is confidently predicted will score heavily is called A King for a Night, and will be presented by Frank J. Conroy, George Le Maire and an adequate supporting company. It deals with an American confidence man who palms off on a wealthy and beautiful young French heiress his friend, a negro minstrel, as the King of Blackville. It bristles with witty dialogue and abounds in humorous complications. Next week will be the last of Griff, the London Juggling, Jesting Johnnie; Walter Schrode and Lizzie Mulvey in their great hit, A Theatrical Agency; Herbert and Willing and of Sam Watson's Farmyard Circus, which is the quaintest and most unique animal act of its kind ever presented here and has already gone on record as one of the Orpheum successes. A fitting close to this original and delightful entertainment will be a series of recently imported Orpheum Motion pictures, dealing with a subject of especial interest.

Alcazar Theatre

Frank Bacon as the masquerading collegian in Charley's Aunt is announced for the coming week by the Alcazar management. With such a popular player in such a "sure-fire" vehicle, the Sutter street home of drama is assured a series of crowded houses. It will be the tenth annual visit of Charley's Aunt to the Alcazar. When he was a regular member of the old Alcazar, Mr. Bacon made one of his biggest hits in the role he has been specially engaged to resume, and that is why Belasco & Mayer induced him to cancel one of his vaudeville engagements to reappear under their direction. So much has been written

LEVY'S BIG TRUNK STORE
INCORPORATED
COAST AGENTS
FOR THE
Taylor Trunks
687 Market St., S. F. opp. Kearny Phone Douglas 3192
GENERAL REPAIRING

and said of Charley's Aunt that it is the best-known farce in the world. Since its first production, about thirty years ago, scores of its ilk have come and gone, while it has never waned in popularity. Anyone who has witnessed it desires to renew that pleasure. Each succeeding generation gives it a new clientage. Those are the causes of its apparently interminable attractiveness. Its story is about the visit of a wealthy widow from Brazil, "where the nuts come from," to her lively young English nephew. He had arranged to have her chaperone two young ladies whom he had invited to luncheon in the college chambers occupied by himself and chum, and when she fails to arrive at the appointed time he persuades a mischievous student to impersonate her. Cold type cannot convey a comprehensive idea of the ludicrous situations that ensue. The genuine aunt arrives while the masquerade is in full swing, and so amusing is it—especially when she sees a couple of aged fortune-hunters in active rivalry to marry the lad whom they believe to be her—that she lets the play go on. The action is quick and the laughter of the audience almost incessant. Mr. Bacon will be supported by the entire Alcazar corps of players, most of whom have before appeared in Charley's Aunt.

LOW RATES TO Alaska-Yukon-Pacific ...Exposition...

FOR ROUND TRIP TICKETS

FROM		FROM
San Francisco .....	$32.50	Suisun .....	$32.50
Sacramento .....	32.50	Davis .....	32.50
Lathrop .....	32.50	Napa .....	32.75
Stockton .....	32.50	Santa Rosa .....	33.60
Tracy .....	32.50	Calistoga .....	33.95

Greatly reduced rates from other points in California. Tickets sold daily May 25 to Sept. 30, and cover two months' trip going and coming via the famous

Shasta Route of the Southern Pacific

Stopovers going and coming.
Many other routes at slightly higher rates for you to select from.
Write or call on our nearest agent for full details of service, etc., or address

DEPT. ADV., 948 FLOOD BUILDING, FOR INFORMATION

Los Angeles Will Soon Have Another New Play to its Credit. Oliver Morosco is Sponsoring It

LOS ANGELES, July 29.—We have been told so many different things in regard to the plans for the coming weeks at the Majestic Theater that we begin to wonder if there is any one who truly does know just what is going to happen. Last week we were informed that we were to have a season of opera opening this week; later that was found to be too great an undertaking on such short notice, so the company was to play a second week of The Runaway Girl, and the opera season to open next week. Now word comes from John Cort, from Seattle, that the road season will begin at the Majestic in August instead of late in September. M. Morosco will close the musical comedy season Saturday night. This decision has come as a complete surprise. The house will remain closed for a week or two. The members of the Theatrical Treasurers' Association have had another outing; this time it was a beach trip to Playa del Rey. They left town Sunday night in a special car for the beach, where a spread was awaiting them. They remained at the beach all night and those who were not required at the various box offices stayed for the day Monday. The party included the following: Jose Montrose, George Clayton, Willie Ervast, George Beaudrand, Ralph Lamme, Charles Clarke, Dana Hayes, Clayton Minders, Herman Babler, Jay Barnes, Cliff Bernard and Arthur Dentler. The Shuberts' weekly bulletin officially announces that Len Behmyer has been appointed manager of the Shubert Theater in Los Angeles—presumably the one to be built next winter. Frank M. Norcross is renewing old acquaintances in Los Angeles this week. Mr. Norcross is general manager of the international grand opera company which follows The Merry Widow at the Mason for a two-weeks' engagement. The new chairs at the Burbank certainly are a vast improvement and the new decorations add a great deal to the appearance of the house. The entire house is refurnished and the improvements are being made at an expense of about $10,000. Percy Bronson is not with the Morosco musical company this week, but has gone to Frisco to join the Princess company. Harry Girard is playing Guy in the present production of The Runaway Girl. Frank Frayne, who was a member of the old Ulrich stock company, is playing Pierre, the chef, in The Man on the Box at the Burbank. A. Byron Beasley is at Coronado on his vacation. Jane Grey, who was a member of the Belasco company, will probably be seen in New York next fall in the leading role of The Open Door. Gilbert Williams of the Belasco business staff and Miss Jewel White were married here Saturday. The couple are spending their honeymoon in Santa Barbara. They will go from there to Madera, Mex., where the groom will take a position in one of Colonel Green's mines, with which the bride's father is connected. Charles Ruggles has returned from his vacation spent at Coronado and Ensenada, where he has been hunting, fishing, etc. He will appear with the Belasco company next week in The Warrens of Virginia. Florence Reed will in all probability not return to the Belasco. Her contract with the Shuberts is such that she will be obliged to remain in the East. John Blackwood is on a vacation, we are told, but no one seems to be able to state just where he is; however, we all wish him well and trust that he will be able to have a much needed rest. William Desmond will close his Los Angeles engagement in two weeks in The Honor of the Family. He has not decided what he will do after that. Harry Girard and his wife, Agnes Caine-Brown, are going to Catalina next week on a fishing trip. Evelyn Foshia, who has been doing some dancing in The Runaway Girl at the Majestic this week, has been engaged by Mr. Morosco for The Greater Claim, which will be produced at the Burbank Theatre next week.

BELASCO—The "second week" is getting to be a habit at the Belasco. The people must be pleased and the demand for seats is so great that it is absolutely necessary to prolong the run of The College Widow. The cast remains the same as last week.

MAJESTIC—The company at the Majestic is also repeating the success of last week in The Runaway Girl. The only change in the cast is in the character of Guy. This week Mr. Girard plays the part which last week was played by Percy Bronson.

BURBANK—The Man on the Box is being very well presented by Mr. Morosco's company at the Burbank Theater this week. The presentation of this well known story, by the local stock company, is far ahead of the road productions. Each member of the company is well cast and thoroughly understands the requirements of his part. Mr. Desmond plays Warburton, Harry Mestayer is Charles Henderson, William Yerance is George Annesley, the retired army officer. Blanche Hall is as dainty as ever as Betty Annesley. Lovell Alice Taylor gets plenty of comedy out of the part of Nancy Warburton and Margo Duffet is chic as Cora the maid.

MASON—The Merry Widow is being presented for the first time in Los Angeles at the Mason Opera House for the current week. This is one of the best of the Savage productions that has been given here. The scenery is satisfactory, the costumes new and fresh and the light effects good. The chorus is pretty and possessed of tuneful voices. The male chorus is also good. The dancing numbers are pleasing. Miss Cameron, the widow, comes to Los Angeles fresh from a three months' vacation to win her audience at the very start by the life and enthusiasm she puts into the part. George Damerel makes an ideal Prince Danilo. He has a very pleasing tenor voice which he knows how to use. Theresa Brune sings well as Natalie. Oscar Figman and Thomas Leary take good care of the two comedy roles. The house is packed at every performance.

ORPHEUM—There is an unusually strong bill at the Orpheum this week. The numbers are all good, so that one can not, in justice, be called "headliner." Max Witt's Singing Colleens are four good looking girls who have good voices that show good training. They sing several Irish songs very well. The Famous Eight Original Madcaps are pretty girls in pink tights. Their number is a dance specialty. Master Laddie Cliff is a youth of seventeen who comes from England. He can dance and sing and his monologues are clever. Ollie Young and his three brothers are clever fun-makers. They roll hoops, play diabolo, etc. The holdovers include Gladys Clark and Henry Bergman in The Chauffeur and the Maid; James Thornton, monologist, the Camillo trio and the sketch called The Futurity Winner. New motion pictures complete the bill.

GRAND—The Shadow of the Gallows is a little different from the plays we have had at the Grand lately, but it is not the less enjoyable, in fact the change is a very pleasing one. Of course, there are the usual number of thrills, but we would not be satisfied if these did not appear. George Webb is the hero and Grace Rauworth is sufficiently wicked to please any one. Her work is good. Alice Lewis is good in a comedy role. Others in the cast are James Dillon, Carl Berch; Zora Bates, Sylvia Ashton and Gertrude Claire.

LOS ANGELES — Leo Cooper heads the Los Angeles bill for the week. He returns to Los Angeles in Harry Cottrell's sketch, The Price of Power. Mr. Cooper does good work and he is ably assisted by Pasqualine De Voe. Virginia Grant is seen in a singing and dancing act that is clever. Horace Mann and Marie Franks have a character change act. The Daring Darts do a flying ladder trick, juggling and bicycling, but their sharpshooting is the best feature of their performance. The Dumitrescu-Vermette troupe are clever acrobats and skilful aerialists. Kelly and Reno do a tumbling act.

EMPIRE—The Empire is offering a variety of attractions these days. Prof. Caruthers is there for a part of the week and is presenting some wonderful and mystifying feats. He gives an entertainment which he calls "scientific, artistic and refined."

FISCHER'S — Fischer's Theater has again come back to musical burlesque. The offering for the week, by the Allen Curtis Company, is Jakey, Mikey and Ikey. The company numbers twenty-five. Allen Curtis himself is chief comedian. He is supported by Arthur Clamage and Lou Dunbar. Charles Figg is the leading man and Miss Jean Hathway the leading woman. Miss May Praeger is the soubrette. The chorus is heard to advantage in a variety of new song numbers. The performance is very pleasing.

UNIQUE—Mlle. La Loie Helene is again the feature of the bill at the Unique. In her Death Dance of Cleopatra she uses a live snake this week. The Bowen Brothers, in the characters of two college lads, do some clever dancing which entitles them to the title of These Eccentric Chaps. The offering of the Unique players is called Mixed and Muddled. The piece is full of really funny situations, of which the company is not slow to take advantage. Hazel Salmon is taking the place of Winnie Baldwin for the week. May Parker and Lillian Massey are well cast and give valuable assistance to James Kelly, Al Franks, Denton Vane and Herbert Cramer, who are the principal contributors to the comedy. Several catchy songs are introduced.

FLORENCE EMERY.

D. W. Platt Presents Huntress, the Character Impersonator and Drapery Dancer

One of the most beautiful acts in vaudeville today is at Pantages this week. From a scientific point of view this is the most pretentious ever seen here in the history of Sacramento vaudeville, and the scenic effects would be a credit to any traveling company.

Huntress is an impersonator and has a big novelty spectacular dancing act. He carries plush draperies and two full settings of most gorgeous and beautiful scenery. Huntress is a man with a tendency to boldness, who in full view of the audience transforms himself into a Gibson girl that would make even an original envious. He gives a clever impersonation of Blanch Ring in her song used in The Blonde in Black. After his imitation of Miss Ring, the velvet draperies are drawn away on a beautiful dragon setting in the full stage, and after a very quick change Huntress appears in his dance La Revue des Sorciere, or the dream of the witch, which is done in a sort of a Salome costume, but it is not the Salome dance. At the finish of his dance there is a transformation scene and the stage in full view of the audience transforms to a beautiful Arctic setting showing a sea of ice and icebergs in most gorgeous colors and glitter, foil and spangles. The dancer alights and a large globe is rolled in and on this he does his dance. Gorgeous electrical effects follow the dancer as he rolls over the stage on the globe manipulating the huge white draperies which hang in graceful billows from his shoulders. This dance is called L'esprit du Nord, or the Spirit of the North. These dances are on the order of the fire dances, made famous by La Loie Fuller and the far-famed Papinta, and the entire act is gorgeous in the extreme. The above is a correct likeness of Huntress in his Salome costume. He appears at Pantages Empire, San Francisco, week August 1.

Correspondence

NEW YORK, July 25. New York evidently takes most kindly to up-in-the-air pleasure resorts. In spite of the number that already exist, the opening of the renovated American Theatre roof garden last week drew a crowd that filled the auditorium and overflowed into the annexes. Manager William Morris has succeeded in obtaining a peculiarly delightful result. On the roof over the theatre proper he has arranged a pleasing woodland effect, with a leafy trellis overhead hung with colored lanterns and the side walls tastefully decorated in keeping with the general scheme. A stairway leads to a garden on the second roof and a rustic bridge to a green fence enclosure with rustic seats, tables and benches, on a third. * * * Sir Herbert Beerholm Tree will visit this country some time before the first of next year, according to a statement by William A. Brady on his return from Europe. Sir Herbert will be here no more than ten weeks in all and will act in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and Washington only. His repertoire will include The Merry Wives of Windsor, The Merchant of Venice, The Tempest, Twelfth Night, The School for Scandal, Oliver Twist, The Newcomes, Faust, Trilby, The Red Lamp and The Man Who Was. * * * Harry Askin of Chicago left New York yesterday afternoon after perfecting the details for his production of a new musical comedy, Lo. The book is by O. Henry, with lyrics by Franklin P. Adams, while A. Baldwin Sloane composed the nineteen musical numbers of the score. John E. Young is to be featured in Lo, in which also will be Juliette Lange, Mabel Moyles and David Kirkland. Lo will make a tour of the far West before opening in Chicago. * * * Kyrle Bellew and his friend, Frank Connor, returned from abroad last week on the Atlantic Transport liner Minneapolis. They went abroad two months ago, and after a tour through Spain and the south of France they went to the actor's summer home at Maidenhead. Mr. Bellew is to open in Alfred Sutro's A Builder of Bridges, in September. "I don't know who will be my leading woman now that Margaret Illington has become a disciple of the simple life and gone to darning socks," said Mr. Bellew. He added that he understood an English actress had been engaged as his support. * * * Consul, educated monkey, will play at the Polo Ground at the field day for the New York Home for Destitute Crippled Children, July 29. Baseball girls from The Follies of 1909 also will appear on the diamond. The actors will play the managers, with Messrs. Montgomery and Stone on the actors' side. The Friars promise to play the Vaudeville Comedy Club an inning or two. * * * Brooks & Dingwall have closed a long-term contract with Laura Nelson Hall for her appearance this season as leading woman in The Sins of Society, which begins its run at the New York Theatre on August 31. * * * Announcement is made from the Belasco offices that Leo Ditrichstein's comedy, Is Matrimony a Failure, will have its premiere in Atlantic City on August 16, and after one week's presentation there will open at the Belasco Theatre here.

Rob Roy.

NEW ORLEANS, July 19.—DRAMATIC REVIEW: The Mascot and Chimes of Normandy proved very attractive bills during the week at the White City. Owing to the continued indisposition of Miss Lottie Kendall some allowance had to be made in the production. The alluring music of both operas, however, drew good crowds, who were well repaid. The best work in The Chimes was done by Robert Lett as Gosgood. He gave a virile and well finished interpretation of the role. Miss Farne as Germain was in good voice and drew many plaudits for her admirable portrayal. Dan Young, as the Bailiff, was funny. There is a certain unctuousness about Young's work that has made him very popular. Of course, all expectations were reached by Albert Wallerstadt from a vocal standpoint. The work of the chorus showed careful training and was excellent. Next week, The Girl From Paris.

W. L. McCONNELL.

FRESNO, July 27.—Improvements are now under way at the Empire theater that will, when completed, make the show house one of the finest in the city. Already a force of men is at work and it is expected that the entire reconstruction of the place will not be finished until it is time to open the winter season some time in the early part of September. Among the proposed improvements is a fly gallery, an enlarged stage, a scene painting studio, new dressing rooms, upper and lower, a new proscenium and a remodeled lobby. In preparation for the big improvements to the building the old brick wall at the back of the theater is being torn away. Its removal will allow additional space of fifty feet extending back. The removal of this wall will also allow a stage floor space of fifty by thirty feet which will make possible the staging of most elaborate plays. In line with the enlarged stage the old proscenium will be cut two feet higher, which will give an arch opening of eighteen by twenty-eight feet. A fly gallery will also be constructed with the many other improvements. The gridiron will be constructed thirty-seven and a half feet from the stage. In order to build and paint new scenery for his stock shows Manager Hoen has decided to install an up-to-date scenic studio in the rear of his theater. One of the most important improvements in the entire lot will be the erection of a double tier of new dressing rooms. The improvements do not stop at the rear of the house, however. Mr. Hoen has also provided for the betterment of his auditorium. This part of the Empire will be thoroughly overhauled and repainted a dark green tinge instead of the red color now used.

CARSON CITY.—Carson Opera House, C. H. Peters, Manager: The Elleford company played to fair business last week and was complimented on every side for the good performance, the Osborne children coming in for a good share of the praise. Many people are out of town on their summer outing, otherwise the house would have been crowded.

LAKE THEATER.—The manager of this popular little place is R. D. Clarke. Mrs. Clarke continues to please by her singing and occasionally consents to sing solos other than those with the regular pictures.

EUREKA, July 25.—Empire Theatre (J. Van Sant, Jr., mgr.)—This popular theatre plays good business nightly, vaudeville and moving pictures. The Bell Trio are very good, and Rosie and Wayne made a hit, especially with their rope tricks. Pastime Theatre (Clayton & Yahill, mgrs.)—Moving pictures and illustrated songs, with Professor Wagner as pianist, to capacity business nightly. Margarita Theatre—House dark. Scott Shaw was forced to give up at last for back rent. Business as a whole in theatricals is getting better. Attractions are seen each Sunday at both parks. N. L. Lambert, who is well known in theatricals, was elected mayor, and we are looking for better times. Perry Girton left this week for Long Beach, Cal.

NAPA, July 27.—Napa Opera House (E. F. Hogan, mgr.), July 21. Packard, the cartoonist, gave a fine performance to poor business. July 24 Murray and Mack "stung" a crowded house with that alleged musical comedy, "A Night on Broadway," (which died on its first year tour and should have been buried.) The show was attached by their former leading woman, Sarah Edwards, but this was paid Sunday morning and the show allowed to leave for Chico Monday, after playing to about fifty people Sunday evening. The Hayes, Unique and Novelty are showing to big houses with moving pictures and illustrated songs.

S. KYSER.

PORTLAND, July 26.—The past week was not a very notable one from a dramatic standpoint, as far as this city was concerned, and the present one has nothing great in store for us and the same statement can be recorded for the following one. The play, Three Weeks, occupied the boards of The Bungalow the past week and did not do much business, no doubt caused by the pooriness of the offering. Tonight at this house Mary Adele Case will be heard in concert. Miss Case is the Oregon City young lady who was announced to be engaged to young Spreckels, grandson of the sugar millionaire. The first road show to again appear at this house is Murray and Mack in The Sunny Side of Broadway.

Manager James H. Erickson presented a top-notch bill at the Orpheum the past week and each night witnessed packed houses. Little Chip and Mary Marble in the Dutch playlet, In Old Edam, were the headliners, and no doubt they had a great deal to do with the big audiences, although the entire bill was way above the average. These two players were here in Dream City last season and every one who saw them was loud in their praise, and upon their reappearance in vaudeville this week no complaint can be made of them, although they do not have the chance their former vehicle gave them. Following on the heels of the headline act for honors came Step, Mehlinger and Jones, billed as the nifty trio, and aptly named. Other acts which went well were Olive Greatrex, the whistler, and Charles Marville, a contortionist of skill. This week's bill includes Elinore Gordon and company; La Petite Revue; Five Avolos; Abbott; Whortley and Menthonrefi Martini and Maximilian; Lena Pantzer, and The Kemps. The Lyric has the best musical comedy since its inauguration of this class of amusement several weeks since. The hodge podge of entertainment is called Hurty Gurdy, and it turned out to be a good long laugh. Ed Harrington, Charles Connors and Emil Kruschke had the principal comedy roles, and they did not lag in their work for a minute. Grace Burgoyne and Burney Foster play the principal roles for the women folks, and met all requirements. Manager Frank Coffinberry announces the following bill for this week at the Grand: Girard and Gardner are the headline act, and Matt Keefe is the specially added act; the other acts are Damnan Troupe; Gruet and Grust; Maurice Frank and company, Tom McGuire. Pantages has Leon Morris and company's animal acts for their headline act, and also Continental Four, Pongo and Leo, John Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Litchfield, Wyatt Sisters and Leo White.

SAN JOSE, July 26.—Ed Redmond at the Victory is playing Nell Gwynne this week. At the Jose the bill consists of Hayes, Roberts and Hayes, musical comedy sketch; Del Costa, Spanish operatic baritone; West and Long, black-face comedians; Steele and McMasters, comedy skating act; Gus Leol, artistic musical artist; the Sisters Earl. At the old Empire, George Sontag, the ex-train robber, is lecturing. There is a rumor on the street that extensive negotiations by several local capitalists with the Shubert Brothers to enter the local theatrical field may result favorably. There is now a plan on foot to have the old Garden Theatre Hall rebuilt into a modern theatre, exclusive for Shubert attractions.

OAKLAND, July 26.—At Ye Liberty a splendid performance of The Man on the Box is being given and George Friend and Florence Oakley are scoring heavily. Sydney Ayres is out of the cast. At the Macdonough, the grand opera company played to poor business. At the Broadway, Sapho is being presented to the customary business. At the Orpheum and Bell vaudeville is still popular.

The Yankee Doodle stock company writes from Hancock, Mich., July 23, that it has been out all summer and played to a very good business. The route includes Bessemer, Mich., night of August 1; Ironwood, week of August 2; Ashland, Wis., week of August 9-16. They carry a company of eighteen, which includes an orchestra of four pieces. George V. Haliday is manager.

Menzel's Dramatic Agency

Moved to 915 Van Ness Avenue, Third Floor
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers Wanting Reliable People in Dramatic Lines, Write.

Honest Dealing. No Misrepresentation

NOTICE—We invite people in all lines of the theatrical profession that wish first-class engagements to call or write.

WM. MENZEL, Manager

Correspondence

SAN DIEGO, July 28.—Garrick (J. M. Dodge, mgr.)—July 30-31—The Columbia Park Boys' Band. Aug. 3-4—The Merry Widow. Pickwick (Scott A. Palmer, mgr.)—The James Post musical comedy company is putting on a musical melange entitled Fun at Coney Island, this week to good business. The comedy is handled in a first-class manner by James Post and Mid Thornil. Good work is also being done by Millar Bacon, Joe Hayden and May Ashley. There are a number of catchy songs interpolated among them are Splash Me by Juliet Mahr and chorus, Listen to the Big Brass Band by Mabel La Monaie and chorus. Queen (John Donnellan, mgr.)—The show as presented this week is a good one from start to finish. The bill is headed by the Faust Bros., who have an unusually clever pantomime musical act. The balance of the bill is composed of the following acts: Clara Thropp, the somewhat different comedian; The Torleys, premier trick bicyclists; Herbert Brenon and Helen Downing, in sketch, The Intruders. Latest moving pictures conclude. Grand (Fred Ballien, mgr.)—The bill this week is as follows: De Cotrete and Rego, singing act; Mildred Manning, the mintsrel maid; the Hill Sisters, in illustrated songs. Moving pictures conclude a good show.

Ringlings Refused License in Denver

DENVER, July 23.—Judge Lewis, in the Federal Court today, refused the injunction sought by representatives of Ringling Brothers' circus to restrain the Denver fire and police board and the mayor from interfering with a performance billed to be given in Denver, July 26. The fire and police board some time ago refused a license to the show.

New Portola Theatre Opens

The program for the opening of the Portola Theatre on Market and Fourth streets, August 1st, is booked through Bert Levey and is as follows: Siberian Troupe, singers and acrobatic dancers; Thelma De Verne and company, comedy sketch; La Salle and Lind, club manipulators; Tony Ryder's monkeys; Gaynell Everette, dancer and change artist; Eddie Mowery, black-face warbler and monologist. Messrs. Leahy and Alburn are to be congratulated on their enterprise in having built such a fine playhouse. It will seat 900 now, with a capacity of 1,400.

LEOTA HOWARD WRITES: Bellingham, Wash., July 20.—I have joined the McRae stock company, opening with them June 20 as Mrs. Brandon in The Heir to the Hoorah. Mr. McRae has a company of seventeen acting people, and has used fifteen extra people for the last three weeks. We are doing a good business here and expect to stay all summer.

The Beau Brummel of all "By Gosh" agents, Harry Le Mack, will soon strike the Coast, ahead of Uncle Josh Perkins.

Robert H. Brackett

The assistant manager of Fischer's Theatre, is a clever, hard working and popular theatrical man. A good looker, too.

Gertie Hoffman Arrested in Short Tights

NEW YORK, July 24.—Gertrude Hoffman, the dancer, was arraigned in police court today and paroled until next Tuesday, when the court will take up the question whether or not her performance at a local theatre is "indecent, suggestive and immoral and offensive to public decency," as the complaint charged. The arrest of Miss Hoffman, the Salome dancer, marks the beginning of a campaign against questionable theatrical productions by the new police head, Commissioner Baker. It became known today that the order for her arrest came from Commissioner Baker himself. Other arrests are to be made, says the commissioner, unless certain performances, particularly the dances, are decidedly reformed. "I am going to take drastic action," said the commissioner today, "and owners, lessees and managers must obey the law." Baker said he did not order Miss Hoffman's arrest until after he had sent six persons to see her dance and later attended the dance himself. He and the others agree, he said, that the exhibition was improper. Court developments today showed that the charge in the Hoffman case hangs upon the definition of "tights." "I will let the show go on," said Police Magistrate Steinert, "provided the young woman wears tights." Miss Hoffman protested that she did wear tights, but their knee lengths was what caused police criticism.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Gertrude Hoffman will have until next fall to answer the charge of appearing on the stage in too scanty an attire. When the hearing in her case was called today the court granted a postponement until October 4 on the plea of her attorney for time to prepare for trial. Magistrate Steinert said Miss Hoffman's agreement to don tights of suitable length was sufficient assurance to the court that the case did not demand immediate vindication.

FRANK FANNING, who has appeared on the Coast as a stock actor, has now gone into the novelty manufacturing business in Seattle.

S.&C. Buy Out Grauman Interest in National Theatre

The sensation of the week was the purchase of the Grauman interest in the National Theatre by Sullivan & Considine. The deal was arranged by Zeke Abrams, who has always owned one-half of the National, and Fred Lincoln, the S. & C. general manager, who is now in San Francisco. This move greatly strengthens the S. & C. position in the West, and gradually they are accumulating a proprietary interest in the houses they book. They already own a quarter interest in the Bell in Oakland, have their own houses in Los Angeles and San Diego and will soon have one in Sacramento. D. J. Grauman and Sid Grauman will now devote their energies to their fine new theatre on Market street that is in course of erection.

Spotlights

Mabel Howard, who for ten years has been a prominent actress on the American stage and who played the title role in a Belasco road company of Zaza, has abandoned the stage and is preparing to become a nun in a Roman Catholic convent. Miss Howard is to take up a religious life for all time in the House of the Good Shepherd at the foot of East Ninetieth Street in New York City. Besides playing Zaza, Miss Howard had the leading part in Belasco's Heart of Maryland in a company which toured the West. Before becoming ill three years ago Miss Howard had supported Ezra Kendall, Otis Skinner and other stars.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw gave orders in New York last Wednesday to have her trunks packed preparatory to a trip to Reno, Nev., where she will establish a legal residence in order to bring suit for divorce. To her closest friends she confided her intentions some weeks ago, but she has delayed in the hope that she could make some satisfactory financial arrangements with the Thaw family before her departure. Apparently she has failed in this endeavor and has now decided to go West and fight the issue in the courts.

VAN NESS THEATRE

Two Weeks BEGINNING SUNDAY July 25th

Frederic Thompson Announces

AMERICA'S GREATEST DRAMATIC SUCCESS

Polly of the Circus

A Realistic Story of the Sawdust Ring, by Margaret Mayo
EXACTLY AS PRESENTED FOR ONE YEAR AT THE
LIBERTY THEATRE, NEW YORK

A Play for Fathers, Mothers, Wives, Sisters, Sweethearts and Children

A Company of Notable Players and Five Big Circus Acts

OPINIONS OF THE LEADING PAPERS

"Polly of the Circus is not only wholesome—it is interesting."

—Call.

"Frederic Thompson's Polly of the Circus causes a hit at the Van Ness."—Chronicle.

Terry McKean's Players

A FIRST-CLASS COMPANY IN STANDARD PLAYS

Time open from Sept. 1st for extended stock engagement. Write

TERRY MCKEAN, Sole Proprietor and Manager

Address care Francis-Valentine, 285 Thirteenth St., San Francisco, Cal.

Before Furnishing Your Stage or Ordering Electric Signs, Communicate with

Western Stage Appliance Co.

Manufacturers and Dealers in Theatrical Stage Appliances, Electrical Signs and Letters, Arc Lamps and Electrical Effects, Sheet Metal Specialties, Spot Lights, Bunch Lights, Music Stands, Exit Boxes and Stage Hardware

866 San Pablo Avenue, Oakland, Cal.

THE SAN FRANCISCO Dramatic Review

Music and Drama

CHAS. H. FARRELL, Publisher

Issued Every Saturday

Address all
letters and
money orders to San Francisco
Dramatic
Review, Van

Ness rhe-
atre Bldg.,
Van Ness
Avenue.
Telephone
Park
1773

Entered at San Francisco as Second-class
Mail Matter. Established 1880.

Godfrey Matthews

Godfrey Matthews, who has been playing in the Northwest for the past three years with brilliant success, is in town for a short visit. Mr. Matthews came direct from Vancouver, where for sixty-five weeks he was a leading member of the George B. Howard stock company, making a great success in such parts as the King in Mistress Nell, the Man in Salomy Jane, and Jack in Charley's Aunt. Previous to going to Vancouver, Mr. Matthews was a popular member of the Jessie Shirley company in Spokane, and before that he was leading juvenile with the Savoy stock in Tacoma. Mr. Matthews is a thoroughly experienced actor, with a fine presence, and has decided ability as a juvenile leading man.

This Is What Green and Seeley Went After

NEW YORK, July 25.—Within the last few days the largest direct vaudeville booking agency in the world has been incorporated. In conjunction with its parent company it will control a chain of theatres covering the whole of the United States, from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Canadian boundary to the Gulf of Mexico. Walter Hoff Seeley of San Francisco will be vice-president and general manager of the corporation and will conduct the new enterprise from the Valencia Theatre building in San Francisco. Articles of incorporation will be filed in San Francisco tomorrow. The new company is the William Morris Company, Western, and it will have charge of all the Morris bookings west of Chicago, controlling at the start between twenty-five and thirty theatres. This, in connection with William Morris, Inc., which controls all the Morris bookings east of Chicago, and the opening of new theatres as far south as New Orleans, will give the independent vaudeville corporation control of more than fifty amusement houses in the United States. Arrangements are practically finished for an affiliation of the Morris interests with those of Beresford & Gibbons of London, the largest booking agents in Europe, which will give the Morris company a circuit around the world. The capital stock of the new company is $1,000,000. Morris is president and Seeley vice-president and general manager. A chain of theatres will be operated from the Valencia Theatre building in San Francisco. American music halls will be opened in fifteen Western cities September 15, and about a month later ten or fifteen more will be opened in other cities. The places in the new circuit are San Francisco, Denver, Salt Lake, Portland, Seattle, Ogden, Omaha, Los Angeles, Sacramento, Oakland, Tacoma, Butte, Helena, Spokane and Vancouver. Six new theatre buildings which will be owned by the new company are under construction; others are held under twenty-year leases. In opening this field of increased activity the Morris interests will engage features, and will take all the "top line" acts on long-time contracts. In making bookings for the coming season they will be able to give the various performers at least fifty-two weeks of solid engagements, and when the world circuit is completed they contemplate putting some of the largest vaudeville stars on five years' contracts. Walter Hoff Seeley said that he would leave for home tomorrow, stopping en route in Denver and Salt Lake, reaching San Francisco in about two weeks.

Very little of the plans of the new project are understood here and will not be made public until Seeley gets home. It is surmised that William Morris has bought a block of stock of the Valencia Theatre and that Seeley will endeavor to get together a chain of theatres, so as to offer an actual competition in a field that has been for years occupied most profitably by the Orpheum Circuit.

Col. Harvey Calls Bernard Shaw a "Sissy"

Alexander Harvey, associate editor of Current Literature, recently delivered a lecture before the George Bernard Shaw Fellowship in New York City and astounded its members by making an audacious attack on Shaw, whom he described as a "sissy," preferring vegetables to meat and being deficient in intellectual vigor. "George Bernard Shaw is the greatest 'sissy' of our day and generation," said Mr. Harvey in part. "Arthur Twining Hadley, president of Yale University, is also in that class, as well as most of the men who make up the faculties of our colleges, and sixty per cent of the men they graduate. There seems to be nowadays a horror of anything virile, therefore it is impossible to be a 'sissy' and escape success. Shaw has attacked marriage on the principle that nothing which is, is good, and the small coin of his intellect rings true to the half-baked, half-educated mind. Young women dote on his grotesquely immoral screams."

Personals

T. N. HEFFRON has gone to New York from Salt Lake City.

NICK TURNER, who has been manager of the Majestic Theatre in Chico for the past two years, left for Atlantic City Thursday night.

WALTER CATLETT left for Seattle Wednesday night, where he joins the Ferris Hartman company, now playing an engagement in that city.

MARIBEL SEYMOUR, who for two seasons was ingenue with the Baker stock in Portland and was one of the most popular actresses who ever appeared in that city, is a new member of the Valencia theatre stock. Miss Seymour is a remarkably clever comedienne.

FLORENCE ROBERTS was last week removed from the McNutt hospital, where she underwent an operation, to her apartments on Pacific avenue. She is making satisfactory progress and will not resume work until about Christmas time, when she goes under the Shubert banner.

MARY BOLAND, who has been with the Florence Roberts a couple of seasons past, will have the role assigned to Lillian Albertson in Gertrude Andrews' play, Through a Window. Miss Albertson (Mrs. Levy) will retire from the stage temporarily, and a whisper says the cause is the approach of the stork.

PERCY HILL writes from Toledo to say that the season's business for The Burgomaster was entirely satisfactory. The show is still out and will not close. The Alaskan, the other Cullen attraction, had twelve weeks to fine business at the Great Northern Theatre in Chicago and has gone into retirement until the fall season opens.

VERA McCORD has been visiting relatives and friends in this city and community. As leading woman in Frederick Thompson's production of Via Wireless, she has been having a strenuous season. Miss McCord expects to go to New York soon, and will fill an important engagement next season in a Charles Frohman production.

After a search and pursuit that extended from London, England, to Alameda, Cal., and back to Denver, Mrs. June Van Buskirk Wilson Mitchell, once a favorite actress and popular beauty, secured last week the custody of her 9-year-old child in Denver, Colo. Supported by her husband, who is a prominent British engineer and man of great wealth, Mrs. Mitchell had traced her boy half way around the world to recover him from the custody of his paternal grandparents.

WILLIAM MAXWELL
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Lick Building, 35 Montgomery Street.
Telephone Kearny 724.

AMERICAN THEATRE

Phone Market 381
Market St., near Seventh
The Playhouse of Comfort and Safety

NEXT WEEK
Commencing Sunday Matinee, August 1st
AMERICAN STOCK COMPANY
In the Famous German Military Drama

At The Sound of Taps

Adapted by Charles Swickard.

Special Summer Prices
Evenings, 25c, 50c and 75c. Matinees, 25c and 50c.

All Reserved

SEATS NOW ON SALE

New Alcazar Theatre

Tel. West 1400

Cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts.
Belasco & Mayer, Owners and Managers
Absolutely "Class A" Building

Monday Evening, August 2, and Throughout the Week, the Old Alcazar Favorite

FRANK BACON

In

Charley's Aunt

The Champion Laugh-Winner

PRICES: Nights, 25c to $1; Matinees,
Saturday and Sunday, 25c to 50c.

New Orpheum

O'Farrell Street, Bet. Stockton and Powell
Safest and Most Magnificent Theatre in
America

Week Beginning This Sunday Afternoon
Matinee Every Day

ARTISTIC VAUDEVILLE

SAM CHIP and MARY MARBLE in The Deft Dialogue, with Ditties Designated IN OLD EDAM; SIX AMERICAN DANCERS;
MATTHEWS and ASHLEY; FRANK J.
CONROY; GEORGE LE MAIRE CO.;
SCHRODE and MULVEY; GRIFP; HER-
BERT and WILLING; NEW ORPHEUM
MOTION PICTURES. Last Week, Tremendous Hit, SAM WATSON'S FARMYARD
CIRCUS.

EVENING PRICES—10c, 25c, 50c, 75c,
Box Seats, $1.

MATINEE PRICES (Except Sundays and
Holidays), 10c, 25c, 50c
Phone Douglas 70

Princess Theatre

Absolutely "Class A" Theatre Building
Phone West 663
Ellis Street, near Fillmore
Samuel Loverich, Manager

Last Two Nights

THE BELLE OF NEW YORK

Beginning Monday night—Next Week Only
The International Musical Comedy Hit

FLORODORA

Magnificent Production—Perfect Cast.
Beautiful Girl Chorus.

Popular prices: Evenings, 25c, 50c, 75c.
Saturday and Sunday Matinees, 25c and 50c.

Fischer Theatre

E. A. FISCHER, PROP.
SUTTER ST., BET. FILLMORE AND STEINER

Phone West 6732
The Only Musical Comedy House in the City

This Sunday Afternoon and Evening, Last Times of The Women Haters

Commencing Monday Afternoon, August 2, a Midsummer Whirl of Girls and Music

The Belle of Boston

Charles Alphon's Latest Musical Joke, with Blossom Seeley and All of the Merrymakers

Two performances nightly—8 and 9:30.
Matinees—Mon., Wed., Sat. and Sunday
at 2:30.

Popular Prices, 15c, 20c and 25c

GILLE PRINTING CO. SAN FRANCISCO

THEATRICAL PRINTING OF ALL KINDS

POSTERS

2257 MISSION ST.

Phone MARKET
1865

THE FRANCIS-VALENTINE CO. Show Printers

Thirteenth St., near Mission, S. F. Cal.

Spacious Headquarters
for Theatrical Agents

PHONE-MARKET 2114

Send Bills of Lading to us. We will take care of your paper

Van Ness Theatre

Margaret Mayo has furnished a very pleasing play in Polly of the Circus, and with a proper regard for its value, it should live for years, just as The Old Homestead has done, and be as valuable a property. An exceptionally good company presents the play and this quality of excellence is brought into bold relief by the excellence of the stage management and the admirable team work of the actors, to say nothing of the seeming understanding of the same spirit by the equines and other four-footed actors who complete the cast. Heading the company is little Ida St. Leon, who impresses one with being quite a remarkable young woman. Up to three weeks ago, or thereabouts, she had been notable only as being an uncommonly good circus rider. Now we are afraid the sawdust arena has lost a star and the dramatic stage has gained one, for Miss St. Leon is proving to possess a most charming manner, undoubted ability and a general superior adaptability that will some day land her high on the ladder of histrionic eminence. For a girl of seventeen, she does really fine work and San Francisco has greatly appreciated her efforts. A noticeable and most agreeable feature of the show is the general and ripened excellence of the company. Every member of the cast gives the air of authority and ability to his or her portrayal, and there is no detail forgotten that would add to the performance. Going down the line, it may be mentioned that Earl Ryder is a fine manly looking young minister, whose only fault seems to be in an over-accentuation of the goodness of the minister in the first act. The minister has everything in his favor and it is not necessary to throw too much effect into his lines. David R. Young and Leslie King, who play the two deacons of narrow and bigoted aspect, one the positive and the other the negative character, present two finished and thoroughly artistic delineations. Stuart Johnson presents a real nigger. He has the slouching gait, the accent and all the lifelike mannerisms of the real good-for-nothing coon. Charles Lamb is a striking figure and good actor in the part of Big Jim. John Findlay, who plays Toby, the clown, has one of the most appealing stage characters ever written, and, to his credit, he plays it with full effect. No one can listen to Uncle Toby and not realize the charm of the old man nor have a warm feeling for his associates. Mat Heisey, as the circus proprietor, is most realistic. Kate Jepson is altogether a magnificent Mandy. As the curtain goes down on the last act there is seen on the back drop a striking panoramic effect of a circus wagon train winding up and around a hill. This is one of Mr. Thompson's clever effects. This effect ought to be worked out more clearly, for at a range of seven or eight rows back it is hard for one not up to the workings of theatrical effects to appreciate it. And a word, too, might be said as to the lighting of the second act. Those autumn trees are altogether too red—a more generous use of amber lights would help immensely.

Valencia Theatre

That bright little comedy, At the White Horse Tavern, has served as the setting for the talents of the Valencia stock company since Monday evening. The honors of the performance have been falling to Charles Dow Clark, who, as William Giesicke of Berlin, traveling under protest, has been giving one of the best pieces of acting, and he is to be credited with several, that he has to his record since joining the Valencia forces. His performances have been little short, and very little short at that, of being of the very best. Class A and reinforced, so to speak. Edith Lyle as Otille, the daughter of Giesicke, has added to the week's mirth by her clever and bewitching portrayal of the daughter of the man who is trying to evade a lawyer. Robert Homans won popularity with his audiences. As the persistent attorney-at-law, he furnished no small portion of the fun-making element of the comedy. Paul McAllister, as the clever waiter, was handsome enough to win any woman over, without being put to all the planning that Leopold Brand is forced to resort to before he wins the heart and hand of his employer, Josepha, a character to which Grace Travers adapts herself with glove-like neatness. There are a number of smaller parts, all excellently cast and as excellently played by the remaining members of the company. That space does not permit individual notice of each is to be regretted. A clever bit is contributed by Maribel Seymour as the lisping girl. Although The White Horse Tavern has been put on in San Francisco a number of times, the current production has never been surpassed by its predecessors. William Gillette's comedy, All the Comforts of a Home, is to be played next week at the Valencia. A pleasing feature of the Valencia is the well-trained orchestra under the command of Director Herman Heller.

Alcazar Theatre

Cyld Fitch, who has demonstrated to the American theatre-going public that in their everyday, humdrum life there is much that is excellent material for the dramatist, is the author of the comedy at the Alcazar this week. The play is a comedy only in that it is not a tragedy, for it draws tears as well as smiles. The title, The Judge and the Girl, is derived from the fact that one of the principal characters is a judge and the other a girl. The judge is quite out of the ordinary in the way of stage barristers. He is young, full of the joy of living, is attractive and takes an interest in the world about him. He is not the simian-like old fellow, with gray side-whiskers, halting step and gold eye-glasses, who has been a stock character for English and American playwrights for many years. Thurlow Bergen played the part of Judge Chartris. His portrayal was a manly, virile delineation. Bessie Barriscale, who is the second half of the title, was most agreeably cast. Whether she fits the part, or the part fits her, it is difficult to say, but the combination was a most fortunate one. Howard Hickman played a small part excellently. To A. Burt Wesner some more forceful word than satisfactory should be addressed. As Brown, the judge's office man, he gave all that the lines demanded. The kleptomaniac mother, whose failing for other people's finery gives the piece its genesis, Christie MacLean devoted all her abilities, and they are many, with telling effect. Her idea of the part was well worked out. Even the smallest details in make-up were not overlooked. Louise Brownell played Mrs. Brown, the talkative boarding-house lady who has fallen from a high social estate, and who is not slow in letting her boarders know that socially they are her inferiors. Mrs. Brown, it need not be said, is far removed from Sappho. Adele Belgarde, Roy Neill and Marie Baker also contributed to the efficiency of the bill. Next week, Frank Bacon will have the center of the stage and the spotlight.

Princess Theatre

It's been a long time since the tuneful, humorous Belle of New York tickled our midriffs and delighted our musical ears, hence the opening of the new musical comedy company at the Princess Monday night was particularly welcome, the more so since the staff of entertainers, principals and chorus, are way above par. All the world knows the story of Edna May's first success, and most theatre-goers remember the tuneful music provided by Gustave Kerker for Hugh Morton's amusing book, hence it is unnecessary to dwell upon those features. Suffice it to say that although in fancy there floated from behind the foot-lights with the raising of the curtain, the faint odor of lavender and rosemary, yet there was no single thing wanting in attractiveness. Sidney de Grey and Robert Wilson as the Bronsons, pere et fils, earned a hearty welcome by their work. Mr. de Grey's unctuous style of comedy is well adapted to the character of Bronson, Sr., while Mr. Wilson's boyish looks and spirits added much to the lines allotted the part. However, it is to be regretted that Mr. Wilson seemed suffering from a cold his opening performance and was hardly vocally capable of the demands made upon him. His acting made up in a large part for this deficiency, however. Particularly fortunate is the feminine cast, headed by Octavia Broska, cast as the Salvation Army lassie. While the young woman's voice is by no means heavy, it yet possesses the pleasing quality of sweetness and displays its suppleness in the adroit handling accorded it. Also Miss Broska is an accomplished actress, and moreover is decidedly pretty. Olga Stech, a young woman of delightful voice, much feminine pulchritude and more than the average dancing and acting ability, makes her San Francisco debut in the soubrette role, Fifi. Her work is a decided credit to her training, more than surprising in view of her extreme youth, and she was voted an instantaneous favorite by the first-night house, numerous encores being demanded on each of her three numbers. Marta Golden, as the opera queen, and Francis Peon, in well doubled characters as a music hall singer and an extremely Bowery Bowery girl, are also well to the fore. Then, by way of good measure, there is Frank Vack, cast as the polite lunatic, who accomplishes a distinctly worthy portrayal of the character, one easily made ridiculous; Budd Ross gives a brilliant performance as the comedian of a stranded opera company; Edwin T. Emery, as the erstwhile opera company's manager; and Arthur Cunningham, turned low comedian for the nonce, and interpreting the part of a Bowery prizefighter to the very life. His burlesque of the Merry Widow waltz with Miss Peon is a great hit. Two rather amusing character bits are contributed by Albert Duncan and Harris Maguire as the Portuguese twins, long and short. There is a chorus of twenty-four pretty girls who dance well and sing better, to say nothing of the excellent manner in which they fit their clothes, while the half dozen or more male voices assist in making harmonious choruses. The mounting is elaborate and the staging of the play a decided credit to the management and to Director Charles Sinclair.

American Theatre

Tennessee's Pardner has become a sort of stage classic. It is the only one of all the Western plays that seems to hold the same interest year after year. It is always a good play, even when badly played; it is a fine play when well presented. It is a fine play this week. Harriett Worthington makes a most appealing Tennessee. Kent, the "little pard" from Smoky Mountain. Herschel Mayall is every bit the picture as Caleb Swan, the big, handsome fellow, who as a gambler, is "high toned and legitimate." James Corrigan impersonates Geewhilkier Hay, one of the "fattest" parts ever written for a comedian. He gives a good performance. Lillian Elliott is a vigorous and likeable Mrs. Hay. Pauline Lord is good as Nettie Rice. George B. Baldwin, as Asa Bice; Wm. Abrams, as Tom Romaine; Gerald Harcourt, as Barlow, and Thurlow White, as the Coroner, do justice to small parts. The performance was keyed to a high level and was greatly enjoyed. Next week a new version of Taps will be presented under the title of At the Sound of Taps.

Nordica is a Bride Again

LONDON, July 29.—In the King's Weigh House Church, Grosvenor square, Lillian Nordica was married to George W. Young, the New York financier. Many distinguished persons witnessed the ceremony today. The Rev. Dr. Henderson officiated. Mme. Nordica's sister, Mrs. Del Castro, gave the bride away. Frederick Townsend Martin was best man. There was a beautiful choral service during the ceremony. Mme. Nordica wore a bridal robe of the palest gray satin, trimmed with the rarest old Venetian lace. The pearl-diamond ornaments she wore were the gift of the bridegroom. Mme. Nordica did not carry a bridal bouquet, nor did she wear a hat, but instead laurel wreaths crowned her hair. Following the wedding a reception was held at Claridge's. The honeymoon will be spent on the bridegroom's yacht. Royalty and society have lavished gifts on the famous singer. The Duchess of Manchester presented her a diamond ruby pendant. Mrs. Frank Mackey sent her an emerald chain pendant, and Mrs. Ronald, Mrs. Ritchie, Lady Turner, Lady Shrewsbury and others have given valuable presents of various kinds.

Vaudeville

LLOYD C. FOUNTAIN, Editor

The Orpheum

There are any number of enjoyable moments in the week's bill. And there is a great diversity. The opening turn is the Three Donals, who do some big stunts that are aptly described under the title of "Unrivaled European Herculean Marvels." Herbert and Willing have a real laugh-provoker in their blackface act, called Oh, Man! The one with the pink hose is a genuinely funny fellow. Julius Tannen has a fresh, impetuous manner in telling his monologue that rather jars at first, but as he progresses you find yourself forgetting to find fault and you laugh—almost continuously. His imitation of Raymond Hitchcock is distinctly good. Griff, the English droll, amused us as much, if not more, than any one on the bill. His style of work is not seen very often here and it is sufficiently novel to attract, while his ability is apparent at once. The Gibson Girls' Electrified Review is an ambitious attempt to attain something novel. It is held over from last week. Walter Schrode and Lizzie Mulvey seemed to take immensely with the audience. Their rough-and-tumble dancing raised great enthusiasm. Lily Lena, a little woman who has a strong personality, achieved great success with her songs. Sam Watson's Barnyard Circus was immensely entertaining. The chief honors of the act went to the roosters, who were intelligent enough to crow at a given command. The dogs, the donkey, the cat and the pig were also good actors. The usual high-grade moving pictures completed the evening's bill.

Pantages-Empire

Manager Tiffany had some show last week and again this week he has some and then some, headed by the Svengali Trio, who are creating no end of comment and wonder with their exhibition of telepathy, trickery or whatever name you choose to apply. With two persons on the stage with their backs to the audience, another party passes through the audience and you are at liberty to give the name of any popular song or selection from any grand or comic opera you wish rendered or name any historical or well known character you wish impersonated, and as quick as a flash your request is interpreted by those on the stage. Not a word is spoken by the confederate in the audience and you whisper your request. Although you may cudgel your mind for some intricate request with which to foil them, the rapidity and promptness with which your question is answered makes you feel rather mystified and foolish, and as other questions are asked and answered there seems to be no limit to their powers. Mack, Elliot and company present The New Minister, a laugh provoker that more than accomplishes the desired result. Miss Elliott should correct herself of a distressing habit of gasping while speaking. The ease with which Keit and De Mon accomplish their many difficult knock-about gymnastic stunts is most surprising. They have a good vein of comedy running through their act and deserve the best that can be said of them. Farley and Clare appear in a neat and clever singing and dancing turn. Kurtis and Busse present their trained canines in a repertoire of clever tricks and prove a pleasant feature of the bill. Elsie Schuyler is well received in singing and dancing numbers. The musical feature of the program is in the capable hands of Tyler on the xylophone. Motion pictures are as usual good and complete the roster.

The National

Manager Sid Grauman is doing himself proud with this week's show at his popular Steiner street house. Each and every act is worthy of any of the higher priced houses and in a class of its own. Eva Mudge is billed as the headline attraction and although there are several worthy of the distinction. Miss Mudge has a rather pleasing voice and the ability to change her apparel quickly, and taken in all her act is most pleasing. Foster and Foster, the well-known piano playing and singing comedians, are again with us, and these clever performers never seem to become tiresome or able to give the public enough of their mirth provoking efforts. More good comedy with singing and clever dancing is contributed by the Telegraph Four, composed of four clever youngsters. Willie Seigel, the Hebrew comedian of the quartet, is a hit as soon as he appears; he fairly scintillates humor and has the audience on the qui vive to laugh at his every action or word. Seigel will bear watching. Chinese Walton wins well merited applause for his clever efforts in his tragi-comedy offering. Rae and Brosche in an amusing farce entitled Just Like a Woman, are a bright spot on the bill. They are both exceptionally clever performers and contribute good, legitimate work. Mickey Feeley, although in a bad spot, nevertheless comes in for a big share of approval in a clever knock-about acrobatic turn. Carita Day and her dancing boys appear in a neat and clever hard shoe dancing turn. Jimmy Polk makes 'em sit up and take notice when he begins hammering on the banjo and pleases both those of classic or rag-time taste. Sados introduces some exceptionally clever juggling which is far above the average. The motion pictures are as usual good, and complete an excellent program.

The Wigwam

Manager Harris is offering another big show this week to the patrons of his popular house. The laws of gravity are upset by Onaip in his sensational offering. Seated at a piano, presumably under hypnotic influence, some excellent piano playing is indulged in while the instrument whirls about in the air without in the least affecting the player. From the slowness of the hand that greets the curtain, it is most evident that the greater portion of the audience is also under the hypnotic spell. The old stock favorite of this city, Frank Bacon, assisted by his capable little company, present An Easy Liar—a bunch of good, wholesome humor which Mr. Bacon handles in his own capable and inimitable manner. A good strain of pathos runs through the act which makes it most pleasing

Theatrical Tights

ALL COLORS, WEIGHTS AND QUALITIES—Cotton, 75c to $1.50; Wool, $2.50 to $3.50; Lisle or Silkline, $3.00 to $4.50; Silk, $5.00 to $12.50.

SYMMETRICALS BEST LINE MADE IN THE U. S. Calf, $5.00; Calf and Thigh, $10.00; Calf, Thigh and Hip, $12.50.

We also Make Padded Shirts, SWEATERS, JERSEYS, GYM, ATHLETIC and BATH SUITS, SUPPORTERS, ACROBATIC SHOES, GOOD UNDERWEAR Knit to Fit in All Materials.

We operate our own mills, carry a large stock and make goods to measure at reasonable prices. We suit the professional as if he were buying in Europe. Write us for prices and samples.

Gantner & Mattern Co.

Phone Kearny 3603

Corner Post and Grant Ave.

NATIONAL THEATRE

Mr. Sid Grauman,
General Manager

POST AND STEINER STS., SAN FRANCISCO

Leading Vaudeville Theatre on the Sullivan-Considine Circuit. No Act Too Good for us. Write.

Sullivan & Considine Circuit

W. P. REESE

California Representative

AMERICAN THEATRE BUILDING, 1117 MARKET ST.

Phone Market 6873

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

New York Office, Shubert Bldg. Lancaster, Pa., Family Theatre
Now Booking Summer Parks, Fairs and Vaudeville Theatres. Managers, write or wire.

50---THEATRES---50
THAT INDEPENDENT VAUDEVILLE AGENT

.... BERT LEVEY ....

Phone West 9098

2053 SUTTER ST., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

PANTAGES Western States Vaudeville Association

Controlling the longest, largest and best chain of vaudeville theatres in the United States.

Mr. Manager: No matter where your house is, how large or how small, we can supply you promptly with first-class vaudeville acts at reasonable prices, also lodges, clubs and entertainments furnished on short notice.

See O. S. BURNS, Representative. Phone West 7140. Offices: Pantages Theatre, cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts., San Francisco, Cal.

Archie Levy's Amusement Ass'n

THE VAUDEVILLE EXCHANGE OF THE PACIFIC COAST

1643 FILLMORE STREET, SUITE 1-2-3, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers desiring talent Write. Artists send in your open time now.

In Spite of all ye Knocking Devils in H—

THE LAND OF BUNG-A-BOO, headed by Wise & Milton, are still going, while others are trying. This week, EMPIRE, half act. Next week, WIGWAM, full act. Vallejo, week of Aug. 1st.

DID WE? ?

Borden-Zeno & Haydn Bros.

In "BITS OF VAUDEVILLE" Featured Everywhere
Extract from a manager's opinion: "Gentlemanly performers, who have a novelty act that proved a big feature and success at the Wigwam, week of July 18, '09. With pleasure I recommend them.—Sam Harris, Mgr.
Week of August 1st, Crystal, Denver, Colo. Direction B. A. Myers, New York City.

in every way. The Ramsey Sisters more than make good in a tuneful musical turn. Cooper and Brown are a couple of good singing and talking comedians with a number of up-to-date parodies. Slater Brockman is remarkable for the similarity of his numerous impersonations. Sensational jumping is the offering of Jack Hawkins, who is a most entertaining feature. Seymour and Hill, a couple of most clever gymnasts, have an excellent offering of knock-about acrobatics.

The Thalia

A good program of variety is presented this week. The Mizuma Troupe supply some good juggling and equilibristic numbers. Princess Wladernoff in an offering of singing, dancing and musical numbers is very good. George Braun still continues his exhibition of wrestling. Ralph Rudolph continues to sing his way into popular approval. Many old favorites are still retained and the motion pictures continue to make the show more than satisfactory.

Clever Louise Kent has scored a great success in vaudeville. Everywhere she appears, return dates are requested. Miss Kent is supported by Donah Benrimo, a great favorite on the Coast.

The Shuberts have taken over the Nesbitt Theatre and Grand Opera House in Wilkesbarre. The former, heretofore housing dollar-and-a-half attractions, will play popular-priced shows, while the Grand, which is more centrally located, will be utilized for high-grade plays.

Fischer's

The Woman Haters is the vehicle for the clever. Fischer company this week. It is a most amusing little comedy and individually the members of the cast do good and careful work. Sydney Paine succeeds Will King in the Jew character, and while he works hard and conscientiously, it must be said that Mr. Paine is not a comedian. He is an excellent character or heavy man and has done much good work along those lines in dramatic pieces. Henry Auerbach and Dave Morris offer the comedy and Carlton Chase and Maud Rockwell present the good looks, the dash and the singing. These two leading people are great favorites and artistic performers. Blanche Beauford and Anna Clarke complete the cast of principals and give value to the performance.

Bookings

At the Sullivan & Considine, San Francisco Office, through Wm. P. Reese, their sole booking agent, for week of Aug. 1, 1909:

NATIONAL, San Francisco—Five Juggling Jordans; Jere Sanford; Mlle. Loretta and dog; McDeavitt and Kelly; Glendower and Manion. BELL, Oakland—Barnes-Reming and company; Sados; Carita Day and Boys; Rae and Brosche; Telegraph Four; Eva Mudge. NOVELTY, Vallejo—Wise and Milton; Dolline Cole; Al Watson; Gus Leof. WIGWAM, San Francisco—Mabel Carew and company; Gillihan and Murray; Wyatt and Rice; Billy Windom; Mlle. Rialta and company; Albin and Bessie Allen. LOS ANGELES, Los Angeles—Onaip; Seymour and Hill; Ramsey Sisters; Slater Brockman. OÜEEN, San Diego—Virginia Grant; Mann and Franks; Kelly and Reno; Leo Cooper and company.

Vaudeville Notes

Larry Keating writes from Sydney, Australia, that he is managing the Tommy Burns company through Australia, which is now in its twenty-sixth week to big business. The show goes from Sydney to Paris for ten weeks, then to London for forty weeks.

Herbert Stanley is doing some good dancing this week at the Opera House in Watsonville. Helen Valdez is on the the same bill, doing a contortion act. Lena Clifton is singing the illustrated songs. At the La Petite, Cornell and Fisher, a sketch team, are the feature act.

Another naval band master has picked his bride from the vaudeville stage. Last Tuesday the engagement of Carl Baker, musical director of the cruiser West Virginia, to Miss Evelyn Brown, a young vaudeville performer, appearing this week at the Novelty Theatre in Vallejo, was given out.

Miss A. M. Nelson has purchased the Victory Picture Theatre in Oxnard from A. E. Johnson and will run the place for the future. She will be assisted in the management of it by E. Ruus.

Archie Levey returned from a most successful trip through the southwest territory last evening.

The Star has an exceptionally strong card for this week, headed by the Stanley Edwards company in artistic poses from life. The subjects from well known works of art are well chosen and splendidly depicted, but the act has a great many rough edges which need polishing. A little more attention should be paid to the lights and also some powder applied to the neck and shoulders. A great deal more rehearsing and attention to detail will improve the act immensely. Gus Leonard keeps the audience convulsed with his offering of music and (near) magic. The Kellys, I should say Kelly (masculine), are good comedy entertainers who get a good share of the honors. Bernard Dyllin is a pleasing feature of the bill with his own inimitable line of entertaining. The Malones are some candy when it comes to dancing. Bobby Athon and Ying Lee company take up a long and wearisome portion of the bill and leave you with a yawn. The scenery is most artistic and commendable, but you get tired of looking at scenery alone. Olive Reed with the illustrated songs is as popular as ever and the motion pictures, as usual, good, which complete the program.

May Boley opens on Morris time at American Music Hall, Chicago, on August 30. Archie Levey did it. This contradicts the rumor that she was to play California time.

Harry Krantzman, Earl Taylor and Al White, singers and song composers, open at the Hague, Saturday evening, after a jump direct from the College Inn, Chicago.

The Allen Curtis musical comedy company has made its appearance at Fischer's Theatre in Los Angeles, and the patrons of the house hail it as one of the best organizations that have appeared there. Jakey, Mikey and Ikey was the opening bill, with Allen Curtis as Ikey, the Hebrew; Tom Dunbar as Mikey, the Irishman, and Arthur Clamage as Jakey, the Teuton. Charles A. Figg, leading man, and Jean Hathaway, leading woman, scored a personal success, and their songs made a hit with the audience at the first performance.

Dates Ahead

ALCAZAR STOCK.—San Francisco.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Madison, Aug. 8; Stillwater, 9; St. Cloud, 10; Grand Forks, 11; Winnipeg, 12-14; Fargo, 16; Mandan, 17; Miles City, 18; Billings, 19; Livingston, 20; Bozeman, 21; Butte, 22-23; Anaconda, 24; Gr. Falls, 25; Helena, 26; Missoula, 27; Wallace, 28; Spokane, 29-31.

BELASCO STOCK CO.—Los Angeles.

BISHOP'S PLAYERS.—In stock, Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland.

FISCHER'S MUSICAL STOCK.—San Francisco.

GUY SMITH STOCK.—Oakland, Cal.

LYRIC STOCK CO.—Portland, Ore.

MOROSCO'S BURBANK STOCK.—Los Angeles.

PANTAGES STOCK.—Seattle.

THE GIRL QUESTION (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Madison, Aug. 15; Stillwater, 16; St. Cloud, 17; Grand Forks, 18; Winnipeg, 19-21; Fargo, 23; Dickinson, 24; Miles City, 25; Billings, 26; Livingston, 27; Bozeman, 28; Butte, 29-30; Anaconda, 31.

THE MERRY WIDOW (Henry W. Savage; Henri Gressit, bus. mgr.)

—San Francisco, July 4, and three weeks; Los Angeles, 26, and week; then week each in Salt Lake and Denver.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Madison, Aug. 1; St. Cloud, 2; Gr. Forks, 3; Winnipeg, 4-7; Fargo, 9; Valley City, 10; Jamestown, 11; Dickinson, 12; Miles City, 13; Billings, 14; Big Timber, 15; Livingston, 16; Bozeman, 17; Gr. Falls, 18; Helena, 19; Butte, 20-21; Missoula, 23; Wallace, 24; Lewiston, 25; Pullman, 26; Colfax, 27; Walla Walla, 28; Spokane, 29-31.

THREE WEEKS (Ernest Shuter, ahead.)—Seattle, July 25; two weeks: Tacoma, August 8-9; Victoria, 10; Vancouver, 11-12; Bellingham, 13; Everett, 14; North Yakima, 15; Spokane, 16-19; Helena, 20; Great Falls, 21; Butte, 22-23; Billings, 24; Grand Forks, 25; Winnipeg, 26; then St. Paul and Minneapolis.

YANKEE DOODLE STOCK CO. (Geo. V. Haliday, mgr.)—Ironwood, Aug. 2, and week; Ashland, 9-21.

RINGLIN'S CIRCUS.—Red Bluff, Aug. 30; Chico, 31; Marysville, Sept. 1; Sacramento, 2; Santa Rosa, 3; Napa, 4; Oakland, 5-6; Santa Cruz, 7; Salinas, 8; San Francisco, 9-13; San Jose, 14; Stockton, 15; Fresno, 16; Visalia, 17; Bakersfield, 18; Santa Barbara, 20; Los Angeles, 21-22; Santa Ana, 24; San Bernardino, 25; Phoenix, 27; Tucson, 28.

CHRISTINA NIELSEN, formerly of the Princess company, is making arrangements to go to Boston for a season of study in the vocal department of the New England conservatory of music.

WHEN OPPORTUNITY knocks at your door don't wait for it to climb over the transom. You can get a new act almost for the asking. Send for MADISON'S BIG BUDGET No. 11, price one dollar. Of priceless value to any performer who has the ability to spring the many good things contained therein. Contents include 9 of James Madison's best monologues (all styles), 12 sketches for 2 males and 3 for male and female (sure hits); 28 parodies that always get the applause; also two great comedy afterpieces, besides hundreds of new stories, end gags, sensational recitations, etc. Price $1. A GRAND OFFER. For $1.50 will send Budgets No. 10 and 11 while supply lasts. For sale in San Francisco by L. PARENT, 818 Van Ness Ave.; GOLDSTEIN & CO., 821 Van Ness Ave., or direct of the publisher, JAMES MADISON, 1404 Third Ave., New York, who also writes to order all kinds of vaudeville acts. Rates reasonably high, but absolutely first-class work guaranteed.

NEW CHUTES

FILLMORE, TURK, EDDY AND WEBSTER

Open, Morning, Afternoon and Night
SUPREME FOR SUMMERTIME FUN
Greatest Open-Air Attractions in the West

BEGINNING THIS SUNDAY
GLASSCOCK'S TRAINED ELEPHANTS
Featuring "Little Mike," the Famous Clown Elephant of the Barnum Shows

Last Sunday Appearance of Desperado
New Acts by Demon and Florence Spray
Special Concerts, Afternoon and Night, by the
Royal Banda Roma
10c NO OTHER CHARGE 10c

M. M. RILEY G. A. KELLEY

THALIA Concert Hall

514 1/2 PACIFIC STREET

Up-to-Date Vaudeville

NO ACT TOO BIG FOR THIS HOUSE

IDORA

"The Park
Beautiful"

B. P. MILLER, General Manager
Oakland, Calif.

20 Acres of High Grade
Amusement==20

The Handsomest
Park in America

Playing Only the World's Greatest Bands
and
Big Feature Acts

Performers desiring time, address
J. H. B. Fitzpatrick

Santa Fe BACK EAST EXCURSIONS

SALE DATES

Aug. 9 to 13, inclusive.
Sept. 7 to 10, 13 to 15, inclusive.

ROUND TRIP RATES

Chicago .....	$72.50	New Orleans .....	$ 67.50
Kansas City .....	60.00	New York .....	108.50
Memphis, Tenn. ....	67.50	St. Louis .....	67.50

Ask for Back East Excursion pamphlet. Gives details.
JAS. B. DUFFY, Gen. Agt., 673 Market St., San Francisco.

SANTA FE

Frederic Thompson will be a Busy Man

Frederic Thompson has completed all his plans for next season. Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson have delivered the manuscript of Springtime, which will be produced in the middle of October with Mabel Taliaferro in the star role. This will be the most pretentious and the most important of the Thompson productions during the season of 1909-10. Eugene Walter is writing a new play, The Assassin, destined to be one of the most forcible of his dramatic writings, and this piece with a male star will be shown to the public for the first time early in the winter. J. Hartley Manners has completed and had accepted by Mr. Thompson for early production a new play entitled, The Fool's Comedy. This piece will have a male star whose name will be announced within a few days. Porter Emerson Browne, whose extraordinary drama, A Fool There Was, proved one of the decisive hits of last season, has written for Mr. Thompson two new plays, The Lure and Waste, both of which will be seen on Broadway before the holidays. Another new play by a well-known novelist and a celebrated actor-dramatist, has been accepted and will be produced early in December. Two Polly of the Circus companies, one headed by Edith Taliaferro and the other without a featured player, will be seen in the principal cities of the country. Brewster's Millions, with Robert Ober as the star, will tour the United States for its fourth season. Robert Hilliard, with his original cast in A Fool There Was, will be seen in four of the chief cities of the East. Via Wireless, with the original company which presented it at the Liberty Theatre a year ago, will continue to be a leading Thompson attraction. All of the old players who have been with Mr. Thompson have been re-engaged and the new plays have made it necessary for the engagement of some of the most celebrated actors and actresses on the American and English stage.

Spotlights

JIMMY GLEASON and Lucille Webster leave Sunday for New York to join the Checkers company. Jimmy will have the title role.

For The Paradise of Mahomet, which the Shuberts will produce in October, the following cast is announced: Eva Davenport, Ralph Herz, Walter Lawrence, Vera Michelena, John Bunny, Laura Guerite and Gertrude Darrell, the latter to essay the prima donna role.

When the cases of Mrs. Elizabeth

Becker, Mrs. F. W. Clute and Mrs. Louise Gunst, charged with allowing their young children to perform on amateur night at the Star Theatre, Twenty-second and Mission Streets, were called in Police Judge Deasy's court Monday, they told the judge that they did not know that they were violating the law. They brought the children with them. Secretary M. J. White of the San Francisco Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, who swore to the complaints, said he had no desire to see the women punished, but he wanted a stop put to such children performing for the gratification of a crowd of howling men. The judge said the law had been violated, but he would dismiss the cases with the warning that any mothers arrested in future for violating the law would be summarily dealt with. The case against Alexander Kaiser, manager of the theatre, was put on the reserve calendar.

Daisy Sutton is to join the ranks of the Florodora sextet girls. The sister of Lieutenant James M. Sutton, whose death is stirring up investigations at Annapolis, arrived in San Francisco a few days ago, and announced her intention of remaining here for some time. In order to support herself and to be independent, she has accepted an offer from the Princess company, and will appear Monday night in the famous sextet in Florodora.

The Raymond Teal company is in Phoenix at the Grand, a new air-dome, where they close on August 15, to go to Tucson, where they play Elysium Grove for five weeks. Mr. Teal promises to bring his show to the Coast next spring.

The first attempt to float a nigger minstrel show occurred last week when Spero & Martin put out The Black Serenaders. They opened in Richmond to about $50.00 and repeated the same thing in Petaluma, without the band which they had promised. Since then all trace has been lost. A coon show without a band is doomed to failure before it starts out.

Lorraine Buchanan and company left Wednesday for Santa Cruz, where they will open at Swain's Theatre for an indefinite engagement. The intrepid manageress is entitled to admiration. In the company are Robert Hall, Harold Holland, Paul Handy and wife, Harry Stuart, Wallace Howe, Lester Paul and Miss Howard.

MINE HOST SHANLEY of the Hotel St. James, where the profession who visit San Francisco make their home, has been appointed a member of the

COL. D. P. STONER

Just closed as advance for Richard Jose. At Liberty for fall season. Care Dramatic Review entertainment committee which has charge of the forthcoming meeting of the Western Hotel Men's Protective Association in this city.

Andrews Opera Chairs

General Seating
School—Church—Bank
Office and Steel Rod
Furniture
Purchase direct from
manufacturer
THE A. H. ANDREWS CO.
Pacific Bldg., San Francisco
Chicago, New York, Tacoma

Imperial Amusement Co.

Star Theatre, Portland, Oregon
S. MORTON COHN, Pres.; MELVIN G. WINSTOCK, Gen. Mgr.
Acts of every kind are requested to write in, quoting lowest salary in first letter. Satisfactory booking for right acts at right figures.

SCENERY

The Chas. F. Rosa Scenic Studio

Undersell any studio or individual in America.

Write for a "special" estimate.
Studio, Van Ness Theatre, S. F.

Hotel St. James, Van Ness Ave., at Fulton St., San Francisco

MISS E. MATTINGLY

Official Stenographer and Typewriter to
Theatrical Agents and Managers
Theatrical Typewriting
Plays and manuscripts copied, Press
work and mimeographing.

J. B. REIGHLEY

Theatrical Hauling

Promptly Attended To
Telephone Market 1601
660 Guerrero Street, Bet. 18th and 19th

Opera, Folding and Assembly

Chairs

Full Line
See Samples at 770-776
Mission St.
Bet. 3d and 4th Sts.
SAN FRANCISCO
THE WIGGIN CO.

Do you contemplate going to HONOLULU? If so, communicate with

J. C. COHEN

PROMOTER OF AMUSEMENT ENTERPRISES
Managing HAWAIIAN OPERA HOUSE and ORPHEUM THEATRE, Honolulu, H. T. Both houses thoroughly equipped and stage capable of handling any show.

Theatre for Rent for Vaudeville

Large, fine Theatre, with 800 seating capacity, large stage, in city of 5,000 people. Can be leased for vaudeville purposes. Rent, very reasonable.

Address, H., care of Dramatic Review.

Leslie King

Season with E. H. Sothorn
Closed June 17th

Immediately Engaged by
Frederic Thompson for Polly of the Circus
To open June 29th

Theatres and Opera Houses, National and Municipal, in Latin America

Cuts and data furnished through the courtesy of The International Bureau of the American Republics.

Art is the essence of the Latin character. The treasures that have made are given at intervals, under the control or on the invitation of the municipality, representations of the classic drama and opera, or if possible, the more modern plays and music which the same care and regard to the artistic proportions as other public buildings. Seldom is it crowded in between houses, for almost always does it occupy a completely open space. If possible the government has taken pains so to locate it that it is open on all four sides and stands boldly exposed, therefore proclaiming its purpose with no uncertain effect.

But the municipal theater is more than an edifice. It has a function comparable to the preservation of public health. While the theater is often rented to private enterprise, and entertainments having the trivial character of the cinematograph may be offered the people during much of the year, a week or more at least will be reserved by the authorities for better plays which have been tried and pronounced good. For instance, the well-beloved Don Juan Tenorio (about the same as Don Juan in English) may be heard from one end of the country to the other on All Saints' Day, or renditions of the passion play will be given during Lent. When social diversions are at their height, opera—Italian, French or Spanish—is presented by the best talent procurable, and, when considered advisable, the principal singers, and frequently whole companies, even to the orchestra, will be brought over from abroad. The old French opera in New Orleans was understood and admired in its time, but the same system is today in full force all over Latin America, the talent of the troupe depending solely upon the ability of the public treasury to pay for it.

The government, whether municipal or national, has used public moneys in the construction of the theater, and it is most natural therefore that the presentation of the drama or opera should be provided from the same funds. No one objects to it; in fact, it would

Italy a veritable storehouse of art give material proof of the vitality of this assertion. All through history the Italian has flourished best where he could give freest play to the creative faculty of art, or has languished most where his energy was diverted into channels. France has also shown the inheritance of the race, and the art of the French has today become proverbial the world over.

Following the natural interests, Latin Americans, whether native or European, strive for the beautiful. This is so in their roads, their buildings, their streets, their houses, and perhaps most of all, in their public buildings. In one characteristic, particularly, the cities of Latin America differ essentially from those in the United States. They provide some means to satisfy the art hunger of the people, which at the same time they pay tribute to the three notes of artistic expression—architecture, music and the drama. The public theater is so distinctly a part of the municipal national life of the Latin-American city as is the meeting place for the city council.

In fact, it may be asserted that many cities will own a municipal theater for the public representation of opera and the drama, while the political body will be content to hold its meetings in a rented hall. In many small towns off the railway, visited but rarely by the foreigner and therefore living by and for itself, can be found some sort of a building, close to the church, perhaps, and surely giving on a pretty plaza. To this the residents will lovingly call attention as el teatro municipal. It is not the edifice that attracts attention so much as the phrase. If he asks what is the municipal theater, he is told, with some surprise at the question, that it is where otherwise the people might not see or hear.

In larger cities where social life has attained a metropolitan development, and especially in the great political or commercial capitals that keep in touch with the outside world, the municipal (national, if funds for its construction have been provided out of the national treasury) theater is a public institution. It is constructed with seem strange if this were not done. In a few instances claims of extravagance have been raised with undoubted truth; in others it is objected that the

COLON THEATRE, BUENOS AIRES

This handsome three-story theatre was constructed by the municipality at a cost of about $2,000,000. The first story represents the Ionic, the second the Corinthian, and the third the Doric style of architecture. The building has 900 orchestra seats, seven balconies, and a seating capacity for 3,570 persons, is fire-proof, well ventilated and heated, and is provided with a perfect electric installation.

Novelty Theatre, San Francisco TO RENT

By the day, week or month. Fine, comfortable theatre, seating 1,200 people. Large stage. SPECIALLY ADAPTED TO POLITICAL MEETINGS

GOLDSTEIN & CO. COSTUMERS

for all Pacific Coast Theatres. Goldstein's Hair and Wig Store. Make-Up. Play Books. Established 1876. Lincoln Building, Market and Fifth Sts.

people themselves are crowded out by the fashionable audiences that fill the theater, but this is never used as an argument against the custom of paying for the building out of public funds or subsidizing the performances to the full extent of their artistic value. It is in this way that the great artists of the Italian, French, Portuguese and Spanish stage have appeared in Latin America. The idea of government support to art would be the last which the people, even the working classes, would be willing to give up.

This is by no means a new principle in the public life of Latin America. Many of the municipal theaters or opera houses are old; in Asuncion, the capital of Paraguay, the dictator, Lopez, began as long ago as 1840 to construct a splendid theater, a replica of La Scala in Milan. Havana, once called the "Paris of America," has its national (Tacon) Theater, celebrated over two continents for the luxury of its appointments and the admirable completeness of its artistic presentations. Mexico has maintained a national theater for generations, and many cities there have official buildings devoted to the drama and opera, supported by the cities in which they are situated. Every republic in Central and South America can show similar institutions. Buenos Aires, Montevideo, Santiago, Lima, Rio de Janeiro, all on or near the coast, have been famous for their love of the arts of music and the drama, and they have manifested it in a practical way by inviting, as guests of the nation, the splendid companies from the classical theaters of Europe to repeat in their local opera houses the artistic triumphs of their European stage.

(Continued next week.)

ERNEST SHUTER, now head of Three Weeks, has just bought The Girl Behind the Counter from Lew Fields, and will send the piece out to the Coast in the fall with fifty people and the original production.

SCENERY

We make Special Designs for Special Scenery. Modern Construction. Diamond Dye Scenery painted right.

Write for Prices. Front and Sheridan Sts. Portland, Oregon

C. F. Weber & Co. Opera Chairs

All Styles of THEATRE AND HALL SEATS

365-7 Market Street San Francisco

210-212 N. Main St. Los Angeles

FRED O. OSBORNE, Manager Theatrical Code, "Santapole" Home Phone F 5037

New York Dramatic Agency

Booking Dramatic and Vaudeville Acts Organizing and Routing Companies, Supplying "Scripts," Etc. Belasco Theatre Building, Los Angeles Entire Third Floor

CHARLES E. ROYAL AND ELLIOTT EDYTHER

Presenting Charles E. Royal's wonderful Burglar Playlet, "STRAIGHTENING A CROOK," and six other excellent playlets. "Best sketch ever presented at the Empire."—Eureka Times. "Full enough of dramatic and comedy situations to warrant a four-act play."—Eureka Herald. Chas. Royal and Edythe Elliott are finished artists in every sense and present a wonderfully clever act."—Watsonville Pajaronian. "Working All the Time." "Featured Everywhere."

BERT LEVEY, AGENT.

Spotlights

Manager Aiston has just informed the DRAMATIC REVIEW that his attorney has effected a cash settlement out of court with J. Van Sant, who used Tennessee's Pardner at the Empire Theatre, Eureka, Cal., last year without first consulting the owner, Arthur C. Aiston, and that matter now is entirely cleared up. When Manager Aiston was in San Francisco last March he gave orders to have any piracy of any of his plays pushed to the limit and this is the first case which has come up since. Mr. Aiston has authorized this paper to warn all managers in the future not to touch his plays without the payment of the royalty or the arrangement with him in advance, as he will not again permit anyone using his property without his consent to go unpunished, not only in a financial way, but he intends to push the matter through the criminal courts as well.

One of the early Shubert attractions coming to the Coast, which will play in this city, will be Corinne in Mlle. Mischief. The original New York production and most of the old cast are promised. Mlle. Mischief is said to be one of the brightest of the Viennese operettas; so many of which theatre-goers are now seeing. It has a most coherent plot and the music is far removed from the average musical melange. The piece has been slightly altered to suit the requirements of Corinne, and as a result it is said that this most popular comedienne has one of the most pleasing plays of her long and interesting career.

The last performances of At the White Horse Tavern will take place at the Valencia Theatre this Sunday afternoon and evening, and on Monday night All the Comforts of Home will be accorded a lively revival. The Private Secretary, still another Gillette success, will follow All the Comforts of Home at the Valencia.

MINNIE MAYFIELD

Heavies and Characters
Late of Richard Jose Co. At Liberty. Care
Dramatic Review

HERMAN HELLER

Musical Director
Valencia Theatre Social engagements filled

DAN KELLY

Comedian
Care Dramatic Review

CLARENCE J. ELMER

Bishop Players, Ye Liberty Theatre
Oakland, Cal.

AUSTA PIERCE

Characters
At Liberty for Summer Stock.
1210 Cedar St., San Diego. Cal.

ALBERT ROWLAND

Late of Chas. Frohman and Chas.
Dillingham
With Richard J. Jose, Season 1909-10.

LAURA LUCILE HEIMLICH

Leads
Everett, Wash.

FRED S. CUTLER

Late Manager for Richard Jose
Advance or back At Liberty
Address care Dramatic Review

GEORGIE WOODTHORPE

Characters
Broadway Theatre, Oakland

STEVE I. SIMMONS

MAXWELL ALEXANDER

Columbia Scenic Studio Co.

Estimates on all Classes of Theatrical Work

Office, 117 Fell St., S. F.

George P. Webster

Stage Director

Ye Liberty Playhouse Stock, Oakland, Cal.

Evelyn Selbie-Virginia Thornton

Alternating Leads

Frawley Co., Alaska

Carlton Chase

Leading Man

Fischer's Theatre, San Francisco

Gerald Harcourt

Juveniles and Light Comedies

American Stock, San Francisco

Mr. & Mrs. Harry Bernard

Musical Comedy Producers

Live Managers Who Want LIVE Productions, Write Harry Bernard, Central Theatre, S. F.

Florence Oakley

Leading Woman

Ye Liberty Stock, Oakland

Paul McAllister

Leading Man

Valencia Theatre, S. F.

Louis Morrison

Belasco Stock Co.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Seibert & Lindley

Presenting the headline act, "HER OWN MOTHER," in vaudeville.

Florence Roberts

Starring for Summer, Alcazar Theatre, S. F.

Sidney B. Payne

Ed Redmond Stock, San Jose.

EDWARD B. LADA

General Music Director
for Belasco & Mayer

A. BURT WESNER

Alcazar Theatre, San Francisco

TEDDY WEBB

Comedian, San Francisco Opera Co.
Direction John Cort

HARRY J. LASK

Representative New York Clipper
N. E. Cor. Sansome and Pine Sts.

HARRY MARSHALL

Scenic Artist
At Liberty. 3748 Vermont Ave., Los Angeles

MINOR REED

Scenic Artist
At Liberty Address Dramatic Review

CARRIE CLARKE WARDE

Characters
Dick Ferris Stock, Minneapolis

GILMORE WALKER

Stage Manager
Valencia Theatre, San Francisco

EDDIE

Mitchell

Juveniles

CHESTER STEVENS

Heavies
Grand Opera House Stock, Los Angeles

MARY HARVEY BARBOUR

Leads (Versatile)
3d Ave. Theatre, Seattle

FREDERICK GILBERT

Burbank Stock, Los Angeles

ARTHUR SHEPPARD

Scenic Artist Care Dramatic Review

Howard Foster

Light Comedy and Characters
At Liberty
Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

IRENE OUTTRIM

Leads
Musical Comedy Co., Reno, Nevada

ROBERT LAWLER

Leading Man

SUSIE HOWARD

Engaged for Lyric Stock
Portland, Ore.

PIETRO SOSSO

Leading Man—Elleford Co.
Address, 179 De Long Ave., S. F.

FRED. C. CHARMAN

Juveniles and Light Comedy
General Delivery, Tucson, Arizona

WARDA HOWARD

Leads

Vancouver, B. C.

CHARLES MARRIOTT

Gardiner Stock Co. Victoria, B. C.

Walter H. Newman AND Bertha Foltz

Starring Jointly

High-Class Repertoire

Season 1909 and 1910

Darrell Standing

Lois Stock, Seattle

Budd Ross

Comedian

Princess Theatre, San Francisco

Alf. T. Layne Daisy D'Avra

Del Lawrence Stock, Victoria

Millar Bacon

Singing Light Comedian

James Post Co.

Edith Lyle

Ingenue — Valencia Stock

San Francisco

Al Hallett

Stage Director

Broadway Theatre, Oakland

Donald Bowles

Dramatic Director Geo. L. Baker's Attractions.

Address Bungalow Theatre, Portland, Oregon.

Loaned by Mr. Baker to direct Mr. James Neill's Company for him in St. Paul, Minn.

F. F. Munier

Characters

Broadway Theatre Stock, Oakland

Reginald Holmes

Characters

Edmund Gardiner Stock, Victoria

Priscilla Knowles

Leads

Bennett Jack

Characters

Broadway Theatre, Oakland

Neva West

Care Dramatic Review

Milton Stallard

Stage Director

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Permanent Address, 2110 Post Street

Johnny Williams, Jr.

"FRISCO"

"The Man in Front." Can Book or Wild Cat

Whit Brandon Ethel Tucker

Leading Man and Director

Leading Woman

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Louise Kent

In Vaudeville

Her Own Company

Pantages Circuit

Charles E. Gunn

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Thurlow White

American Theatre Stock Co.

Care Dramatic Review

George B. Baldwin, Jr.

Alcazar Stock, San Francisco

E. P. Foot

GENERAL MUSICAL DIRECTOR

Murray & Mack Co., Incorporated

Mason Opera House Bldg., Los Angeles.

Monroe Salisbury

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Mildred Fitzgerald

Song and Dance Soubrette

Experienced in character and musical comedy stock.

Sydney Ayres

Leading Man

Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, Cal.

Mina Crolus Gleason

At Liberty after June 12th.

In stock season or special engagements. Address this office.

James Austin Gleason—Webster Lucile

Light Comedy and Character

Juveniles and Comedy

At Liberty after June 12th. Address this office.

Idora Park Has Great Music

There will be two band directors at Idora Park, Oakland, this Sunday night. One will be Frederick Neil Innes, whose presence at the Oakland amusement resort has long since been made felt by the splendid music which he and his New York players are producing, and the other is Dr. H. J. Stewart, San Francisco's well known musician and club man. Dr. Stewart will conduct the Innes Band in the playing of two of his own compositions, Valse Lente and the Triumphant Entry of Montezuma. The waltz and march are from the music written by Dr. Stewart for Montezuma, a musical drama produced at the 1903 jinks of the Bohemian Club in the Russian River Grove. The arrangement was originally for the orchestra, but the beauty of the local composer's themes struck Innes so forcibly when he first heard them that he immediately obtained parts for his band. Dr. Stewart's numbers have been used on the Innes programs throughout the East and always effectively. When, in the course of programs, Innes set down the Montezuma numbers for this Sunday's concert at Idora, he invited Dr. Stewart to direct them. The invitation has been accepted and tomorrow evening the composer will conduct in place of the band's regular director. Many Bohemian Club parties have been formed to attend the concert and many admirers of the local composer will be present. The remainder of the band selection at both afternoon and evening concerts will be conducted by Innes. The programs will include St. Saens' symphonic poem, Phaeton, The Heavens Are Telling, from Haydn's Creation; the popular fantasy, Bonnie Scotland; the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin and scenes from Tannhauser. Virginia Listemann, soprano; Dr. H. J. Williams, harpist, and John Cambridge, cornetist, will be the soloists.

Serious Plays for Ethel Barrymore

In a London interview Charles Frohman announces his hope to present Maude Adams in Jeanne d'Arc in Berlin and Paris. He adds that there is to be an important change in Ethel Barrymore's career, and continues: "There is to be no more light work for Ethel Barrymore. Miss Barrymore is a woman. When I say that on the stage I do not speak of age, but of appearance and general mental characteristics and capacity. She is capable of strong emotion—strong dramatic work—and it is to be with that line that she is to be identified hereafter. Her work will not be halted by the sex question or any of the considerations which we have to bear in mind when casting ingenues. When a play of power comes along, she shall have it. Sir Arthur Pinero is in complete sympathy with my ideas of her abilities, and his next play will provide her with the kind of part I have in mind. Just how strong a part it is may be judged from the fact that George Alexander, who has the English rights, has withdrawn from the cast. From now on Miss Barrymore is to come under the head of emotional actress. And by that, understand me, I do not mean the type of person who plays a scene on a stage somewhere along Broadway, but who can be heard at the top of the Times building. The day of ranting emotion is over. Miss Barrymore, you may be sure, will not be that kind of an emotional actress."

Hammerstein Grand Opera for Coast

CHICAGO, July 23.—Real grand opera is assured for the Pacific Coast this season. Oscar Hammerstein, the impresario, tonight announced his plans, and said that he had pledged from eighty of the leading business men of Los Angeles. The plans as outlined at a conference held here today with committees from Los Angeles and Denver, include the erection of a $3,000,000 opera house in Chicago, making this city the base, or headquarters, for his western operations, giving a two weeks' season each at Los Angeles and Denver. A guarantee from the Los Angeles committee was given Mr. Hammerstein. "I have received a sufficient guarantee from Los Angeles and Denver," said Mr. Hammerstein just before boarding the train for New York tonight, "and I am confident that I shall receive the necessary public support in Chicago to place a permanent grand opera organization in the West. All the public-spirited men I have talked to are enthusiastic over the project." Max Rabinoff, chosen by Hammerstein as his western representative, said that the opera company headed by Mary Garden would appear here this season during October and probably will go to Los Angeles after the close here. "Mr. Hammerstein is terribly in earnest," said Joseph Basch of the Association of Commerce today after the talk. "Nothing definite was decided upon, except that Chicago will have three weeks of grand opera this fall. I think that if we follow out Mr. Hammerstein's idea and give opera a modern permanent home in Chicago it will be the greatest thing of the kind for the West. Mr. Hammerstein asks for nothing more than the moral support of the representative citizens. His talk with me was confined largely to the matter of the building, which is to house the company here, but also dwelt upon the prospects of introducing grand opera in the far West." Mr. Basch and other members of the Association of Commerce are expected to complete the preliminary details for the building project upon the return visit of Mr. Hammerstein next month. San Francisco does not seem to figure in this itinerary, but undoubtedly we shall be favored with two weeks.

Mrs. Sydney Drew Makes Playlets into Real Farces

Beatrice is to be done into a play. It is the Beatrice that Sydney Drew, toothlessly and lispingly, has amused so many patrons of vaudeville with for the past five years. The Shuberts, it is announced, are to bring out Billy, a farce, which is none other than that highly amusing vaudeville sketch, Billy's Tombstones. Mr. Drew and company have been playing this diverting little piece of nonsense for many moons—and on Broadway—but the sketch has been changed and

A Great Bargain in Scenery

SPEAK QUICK! WRITE NOW!!

$3,000 worth of Fine New Scenery will be sacrificed for . . . $600 . . .

::: Scenery :::

1 PALACE ARCH.

4 FANCY SETS.

1 KITCHEN.

1 LOG CABIN.

2 SET HOUSES.

1 ROCKY PASS.

1 STREET.

1 MEADOW.

1 LAKE AND WOOD.

1 HORIZON.

1 PALACE ARCH.

2 INTERIOR.

1 GARDEN.

1 TROPICAL.

3 LEG DROPS, TROPICAL.

SET ROCKS, RUNS, PARALLELS, ETC.

9 Drops

Apply to H. C., care Dramatic Review

will be introduced to another side of Broadway as a genuine play. Opening for a few days out of New York, Billy will have its metropolitan premiere at Daly's, August 2. The farce is in three acts, all of which show the deck of an ocean liner. The staging is said to be particularly handsome. To those familiar with the sketch—Billy's Tombstones—they will recall that the action took place in mid-ocean. Billy, the hero, is a college athlete who has done most daring things, but in the doing he loses a most important part of his anatomy. What this is is cleverly withheld, even to the finish of the third act, when, recovering the substitute for nature's own, Billy is enabled to sound, in all of its sweetness, the name of Beatrice. And, on this word, descends the curtain. George Cameron, who is Mrs. Drew, has done the dramatization. The cast will include Jone Marbury, Robert Malchein, Caroline Harris, Mrs. Stuart Robson, Bernice Golden, James Cooper, Joseph Daily, Spottiswood Aitken and others.

Personals

ERNEST GLENDINNING, for the past four years a member of the Alcazar company, has started for New York.

FRANCES CAMERON, of the New York Merry Widow company, who has been rusticated at Catalina Island, has succeeded Edith Wilbur as Sonia in The Merry Widow. Mabel Wilbur, who has sung the role with three different Merry Widow companies during the past fifty-two weeks, is glad to have a brief vacation before starting in on another strenuous season.

JOHN A. MASON, owner of the Mason opera house at Los Angeles, prominent capitalist and business man, died at his home at Santa Monica shortly before 8 o'clock on the morning of July 15 of diabetes. He had been gradually growing worse from the disease and his death was not unexpected by the members of his family, many of whom were at his bedside when he passed away.

LOTTA CRABTREE, who gave the Lotta Fountain to the city, was on Tuesday made $96,695 richer than she was last week. The money had belonged to her since 1892, but it has taken her seventeen years to get it. In 1902, Edwin Fretwell, a broker, bought for her 568 shares in the American Bank and Trust Company, which he later sold for her for $125,000, taking part in money and part in stock in the Western Pacific Land Company. These shares he had conveyed to himself, and promptly died. F. E. Pawyer, the administrator of his estate, was unable to give them to the rightful owner and when dividends were paid he kept them. The case went through the courts for years and Pawyer kept on collecting the dividends until he had $46,695. This he paid over today with $50,000, the value of the stock, the stock itself remaining as a part of the Fretwell estate.

I am Notified by my Attorney—Horace G. Platt

OF
Platt & Boyne
Crocker Bldg
San Francisco

That
J. Van Sant, of Eureka, California
Has Settled Our Suit For Piracy of Tennessee's Pardner
LET IT BE A LESSON TO ALL

Address
ARTHUR C. AISTON
Sole Owner
Room 304
1505 Broadway
N. Y. City
Tel. 941 Bryant

THE SAN FRANCISCO DRAMATIC REVIEW

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Published Continuously Since 1880. The Only Theatrical Publication in the Great West

Ten Cents a Copy—$4.00 a Year

San Francisco, Saturday, August 7, 1909

No. 24—Vol. XX—New Series

Huntress

Spotlights

Frederick V. Bowers, the comedian, singer and song writer, author of Because I Love You, and Always, will be seen in the Virginia drama Margaret Mayo comedy of college girl life, Commencement Days.

Max Figman will have three plays. This clever comedian will again be seen in The Man on the Box and The Substitute, as well as a big production of The Old Curiosity Shop.

Mr. Cort will place a permanent company in his new Cort Theater in Chicago. This theater will be completed about the first of October, and will be opened with The Kissing Girl, a new comedy opera, book by Stanislaus Stange, lyrics by Vincent Bryan and music by Harry Von Tilzer. Amelia Stone, Joseph Miron and Ethel Post are among the principals already engaged for this production.

Nazimova is now resting at her country place in Portchester, N. Y. Eugene Walter is at work on a drama for the Russian actress, the scenario of which will be delivered to the Shuberts by the middle of August. As previously announced, Madame Nazimova will open the new Shubert Theater in New York (which, by the way, is to be named after her) in January.

Forbes Robertson, through the medium of Jerome K. Jerome's drama, The Passing of the Third Floor Back, will give America, when he is starred this fall by the Shuberts, another type of a Celestial Visitant. The Servant in the House was the forerunner—at least in America—of the religious drama, which rather boldly introduced a character clearly intended to represent Christ, if not in person (although the resemblance was carried out), then in spirit. In The Passing of the Third Floor Back Mr. Jerome makes the central figure the Divine One of the Gospels, although he gives Him an intensely human side. Forbes Robertson's appearance, if we remember him rightly from The Light That Failed, could not be confused with that of the Divine Character, nor is there any attempt to even conjure up the slightest resemblance. Mr. Robertson is said to rely absolutely upon the fine art of his acting and the treatment of the theme by the author.

The Talk of New York, Cohan and Harris successful music play, will open the season at the Princess Theater, Toronto, early in August. This play will employ seventy-five people and Victor Moore will continue in the role of Kid Burns, a character made famous by this clever actor, who created this part. The play is one of comedy and human interest, with a good, strong, interesting love story running throughout, interspersed with Cohanesque music. The production will be on the usual lavish scale employed by Cohan and Harris.

The Shuberts announce an early production of The Persian Princess, with lyrics by Percy Greenbank and music by Sidney Jones, with additional music by Marie Horne. The comedy proved an immense success

... Last Call For Dinner ...

We have about 200 SUMMER SUITS in stock which we intend closing out at once.

We offer these suits at half price, to wit:

$20 Suits	$25 Suits	$30 Suits	$35 Suits	$40 Suits
$10.00	$12.50	$15.00	$17.50	$20.00

A Small Charge for Alterations if Necessary.

Chas. S. Rosener

57 POWELL STREET

San Francisco

Slightly Worn Wardrobe for Stage Purposes
Ladies' Handsome Evening Gowns and Opera Coats; good as new; in latest styles. Men's Full Dress and Tuxedo Suits. MRS. H. JACOBS, 1050 Golden Gate Avenue, Store Phone West 2185, Residence Phone Park 4298.

in England, and several of the more important members of the original cast may be seen on this side when the piece is brought out. The scenes are laid in Persia, as the name indicates. Love, of the Oriental type, causes most of the hilarity, as a result of what the authors give as this aphorism: "If a man says to a girl, 'I love you,' and says it nicely, it is about as much as she can expect."

Twice in two weeks with two companies is the record for Paid in Full in Asbury Park. Monday, July 19, the Wagenhals and Kemper company opened there in the Eugene Walter play, with the company headed for the Pacific Coast. The Casino was packed, summer visitors turning out in force. Realizing the drawing power of the play the management of the Casino arranged for two special performances Saturday, July 31, with the company that the following Monday reopens the Astor Theater in New York City with Paid in Full.

The final performance of Polly of the Circus will be given this Sunday night at the Van Ness Theater. Ida St. Leon has made a splendid personal impression in the title role. The attraction has done an unusually good business, as it is of a high order of merit.

The powerful drama, The Third Degree, from the pen of the author of The Lion and the Mouse, will be offered by Henry B. Harries at the Van Ness Theater in October. It is said to be even a greater triumph than the play dealing with the great financier and the girl who would wed his son.

On the Road Called Santa Fe

Words by E. C. Potter
Music by Chas. T. Atkinson

Dedicated to
Geo. F. Nicholson
Vice President A. T. & P. System

This is the cover of a new song that will interest you. Tear out this page, write your name and address across it and mail to me. I will send the song by return post. IT IS FREE. If you think of going East mention the fact and several interesting illustrated travel books will be included.

JAS. B. DUFFY, GENERAL AGENT, SANTA FE

673 Market Street, San Francisco

Van Ness Theatre Two Weeks Commencing Monday Aug. 9

MATINEE SATURDAY

The Wagenhals & Kemper Co.

Will Offer a Notable Production of Eugene Walter's
Play of Real Life

PAID IN FULL

Enthusiastically Applauded by
TWO MILLION FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND PERSONS
As the Most Popular Play of the American Stage

Oakland ..... August 23-24-25
San Jose ..... August 26
Stockton ..... August 27
Fresno ..... August 28
Los Angeles ..... August 30, week

Hotel St. James

Cor. Van Ness Ave. and Fulton St.
San Francisco, California

Headquarters for Agents and Managers

Half Block from Van Ness Theatre.
Friars meet at the St. James every Friday night.

F. P. SHANLEY, Manager, formerly of New York

Charles Frohman Is Truly the Napoleon of Producing Managers

NEW YORK, July 31.—Charles Frohman arrived last week on the Lusitania from England and the Continent. In a statement of his plans he said: "I have been abroad for seven months, and I am leaving again in November to look after productions I shall make in London, Paris, Vienna and Berlin. We will start work in New York next Monday with a great number of productions, which will be first given in this city, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia. The American plays that I have secured are by Augustus Thomas, Tarkington and Wilson, Paul Armstrong, George Ade, William Gillette, Winchell Smith, Paul M. Potter, Ramsey Morris, Rida Johnson Young, Thomas Buchanan, William Collier and George Hobart. The Empire Theater will open September 6 with John Drew in Jack Straw for two weeks. After that Mr. Drew will appear in a new play, which will be decided upon in a few days. Then comes Maude Adams in What Every Woman Knows, and special performances of Twelfth Night, with Miss Adams as Viola. Following Miss Adams there will be a brief engagement of Sir Charles Wyndham and Mary Moore, who in turn will give way to Miss Ethel Barrymore in the new play by Arthur Wing Pinero, entitled Mid-Channel. This piece receives its first production at the St. James Theater, London, in September. Miss Barrymore will leave England about September 1 to meet Mr. Pinero and will not begin her season until December. At the Lyceum Theater I shall begin August 26 with Arsene Lupin, a detective-thief play, which ran at the Athenee Theater in Paris for seven months and has again been revived for a run through the summer. I shall produce this play in London the same night I bring it out in New York and I hope also to make a special production of the play in Chicago. I shall follow the season of Arsene Lupin at the Lyceum Theater with a brief engagement of Marie Tempest in Penelope. Miss Tempest will play short engagements in the principal cities before returning to London, where she will again appear under my management. After Miss Tempest's engagement comes Miss Billie Burke in a new play. Miss Burke will remain at the Lyceum until she leaves for Paris, where she is to play in French with a French company. The play that she is to appear in will be written by Messrs. Caillavet and De Flers, and it is by their invitation that she is to appear in Paris. At the Criterion Theater I shall begin August 30 with The Flag Lieutenant, and if this play meets with the success that greeted it in London, I shall have a special company organized for a Chicago production. At the Garrick Theater Miss Hattie Williams will begin the season on August 23 in a new play called Detective Sparks, by Michael Morton, who is the co-author of My Wife and who adapted into English Resurrection. During the season at the Garrick Theater Francis Wilson will be seen in a play which he has written called The Bachelor's Boy. William Collier will appear at the same theater in his new play. After Collier finishes his next New York season he and his company will leave at once for London, where I shall present him in his different successes. During the season I shall produce at the Hudson Theater Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's drama, The Fires of Fate, which has just made a great success at the Lyric Theater in London. Sir Conan Doyle comes to America for the production. At the Gaiety Theater, New York, I shall produce Henry Bernstein's play, Israel, with a cast that will include Constance Collier, Holbrook Blinn and Edwin Arden. I shall follow Miss Anglin's season at the Savoy Theater with a new play by Pierre Wolfe, the French author. At the Knickerbocker Theater early in September I shall produce the musical play, The Dollar Princess, which will require over 100 people and which is now being played in every Continental city and will be produced at Daly's Theater, London, the same night I produce it here. Following the run of The Dollar Princess I shall produce the musical play which has scored so great a success at the Shaftesbury Theater in London, called The Arcadians. In London they predict that this musical play will enjoy as long a run there as The Merry Widow. I also have the present London Gaiety success, Our Miss Gibbs, which I shall produce at one of my theaters here very late in the season, as I hope to get Miss Gertie Millar to come over for her original part of Miss Gibbs. I have new plays by Henry Arthur Jones, Granville Barker, John Galsworthy, Bernard Shaw, a new comedy by J. M. Barrie, a comedy drama by Captain Robert Marshall, and a new comedy by Haddon Chambers. I have from Henry Bernstein, the author of The Thief, his new play, written for the Comedie Francaise in Paris, and he is also to write for me a play that I shall produce first in America. As this play will be given here before it is played in Paris, M. Bernstein will come to New York for the production. I have also the new five-act drama by Alexander Bisson, author of Madame X, which he produces early in the season in Paris; a new play by H. V. Esmond called The Tug of War; a comedy by Cosmo Hamilton called Plain Brown, and the English text of the German comedy Gretchen. I have the two plays which are to be given during the season at the Comedie Francaise, one by Pierre Wolfe and the other by Henri Lavedan, author of the German Lost Paradise, to be produced in Berlin in October. I have the new Leslie Stuart musical play. The morning I left London I concluded an arrangement with Bernard Shaw to produce in New York a season of Shaw plays, and for that purpose I have secured three of his plays and two one-act plays, among which are The Doctor's Dilemma, Getting Married and Major Barbara.

The Elleford Company

For 1908-09 — All Royalty Plays
PALS, by Edmund Day
ALL DUE TO DIANA,
DOBS
FROM FARM TO FACTORY
A WOMAN'S SECRET
UNDER THE GASLIGHT,
DE. BILL
THE OTHER FELLOW
THE NEW CINDERELLA
 And Several Others.

Pacific Coast Representative for Brady and Giesmer's
MAN OF THE HOUR and WAY DOWN EAST
 Managers, please note that I control exclusive Coast rights to these plays.

W. J. ELLEFORD, Sole Proprietor and Director
FRANK WYMAN, Manager
 Permanent Address, Francis-Valentine Co., 285-287 13th St., S. F.
WILLIS BASS, Business Manager

HOME OFFICE
 BURBANK THEATRE BUILDING
 LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Oliver Morosco's Plays

Ready for Stock

The Judge and the Jury The Halfbreed
 The Empress and the Soldier
 In South Car'l'ney

Is the New Majestic a winner? Well, we guess yes

MOROSCO'S
BURBANK THEATRE
 Los Angeles, Cal.
 "The Best in the West"
 The Leading Stock House.

Hamburger's MAJESTIC Theatre
 The Handsomest in the West
 Cost $300,000.00
 Oliver Morosco, Lessee & Mgr.
 For time address, JOHN CORT

The
Garrick Theatre
 San Diego, Cal.

MOROSCO & WYATT,
 Lessees and Mgrs.

I shall start my Repertoire Theater in London next winter and, if successful, shall follow the same plan here in New York the next season. During the coming season I shall have more theaters in London and more English stars and actors under my direction than any other English manager. At my Globe Theater in London, during the London season, June, July and August, when the American season is over, I will give American actors an opportunity of playing their pieces at matinees, supported by my own companies and bringing over the American productions. In this way they will be given an opportunity of appearing before a London audience without interfering with their American season. Should their work and plays prove successful, it can be easily arranged for them to extend their time in London and appear in the evening bill. In this way the risk is limited in the event of the trial performances not meeting with approval. The English stars under my direction include Arthur Bourchier, Marie Tempest, Lena Ashwell, Irene Vanbrugh, Ellaline Terriss, Gerald du Maurier, Robert Loraine, Hilda Trevelyan, Pauline Chase and Marie Lohr. My tours now cover the principal continental cities, making it possible for me to play attractions all the year round. An important plan that I have in view in connection with my theatrical work in America is to establish a set of theaters, one in each of five or six of the principal cities, that will be entirely separate from the regular theaters of these cities. As I have stated, I want in each city a Repertoire Theater, each theater to have its own company, and on special occasions, after the leading stars have played their own pieces in these various cities, then they are to appear in the different Repertoire Theaters in either an old or a new play for a few performances. I wish to produce special plays in these houses—and by special plays I don't mean plays with a freak character, which are so often called artistic or literary plays."

NEW AUDITORIUM

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CAL.

Seating capacity, 1,000, new stage, new scenery; stage thirty feet deep, sixty feet wide; large enough for any production; a population of 5,000 to draw from; now booking for 1909-10.
 Address WALTER A. CLARK, Mountain View, Cal.

New Oxnard Opera House

OXNARD, CAL.
 Factory Town and Wealthy Country
 Five Thousand Population
 New House and Doing Big Business
 Write for Open Dates
 GEO. P. AUSTIN . . . . . Manager

GONZALES OPERA HOUSE

GONZALES, CAL.
 New, well appointed theatre, electric lighted.
 Full stock of new scenery.
 C. H. WIDEMAN, Mgr.

WOODLAND Opera House

WOODLAND, CAL.
 Greatest show town for good shows in the West. A few good dates open in September and October. Stage big enough for any production. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

Hill Opera House

PETALUMA, CAL.
 JOHN R. ROCHE, Lessee and Manager
 The finest theatrical town outside of the big cities in the West. Magnificent new theatre, with stage large enough for any attraction, playing regularly from $500 to $700 a night. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.
 287 Thirteenth St., S. F.

BARCROFT Opera House, Merced

Entirely remodeled. New stage, big enough for any production. Stage equipped with new scenery. Merced has 4,000 population. For time write F. R. BARCROFT, Manager.

Santa Cruz OPERA HOUSE

Santa Cruz, Cal.
 L. A. KNIGHT, Manager
 Rental or will play first-class companies on percentage

GORDAN TAILORING CO.

928 Market St., Bet. Powell and Mason
 FINE CLOTHES MODERATE PRICES
 No Branch Stores

TheatreChairs For Sale

About 700 good Theatre Chair; 50 Large Loge Seat Chairs; Sheet Iron Moving Picture Operating Box, the best and largest one in this city; scenery, etc.; will sell at a bargain; delivery about Sept. 15. Address Room 5, 629½ S. Broadway, Los Angeles.

WIGS ALL MAKES, GREASE PAINTS, POWDERS, ROUGE
 Largest Line on Pacific Coast. MAKE-UP BOXES, PLAY BOOKS
Parent's Stationery Co. 818 Van Ness Avenue, S.F.

Wilson Mizner's Play Seems to Have Won

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A play dealing with life in the tenderloin district of New York, collaborated by Wilson Mizner and George Bronson Howard, entitled The Only Law, was given its initial presentation at the Hackett Theater tonight and was well received by the critics.

The Herald says: Mizner and Howard succeeded in embroidering this plain story with so much language of the tenderloin that a large audience laughed and applauded the play from its beginning to its end. The play moved briskly enough to keep the audience busy. Each of the seven characters, barring, perhaps, a police detective who seemed to have come from the pages of Old Sleuth rather than from Mulberry Street, was so lifelike that even when the action of the play became impeded with talk, the talk itself was so characteristic of a certain phase of life in New York that it was welcomed. Miss Mabel Cameron and Miss Mabel Frenyear were Casino girls of the type whose lives are not bounded by their salaries. Forrest Winant was the Broadway lounge, whose chief asset was the fact that a woman loved him, and George S. Christie was the broker who not only gave Jean a check for $1,000, but his heart and hand. Ben Johnson, as a wire tapper of the philosophical school, was the medium through whom the authors communicated most of their wit and worldly wisdom.

The Sun says: The cast was an efficient one and struggled hard to make the play convincing. But an indulgent audience laughed heartily at the tenderloin slang and seemed interested all the way through.

American: It was an agreeable surprise.

World: The Only Law is a dim shadow of The Easiest Way, but lacks its logic. It is a depressing story of depravity and points no moral. There is a good cast and the piece is well staged.

Questionable Statistics

The merry editor of Puck says: "A statistician estimates that 2,500,000 Americans have seen The Merry Widow, at an outlay of $2,694,000. Subscribers with a taste for these things will be interested in learning further that 48,632 hurdy-gurdys playing the Merry Widow waltz has caused 532,673 plain and 4,896,577 fancy curses; that 66,327 literary persons have written 1,437,650 Merry Widow paragraphs, and that 10,783,962 men have had their noses skinned by Merry Widow hats. This is positively final." Thanks!

Cad, the Tomboy, Wins Suit

PARIS, July 31.—After ten years of legal warfare on three continents, Carrie Swain Wisler has won her first victory against Frank Gardner, the well-known racing man and financier, in her Paris suit for an accounting of the partnership and immediate payment of $40,000 as the first installment. The suit was based on a theatrical partnership, which the parties contracted before leaving California for Australia, at which time, it is alleged the plaintiff possessed $6,000, while the defendant was penniless. Mrs. Wisler claims that all of Gardner's fortune was made with her $6,000 and through her active collaboration. Therefore she claims half of his property. (This was when Mrs. Swain played Cad, the Tomboy, at the old Alcazar, before Fred Belasco took it.) The French court took her view and ordered Gardner to account for the profits arising from the partnership within two months. If Gardner fails to comply he will be penalized $40 daily.

Shuberts Get Dockstader

Lew Dockstader, the minstrel man, will appear under the management of James H. Decker for a term of years as the result of an arrangement made yesterday and will play exclusively in Shubert theaters in New York and throughout the country.

Elleford Company Play to Capacity in Reno

Frank Wyman, writing from Reno, under date of July 29, says the business of the Elleford company there is capacity, notwithstanding very hot weather.

Spotlights

Two of Booth Tarkington's great plays, Cameo Kirby and The Man From Home, are to be seen here during the season. Cameo Kirby, which

CHAS. F. THOMPSON SCENIC CO.

MAIN OFFICE AND STUDIOS, 460, 462, 464 WITMER STREET, LOS ANGELES

THE FINEST, LARGEST AND MOST MODERN SCENIC STUDIOS IN THE WORLD. SCENERY FOR OPERA HOUSES AND PRODUCTIONS. DROP CURTAINS AND SCENIC ADVERTISING DROP CURTAINS OUR SPECIALTY. IN USE IN 1268 THEATRES IN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA. WHY NOT YOURS?

LEVY'S BIG TRUNK STORE

INCORPORATED

COAST AGENTS
FOR THE

Taylor Trunks

687 Market St., S. F. opp. Kearny Phone Douglas 3192

Dustin Farnum will present at the Van Ness Theater following Paid in Full, shows the popular star in the role of a Mississippi River gambler of the sort that operated on that waterway of commerce in the early thirties. In the happy working out of the unexpected difficulties with which he is beset in upholding the "honor" of his craft he will have many scenes of unusual brightness as well as intense emotional moments.

Blanche Bates and her company have started West and will appear at the Van Ness Theater next month in the brilliant dramatic achievement, The Fighting Hope. Miss Bates comes here under the direction of David Belasco and the production will therefore be of that high standard for which the celebrated manager has become noted.

John Cort, the Western theatrical magnate, will have three road attractions the coming season, not the least important of which will be a magnificent revival of the Pixley and Luders comedy opera, King Dodo, with Elea-

$50.00 Reward

I Will Pay Fifty Dollars Reward for the Arrest of

WALT M. LESLIE

Wanted here by the police on a charge of forgery. The gentleman took all the money he could get his hands on, mortgaged his advertising plant several times, embezzled $450.00 and left giving me a worthless check in Oakland. Left here with tickets for Portland, and may be in Seattle or Portland.

E. P. FOOTE

Mason Opera House Block,
Los Angeles.

nor Kent in the role of Piola and William Friend as the King.

Novelty Theatre, San Francisco TO RENT

By the day, week or month. Fine, comfortable theatre, seating 1,200 people. Large stage.
SPECIALLY ADAPTED TO POLITICAL MEETINGS

LOW RATES TO Alaska-Yukon-Pacific ...Exposition...

FOR ROUND TRIP TICKETS

FROM		FROM
San Francisco .....	$32.50	Suisun .....	$32.50
Sacramento .....	32.50	Davis .....	32.50
Lathrop .....	32.50	Napa .....	32.75
Stockton .....	32.50	Santa Rosa .....	33.60
Tracy .....	32.50	Calistoga .....	33.95

Greatly reduced rates from other points in California. Tickets sold daily May 25 to Sept. 30, and cover two months' trip going and coming via the famous

Shasta Route of the Southern Pacific

Stopovers going and coming.
Many other routes at slightly higher rates for you to select from.
Write or call on our nearest agent for full details of service, etc., or address

DEPT. ADV., 948 FLOOD BUILDING, FOR INFORMATION

A. Byron Beasley is Due in Los Angeles for Leads at the Burbank after Pleasant Vacation

LOS ANGELES, August 5.—Things theatrically are not so dull here as one might expect. To be sure, two of the houses are dark, but we have Grand Opera at the Mason and big plays on at both the Belasco and the Burbank. Marie Nelson, the Alice of A Runaway Girl, at the Majestic, has decided to remain in Los Angeles for an extended vacation. Miss Nelson has rented a house and bought a horse and is devoting all her spare time to long rides. A. Byron Beasley will return to the Burbank stock company August 15 in Jack Straw, the Somerset Maugham play, in which John Drew recently appeared at the Mason. The Climax, a pretty little play of music and comedy, will have its first Western presentation at the Mason Opera House on the evening of August 16. The Climax is a Joe Weber production, and the Western company will be rehearsed and will start here. Names of the people who will be sent to prepare the play for its Western tour have not yet been announced. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ginn, last year of the Burbank stock company and more recently with William Gillette, in Samson, have purchased a home at Atlantic City and intend spending their summers there. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ginn will have parts in Gillett's repertoire when he goes on tour the coming season for a series of farewell engagements in his old plays. Robert Leonard of the Grand Opera House company, is at the Belasco this week playing the role of Zack Biggs in The Warrens of Virginia. In a recent interview in the New York Sun Walter Hoff Seeley stated that he is now in partnership with William Morris, and that twenty-five theaters have been acquired in the West for the Morris vaudeville circuit. Seeley says that Los Angeles is included. The Walker Theater has been mentioned as a possible Morris playhouse for the present at least. Howard Scott is taking a two-months' vacation. The latter part of the week Mr. Scott will leave for a tour of the principal cities of the country and will rejoin the Belasco company the first week in October. Sullivan and Considine are negotiating to present musical comedy at the People's Theater beginning September 1. Mace Greenleaf has rejoined the Burbank company, having been engaged to play a series of important roles. He will make his first appearance a week from next Sunday. Oliver Morosco and Joseph Montrose have gone for their annual hunting trip. They expect to be away two weeks. Kolb and Dill will return to the Majestic for a limited engagement, opening September 5, and will present here for the first time on any stage the new comedies Kolb secured in New York while on his recent trip East. W. H. Van Buren is a member of the stock company which has been playing The Awakening in Washington, D. C., and which removed to Schenectady, N. Y., July 12, to open a new opera house.

BELASCO—The Warrens of Virginia, the war play by Cecil De

Mille, is the attraction at the Belasco this week. The present production is most successful, and it would be hard to imagine any company that could handle this difficult play any better than the local company. In spots the play is talky and the action drags, but for this the company is not to blame. Miss Holmes is an ideal southern girl, sweet, lovable and appealing. Mr. Bennett does very good work in the thankless role of Lieutenant Burton. The most difficult scenes were finely done by Mr. Bennett. The General Warren of Mr. Hartford is one of the best things in the performance. Mr. Lewis as General Griffen is also good. Miss Adele Harrington as Sophia, the old darkey mammy, is a fine characterization. Good work is done by Miss Lewis as Ruth Warren, Mr. Vivian as Arthur, Mr. Ruggles as Tom Dabney, Miss Noyes as the child Betty. The play is well staged and there is plenty of Southern atmosphere throughout.

BURBANK—Another new play is being produced by Mr. Morosco's company at the Burbank Theater this week. It is Linton Tedford's play, The Greater Claim. This play must be seen to be appreciated, for it is a fine play and is most excellently handled by the producing company. The principal characters of the piece are Rev. Cuyler Armstrong, rector of St. Luke's Church in a Western city; Col. Jasper J. Stone, prominent church member and political boss, and Dorothy Fitzgerald, a music-hall actress. The first scene is played entirely by men, and is in the "Divinity Club" of St. Luke's, where the men of the church indulge in social pastime. The second act is the supper scene and the third and fourth are in the pastor's study. The first act is pleasing as well as novel, and the last two are strong and appealing; the scene of the supper is the one weak spot in the play. Mr. Desmond does excellent work as the rector and Hobart Bosworth, in the role of Stone, is pleasing. Miss Hall entirely fills the requirements of her role of the music-hall actress. Harry Mestayer, Henry Stockbridge and Margo Duffet all have good parts, which they play well. Evelyn Foshia does a clever bit of dancing in the second act. The production is a splendid one, the staging fine, and a long run of the play is looked for.

MASON—Once more we have a season of Grand Opera at the Mason Opera House. This time it is for two weeks and the company is the International Opera Company. This is the best aggregation of singers that it has been our pleasure to hear on a local stage in a long time. Each one is good without any one being markedly better than the other. Much credit is due to the able director, Merola. A detailed account of each opera is impossible here, but it is safe to say that the house will be sold out at every performance, because local music lovers appreciate good work and there is plenty of that in these performances. The operas for the first week include, Aida, Lucia, Faust, Carmen, Il Travatore, Cavalleria Rusticana, I'Pagliacci, and Rigoletto.

GRAND—Dion Bouicault's famous play, The Octoroon, is the offering of the company at the Grand for the current week. This is an old and familiar play, but it has lost none of its attractiveness and continues to please vast crowds at the Grand Opera House. George Webb is seen in the part of George Payton; Harry Earl plays Jacob McCloskey; Franklyn Hall is Salem Scudder; Grace Rauworth has the title part; Zora Bates plays Dora; Alice Lewis is cast as Paul, and Jack McDonald is Wahnotee. The piece is well put on by the company at the Grand and the work of individual members of the company is deserving of praise.

ORPHEUM—The bill for the week at the Orpheum has several good numbers and some that are not so good. The Athletas Sisters did not appear on the program the first of the week on account of the illness of one of the girls. The young lady has sufficiently recovered to make her appearance and this act is the feature of the bill. They are three very clever athletes who do many astonishing stunts. They juggle huge dumbbells and carry two or three men around the stage with apparent ease. Their act is clever and entertaining. George Hillman presents a schoolroom musical skit that is called Redpath Napanees. The act has little to recommend it. Harry Armstrong and Billy Clark do a musical absurdity that is good. Herr Londe and Fraulein Tilly have a ladder performance and some gymnastic stunts. Laddie Cliff adds some new monologue and a kilt dance to his act of last week. He continues to be the hit of the bill. The rest of the holdovers include Max Witt's Singing Colleens, the Eight Madcaps and the Young Brothers in their hoop rolling stunt. New moving pictures are also shown.

LOS ANGELES—The new bill at the Los Angeles for the week is full of good, clean fun, and is a very entertaining performance. Pearson and Joell have improved their skit and have added new turns to the dialogue. The result is very pleasing. The Ramsey Sisters do some good musical work on the bells and tubes and also have a good line of comedy. Seymour and Hill dance and somersault in a clever manner. Slater Brockman, in a lightning-change act, does some good singing. The concluding number on the bill is the Buch Brothers, who are acrobatic stars.

FISCHER'S—The attraction at Fischer's is The Jolly Widow, a burlesque on The Merry Widow. Allen Curtis, Arthur Clamage and Charles Figg furnish the comedy. Jean Hathaway leads the chorus of eight girls in a travesty on the famous waltz. The best musical number is Just Some One, sung by Mr. Figg and Miss Estelle Prager. Miss Mayme Prager, in a dainty make-up, sings I Remember You. Other musical numbers are The Anvil Chorus and Goo Goo Man.

UNIQUE—Kelly and Violette appear for the second week at the Unique. The songs introduced are well selected, and particularly good is The Rosary, sung by Mr. Kelly.

Steele and McMasters, who have been engaged to replace the Mar velos, present a fancy trick skating act. Will Carlton's Maid of Dundee is the offering of the Unique players. James Kelly is an Irish detective; Al Franks a German tourist, and Miss Massey a spinster aunt. Denton Vane, Herbert Cramer, Miss May Parker and Miss Hazel Salmon all have good parts. The songs interpolated are catchy and well rendered. An illustrated song and motion pictures complete the program.

WALKER—The films of the Ketchel-Papke fight are being exhibited. FLORENCE EMERY.

SANTA CRUZ, Aug. 4.—The opening performance of Elinor Glyn's sensational drama, Three Weeks, by the Lorraine Buchanan Company at the Swain Theatre, July 25th, was witnessed by an audience which taxed the capacity of the theatre to its utmost. A splendid rendering of the play was given by Miss Buchanan and company. Miss Buchanan adds to an attractive personality a fine dramatic interpretation of the many-sided, temperamental queen. Mr. Russell gave an effective rendering of Paul Vardayne and pleased the audience with a baritone solo in the first act. Paul Harvey as Dimitry was impressive and finished in his playing. Erba Robeson created a great deal of comedy in a character role, and Merle Stanton was breezy as a young Englishwoman. Harold Holland, in the character of the disolute king, did some clever acting. An interpolated singing specialty by Mr. Stuart was one of the pleasing features of the evening. This week, the company is presenting Dora Thorne with splendid business. Y.

Spotlights

The Terry McKean Company is playing at San Mateo this week to good business.

Al Thomson is reorganizing the Majestic Theatre company and plans to take out a Range show, with a full band and orchestra.

Mrs. Kate Mason, widow of John A. Mason, owner of the Mason Opera House, Los Angeles, who died at his Ocean Park residence July 15, receives the estate, which is valued at $400,000, and she is to pay Mrs. Guadalupe Mason, her late husband's mother, one-half of the net income. The widow is the sole executrix. The will was drawn October 10, 1907, when Mr. Mason was 29 years old. The principal item in the list of real estate is the theatre building, which is conservatively valued at $350,000. There are five lots in the Mason tract and about $7,000 or $8,000 in cash and securities.

WITH THE disbanding of the Valencia stock tomorrow night, there will be a general disbursement of the players. Paul McAllister will stay here a few weeks, as he is in love with the town; Charley Clarke will go to New York, as will Bob Homans; Edith Lyle will remain to get acquainted with her folks after a long absence; Lillian Andrews will take a long rest; George Osbourne wants to go into vaudeville; Grace Travers moves her make-up box over to the Alcazar, and Karra Kenwyn will make a leisurely trip eastward, via the Seattle Fair; Peggy Monroe will probably join a road show, and Gilmore Walker has a chance at a couple of stock shows.

Correspondence

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Manager Henry W. Savage's sudden decision to bring The Gay Hussars into the Knickerbocker Thursday night started the theatrical ball rolling several days earlier than any one had expected. Furthermore, it robbed Billy at Daly's and The Only Law of dividing the distinction of being the first production of the new season. Both these other new plays were to have made their metropolitan debut tomorrow night. Evidently Manager Savage determined to take no chances this season in letting any other producer get ahead of him. In addition to the company which is presenting The Gay Hussars here, another company is now hard at work rehearsing the same musical play for an early production in Boston. The Gay Hussars is at present the reigning light opera success of Europe. In Vienna, Berlin and Hungary its premieres were marked by great enthusiasm, and it is still playing to crowded houses in those cities. The leading female role is the widowed Baroness Risa. As in The Merry Widow, this widow has wealth and owns a castle, but unlike Sonia, who was jilted by Prince Danilo, Risa has jilted her old sweetheart and the romance of the opera tells how she endeavors to win back her hero. Widows, whether grass or sod, have always been popular and fascinating. Col. Savage fell for the widow several years ago and started in at once to establish her in stage literature. First came the dashing widow in The Prince of Pilsen. She was supplanted by the buxom Spanish widow of The Yankee Consul. Then came the charming College Widow, the best female role George Ade ever sketched, giving way in turn to the Newark widow of The Yankee Tourist. Even Madam Butterfly was a sort of widow that the Colonel could not resist, while the widow Sonia of The Merry Widow surpassed in seductive charm every stage widow Savage ever met. By this time widows had become a habit with him, and he turned to Portia Perkins in Mary Jane's Pa, a widow in name only. Next came Olga in The Devil, not yet a widow but a woman who did her best to become a widow. Lastly we have The Gay Hussars, with Baroness Risa another widow. * * * A Fool There Was, Porter Emerson Browne's play, produced at the Liberty Theater last spring with Robert Hilliard in the star role, will be staged in London soon under the management of Herbert Sleath. Mr. Sleath has cast himself for the role of Tom, which was played by William Courtleigh here, and Miss Ellis Jeffries will appear as The Wife. Mr. Hilliard will continue in the American production. * * * The new musical production, in which Sam Bernard will star under the management of the Shuberts, will be entitled The Wizard. The book is by Hartley Manners, the lyrics by Robert B. Smith, and the music by Julian Edwards. * * * The cast of Springtime, the new play by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, which Frederic Thompson will produce, has been completed with the engagement of William B. Mack. The other members of the company besides the woman star, as yet unnamed, are Sam Forrest, Joseph Brennan, Earle Browne, Edwin Holland, William Harrigan, Lillian Reed, Lucille Mravliakj and Nellie Lindroth. Springtime will open in Washington in October and will be presented on Broadway the first week in November. * * * While nearly all the other actors and actresses have been passing their vacations here or in Europe, Miss Marie Doro has been at work playing steadily in The Morals of Marcus. Now Charles Frohman has decided to bring her ten months' tour to an end the week of August 9, and has arranged that the farewell week shall be played at the Lyceum Theater. Those performances will be her farewell to the role of Carlotta. In December she will appear in New York in a new play, and in the spring she will give special performances at Mr. Frohman's London theater. * * * Dallas Welford, an English comedian, whose amusing performance in Mr. Hopkinson is well remembered, appeared at Court Square Theater in Springfield, Mass., last week in a new English farce by Ralph Lumley, entitled I Love My Wife. The play had a long run in London, but the Springfield performance was the first in America. Mr. Welford was supported by the Cook stock players, the farce being played by arrangement with Joseph M. Gaites. The large audience was in excellent humor when Mr. Welford was on the stage, and his personality as well as the play scored. Miss Clara Blandick headed the support. * * * For The Sins of Society, which Brooks & Dingwall will produce at the New York Theater August 31, this is the list of principals: Misses Laura Nelson Hall, Louise Closser Hale, Louise Rutter, Lucy Sibley, Florence Edney, Mary Crosse, Rosalie de Vaux, Grace Thorne; Messrs. Conway Tearle, William L. Abingdon, Leslie Kenyon, Oscar Adye, Reginald Barlow, Charles Lawrence, Charles Rowan, Clifford Whipple, Del Pascatel, Charles Flemming and William Evile. * * * Rudyard Kipling's verbal description of the vampire and Burne-Jones' representation of the same feminine type had a terpsichorean interpretation yesterday in Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theater. Bert French and Miss Alice Eis acting as the interpreters. It was a striking pantomime, but it suggested strongly the same emotions which they had portrayed just before it in an Apache dance. * * * Gertrude Hoffman (whom Florence Roberts started out to become a good dramatic actress) got herself arrested last week for giving a Salome dance at Hammerstein's, with the usual result that the judge before whom the case was tried ordered her to wear longer tights. Result good ad., and more persons disappointed because they couldn't understand why anybody should go a second time in expecting to be shocked. ROB ROY.

NEW ORLEANS, July 27.—The return of Lottie Kendall to the cast of the Olympia Opera company, after a three weeks' illness, was signaled by a welcome that must have been extremely gratifying to this popular artist. Nor were there any evidences of her past indisposition, for she never looked prettier or more sprightly than as Julia Bon Bon in The Girl From Paris. The allurements of the role would indicate that this production was especially put on to celebrate her return. It gave her the scope for the display of her best talents, and from her ease and grace I take it that the role is exceedingly congenial. Much honor is also due Robert Lett, who, as Ebenezer Honeycomb, the pious old fraud, was a host in himself. Aside from this there is nothing in The Girl From Paris to excite a brainstorm. The lines are fairly clever, but the music is of the poorest. Clara Farme sings sweetly and daintily. Don Young was only fair, perhaps because he was expected to sing. Albert Wallerstadt, as the Major, was satisfactory, although at times too boisterous. The chorus was good and showed its usual intelligent training. Next week, The Circus Prince. W. L. McCONNELL.

OAKLAND, Aug. 3.—Considerable sentiment is attached to this week's production at Ye Liberty, as it was not only written by an Oakland author, but the first time that it was ever presented was by Bishop's players at Ye Liberty. This was about four years ago, and the play was then known as Juanita of San Juan. The author, Richard Walton Tully, took the play East and had it entirely revised by David Belasco, who gave it an elaborate production under the title of The Rose of the Rancho. This week's offering is admirably presented by our well-known stock company and the elaborate stage settings and scenic effects are entirely in keeping with the rest of the magnificent production. As Kearney of the Government service, Sidney Ayres had the leading role and gave another fine portrayal. His work is extremely satisfactory in every detail and his fine talents are shown to great advantage in every performance. Henry Shumer looked and acted the big, fat, kind Padre. George Friend made a handsome looking Lieutenant and in the role of Kincaid, the land jumper, Walter Whipple showed great cleverness. As Juanita, The Rose, Florence Oakley's genial personality showed to advantage. Mina Gleason, who is once again a member of Bishop's players, executed some fine character work as Senora Castro. As Senora Kenton, Laura Hudson was also good. The play is presented in a manner most praiseworthy and reflects great credit on George Webster, Bishop's efficient stage director. The piece is doing an immense business and will continue for the balance of the week, when it will give way to The Spoilers, which is to be used two weeks. The Macdonough has been dark for a few days, but will shortly reopen with last season's big success, Paid in Full. At The Broadway things are in a decidedly flourishing state, and large audiences nightly gather at the theatre. They are offering this week a breezy Western drama, entitled An Old Sweetheart of Mine. Claire Sinclair, Georgie Cooper, Al Hallett, Fred Munier, Charles Place, Al McQuarrie, Landers Stevens and Georgie Woodthorpe do excellent work. At the Orpheum the English comedienne, Lily Lena, is making an immense hit and is easily the best of a good bill. The attendance is fine at every performance and the popularity of high class vaudeville shows no diminishing whatever. The balance of the program comprises Selma Braatz, Helena Frederick, Julius Tannen, Charlotte Parry, The Electrified Girl Review, the Three Leightons, and the Three Donals. Idora is getting a good share of patronage and is still favoring its patrons with some decidedly good music by the Innes Orchestra. In addition to this the Four Bards and the Ten Ortons execute some clever acrobatic stunts. Frank Graham, who for the past few years has acted in the capacity of treasurer of the Liberty and also had full charge of the box office, has severed his connection with the house and has embarked in a different line of commercialism. James Gleason left for New York, 3d, where he is to be featured in Checkers. Priscilla Knowles, late leading woman of the Broadway, left Thursday for Portland. Manager Bishop has secured The Lion and the Mouse for an early production at the Liberty. Maurice Stewart has been especially engaged to play the American correspondent in Michael Strogoff, next week's show at the Broadway.

Harry Bishop, who has about recovered from his recent nervous attack, returns to Oakland and his theatre today. The clever stage management of George Webster at Ye Liberty has become town talk. His direction of The Squaw Man was a great accomplishment, and this week The Rose of the Rancho is another proof of his quality. LOUIS SCHEELINE.

MONTEREY, Aug. 4.—The International Grand Opera Co. gave a fine production of Verdi's La Traviata at the T. A. Work Theatre, Friday, July 30th, to a large and appreciative audience. On account of the scarcity of road shows, the Work Theatre has been rented to F. J. Chapman (manager of the Opera House at Watsonville) for the month of August for advanced vaudeville, and opened Monday, August 2d, to a full house and is making good with "Ross & Shaw," Misses Dale and Leonia, and motion pictures. The Star Theatre and the Victory have both changed from straight moving pictures to vaudeville. The Star Theatre has Kelly and Kelly, Fred Lancaster, Maude Hanna and motion pictures. The Victory Theatre: Printy Sisters, Geo. Stanly and motion pictures. All three of the houses are doing excellent business, which goes to show that Monterey is one of the best show towns in the State. Pacific Grove is flourishing with three picture shows, two of them five-cent houses, all of them playing to packed houses. T. H. S.

Menzel's Dramatic Agency

Moved to 915 Van Ness Avenue, Third Floor
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers Wanting Reliable People in Dramatic Lines, Write.

Honest Dealing. No Misrepresentation

NOTICE—We invite people in all lines of the theatrical profession that wish first-class engagements to call or write.

WM. MENZEL, Manager

Correspondence

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 2.—Only the vaudeville houses have been running the past week or so, and it looks like that season of the year is upon us when there is a scarcity of other attractions. The Bungalow has been dark for the past week and a half, and the attraction supposed to be there tonight, Murray and Mack, I understand, has fallen by the wayside. Any way they are not coming, for which no doubt we ought to be thankful. Polly of the Circus comes next week. Manager James H. Errickson is a mass of smiles the past several weeks, caused by the big business done at his house, The Orpheum. And he is deserving of all he gets, because the shows are good in every respect. Last week Eleanor Gordon and company in the playlet, Tips on Tap, was the headline act and it was well received, although The La Petite Revue carried off the honors. The latter deals with scenes from comic operas, and during the production several first-class impersonations are presented of dramatic stars. The Kemps proved to be about the best of the colored actors we have had, and Martini and Maximilian, and the Five Avolos were acts way above the average. This week's bill is as follows: Curzon Sisters; Avedona Quartette; Mack and Walker; Frank Mostyn Kelly; Cooper and Robinson; J. Rubens, and Grace Armond. At the Grand, Manager Frank Coffinberry offers the following acts for this week: Charles Mack and company are the feature act, and the other acts offered are: Ernesto Sisters; Cogan and Brancroft; Scott and Davis; Harry Taylor, and Fred Bauer. Pantages, under the management of John Johnson, has Klein, Ott Brothers and Nicholson for their headline act; also the following acts: Lee Beggs and company; Sampson and Douglas; La Milas and Oreo; Three Olivers; Charles Sanders, and Leo White. At the Lyric, the musical comedy company are in their last week. Their play for this week is Venus and Adonis and the principal parts are well sustained by Charles Connors and Ed Harrington. Next week the Athon stock company opens the regular fall season in Doris. It looks like that the city authorities are going to allow the owners of the Heilig to repair the same. It is announced that if this is done that the Shuberts are to have the house.

SEATTLE, August 2.—Moore Theatre: The swiftest comedy so far seen in Seattle is on at the Moore Theatre. The Girl from Rector's started a two weeks' run last night and will keep things going for that time. There is plenty of fun, a good company and effective staging. Last night's record-breaking audience seemed to enjoy themselves immensely. Alhambra Theatre: Wednesday will see the close of a most successful engagement, when The Blue Mouse will give place to The Witching Hour. Elsa Ryan as the Blue Mouse has captivated Seattle audiences. Grand Theatre: An enjoyable presentation of the Idol's Eye is being given by the Ferris Hartman Company this week. Seattle Theatre: Nettie, the Newsgirl, drew two immense audiences to the Seattle Theatre yesterday. The play is by Lem B. Parker. Beginning with George Auger, the tallest actor in the world, down to Ernest Rommel, the smallest actor in the world, the Orpheum has an all-star program for this week. George Auger and company have a dramatic version of the old story of Jack the Giant-Killer, which is very good and will appeal especially to children. The biggest and most pretentious girl act of the season will be Joseph Hart's Bathing Girls. There are six scenes in this act, and six changes of costume are made. The Dutch in Egypt is the offering of Carson and Willard, two German comedians, who are funny. The latest English importation is the Thalia Quartet, composed of four splendid male voices. Lew Bloom has become famous as the most perfect portrayer of tramp characters. Jack Moffett and Elsie Claire, in singing and dancing, and Frank Rogers, the colored ventriloquist, round out one of the best bills of the year. The best bill of vaudeville seen at the Lois Theatre since the summer season opened is on this week. Leon's animal circus heads the bill. The Temple City Quartet have a prominent place on the bill. Aileen May and company, in Ed M. Kimball's new military drama, The Maid of Valley Forge attract much attention. Zech and Zech, novelty ring artists; Frances White, the pretty little prima donna, and William Hanover are the new acts, while Anita Wickham and the Loiscopes complete the bill. An excellent list of features is shown at Pantages Theatre, headed by Will Bradley and company of high-class singing artists. The title of their act is The Gypsy Wayfarers. The Sandor Trio, acrobats and strong men, will be a second feature. Devine and Williams, man and woman, who work in the attire of a traveling salesman and a lady drummer, respectively, present excellent entertainment in comedy singing and talking; the Pollard-Fischer Company appear in a pretty dramatic playlet, and Nada Moret, Australian versatile artiste, appears for the first time in the Northwest. At the Star there is Hugh Lloyd, the Australian wonder, who performs on the bounding rope. There are also the Three Brothers La Maze, sensational comedy acrobats; Emily and Jessie Dodd and company in Dutton's Claim, a comedy playlet; Billy Court, a mirthful Scotchman; Tom and Stacia Moore, the blue ribbon singing and dancing duo, and new French motion pictures. E. MORGENSTERN.

SPOKANE, Aug. 1.—At the Spokane, Marie Doro in The Morals of Marcus, 26-27, a clever comedy portrayal by an excellent company, drew large houses; 29-30, The Girl from Rector's played to fair business. At the Auditorium, the Colonial Musical Comedy Company, in The Show Girl, was well patronized. This week, The Isle of Spice; 8-14, The Telephone Girl. The Orpheum presents an excellent bill, including John Hyams; Lelia McIntyre, in The Quakeress; Rose Royal and her famous Arabian posing horse, Chesterfield; Catherine Hayes; Sabel Johnson, in A Dream of Baby Days; George W. Cunningham, Herman Marion, comedians; Woods-Woods Trio, cyclists; Misses Marshall, Rogers, Freeman, Cathryn Rowe Palmer (late with The Merry-Go-Round Company), and Orpheum pictures. At the Washington, Edwin Carewe Company in Pals, the play made famous by James J. Corbett; Mort Sharp and his six pretty dancing girls; Selbini-Grovini, novelty act; Morrissey, singing-talking comedian;

Fred Cutler

Mr. Cutler for the past two seasons successfully piloted Richard Jose over the country. He is an experienced and capable agent or manager. At present Mr. Cutler is taking a vacation on his ranch at the town of Watts, made famous by Kolb and Dill as the locale of their Lonesome Town.

moving pictures. An unusually good bill at Pantages this week: George D. MacQuarrie and Pauline Sain, formerly members of the Jessie Shirley Stock Company, made their first appearance in vaudeville in a delightful little playlet entitled Short Pants. The sketch was a great success, and at the evening performance on the first night the management were obliged to turn people away on the three performances. Other good ones were Hassan-Jelyn, marvelous ball-rollers; Martinetti-Grossi, European novelty artists; Hamilton-Ronca, musical act; Tegge-Daniels, German comedians; Shelvey Brothers; Wm. D. Gilson, and motion pictures. The following moving-picture houses are being well patronized on account of the crowds in the city to the land registration: Majestic, Arcade, Bijou, Dream, Dreamland, Casino, Unique. This warm weather is bringing out the people to the parks. Natatorium Park is very attractive. Bowen's American Band is giving daily concerts, besides the free attractions, which are Daisy Thorne in popular songs; Dugas-Ernest, champion log-rollers of the world. SMYTH.

DAWSON, N. W. T., July 16.—Redolent with romance, the grandeur of Sierra scenery, the intermingling of scenes of the early California days, embracing the gold seeker of '49, and the Indian and Spanish phases of life of those bright days of yesterday, Yosemite was presented to a Dawson audience last evening for the first time by the Charles A. Taylor Company—Helen Barham, the young leading woman; Byron Bogardus, Charles A. Taylor, M. J. Hooley, Lillian Mul-

Wanted

Director

FOR

Vocal Department

—IN—

Conservatory of Music

In growing Western city. Must be man of good morals, good singer (tenor preferred), successful teacher and capable director of oratorio and opera. Address, DIRECTOR, care of this paper.

lally, L. R. Carlisle and Ora Wolf had the chief parts. The company will present later The Private Secretary and Finnigan, the Millionaire.

Hudson Theatre Gets the Cup

The Actors' Society has awarded the silver cup for the cleanest stage and dressing rooms to Henry B. Harris, who received the following letter: "Henry B. Harris, Hudson Theatre. Sir:—No doubt you are aware that we have recently held a voting contest to endeavor to find out which theatre in the United States and Canada had the cleanest stage and dressing room. The voting was done from coupons in the theatrical publications and the prize was a silver loving cup. It is with great pleasure that I inform you that the Hudson Theatre, New York City, received the greatest number of votes, and therefore the prize must go to your employees. Will you kindly let me know when it will be convenient for you to receive me and the committee in charge, that I may hand over to you the prize which you and your employees so highly deserve? Please accept my highest compliments.

THOS. A. WISE,
President.

FRANK BONNER, a clever character actor, is a big success with the Bentley stock in Long Beach.

STELLA ADAMS has joined the Selig Polyscope company. Miss Gene Ward and Tony Alloy have left the company and gone to Chicago.

Terry McKean's Players

A FIRST-CLASS COMPANY IN STANDARD PLAYS

Time open from Sept. 1st for extended stock engagement. Write

TERRY MCKEAN, Sole Proprietor and Manager

Address care Francis-Valentine, 285 Thirteenth St., San Francisco, Cal.

THE SAN FRANCISCO Dramatic Review

Music and Drama
CHAS. H. FARRELL, Publisher

Issued Every Saturday

Address all
letters and
money orders to San Francisco
Dramatic
Review, Van

Ness Theatre Bldg.
Van Ness
Avenue.
Telephone
Park
1773

Entered at San Francisco as Second-class
Mail Matter. Established 1880.

Huntress

The headline novelty act at Pantages this week is Huntress in his drapery dances and character impersonations. All over the Pantages Circuit Huntress has been a tremendous hit. He has probably the largest and most pretentious act of this kind in vaudeville, and each season he is becoming recognized more and more as a genius in his line of work. He is constantly inventing new features and never repeats from one season to another. He has a great artistic discernment and designs and makes all the feminine creations he displays in his act. Had his desires run in this direction he might have been a close rival to Worth and Felix, the great Paris designers.

Chas. Osgood Retires From K. & E.—Ed. Thurnaer Appointed.

Charles Osgood, who has been for years identified with Klaw & Erlanger, has resigned from that firm and has been succeeded by Edward Thurnaer. This is one of the most startling theatrical sensations of recent years, as Mr. Osgood was generally conceded to be the greatest booking authority in the business, and his long term in the capacity in which he served made him not only a person of great importance in their affairs, but one of the best posted men in the theatrical business. The report is that Mr. Osgood has permanently retired. Edward Thurnaer, his successor, has been in charge of the booking department for W. A. Brady's attractions.

Newman & Foltz Com- pany

Walter Newman is active in organizing for the coming season, and so far has signed Jane Wilson, Alene Johnson, and Burt Porter. Among the plays to be used are Sapho, Divorcons, The American, Carmen, Camille and Thorns and Orange Blossoms.

Abe Cohn Secures Three Weeks

Abe Cohn, manager of the American Theatre, has secured the road rights to Three Weeks, and announces that following the conclusion of the stock season at the American, he will put the company out on the road in Three Weeks. The show ought to get the money, as the company is unusually strong.

A Busy Theatrical Season Outlined for This City

Never in the history of Western theatricals has there been such activity in booking. There will be almost twice as many shows this season as last, and shows of the highest class. Where they are all to find time is a problem. The tanks will assume great importance this season. Here in San Francisco we will have a busy season. The Syndicate shows will play at the Van Ness, as usual, and, by arrangements consummated last Monday, beginning September 5th, the John Cort shows will be played at the Garrick for four weeks. These shows are The Girl from Rector's, The Time, the Place and the Girl, The Knight for a Day and Carter, the magician. After these four weeks, the Cort bookings will be transferred to the New Colonial, which will be ready by that time. Then Gottlob & Marx will take over the Garrick and play the high-price syndicate shows in conjunction with the Van Ness. Later, when the new Columbia is finished, they may still use the Garrick. The Shubert shows commence at the American with The Witching Hour, on August 29th, to be followed by Going Some. The Valencia opens in October with the Morris vaudeville acts, and it is said that Grauman's new theatre on Market Street will also book these acts, but this is a disputed point. In the meantime the Orpheum is doing a capacity business and the town looks very good in a vaudeville way. The sturdy and favorite old Alcazar has it all its own way with stock (or will have after tomorrow) and the Princess and Fischer's are offering musical comedy, which is quiet. The new Portola vaudeville theatre on Market Street is going to do some popular-priced vaudeville business. The National is still doing well and the same may be said of the Wigwam. The Pantages house will before long be seen down town. The management have for a long time been looking with anxious eyes toward Market Street. Charley Cole has a site near Third Street, which he thinks is just the place. Anyway, this will be a busy city—theatrically—for the next twelve months.

Personals

WALTER HOFF SEELEY is expected home from New York today.

IZETTA JEWELL is spending her vacation in Alaska. She was in Skagway on July 7th.

CHARLEY STUMM, who used to live here, is now the manager of The Auditorium Theatre in Baltimore.

FRANK M. ELDRIDGE, of Eldredge & Meakin, is managing Willard Mack in stock at the Grand Theatre in Salt Lake City.

FLORENCE OAKLEY has announced her forthcoming marriage to Percy Pryor, a rich youth of Los Angeles, now living in Berkeley.

MAUD BURNS has been engaged by Jos. M. Gaites to play Alice Eastman in support of Emmett Corrigan in Paul Wiltach's Keegan's Pal.

ALLEN HAMPTON, who used to bring Sandy Bottom and other melodramas to the Coast, is a well-to-do real estate operator in Vancouver now.

COL. D. P. STONER, the popular and clever agent, has signed to go ahead of the Newman and Foltz Company, which opens in Redwood City on September 4th.

PERRY GIRTON is now the manager of the Bentley Stock Theatre of Long Beach. His talented wife, Iva Shepard, is the leading woman of the organization.

CLYDE GRANGER was buried in San Jose on July 29th, the funeral being held under the auspices of the Elks. Mr. Granger never recovered from his breakdown of six months ago.

JOE MULLER has returned to his post on the Spokane Orpheum, after a pleasant visit to relatives and friends here, during which he was present at the golden wedding of his parents.

MARY SCOTT, who made her debut in this city as an actress with the Frawley company at the California Theatre about eight years ago, going on the stage from local society ranks, attempted to kill William B. Craig, a lawyer, in the Hotel Astoria last Monday night by firing a bullet at him. She claims he wronged her.

W. W. DECKER will be ahead of The Prince of Tonight, the Mort H. Singer show. Other Singer agents are: Gerald Fitzgerald, ahead of A Stubborn Cinderella; Zeke Harris, ahead of the other Cinderella show, and Harry Bell will herald the virtues of The Golden Girl.

GRANT OVERTON, who did the dramatic work on the Examiner for a time, has temporarily abandoned journalism for the sea. A couple of weeks ago he sailed on the Wayfarer, a three-masted windjammer, for Liverpool by way of Cape Horn. Moreover, he went as a common sailor, signing articles.

WILLIAM MAXWELL

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Lick Building, 35 Montgomery Street.
Telephone Kearny 724.

AMERICAN THEATRE

Phone Market 381
Market St., near Seventh
The Playhouse of Comfort and Safety

Commencing
Sunday Matinee, August 8th, 1909
ELINOR GLYN'S

Three Weeks

It's the Talk of the World

Prices: Evenings, $1.00, 75c, 50c and 25c.
Matinees, 75c, 50c and 25c. All Reserved.
Special Matinee Thursday for Ladies Only.

Notice.—As I have secured the Coast rights to this play and will tour a company in it in the near future, pirates are warned to keep hands off.—Abe S. Cohen.

THE FRANCIS- VALENTINE CO.

Thirteenth St., near Mission, S. F. Cal.

Spacious Headquarters
for Theatrical Agents

Send Bills of Lading to us. We will take care of your paper

New Alcazar Theatre

Cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts.
Belasco & Mayer, Owners and Managers
Absolutely "Class A" Building

Monday Evening, August 9, and Throughout
the Week
An Elaborate Production of Edwin Milton
Royle's Famous Play of the Plains

The Squaw Man

Introducing Mr. Augustus Phillips,
Leading Man

PRICES: Nights, 25c to $1; Matinees,
Saturday and Sunday, 25c to 50c.

New Orpheum

O'Farrell Street, Bet. Stockton and Powell
Safest and Most Magnificent Theatre in
America

Week Beginning This Sunday Afternoon
Matinee Every Day

ARTISTIC VAUDEVILLE

LA PETITE REVUE, an Old Idea Uniquely Vocalized and Twentieth Centuries by Charles Lovenberg; ELEANOR GORDON and Company, including Joseph Sullivan, in the Comedietta, Tips on Taps; FIVE AVOLOS; LENA PANTZER, assisted by
Sam Murt; SIX AMERICAN DANCERS;
MATTHEWS and ASHELY; CONROY, LE-
MAIRE and COMPANY; NEW ORPHEUM
MOTION PICTURES. Last Week and Enormous Success, SAM CHIP and MARY
MARBLE, in a deft dialogue with ditties, designated in Old Edam.

EVENING PRICES—10c, 25c, 50c, 75c;
Box Seats, $1.
MATINEE PRICES (Except Sundays and
Holidays), 10c, 25c, 50c
Phone Douglas 70

Princess Theatre

Absolutely "Class A" Theatre Building

Phone West 663

Ellis Street, near Fillmore

Samuel Loverich, Manager

Week Beginning Monday, August 9
The Popular Musical Comedy Success

The Telephone Girl

Popular prices: Evenings, 25c, 50c, 75c.
Saturday and Sunday Matinees, 25c and 50c.

Fischers THEATRE

E. A. FISCHER, PROP.

SUTTER ST., BET. FILLMORE AND STEINER,

Phone West 6732

The Only Musical Comedy House in the City

This Sunday Afternoon and Evening
Last Times of The Belle of Boston.

Starting Monday Matinee, August 9,
Charles Alphin's Dream of the Orient.

The Pride of the Harem

A Somewhat Different Operetta, with Blossom Seeley and All of the Joy Producers.

Two performances nightly—8 and 9:30.
Matinees—Mon., Wed., Sat. and Sunday
at 2:30.

Popular Prices, 15c, 20c and 25c

GILLE PRINTING CO. SAN FRANCISCO

THEATRICAL PRINTING OF ALL KINDS

POSTERS

2257 MISSION ST.

Phone MARKET
1865

Van Ness Theatre

The second and last week of Polly of the Circus will end Sunday night. Without question, Polly of the Circus has pleased everybody who has seen it. It is a delightful little story that carries its own moral. And the clever company bring out all the strong points of the play. Next week, Paid in Full.

Alcazar Theatre

Charley's Aunt, that perennial frolic that always interests both old and young, served to bring back to the Alcazar clientele the popular comedian, Frank Bacon, who is one of our funniest funny men. As Bobs, the irrepressible, who impersonates the aunt from Brazil, "where the nuts come from," Mr. Bacon was a continuous scream. A feature of the performance was the fine work of George B. Baldwin, who for the first time here has had an opportunity to demonstrate what a fine, straight actor he is. His work as one of the chums in for a good time was distinctly appealing. Burt Wesner, too, gave a fine portraiture in the role of Spethgue, and Howard Hickman, Louis Bennison, Walter Whipple, Adele Belgarde and Bessie Barriscale contributed individually excellent small bits. Just now preparations are in force for the new season which begins Monday night with The Squaw Man and introduces Augustus Phillips, the new leading man.

American Theatre

The atmosphere of the American is decidedly Teutonic this week. The play is concerned with German life and thought; it was originally written by a German. A German-American translated and adapted it to the likings of new world audiences. The orchestra has been dispensing German melodies, or else numbers by German authors, and last, but not least, a goodly percentage of the audiences have been German, too. The reason for all this is, that At the Sound of Taps, a military drama in four acts, adapted by Charles Swickard and produced under his direction, has been the attraction at this house since last Sunday afternoon. The drama, or as it might be more exactly called, tragedy, deals with certain phases of life in the Fatherland. The army forms the background, and the people who share its hopes, fears and excitements are the figures that move to and fro through the somber four acts. As may be imagined, the piece is decidedly German, and quite as modern. The daughter of a sergeant-major, living with her father in a small garrison town on the French border, has fallen in love with a lieutenant, a man of the nobility. He has encouraged her. Her foster-brother, to whom she has been engaged, returns home from the riding academy, after an absence of two years. During his leave he has become greatly broadened in his views, and, the inference is, impressed with the teachings of modern German socialism. Finding that the girl no longer loves him, he gives her up. He traces her, however, to the rooms of the lieutenant, after taps has sounded, and there, not respecting the officer as the others do, strikes his superior, who has hidden the girl in one of his rooms. The aggressor is court-martialed. During the progress of the trial, the young girl makes known the true state of affairs, and also confesses that her relations with the young lieutenant have been questionable. Her father, overcome with shame, goes to the room of the lieutenant, and offers to fight a duel with him, but this the law of the country prevents, the one being a commissioned, the other a non-commissioned officer. The girl follows her father. Her betrayer refuses to marry her. The father draws his revolver, and shoots her through the heart. Here the play ends. The present Swickard adaptation of this play varies somewhat from the one used by Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon two or three seasons ago. In that version, the girl is not fatally injured, and the lieutenant repents, offering to make amends by marrying her. However sad the ending of this week's bill may be, it is far more consistent than the other. In fact, the death of the girl is the only logical outcome to the piece. Like all of the other plays that have been put on during the present summer stock season at the American, this shows conscientious staging and careful rehearsing. A possible improvement to suggest is the elimination of a few so-called comedy scenes, obviously introduced by the adaptor, to please those groundlings who feel that they are getting their money's worth only when they are laughing. The acting of these comedy scenes is well done, but the fact that they are in the play at all is questionable dramatic art. The three principal roles fall to Charles Swickard, the sergeant-major; Gerald Harcourt, otherwise Lieutenant Von Dorn; Herschel Mayall, the lieutenant, and Clara Hartman, by Harriet Worthington. James Corrigan, as Sergeant Bill Stumps, was trying to place in a sad role, for his audiences have been loathe to believe that he was not trying to be funny in an original way. Charles Swickard was an ideal sergeant, gruff in outward demeanor, but inwardly with a heart as tender as a woman's. Gerald Harcourt played the part of the young officer, bound down with generations of class traditions, most excellently. The interpretation Harriet Worthington gave of the young girl was extremely good, marked by naturalness and feeling. The most sympathetic part in the play, that of Lieutenant Von Wendel, was played by Herschel Mayall in a finished manner. Other people of ability, including Richard Claye, Edmund Flynn, Lillian Elliott, Lois Bolton, Thurlow White, Thomas Root, Fred A. Bryant, W. B. Thompson, Frank Opperman, William R. Abrams, Alfred Rowland, Norman Fels and Alfred Aldridge, contributed to the support of the principals.

Princess Theatre

Florodora, one of the classics of the musical comedy stage, is so well known that any review of it, if extended, would be very much much on a par with a criticism of Uncle Tom's Cabin or Ten Nights in a Barroom. As everybody knows, the plot of Florodora is as thin as water, but the numbers in it, when well sung, stick to the memory, in spite of one. Since Florodora was last put on here, almost two years have come and gone, yet the piece retains its old popularity. The first performance was somewhat halting, because of the fact that George Burke, cast as Lord Abercoed, was taken suddenly ill. Ray Youngman, with but a few hours to prepare, worked himself up in the part sufficiently well to keep the house from closing. Since then he has become much more at ease in his role. Arthur Cunningham sustained his reputation and played and sang the part of Gilfain most excellently. Percy Bronson was a hit in I Want to Be a Military Man, and Miss Stech was likewise in Beautiful Eyes, two of the twenty song successes sprinkled through the bill. Budd Ross was never better than in the character of Professor Tweedlepunch, the phrenologist. Octavia Broske looked the part of Dolores, a thing many prima donnas in this part do not do. Her singing was enjoyable. Marta Golden was the epigrammatic Lady Holyrood to the letter. Her bright observations kept the house in continued merriment. Bert Phoenix, as Leandro, the plantation foreman, while on the stage but a short time, made a good impression. Of course, the sextet was subjected to the usual repeated encores. The big song hit of the piece, Shade of the Sheltering Palms, had to be repeated, too. The orchestra showed thorough training, and the scenic portion of the production was unusually good.

Valencia Theatre

The concluding week of the dramatic season has been given over to All the Comforts of Home, which, while it is a fairly good comedy, has nothing of the elements of novelty. The company, probably letting down for their final week, has not appeared to as good an advantage in this play as in the preceding ones. Paul McAllister is cast as Alfred Hastings, and plays him with pleasing plausibility. The real hit of the performance is made by Mirabel Seymour in the part of Sususan. This is the part usually played as a boy—the one who gets "arf." Charley Clarke has the honor of working harder than all the rest of the company, except Miss Seymour, in the part of Christopher Dabney. James M. Ward makes his reappearance after a long absence from the dramatic stage by appearing as the Bailiff. Peggy Monroe is a petite and most pleasing Fifi Oretanki, and the rest of the long cast do effective work.

New Stock for Fresno

Manager Ed Hoen of the Empire Theatre of Fresno, and Mrs. Hoen, are spending the month in San Francisco. Mr. Hoen is leisurely organizing his new stock, to open Sept. 6. The company will be under the stage direction of Al Hallett, and will include Charles Dey, Florence Plummer and Fred Munier. Mr. Hoen is negotiating with Myrtle Vane for her appearance with his company for a short starring season. A feature this season is a line of fine royalty plays which Mr. Hoen has contracted for with the Great Western Play Agency.

SIDNEY DE GRAY retired from the Princess stock last Sunday. Mr. de Gray will in all probability join the Kolb & Dill company in Los Angeles in September.

Ethel Hunt

Miss Ethel Hunt arrived in San Francisco last week, en route to Sydney, Australia, where she is going to pay her mother a visit. Miss Hunt is well and favorably known in this city. Her last appearances on the Coast were with Walter Bently in his Shakespearean revivals, after which she went East and scored heavily with the Klaw & Erlanger and Liebler attractions. Miss Hunt is an Australian. On the other side of the world she has achieved a reputation as an ingenue and in boys' parts. She has been upon the stage almost from the time she was first able to walk. The glare of the footlights has not spoiled her, for she has a charming personality and is a favorite with her associates. Her early appearances were made under the management of the veteran George Rignold, and to him Miss Hunt attributes the ability she has developed. She has made rapid strides in her profession, and during her career has toured Tasmania, New Zealand and all of the Australian colonies.

Success of Louise Kent in Vaudeville

One of the pleasing features of the week in vaudeville has been the unqualified success of Louise Kent and her company at Pantages this week, in a little play she wrote and called Sold. It is a dramatic comedy of great value and abounds in bright and witty lines and amusing situations, and one guess follows another as to what will happen next. Miss Kent, a stunning woman of dramatic reputation and excellent art, is proving to be a clever comedienne—quite as successful in comedy as her previous record has informed us she was in leading business. Her support is notably good. Donah Benrimo is a handsome young woman and accomplished as an actress, and Wm. V. Mong demonstrates the fact that he is a real actor. Miss Kent and her sketch should be in the highest priced vaudeville, for she has what will strongly appeal to the most critical audiences.

BEN MACQUARRIE has joined the stock company in Sioux City.

Vaudeville

LLOYD C. FOUNTAIN, Editor

The Orpheum

To a series of crowded houses the Orpheum bill of this week is most attractive. The headliner act is furnished by John W. Dunne, Mary Marble and Sam Chip, in a quaint Dutch conceit, called In Old Edam. Mr. Dunne plays the stern parent for a few minutes and then rests on the honors thus gained, while Miss Marble and the volatile Chip caper about the stage, laughing, giggling, dancing and putting the audience in great good humor. This pair are inimitable in their way, and their work receives rousing applause. Frank J. Conroy, George Le Maire and company present a clever and unusual skit called A King for a Night. It is well received. The Six American Dancers present one of the daintiest, most original and most interesting terpsichorean stunts ever presented in this city. Their dancing is clean-cut and unusually good, and their costumes and appearance uncommonly pleasing. The act made a great hit. Bob Matthews and Herbert Ashley have a skit—good for a good deal of laughter—which they call Held-Up. The holdovers include Herbert and Willing, in blackface; Walter Schrode and Lizzie Mulvey; Griff and Sam Watson's Farmyard Circus, not to mention the usual moving pictures.

The National

This week's program abounds in classy acts and an expression of complete satisfaction is carried away by all those attending. Two local artists, Glendower and Manion, top the bill in one of the prettiest bills of the season, namely Christmas on the Comstock, from the pen of Harry D. Cottrell, whose work is well and favorably known on the vaudeville and dramatic stage. The work of these performers is of a finished and legitimate nature and they score heavily with their audience. The Juggling Jordans appear in a neat and clever club act. Foster and Foster, as holdovers from last week, are still popular favorites. McDevitt and Kelley prove to be exceptionally clever dancers with a line of entirely new and clever steps. Mlle. Loretta and her $10,000 posing dog has something new to offer, and it is possibly safe to say that the figure mentioned would not be any sort of a temptation for her to part with her clever canine. The act is excellent. Jere Sanford proves a winner with his whistling and yodeling. Motion pictures complete the bill.

Pantages-Empire

Manager Tiffany is still improving the programs at his house and this week's bill is most gratifying, both as regards quantity and quality. Louise Kent and company appear in a most entertaining offering, S. O. L. D. Miss Kent's work is too well known to need mention, and she has surrounded herself with exceptionally clever people in the persons of Donah Benrimo and Wm. V. Mong. The act does not lack interest from curtain to curtain and generous and well-merited applause greet their efforts. The Naples Quartet entertain with tuneful and well-executed selections on the saxophone. Sutherland and Curtis, well-known local performers, come in for a big share of the applause for a most entertaining number. Dixie Christy has an inimitable way of her own for entertaining, and her clever efforts on numerous musical instruments, especially the harp, meet with rounds of applause. Huntress, the female impersonator and drapery dancer, is a most pleasing feature of the program and the scenery carried is deserving of special mention. Huntress has, next to Julian Eltinge, the finest act of its kind in vaudeville, and he is constantly improving it. He is a great card. Fay Carranza, contrary to the usual in an offering of her kind, namely, operatic singing, proves one of the best bets on the bill. The Prentice Troupe offer a clever and amusing acrobatic act which is well up and beyond the standard. For harmony the White City Four can deliver it in bunches. They have a good strain of comedy, which is of the legitimate sort and most cleverly handled by the Irish comedian. Motion pictures as usual complete the bill.

Fischer's

Herr Manager Fischer has added a trinity to his list of leading actors, and now Carlton Chase and Maude Rockwell are helped out in their fun-making by Blossom Seeley, the nimble and vigorous soubrette, who is very clever. The Alphin comedy, with music, that is offered this week is called The Belle of Boston, and is both funny and musically interesting. Chase looks his best, sings well and acts ditto. Miss Rockwell is still warbling in her unapproachable way, and Blossom Seeley is a hit. As a rough soubrette, she delivers the goods. The supporting company and the chorus are in good form.

The Wigwam

This popular house has an exceptional galaxy of clever talent this week, headed by Albini the illusionist, who as of yore continues to mystify the audience by his master legerdemain. Billy Windom is one big hit on this high-class bill with an original line of entertaining. Robert, Hayes and Robert contribute a big scream, interpolated with good singing and dancing. Gillihan and Murray in blackface are well received. Mlle. Rialta, assisted by J. Louis Mentz, present The Artist's Dream. The singing is especially good, but Mlle. Rialta could improve vastly by using some draperies during her posing, which is rather embarrassing to the feminine portion of the audience. Jack Wyatt and C. Blanche Rice in The Unexpected accomplish the desired result, judging from the hearty laughter which greets their efforts. Bessie Allen comes in for a good share of applause. Mabel Carew and company complete this high-class bill. Miss Carew is a vivacious little lady with a most pleasing personality which makes her a winner. The motion pictures are as usual high class and complete the program.

Bookings

At the Sullivan & Considine, San Francisco Office, through Wm. P. Reese, their sole booking agent, for week of Aug. 8, 1909:

NATIONAL, San Francisco—Maurice Frank and company; Tom

Theatrical Tights

ALL COLORS, WEIGHTS AND QUALITIES—Cotton, 75c to $1.50; Wool, $2.50 to $3.50; Lisle or Silkoline, $3.00 to $4.50; Silk, $5.00 to $12.50.

SYMMETRICALS BEST LINE MADE IN THE U. S. Calf, $5.00; Calf and Thigh, $10.00; Calf, Thigh and Hip, $12.50.

We also Make Padded Shirts, SWEATERS, JERSEYS, GYM, ATHLETIC and BATH SUITS, SUPPORTERS, AEROBATIC SHOES, GOOD UNDERWEAR Knit to Fit in All Materials.

We operate our own mills, carry a large stock and make goods to measure at reasonable prices. We suit the professional as if he were buying in Europe. Write us for prices and samples.

Gantner & Mattern Co.

Phone Kearny 3603

Corner Post and Grant Ave.

NATIONAL THEATRE

ZEKE ABRAMS
General Manager

POST AND STEINER STS., SAN FRANCISCO

Leading Vaudeville Theatre on the Sullivan-Considine Circuit. No Act Too Good for us. Write.

Sullivan & Considine Circuit

W. P. REESE

California Representative

AMERICAN THEATRE BUILDING, 1117 MARKET ST.

Phone Market 6873

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

New York Office, Shubert Bldg. Lancaster, Pa., Family Theatre
Now Booking Summer Parks, Fairs and Vaudeville Theatres. Managers, write or wire.

50---THEATRES---50

THAT INDEPENDENT VAUDEVILLE AGENT

... BERT LEVEY ...

Phone West 9098

2053 SUTTER ST., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

PANTAGES Western States Vaudeville Association

Controlling the longest, largest and best chain of vaudeville theatres in the United States.

Mr. Manager: No matter where your house is, how large or how small, we can supply you promptly with first-class

vaudeville acts at reasonable prices, also lodges, clubs and entertainments furnished on short notice.

See O. S. BURNS, Representative.
Phone West 7140. Offices: Pantages Theatre, cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts., San Francisco, Cal.

Archie Levy's Amusement Ass'n

THE VAUDEVILLE EXCHANGE OF THE PACIFIC COAST

1643 FILLMORE STREET, SUITE 1-2-3, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers desiring talent Write. Artists send in your open time now.

In Spite of all ye Knocking Devils in H—

THE LAND OF BUNG-A-BOO, headed by Wise & Milton, are still going, while others are trying. This week, EMPIRE, half act. Next week, WIGWAM, full act. Vallejo, week of Aug. 1st.

DID WE? ?

Borden-Zeno & Haydn Bros.

In "BITS OF VAUDEVILLE" Featured Everywhere
Extract from a manager's opinion: "Gentlemanly performers, who have a novelty act that proved a big feature and success at the Wigwam, week of July 18, '09. With pleasure I recommend them.—Sam Harris, Mgr.
Week of August 1st, Crystal, Denver, Colo. Direction B. A. Myers, New York City.

McGuire; Girard and Gardner; Gruet and Gruet; Damman troupe; the Tora troupe. Bell, Oakland—Five Juggling Jordans; Jere Sanford; Mlle. Loretta and dog; McDevitt and Kelly; Glendower and Manion. WIGWAM, San Francisco—Barnes-Reming and company; Sados; Carita Day and boys; Rae and Borsche; Telegraph Four; Eva Mudge. NOVELTY, Vallejo—Albini and Bessie Allen; Billy Windom; Princess Wlademaroff. LOS ANGELES, Los Angeles—Gillihan and Murray; Mabel Carew and company; Mlle. Rialta and company; Wyatt and Rice; Foster and Foster. QUEEN, San Diego—Seymour and Hill; Ramsey Sisters; Slater Brockman; Pearson and Joell.

Booked by Bert Levy, the Independent Booking Agent, for week of August 9, 1909.

PORTOLA, San Francisco—Russian Troupe of Dancers; Dale and Caney; Gaynell Everett; Eddie Mowry; Tony Ryder's Monkeys; Loraine Johnstone and company. GRAND, San Francisco—Shale and Cole; Darline Cole. NOVELTY, Stockton—La Loie Helene; Watson, Wallace and Keith; Fred Lancaster; Kelly and Kelly. AIRDOME, Fresno—Jake Snook; Marshall. SUMMER THEATRE, Visalia—Goodhue and Burgess; Helen Neilsen. UNIQUE, Los Angeles—Kelly and Violette. GRAND, San Diego—Palmer and Robinson; Joe Eagan. LA PETITE, Watsonville—Gus Leonard; Louis Stone. ELITE, Salinas—Requa, Reed and Ricks. STAR, Monterey—Thelma De Vene and company; Francis Dainty. AIRDOME, Modesto—Laswells; Kawa; Frank Morrell. NOVELTY, San Luis Obispo—George Stanley. HART'S, San Mateo—Patsy; Brewer and Bell.

Vaudeville Notes

In view of the coming of Wm. Morris into the Western vaudeville field, it is interesting to scan his attractions. They are Terry Corney, Friend and Downing, Nelson Jackson, Kara, Fred Karno, London Pantomime Co., Lombards, Herbert Floyd & Co., Barry, Lupino, Geo. Lashwood, S. Loftus, Paul's six juggling girls, R. A. Roberts, Tambo and Tambo, Nellie Wallace, Bransby Williams, Harry Lauder, Paul Conchas, Sengali's Musical Thought Transference Act, not to be confused with the hypnotists known as the Seven Svengalis; Devine Mura, Clark Hamilton, Seven Perezoffs, who are said to be exceptionally clever jugglers and who during the course of the act prepare, cook, serve and eat a meal while juggling the utensils; Arthur Prince, Ida Renee, Great Severin and Marie Loftus.

Charlie King and Marjorie Rambeau are playing dates in Southern California with a sketch written for them by Harry Cottrell.

New Attraction At the Chutes

Towers, the high diver who styles himself "the man who jumped from Brooklyn bridge," will be one of the new attractions this Sunday. He opened his engagement at the Fillmore Street Park several days ago and has since been performing dives that have attracted wondering and thrilled attention. His act consists of a leap measuring ninety-seven feet into less than four feet of water. Towers follows Florence Spray on the open-air program. After she has completed her seventy-foot dive Sunday afternoon and night the aerial platform will be raised to the elevation from which Towers makes his sensational plunge. High divers are far from being the entire free show at the Chutes this week. Glasscock's trained elephants are the delight of young and old. Little Mike has become the idol of the juveniles. For, in addition to performing all manner of amusing tricks, he permits the children to go riding upon his back. The larger elephants are also pressed into service when not performing. The elephants will give free exhibitions tonight and Sunday afternoon and evening. The American Comedy Trio present songs and dances of a clever kind. In another part of the park the Royal Banda Roma will give concerts for those who prefer the more classical style of music. Demon will continue his break-neck dash down the chutes, the open-air motion pictures will be changed and the rest of the free entertainment kept busy amusing patrons.

Big Vaudeville Doings

A dispatch from New York says that, stirred by the rivalry of the new Morris vaudeville combination, Martin Beck, one of the proprietors of the Orpheum Circuit, has gone to Europe to effect an international combination. He sailed on the Mauretania last Tuesday. The Orpheum Circuit controls thirty-seven theatres scattered through the West, and is the father of vaudeville entertainment in this section of the country. Those who are familiar with vaudeville are of the opinion that a big vaudeville monopoly embracing the leading music halls of this country and the principal European capitals would be the outcome of his trip. Morris Meyerfeld, president of the Orpheum Circuit, has been abroad on a mission of this kind for several weeks, and one of Beck's objects is to meet him in a business conference. It may be expected that the cables will soon bring back news of a great combination. About one-third of the vaudeville acts used in this country are of foreign origin and almost an equal proportion of foreign bills are composed of American performers. To organize this interchange and get control of the leading performers on both continents is said to be Beck's ambition. The inducement he will be able to offer his clients is a three years' stretch of solid bookings without need of the performers repeating their acts in cities either here or abroad. The foreign managers who are said to be allied with Beck's scheme are Director Steiner of the Berlin Winter Garden, Ben Teiber of the Apollo in Vienna, E. K. Tichy of the Theatre of Varieties in Prague, Director Thurlin of the Apollo in St. Petersburg, E. Waldmann of Budapest, Charles Aumont of Paris and Oswald Stoll of London—all men of high standing in the vaudeville field. One plan that is being contemplated is the establishment of an Orpheum in Europe, where the various acts may be tested before being sent to this country.

Fine Music at Idora Park

Innes will give his next to the last Sunday program tomorrow and the score of selections to be played by the New York orchestral band will be varied enough to suit all tastes. Innes' own humorous skit on the Merry Widow Waltz should prove a delight to Sunday patrons of the Oakland amusement resort. The bandmaster will first conduct his players through the composition exactly as it is written by Lehar. Then it will be played as Hayden might have composed it, with measured oratorio movement; again as Verdi, of operatic fame, would have treated the theme; then as the ragtime mechanic would have rattled it off and, finally, as the immortal Wagner might have written the popular waltz. Of the heavier numbers among the finest will be Scenes From the Valkyries, ending with the famous ride; the largo and scherzo from Dvorak's symphony, The New World, numbers which should appeal to all music lovers; Liszt's Fourteenth Hungarian Rhapsody and two dainty bits, Sweet and Low and On Tiptoe. The evening program will contain the intermezzo from Mascagni's Freund Fritz, which will be played for the first time in band arrangement; Tschaikowsky's famous 1812 overture; the overture from Weber's fairy opera, Oberon, and scenes from Tannhauser. The lighter numbers will include Lincke's Glow-Worm and the Siamese Patrol. Virginia Listemann, soprano, will sing the Bach-Gounod Ave-Maria and an aria from Samson and Delilah. Dr. H. J. Williams, harpist, will play a fantasia of Welsh folk melodies and Walter's Prize Song, by Wagner. As usual Idora patrons will find plenty to entertain them during the concert intermissions. The Brothers Bard, in feats of strength, and the Ten Ortons, in circus acts, will supply the free, open-air entertainment in the afternoon and night.

The Selig Polyscope players are now working out plays in Sisson, and from there they go to Portland, Seattle, then to the Yellowstone and then back to headquarters near Los Angeles.

Kolb and Dill Go Back to Princess

Kolb and Dill have been signed by the Princess Theatre management and will appear at that theatre on Monday, October 11. Previous to coming here they will play for a month at the Majestic in Los Angeles.

Fischer's Theatre

The last performances of that highly delectable musical tangle, The Belle of Boston, will take place this Sunday afternoon and evening, and at the Monday matinee Charles Alphin will present a somewhat different operetta, with the highly interesting title of The Pride of the Harem. The time is the present and the action takes place in Constantinople. Blossom Seeley, who has made an immense hit here, will introduce a lot of specialties as Miss Buttinski, the correspondent, and Maude Rockwell, as Milo, will have two new songs. Dave Morris will be the Sultan, Dan Kelly will play Mike Clancy, William Auerbach will make a ferocious German pirate, Carleton Chase will be the war correspondent and Anna Clark will be Mrs. Clancy. Matinees are given at Fischer's Theatre on Monday, Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday and two performances nightly, at 8 and half-past 9 o'clock.

Important Notice to Vaudeville Performers

THE NEW YORK DRAMATIC AGENCY, Belasco Theatre Building, Los Angeles, have just completed arrangements whereby they can offer performers eight weeks' consecutive time in Southern California.

NEW CHUTES

FILLMORE, TURK, EDDY AND WEBSTER
THE BILL OF THE SEASON

TOWERS
The Man Who Jumped from Brooklyn Bridge

TRAINED ELEPHANTS
Bring the children to see "Little Mike"

FLORENCE SPRAY AND DEMON
More Sensational Than Ever

ELEGANT CAFE
Song and Dance Artists Offer Unique Entertainment While You Eat and Drink. They're Here: The Frolles of 1909.

TAKE THE POPULAR CHUTES JOY JAUNT

IDORA

"The Park Beautiful"

B. P. MILLER, General Manager
Oakland, Calif.

20 Acres of High Grade
Amusement=20

The Handsomest
Park in America

Playing Only the World's Greatest Bands
and
Big Feature Acts

Performers desiring time, address
J. H. B. Fitzpatrick

M. M. RILEY G. A. KELLEY

THALIA Concert Hall

514½ PACIFIC STREET
Up-to-Date Vaudeville
NO ACT TOO BIG FOR THIS HOUSE

Santa Fe BACK EAST EXCURSIONS

SALE DATES

Aug. 9 to 13, inclusive.
Sept. 7 to 10, 13 to 15, inclusive.

ROUND TRIP RATES

Chicago .....	$72.50	New Orleans .....	$ 67.50
Kansas City .....	60.00	New York .....	108.50
Memphis, Tenn. ....	67.50	St. Louis .....	67.50

Ask for Back East Excursion pamphlet. Gives details.
JAS. B. DUFFY, Gen. Agt., 673 Market St., San Francisco.

SANTA FE

Why Clarence Drown is Learning German

Clarence Drown, the theatrical manager, is taking lessons in German. On the face of it this is not remarkable. But when it is recited that he must learn the language or wear shin-guards at home, the fact becomes interesting. Here is the reason. Not long ago a Teuton, exhibiting a pack of dogs on the circuit, presented Clarence with one of his best performers. Mrs. Drown and the children were delighted. The little canine had been taught to perform upon German commands, and all of the family, save the father, spoke that language. The new pet proved a source of joy. It was always ready to do innumerable tricks when spoken to in the guttural sentences it had learned to obey. Last week Mr. Drown had company, and, in order to entertain his friends, thought to put Heine through his paces. In the purest of English he besought the tyke to do a somersault. At this, the intelligent animal, in rage and chagrin at having been importuned in the wrong language, flew across the room and nipped his master in the calf. It proved a great hit so far as the private audience was concerned, but Clarence did not join the applause and refused to respond to the demand for an encore. As neither Mrs. Drown nor the children will allow father to chase Heine away, he has meekly yielded, and is now learning the only language that will cement friendship between man and dog.—Los Angeles Graphic.

Spotlights

Sara Perry, in the role of the wife in Paid in Full, will be seen in the Eugene Walter play when it is staged at the Van Ness Theater on Monday night. Chas. Reigel will be seen as the Captain.

Billie Burke, under the management of Charles Frohman, will play an engagement at the Van Ness Theater in her newest comedy, called, Love Watches. She will be supported by her entire New York company.

Victor Moore will make his first appearance on the Pacific Coast when he comes to the Van Ness Theater in the George M. Cohan comedy, The Talk of New York. It is said to be one of the biggest of Cohan hits.

The Travelling Salesman is announced for a tour of the Pacific Coast. It is accounted one of the most genuine of comedy hits staged in recent years.

The Del S. Lawrence stock company will not return to the Grand Theatre on September 14, as was expected, if Manager Charles Godard of the theatre can find a theatre to take it in Seattle, says a letter from Sacramento. Godard has arranged to put in vaudeville when his theatre reopens. He has secured the Sullivan-Considine Circuit. He has an agreement with the Del S. Lawrence company for seven weeks, beginning September 14, however, and unless he can locate it in Seattle, he will have to bring it back here for that length of time. In conversation, Mr. Godard said he believes he has found a theatre for the Lawrence actors in Seattle, and will know definitely in a day or so. If they are not to return, the Sullivan-Considine vaudeville circuit will start at the Grand Theatre. If the Lawrence company is brought back it will be for seven weeks, and the vaudeville circuit will not begin until the expiration of that time. Evidently the past season of the Lawrence company was not a very profitable one.

Manager W. M. Russell returned a few days ago from a significant business trip to Portland. I believe this trip will result in the early announcement by Russell & Drew that they are to manage a Portland playhouse that will be devoted exclusively to Shubert attractions, just as their Alhambra is here. The Shuberts at this time have no house in Portland. Until the new house can be built, it is possible that Russell & Drew will utilize the Heilig Theatre, for years the first-class house in the Webfoot City, for the independent attractions. By reason of a political deal the Heilig was closed up, but with a few alterations it can be again opened.—Jim Sayre in Seattle Argus.

A valuable race horse owned by Frank Atkins, the Marysville theatrical manager, dropped dead while being tried out on the Marysville track, Thursday. After making three laps of the track a blood vessel burst and it died before the owner could get to its head.

Dates Ahead

ALCAZAR STOCK.—San Francisco.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Madison, Aug. 8; Stillwater, 9; St. Cloud, 10; Grand Forks, 11; Winnipeg, 12-14; Fargo, 16; Mandan, 17; Miles City, 18; Billings, 19; Livingston, 20; Bozeman, 21; Butte, 22-23; Anaconda, 24; Gr. Falls, 25; Helena, 26; Missoula, 27; Wallace, 28; Spokane, 29-31.

BELASCO STOCK CO.—Los Angeles.

BISHOP'S PLAYERS.—In stock, Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland.

FISCHER'S MUSICAL STOCK.—San Francisco.

GUY SMITH STOCK.—Oakland, Cal.

MOROSCO'S BURBANK STOCK.—Los Angeles.

THE GIRL QUESTION (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Madison, Aug. 15; Stillwater, 16; St. Cloud, 17; Grand Forks, 18; Winnipeg, 19-21; Fargo, 23; Dickinson, 24; Miles City, 25; Billings, 26; Livingston, 27; Bozeman, 28; Butte, 29-30; Anaconda, 31.

POLLY OF THE CIRCUS.—San Francisco, July 25-Aug. 8; Sacramento, 9-10; Portland, 12-14.

SERVANT IN THE HOUSE.—(Henry Miller.)—Denver, Aug. 2-7.

THE CAT AND THE FIDDLE (Chas. A. Sellon, mgr.)—Chicago, Aug. 15-21; St. Cloud, 23; Brainerd, 24; Grand Forks, 25; Grafton, 26; Winnipeg, 27-28; Fargo, 30; Valley City, 31; Jamestown, Sept. 1; Bismarck, 2; Mandan, 3; Dickinson, 4; Miles City, 6; Billings, 7; Livingston, 8; Bozeman, 9; Anaconda, 10; Butte, 11-12; Great Falls, 13; Helena, 14; Missoula, 15; Wallace, 16; Colfax, 17; Spokane, 18-19; Sprague, 20; Walla Walla, 21; N. Yakima, 22; Ellensburg, 23; Tacoma, 24-25; Seattle, 26 to Oct. 2.

THE CLIMAX.—(Jos. Weber—J. J. Rosenthal ahead.)—Los Angeles, Aug. 16 and week.

THE MERRY WIDOW (Henry W. Savage; Henri Gressit, bus. mgr.)

—Los Angeles, July 26, and week; then week each in Salt Lake and Denver.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Fargo, 9; Valley City, 10; Jamestown, 11; Dickinson, 12; Miles City, 13; Billings, 14; Big Timber, 15; Livingston, 16; Bozeman, 17; Gr. Falls, 18; Helena, 19; Butte, 20-21; Missoula, 23; Wallace, 24; Lewiston, 25; Pullman, 26; Colfax, 27; Walla Walla, 28; Spokane, 29-31.

THREE WEEKS (Ernest Shuter, ahead.)—Tacoma, August 8-9; Victoria, 10; Vancouver, 11-12; Bellingham, 13; Everett, 14; North Yakima, 15; Spokane, 16-19; Helena, 20; Great Falls, 21; Butte, 22-23; Billings, 24; Grand Forks, 25; Winnipeg, 26; then St. Paul and Minneapolis.

YANKEE DOODLE STOCK CO. (Geo. V. Haliday, mgr.)—Ashland, 9-21.

RINGLIN'S CIRCUS.—Red Bluff, Aug. 30; Chico, 31; Marysville, Sept. 1; Sacramento, 2; Santa Rosa, 3; Napa, 4; Oakland, 5-6; Santa Cruz, 7; Salinas, 8; San Francisco, 9-13;

For Sale Swain's Theatre

SANTA CRUZ, CAL.

The only Popular-Priced Family Theatre in the City. Complete in every detail. Seating capacity, 700. Centrally located. Low rent and a long lease. Address, MACK SWAIN, Santa Cruz, Cal.

Imperial Amusement Co.

Star Theatre, Portland, Oregon
S. MORTON COHN, Pres.; MELVIN G. WINSTOCK, Gen. Mgr.
Acts of every kind are requested to write in, quoting lowest salary in first letter. Satisfactory booking for right acts at right figures.

Do you contemplate going to HONOLULU? If so, communicate with

J. C. COHEN

PROMOTER OF AMUSEMENT ENTERPRISES

Managing HAWAIIAN OPERA HOUSE and ORPHEUM THEATRE, Honolulu, H. T. Both houses thoroughly equipped and stage capable of handling any show.

Theatre for Rent for Vaudeville

Large, fine Theatre, with 800 seating capacity, large stage, in city of 5,000 people. Can be leased for vaudeville purposes. Rent, very reasonable.

Address, H., care of Dramatic Review.

Leslie King

Season with E. H. Sothorn
Closed June 17th

Immediately Engaged by
Frederic Thompson for Polly of the Circus
To open June 29th

Godfrey Matthews

At Liberty for Leads or Heavies

Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

Andrews Opera Chairs

General Seating
School—Church—Bank
Office and Steel Rod
Furniture
Purchase direct from
manufacturer
THE A. H. ANDREWS CO.
Pacific Bldg., San Francisco
Chicago, New York, Tacoma

SCENERY

The Chas. F. Rosa Scenic Studio

Undersell any studio or individual in America.

Write for a "special" estimate.

Studio, Van Ness Theatre, S. F.

Hotel St. James, Van Ness Ave., at Fulton St., San Francisco

MISS E. MATTINGLY

Official Stenographer and Typewriter to
Theatrical Agents and Managers
Theatrical Typewriting
Plays and manuscripts copied. Press
work and mimeographing.

J. B. REIGHLEY

Theatrical Hauling

Promptly Attended To

Telephone Market 1601

660 Guerrero Street, Bet. 18th and 19th

Opera, Folding and Assembly

Chairs

Full Line
See Samples at 770-776

Mission St.

Bet. 3d and 4th Sts.

SAN FRANCISCO

THE

WIGGIN CO.

Theatres and Opera Houses, National and Municipal, in Latin America

Cuts and data furnished through the courtesy of The International Bureau of the American Republics.
SECOND ARTICLE.

In their time Ranconi, Bishop, Ristori, Salvini, and Ellsler have sung, acted or danced before Latin-American audiences. The impresario Strakosch frequently visited South Aires and Rio. Today the season is announced with such artists as Bonci, Novelli, Réjane, Després, and others whose fame is assured.

Society turns out with as much look to those in paradise (Paraiso, the upper galleries) even more than to those in the pit, for appreciation and applause.

In some instances, even, the theatres of Latin America have been the scene of first performances, and composers of high rank have been glad to trust to the critical judgment of these audiences to establish their success or to damn their efforts. Nor is it these easily approached capitals alone that welcome and pay for the pleasure of

NATIONAL THEATER, SAN JOSE, COSTA RICA.

This beautiful theatre, one of the finest in the world, was erected from the proceeds of a tax on coffee at a cost of more than $1,000,000 gold. The edifice is of stone, trimmed with the finest Italian marble and stucco. The mosaic work was done by European artists especially employed for that purpose. The ceiling shown in the picture was the work of a famous Italian artist.

America with his companies. Patti and Nicolini, Coquelin and Bernhardt were welcomed there before they had been invited to the United States. Sorel, Constantino, Tetrassini, and Duse have long been guests at Buenos brilliance as in London or Paris, but the municipality does not cater alone to the wealth and aristocracy of the capital; the people love the opera and attend with the whole-souled ardor for music which makes the performers

the best art that can be obtained. Venezuela frequently makes itself the host for companies to tour the country; Quito, in Ecuador, until a few months ago almost inaccessible in her mountains; Bogota, in Colombia, reached by the ascent of the Magdalena River; La Paz, in Bolivia, still more hidden by the peaks of the Andes from the oceans on either side, have their theatres for the people, and have appropriated public money to pay for the entertainment of troupes from abroad who shall keep alive the love of art.

The word "subsidy" for things artistic has to Anglo-Saxon ears an unusual sound, but to the Latin-American it indicates a worthy function of a government which could not possibly be covered in any other way; a function, also, which, if abandoned, would cause a distinct loss in the higher and sweeter life of all the people. These operas and theatres are constructed out of public funds, appropriated from regular revenues and expended as openly as the sums for a police force. There is occasionally adverse criticism concerning the details of such expenditure. With great justice it is sometimes claimed that extravagance has marked the erection of some buildings, or that taxation has borne heavily upon the people to give them more than they asked for, but never is there attack upon the principle of state subsidy for the sup-

SOLIS THEATER, MONTEVIDEO, URUGUAY.

This large and handsome theatre covers almost two acres, and will seat 3,000 spectators. A distinguished English traveler recently said that he had seen few interiors in Europe that could rival or surpass it. The operatic and dramatic celebrities of the world, from Tamberlik to Tamagno, from Lagrange to Patti, have stood within its portals, and Salvini, Rossi, Sarah Bernhardt, and other artists have received ovations from the Montevidean public.

GOLDSTEIN & CO.
COSTUMERS for all Pacific Coast Theatres. Goldstein's Hair and Wig Store. Make-Up. Play Books. Established 1876. Lincoln Building, Market and Fifth Sts.

port of the drama and the opera. This subsidy extends further than the original cost of the structure. In most cases an annual sum is set aside for active use. During the rest of the year the building may be rented by any person or organization wishing to give entertainments in the municipal or national theatre; the proper committee has charge of the financial arrangements, and the entire matter becomes then a business affair conducted on commercial lines. The sum collected by private lease goes into the public treasury. If the building remains idle, the only loss is that of revenue and interest on the money invested. When a good opportunity arises, however, the committee begins, carries on, and concludes negotiations through which the people receive the best entertainment that can be afforded. Sometimes a committee may make money, and then the tax becomes smaller, but nobody expects the enterprise to pay, because its very purpose would be injured if prices had to be placed so high that only the rich could afford to enjoy themselves. This has been a danger in rare instances, but the people and the press soon emphasize their right to purchase tickets at a price within their means. They much prefer the subsidy to prohibition.

(Continued next week.)

For Rent Theatre Margarita

At Eureka, Cal.

May be leased by responsible parties. Theatre is new and modern in every respect.

Address,

C. P. CUTTEN, Agent,
Eureka, Cal.

SCENERY

We make Special Designs for Special Scenery, Modern Construction, Diamond Dye Scenery painted right.

Write for Prices.
Front and Sheridan Sts.
Portland, Oregon

C. F. Weber & Co. Opera Chairs

All Styles of
THEATRE AND
HALL SEATS

365-7 Market Street
San Francisco

210-212 N. Main St.
Los Angeles

FRED O. OSBORNE, Manager
Theatrical Code, "Santapole"
Home Phone F 5037

New York Dramatic Agency

Booking
Dramatic and Vaudeville Acts
Organizing and Routing Companies, Supplying "Scripts," Etc.
Belasco Theatre Building, Los Angeles
Entire Third Floor

CHARLES E. ROYAL AND ELLIOTT EDYTHER

IN VAUDEVILLE

Presenting Charles E. Royal's wonderful Burglar Playlet, "STRAIGHTENING A CROOK," and six other excellent playlets. "Best sketch ever presented at the Empire."—Eureka Times. "Full enough of dramatic and comedy situations to warrant a four-act play."—Eureka Herald. Chas. Royal and Edythe Elliott are finished artists in every sense and present a wonderfully clever act."—Watsonville Pajaronian. "Working All the Time." "Featured Everywhere."

BERT LEVEY, AGENT.

Florence Roberts and Thurlow Bergen to be Married

Florence Roberts has sufficiently recovered from her recent operation to leave San Francisco for her home, Morrison manor, Peekskill, N. Y., Sunday, accompanied by her mother. On the same train went eastward Thurlow Bergen, Miss Roberts' leading man. When they reach Morrison manor there will be a wedding in which Miss Roberts and Bergen will be the principals. Miss Roberts is the widow of the late Lewis Morrison and Mr. Bergen was divorced by his wife, a non-professional, last year.

London Opera Season Almost a Failure

LONDON, July 31.—The royal opera season closed tonight with Charpentier's Louise. The season lasted fourteen weeks and was fairly successful financially. Unlike New York, the London management is anything but extravagant in providing all-star casts and the newest operas. London usually waits to see how New York receives operatic novelties. Society patronized the opera only in May and June, appearing in greatest numbers when the King or Queen was present. The King is not fond of music, but the Queen is a musical devotee. The King attended the opera seven times this season, the Queen twelve.

Six Plays Out of Two Hundred and Fifty Win

With a record of 250 plays read, the committee of the Actors' Society, formed last January in New York at the suggestion of Augustus Thomas to aid "undiscovered playwrights," announces that it has suspended its work until October. Of the 250 manuscripts six have been selected as worthy of production at special matinees. The committee hopes to arrange for the first matinee early in September.

Some of the well-known people engaged to support Sanford Dodge this coming season are: C. Harry Slight, Adelle Nickerson and Marion Stuart.

COL. D. P. STONER

Just closed as advance for Richard Jose. At Liberty for fall season. Care Dramatic Review

MINNIE MAYFIELD

Heavies and Characters Late of Richard Jose Co. At Liberty. Care Dramatic Review

HERMAN HELLER

Musical Director Valencia Theatre Social engagements filled

DAN KELLY

Comedian Care Dramatic Review

CLARENCE J. ELMER

Bishop Players, Ye Liberty Theatre Oakland, Cal.

AUSTA PIERCE

Characters At Liberty for Summer Stock. 1210 Cedar St., San Diego, Cal.

STEVE I. SIMMONS

MAXWELL ALEXANDER

Columbia Scenic Studio Co.

Estimates on all Classes of Theatrical Work

Office, 117 Fell St., S. F.

George P. Webster

Stage Director

Ye Liberty Playhouse Stock, Oakland, Cal.

Evelyn Selbie-Virginia Thornton

Alternating Leads

Frawley Co., Alaska

Carlton Chase

Leading Man

Fischer's Theatre, San Francisco

Gerald Harcourt

Juveniles and Light Comedies

American Stock, San Francisco

Mr. & Mrs. Harry Bernard

Musical Comedy Producers

Live Managers Who Want LIVE Productions, Write Harry Bernard, Central Theatre, S. F.

Paul McAllister

Leading Man

Valencia Theatre, S. F.

Louis Morrison

Belasco Stock Co.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Seibert & Lindley

Presenting the headline act, "HER OWN MOTHER," in vaudeville.

Florence Roberts

Starring for Summer, Alcazar Theatre, S. F.

Sidney B. Payne

Ed Redmond Stock, San Jose.

GEORGIE WOODTHORPE

Characters Broadway Theatre, Oakland

ALBERT ROWLAND

Late of Chas. Frohman and Chas. Dillingham With Richard J. Jose, Season 1909-10.

LAURA LUCILE HEIMLICH

Leads Everett, Wash.

FRED S. CUTLER

Late Manager for Richard Jose Advance or back At Liberty Address care Dramatic Review

EDWARD B. LADA

General Music Director for Belasco & Mayer

A. BURT WESNER

Alcazar Theatre, San Francisco

TEDDY WEBB

Comedian, San Francisco Opera Co. Direction John Cort

HARRY J. LASK

Representative New York Clipper N. E. Cor. Sansome and Pine Sts.

HARRY MARSHALL

Scenic Artist At Liberty. 3748 Vermont Ave., Los Angeles

MINOR REED

Scenic Artist At Liberty Address Dramatic Review

CARRIE CLARKE WARDE

Characters Dick Ferris Stock, Minneapolis

GILMORE WALKER

Stage Manager Valencia Theatre, San Francisco

EDDIE

Mitchell

Juveniles

CHESTER STEVENS

Heavies Grand Opera House Stock, Los Angeles

MARY HARVEY-BARBOUR

Leads (Versatile) 3d Ave. Theatre, Seattle

FREDERICK GILBERT

Burbank Stock, Los Angeles

ARTHUR SHEPPARD

Scenic Artist Care Dramatic Review

Howard Foster

Light Comedy and Characters At Liberty Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

IRENE OUTTRIM

Leads Musical Comedy Co., Reno, Nevada

ROBERT LAWLER

Leading Man

SUSIE HOWARD

Engaged for Lyric Stock Portland, Ore.

PIETRO SOSSO

Leading Man—Elleford Co. Address, 179 De Long Ave., S. F.

FRED. C. CHARMAN

Juveniles and Light Comedy General Delivery, Tucson, Arizona

WARDA HOWARD

Leads Vancouver, B. C.

CHARLES MARRIOTT

Gardiner Stock Co. Victoria, B. C.

Walter H. Newman AND Bertha Foltz

Starring Jointly

High-Class Repertoire

Season 1909 and 1910

Darrell Standing

Lois Stock, Seattle

Alf. T. Layne Daisy D'Avra

Del Lawrence Stock, Victoria

Edith Lyle

Ingenué — Valencia Stock

San Francisco

Donald Bowles

Dramatic Director Geo. L. Baker's Attractions.
Address Bungalow Theatre, Portland, Oregon.
Loaned by Mr. Baker to direct Mr. James Neill's Company for him in St. Paul, Minn.

Reginald Holmes

Characters

Edmund Gardiner Stock, Victoria

Neva West

Care Dramatic Review

Permanent Address, 2110 Post Street

Johnny Williams, Jr.

"FRISCO"

"The Man in Front." Can Book or Wild Cat

Louise Kent

In Vaudeville

Her Own Company

Pantages Circuit

Thurlow White

Engaged

Invites Offers

REVIEW

E. P. Foot

GENERAL MUSICAL DIRECTOR

Murray &amp; Mack Co., Incorporated

Mason Opera House Bldg., Los Angeles.

Mildred Fitzgerald

Song and Dance Soubrette

Experienced in character and musical comedy stock.

Mina Crolus Gleason

Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland

Budd Ross

Comedian

Princess Theatre, San Francisco

Millar Bacon

Singing Light Comedian

James Post Co.

Al Hallett

Stage Director

Broadway Theatre, Oakland

F. F. Munier

Characters

Broadway Theatre Stock, Oakland

Priscilla Knowles Bennett Jack

Leads

Characters

Broadway Theatre, Oakland

Milton Stallard

Stage Director

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Whit Brandon Ethel Tucker

Leading Man and Director

Leading Woman

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Charles E. Gunn

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

George B. Baldwin, Jr.

Alcazar Stock, San Francisco

Monroe Salisbury

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Sydney Ayres

Leading Man

Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, Cal.

James Austin Gleason—Webster Lucile

Light Comedy and Character

Juveniles and Comedy

At Liberty after June 12th. Address this office.

Scene from Paid in Full, at the Van Ness Theatre, two weeks, commencing August 9th

The Great American Play, Paid In Full

Two million five hundred thousand persons had seen Paid in Full when, at the end of last season, the Wagenhals & Kemper Company allowed its players a brief holiday before starting them out again this autumn in the Eugene Walter drama, and five companies had appeared in it for a total of two hundred and forty-four weeks and two thousand and twelve performances. Here is a record far exceeding any other in theatrical history the world over. Never before had a play been acted by so many companies; never had so many persons seen a play in an equal space of time; never had there been such notable runs, including two solid years in New York and six months in Chicago; never before had a play without music gone through a summer either in New York or Chicago, and never had a play made such a record for return visits. Going back five and six times to many places, Paid in Full always did an increased business, invariably the audiences were bigger. A record-maker, indeed, is this play, which comes to the Van Ness Theatre next Monday for a two weeks' stay.

The Orpheum

The Orpheum announces for next week a most tempting program. La Petite Revue will head the coming bill. It is a review of old and new footlight successes arranged and presented in a most unique manner. A delightful tableau entitled A Sleepless Serenade is the finale. La Petite Revue calls for the services of those melodious vocalists, Ray O. Dietrich, Mabel Rettew, F. Kek, Schilling, Kirby Kahill, Arline Fredericks, Eleanor Caldwell and Harry Irwin. Eleanor Gordon will appear in a sketch of which report speaks most highly, entitled Tips on Tap. It was written for her by Edgar Allen Woolf and in it she has the assistance of Joseph Sullivan. The Five Avolos, the premier xylophonists in Europe, will introduce selections from their large and varied repertoire. Lena Pantzer, assisted by Sam Mint, will contribute a terpsichorean specialty in which she dances on the floor, on a spade and on a wire. She is a skillful slack-wire artist, but her aerial performance is but a single feature of an extraordinary act, which contains something new in the dancing line. Next week will be the last of the Six American Dancers, Matthews and Ashley, Conroy and Le Maire and also of Sam Chip and Mary Marble in their immense hit In Old Edam. Something entirely original in the way of motion pictures will conclude the performance.

Alcazar Theatre

Something akin to a double event is announced by the Alcazar management as its offering for the coming week. Augustus Phillips, engaged to play masculine leads during the sea-

A Great Bargain in Scenery

SPEAK QUICK! WRITE NOW!!

$3,000 worth of Fine New Scenery will be sacrificed for . . . . $600 . . . .

::: Scenery :::

1 PALACE ARCH.
4 FANCY SETS.

1 KITCHEN.
1 LOG CABIN.

2 SET HOUSES.

1 ROCKY PASS.
1 STREET.
1 MEADOW.
1 LAKE AND WOOD.
1 HORIZON.
1 PALACE ARCH.
2 INTERIOR.
1 GARDEN.
1 TROPICAL.

9 Drops

3 LEG DROPS, TROPICAL.
SET ROCKS, RUNS, PARALLELS, ETC.

Apply to H. C., care Dramatic Review

son of 1909-10, will make his first professional appearance in San Francisco, the medium of his introduction being Edwin Milton Royle's The Squaw Man. As the play has never been presented here by a stock company, and as Mr. Phillips will be entirely new to the Alcazar's clientele, the bill will possess two-fold novelty. The Squaw Man has earned a reputation for clean, wholesome, thorough-going Americanism that comes close to placing upon it the stamp of the greatest play of Western America that has yet been given to the public. This squaw man is a self-sacrificing young English gentleman, and the play opens in his native land. To save the head of the family, an Earl, from punishment for embezzlement, and his wife from disgrace, he permits suspicion of the crime to fall upon himself and disappears. When next seen by the audience he is a Wyoming cattleman and known as Jim Carston.

The scene of the act is the interior of a saloon at a Union Pacific water station, where the Earl and his wife, members of a tourist party, stop off and Carston saves them from an unpleasant predicament. He is at first unrecognized, but the Earl's wife penetrates his changed personality and thanks him privately just as the train pulls out. In the excitement attendant upon the departure of the train, Cash Hawkins, a desperado, who has a grievance against Carston, is about to shoot him down in cold blood when the daughter of an Indian chief shoots Hawkins from ambush. Carston is at first accused of the crime, but manages to prove his innocence and the curtain falls with the Indian girl's revelation of herself as the murderess. In the next act, which shows Carston's ranch, and is six years later, the rancher has married the Indian girl and is in possession of a son. News comes that the Earl is dead, and that Carston is head of the family and possessor of the title. Feeling that he cannot desert his wife, he decides to renounce his claim to the title and send his boy off to England to be educated and prepared for the position he is to hold. The Indian mother tries to dissuade her husband from separating her from the child, and when her pleadings are of no avail she wanders out to the desert and shoots herself. Mr. Phillips will have all the Alcazar favorites and many extra people in the cast with him, and a very elaborate production is promised.

SANFORD DODGE, who has been spending a pleasant vacation in Colorado, will open his regular season August 25. He will rehearse his company at Alliance, Neb., and his tour will include all territory west of the Mississippi.

GEORGE CARLTON SOMNES has been re-engaged by Sanford Dodge for leading business for the coming season of 1909-10.

MAUD BURNS has been engaged by Jos. M. Gaite to play Alice Eastman in support of Emmett Corrigan in Paul Wiltach's Keegan's Pal.

Rehearsals Started July 26, Season Opens August 23

Booked Nearly Solid to May 1st
1910

AS THE SUN
WENT DOWN

By Geo. D. Baker

Address
ARTHUR C. AISTON
Sole Owner
Room 304
1505 Broadway
N. Y. City
Tel. 941 Bryant

THE SAN FRANCISCO DRAMATIC REVIEW

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Published Continuously Since 1880. The Only Theatrical Publication in the Great West

Ten Cents a Copy—$4.00 a Year

San Francisco, Saturday, August 14, 1909

No. 25—Vol. XX—New Series

Fay
Carranza

Terkelsen & Henry, Foto.

Alan Dale and Rose Stahl Chat In London

Miss Rose Stahl, at the Savoy Hotel today, was so "full o' temp'rament" that, once or twice, I thought emotion would "choke her utterance." But it didn't. Even emotion couldn't choke all that, for Miss Stahl is such a lively, voluble and charming creature that she would talk under any circumstances. I wanted her to do it, for just at present she is the American attraction here that has turned the tide, and has routed all the silly talk about "conspiracy" and "prejudice," and all that sort of thing. The Chorus Lady at the Vaudeville Theatre, has honestly "hit 'em." Miss Stahl wiped a tear from her eye. "If my light were to go out today," she said enthusiastically, "I couldn't repine, for I should say I've had mine. Whatever happens in the future doesn't matter. I've had such pleasure, such joy, over here that I can't forget it. I never shall forget it. They're such darlings—the English. They're such kind, hospitable and appreciative dears. I just love 'em."

Bearing in mind the recent remarks of Marie Dressler on the subject of England's perfidy, I felt quite interested in Miss Stahl's "contrary opinion," and proceeded to draw her out.

"Many people thought," continued the ebullient Rose, "that they wouldn't understand Patricia O'Brien's slang over here. They just eat it. They simply revel in it, and they've christened me 'Mme. Argot.' They tell me that in Belgravia and Mayfair the swell people come out with Patricia's expressions at the most swagger functions, and I can't help thinking that I've planted Americanisms over here. But it isn't only the comedy of my play that goes; it is the emotion. You know they repress themselves a good deal over here. It's bad form to be emotional and to show feeling. London plays are very hard and callous, and I think—mind you, I think—that they enjoy the pathos of The Chorus Lady."

"I'll tell you something," said Miss Stahl, "but don't laugh. Promise not to laugh. Mr. French, who is starting a repertoire theatre here and who has millions at his disposal, has offered me leading roles if I'll remain. He wants me to play quite serious parts, and has even a Maeterlinck character for me. They all think I look like Ellen Terry, you see. I don't say I can act like Ellen Terry, but I do look a wee bit like her, don't I? Oh, I know I'm not a great actress—never was—never shall be. Just the same, I've played all sorts of parts in a little Philadelphia stock company, and I could—I could, I say—play Shakespeare at a pinch—"

"Miss Stahl," I interrupted, sternly, "please—"

"Oh, I refused," she went on, "laughing. 'Fear not, Alan Dale. You won't have to roast me as Juliet or knock me as Rosalind. No, I shall play The Chorus Lady, I suppose, until I need store teeth—until my leading man's grandson is old enough to play my father. I shall be like Jefferson in Rip Van Winkle. Why not? I've unexplored territory to tackle yet. I've got all sorts of towns to visit. I'm not so terribly ambitious. Success is my only ambition. Popper at Trenton, N. J., likes my play. I gauge all my success by New Jersey. When a New Jersey paper announced last week that London liked Rose Stahl, my cup of joy was full. You see, popper is a New Jersey editor, and I—well, you see, Jersey is my point of view."

"Is London making you rich?"

Rose Stahl laughed jubilantly. "They don't know what money means over here," she said. "They don't need money over here. They can be happy without it. They are, too. Here it isn't all dollars and cents. When Arthur Prince refused $1,000 a week in New York to get $300 here, he said he was thankful for the smaller amount. We can't make much money at the Vaudeville Theatre, and we have made all we can. So I shall go back to dollars and hard work. They are satisfied with so little in England. It doesn't make a scrap of difference if you are rich or poor. They like you just the same. I was so amused when I was in London last time at a performance of The Lion and the Mouse. There were some people at the back of me who couldn't understand it. 'I wonder why he talks so loud,' said one, and the other replied, 'because he has money.' I've met such dear people—been received at their country houses, stayed week-ends with them, and have been made to feel that I was nice and companionable and interesting."

"How do you like the London critics?"

"Perfect loves!" exclaimed the ecstatic Miss Stahl.

"Are you going back on us—your first love?"

"Ah," she said, diplomatically—clever woman. "You discovered me. It was really easy for London to write about a company that New York had already discovered. It is never difficult to follow on a road that has been indicated."

Honestly, I couldn't have thought of anything better myself. Miss Stahl is a genius in her way, but a jolly, sympathetic and convivial genius. Naturally she "felt good," and that makes a heap of difference. But I will say that of all the ladies I've chatted with in my time—gee, what a list!—I've never come across a more temperamental subject than Miss Stahl. I've not reproduced some of her serious moods, but she gave me samples of them. She was blithe and gay, yet sometimes a tear showed. She laughed when she said she told English society that she had no ancestors. She was emotional when she described a little English Patricia O'Brien in a chorus girl, who would never take lunch because she was saving up for her little brother.

Still, the actress did show herself once. It showed itself when she asked me why I came to see her.

"To chat with you for publication," I replied.

And her amazement was beautifully done. "Oh!" she exclaimed. "Is this an interview? I thought you came to see me merely because you were interested in me."

And that idea tickled me enormously. At my time of life!—New York American.

Personals

GEORGE DAMERAL, who plays the Prince in The Merry Widow, spent a week at home while in Los Angeles, as his father and mother and uncle

... Last Call For Dinner ...

We have about 200 SUMMER SUITS in stock which we intend closing out at once.

We offer these suits at half price, to wit:

$20 Suits	$25 Suits	$30 Suits	$35 Suits	$40 Suits
$10.00	$12.50	$15.00	$17.50	$20.00

A Small Charge for Alterations if Necessary.

Chas. S. Rosener

57 POWELL STREET

San Francisco

are all residents of Los Angeles and in business in that city. They are with Mr. Dameral joint owners in a ranch at Covina, near Los Angeles, set to oranges, and comprising some twenty acres. Mr. Dameral said that he had recently purchased a ranch of 320 acres near Riverside and would start at once to cultivate it. Then he added, "And believe me, that the call of this Southwest is too strong for me, and when I can I am coming back to make this my home." While in Los Angeles Mr. Dameral said he did not feel the strain of his nightly dancing and singing at all, and enjoys it just as much now when he is dancing it for the seven thousandth time as he did the first time. "Why don't I get tired?" he said. "Well, I come from a great race. My grandmother down on our Covina ranch is hearty and healthy at the age of 79. My grandfather was over 90 when he died."

Slightly Worn Wardrobe for Stage Purposes
Ladies' Handsome Evening Gowns and Opera Coats; good as new; in latest styles. Men's Full Dress and Tuxedo Suits. MRS. H. JACOBS, 1050 Golden Gate Avenue. Store Phone West 2185, Residence Phone Park 4298.

His father, a Devonshire man, died when nearly a hundred. My great-grandmother died at the age of 100 years and 3 months and was the mother of twenty-two children. Five of her brothers lived to be over 100 years old, and finally we are descended from William the Conqueror. Now you don't wonder that I have fine health and strength and agility and muscle, do you?"

GEORGE OSBOURNE is planning to put in some weeks in vaudeville with an Harry Cottrell sketch.

MRS. JANE GERMON, the aged actress, died in Baltimore on Tuesday of ailments incident to old age. She was 88 years. She retired eight or ten years ago.

Van Ness Theatre Two Weeks Commencing Monday Aug. 9

MATINEE SATURDAY

The Wagenhals & Kemper Co.

Will Offer a Notable Production of Eugene Walter's
Play of Real Life

PAID IN FULL

Enthusiastically Applauded by
TWO MILLION FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND PERSONS
As the Most Popular Play of the American Stage

Oakland .....	August 23-24-25
San Jose .....	August 26
Stockton .....	August 27
Fresno .....	August 28
Los Angeles .....	August 30, week

Hotel St. James

Cor. Van Ness Ave. and Fulton St.
San Francisco, California

Headquarters for Agents and Managers

Half Block from Van Ness Theatre.
Friars meet at the St. James every Friday night.

F. P. SHANLEY, Manager, formerly of New York

De Koven, Composer, to Melodize Du Maurier's Famous Trilby

Reginald DeKoven, who wrote the music of Robin Hood, will now begin the consummation of his life's dream—the composition of a grand opera, says Musical America. Du Maurier's Trilby is to be its book foundation, and Harry B. Smith will attend to the libretto. Oscar Hammerstein will continue in his work of giving impetus to native composers by producing it at the Manhattan Opera House in the season of 1910-11. In writing the libretto Mr. Smith will rather apply to the book than to the well-known play. This will permit the introduction of new effects and lyric advancement and give Mr. DeKoven the opportunity to use his musical gifts in their fullest capacity. Following the announcement of this work, Paul Potter, the playwright, denied the license of DeKoven and Smith to use Trilby for operatic purposes, claiming that he and the late George D. Maurier had secured same from Harper Bros. In regard to this, Mr. DeKoven has said that he is in the dark, but is confident that a man of Mr. Smith's standing would not undertake such a work without having overlooked such grounds in advance. He added that Mr. Smith and Mr. Potter had discussed the matter and had probably come to an amicable understanding. At any rate the composer did not seem perturbed over the prospect of the strong arm of the copyright law preventing his accomplishment of his project. Although busy with preparations for departure for summer quarters at Bar Harbor, Me., Mr. DeKoven had time to discuss the great work last week. "Over a year ago," he explained, "I began talking with Mr. Hammerstein about the writing of an opera. I had considered the possibilities of clothing Shakespeare's Twelfth Night with music. Mr. Hammerstein, however, considered that the subject would be too ultra-English. Later, the desire to provide something that would admit of spectacular stage effects evolved the idea of making use of Trilby. It is a wonderment to me why this was never utilized before. The very theme of the book is conducive to musical treatment—a woman singing under hypnotic influence. The work as now planned will consume about the regular time of the modern opera—three hours and a quarter. It will contain four acts, probably. The tragic culmination of the work will be allowed its course, as such would present advantages to the composer. Mr. Hammerstein's wish for ensemble and chorus effects will be carried out. The work will by no means be of the order of music-dramas as typified by Pelleas et Melisande. The opinion of Mr. Hammerstein and myself is that melody is the non-eclipsable power—and accordingly melody will characterize Trilby. Such works as are void of this first and paramount quality may enjoy a temporary popularity, but they cannot have longevity. My office as critic for the past fifteen years has allowed me the hearing of every opera, which I esteem to be an estimable aid. Trilby will have the virtue of modernity of treatment and effect—which, however, doesn't mean modernity in another sense—for, as I reiterate, melody will be the bone and sinew of its structure. In writing the lighter works, it has been to earn my living—not the obedience of my education and inclinations, which are eminently to the creation of more massive and more important works. Mr. Hammerstein's confidence in my ability to give birth to a work worthy of his opera house is appreciable. As yet the impresario hasn't seen one line of it—for, in fact, it is still in a nebulous state. Mr. Smith and I have gone over it several times, and from these conversations I have made only sketches. Mr. Hammerstein wanted it ready for production this year. One year's time, however, was all the time he would allow me. As regards to the characters, Mary Garden, it is assumed will take the title role. As for Svengali, this would fit ideally the talents of Maurice Renaud, whose histrionic as well as vocal ability would make the part one of the greatest on the stage. Another augmenting feature to the availability of Trilby is its familiarity to the great mass of people. Familiarity with an opera is undoubtedly a force in its favor, as people are prone to enjoy and appreciate best what is comprehensible and known. Thus the necessity of keeping gone's nose in the score will be obviated to many. As regards its production in English, there is yet no definite decision. Personally I would advocate this in pursuance of the principle which I have been drumming into my literary writings. Although Mr. Hammerstein has a goodly number of American singers, there are also many high-grade vocalists who have yet to master it. At any rate, it would have to be translated into French and possibly German for European production. You are aware that there would be small monetary return for production only at the Manhattan Opera House. It is expected that it will be produced in Paris and Berlin at the same time."

Spotlights

One of John A. Himmelein's attractions, under the management of George V. Halliday, opens a short stock engagement at the Bijou Theatre, Superior, Wis., Sunday, August 15. Superior has not had a dramatic company since the burning of the Grand Opera House, and as the Bijou, which is the Sullivan-Considine house, had closed for the summer, Mr. Halliday secured it for a brief stock engagement. The Yankee Doodle stock company, one of John A. Himmelein's attractions, is playing to phenomenal business through Northern Michigan. W. O. Miller, formerly with Rosabelle Leslie company, is now with the Yankee Doodle stock company.

Lew Dockstader has signed with the Shuberts and now a black face revelry may be expected.

The Elleford Company

For 1908-09 — All Royalty Plays

PALS, by Edmund Day
ALL DUE TO DIANA,
DORIS

FROM FARM TO FACTORY
A WOMAN'S SECRET

UNDER THE GASLIGHT,
DR. BILL
THE OTHER FELLOW
THE NEW CINDERELLA
And Several Others.

Pacific Coast Representative for Brady and Gusmer's
MAN OF THE HOUR and WAY DOWN EAST

Managers, please note that I control exclusive Coast rights to these plays.

W. J. ELLEFORD, Sole Proprietor and Director

FRANK WYMAN, Manager
Permanent Address, Francis-Valentine Co., 285-287 13th St., S. F.

The Oliver Morosco Enterprises

HOME OFFICE
BURBANK THEATRE BUILDING
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Oliver Morosco's Plays

Ready for Stock

The Judge and the Jury      The Halfbreed
The Empress and the Soldier
In South Car'liney

Is the New Majestic a winner? Well, we guess yes

MOROSCO'S BURBANK THEATRE

Los Angeles, Cal.
"The Best in the West"
The Leading Stock House.

Hamburger's MAJESTIC Theatre
The Handsomest in the West
Cost $300,000.00
Oliver Morosco, Lessee & Mgr
For time address, JOHN CORT

The Garrick Theatre

San Diego, Cal.
MOROSCO & WYATT.
Lessees and Mgrs.

By an arrangement made recently between Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger, Sherman Brown and the Harry Askin Co. (Inc.), Chicago, the Davidson Theatre in Milwaukee hereafter will be the scene of the first performances of any musical plays Mr. Askin may produce for the next few years. One of these each year will be a musical comedy of the most lavish cost and highest degree of excellence, while the other will play to the more popular class of theatre patrons. After a week's trial in Milwaukee Mr. Askin's attraction in Milwaukee Mr. Askin's attractions will go respectively to the Grand Opera House and LaSalle Theatre, Chicago, for an unlimited run.

I violate no confidence in asserting that the jeunesse doree of local clubdom had the time of their lives yesterday at Charley Hastings' beautiful foothill ranch at Sierra Madre. The occasion was a luncheon given by the bachelor host to about a dozen members of The Merry Widow company, to help entertain whom a similar number of eligible young bachelors were bidden to the feast. Their automobiles were in requisition to bear out to the vine-clad hills the merry young women of the Henry Savage company, and if the welkin rang with their unconfined laughter en route, what wonder? Prior to the serving of luncheon, the guests disported in the cold mountain water plunge bath, so pleasant a feature of the Hastings ranch, and with that in view the instruction to "bring your bathing suits" was rigidly observed. I am told that Mr. Hastings' imported chef proved a great success, and what with the patties, salads, sweet entrees, bonbons, grape juice—from the Hastings vines—and wit and laughter, a joyous time resulted. It is said the chorus appeared a trifle languid at the Friday evening performance of The Merry Widow, but this slander undoubtedly emanated from one of the envious uninvited.—Los Angeles Graphic.

NEW AUDITORIUM

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CAL.

Seating capacity, 1,000, new stage, new scenery; stage thirty feet deep, sixty feet wide; large enough for any production; a population of 5,000 to draw from; now booking for 1909-10.
Address WALTER A. CLARK, Mountain View, Cal.

New Oxnard Opera House

OXNARD, CAL.

Factory Town and Wealthy Country
Five Thousand Population
New House and Doing Big Business
Write for Open Dates
GEO. P. AUSTIN . . . . . Manager

GONZALES OPERA HOUSE

GONZALES, CAL.

New, well appointed theatre, electric lighted.
full stock of new scenery.
C. H. WIDEMAN, Mgr.

WOODLAND Opera House

WOODLAND, CAL.

Greatest show town for good shows in the West. A few good dates open in September and October. Stage big enough for any production. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

Hill Opera House

PETALUMA, CAL.

JOHN R. ROCHE, Lessee and Manager

The finest theatrical town outside of the big cities in the West. Magnificent new theatre, with stage large enough for any attraction, playing regularly from $500 to $700 a night. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

287 Thirteenth St., S. F.

BARCROFT Opera House, Merced

Entirely remodeled. New stage, big enough for any production. Stage equipped with new scenery. Merced has 4,000 population. For time write F. R. BARCROFT, Manager.

Santa Cruz OPERA HOUSE

Santa Cruz, Cal.

L. A. KNIGHT, Manager

Rental or will play first-class companies on percentage

H. Lewin

H. Oppenheim

GORDAN TAILORING CO.

928 Market St., Bet. Powell and Mason
FINE CLOTHES MODERATE PRICES
No Branch Stores

TheatreChairs For Sale

About 700 good Theatre Chair; 50 Large Loge Seat Chairs; Sheet Iron Moving Picture Operating Box, the best and largest one in this city; scenery, etc.; will sell at a bargain; delivery about Sept. 15. Address Room 5, 629½ S. Broadway, Los Angeles.

Madison's Budget No. 12, Just Out
Parent's Stationery Co., 818 Van Ness Avenue, S.F.

Okum Dope

Perhaps there are no people who can "dope" out a really good time, better, or with more enjoyable results, than theatrical people. They are made up of the several parts of humanity, that act in conjunction with one another, to accomplish this. Sentiment and open-heartedness are two prominent characteristics of the actor folk. Most of them are born Bohemians. The writer of this had the good fortune to be associated with a "bunch" of splendid fellows last season in Frederic Thompson's Polly of the Circus company. Six of the boys were seated in their hotel office in Kansas City last November, when one said: "Let us start a little social club in the company for the mutual enjoyment we so often need after the show." It was started, and then they cast about for a name for the club. They finally decided on the "Okum Dope Club," with a list of eight charter members—Messrs. Howard, Kelly, Hotaling, Best, Aronson, Johnson and Young. Other members were soon added. Then the high jinks began. Their initial smoker was held in Louisville, Ky., January 25, 1909, and was an immense success. Professionals from all the different companies playing in Louisville at the time were invited to partake of our hospitality—and, by gosh, they did to the tune of over two hundred people, men and women. We had a fine lunch, plenty to drink, and talent galore, and the show lasted until well into the wee small hours, and with the final Auld Lang Syne all departed to their several places of rest and they voted the Okum Dopes a lot of fine fellows. At the closing of the season they pulled off another in Grand Rapids, and we parted, hoping to all meet soon again. So we did, for Fred Thompson, with his splendid good judgment of actors as well as the play, re-engaged the same company for this season. So the Okum Dopes are again in evidence. Here in dear old Frisco they held their first meet at the hotel on Friday night, August 5, elected and initiated several new members, E. B. Jack, manager of the company; John Findley, Charles Lamb and others. But there was one candidate who got cold feet and refused to ride the goat. There was some real comedy when one of the newly-elected members of the Dopes began to kid the candidate who could not be persuaded to take our dope in the spirit it was intended. Gee, but it was funny to hear the good-natured badinage that passed between them! I never laughed so much, and hilarious merriment was the order of the house. We finally closed our session by remarks by the old and new members and adjourned to meet again in Seattle and have another jolly smoker and fun galore. Yours truly,

D. R. YOUNG.

Cohan and Harris' Plans for 1909-1910

Cohan and Harris are preparing for a long and notable season, which will include a number of important new productions. Geo. M. Cohan and his Royal Family will tour to the Pacific Coast in The Yankee Prince, returning in time to produce Mr. Cohan's new musical play written for himself on Broadway on Washington's birthday. The Cohan and Harris Minstrels with George Evans and one hundred Honey Boys will open their second season at Atlantic City, N. J., on August 9, with an entirely new cast. J. E. Dodson will resume his run in The House Next Door, by J. Hartley Manners, on August 9 at the Gaiety Theater, New York City. He will leave the Gaiety Theater for his tour of the big cities early in September, and will be followed by Jack Barrymore and Mary Ryan in The Fortune Hunter, a comedy by Winchell Smith. The Gaiety Theater is Cohan and Harris' producing house. Raymond Hitchcock will be starred in a new musical play by Geo. M. Cohan, entitled The Man From Broadway. His tour will begin toward the end of August. Edna Wallace Hopper will assume a stellar position when she opens in October in The Harrigan Girl, a new musical play by Geo. M. Cohan. Just before the holidays the firm will make a big spectacular production of The House That David Built, a new play by Richard J. Madden. Cohan and Harris will produce new plays by J. Hartley Manners, Winchell Smith, William J. Hurlbut and Charles Gebest and Geo. Parsons. Victor Moore will begin his third season in The Talk of New York. Thomas E. Shea, the tragedian, will be seen in a new play. Trixie Friganza will be starred in The American Idea by Geo. M. Cohan. Forty-five Minutes From Broadway and Fifty Miles From Boston will go on long tours covering the country. Brewster's Millions will again be presented in the West and South.

Jack Massie will install a musical comedy company at Oak Park, Sacramento, a week from Monday.

CHAS. F. THOMPSON SCENIC CO.

MAIN OFFICE AND STUDIOS, 460, 462, 464 WITMER STREET, LOS ANGELES
THE FINEST, LARGEST AND MOST MODERN SCENIC STUDIOS IN THE WORLD. SCENERY FOR OPERA HOUSES AND PRODUCTIONS. DROP CURTAINS AND SCENIC ADVERTISING DROP CURTAINS OUR SPECIALTY. IN USE IN 1268 THEATRES IN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA. WHY NOT YOURS?

LEVY'S BIG TRUNK STORE

INCORPORATED
COAST AGENTS
FOR THE

Taylor Trunks

687 Market St., S. F. opp. N. E. Phone Douglas 3192

Newman-Foltz Company

All arrangements for the tour of the company headed by Walter H. Newman and Bertha Foltz are nearing completion. The company is well balanced, containing such well-known people as Edward Clisbie, George Von Blix, late of the Valencia Theater stock company; Max Weisman, of the Ye Liberty stock, Oakland; Bert Porter, Jane Wilson, Alene Johnson. Mr. Newman and Miss Foltz will be seen in two or three of their old successes and have added quite a number of new plays to their repertoire, including Camille, Moths, Thorns and Orange Blossoms, a complete production of Carmen and several other well known successes. This company is well equipped with good paper and the friends of Mr. Newman and Miss Foltz predict a very prosperous season for them.

CLAIRE SINCLAIR will open with the Russel and Drew stock at the Seattle Theater, Seattle, two weeks from today.

Persse-Mason Company Will Be a Feature of This Season

Those two fine singers, Thomas Persse and Edith Mason, who have for years ranked as the foremost comic opera stars, will on September 20 start on a tour of the Coast with a high-class musical comedy, supported by a fine company of recognized artists. The opera is from the pen of Herman Perlet, the composer who ranks as one of America's foremost light opera masters. The company will carry special scenery, all its "props" and will ask for a clear stage wherever it goes. It will be recalled that Persse and Mason were principals at the Tivoli here for years, as well as with other first-class organizations.

Emma Bunting has but three more weeks at the Seattle Theater, Seattle, closing there on September 4. On September 12 in Denver she begins a long road tour in Lena Rivers.

A Broadway wag returning from Atlantic City the other day, where he had seen the first performance of The Gay Hussars, said: "Savage has got another success with a widow in it. It's a wonder he doesn't change his name to Henry Widow Savage."

Novelty Theatre, San Francisco TO RENT

By the day, week or month. Fine, comfortable theatre, seating 1,200 people. Large stage.
SPECIALLY ADAPTED TO POLITICAL MEETINGS

LOW RATES TO Alaska-Yukon-Pacific ...Exposition...

FOR ROUND TRIP TICKETS

FROM		FROM
San Francisco .....	$32.50	Suisun .....	$32.50
Sacramento .....	32.50	Davis .....	32.50
Lathrop .....	32.50	Napa .....	32.75
Stockton .....	32.50	Santa Rosa .....	33.60
Tracy .....	32.50	Calistoga .....	33.95

Greatly reduced rates from other points in California. Tickets sold daily May 25 to Sept. 30, and cover two months' trip going and coming via the famous

Shasta Route of the Southern Pacific

Stopovers going and coming.
Many other routes at slightly higher rates for you to select from.
Write or call on our nearest agent for full details of service, etc., or address

DEPT. ADV., 948 FLOOD BUILDING, FOR INFORMATION

Warrens of Virginia is in Its Second Week at the Belasco Theatre in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—The first week of grand opera at the Mason has been a great success and a treat to all lovers of music. The work of the chorus as well as principals is worthy of much praise. The Auditorium Orchestra, as re-organized for the Shubert occupancy of the house, will in all probability be under the direction of E. C. Kammermeyer. Frank Frayne is back here again after an absence of two years. He appears this week at the Grand in the cast of A Man of Mystery. Eleanor Kent, who will be pleasantly remembered as prima donna of the Temple Opera Company at the Auditorium, has been engaged by John Cort for the leading feminine role in King Dodo, which is booked for a week at the Majestic Theatre later in the season. A. Byron Beasley has returned from his vacation quite ready to begin work. Maude Beatty has been engaged to play Rose Coghlan's part of Mrs. Jennings in Jack Straw, when that comedy is produced at the Burbank next week. J. W. Conoly, manager of the Western company of The Climax, is in town arranging for the premiere of his organization at the Mason Opera House, August 16. The cast now playing The Climax in New York will be transferred to Los Angeles. There are only four people in the company, and the actors to be seen here are Ruby Bridges, Albert Satscha, Walter Wilson and Edwin August. The original company, which includes Albert Bruning, Effingham Pinto and Leona Watson, has gone to Chicago. John Blackwood is expected to return to the city the latter part of the week after an absence of two weeks. John Burton of the Burbank company is passing his vacation at Playa-del-Rey. Lovell Alice Taylor has returned from a trip to San Francisco and Oakland. Carroll Marshall is in Salt Lake City as a delegate from the Columbia Circle, Women of the G. A. R., to the Grand Army encampment. Maybelle Baker, recently with the Morosco musical company, has decided not to join the Prescott, Ariz., musical organization in which she was offered the place of prima donna, and announces her intention of returning to the Kolb and Dill company, playing at the reopening of the latter organization at the Majestic week after next. The Prescott manager claims a contract forbids her to do so, but it is not thought likely the matter will be put to a legal test.

BELASCO—For the second week, the Belasco company is putting on The Warrens of Virginia. The cast remains the same as at the opening performance and they are turning them away every night.

BURBANK—The Honor of the Family is the offering for the week at the Burbank. It is unfortunate that Mr. Desmond should make his final appearance with the company in this play, because it is far from being the best thing he has done, and the other members of the company are not at their best either.

There is little or no French in the production, and that detracts much from the play. In costuming and make-up Mr. Desmond is ideal. He does thoroughly like the Skinner role, but it is in all probability the hardest part he has been called upon to play. Blanche Hall does good work as Flora. Mr. Yerance's portrayal of Jean Jacques Roguet is perfect. Frederick Gilbert makes a very good Max Gilet. The stage setting and the costumes are all that one could desire and the play is most satisfactory and pleasing from beginning to end. Mr. Desmond is the center of attraction this week.

MASON—This is the second and last week of the grand opera at the Mason. It is seldom that we have an opportunity to see a company every member of which is as good as the company now at the Mason. The chorus also does excellent work. The operas for the week include Fedora, Faust, Il Trovatore, L'Amico Fritz, La Traviata, Otello, Lucia di Lammermoor and Cavalleria Rusticana.

GRAND—The melodrama at the Grand this week is Mark Swan's The Man of Mystery. It is the best play that has been put on by this company in a long time. There is call for real and clever acting in the piece and the company comes up to the mark every time. The story of the play has to do with a hypnotist who has raised his faculty of control to an astonishing degree of power. Mr. Webb, of course, is the villain, and he plays the part well. Good work is done by Gertrude Claire, Grace Rauworth, Zora Bates and Alice Lewis. James Dillon makes a very good detective. Frank Frayne returns to the Grand after an absence of two years, and his comedy is well received. Jack McDonald is cast as an absent-minded old doctor, and Franklyn Hall is well cast.

ORPHEUM—The bill at the Orpheum is headed this week by a one-act melodrama called The Comstock Mystery. There are nine characters in this drama by W. H. Clifford, and seven of these are assumed by Charlotte Parry. She demonstrates her versatility as an actress, and her quick changes of costume are wonderful. Her impersonations are all very good and it is safe to say that no better number has appeared on the stage of the local Orpheum in many moons. There is another one-act play on the bill, the tragic opera, The Patriot, by Julian Edwards and Stanislaus Strange. It is given by Helen Fredericks and her company of seven. The Three Leightons give A One-Night Stand in Minstrelsy. Selma Braatz is an unusually clever juggler, and beside she is young and charming. Her tricks are not all new, but they please. The holdovers include the Three Sisters Athletas, Herr Londe and Fraulein Tilly, Harry Armstrong and Billy Clarke in their own songs and George Redpath-George Hillman's Redpath Napanees.

LOS ANGELES—There is one of the best bills of the summer season on at the Los Angeles this week.

The bill is headed by Foster and Foster in their new act called The Volunteer Pianist. Another feature of the bill is Mlle. Rialta and her company in The Artist's Dream. Mabel Carew and company have a musical act. Wyatt and Rice appear in Edmund Day's playlet, The Unexpected. Gillihan and Murray do some good work in blackface and the Laugh-o-scope presents some French films.

FISCHER'S—His Wife's Family is the vehicle at Fischer's this week. Jean Hathaway is presented in the leading role of Arabella Jagg, the mother-in-law. The comedy does not afford Allen Curtis an opportunity to show himself at his best, but whatever is lacking in lines is made up in musical numbers of the chorus. Two of the best numbers are Say, Sis, Give Us a Kiss, and Finnegan's Irish Band. The piece affords plenty of good clean fun.

UNIQUE—Kelly and Violette and Carroll Johnson are sharing vaudeville honors at the Unique this week, offering several new songs. Carroll Johnson, "The Beau Brummel of Minstrelsy," debonair and well groomed, has the audience with him from his entrance. He possesses a magnetic personality, and the bundle of jokes and songs which he unloads caught the audience by storm. The Plumber is the offering of the Unique players. James Kelly as the plumber has an excellent comedy part and a chance for many laughs. Herbert Cramer, a young man with much dramatic experience, has made good in recent musical comedies at the Unique and is pleasing in this piece. Denton Vane, Hazel Salmon, Al Franks, Lillian Massey and Evelyn Constance all have good roles. The illustrated song is well rendered, and the new motion pictures, handled by Harry Cage, who is an expert operator, delight those who enjoy this part of the program.

William Desmond yesterday received a telegram from one of the best-known producing managers in New York City asking him to await the receipt of a letter which will offer him the leading role in a new play to be produced on Broadway, New York, early in the fall. Mr. Desmond replied that he would wait. In addition to the foregoing, he has had offers within the past week of leading roles in stock in Boston and New Orleans.

E. P. Foote brought an action in the Superior Court last Saturday against Ollie Mack Trumbull and Walt M. Leslie, doing business as the Ollie Mack Company. The complaint alleges that July 1, 1909, the defendants borrowed $500 of the plaintiff and, with the exception of $52, none of the money has been returned. He therefore asked judgment for the balance, $448.

FLORENCE EMERY.

Correspondence

DENVER, August 3.—A full house witnessed the opening of the first night of the season, at the Broadway last night. A casualty, quite usual to theatrical companies happened, the train from Salt Lake failed to arrive on time and the curtain did not go up until 9 o'clock. But the audience waited cheerfully and the ministers, numbering a couple of score, who were the guests of the management, strolled around the foyers and lobbies, dispensing good cheer and small talk. A splendid performance was rendered, however, when the company did arrive, and the repeated curtain calls at the close gave proof that the return of The Servant in the House was a welcome opening. The spectacular role, of course, is the Drainman, and in the capable hands of Charles Dalton was tremendously well done. Gladys Wynne as the young miss was ideally naive and refreshing, wafting sweet dreams of childhood to her auditors by her fascinating and airy portrayal of the innocent child. I saw the original company and must say that I prefer Lizzie Hudson Collier's conception and interpretation of Auntie, the vicar's wife, in every way, rather than the presentation by Edythe Wynne Mathison. Miss Collier is less aggressive in the role of the wife and plays the part in a lovable and extremely womanly way. She has to the majority of people the conception of the ideal woman, who completely effaces self and lives only to inspire and encourage her husband in his rise as an English clergyman. Every thought she has, every thing she does is attempted with the sole idea of assisting her husband in his chosen profession. In the scene at the breakfast table, when the wife makes love to her husband, she portrays a beautiful picture of trust and idealization, and the true feminine spirit when she takes the stand to thwart all interference which may harass or retard her husband's ambition. In all respects Miss Collier portrays the modern woman who graciously combines pluck, devotion, sacrifice and in fact all the feminine attributes.

SAN BERNARDINO, August 9.—The fates were kind last week to six cities in Southern California outside of Los Angeles, and in consequence thereof, combined with the length of the jump to Salt Lake City, The Merry Widow was at the Opera House (Mrs. M. L. Kiplinger, mgr.) Aug. 7. Every seat in the house was sold, everyone in the audience said it was the most satisfactory production from all standpoints that had ever been here, and the box office said it was a record breaker in the history of the house. Coming, The Climax and Paid in Full.

J. RICH.

Ben Ketchum, treasurer of the Grand Opera House, since the advancement of Carl D. Reid to the place of manager, leaves today for Salt Lake, where he is to enter the Colonial Theatre, Manager Cort's handsome playhouse, as treasurer, his place at the Grand being filled by Percy Ikerd, formerly treasurer of the Spokane Theatre. Mr. Ikerd's assistant is to be Harry Crapo, until recently connected with the Seattle Costuming Company and acting superintendent of the Moore Theatre, following Mr. Barry's acceptance of a place in the auditing department of the Northwestern Theatrical Association, which he afterwards resigned to become manager of the Grand. Eddie Cort, who is to be the treasurer of the Colonial Theatre, San Francisco, will leave for his new post about August 1, accompanied by Charlie Newman, who is to be his assistant.—Seattle Critic.

Correspondence

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Billy, styled a comedy, but in reality a farce, made from the vaudeville sketch Billy's Tombstones, and played by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew for some years in vaudeville, was produced last week in Daly's Theater with Sidney Drew in the title role. It is in three acts. Though it has certain qualities of an entertaining farce, persons who frequent vaudeville houses will recognize it as a theatrical hybrid. In spots the humor is too artificial, but altogether the piece is worth while. It produced many a hearty laugh. The farce, written by George Cameron, revolves about the loss of a set of false teeth belonging to Billy Hargrave, the character played by Drew. Billy has lost his natural teeth in a football game. When he finally gets an artificial set he starts for Havana on the steamship Florida. All three acts take place aboard the vessel. Billy is in love with Beatrice Sloane. So is Sam Eustace, a rival collegian. Mrs. Stuart Robson, as Mrs. Sloane, is a rigid guardian of her daughter. A hurrying officer opens a door suddenly. It slams Billy in the back and he goes to the deck. When he gets up his false teeth are gone. He is unable to talk intelligently or pronounce the name of Beatrice. A series of comical situations arise in the twenty-four hours in which Billy is hunting for his teeth and his rival is making inroads in the affections of Beatrice Sloane. Meantime Mrs. Sloane also loses her false teeth and there is further trouble. Billy's teeth are discovered by a sailor and turned over to the purser. They finally reach their rightful owner. With his teeth in place Billy is able to explain away all the misunderstandings to Beatrice. * * * Peter, the educated monkey, who is said by Honest John Pollock to be the real missing link of the Darwinian golf course, gave an exhibition of his talents last week at Hammerstein's Victoria Roof Garden, and did everything but jump his contract. This ape can drive a nail into a box with either hand, and if his hands get tired he shifts the hammer to his feet. As a bicyclist he has Kramer and Walthour beaten forty ways from the sprocket wheel. Yesterday he rode about the stage not deigning to monkey with the handlebars. At a command from his foster-parent, James McArdle, he halted the wheel in mid-stage and balanced himself like a statue. Peter eats, drinks and smokes and seems to enjoy it. * * * Rehearsals of The Circus Man, Klaw & Erlanger's and Joseph Brook's dramatization of Holman F. Day's novel, have begun at the New York Theater under direction of the playwright, E. W. Presbrey. The play opens at McVicker's Theater, Chicago, on August 28. * * * Cecil Raleigh, the English dramatist, cabled Brooks and Dingwell that he would sail for this country the last week in August to be present at the final rehearsals of the Drury Lane melodrama, The Sins of Society, which they will produce at the New York Theater on August 31. * * Charles Frohman has completed the cast of players for the new naval comedy, The Flag Lieutenant, which will be produced in Atlantic City August 23 and then come to the Criterion Theater here. The cast follows: Bruce McRae, Isabel Irving, Lumsden Hare, Vera McCord, Frank Carlyle, Helen

Freeman, George Probert, Rosa Rand, Basil Hallam, Mrs. Wheatcroft, C. Leslie Allen, Dudley Digges, Herbert Budd, W. H. Gilmour, John May, Wallace Jackson, Frank Shannon and Richard Garrick. * * * Paid in Full, the play by Eugene Walter, which achieved success when it was first presented at the Astor Theater two years ago, returned last night to that theater for a two weeks' engagement, and was welcomed by a crowded house. Mr. Walter made a short speech at the end of the third act. Fritz Williams played the part of Joe Brooks, Katherine Florence that of Emma Brooks, William Riley Hatch was Captain Williams, and Benjamin F. Wilson was Jimsey Smith. Florence Robinson was Mrs. Harris, Pauline Darling, Beth Harris and George Belden, Sato the Japanese servant. * * * Henry W. Savage's production of The Florist Shop, opened at the Apollo Theater at Atlantic City last week before a large audience. The play is a dramatization from the German by Oliver Herford. It will open next week in New York at the Liberty Theater. * * * Dustin Farnum opened his season at Atlantic City last Monday at the Savoy Theater in Cameo Kirby, by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, under the direction of Liebler & Co. Mr. Farnum was well received by the large audience. After four performances the play goes direct to Denver, where it opens August 9, and then heads for the Pacific Coast. * * * The interesting quartet that carries through the dramatic action of The Climax passed into a second generation last week, when a new company appeared in Edward Locke's popular play at Weber's Theater. The embryonic prima donna who underwent such a curious surgical operation that only the top and bottom of the octave remained in her voice, with a baleful silence of all the intervening notes, the transplanted village doctor, who for selfish if amorous reasons trifled with the priceless gift of song, the admiring youth who beat out his unrequited passion on the concert grand and the teacher who imparted the secrets of pure bel canto with an accent that sounded in the main Teutonic—these interesting figures were reincarnated for a public that has not yet had enough of The Climax. The outward and visible signs of the original performers were copied so far as possible. Margaret McKinney, who is now the heroine who makes coffee and sings scales with equal virtuosity, has imitated her predecessor even in the regrettable details of green and coiffure, which in their first manifestation seemed to many an unnecessary evil. She warbled fluently and added her personal charm to the general efficiency of her performance. C. P. Chrystie attacked the keyboard with less assurance than his prototype, which may have been due to the fact that a pianist in the wings did the playing for him. He had the Effingham Pinto pompadour, however, and that helped some. It took Howard Lange as the singing master, however, to surpass his colleagues in all points of hirsutal detail, and his wig proclaimed eloquently the inseparable union of hair and music. It was more expressive than Miss McKinney's plait, which had the protection of a black ribbon bow at the point of juncture. James J. Ryan was the designing doctor who almost spoiled a coloratura soprano from the highest motives. He was Azalea, Ohio, all right. Mr. Locke's play exercised its accustomed charm over the audience. With its new interpreters there is no reason why its career should not continue as prosperously as ever. * * * If Eugene Walter had known how many dramatic crimes he was responsible for when he wrote his play of a phase of New York life, he might have hesitated in putting on The Easiest Way. The Narrow Path, one of the earliest followers, had a one night run and had also the condemnation of the press and of most every person who saw it and even of the management of the theater in which it was presented. At the same theater that saw this failure, the Hackett, another play of the same type, The Only Law, the work of Wilson Mizner and George Bronson-Howard, had its first production last night. The Only Law achieves a happy ending, a feat which apparently Mr. Walter could not accomplish, and the Tenderloin show girl is married to the only decent person in the play by a good genius in the shape of a wire tapping swindler who has just beaten the prospective bridegroom's country uncle out of a snug sum. The principal characters are of the type that most people who read of the Great White Way suppose linger around in that part of town for purposes of enjoyment and wealth. The whole piece was quite well equipped with the atmosphere that is generally supposed to permeate such places as that in which the scenes of the play are placed. ROB ROY.

SEATTLE, Aug. 9.—Moore Theatre—Another big Sunday night audience was present last night at the Moore to view The Girl From Rector's, which is on its second and last week's run. This lively comedy is full of a number of good characterizations. Alhambra Theatre—One of the best productions seen for a long time in Seattle is The Witching Hour, which began at the Alhambra last Thursday. John Mason as the gentleman gambler has an excellent role and handles it in a most finished manner, while his support is exceedingly good. Grand Theatre—The Yankee Consul is being played by the Ferris Hartman company. Last night witnessed the arrival of a new prima donna in the ranks, Miss Mabel Day, who is well known and favorably remembered by Seattle audiences from her last appearance here with the San Francisco opera company. She was warmly welcomed by her friends. Seattle Theater.—Two jammed houses were on hand yesterday at the Seattle to greet Emma Bunting on her return to the cast. She is playing Bob, in the Little Outcast, a play full of sensations from start to finish. Orpheum.—This week two of the best known and most popular of vaudeville artists head the program, John Hyames and Leila McIntyre. Rose Royal, the trainer, is seen with her beautiful Arabian posing horse, Chesterfield. Catherine Hayes and Sabel Johnson, a Dream of Baby Days. Cunningham and Marion are comedians somewhat different from the rest. The San Francisco Musical Trio are accomplished young ladies, who both play and sing. The Woods and Woods Trio present An Elopement by Wire; and Cathryne Rowe Palmer, the American comedienne will sing several of her latest songs. At the Star.—Edwin Carewe and his own company are seen in the thrilling playlet, Pals; Mort Sharp and five comely young women in a musical comedy act; Signor Campanni, the phenomenal Italian baritone from the Milan Conservatory; Selbini and Grovini in novelty surprises and McFarland and Murray, the millionaire and the iceman, complete the bill. At the Lois.—The Nelson-Hyland fight pictures are shown. The other acts include White Zola, Miss Aileen May and company, in a comedy playlet, the Newsboys' Trio; Evelyn Clark and Herbert and Is He. At Pantages.—Hassan and Jennie, a man and woman, do a most sensational act on the rolling globes. Martinetti and Grossi, billing as Surprise Artists, reach the object of their act—musical selections—by all sorts of odd channels, mechanical contrivances playing an important part. The Three Shelve Brothers in a display of muscular flexibility; Hamilton and Ronca, singing and musical artists; Tegge and Daniel, exponents of German comedy, and Le Witt and Ashmore in a farce comedy are other features.

Geo. Boyer a Benedict

George Boyer, the very successful S. & C. manager in Los Angeles, was married last Wednesday to a very pretty and charming young lady who for years was Archie Levy's private secretary. Well, George, here's best wishes to yourself and bride. May the best there is be ever yours.

FRED WRIGHT, who has been stage director of the Seattle Theater all the past season, resigned his position last Saturday night and left for Kansas City, where he is to become the stage director for the Woodward stock company.

Terry McKean's Players

A FIRST-CLASS COMPANY IN STANDARD PLAYS

Time open from Sept. 1st for extended stock engagement. Write

TERRY MCKEAN, Sole Proprietor and Manager

Address care Francis-Valentine, 285 Thirteenth St., San Francisco, Cal.

Menzel's Dramatic Agency

Moved to 915 Van Ness Avenue, Third Floor

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers Wanting Reliable People in Dramatic Lines, Write.

Honest Dealing. No Misrepresentation

NOTICE—We invite people in all lines of the theatrical profession that wish first-class engagements to call or write.

WM. MENZEL, Manager

Theatres and Opera Houses, National and Municipal, in Latin America

Cuts and data furnished through the courtesy of The International Bureau of the American Republics.
THIRD ARTICLE.

(Our preceding article referred at length to the operation of these subsidized theaters.)

The principle of subsidy to art will remain in Latin America, and every year new proof is shown of its vitality.

article will show how far advanced are the cities of Latin America in their architectural tributes to things un-material and non-utilitarian. The larger cities are better known to travelers from abroad, but in the smaller habitants, for instance, one of the most beautiful theaters of America has only recently been completed; its interior appointments are commodious and modern, and the architect has thoroughly caught the spirit of the tropics by placing an open-air foyer or promenade outside the main structure, where the audience can, between the acts, delight in the evening breeze, the blue and star-set sky, or the brilliant moon of the south. Cities of Brazil, made to order and waiting for the railway to reach them, plan for a municipal the-

STATE THEATER, SAO PAULA, BRAZIL.

One of the handsomest and best appointed theaters in South America. The interior and exterior are richly and artistically decorated. The musicians' stand is constructed below the level of the orchestra seats in accordance with the Wagner system. About $1,500,000 was spent in its construction, but the cost to taxpayer was slight because part of the money used was saved from appropriations for other improvements that cost less than the original estimates.

The Review makes no pretense to present a complete review of all the theaters, new or old, built by public funds; it can not illustrate all the best structures devoted to the stage, but the two photographs accompanying this state capitals or business centers fine examples can also be found of older structures used for this purpose or of newer buildings just finished to meet the demands of the people. In Merida (Mexico), a city of only 25,000 in-ater as a matter of course, and as soon as older interior towns of all Latin America feel the impetus of industrial life so that they find themselves able to replace their modest quarters by substantial, permanent temples of art, their first thought in the use of funds they have at command is sure to be for the erection of a municipal theater. In the United States there are many fine and commodious structures within which are given the best plays, operas and classic dramas of the Old and the New World. No one can deny the excellence of the performances nor the sincere taste and enthusiasm of the audiences, but it is a fact which must be considered and acknowledged, that, with all the love of art manifested throughout the country, there is not in the Republic one theater or opera house worthy of comparison, either in purpose or construction, with half a dozen buildings of a similar character in the republics of Latin America.

HARRY CORSON CLARKE WRITES: Aug. 6.—Home again, although I should have been enjoying Russia this week. If Col. Owen is equal to the trip we will go right back, if not I may bob up in California when you least expect me. Glad to find your newsy paper on file here in a very pretty corner. I'm busy reading the back numbers I missed abroad.

Moral Evolution Through the Stage

Lorraine Buchanan.

In justification of those plays which she is putting on the boards of the Swain Theater with such phenomenal success and which some seem to regard as being within the realm of what is understood as risque, Miss Buchanan, that versatile little lady who has the distinction of being manager and leading lady of the Buchanan company, in an interview, said: "I believe in the stage as a moral and ethical institution. Example impresses more deeply than precept. The stage brings moral lessons within the range of personal observation, and what is learned by personal observation is not easily forgotten or ignored. Teachers and preachers of abstract truths may state facts, they may teach moral precepts and point to punishments attendant on their violation, but the playwright shows you, he demonstrates by means of living, breathing, human beings, the lessons he would teach. As to the so-called bad plays, I would say, knowledge of life is the best weapon with which to fight the evils of life, therefore no play which depicts life as it really is can be bad. The Zazas, the Zalskas, the Sapphos of the stage, repellent as their sins may be, have taught their lessons, in showing, as they do, the price of sinning, its awful cost. The wraiths of the souls of these women rise up and point out the way safe, sweet happiness lies, for our women; they see and are warned by the heartbreak, the anguish, the inevitable goal of those who dare and pay the price of daring. More people daily attend the theaters in the United States than attend the public schools and churches combined. Therefore the influence exerted by the theater is comparatively greater. No man or woman of the stage who thinks can ignore this fact. It is, therefore, the wish of right-minded men and women of the stage to make that influence one for good and not for evil. From the stage I look down, daily, into the upturned faces of innocent children, wide-eyed and sweet faced girls, boys, pure-souled and eager—recipient ones all, from sad-faced women to stern-browed men, and as I look at them a check is placed on all frivolity. Lightness of thought vanishes and I feel that I must either make them simply happy by helping them forget, or that I must teach them, purely, truly, in God's sight as I must needs be taught, life's lessons in the roles I play before them."—Santa Cruz Sentinel.

MUNICIPAL THEATER, RIO DE JANEIRO, BRAZIL.

This handsome municipal theater, with its marble front, bronze decorations, and beautiful dome 147½ feet high, was designed by the Brazilian architect, Oliveira Passos. It cost $1,500,000, and is one of the notable new buildings on Avenida Central near the Munroe Palace.

THE SAN FRANCISCO Dramatic Review

Music and Drama

CHAS. H. FARRELL, Publisher

Issued Every Saturday

Address all
letters and
money orders to San Francisco
Dramatic
Review, Van

Ness Theatre Bldg.,
Van Ness
Avenue.
Telephone
Park
1773

Entered at San Francisco as Second-class
Mail Matter. Established 1880.

Fay Carranza

Long ago it was acknowledged all over America that California and the West seemed to give its people an unusually valuable heritage in a dramatic way. Something in the free and open life we live, something in the invigorating climate all tended to produce an unusual adaptability for the demands of dramatic art. Later, as one after another of our young people pushed their way into the limelight, it was shown that our great West was not exclusively prodigal in a dramatic way—that triumph after triumph was being achieved by our singers; and the great masters of the world have acknowledged unreservedly that there are no voices superior to those that are to be found in the West. Just now claiming attention is Fay Carranza, a young dramatic soprano of brilliant promise. Miss Carranza is a beautiful young woman of large type, who can sing like the nightingale and who is entrancing either in the lighter forms of ballad singing or in the more ambitious and commanding flights of grand opera selection. She made her public debut at the Orpheum and scored a brilliant success. Next season she will be found in the leading vaudeville houses of the East, with an occasional appearance in concert work. Miss Carranza has a brilliant future and she will be one of the greatest California contributors to the musical stage.

Nat Goodwin Signs with Brady

Nat Goodwin, tired of managing his own dramatic affairs and wearying of his apparent inability to land in a success, has signed with Wm. A. Brady, and will be seen this season in a new farce by George Broadhurst called My Wife's Away.

The Arizona Difficulty

Friday of last week Augustus Thomas, through his attorneys, obtained a temporary injunction from Justice Bischoff of the Supreme Court, New York, restraining Gus Hill and the members of the Association of Stock Producing Managers from producing his play, Arizona, or making any contract or lease with a view to its production. Mr. Hill maintains that he acquired the right to lease the play from Melville B. Raymond, while Mr. Thomas insists that no one but himself has any right to the piece at the present time, since the original contract made between him and the late Kirk La Shelle and Fred Hamlin recently terminated. Mr. Hill a short time ago made a contract with James E. Moore under the terms of which Mr. Moore was to produce the play for one week at Portland, Me., and upon learning of this Mr. Thomas took legal action. The present injunction will hold until August 4, when the defendants will be given opportunity to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent.

Personals

CARLTON CHASE has once more been engaged by Kolb and Dill.

ROBERT WARWICK will play the lead in The Dollar Mark in New York.

HELEN LACKAYE has signed to play Portia Perkins with Henry E. Dixey in Mary Jane's Pa.

ROBERT SCOTT, the divorced husband of Patti Rosa, and who was prominent several years ago as an actor, died in Honolulu on August 9. Scott had recently been employed as an inspector by the Honolulu Board of Health.

The new people for Kolb and Dill have been engaged in New York—fifteen people all told. The first of the new crowd reached the St. James Hotel last Tuesday. They are Adelaide Harland, soubrette, and Dot Wilson, Doris Wilson and Frank Paret, musical director.

RICHARD GOLDEN died suddenly last Tuesday on board the houseboat Stroller in Gravesend Bay, where he was the guest of John Newton Porter. Mr. and Mrs. Golden were preparing to take a trip to Maine as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Porter, when Golden became ill. Bright's disease was the cause of death. The body was taken to Golden's native city, Bangor, Me., for interment. Born in 1854, Richard Golden made his first appearance on the stage in the opera house in Newport, Me., in 1867. His first New York appearance was in 1877 in Evangeline, and his London debut was made in 1883 in A Bunch of Keys. After appearing in numerous other plays he produced at the Union Square Theater in New York in 1889 Old Jed Prouty, of which he was part author. In the title role of this play he appeared nearly 3,000 times in this city and in various tours of the country.

Notwithstanding the fact that it is the ambition of every actress to be under the management of David Belasco, Kathryn Osterman withdrew from the organization after the second reading of the farce Is Matrimony a Failure. The part allotted to Miss Osterman was not to her liking and not desiring to appear in anything in New York that is unsuited to her she preferred to cancel her two years' contract rather than enact a part that should be in the hands of a character actress. Miss Osterman is a comedienne as well as an emotional actress, and has built up a strong following in the West and South and during the season of 1910-11 will resume her starring tour in a new play that has been especially written for her by Arthur W. Stace and Roy Moulton, two able journalists of Grand Rapids. For the present season she will remain in New York and appear in a new production under the management of the biggest theatrical managers in the business.

WALLACE MUNRO announces for Olga Nethersole that she will present during her coming trans-continental tour a novelty as far as an ethical exposition of human emotions is concerned, by appearing in a cycle of psychological and sociological characterizations, utilizing as the most pertinent of her delineations, Sappho, The Second Mrs. Tanquary, The Writing on the Wall, and a new play dealing with the labor question that will disclose the evolution of redemption in the individual, the community and the corporation. Miss Nethersole has for years made a study of the social problem plays with such marked success that her name has been almost indelibly linked with them, but last season, when she departed from psychological to sociological reformation, the step was heralded with approval and commendation; this season she will go further and disclose a new solution to the labor problem that will, at least, merit the serious consideration of all who are interested in this great conflict, as well as those who appreciate a well-constructed drama.

This picture exhibits the comfortable Harry Campbell bungalow on the Russian River, near Guerneville, where its owner goes when he needs a relaxation after a hard season at the Princess. Mr. Campbell was one of the early wise ones who saw a future for the redwood slopes of the Russian River and he is several thousand dollars ahead in consequence.

Terry McKean and company played Redwood City first half of this week.

WILLIAM MAXWELL

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW

Lick Building, 35 Montgomery Street.
Telephone Kearny 724.

AMERICAN THEATRE

Phone Market 381
Market St., near Seventh
The Playhouse of Comfort and Safety

Last Nights—Matinee Today

ELINOR GLYN'S

Three Weeks

Next Sunday Matinee

Old Heidelberg

SEATS NOW ON SALE

Prices: Evenings, $1.00, 75c, 50c and 25c.
Matinees, 75c, 50c and 25c. All Reserved.

New Alcazar Theatre

Tel. West 1400

Cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts.
Belasco & Mayer, Owners and Managers
Absolutely "Class A" Building

Monday Evening, August 16, Starts the Second and Last Week of Edwin Milton
Royle's Romance of the West

The Squaw Man

A Most Emphatic Success

PRICES: Nights, 25c to $1; Matinees,
Saturday and Sunday, 25c to 50c.

August 23, reappearance of EVELYN
VAUGHAN in the first stock production of
THE LION AND THE MOUSE.

New Orpheum

O'Farrell Street, Bet. Stockton and Powell
Safest and Most Magnificent Theatre in
America

Week Beginning This Sunday Afternoon
Matinee Every Day

ARTISTIC VAUDEVILLE

CURZON SISTERS, the Human Butterflies; WORLD & KINGSTON; WILBUR MACK
and NELLA WALKER; HERR J. REU-
BENS; LA PETITE REVUE; FIVE AVO-
LOS; LENA PANTZER; NEW ORPHEUM
MOTION PICTURES. Last Week of the Gifted Young Comedienne, ELEANOR
GORDON, and her company, including
Joseph Sullivan.

EVENING PRICES—10c, 25c, 50c, 75c;
Box Seats, $1.

MATINEE PRICES (Except Sundays and
Holidays), 10c, 25c, 50c
Phone Douglas 70

Princess Theatre

Absolutely "Class A" Theatre Building

Phone West 663

Ellis Street, near Fillmore

Samuel Loverich, Manager

Beginning Monday

That Dainty, Diverting Musical Comedy,

The Girl From Paris

Popular prices: Evenings, 25c, 50c, 75c.
Saturday and Sunday Matinees, 25c and 50c.

E. A. FISCHER, PROP.

SUTTER ST., BET. FILLMORE AND STEINER

Phone West 6732

The Only Musical Comedy House in the City

Next Week

Vaudeville

And First-Run Moving Pictures

Admission, 10c.

Two performances nightly—8 and 9:30.
Matinees—Mon., Wed., Sat. and Sunday
at 2:30.

GILLE PRINTING CO.

SAN FRANCISCO

THEATRICAL PRINTING OF ALL KINDS

POSTERS
2257 MISSION ST. Phone MARKET
1885

THE FRANCIS-
VALENTINE
CO.

Show
Printers

Thirteenth St., near Mission, S. F. Cal.

Spacious Headquarters
for Theatrical Agents

PHONE-MARKET 2114

Send Bills of Lading to us. We will take care of your paper

Van Ness Theatre

Paid in Full is a throbbing, pulsating drama of every-day American life. It has many touches that grasp the attention and hold it. It has plenty of good comedy, as well as a number of tense emotional moments. Upon its first appearance here last year we reviewed the play at length. This year, with a practically new company, we shall dwell principally upon the acting. A new man is seen in the part of Joe Brooks, the helpless, unworthy, caddish, degenerate husband, and his name is Louis Morrel. If Tully Marshall had not been favored by fate to introduce the character to New York audiences, and Mr. Morrel had, the latter would have been famous, for he is a fine actor in every sense of the word, and there is a plausible air to his simulation that is most often lacking in the attempts of acting. Mr. Morrel makes a distinct hit and is several degrees superior to his predecessor in the part here last season. One trifling fault might be noted. He is a little too explosive at times. Sara Perry gives a careful, conscientious portrayal of Emma Brooks. Ned Finley lives up to the "fat" traditions of "Jimsie" and comes out with flying colors. Charles Riegel is seen in the character of Captain Williams, and he rather takes the edge off his predecessor's portrayal of the part. He looks more the character and his general acting is of a strong and convincing quality. We might suggest that Mr. Riegel could save considerably on his use of grease paint—he rather overdoes the use of that essential in his make-up. Rose Snyder, of the former cast, plays the mother of Emma with satisfactory effect, and Catherine Tollman, in the part of Beth Harris, is a little too mechanical. Allen Atwell is still the Japanese valet, Sato, and it would be hard to imagine a better conceived or more faithfully-executed bit of acting. The play will be seen here another week.

Alcazar Theatre

Last Monday evening was a gala night at the Alcazar. It marked the beginning of the season at this popular playhouse. It served to indicate another event, too, the first appearance in San Francisco of Augustus Phillips, the new leading man, whom Manager Belasco selected in the East, entirely upon his reputation, and after but a talk of fifteen minutes. That the selection was well made was demonstrated on the opening night. Augustus Phillips is no copyist. He is above all things, himself, and that without a display of egotism and conceit. His methods are simple, direct, natural and associated with an excellent stage presence and a good voice. Above all else, Phillips has that elusive something which for want of a better name is called personality. At the end of the second act, after repeated curtain calls, Director Butler led the new leading man to the footlights, where he was formally introduced. Like most actors, and for that matter, everyone else, he spoke his own words and sentiments more haltingly than those of someone else. Augustus Phillips told his listeners that they would have to take him for just what he is, the good along with the bad. It would not be possible for him to be excellent in everything that he did, but in everything that he would be given to do, would be put his best. It was, on the whole, a very effective little address, not at all studied, and with that occasional halt that bespoke sincerity of utterance and of purpose. The cast was an exceptionally long one, giving every member of the company something to do. George Baldwin, also a newcomer to Sutter Street, demonstrated himself to be a good actor. He is not unlike John Drew in his methods. Mignon Oxer was rather colorless in the role of Diana. Adele Belgrade, cast as Lady Wynnegate, had a role that suited her excellently. In her line she has few, if any, superiors in this country. Louise Brownell had a minor character. An English gentleman of the better class was acted with understanding by William Garwood. It was not exaggerated. Just right is the only phrase that describes it. Fred J. Butler, as Big Bill, the foreman of the cowpunchers, had one of those primitive, unaffected characters, in which he is at his best. The Indian chief, Tabwana, of E. L. Bennison, was a faithful portrayal of the noble redman as he is. Bessie Barriscale as Nat-u-ritch made a profound impression. The Indian wife has never been so well done here. Walter Belasco, with his usual fidelity to make-up, got out of Nick, the barkeeper, all that was in the lines. Howard Hickman looked and acted the character of Cash Hawkins, the bad man, to perfection. Others who contributed to the success of the opening night were: Roy Neill, Isaac Dillon, Herbert Farjeon, Alfred Rowland, Walter Barron, Helen Yarborough, A. Burt Wesner, Charles Trowbridge, Andrew Bennison, Charles Moul, Little Myriam Gleason, Glenn Jones, John Graham, Hobart Cavanaugh, Christian Lynton, Ancy McNulty, Alden Wheeler and Christie McLean. Of the play, little need be said. Long ago it was pointed out by dramatic critics that it violates the principle of unity in that it attempts to treat of two distinct propositions, one, the love of two men for the honor of their family while disliking each other; the other, the love of a white man for a white woman, and during the continuance of that love, his marriage with a squaw. Notwithstanding this deviation, and the further one that a number of the scenes are not prepared for fully, as for example, the appearance of the English friends and relatives of James Carston at the Long Horn saloon in Wyoming. The bill is a big favorite in America, having served as a vehicle for two of our best-known actors during the past five years, and is now being played by high-class stock companies. Stage Director Butler has done himself proud, both mechanically and in the way he has handled the people under him in this production. Next week Evelyn Vaughn returns for the year, appearing in Charles Klein's Lion and the Mouse.

American Theatre

What makes a successful play depends upon many things. The actor has his view, the manager quite another, the public often still a third, and the stage hand an entirely different fourth. Three Weeks is a successful play from the managerial end, because it gets the money and gets it in large quantities. Not since the piece was put on a month or so ago by a traveling company has the American been so crowded. As a production, scenically speaking, the itinerant companies could not compare with the one the stock organization is putting on. The drama has also been expurgated, as far that is possible, and to retain anything like the semblance of a play. Harriet Worthington plays the role of the Queen of Sardinia. It is the poorest work she has done during the present engagement, but the reasons for her rather indifferent work are several. To begin with, she has been suffering physically, and has more than once been on the verge of a complete nervous breakdown, which only a strong will has prevented from forestalling. Again, the part of Mrs. Glyn's heroine is not suited to her temperamentally. It is too obvious, too full of bluster, everything is too evident. Give Miss Worthington something that demands repression and she does excellently, but she will never shine as queen of melodrama. Paul Verdayne, the young Englishman who is forced to visit the Alps by his parents that he may forget an English curate's daughter, is excellently done by Herschel Mayall. It is surprising how youthful he looks and acts in this part. He has the good taste to tone down those lines that might by some be called vulgar, and which, accordingly, do not give the expected shock that many anticipate, and even hope for. Gerald Harcourt has been giving quite a different delineation of the character of the King of Sardinia, a creature who spends his time in drunkenness, murder, profanity and vulgar language, from that of a month since. His methods are less pronounced, but still, none the less effective. Will R. Abram was always in character in the part of Dimitri, the old retainer of the Queen, who is ever at her side to shield her from danger and to anticipate every wish that his royal mistress may have. Abram gave an excellent portrayal of the faithful subject. James Corrigan as the bluff, outspoken Captain Mark Grigsby, had a congenial role, which he invested with the comedy necessary to make the part effective. The Vasili, of James Thorne, was well done. His make-up was extremely good, much better than that of the actor who played the part a month since. Edmund Flynn as the head waiter, and Al Downey as the second waiter, were both capable.

Princess Theatre

The Telephone Girl has been the bill for the week. It is a bright, amusing bit of musical comedy and affords a wide range for specialty business. There is no well-defined plot to the farce, but the first scene opens in a general telephone exchange, and besides the very ludicrous and amusing situations, which are made to appear in the modus operandi of the same, there is introduced the rural parents of a country girl (Beauty Fairfax), who goes to the city in search of employment—and finds it. However, the doting father and mother do not find their little country daughter doing domestic "stunts" with the broom and washboard, as they had imagined. Quite the reverse; she has emerged from the chrysalis state into a beautiful butterfly of the bowery type and Mr. and Mrs. "Rube" are quite amazed. The home of Beauty Fairfax, which furnished the scene for the second act, is quite palatial and the revues which occur there are somewhat spicy. Miss Dalgo Clark takes the role of Beauty, and Ella Crane as Samantha Fairfax, and Harris McGuire as Ebenezer Fairfax, contribute a rare fund of amusement. Percy Bronson, as Dick Marvel, and Bud Ross, as Snuffles, were clever, as were also some of the other leading characters. The ensemble work was fairly good.

Personals

BERT LYTELL's summer stock season in Rochester was so successful that he will remain through the regular season.

RAYMOND S. PAYNE, comedian of the Russel and Drew stock company in Seattle, is engaged to play a good comedy part in the new musical comedy, The Candy Kid, which opens in Chicago early in September. Mr. Payne closed with the Seattle Theater company last Saturday.

HERSCHEL MAYALL, leading man at the American Theater, received a telegram Tuesday from Mrs. Packard of the Packard Theatrical Agency in New York, asking him whether he would accept an engagement with Mrs. Fiske for the season beginning next October. The message reads: "Fiske engagement opens October. Rehearsals begin September 15. Would you accept engagement?" The retirement of Holbrook Blinn from Mrs. Fiske's company now playing Salvation Nell, as told by us last week, necessitates the engagement of a new leading man in Mrs. Fiske's company. The wire to the leading man at the American Theater is designed to fill the vacancy which will be created when Holbrook Blinn, the California actor, assumes the role of star at the head of the cast which Mrs. Fiske will assemble in a new play, the author and name of which are yet to be announced. Mr. Mayall replied: "I am available."

COLONEL CHARLES H. BLINN received a telegram from his son, Holbrook Blinn, announcing his departure from New York for London and the fact that he had been engaged by Mrs. Fiske to star in a production which she will give him next season. It had been previously published that Charles Frohman had engaged the famous California actor and was to star him next season. Mrs. Fiske, however, would not let her talented leading man slip away from the Fiske forces and offered Blinn a salary equal to that proffered by Frohman and agreed to star him, as Frohman had promised to do. Blinn's wire to his father stated that he had accepted the offer from Mrs. Fiske and that he would return to America in time to begin the next season with her in Salvation Nell, which was to be played in cities heretofore closed to Mrs. Fiske. When these places have been played, and the route will take the company through the larger cities of the South and Middle West, Mrs. Fiske will withdraw Salvation Nell. That will be next February, when Blinn will at once begin rehearsals in his new play. The author of the drama in which Blinn is to be star is not made public, but the characterization which Blinn will be called upon to assume will be similar in kind to that of Jim Platt, the rough hero in Salvation Nell.

Vaudeville

The Orpheum

The three new turns on this week's bill at the Orpheum are all good ones. First, a musical act, called La Petite Revue, challenges approbation. Just why it is given this foreign name it is hard to say, unless it be that the French title is supposed to add distinction to it. The name has nothing to do with the success of the number, however. A young man, sitting by a comfortable fire, sees in a sort of semi-consciousness, old and new vaudeville, and musical comedy stars pass before him. Characteristic melodies are played and sung as each impersonated individual comes within the view of the audience. The seven persons who go to make up the success of this part of the bill are: Roy Dietrich, Mabel Rettew, Arline Fredericks, F. K. Shilling, Eleanor Caldwell, Kirby Kahill and Harry Irwin. Eleanor Gordon, a San Francisco favorite of the days just antedating the big event of 1906, returns in a snappy playlet, Tips on Tap. The abbreviated drama has to do with a wife, who steals tips on the races from her husband's pockets and makes money accordingly. Eleanor Gordon is just as fair to look upon as she was when playing at the old Alcazar and the obliterated Majestic, and is a much better actress. The Five Avolos, premier xylophone artists, dispense melody galore for those who are fond of that instrument of percussion. In addition to their playing they introduce some clever business. The American flag, at the end of the act, or rather, a deluge of American flags, mechanically arranged, come from the flies and completely cover up the flags of other nations, festooned about the stage. This ought to make the act popular the world over, by merely substituting the flags of the country in which they are playing, a hand could always be forced. It is a satisfactory variation of the idea that was done to death in vaudeville at the close of the Spanish-American war, when the colors were used by vaudeville performers to get applause, whether conditions made such a demonstration deserving or not. Sam Chip and Mary Marble in a Bit of Old Edam, still give their artistic bit of vaudeville to delighted spectators. The Six American Dancers, in never ending displays of color and never ceasing motion, still gratify the eye. A King for a Night assists Frank Conboy and George Le Maire to score. Held Up, an extremely funny skit, does likewise for Bob Mathews and Herbert Ashley. The orchestra, it need not be added, does its share to help out a performance that is entirely pleasing.

Pantages-Empire

It is a clever bill that Manager Tiffany has at his Sutter Street house this week. The program opens with the Four Fantastic La Dells, whose work, sleight of hand, is of a character to make their act a most enjoyable one. Gus Leof is a musical comedian who delivers joy in chunks. The New Alderman, a sketch by Aaron Hoffman, is interesting, and holds the attention of the audience with no trouble. Their Michael Casey and Tom Sullivan might well be taken from political types in San Francisco. Kimball and Donovan, who style themselves America's premier banjoists, seem to deserve that title. For dexterity of the fingers it would be hard to find another pair like them. Marguerite and Hanley, two English acrobats, are quite above the average. Essie Ingersoll in a pianologue was clever. Her material is very good, but she ought to talk a little louder at times. The front of the house is quite near the car line and it does not take much in the way of a noisy car to put a speaking performer at the other end of the building quite out of commission. Jack Symonds, well known here as The Man of Ease, was present with a line of dope that was distinctly Jack's. He kept the house in a good humor all the time he was on. Phyllis Lee and company, representing Commencement Day, a condensed musical comedy, gave a number replete with melody and entertaining dialogue. The scene of the little play is laid at West Point. With her are Ned Kennedy, S. J. Herman, Albert Haynes, Jack Lee, Joe Neeling and L. Herman, who contribute materially to the effectiveness of the number.

Fischer's

There used to be a newspaper reporter in San Francisco who prided himself that he could write a four or five-act play in a week's time, and that he could keep up the output indefinitely if only supplied with food and cigars. His friends called him "The man with the Iron Wrist." Charles Alphin must be constructed anatomically along somewhat similar lines, for he not only says that he can produce a new piece every week, but he does it. More than that, he writes book and numbers, he puts the bill on the stage, rehearses it, drills chorus and principals, looks after costumes, lights, music, properties, and the thousand and one nameless details that go to make up a successful musical production. The Pride of the Harem, while it is not much in the way of plot, is strung together in such a manner that there is never a dull moment from the time the curtain goes up until its final fall. A feature of this week's bill is Sam Holdsworth, the eighty-year old tenor. He sings the songs we love, and for an octogenarian does surprisingly well. He has lost some of his higher notes, but he is yet able to earn his salary, whatever it may be. Carlton Chase sang In Turkey Land and By the Zuyder Zee quite effectively. He was forced to respond to several hearty encores with both numbers. Dave Morris, as the Sultan Abdul-Hamid, looked very much like the imperial potentate of the Turks. Blossom Seeley, now that her lights are not dimmed by the Murray and Mack bushel, proved to be most popular. Her comedy work is of an extremely original kind and very entertaining. Dan Kelley was also another big favorite. Maude Rockwell never looked or acted better than she did in the part of Milo. Her entrance song was most favorably received. Henry Auerbach, as A. Mutt, the Grand Vizier, and Anna Clark, as Laura Gene Liberty Bell, although they had no vocal numbers, kept the house in roars with their clever comedy work.

The Wigwam

"The Little Orpheum of the Mission," as this house has again and again been characterized, is still doing an exceptional business. The

Theatrical Tights

ALL COLORS, WEIGHTS AND QUALITIES—Cotton, 75c to $1.50; Wool, $2.50 to $3.50; Lisle or Silkoline, $3.00 to $4.50; Silk, $5.00 to $12.50.

SYMMETRICALS BEST LINE MADE IN THE U. S. Calif. $5.00; Calif. and Thigh, $10.00; Calif. Thigh and Hip, $12.50.

We also Make Padded Shirts. SWEATERS, JERSEYS, GYM, ATHLETIC and BATH SUITS, SUPPORTERS, ACROBATIC SHOES, GOOD UNDERWEAR Knit to Fit in All Materials.

We operate our own mills, carry a large stock and make goods to measure at reasonable prices. We suit the professional as if he were buying in Europe. Write us for prices and samples.

Gantner & Mattern Co.

KNITTERS

Phone Kearny 3603

Corner Post and Grant Ave.

NATIONAL THEATRE

ZEKE ABRAMS
General Manager

POST AND STEINER STS., SAN FRANCISCO

Leading Vaudeville Theatre on the Sullivan-Considine Circuit. No Act Too Good for us. Write.

Sullivan & Considine Circuit

W. P. REESE

California Representative

AMERICAN THEATRE BUILDING, 1117 MARKET ST.
Phone Market 6873

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

New York Office, Shubert Bldg. Lancaster, Pa. Family Theatre
Now Booking Summer Parks, Fairs and Vaudeville Theatres. Managers, write or wire.

50--THEATRES---50

THAT INDEPENDENT VAUDEVILLE AGENT

.... BERT LEVEY ....

Phone West 9098

2053 SUTTER ST., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

PANTAGES Western States Vaudeville Association

Controlling the longest, largest and best chain of vaudeville theatres in the United States.

Mr. Manager: No matter where your house is, how large or how small, we can supply you promptly with first-class

vaudeville acts at reasonable prices, also lodges, clubs and entertainments furnished on short notice.

See O. S. BURNS, Representative.
Phone West 7140. Offices: Pantages Theatre, cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts., San Francisco, Cal.

Archie Levy's Amusement Ass'n

THE VAUDEVILLE EXCHANGE OF THE PACIFIC COAST

1643 FILLMORE STREET, SUITE 1-2-3, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers desiring talent Write. Artists send in your open time now.

In Spite of all ye Knocking Devils in H—

THE LAND OF BUNG-A-BOO, headed by Wise & Milton, are still going, while others are trying. This week, EMPIRE, half act. Next week, WIGWAM, full act. Vallejo, week of Aug. 1st.

DID WE ?

Borden-Zeno & Haydn Bros.

In "BITS OF VAUDEVILLE" Extract from a manager's opinion: "Gentlemanly performers, who have a novelty act that proved a big feature and success at the Wigwam, week of July 18, '09. With pleasure I recommend them.—Sam Harris, Mgr. Week of August 1st, Crystal, Denver, Colo. Direction B. A. Myers, New York City.

Featured Everywhere

week's bill is notable for the presence of an unusual number of good acts. Fay Carranza, the beautiful California nightingale, probably evokes the most applause. Her brilliant singing never fails to stir the enthusiasm of an audience. Eva Mudge, who has been written up in these columns before, is a clever performer, and the balance of the bill, comprising the Barnes-Reming company; Sados; Carita Day and boys; Rae and Borsche; and The Telegraph Four, show up to particularly good advantage.

Bookings

At the Sullivan & Considine, San Francisco Office, through Wm. P. Reese, their sole booking agent, for week of Aug. 15, 1909:

NATIONAL, San Francisco — Stanley Edwards company; Scott and

Davis; Cogan and Bancroft; Ernesto Sisters; Harry Taylor; Chas. Mack and company; Hesse and Williams. BELL, Oakland—Fay Carranza; Tom McGuire; Girard and Gardner; Gruet and Gruet; Prentice Troupe; The Tora Troupe. NOVELTY, Vallejo—Barnes-Reming and company; Guy and Alzora; Defrey. WIGWAM, San Francisco — Princess Wlademaroff; Five Juggling Jordans; Jere Sanford; Mlle. Loretta and dog; McDevitt and Kelly; Glendower and Manion. LOS ANGELES, Los Angeles—Albini and Bessie Allen; Telegraph Four; Eva Mudge; Rae and Borsche; Allen Sisters. GRAND, Sacramento—Carita Day and boys; The Sados; Black, Frank and company; Rose Stevens; Billy Windom; The Damman Troupe. QUEEN, San Diego—Wyatt and Rice; Gillihan and Murray; Mabel Carew and company; Leslie Sisters.

The National

Manager Zeke Abrams has, with his usual foresight, gathered together a very entertaining bill for his patrons this week. The opening act is the Toro Troupe of Japanese foot jugglers, balancers, etc. This is followed by moving pictures and then come Maurice Frank and company in the comedy skit, The Advance Agent. This little company are good actors and entertaining performers. Tom McQuire, the Scotchman, is a big attraction. His work is most interesting. Prof. Roberts and his trained rats offer a fine example of what patience can accomplish. The McDonald Sisters, a couple of nimble and attractive girls, have a conventional turn. The hit of the bill is the clever Eddie Girard and his attractive wife, Jessie Gardner, in their farcical skit, Dooley and the Diamond. Girard, always a funny fellow, seems to be in particularly good form this trip and Miss Gardner offers an excellent foil to the Irish wit and eccentricities of the old-time favorite. Gruet and Gruet present a first-class blackface turn and the Damman troupe of acrobats have a well developed exhibition. Business continues large.

Vaudeville Notes

Stabbing himself thirteen times in the chest with a small pocketknife and cutting both arteries in an attempt at suicide. Charles C. Silk, a vaudeville actor, lies in the Central Emergency Hospital between life and death. Dr. Engelbert, who attended the man, thinks he has a chance to recover. Silk came to this city last Sunday night, and, according to his story at the hospital, had a gay time of it where the lights shine brightest. Shortly after 8 o'clock next morning, filled with remorse and muttering to himself over what he terms "my marital troubles," the man walked through Mission street. Between Fifth and Sixth streets he stopped, while a number of pedestrians glanced at him and then passed on, smiling. Opening his coat and vest so that his breast was almost bared, Silk drew his pocketknife and plunged it into his flesh thirteen times. The blade was small and did little damage except to draw blood. Seeing that suicide would be difficult in that manner, the man slashed his wrists and the blood flowed in great gushes until he was so weak he fell fainting to the sidewalk. Passersby went to his aid and summoned the ambulance. After being treated at the hospital the actor thought better of his desire to die and begged the physicians to save him.

Martin Beck of New York, general manager of the Orpheum circuit, has issued orders that all Orpheum orchestras shall hereafter be composed of fifteen players. The edict was received by the local house Saturday, but will make no difference there because already there are the required number and have been since the opening of the downtown structure. But elsewhere throughout the circuit, beginning in Oakland and extending to New Orleans, the order will mean the engaging of from six to nine additional instrumentalists. Beck also stipulates in his instructions that each orchestra shall be provided with an organ, such as E. M. Rosner of the local house plays, though he doesn't insist that each organ shall have its keys covered with a cloth, that expedient against dust requiring a musicianship of which all organists and leaders can not boast. There will be two first violins in each orchestra and there will also be French horns to add sonority to the tone which issues from the pit. The San Francisco house is the only one not affected by the new ruling.

As a result of the combat between John Hilben, manager, and John W. Beane, singer of illustrated songs at the Broadway Theater, in the Marquis Coffee Parlors, 915 Kearny Street, Saturday afternoon, caused by jealousy over Viola Schweitzer, cashier at the theater, each was fined $10 by Police Judge Shortall Wednesday and they agreed to pay between them $30 for a broken mirror and other damage to the proprietor of the coffee parlors. Beane had only $8 and Miss Schweitzer handed him $2. Beane had taken Miss Schweitzer for lunch and Hilben was sitting at a table when they entered. Angry words passed between the two men, who began to bombard each other with bottles, sugar bowls, salt and pepper dishes and whatever came handy. Hilben in explanation of his part in the affray said that he had been Miss Schweitzer's "meal ticket" for two months.

James O'Reilly left Thursday for Sacramento to join Herbert O'Connor and company, playing the Pantages time.

George McQuarrie and Pauline Sain are playing short parts in the North-west vaudeville field.

Lillian Atwood, who has been visiting her mother in Oakland, will leave next week for New York to join Mabel Bardine, who will soon come West over the S. and C. circuit in a sketch she used with good effect in England.

Carl Berch expects to open on the S. and C. time week after next, supported by Franklyn Hall and one fair lady.

Archie Levy landed two big ones when he booked May Boley and Carroll Johnson for the Airdome at Phoenix. Archie expects to leave for New York next week.

Harry Leavitt, for the past two years booking agent of the Sullivan and Considine circuit, has resigned his position and in a couple of weeks will leave for the East.

At Pantages, Sacramento.—Unequaled vaudeville. Week of August 8. Glorine, spectacular fire dancer; The Continentals, colonial harmony singers; Mr. and Mrs. Litchfield, rural comedy sketch; Ponge and Lee, revolving pole act; John P. Reed, singing comedian; Wyatt Sisters, singers and dancers.

Fischer Will Close His Comedy Company

Herr Fischer, after a try of four months, presenting San Francisco a very good quality of musical comedy, will close the company Sunday night and open Monday with pictures and three vaudeville acts, booked by Bert Levey. Mr. Fischer has given the idea a fair try-out, and while he has not met with total failure, still there has been no profit and but little encouragement to continue.

High Divers at Chutes

When high divers determine to out-distance one another the results are likely to prove interesting and the announcement that such a determination has had its inception at the New Chutes promises a fresh sensation for patrons of the Fillmore Street amusement park. Florence Spray, the young lady of courage and numerous costumes, says she will outdive Towers, "the man who jumped from Brooklyn bridge," and will this Sunday increase her dive by fifteen feet with the ultimate expectation of making good her promise. Until a week ago Miss Spray had a monopoly of mid-air leaps at the Chutes of seventy feet. Then came Towers, who, since his arrival, has been following the lady diver's act with a plunge of ninety-seven feet, an exhibition which has lately been given added sensation by the use of a flame enveloped tank. Feeling that her reputation is at stake Miss Spray has determined to meet Towers' ninety-seven and promises to Towers on an aerial level. Tomorrow she will dive eighty-five feet to extend the distance before the close of her engagement. While interest will undoubtedly center around the divers, there will be many other attractions to entertain patrons. The Royal Banda Roma will give twenty numbers, including classical and popular music. Mme. Arnolde will be the soloist. The trick elephants will give two performances; Demon will make his fiery ride down the chutes; the song and dance artists will amuse patrons in the cafe, there will be a new series of motion pictures, and the panoramascope, installed especially for the children, will be put in operation for the first time.

Portola Doing Well

The beautiful new Portola Thea-

MADISON'S BUDGET

.....No. 12.....

Greatest book of comedy material ever written. Contents include 10 new monologues, 46 up-to-date parodies, 21 original acts and sketches for two males and male and female, 2 jolly farces, a complete minstrel first part with finale, besides hundreds of brand-new jokes, stories, get-backs, etc.

Price One Dollar

And money back if not absolutely satisfactory. For sale in San Francisco by L. PARENT, 218 Van Ness Ave., or direct of the publisher, JAMES MADISON, 1104 Third Ave., New York.

Clarke Burroughs is the new ducer for the dramatic sketches the Central Theatre.

tre is in its first week and is doing a very satisfactory business. Many compliments have been paid Leahy & Alburn over the attractiveness of their theatre.

NEW CHUTES

FILLMORE, TURK, EDDY AND WEBSTER

Open Monday Afternoon and Night

THE GREAT DIVING DUO

TOWERS

Ninety-seven Feet Into a Flaming Tank

FLORENCE SPRAY

The Girl Who Plunged into the Sea

TRAINED ELEPHANTS

The Mystifiers of Nature Fakery

ROYAL BANDA ROMA

Concerts Every Afternoon and Night

DEMON

Song and Dance Artists in the Cafe.

Open Air Motion Pictures, a Panoramascopes for the Children and Many Other Free Features.

TAKE THE CHUTES JOY LAUNT

IDORA

"The Park Beautiful"

B. P. MILLER, General Manager
Oakland, Calif.

20 Acres of High Grade
Amusement=20

The Handsomest
Park in America

Playing Only the World's Greatest Bands
and
Big Feature Acts

Performers desiring time, address
J. H. B. Fitzpatrick

Santa Fe BACK EAST EXCURSIONS

SALE DATES

Aug. 9 to 13, inclusive.

Sept. 7 to 10, 13 to 15, inclusive.

ROUND TRIP RATES

Chicago .....	$72.50	New Orleans .....	$ 67.50
Kansas City .....	60.00	New York .....	108.50
Memphis, Tenn. ....	67.50	St. Louis .....	67.50

Ask for Back East Excursion pamphlet. Gives details.
JAS. B. DUFFY, Gen. Agt., 673 Market St., San Francisco.

SANTA FE

Correspondence

OAKLAND, August 11.—In point of attendance, last week was the banner week at Ye Liberty, and this week thus far gives evidence of being a very close second. The attraction, The Spoilers, is a story of the Alaskan mines and deals with the mining incidents in the far Northwest. The scenes are varied, and include a steamship, mine, road house and a dance hall, and all are realistically portrayed by the scenic artist, Grace Wishaar, and the property man, Charles Blair. This week our new leading man, Sidney Ayres, is seen in the role of the big, kind-hearted mine owner, and well does he play the part. His fine large physique and easy manner conform exactly to the role, and his jovial way and quick action puts plenty of life into the play. As his partner in the mine, Henry Shumer shows up equally as well. George Webster always gives a good account of himself, and his bluff sea captain this week is no exception. As the Bronco Kid, George Friend made his customary hit, although the character was somewhat different from the ones he usually portrays. Walter Whipple, the mine receiver, and Robert Harrison, as his receiver, were both good. Florence Oakley still sustains her reputation of being the best leading lady Manager Bishop has ever had. Classmates will follow. August 23 is the date set for the reopening of the Macdonough. Paid in Full will be the attraction. The Broadway still continues to be the surprise of the season. The theatre is packed at every performance, and negotiations are now under way whereby Manager Smith will in the very near future be able to almost double his seating capacity. With his capable stock company, headed by Landers Stevens and Georgie Cooper, he is presenting attractions that are first-class in every respect. His offering for the current week is Michael Strogoff, an episode of exile life on the Siberian frontier. The title role is a difficult one to sustain and calls for an overabundance of hard, tedious work, but Landers Stevens is up to all requirements and carries the play through to a successful issue. The comedy work of Roy Clements and Maurice Stewart, the foreign newspaper correspondents, was thoroughly enjoyed. Some good character work was executed by Al Hallett as Ivan Ogarriff, and Charles Place as the Czar. The work of Georgie Cooper as Naida was very much appreciated. Anita Allen and Georgie Woodthorpe as the two Russian women, looked and acted the part in a faultless manner. A well executed Amazon march was a prominent feature and the specialties by Mlle. Kerschofsk and Ruth Ormsby were well rendered. The Three Musketeers will be the Broadway's next attraction. Lily Lena and Julius Tanneen, last week's holdovers, still remain the best numbers on the Orpheum program, although Sam Watson's Farmyard Circus caused no end of merriment and laughter. The balance of the bill, Griff, Schrode and Mulvey, Herbert and Willing, was well received and the attendance is still showing a steady and constant increase. This is the last week of Innes and his band at Idora. Liberatori and his band and grand opera company will make their first appearance 17. At the Bell, Ben, the $10,000 dog, is the chief attraction and is proving a great drawing card. The Lion and the Mouse will be the Labor Day attraction at the Liberty. Edith Lyle, a clever little ingenue, has accepted an engagement with Bishop's players. Francis Prosser and Claire Sinclair have been added to the ranks of the Broadway stock company. Manager Bishop has returned from his southern trip and is much improved in health by his well earned rest. Florence Oakley, after an interview with Manager Bishop, has decided to postpone her marriage and will remain with the Liberty stock for the balance of the season. Milton Stallard, former stage director at the Liberty, has accepted a similar position with one of Henry B. Harris' companies in New York. George Webster has decided to postpone his European trip and for the present will devote his entire energy to stage some elaborate productions which Manager Bishop has in contemplation.

LOUIS SCHEELINE.

PORTLAND, Aug. 9.—For over two weeks we have had a siege of darkness in the legitimate houses, but it appears to be broken now, for the Bungalow re-opens next Thursday night with Polly of the Circus. Paid in Full follows a short time after, and then the International Grand Opera Company. At the Orpheum the past week has been a very entertaining one, and every one of Manager Erickson's acts went big with the audiences. Walker and Mack in the musical sketch, The Pearl and the Girl, was the biggest hit of all, and their funny sayings and their songs smacked of a freshness that was satisfying in the extreme. The human butterfly act of the Curzon Sisters was an act out of the ordinary; and the sketch of Frank Mostyn Kelly was way above par. Herr Reubens and the Avadano Quartette were also good acts. The bill for this week is as follows: George Auger and company are the headline act; and the other acts offered are Joe Hart's Bathing Girls; Carson and Willard; Thalia Quartette; Lew Bloom; Moffett and Clare; and Frank Rodgers. The Lyric will soon be in the running again, it being announced to reopen with the new stock company, the Robert Athon company, next Sunday night, and the opening play will be Doris. At the Grand, Manager Frank Coffinberry announces the following bill for this week: Les Plotez Larellas; J. K. Emmett and company; Warren Keane and company; Alfred Hall; Barry and Johnson; and Fred Bauer. Pantages has the Four Venetians; Carter, Taylor and company; Alva York; Ben Boyer and Brother; Gardner Trio; and Leo White. A. W. W.

Oza Waldrop, late of Going Some, has been assigned to the cast of The Ringmaster, which the Shuberts will shortly bring out. Arthur Byron is in the same cast.

T. Daniel Frawley wires from Fairbanks, Dawson, that he opened in The Heir to the Hurrah to a $1,500 house. Chas. A. Taylor and his melodramatic company opened in the same house in the preceding week to $800.

Their Daughter Reunites the Hacketts

There is to be no parting of the ways, after all, for those handsome and accomplished stage favorites, James K. Hackett and Mary Mannering. After more than a year of separation, following the serving of papers upon Mr. Hackett in a divorce action brought by his wife, they became reconciled again, and the divorce is off. Mr. Hackett made known the glad news himself to New York friends. He was so pleased that he called up all his friends to tell them about it. "Miss Mannering has withdrawn her suit for divorce," he said, "and I'm very happy." The reason for the withdrawal of the suit was not made public, nor could it be had from the lips of the principal figures in the case or their lawyers, Attorneys Clifford Hartridge and William R. Wilder, respectively. Mr. and Mrs. Hackett merely confirmed the news of the withdrawal of the suit without comment. It is more than likely that little Elise Hackett, who is five and dainty and as pretty as you'd expect a daughter of such parents to be, was responsible for the abandonment of the unpleasant legal action. Last fall as the luck of theatricals had it, the Hacketts played in Forty-second street theatres in New York across the street from each other, James K. at the house which bears his name, and Miss Mannering at the Lyric. He was doing The Prisoner of Zenda, she Glorious Betsy. They had been formally separated then since early in the summer. Miss Mannering having served the papers upon her husband on June 1, at the same time receiving custody of little Elise. During the Forty-second street engagement the child made nightly pilgrimages across the street from one house to the other. One period between acts she spent with her father, the next with her mother. Soon she became the bearer of kindly messages: "Tell papa this," and "tell mamma that." The theatrical world smiled sympathetically and predicted: "If that keeps up long there'll be no Hackett-Mannering divorce." Indeed before the two companies went separate ways there were rumors that a reconciliation was in view. Now that it has come the Hacketts' friends are giving Elise a large share of the credit.

Spotlights

Recent engagements with Sanford Dodge company are: Hazel Harlan, Messrs. R. A. Johnson, Sidney Carton, J. Clark.

The Shuberts will have a new house in Minneapolis, plans of which call for a replica of the Maxine Elliott Theater in New York. It will be located on Seventh Street near First Avenue. The theater, it is expected, will be completed by next June.

Joseph M. Gaite has signed a contract with S. Miller Kent by which

Mr. Kent will be presented as a star under the Gaite management for a series of years. During the next season Mr. Kent will be seen in a play by F. E. Dunn called A Dry Town.

Frank Bacon will head the company at the American week after next in his old play, The Hills of California.

The McMahon stock company which went from El Paso to Alamogordo, N. M., this week is reported stranded in Alamogordo and the members have not enough money to leave town. Several trunks were attached.

For Sale Swain's Theatre

SANTA CRUZ, CAL.

The only Popular-Priced Family Theatre in the City. Complete in every detail. Seating capacity, 700. Centrally located. Low rent and a long lease. Address, MACK SWAIN, Santa Cruz, Cal.

Imperial Amusement Co.

Star Theatre, Portland, Oregon
S. MORTON COHN, Pres.; MELVIN G. WINSTOCK, Gen. Mgr.
Acts of every kind are requested to write in, quoting lowest salary in first letter. Satisfactory booking for right acts at right figures.

Andrews Opera Chairs

General Seating
School—Church—Bank
Office and Steel Rod
Furniture
Purchase direct from
manufacturer
THE A. H. ANDREWS CO.
Pacific Bldg., San Francisco
Chicago, New York, Tacoma

SCENERY

The Chas. F. Rosa Scenic Studio

Undersell any studio or individual in America.
Write for a "special" estimate.
Studio, Van Ness Theatre, S. F.

Hotel St. James, Van Ness Ave., at Fulton St., San Francisco

MISS E. MATTINGLY

Official Stenographer and Typewriter to
Theatrical Agents and Managers
Theatrical Typewriting
Plays and manuscripts copied. Press work and mimeographing.

J. B. REIGHLEY

Theatrical Hauling

Promptly Attended To
Telephone Market 1601
660 Guerrero Street, Bet. 18th and 19th

Opera, Folding and Assembly

Chairs

Full Line
See Samples at 770-776
Mission St.
Bet. 3d and 4th Sts.
SAN FRANCISCO
THE WIGGIN CO.

Do you contemplate going to HONOLULU? If so, communicate with

J. C. COHEN

PROMOTER OF AMUSEMENT ENTERPRISES

Managing HAWAIIAN OPERA HOUSE and ORPHEUM THEATRE, Honolulu, H. T. Both houses thoroughly equipped and stage capable of handling any show.

Correspondence

DENVER, Aug. 10.—Denver is really the Mecca of good shows this week. The stock company at Elitch's presents The College Widow, that ever likable play because so typical of the life on the campus of the modern college. Bud Hicks will never fail to thrill the younger class who have just emerged from freshies and chocolate girls. That character is so easily recognized as typical of the freshie who enters by the thousands the different Western colleges each year. The Gardens on last Friday gave one of the most successful symphonies of the season so far. It was a program of pieces from Weber, Offenbach and Massenet. The soloist of the day was Madame Carlos Sobrinho, who reached Denver last month after a three years' concert tour of the world. She is a finished singer and artist and drew "standing room" only. The Broadway gives as its second week's offering Cameo Kirby with the much-talked-about Dustin Farnum in the title role. All the afternoon papers sent their sweetest females to interview the matinee idol and he is described in the evening press as blushing to the soft impeachment of being still on Katherine Clemmons Gould's dinner list. He conducted himself, they do say, as a gentleman during the trying interviews and again affirmed the "gentleman's lie" to keep alive King Edward's code. Long life to you, Mr. Farnum. There are so many snitching males on life's pathway that it is refreshing to have you brave enough to be individual and stand by the lady. The leading woman with Mr. Farnum is May Buckley, Denver's own. The greatest favorite of summer stock that Denver has known for fifteen years, and she will receive much attention and entertainment during the week, being the house guest of one of Denver's social leaders who has issued a number of invitations to some very unique affairs to be given in Miss Buckley's honor. More distressing things are looming up for Martin Beck to handle for his great syndicate and the broad shoulders and massive brain of the trust manager will be taxed to the limit by his Denver annoyances. First there is the William Morris Theater that will soon be a living menace to the New Orpheum. Mr. Seeley, the representative of the William Morris Inc., has been in Denver purchasing the ground for the site of the new Morris Theater. And to make the selection more interesting he has about decided upon a location which is far uptown enough to draw from the Orpheum only and leave the beautiful Majestic, owned by Sullivan and Considine, to hold complete sway in the down-town district. The splendid bill at the Majestic this week is a fair example of the way Messrs. Sullivan and Considine are looking after the interest of their patrons. This pretty and popular vaudeville house is giving seven feature acts and this week each one is a top liner. The real drawing celebrity is Yodler Matt Keefe, formerly of San Francisco. All the numbers are individual and splendidly played. EMMA HEREY-MEYER.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 8.—At the Spokane Theater Elinor Glyn's Three Weeks, 12-15. The season will open August 29 with The Time, The Place and The Girl. The Telephone Girl, staged under the direction of Frank Blair, is the bill at the Auditorium this week, played to a fair house the opening night. Jesse L. Lasky's production, entitled At the Country Club, is headliner at the Orpheum this week. It is a musical sketch and made a big hit at the opening performance. Gardner-Revere, a comedy sketch, is very clever. The McGrady's, world's famous arrow sharpshooters, are good, and Ruby Raymond company do some clever dancing. Signor Luciano Lucca, the Man With Two Voices, is interesting. Marseilles, contortionist, gets a pretty effect in black and white. The Arlington Four, singing and dancing messenger boys, and Orpheum pictures conclude the bill. Bothwell Browne company in Cleopatra and the Live Snake Dance head the bill at the Washington; the act is a decided novelty. Will S. Marion and Vira Rival present an artistic sketch, entitled The Witch's Power. It is an intensely interesting act. The Crazy Caddie, by the Four Stagpooles, a comedy acrobatic act, is very entertaining. Blanche Sloan, the Queen of the Air, is both graceful and clever. Rinaldo, the Wandering Violinist, is an important feature on the bill. Edward Blondell company, in The Lost Boy, is one of the big feature acts at Pantages. Irene Lee and her Candy Kids. The trio are clever dancers. The Spiller Musical Bumpers are five colored people and their act goes big. George Yoe-man is a good German comedian. Prof. Buckley's troupe of trained dogs and moving pictures complete the bill. There are same good attractions at Natatorium Park this week, which include Celie Mavis, Australian prima donna soprano; Deronda, the Mysterious Jail Breaker; and the concerts every afternoon and evening by Bowen's American Band. August 21 St. Olaf College Band will be heard here. SMYTH.

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 11.—The Garrick will remain dark until August 15-16, when the International grand opera company will appear. Jos. Weber's climax company will be with us for three performances, commencing August 28. James Post and Buty Korus are putting on at the Pickwick this week a musical melange entitled The Man From Tonopah to good business. The piece has little or no plot, but it seems to hit the right spot for a summer night's show. James Post as Martin Driscoll, a rube, has an excellent part and as usual gets all there is out of it. He has little trouble keeping the audience in a continual howl of laughter whenever he has the stage. There are a number of catchy songs interpolated, among them being I Don't Like Your Family, by Lotus Moore and Buty Korus, and Hello People, by Esco Ives. Olga Hayden, the female baritone, scored with her specialty. Juliet Mahr also scored with her specialty. The chorus is well dressed and sing and dance in a captivating manner. Good acts fill out the bill this week at the Queen. The bill opens with Slater Brockman in a lightning-change act that went big. Joel and Pearson in their original sketch The Chinese Nugget scored a hit. The Ramsey Sisters have a good comedy sketch. Seymour and Hill, rough and tumble acrobats, in skit entitled The Mix and the Mixer have one of the best acts of its kind seen here in many a week. Moving pictures conclude a well balanced bill. Fred Lincoln, general manager of the Sullivan and Considine circuit, was in town Saturday and Sunday and made arrangements for improving the Queen. The stage is to be enlarged, new dressing rooms, the house increased about 300 chairs, freshly painted scenery, and an additional turn added to the bill each week. These changes will necessitate the expenditure of about $3,000. After the improvements have been made the Queen will seat about 1,000 people. Lincoln expressed himself as being much impressed with the outlook for vaudeville in this city. He added: "It will only be a question of a few years when our present lease expires, when we propose to build one of the finest theaters in the entire West here." Joe Egan, the Broadway Boy, heads

GOLDSTEIN & CO.
COSTUMERS for all Pacific Coast Theatres.
Goldstein's Hair and Wig Store.
Make-Up, Play Books. Established 1876.
Lincoln Building, Market and Fifth Sts.

the bill at the Grand this week in a unique turn that scored an instantaneous hit. As he sings he marches up and down the aisles, in evening dress, a grip in his hand and an opera hat on his head, shaking hands right and left and creating no end of fun by his mock tragic farewells. Palmer and Robinson have a clever sketch. The Hill Sisters in illustrated songs please. Moving pictures conclude. The Empire, Union and Bijou report good business with illustrated songs and moving pictures.

CARL E. LUNDQUIST.

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 7.—Henry W. Savage's company last evening, the 5th, at the Loring to capacity of the house in The Merry Widow. The season formally opens on the 17th with grand opera, presented by the International Grand Opera Company.

CHAS. E. HEATH.

RAYMOND TEAL WRITES: Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 8.—Business is immense in Arizona. Of course, it is my old stamping ground, so perhaps that has something to do with it. Will play Arizona till late in the fall, and will go to Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas, Missouri and Illinois. If business is good in California next year I will make it.

For Rent Theatre Margarita

At Eureka, Cal.

May be leased by responsible parties. Theatre is new and modern in every respect.

Address,

C. P. CUTTEN, Agent,
Eureka, Cal.

All Kinds of
SCENERY
Painted, built and installed. The only real STUDIO on the Coast. Get our prices for road or house productions.
Front and Sheridan Sts.
Portland, Oregon

C. F.
Weber & Co.
Opera Chairs

All Styles of
THEATRE AND
HALL SEATS

365-7 Market Street
San Francisco
210-212 N. Main St.
Los Angeles

FRED O. OSBORNE, Manager
Theatrical Code, "Santapole"
Home Phone F 5037

New York Dramatic Agency
Booking
Dramatic and Vaudeville Acts
Organizing and Routing Companies, Supplying "Scripts," Etc.
Belasco Theatre Building, Los Angeles
Entire Third Floor

Location Wanted for Permanent Stock

Miss Lorraine Buchanan and Company

Metropolitan and Guaranteed Attraction

"Phenomenal success has attended the Lorraine Buchanan company in Santa Cruz; capacity houses since their opening night, when more than two hundred were turned away."—Santa Cruz Sentinel.

Special engagements of four to ten weeks may be booked after Sept. 1. Managers address all communications to

ROBERT H. RUSSELL,

P. O. Box 388, Santa Cruz, Cal.

CHARLES E. ROYAL AND ELLIOTT EDYTHE

IN VAUDEVILLE

Presenting Charles E. Royal's wonderful Burglar Playlet, "STRAIGHTENING A CROOK," and six other excellent playlets.
 "Best sketch ever presented at the Empire."—Eureka Times. "Full enough of dramatic and comedy situations to warrant a four-act play."—Eureka Herald. Chas. Royal and Edythe Elliott are finished artists in every sense and present a wonderfully clever act."—Watsonville Pajaronian.
 "Working All the Time." "Featured Everywhere."

BERT LEVEY, AGENT.

Spotlights

Klaw & Erlanger have obtained for McIntyre and Heath a very amusing and entertaining production in McIntyre and Heath in Hayti. John J. McNally wrote the book and lyrics and Jerome and Schwartz the music. Mr. McNally takes his characters from French Lick to Hayti, where they become the central figures in a lively revolution. In the cast are Julian Rose, Mabel Sealby, Toby Lyons, Marion Stanley, Jane Burby, Adele Rowland, Alfred Fisher, John H. Pratt, Carl McCulloch and Fletcher Norton. McIntyre and Heath will be surrounded by a large and effective chorus of singers and dancers. Scenic settings and costumes will be elaborate and tasteful. The first performance will be given August 23 in the Euclid Avenue Opera House. This is the first time Klaw & Erlanger have ever opened a show in Cleveland, although it is the home town of A. L. Erlanger.

The Air King, a new opera by Harry B. Smith and Raymond Hubbell, will be produced by Klaw & Erlanger early next fall.

The Orpheum

One of the daintiest and most daring acts will be installed next week, when the Curzon Sisters give their sensational performance. They are two handsome girls who, supporting themselves by their teeth alone, perform beautiful evolutions, first as butterflies and later as filmy-gowned fairies. Wilbur Mack and Nella Walker will introduce a lively and diverting novelty, called The Girl and the Pearl, which they aptly style a musical flirtation. John World and Mindell Kingston will appear in their latest skit. Mr. World has long been recognized as a versatile singing and dancing comedian and Miss Kingston's fame as the soubrette with a voice is well known. Their act is full of hearty laughs, good dancing, travesty and song. Herr J. Rubens, the Munich academician, who will be a unique feature of the new program, devotes himself particularly to transparent painting and in a short space of time provides a landscape in all its summer glory, which he changes to a winter scene and then a setting sun picture, wherein among other things birds sleeping in the branches stand out specially. Dogs, flower arrangements and butterflies are also painted with wonderful artistic effect almost instantaneously. Next week will be the last of Eleanor Gordon, the Five Avolos, Lena Pantzer and of La Petite Revue. A novelty in the way of Orpheum motion pictures will close an entertainment that cannot fail of extraordinary popularity.

Alcazar Theatre

The Squaw Man will run a second week at the Alcazar, commencing next Monday evening. In the title part Augustus Phillips, the new leading man, has proved himself to be the sterling actor that the advance an-

STEVE I. SIMMONS

MAXWELL ALEXANDER

Columbia Scenic Studio Co.

Estimates on all Classes of Theatrical Work

Office, 117 Fell St., S. F.

George P. Webster

Stage Director

Ye Liberty Playhouse Stock, Oakland, Cal.

Evelyn Selbie-Virginia Thornton

Alternating Leads

Frawley Co., Alaska

Carlton Chase

Leading Man

Fischer's Theatre, San Francisco

Gerald Harcourt

Juveniles and Light Comedies

American Stock, San Francisco

Lillian Hayward

Leading Business, Stock or Road.

Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

Arthur E. Witting-Mattie Davis

Character Actor

Joint or Single
AT LIBERTY

Character Actress

Address San Diego, Calif., Boundary and Howard Streets.

nouncements predicted. But the play is not solely dependent upon the personality and art of the actor who depicts its central figure, for it possesses every element that goes to make greatness. Dealing with an interesting question that obtrudes itself at every point, the plot marches steadily onward with a superior dignity. There is none of the melodramatic trickery of the modern school of drama that exasperates the beholder with intervals of deferred interest. Each of the four acts is a play in itself, complete in every detail, yet each scene is absolutely dependent upon the others to make the whole structure coherent, and at no time does the interest lag through wasted effort.

CHARLES E. GUNN

Leads

Care Dramatic Review

BERT PORTER

Juveniles

Newman-Foltz Co.

MAX WAIZMAN

Newman-Foltz Co.

GEORGE VON BLIX

Stage Manager

Newman-Foltz Co.

COL. D. P. STONER

Just closed as advance for Richard Jose.
At Liberty for fall season. Care
Dramatic Review

MINNIE MAYFIELD

Heavies and Characters
Late of Richard Jose Co. At Liberty. Care
Dramatic Review

HERMAN HELLER

Musical Director
Valencia Theatre Social engagements filled

DAN KELLY

Comedian

Care Dramatic Review

AUSTA PIERCE

Characters
Late of Chas. Frohman and Chas. Dillingham
At Liberty for Summer Stock.
1210 Cedar St., San Diego. Cal.

GEORGIE WOODTHORPE

Characters
Broadway Theatre, Oakland

ALBERT ROWLAND

Late of Chas. Frohman and Chas. Dillingham
At Liberty for Characters or Heavies
Care Dramatic Review

LAURA LUCILE HEIMLICH

Leads

Everett, Wash.

FRED S. CUTLER

Late Manager for Richard Jose
Advance or with company At Liberty
Address care Dramatic Review

EDWARD B. LADA

General Music Director
for Belasco & Mayer

A. BURT WESNER

Alcazar Theatre, San Francisco

TEDDY WEBB

Comedian, San Francisco Opera Co.
Direction John Cort

HARRY J. LASK

Representative New York Clipper
N. E. Cor. Sansome and Pine Sts.

HARRY MARSHALL

Scenic Artist
At Liberty. 2748 Vermont Ave., Los Angeles

MINOR REED

Scenic Artist
At Liberty Address Dramatic Review

CARRIE CLARKE WARDE

Characters
Dick Ferris Stock, Minneapolis

GILMORE WALKER

Stage Manager
Valencia Theatre, San Francisco

EDDIE
Mitchell

Juveniles

CHESTER STEVENS

Heavies
Grand Opera House Stock, Los Angeles

MARY HARVEY-BARBOUR

Leads (Versatile)
3d Ave. Theatre, Seattle

FREDERICK GILBERT

Burbank Stock, Los Angeles

ARTHUR SHEPPARD

Scenic Artist Care Dramatic Review

Howard Foster

Light Comedy and Characters
At Liberty Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

IRENE OUTTRIM

Leads
Musical Comedy Co., Reno, Nevada

ROBERT LAWLER

Leading Man

SUSIE HOWARD

Engaged for Lyric Stock
Portland, Ore.

PIETRO SOSSO

Leading Man—Elleford Co.
Address, 179 De Long Ave., S. F.

FRED. C. CHARMAN

Juveniles and Light Comedy
General Delivery, Tucson, Arizona

WARDA HOWARD

Leads

Vancouver, B. C.

CHARLES MARRIOTT

Gardiner Stock Co. Victoria, B. C.

Walter H. Newman AND Bertha Foltz

Starring Jointly

High-Class Repertoire

Season 1909 and 1910

Alf. T. Layne    Daisy D'Avra

Del Lawrence Stock, Victoria

Edith Lyle

Ingenué — Valencia Stock

San Francisco

Donald Bowles

Dramatic Director Geo. L. Baker's Attractions.
Address Bungalow Theatre, Portland, Oregon.
Loaned by Mr. Baker to direct Mr. James Neill's Company for him in St. Paul, Minn.

Neva West

Care Dramatic Review

Permanent Address, 2110 Post Street

Johnny Williams, Jr.

"FRISCO"

"The Man in Front." Can Book or Wild Cat

Louise Kent

In Vaudeville

Her Own Company

Pantages Circuit

Thurlow White

Leads, Heavies

Invites offers

Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

E. P. Foot

GENERAL MUSICAL DIRECTOR

Murray &amp; Mack Co., Incorporated

Mason Opera House Bldg., Los Angeles.

Mina Crolus Gleason

Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland

Louis Morrison

Belasco Stock Co.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Seibert & Lindley

Presenting the headline act, "HER OWN MOTHER," in vaudeville.

Sidney B. Payne

Lyric Stock, Portland, Or.

Sydney Ayres

Leading Man

Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, Cal.

Budd Ross

Comedian

Princess Theatre, San Francisco

Al Hallett

Stage Director

Broadway Theatre, Oakland

F. F. Munier

Characters

Broadway Theatre Stock, Oakland

Priscilla Knowles

Leads

Bennett Jack

Characters

Lyric Theatre, Portland

Whit Brandon    Ethel Tucker

Leading Man and Director

Leading Woman

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Paul McAllister

Leading Man

Valencia Theatre, S. F.

George B. Baldwin, Jr.

Alcazar Stock, San Francisco

Monroe Salisbury

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

James Austin Gleason—Webster    Lucile

Playing Title Role in Checkers

Juveniles in Checkers

Godfrey Matthews

At Liberty for Leads or Heavies

Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

Leslie King

Season with E. H. Sothorn
Closed June 17th

Immediately Engaged by
Frederic Thompson for Polly of the Circus
To open June 29th

E. P. Norwood

Mr. Norwood is a newcomer in the amusement publicity field in this city, and his brilliant achievements on behalf of the Chutes and Idora Park are especially worthy of record. Mr. Norwood is a graduate from the circus game and knows his business.

Innes Says Farewell At Idora

Innes and his New York band and soloists will give their farewell concerts tonight and Sunday and Monday afternoon and night. Next Tuesday Idora will present Liberati and his Royal Italian band and grand opera company for a limited engagement. The organization, under the baton of Signor Liberati, numbers sixty players and is considered by many critics to be the best Italian band ever brought to the United States. The ten vocalists accompany the band. Tomorrow's concerts under the direction of Innes will contain many unusual numbers and promise to draw throngs of music lovers to Oakland's pleasure resort. The programs will include The Procession of the Holy Grail, from Parsifal; Love's Dream and Dance Caresse, two pieces for wood-wind and strings; Rubinstein's beautiful descriptive idyl Kammenio Ostrow; Dudley Buck's Festival Overture; scenes from Mascagni's Cavalleria, ending with the famous intermezzo; Albion, a popular fantasy on English, Irish and Scotch folk songs; Kissing the Blarney Stone, Victor Herbert's Badinage and Pan

Americana; Suppe's Poet and Peasant overture and the processional from Tannhauser. Virginia Listeman will sing the aria from La Boheme and Gounod's lullaby Sing, Smile, Slumber. George Hagel and John Kiburz will play a serenade for cello and flute. One of the finest numbers on the evening program will be scenes from Lucia, to be terminated with the sextette to be rendered by Messrs. Bambridge, Hallback, Pinto, Grubner, Traxler and Ramos. A number of acrobatic aerial acts will entertain patrons afternoon and evening, during the concert intermissions.

Springtime

Springtime, the new play by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, in which Frederic Thompson will present Mabel Taliaferro as a star, will soon be launched. The last of the cast to be engaged was the character actor, William B. Mack, who was last year in Via Wireless and who previously was with Mrs. Fiske. The other members of the company in the support are Sam Forrest, Joseph Brennan, last seen as the boss canvasman in Polly of the Circus; Earle Browne, who was Mabel Taliaferro's leading man for the last two years; Edwin Holland, William Harrigan, a son of the veteran actor, Edward Harrigan; Lillian Reed, Lucille Mravljak and Nellie Lindroth. Springtime will open in Washington on October 17, and will be presented on Broadway during the first week in November. The story of the play refers to incidents occurring during the Battle of New Orleans and Mr. Thompson has worked up two big effects—the mob scene on a dock and a swamp scene.

Dates Ahead

A GIRL AT THE HELM (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Detroit, Aug. 29, Sept. 4; Milwaukee, 5-11; Peoria, 12-15; Springfield, 16-18; Chicago, 19-25; St. Louis, 26 to Oct. 2.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Walla Walla, Sept. 1; Yakima, 2; Ellensburg, 3; Aberdeen, 4; Seattle, 5-11; Tacoma, 12; Victoria, 13; Vancouver, 14-15; Westminster, 16; Bellingham, 17; Everett, 18; Portland, 19-21; Eugene, 22; Red Bluff, 24; Marysville, 25; Frisco, 26 to Oct. 1.

ALCAZAR STOCK.—San Francisco.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Winnipeg, 12-14; Fargo, 16; Mandan, 17; Miles City, 18; Billings, 19; Livingston, 20; Bozeman, 21; Butte, 22-23; Anaconda, 24; Gr. Falls, 25; Helena, 26; Missoula, 27; Wallace, 28; Spokane, 29-31.

AS THE SUN WENT DOWN (Arthur C. Aiston.)—Paterson, Aug. 23-24-25; Morristown, 26; East Stroudsburg, 27; Binghamton, 28; Syracuse 30-31, Sept. 1.

BELASCO STOCK CO.—Los Angeles.

BISHOP'S PLAYERS.—In stock, Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland.

ELLEFORD COMPANY.—Truckee, 16-17-18; Loyalton, 19-20-21; then Grass Valley and Nevada City.

FISCHER'S MUSICAL STOCK.—San Francisco.

GUY SMITH STOCK.—Oakland, Cal.

MOROSCO'S BURBANK STOCK.—Los Angeles.

PAID IN FULL.—Oakland, Aug. 23-24-25; San Jose, 26; Stockton, 27; Fresno, 28; Los Angeles, 30 and week; San Diego, Sept. 5-6; Santa Ana, 7; San Bernardino, 8; Bakersfield, 9; Hanford, 10; Sacramento, 11; Eugene, 13; Salem, 14; Astoria, 15; Portland, 16-17-18; Seattle, 20 and week; Tacoma, 26-27; Victoria, 28; Vancouver, 29-30; Bellingham, Oct. 1; Everett, 2; Ellensburg, 4; Spokane, 5-6; Missoula, 7; Butte, 8-9; Great Falls, 10; Helena, 11; Bozeman, 12; Livingston, 13; Billings, 14; Dickinson, 15; Bismarck or Jamestown, 17; Fargo, 18.

POLLY OF THE CIRCUS.—Portland, Aug. 12-14; Seattle, 15-28; Everett, 29; Bellingham, 30; Vancouver, 31, Sept. 2; Westminster, 3; Victoria, 4; Tacoma, 5-6-7; Ellensburg, 8; North Yakima, 9; Walla Walla, 10-11; Spokane, 12-15; Missoula, 16; Helena, 17; Great Falls, 18; Butte, 19-20; Anaconda, 21; Bozeman, 22; Livingston, 23; Billings, 24-25; Denver, Col., 27, Oct. 3.

RAYMOND TEAL.—Phoenix till Aug. 16; then Tucson for four weeks.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Eastern), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—St. Louis, Sept. 5-11; Springfield, 12-15; Peoria, 16-17-18; Milwaukee, 19-25; St. Paul, 26 to Oct. 2.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Great Falls, Sept. 1; Helena, 2; Missoula, 3; Wallace, 4; Spokane, 5-6; Walla Walla, 7; Yakima, 8; Tacoma, 9; Aberdeen, 10; Chehalis, 11; Seattle, 12-18; Portland, 19-25; Astoria, 26; Salem, 27; Albany, 28; Eugene, 29; Roseburg, 30.

THE CAT AND THE FIDDLE (Chas. A. Sellon, mgr.)—Chicago, Aug. 15-21; St. Cloud, 23; Brainerd, 24; Grand Forks, 25; Grafton, 26; Winnipeg, 27-28; Fargo, 30; Valley City, 31; Jamestown, Sept. 1; Bismarck, 2; Mandan, 3; Dickinson, 4; Miles City, 6; Billings, 7; Livingston, 8; Bozeman, 9; Anaconda, 10; Butte, 11-12; Great Falls, 13; Helena, 14; Missoula, 15; Wallace, 16; Colfax, 17; Spokane, 18-19; Sprague, 20; Walla Walla, 21; N. Yakima, 22; Ellensburg, 23; Tacoma, 24-25; Seattle, 26 to Oct. 2.

THE CLIMAX.—(Jos. Weber—J. J. Rosenthal ahead.)—Los Angeles, Aug. 16 and week.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (Eastern), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Peoria, Aug. 29 to Sept. 1; Springfield, 2-4; Chicago, 5-11; Detroit, 12-18; Toledo, 19-25; Louisville, 26 to Oct. 2.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (Western) (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Spokane, Aug. 29 to Sept. 4; Seattle, 5-11; Aberdeen, 12; Tacoma, 13-14; Victoria, 15; Vancouver, 16-17; Westminster, 18; Bellingham, 19; Everett, 20; Chehalis, 22; Portland, 23-24-25; Corvallis, 27; Chico, 29; Sacramento, 30.

THREE WEEKS (Ernest Shuter, ahead.)—Everett, 14; North Yakima, 15; Spokane, 16-19; Helena, 20; Great Falls, 21; Butte, 22-23; Billings, 24; Grand Forks, 25; Winnipeg, 26; then St. Paul and Minneapolis.

RINGLIN'S CIRCUS.—Red Bluff, Aug. 30; Chico, 31; Marysville, Sept. 1; Sacramento, 2; Santa Rosa, 3; Napa, 4; Oakland, 5-6; Santa Cruz, 7; Salinas, 8; San Francisco, 9-13; San Jose, 14; Stockton, 15; Fresno, 16; Visalia, 17; Bakersfield, 18; Santa Barbara, 20; Los Angeles, 21-22; Santa Ana, 24; San Bernardino, 25; Phoenix, 27; Tucson, 28.

Open For Stock or Road Tour

Has a Most Complete Line
of Printing

Shadows on the Hearth

A Play of Great Parts

Address
ARTHUR C. AISTON
Sole Owner
Room 304
1505 Broadway
N. Y. City
Tel. 941 Bryant

THE SAN FRANCISCO DRAMATIC REVIEW

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Published Continuously Since 1880. The Only Theatrical Publication in the Great West

Ten Cents a Copy—$4.00 a Year

San Francisco, Saturday, August 21, 1909

No. 26—Vol. XX—New Series

Claire Sinclair

The Ordeal of "First Nights"

An author creates an idea and makes a play out of it, after many have read it. Some producer favors it, decides to gamble and casts it with the best available talent obtainable at the time. Weeks of rehearsal follow, with considerable changes in the dialogue, situations, and even the cast itself. When everything looks propitious the play receives its premiere. Situations and lines that were considered at the rehearsals sure fire, miss entirely. Players who all thought would surely score do not make the looked-for impression on the audience, and the play does not get over. Other times when in rehearsal, a play, ridiculed by the cast, thought tame and faulty by the producers, at its premiere goes like wildfire and succeeds. Why? No one can give a satisfactory reason. It just does or doesn't. Success and failure are akin. It's splitting hairs to find a reason at times. When the curtain rises on the first act of a play at the initial performance, and sixty per cent of the audience are not in a receptive mood, and are made up of those who are inclined to be hypercritical, unless the play and players can overcome this handicap at the start by slowly working the audience out of themselves to a point where they get interested, the play will surely and slowly expire. Players whose nerves are keyed to concert pitch receive their inspiration from the audience, and the lack of appreciation of their efforts and lack of enthusiasm of the author's work is communicated to them, and they unconsciously cease to try, and the following acts are played with a lack of confidence, so that the original sixty per cent of the audience who have had the attitude of "come on, show us," is increased until the heart is out of the whole thing and it dies. At all first-night performances the eternal question asked by the players, author and producer is "How's it going?" One can stand in the back of the theatre and tell whether the play is over or not, and the next day's reviews in the papers are not needed to tell the story. If the play is a success, the favorable criticisms following further the play's advancement and set the general public to going quicker; but if the play is a failure, unfavorable reviews may hasten its demise, though it really passed away the night before. At times the author and producer are slow to acknowledge the real state of affairs, and are influenced by friends, who, either through a desire to curry favor or who are afraid to tell the truth, bolster up the confidence of those connected with the production. So they force the play, hoping to win success in the end, but this seldom transpires except in musical productions. Anyone in a first-night audience can usually tell the answer. They feel it, for it either does or it does not go. There are times when half the audience like it, and the other half thinks it fair. Then it becomes a "pretty play" or a "nice little play," or "it is not a bad play." This is the hardest burden the producer has to bear, for when the play is a failure it goes into the storehouse and becomes a tabooed topic. But when it is neither one nor the other, it's a hard state of affairs, for the producer is always becoming encouraged, and he continues it, and it often happens that the play makes a profit in one city, only to lose it in another, and when it's time to shelve it the books invariably show a loss in the end, so that a decided no is really more humane than a lukewarm verdict. As an illustration of how one can be beguiled into thinking he has a success, when really it is a direct opposite, it may be told how Henry B. Harris presented Alice Fisher in The Case of Rebellious Susan at the Bijou Theatre, New York, several years ago, to a capacity opening house. The play, at rehearsals, was exceedingly funny to all observers, and the cast thought it a corking comedy. On the opening night there were flowers galore for the star—the lobby was simply packed

... Last Call For Dinner ...

We have about 200 SUMMER SUITS in stock which we intend closing out at once.

We offer these suits at half price, to wit:

$20 Suits	$25 Suits	$30 Suits	$35 Suits	$40 Suits
$10.00	$12.50	$15.00	$17.50	$20.00

A Small Charge for Alterations if Necessary.

Chas. S. Rosener

57 POWELL STREET

San Francisco

with artistic creations; ladders for success, horseshoes for luck; in fact, every kind of flower talisman. The first act went in fine style; the second splendidly, followed by ear-piercing cries for Miss Fisher, the star, who, wending her way to the footlights, was to become the happy recipient of the innumerable floral offerings which a procession of ushers started to hand over the footlights. The audience cheered and applauded Miss Fisher, and she, so overcome with emotion, asked them if they really meant it, and they all as one volleyed back: "Yes, yes." After the performance I said to Mr. Harris: "It certainly looks good, doesn't it?" and he replied: "You've got a lot to learn; the audience were all friends of Miss Fisher who attended to boost things along. Wait and see how much coin of the realm we have in the box office tomorrow night, and I'll tell you the answer, though I much fear I know it now." Next night the receipts were foolish, and two nights later Mr. Harris closed it, and the production was hurried away to the storehouse, joining some others that are tearful memories. Not so with James Forbes' comedy, The Traveling Salesman. On August 10th of last year Mr. Harris presented the play at the Liberty Theatre, New York, and there wasn't an "if" or "but" tied to its success. The lines cracked, snapped and exploded across the footlights for four acts, and after the final curtain the audience shouted and applauded until the curtain had risen seven times. This time with a broad grin, Mr. Harris turned to me and said: "How much money can we get in this theatre at a performance?" I told him, and he replied: "Well, that's a fine figure, but I wish the capacity was larger." If a manager wants to he can tell the answer the first night; most anyone can. The trouble is that no one wants to believe a play is a failure, but it's the best way. —Augustus Pitou, Jr.

Slightly Worn Wardrobe for Stage Purposes
Ladies' Handsome Evening Gowns and Opera Coats; good as new; in latest styles. Men's Full Dress and Tuxedo Suits. MRS. E. JACOBS, 1050 Golden Gate Avenue, Store Phone West 2185, Residence Phone Park 4298.

ation of the Persse-Mason Opera Company. Mr. Persse has mapped out a tour for the company which will leave here, September 20th, playing the principal cities of California and the Northwest. Herman Perlet's latest production, The Singing Bandits, has been secured by the Persse-Mason Company, and the clever composer has excelled his best previous efforts with this operatic comedy. Mr. Perlet will be best remembered by his productions, When Reuben Comes to Town, Mlle. Hawkins, and The Dragoon's Daughter. Besides those well-known compositions, Mr. Perlet is the author of many other operatic successes. The Singing Bandits is pronounced by those who have heard it in rehearsal a musical masterpiece, and the Persse-Mason Company is to be congratulated in securing such a splendid vehicle for their well-known talents. Mr. Persse and Miss Mason will be remembered as scintillating members of the world-famous Castle Square Opera Company and later of the Tivoli Opera House, San Francisco. The clever artists long ago won for themselves a place in the hearts of Californians, and their return to the stage will be a source of extreme gratification to the musical public. With Mr. Persse and Miss Mason in the company are a number of other well-known stars of the musical opera firmament, including Bernice Holmes, Jane Roberts, Henry Auerbach, H. Gerson, Joseph Mills and J. J. Lesser. The company, in the altogether, is a well-balanced one, and a treat is in store for those who like good music interspersed with clever comedy.

Gus McCune, who is one of the cleverest agents that ever visited the Coast, has just been appointed manager of the Fifth Avenue Theatre of New York.

Among the principals of the Persse-Mason musical comedy company will be Thomas Persse, Edith Mason, Jane Pilling, Joseph Mills, Henry Auerbach and Joe Fogarty.

Valencia Theatre Commencing 29
AUGUST

S. S. and Lee Shubert

Present their Most Pretentious
Theatrical Offering

John Mason

IN AUGUSTUS THOMAS'
GREATEST PLAY

....The....
Witching Hour

PRICES $2.00 to 50 cents

The Singing Bandits

Thomas Persse and Edith Mason, who have been enjoying a prolonged vacation this summer, have returned to town and announce the reorganiza-

Hotel St. James

Cor. Van Ness Ave. and Fulton St.
San Francisco, California

Headquarters for Agents and Managers

Half Block from Van Ness Theatre.
Friars meet at the St. James every
Friday night.

F. P. SHANLEY, Manager, formerly of New York

Annual Tour of The Land of Nod

Among the more important bookings this season at the Colonial is Samuel E. Rork's brilliant musical extravaganza, The Land of Nod, which will be seen here the early part of the season. Knox Wilson still heads the cast and will be seen in his original part of April Fool. Two other prominent members of this season's cast are Neil McNeil and Anna McNabb, who will be remembered for their excellent work with Charles Dillingham's production of The Red Mill last year. They will be seen in their original parts in The Land of Nod, which first brought them conspicuously before the public. Among the other original members of the cast who remain are William Morgan, Marion Mosby, Claude Lightner, Dorothy Ellis, Lyle Tayo, Robert La Londe, Nelson Riley and Louis Lytle. The musical score has been almost entirely rewritten and so many new features have been interpolated that it is practically a new show, keeping the general ensemble of the piece up to its original high standard.

Victor Moore in The Talk of New York

As author of The Talk of New York, George M. Cohan has not outdone himself, but he has again touched as high a mark as he has set in the past. As a stage manager he shows surprising advancement over what has been regarded heretofore as perfection. As a lesson in enlivening a stage, the presentation of The Talk of New York is said to be a revelation. There is an everlasting but never monotonous swish and flutter, flirt and scamper to the performance, and although the comely choristers bob and bound and race up and down the stage and cross and criss-cross every scene continually, the story is never interrupted nor is the action hinging directly on the plot ever rendered meaningless to the audience. The play as such and the musical riot as such proceed simultaneously and speedily, one never interfering harmfully with the other. And the story which runs along with an accompaniment of song and laughter, twinkling legs and flapping skirts, needs to be told with fair directness. In it Kid Burns is made a race course hero, a terror to book-makers and the admiration of the clubhouse crowd. His particular admirer is a whole-hearted man of wealth, and his association with this man gives an adventuress a chance to blackmail Burns, and, by imposing silence on him, she is later able to blackmail his friend. Burns renounces his friend to save the latter a family squabble, puts aside the girl he loves to prevent her name being linked with his, and shoulders a charge of attempted murder, but emerges triumphant in the end.

A Promising Colonial Booking

In glancing over the names of the many theatrical companies that are booked to play here this season, we notice that one of the most meritorious is that of Arthur C. Aiston's As the Sun Went Down company, which will be seen here at the Colonial Theatre. It is evident that no pains or expense have been spared in bringing together such an excellent coterie of players in one organization. It is headed by Estha Williams, an artist who is well known in this city, her last role having been that of Parepa in At the Old Cross Roads, in which she scored a tremendous hit, and to whose ability, not only as an actress but as the stage director of this play, much of the success of it can be attributed. Miss Williams will have the support of a uniformly good company, which includes Edwin Walter, W. A. Whitecar, Arthur E. Chatterdon, Phil Connor, Arthur W. Bentley, R. F. Sullivan, Wm. Sexton, Jenny Dunbar, Flora Byam, Margaret Millar and several others of equal note. The production is thoroughly complete, the company carrying their own baggage-car for the transportation of the great amount of scenery and properties necessary for the proper presentation of the play. Manager Aiston's record is of always having given satisfaction with his companies and productions, and this fact is gaining for his new play, As the Sun Went Down, by George D. Baker, an unusual amount of respectful attention.

Wagner's Villa at Lucerne Is Saved

PARIS, Aug. 7.—Wagner's villa, Fribichen, near Lucerne, has been threatened with destruction, but a party of enthusiastic Wagnerians were so moved at the threatened desecration that they have decided to buy the demesne and to turn the house into a kind of museum. It seems that the Zeppelin syndicate had set their eyes on this Naboth's vineyard. The truth must be told, and the municipality of Lucerne offered no opposition. It was proposed to erect on the spot a station for Zeppelin airships, but in this instance culture has triumphed over pecuniary considerations.

Madison's New Budget

Madison's Twelfth Annual Budget has just been published by that clever author and writer. This latest collection of jokes, stories, monologues, song parodies, dialogues and sketches will prove most valuable to the vaudeville performer, who will find in it every sort of material ready for immediate use. Mr. Madison is to be congratulated for his last publication, and it is a constant source of wonderment as to how he collects such a vast store of good fun for the variety artist. The book is also an entertaining publication for the non-professional as well.

Henry Sonnenberg, former treasurer of the Los Angeles Orpheum, is now manager of the Orpheum in Salt Lake City.

W. H. QUIGLEY, of the firm of Ackerman-Quigley, the great Kansas City show printers, is in town on his regular coast trip.

Madison's Budget No. 12, Just Out
Parent's Stationery Co., 818 Van Ness Avenue, S.F.

ANNUAL TOUR OF THE ELLEFORD COMPANY
IN LATEST DRAMATIC ROYALTY SUCCESSES
Pacific Coast Representative for Brady and Grismer's
MAN OF THE HOUR and WAY DOWN EAST
W. J. ELLEFORD, Sole Proprietor and Director
WILLIS BASS, Business Manager
FRANK WYMAN, Manager
Permanent Address, Francis-Valentine Co., 285-287 13th St., S. F.

HOME OFFICE
BURBANK THEATRE BUILDING
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Oliver Morosco's Plays

Ready for Stock

The Judge and the Jury The Halfbreed
The Empress and the Soldier
In South Car'liney

Is the New Majestic a winner? Well, we guess yes

MOROSCO'S
BURBANK THEATRE
Los Angeles, Cal.
"The Best in the West"
The Leading Stock House.

Hamburger's MAJESTIC Theatre
The Handsomest in the West
Cost $300,000.00
Oliver Morosco, Lessee & Mgr.
For time address JOHN COIT

The
Garrick Theatre
San Diego, Cal.

MOROSCO & WYATT,
Lessees and Mgrs.

Joe Weber Likes the Thirteenth

Joe Weber will begin his season in his original adaptation of The Merry Widow and The Devil at Newark, N. J., on September 13. After short engagements in and about New York the company will begin a trip by special train, extending as far west as this city, where they play the Van Ness. Mr. Weber has not been on the Coast since the old Weber-Fields days, and his coming promises to be an event of more than usual importance. With a company numbering one hundred players and choristers, the trip will be made by a special train consisting of four Pullman cars, Mr. Weber's own private car and two special baggage coaches.

Billie Burke Coming West

Charles Frohman has announced that Billie Burke will resume her season in Love Watches in Des Moines, Iowa, on September 6. Miss Burke will then play west as far as San Francisco, being booked for appearance at the Van Ness Theatre. She will then return to Chicago. Mr. Frohman has brought Vernon Steele, a young English actor, to this country as leading man for Miss Burke.

Miss Walsh Has Long Tour

The itinerary for the forthcoming tour of Blanche Walsh in The Test shows that the actress will fill a remarkable season. She will travel for fifty-two solid weeks before her return to New York, will traverse more than thirty thousand miles, or more than an average of five hundred miles each week, and will visit every city of any importance in America and Northwest Canada. At the conclusion of the season she will return to New York to begin rehearsals of the new play written for her by Jules Eckert Goodman.

Rehearsals of Ben Hur, Klaw & Erlanger's Biblical drama, which will be seen next season only in the larger cities of the East, will not begin until next month. The play does not open until October 4 in Utica.

The Round-Up, Klaw & Erlanger's big play of the Southwest, is in rehearsal with Rapley Holmes in the part of "Slim" Hoover. The season opens in Boston. After touring New England the play will go south and to the Pacific Coast.

New Oxnard Opera House

OXNARD, CAL.
Factory Town and Wealthy Country
Five Thousand Population
New House and Doing Big Business
Write for Open Dates
GEO. P. AUSTIN . . . . . Manager

GONZALES OPERA HOUSE

GONZALES, CAL.
New, well appointed theatre, electric lighted.
Full stock of new scenery.
C. H. WIDEMAN, Mgr.

WOODLAND Opera House

WOODLAND, CAL.
Greatest show town for good shows in the West. A few good dates open in September and October. Stage big enough for any production. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

Hill Opera House

PETALUMA, CAL.
JOHN R. ROCHE, Lessee and Manager
The finest theatrical town outside of the big cities in the West. Magnificent new theatre, with stage large enough for any attraction, playing regularly from $500 to $700 a night. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.
287 Thirteenth St., S. F.

BARCROFT Opera House, Merced

Entirely remodeled. New stage, big enough for any production. Stage equipped with new scenery. Merced has 4,000 population. For time write F. R. BARCROFT, Manager.

Santa Cruz OPERA HOUSE

Santa Cruz, Cal.
L. A. KNIGHT, Manager
Rental or will play first-class companies on percentage

H. Lewin H. Oppenheim

GORDAN TAILORING CO.
928 Market St., Bet. Powell and Mason
FINE CLOTHES MODERATE PRICES
No Branch Stores

Theatre Chairs For Sale

About 700 good Theatre Chair; 50 Large Loge Seat Chairs; Sheet Iron Moving Picture Operating Box, the best and largest one in this city; scenery, etc.: will sell at a bargain; delivery about Sept. 15. Address Room 5, 629½ S. Broadway, Los Angeles.

NEW AUDITORIUM

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CAL.
Seating capacity, 1,000; new stage; new scenery; stage thirty feet deep, sixty feet wide; large enough for any production; a population of 5,000 to draw from; now booking for 1909-10.
Address WALTER A. CLARK, Mountain View, Cal.

Fiske and His Plans

Harrison Gray Fiske has signed contracts for the appearance in America of Lewis Waller, the English actor. Mr. Waller is under a contract that has two years to run at the Lyric Theatre, London, where he is a star, but he has secured a six months' furlough and will come to America with the company that has been associated with him there for several seasons and with his own plays and productions a year from September. He will play under Mr. Fiske's management a month in New York City and will devote twelve weeks to a few of the more important cities of America. Mr. Fiske's contract calls for two tours here by Mr. Waller on intervening seasons. The play that will be the feature of his tour has not yet been decided upon, but there are several under consideration. One of these is Devereaux's Sir Walter Raleigh, which is to be produced by Mr. Waller this autumn in England. While in London Mr. Fiske discussed with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree the idea of Mrs. Fiske's appearing in London, with the result that tentative arrangements were made whereby Mrs. Fiske will play a joint starring engagement at His Majesty's Theatre with Sir Herbert and an English company and productions. One of the foremost dramatists in England has been commissioned to write a play having the specific object of providing Mrs. Fiske and Mr. Tree with an appropriate medium. The plan discussed also involves the appearance of Mrs. Fiske during her stay in London in various plays of her own repertoire at His Majesty's Theatre. This visit is expected to be made the season after next. Mr. Fiske has brought back in his trunk several plays, among others Pinkie and the Fairies, which was the great Christmas success of last season at His Majesty's Theatre, and which is to be sent on tour with two companies in the English provinces and revived at His Majesty's Theatre next season by Sir Herbert Tree. Mr. Fiske has other plays by Constance Fletcher, George Pastnor, F. Anstey and other authors. Mrs. Fiske after a few days in town will go to a camp in the Adirondacks for a holiday, which will be brief, as she will revive Salvation Nell in October for a period of four months. At the conclusion of that time she will be seen in a new play in New York. Mr. Fiske has started rehearsing The Bridge, in which he will present Guy Bates Post at the Majestic Theatre, New York, on September 4. In London Mr. Fiske spent some time with W. J. Locke, the novelist, retouching and revising the drama by Philip Lattell, made from Mr. Locke's novel, Septimus. This Mr. Fiske will begin rehearsing after the production of The Bridge, and in it he will present George Arliss in the title role in October at Daly's Theatre. After Septimus, Mr. Fiske will produce an American play by Ernest Poole with a very prominent American star in the leading role.

Garrick Theatre

The first of the new order of things theatrical for the coming San Francisco season will be the reopening of The Garrick, which was formerly the Orpheum. Here it is at least a certainty what the line of attractions is to be. John Cort has arranged with Manager Will H. Greenbaum to take care of his earlier bookings, and on Sunday afternoon, September 5, The Girl from Rector's will make her debut at this theatre. Much has been written and said of the naughty French farce, but all criticism leads to the ultimate result that it is a splendid performance, full of satirical humor and crisp, telling wit. For a solid year it was the delight of New York theatregoers, where at Joseph Weber's Music Hall it easily outdistanced all its rivals in point of length and prosperity of run. Paul M. Potter, adapted the farce for the English stage from the French of Pierre Veber, and, it is said, retained all the French charm of the original manuscript. At any rate, San Francisco will soon be able to judge the record-breaking success shortly, for the company and production that comes to the Garrick will be much the same as that used in New York.

John Campbell Got His Answer

John Campbell, the altitudinous gentleman, ahead of The Girl from Rector's (that Sunday-school show), who is a brother of Robert Campbell and son of the late Bartley Campbell, wired from Seattle the other day a query to Fred Bucey, the John Cort representative here. He had not been reading THE DRAMATIC REVIEW, so his query was, "Will we play Colonial or Garrick? Answer." Mine Host Shanley of the St. James Hotel, who is a great private secretary, reached over for the telegram and wired in return: "Bucey referred telegram to me. You play the St. James indefinitely."

Spotlights

Word comes from Fresno that Priscilla Knowles and Jack Bennett, who have been doing such pleasing work at the Lyric Theatre in Portland, will appear with the Empire stock in Fresno, Miss Knowles in the leads.

W. J. Elleford has changed his repertoire of plays and is featuring Wm. Haworth's The Flag of Truce, the first time the play has been ever seen in repertoire.

The public will be afforded an opportunity to hear the music of the recent jinks of the Bohemian Club at the Van Ness Theatre on the afternoon of Thursday, August 26. The music of several previous entertainments of the club will also be reproduced. The program will be one of unusual interest. There will be selections by Wallace A. Sabin, Dr. H. J. Stewart and Joseph D. Redding, a grand aria to be sung by Mackenzie Gordon and a chorus of sixty voices. The committee in charge of the affair consists of W. T. Barton, W. H. Leahy, E. S. Simpson, Alfred R. Grim, John C. Dornin and C. S. Aiken. Tickets will be sold and seats reserved for members of the club up

CHAS. F. THOMPSON SCENIC CO.

MAIN OFFICE AND STUDIOS, 460, 462, 464 WITMER STREET, LOS ANGELES

THE FINEST, LARGEST AND MOST MODERN SCENIC STUDIOS IN THE WORLD. SCENERY FOR OPERA HOUSES AND PRODUCTIONS. DROP CURTAINS AND SCENIC ADVERTISING DROP CURTAINS OUR SPECIALTY. IN USE IN 1268 THEATRES IN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA. WHY NOT YOURS?

LEVY'S BIG TRUNK STORE

INCORPORATED

COAST AGENTS
FOR THE

Taylor Trunks

687 Market St., S.F. opp. Kearny Phone Douglas 3192 GENERAL REPAIRING

to Tuesday, August 24. After that date the sale to the public will commence at the box-office.

In the cast of Going Some which the Shuberts will shortly send to the Coast, will be seen James Spottswood, Eugene O'Rourke, Frank Wunderlee, George Pierce, Frank X. Bushman, Agnes Marc, Genevieve Cliff, Bertha Kriehoff, Frank T. Charlton and twenty others.

The Askin-Singer big girl successes are both due at the Garrick early in the present season. The tuneless Girl Question and the breezy Time, Place and Girl will be seen for the first time ever at popular prices.

Rehearsals for George Barr McCutcheon's Beverly began August 1. The tour will commence August 21, and embraces all the principal cities to the Pacific Coast.

H. H. Frazee's most successful musical comedy production, A Knight for a Day, will soon be seen at the Garrick. It will be remembered that this was the record engagement of the American's last year's season.

Novelty Theatre, San Francisco TO RENT

By the day, week or month. Fine, comfortable theatre, seating 1,200 people. Large stage.
SPECIALLY ADAPTED TO POLITICAL MEETINGS

LOW RATES TO Alaska-Yukon-Pacific ...Exposition...

FOR ROUND TRIP TICKETS

FROM		FROM
San Francisco .....	$32.50	Suisun .....	$32.50
Sacramento .....	32.50	Davis .....	32.50
Lathrop .....	32.50	Napa .....	32.75
Stockton .....	32.50	Santa Rosa .....	33.60
Tracy .....	32.50	Calistoga .....	33.95

Greatly reduced rates from other points in California. Tickets sold daily May 25 to Sept. 30, and cover two months' trip going and coming via the famous

Shasta Route of the Southern Pacific

Stopovers going and coming.
Many other routes at slightly higher rates for you to select from.
Write or call on our nearest agent for full details of service, etc., or address

DEPT. ADV., 948 FLOOD BUILDING, FOR INFORMATION

Important Changes are Noted in the Personnel of the Belasco Stock in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, August 19.—Things theatrical are moving along at a very brisk pace, considering this is the dull season. The International Grand Opera Company closed a most successful two weeks last Saturday night. The Belasco company is soon to lose two of its members who will be greatly missed. Miss Noyes will join one of Henry B. Harris' traveling companies and Sheldon Lewis will join a New York company opening late in the fall. Lillian Hayward is with us again. She is playing the part of Mrs. Withers in the production of Jack Straw at the Burbank this week. Christine Nielson is in town on her way to Boston, where she will study grand opera under Henry Russell. Armstrong's Going Some will open the Auditorium Monday evening, Sept. 6. A week later will come The Witching Hour, to be presented by the John Mason company. Florence Rittenhouse will succeed Beatrice Noyes at the Belasco and Frank E. Camp will replace Sheldon Lewis. Mr. Camp will make his first appearance with the company Monday night, Sept. 6, in The Squawman, the play that will be used to celebrate the return of Lewis S. Stone to the Belasco stage. Mr. Blackwood, while in New York City, secured the franchise for Los Angeles of the Stock Producing Managers' Association, an organization that resembles very closely the theatrical syndicate as applied to stock companies. Mr. Blackwood has announced that the new leading woman of the Belasco Theatre company is Thais Magrane. Miss Magrane will make her first appearance in Three Weeks. Miss Magrane has played stock engagements in Philadelphia, New Orleans, Cleveland and Chicago. Last summer she played a stock starring engagement in St. Louis, and this summer she has been appearing at the head of a stock organization in Providence, R. I.

BELASCO—The Belasco company is giving a very fine performance of A Royal Family this week. Each player is perfectly cast and the production leaves nothing to be desired. Miss Holmes is a most lovable Princess Angela, and Richard Bennett an adorable Prince Victor. Sheldon Lewis gives a very fine portrayal of Cardinal Casano. The Father Anselm of Richard Vivian is not overplayed in the least; it is just simple and true. One of the best characters in the play is the Baron Holdensen of Mr. Morrison. Ida Lewis is great as the Queen Mother. Miss Farrington is at home as the Queen and Miss Noyes is hard to recognize as the spoiled Prince Charles. The minor parts are all well taken. The costumes are stunning and the staging artistic and appropriate.

BURBANK—Much interest is being displayed by the patrons of the Burbank Theatre this week in A. Byron Beasley, who assumes the part of leading man of the company. The play for the week is Jack Straw, in which John Drew appeared at the Mason a short time ago. Mr. Beasley as Jack Straw has a role of no great acting possibilities, but he makes of the part exactly what the author intended. The hard acting part of the piece is the part played by Maude Beatty, that of Mrs. Parker-Jennings. Although Miss Beatty overacts the part at times it shows that she has given the role a great deal of hard study, and there is much in her portrayal to be commended. Harry Mestayer gives a fine character study as Lord Serlo. Lovell Alice Taylor is charming as Lady Wanley. Lillian Hayward returns to local work as Mrs. Withers. Willis Marks is cast as Parker-Jennings. Henry Stockbridge is the son and Blanche Hall is charmingly herself as the daughter. The comedy is pleasing and is being given excellent patronage.

Dustin Farnum in Cameo Kirby, at the Van Ness Theatre next week.

MASON—That dainty, modern little comedy, The Climax, is being given its first Western presentation at the Mason Opera House this week. There are only four characters and one scene in the piece. This play calls for a peculiar combination of music and dialogue. Ruby Bridges, who plays Adelina, has a small but well trained and pleasing voice. Walter Wilson as the elder Goltanti does the most of the real acting of the piece. Albert Latscha is good as the younger Goltanti and Edwin August is the doctor. The cast is well balanced and the whole performance very satisfactory. The engagement is for two weeks.

GRAND—The Blackwood-Stone company at the Grand are offering for the week The Devil's Mine. Nearly all of the favorites of the company appear in the cast. Particularly good work is done by George Webb, Grace Rauworth, Zora Bates, Frank Frayne and Franklyn Hall.

ORPHEUM—A very good Orpheum bill is headed by Julius Tannen, monologist. His work is clean and up-to-date and he does it all in an easy, pleasing manner. Lily Lena, an English comedienne, is a singer of popular songs. Elaborate electrical effects are a part of the Gibson Electrified Girl Review. The other new act is furnished by the Three Donals in some acrobatic stunts. The holdovers include Charlotte Parry in her character change act, The Constock Mystery, The Three Leightons; Selma Braatz, the girl juggler; and Helena Frederick in The Patriot. New motion pictures are shown.

LOS ANGELES—Eva Mudge in her lightning change act called The Military Maid, and Albini, the magi-for a share of applause. Arthur Clam age leads the most striking number the chorus renditions in My Gal Irene. The chorus girls are dressed as country lads and lassies. In Rainbow, led by Estelle Praeger, the girls are dressed in Indian costumes that are very striking.

UNIQUE—The bill at the Unique this week might easily be construed by the audience as one engaged to live up to all that the name of the house implies. Roberts, Haynes and Roberts, The Cowboy, the Swell and the Lady, are as funny as when they appeared at the Orpheum some time ago. The trio have several new songs. Their dancing and many changes of costumes deserve mention. Garvin Gilmaine, although suffering from a severe hoarseness, presented his impersonations of historic stars, past and present, in a manner which wins for him the appreciation of the audience. Mr. Gilmaine essays the portrayal of Richard Mansfield, E. H. Sothern, James Lewis, Edwin Booth and David Warfield successfully. The one-act comedy, The Christening, as presented by the Unique players, is very laughable. James Kelly as Dennis Mulcahy, and Al Franks as Michael Muldoon, have parts for which they are suited admirably.

FLORENCE EMERY.

SAN JOSE, August 18.—At the Victory Theatre Harold Nelson, in conjunction with the Ed Redmond company, is appearing in The Prisoner of Zenda to great business. At the Jose the bill consists of Lawrence and Edwards' comedy playlet, The New Alderman; Princess Wlanderoff, Russian musician and dancer; Marguerite and Hanlon, London's latest acrobatic creation; Jack Symonds, the Man of Ease; Arnold Aue, Swiss yodler; Lizette Holdsworth, violinist; motion pictures.

Personals

MANAGER ABE COHN may continue stock at the American. At present he is negotiating with Paul McAllister to head it.

CHARLEY KAVANAGH was in town Tuesday from Seattle for the Ferris Hartman company, on his way to Los Angeles, where the ex-Tivoli comedian opens at the Grand in three weeks.

PIETRO SOSSO and Auda Due, who have been playing leads with the Elleford company, returned to town last Monday. Mr. Sosso will play the heavy at the American next week.

HARRISON FORD, a handsome and talented young actor now playing at Elitch's Gardens, Denver, has been engaged for juveniles at the Alcazar Theatre of this city.

RICHARD GOLDEN, the comedian, died on the houseboat "Stroller," in Gravesend Bay, on Monday, August 9th. Mr. Golden and his wife had been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Newton Porter, and had for some time been suffering from Bright's disease, but the seriousness of his condition was not apparent until his untimely end came. Richard Golden was for years star of Old Jed Prouty. He had only recently returned from London, where he had appeared successfully at the music halls in a sketch and later in the chief comedy role in The Dollar Princess. Mr. Golden left a widow, who formerly was Miss Katherine Kettelman, of Detroit, and a daughter by his first wife, Dora Wiley.

cian, head the Los Angeles bill for the current week. The other acts are Besie Allen, singing and dancing soubrette; Rae and Borsche, in the comedy, Just Like a Woman; The Telegraph Four; and Billy Windom, the famous minstrel, in The Colored Nurse Girl. There are also new motion pictures. A very good bill.

FISCHER'S—A Parisian Beauty is the one-act musical comedy at Fischer's this week. It abounds throughout with witticisms, ludicrous situations and lines that were made to order for laugh producing. The scheme of the playlet lies around a widow of Paris bereft of facial beauty but not lacking in bodily adornment, who wishes again to become a bride. Her path is not strewn with roses, and she only succeeds in marrying a husband after he has fainted. In addition to the chorus number the Rube Quartet comes in

Correspondence

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 17.—The Wyatt (H. C. Wyatt, mgr.; E. J. Underwood, business mgr.)—Aug. 6. The Merry Widow played to capacity business, taking in the most money of any company ever appearing at the Wyatt; 17, the local Red Men played the comedy Before and After to a large audience. This is convention week for the Great Council of the Red Men and members of the order from all over the State were in attendance at the performance. The cast was as follows: Dr. Page, H. P. D. Kingsbury; Dr. Latham, A. R. Bowen; Mr. Driscoll, Mr. Jennings; James Jeffreys, W. J. Hennessy; Col. Larivette, Geo. McIntosh; Anthony (a white servant), Cassius (a colored servant), Harry Barnes; Mrs. Caroline Page, Mrs. Butzine; Mrs. Taylor, Miss Elaine Saunders; Cora, Mrs. S. G. Randall; Odette, Miss Babette Gagel; Louise, a girl, Miss Marguerite Ripy. Previous to the performance, Queen Calara was crowned by the mayor and the keys of the city officially turned over to her.

SAN JOSE, Aug. 12.—At the Victory Theater, the Ed Redmond company is playing under the auspices of the Federated Trades. They are presenting The Charity Ball. Col. Berch has been here trying to get the Garden Theater for stock. At the Jose, the bill includes: Huntress, vaudeville's crowning sensation; Louise Kent and company, offering the original playlet S. O. L. D.; Mickey Feeley, the crazy acrobat; Farley and Clare, some dancers; Ross and Shaw, musical trevesty. Down in Jungle Town; Cricket Thorne, operatic vocalist.

SAN JOSE, Aug. 18.—The International Grand Opera Company presented a double bill, Cavalleria Rusticana and I Pagliacci. Mrs. E. J. Underwood, DRAMATIC REVIEW correspondent from Monterey, is in Redlands this week, in attendance at the Great Council of the Daughters of Pocahontas. H. A. HARGRAVES.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 18.—The Clunie is dark this week, but will reopen with the Italian opera company the latter part of the month. The Elleford company will play its usual engagement during State Fair week, Aug. 28. Paid in Full, which played last season to a crowded house at the Clunie, returns Sept. 11. Ringling's Circus is billed for Sept. 2. The Del S. Lawrence company will not return, but will remain in the Northwest. The Sullivan-Considine Circuit has returned to the Grand as a competitor of the Pantages. Jack Massie will open the Oak Park Theatre, Aug. 21, with a musical comedy with chorus, under the management of H. M. Swalley. All kinds of rumors are afloat about new theatres to be erected here. The Zemansky brothers are preparing to build a vaudeville house on K Street, between Third and Fourth Streets. It is stated that Pantages will build a theatre for a stock company on K Street, between Fifth and Sixth Streets, while another report is that a new theatre is to be on K Street, between Tenth and Eleventh Streets, opposite the new hotel recently built. In the meantime the Clunie Theatre is to be remodeled and refitted completely. Here is the program of the Grand Theatre, week of Aug. 16: Damman Troupe, European acrobats; Carita Day and company, clever manipulators of song and dance; Black,

Frank and company, in The Advance Agent; The Sados, London's favorite juggling eccentric; Rose Stevens, soprano; Billy Windom, The Colored Nurse Girl. Pantages program, week starting Sunday, Aug. 15: Klein Ott Brothers and Nicholson, musical artists; the Three Olivers, sensational wire artists; Chas. Sanders, comedian; Herbert O'Connor and company, dramatic sketch; La Millas and Oleo, pantomime; Sampson and Douglas, comedy playlet; Louise Byrd, vocalist.

SAN DIEGO, August 18.—Garrick (J. M. Dodge, mgr.)—The International Grand Opera Company Aug. 15-16, in Carmen and La Traviata respectively to two large audiences. Aug. 28-30—The Climax. Sept. 5-6—Paid in Full. Pickwick (Scott A. Palmer, mgr.)—James Post is repeating his big success, May the Best Man Win, and is playing to capacity houses every performance. James Post as Pat Sullivan, a piano mover, and Joe Hayden as Googleyed Hogan, have the chief comedy roles and they keep the audience in a continual howl of laughter. Good work is also being done by Millar Bacon, Mid Thornhill, Esco Ives and May Ashley. Juliet Mahr scored a hit with her song, Naughty Eyes, as did Esco Ives with Aren't You the Girl I Met at Rudder's. The chorus, under the personal direction of Mabel LeMonaie, sing and dance in a manner that shows good stage management. Owing to the popularity of Mr. Post and the immense business the Pickwick has been doing since the opening of Mr. Post and his musical comedy company, the policy of the house has been changed. Seats are now reserved and prices are changed from 25c to 35c, which speaks well for the class of shows presented by Mr. Post and his clever company. May the Best Man Win is being presented in two series. The second act will be put on next week, August 23d, and the ludicrous burlesque fight, which made such a hit at the Garrick, will be presented. Kelley and Violette, the fashion plates, will open a two weeks' engagement, commencing August 30th. Queen (John Donnelan, mgr.)—The bill as presented this week at the Queen is hardly up to the standard of the previous weeks. Mabel Carew and company open the show with her impersonating act. The act opens weak, but closes strong, with an interesting race track recitation with moving pictures. Wyatt and Rice have a sketch that is only ordinary. The Leslie Sisters pleased with their musical act. Gilligan and Murray, black face artists, have really the only good act on the bill and they scored a big hit. Motion pictures conclude. Grand (Fred Ballien, mgr.)—Gus Bruno heads the bill at this popular little house this week with his clever monologue act. Sitz and Sitz, novelty entertainers, pleased. The barrel jumping by the male member of the team is deserving of mention. Ed Young pleased with his musical act. The Hill Sisters have a new illustrated song. Lebovitz and Calmy, proprietors of several motion picture houses in San Francisco and Coronado, have secured a two years' lease on the Grand Theatre from E. J. Louis, the owner. Very extensive improvements are to be made in the structure, and it is the intention of the management to present a bill of straight motion pictures only, with several changes per week, instead of mixed vaudeville and motion pic-

WE CARRY IN STOCK ready for immediate shipment, the only line of special

Musical Comedy and Dramatic Lithograph Paper

We can equip your show with Special Cross-lined Lithograph Paper on 24 hours' notice, and sell you small quantities at 5 cents per sheet.

Our Special Cross-Lined Lithograph Paper Looks Like Special Paper

Send for samples of Cross-lining and New 112 Page Illustrated Catalogue.

Lowest Prices on Block Work, Type Work, Dates, Heralds and Small Stuff

All your Printing and Lithographing in one shipment, and the lowest price on everything.

60 Styles Stock Circus Lithograph Paper. Send for Special Catalogue.

ACKERMANN-QUIGLEY LITHOGRAPHING CO.

KANSAS CITY

New York Sales and Sample Office: 201-202 Knickerbocker Theatre Building, 1402 B'way. Chicago Sales and Sample Office: 61-65 Grand Opera House Bldg.

tures which have ruled. Donald Blanchard is playing Immuno, the petrified man, in a tent at Coronado Tent City to good business. Mildred Manning, the minstrel maid, is taking a month's rest at Coronado Tent City. Mr. McGuire, stage manager of the Climax company, was in the city for a couple of days last week renewing old acquaintances. Manager Dodge returned yesterday from Los Angeles with a bunch of contracts about the size of an elephant's ankle. Some of the best shows on the road are coming here for two and three nights, he advises. Practically every night in October is already booked.

CARL E. LUNDQUIST.

SEATTLE, Aug. 16.—MOORE THEATRE—All week, Polly of the Circus. Although Seattle has not been favored with either of the Talliaferro girls, Ida St. Leon is a most satisfying Polly, and we doubt whether the original star could play the part better. There is an interesting heart story in this play, which will bring large crowds to the Moore this week.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE—John Mason and his company will be seen one week longer in The Witching Hour, one of the best productions of the season.

GRAND THEATRE—Ship Ahoy went on with a slap and a bang at the Grand Opera House last night. Ferris Hartman and his company have in it a merrymaker, full of jokes, songs and dances, that kept the audience laughing and applauding all through the three acts.

SEATTLE THEATRE—The popularity of Miss Bunting as Anita, the Singing Girl, has not waned since last year, as shown by the capacity houses which turned out yesterday at the Seattle Theatre. This is one of Miss Bunting's best roles, and the rest of the parts were adequately played.

ORPHEUM—The show is headed by a musical act, At the Country Club.

This miniature musical comedy employs thirteen people and is most elaborately staged and costumed. Signor Luciano Lucca, "the man with two voices," is heard. The Arlington Four is a singing and dancing quartet of messenger boys. Gardner and Rivere have a comedy sketch. The McGrady's present a decided novelty in vaudeville—an exhibition of arrow shooting in conjunction with an equilibristic act. Ruby Raymond and her two boys introduce songs, buck, eccentric and acrobatic dancing. Marseilles presents a puzzle in black and white. He is a contortionist of the highest order.

NEW STAR—The four Stag-poles. Australian comedy artists, produce the laughable satire on golfing, The Crazy Caddie. The other acts on the bill are Bothwell Browne and company in the pretentious novelty, Cleopatra and The Live Snake Dance; Rinaldo, "the wandering violinist"; Will S. Marion and Vira Rial, in their popular one-act play, The Witches' Power; Blanche Sloan, in an aerial act.

PANTAGES—A big, well-balanced show opens at Pantages Theatre this afternoon, with Edward Blondell and company as the headliners, in their farce comedy, The Lost Boy. The five Spiller Musical Bumpers, colored people, present an act; Buckley's remarkable troupe of trained dogs; Irene Lee and her candy boy, singers and dancers; Helene Lowe, one of the sweetest singers in vaudeville, and George Yeomans, a refined German comedian, are other features.

E. MORGENSTERN.

LEW VIRDEN WRITES: Everett, Wash., Aug. 16.—Everything lovely with us. Our show won't go out next season, as we have had some flattering offers to play vaudeville and are now booked for almost a year. We will have our New York opening in January.

Terry McKean's Players

A FIRST-CLASS COMPANY IN STANDARD PLAYS

Time open from Sept. 1st for extended stock engagement. Write

TERRY MCKEAN, Sole Proprietor and Manager

Address care Francis-Valentine, 285 Thirteenth St., San Francisco, Cal.

Menzel's Dramatic Agency

Moved to 915 Van Ness Avenue, Third Floor

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers Wanting Reliable People in Dramatic Lines, Write.

Honest Dealing. No Misrepresentation

NOTICE—We invite people in all lines of the theatrical profession that wish first-class engagements to call or write.

WM. MENZEL, Manager

Theatres and Opera Houses, National and Municipal, in Latin America

Cuts and data furnished through the courtesy of The International Bureau of the American Republics.
FOURTH ARTICLE.

THEATRE DE LA PAZ, IN PARA, BRAZIL

This beautiful building, subsidized by the Brazilian government, is constructed entirely of white marble. It stands in the midst of one of the municipal parks. The unusual artistic architectural treatment of this edifice has resulted in an effect that is most pleasing.

The idea of a subsidized theatre is one that is almost foreign to the United States. From time to time such a means of fostering and developing the better forms of the dramatic art has been broached, but never with success. Such a project after a fashion promises to become an assured success in New York, where a theatre is to be supported by millionaire subscribers, but the very isolation of this method of bettering the native drama proves that it is not an idea to which the Anglo-Saxon mind, especially in the western world, takes kindly.

That this is a practical method of developing the artistic and critical instincts of the masses in things that belong to the theatre has been demonstrated for many years, and especially in the Spanish-American countries. That a city the size of San Jose, for example, should have a playhouse capable of putting on the most expensive and exacting dramas and operas, presented by the very best dramatic and operatic talent obtainable anywhere, would, to the average American, seem to be a thing hard to do here, yet it is done all the time, year in and year out, in every Latin-American country in the western hemisphere, and that without comment.

We of the English-speaking tongue are apt to assure ourselves that we have all that is worth while in art, letters and music, and are too willing to look with disdain upon anything that comes from Spain or from Spanish-speaking countries. Never was a greater mistake made. While it is true that the Spanish flag no longer floats over unknown leagues of territory, the influence of Spain and those countries that have been influenced by Latin civilization is far from being dead. There is a side of life that they enjoy that we know little or nothing of. To assure the masses the uninterrupted pleasure of that enjoyment, municipal theatres costing hundreds and even millions of dollars have been built, not for the use of one generation, but for all time. The best architects and the most famous artists of the age are called upon to produce their most characteristic work in connection with these structures, the likes of which have few, if any, counterparts in America.

Accompanying this article are two views, one of the Theatre de la Paz, in Para, Brazil. This beautiful structure stands in the midst of a park, a fit setting for such an edifice. There are no noisy cars, no shrieking automobiles, nothing of the sort to disturb the quietude of those who are sheltered between the walls of this theatre. True, it requires some time to reach it from the business part of the city, half a dozen car lines do not pass the door, and it is more than half a minute's walk from the leading hotels, but the Spanish theatregoer has time to enjoy himself thoroughly while he is about it, and is willing to give a little of life that he may have that enjoyment uninterrupted.

The Municipal Theatre of Quenzaltengo, Guatemala, is another characteristic building of its kind. It stands upon a slight eminence, in one of the most exclusive parts of the city.

MUNICIPAL THEATRE OF QUENZALTENGO, GUATEMALA

Standing upon a slight eminence, in one of the most fashionable parts of the city is the municipal theatre of Quenzaltengo, Guatemala. It is built of white stone. The broad steps leading to the entrance produce a most impressive effect.

The broad steps leading to the building have been used with telling effect. Here dramatic and operatic artists from all of the great capitals of Europe have appeared, to audiences whose critical powers were second to none.

Correspondence

OAKLAND, Aug. 18.—The tide has turned and a great business is being done at Ye Liberty playhouse. The bill this week is Classmates, and Sidney Ayres adds another triumph to his long list. Florence Oakley and the balance of the cast are good. Director George Webster has given the play a great mounting. At the Broadway business has fallen somewhat this week. The play is The Three Musketeers. A week from Sunday there will be several changes in the company, for Messrs. Al Halllett, Fred Munier and Ray Clement leave for Fresno, and Claire Sinclair and Anita Allen and Al Dickinson join the Russell and Drew stock in Seattle. The Orpheum and Bell both continue lively with prosperous vaudeville.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 18.—The City Executive Board has adopted a resolution requesting the City Council to pass an ordinance prohibiting the use of frame theatres after April 1, 1911. This was initiated by the fire committee, upon the suggestion of Mayor Simon, who is anxious to see modern structures take the place of the buildings now in use for theatrical purposes. The action affects the Heilig, which is closed at present; the Baker, the Bungalow and the Grand, and excepts only the Orpheum and Pantages.

Good-Bye to Desmond in Los Angeles

Wm. Desmond, who is the dramatic idol of Los Angeles, has left for New Orleans, where he will play the leads with the Greenwall stock at the Dauphine Theatre. Just before leaving, friends in the Burbank Theatre company, where he had been playing for five years, presented Mr. Desmond with a handsome gold watch as a souvenir of the tender affection in which he is regarded by his fellow-workers. The presentation was made on the stage, as soon as the final curtain had fallen upon The Honor of the Family. H. S. Duffield making the speech. Mr. Duffield spoke briefly but with much feeling, voicing in simple phrase the love of his associates for the man whom they had met to honor. When he had finished, Mr. Desmond was too overcome to attempt a reply. The watch was engraved on its outer case with the Desmond monogram and inside the back cover bore the legend, "To Our Bill from the Burbank Bunch." An audience which filled every seat in the theatre assembled to bid Mr. Desmond Godspeed. They demanded a speech after the third act and the actor responded happily, saying, among other things: "I can only say you are the best people in the world. You've been more than kind to me here in Los Angeles and I shall never forget you. The man who is following me here is a dear, good chap, and I only hope you will be as kind and loyal to him as you have been to me." This tribute to Mr. Beasley, who is now the leading man of the Burbank Company, was loudly applauded. At the close of the performance the orchestra played Auld Lang Syne and For He's a Jolly Good Fellow, and from the audience friends of Mr. Desmond called out their farewells and bade him Godspeed.

New Theatre at Chutes

The signal success attending the new Chutes has prompted President Irving Ackerman and Manager Ed Levy to contract for a fine class A vaudeville theatre to be ready in four months. Work will be commenced immediately.

Personals

SHERMAN BAINBRIDGE, of Los Angeles, is in town looking over offers for the coming season.

THOMAS McLARNIE is spending his vacation at Orr's Island, Maine, and he writes enthusiastically of the beauties of the spot. He has had several good offers for next season, but is as yet undecided which to accept.

ONE of the most conspicuous members in support of Francis Wilson when he appears this season in his own comedy, The Bachelor's Baby, will be Adelaide Wilson, the actor's daughter, who is comparatively new to the stage, but of an apparently decided turn of mind as far as her career is concerned.

MARIBEL SEYMOUR is confined to her rooms with a severe case of blood poisoning. Notwithstanding this hardship, Miss Seymour is busy on a sketch for Peggy Monroe, and has just completed a Western playlet for Robert Homans, who will have a try-out at the Orpheum, assisted by Billy Wolpert and Virginia Brissac.

ROD WAGGONER is in advance of H. H. Frazee's Time, Place and the Girl.

MRS. GEORGE CLAYTON, wife of the popular treasurer of the Belasco Theatre in Los Angeles, has just written a very clever vaudeville sketch, which not only contains some bright lines and good situation-comedy, but several new ideas as well. It is based on a magazine story, and is called Dinner for Two.

THE SAN FRANCISCO Dramatic Review

Music and Drama
CHAS. H. FARRELL, Publisher

Issued Every Saturday

Address all
letters and
money orders to San Francisco
Dramatic
Review, Van

Ness rhe-
atre Bldg.,
Van Ness
Avenue.
Telephone
Park
1773

Entered at San Francisco as Second-class
Mail Matter. Established 1880.

Claire Sinclair

One of the best stock actresses is Claire Sinclair, who has proved her worth in a wide range of parts. She is unusually good in leads, and as a heavy woman she has no superior on the Coast. As a character woman her work is illuminating. Miss Sinclair has played in our best stocks on the Coast, and leaves the Broadway in Oakland next week to accept the position of heavy woman with Dick French stock of Seattle.

Particulars of the New Morris Vaudeville Cir- cuit

Walter Hoff Seely, the general manager of the William Morris Western, an incorporation which has been organized to contend with the Orpheum Circuit for Western vaudeville business, has returned to San Francisco after making a comprehensive trip from San Francisco to New York and back to San Francisco via Los Angeles. Seely says that everything is fixed for William Morris and his associates in the Middle and far West, and that by September 13th there will be sent out from Chicago a steady supply of vaudeville acts from the Morris vaudeville booking office that will make everybody sit up and take notice from the Omaha Theatre to the Valencia, where the Morris attractions are to open, October 4th. "It is a million-dollar corporation, this William Morris Western," said Mr. Seely, "and half of the money is subscribed by the William Morris (incorporated), which is the Eastern institution and the parent of this. For every dollar that the Eastern combination has subscribed we in this city have subscribed a dollar. With Morris in the East is associated Felix Isman, the Philadelphia millionaire and owner of the Philadelphia baseball club. Also with Morris is associated Judge Leventritt, of the New York Supreme Court, and his son, George L., the vice-president of William Morris (incorporated). The Western wing of the corporation, which will complete the chain that will circle the country with the Morris attractions, is composed of J. Charles Green, myself, stockholders in the Valencia Theatre and a capitalist who has subscribed for $150,000 worth of stock, but whose name I am not at liberty to state. On my way to New York I visited Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle, Victoria, Vancouver, Tacoma, Spokane, Butte, Helena, Fargo and Missoula, and in every city I closed deals for a theatre in which to play the Morris attractions, and so, when I reached Mr. Morris, I had something to offer him. The entire circuit of the Middle West and far West will not be completed until about the middle of January, but by September 13th it will be started. A vaudeville bill will be sent from Chicago to open in Omaha in a temporary house now ready for us. It will appear the night of September 13th. A permanent theatre is now under construction by J. L. Brandeis & Sons, owners of the big department store there, who, by the way, are also building a theatre to house Klaw & Erlanger attractions. From Omaha the bill will be taken to Denver, where, during the months of September and October, the Morris attractions will be played at Elitch's Gardens, which I have already secured. We have closed a contract for the construction of a theatre of our own there, to cost $200,000. That will be completed, according to an existing contract, February 15th. Between the time of the close of our contract at Elitch's Gardens and the completion of the new structure we will occupy a temporary theatre, which has already been engaged. From Denver the bookings will move to Salt Lake City, where we will occupy the Grand Theatre, and thence to Los Angeles, where we will construct a theatre, and thence to San Francisco, where, Monday, October 4th, the American Music Hall in San Francisco, playing Morris attractions exclusively, will be opened at the Valencia Theatre. Morris himself will be here to witness the big event. Our time in the Northwest will be in houses I have arranged for. If you say that in Portland we will use a house controlled by John Cort and Calvin Heilig, you will not be far wrong. You may use your own inference about other houses in the Northwest. About our present location, Morris' experience proves that the amusement-loving people go where they are entertained. They do in Chicago, New York and elsewhere. We propose to give them the show that will bring them. Meantime we are negotiating for a downtown site. It will be announced in the future. At present one playhouse in San Francisco is all that the William Morris Western will supply with William Morris acts."

Personals

ALBERT (JUDGE) HOOGE is ahead of The Soul Kiss, which comes to the Coast in November. "The Judge" has not been home in six or seven years.

HARRY HILLIARD will replace H. B. Warner in The Battle this season for Liebler & Co. and Willette Kershaw will be seen in the leading female part.

VICTOR H. POMPHREY, who for the last four months has been a musician and comedian in summer theatres in Little Rock, Ark., has been apprised that he has fallen heir to a one-eighth share of a $13,000,000 estate in England.

MANAGER ED HOEN returned from a flying trip to Fresno the other day to inspect the improvements at his Empire Theatre. Everything is progressing most satisfactorily and Mr. Hoen will be ready to open his stock on September 6.

GEORGE M. COHAN is famous for his versatility in evolving popular plays with fascinating musical environment accompanied by a rapid fire of smart chatter, but he has never furnished himself with so altogether a satisfactory vehicle as The Yankee Prince, which George M. and his Royal Family will present on the Yankee Doodle boy's cross-continent tour the coming season. George M. Cohan is particularly persistent in procuring the best dramatic and musical talent for his numerous plays, and this is perhaps one of the secrets of his tremendous vogue. The Yankee Prince is a rattling jolly, jingly entertainment, full of smart, crisp, up-to-date chatter around which Mr. Cohan has woven a truly delightful web of melody. Over one hundred singing and dancing players are included in the cast, making it one of the largest musical organizations that has recently departed from New York booked for so extended a tour as that which will be covered by George M. Cohan and his Royal Family, commencing on September 6 of the current year and ending in the late spring of 1910.

Imperial Amusement Co.

Star Theatre, Portland, Oregon
S. MORTON COHN, Pres.; MELVIN G. WINSTOCK, Gen. Mgr.
Acts of every kind are requested to write in, quoting lowest salary in first letter. Satisfactory booking for right acts at right figures.

WILLIAM MAXWELL

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Lick Building, 35 Montgomery Street.
Telephone Kearny 724.

AMERICAN THEATRE

Phone Market 381
Market St., near Seventh
The Playhouse of Comfort and Safety

One Week, Commencing Sunday Matinee,
August 22

That Quaint Comedian

FRANK BACON

In the Rural Classic,

The Hills of California

By Judson C. Brunsie

Prices: Evenings, $1.00, 75c, 50c and 25c.
Matinees, 75c, 50c and 25c. All Reserved.

Next—JOHN MASON in "THE WITCHING HOUR."

Valencia Theatre

Valencia Street, near Thirteenth
Phone Market 17

Starting Sunday Evening, Aug. 29. Mats.
Wednesday and Saturday.

S. S. and Lee Shubert's Most Pretentious
Theatrical Offering

JOHN MASON

In Augustus Thomas' Greatest Play,

The Witching Hour

Precisely Original New York Cast and Production.

PRICES—$2.00 to 50c. Seats ready Monday at Box Office and the Emporium.
MAIL ORDERS NOW.

New Alcazar Theatre

Cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts.
Belasco & Mayer, Owners and Managers
Absolutely "Class A" Building

Week Commencing Monday, August 23,
EVELYN VAUGHAN

And the Full Strength of the Alcazar Company in Charles Klein's Great Play

The Lion and the Mouse

Its First Production in Stock.

PRICES: Nights, 25c to $1; Matinees,
Saturday and Sunday, 25c to 50c.

New Orpheum

O'Farrell Street, Bet. Stockton and Powell
Safest and Most Magnificent Theatre in
America

Week Beginning This Sunday Afternoon
Matinee Every Day

ARTISTIC VAUDEVILLE

GEORGE AUGER, The Tallest Actor in the World, and His Players in "Jack the Giant Killer"; JOSEPH HART'S BATH-ING GIRLS with Glenwood White and
Pearl Hunt; THALIA XXX QUARTETTE;
CARSON & WILLARD; WORLD & KING-
TON; WILBUR MACK and WELLA
WALKER; HERR J. RUBENS; NEW
ORPHEUM MOTION PICTURES. Last Week The International Aerial Sensation,
CURZON SISTERS.

EVENING PRICES—10c, 25c, 50c, 75c;
Box Seats, $1.
MATINEE PRICES (Except Sundays and
Holidays), 10c, 25c, 50c
Phone Douglas 70

Princess Theatre

Absolutely "Class A" Theatre Building
Phone West 663
Ellis Street, near Fillmore
Samuel Loverich, Manager

THIS WEEK ONLY.

MATINEE SATURDAY AND SUNDAY.
THE DAINTY, DIVERTING MUSICAL COMEDY

THE GIRL FROM PARIS

With all the Favorites in the Cast.

Next Monday

Jack and the Beanstalk

Popular prices: Evenings, 25c, 50c, 75c.
Saturday and Sunday Matinees, 25c and 50c.

Fischers THEATRE

E. A. FISCHER, PROP.
SUTTER ST., BET. FILLMORE AND STEINER,
Phone West 6732
The Only Musical Comedy House in the City

Next Week

Vaudeville

And First-Run Moving Pictures

Admission, 10c.

Two performances nightly—8 and 9:30.
Matinees—Mon., Wed., Sat. and Sunday
at 2:30.

GILLE PRINTING CO. SAN FRANCISCO

THEATRICAL PRINTING OF ALL KINDS

POSTERS
2257 MISSION ST. Phone MARKET
1885

THE FRANCIS- VALENTINE CO. Show Printers

Thirteenth St., near Mission, S. F. Cal.

Specious Headquarters
for Theatrical Agents

PHONE—MARKET 2114

Send Bills of Lading to us. We will take care of your paper

Van Ness Theatre

The second week of Paid in Full closes on Saturday night. The piece has been attracting considerable interest, people going to see it twice and three times. The general popularity of this play in the United States at the present time may be judged from the fact that there are no less than three big companies presenting it in various parts of the country at the present time. The play has been reviewed so many times that any attempt to do so now would be quite superfluous. Sara Perry has won a firm place in the hearts of San Francisco theatregoers by her excellent acting in the part of Emma Brooks. Louis Morrell, too, as Joe Brooks, the weak and unprincipled collector of the shipping company, plays his part most convincingly. The remainder of the worthy cast are extremely well. Next week Dustin Farnum as Cameo Kirby will appear in the name part of the play that depicts the romance in the life of a gambler on the Mississippi River seventy years ago.

Alcazar Theatre

The second and last week of The Squaw Man has drawn very large audiences to this favorite stock house, and the play could easily run another week. However, now that Evelyn Vaughan has returned and is ready with her ideas of Shirley Rossmore in The Lion and the Mouse, there is every prospect of great business with the new play. Miss Vaughan's return will be in the nature of an ovation and will really be a second season's opening. Great preparations have been made for a superb production.

Princess Theatre

The performances of The Girl from Paris at the Princess this week have been brimful of fun, but much of it has been of an unexpected, extemporaneous character, cropping out at unlooked for times, and in unlooked for places. Only the abilities of the performers have enabled the piece to go on as though nothing had happened, or to take advantage of the opportunities that thrust themselves upon the members of the cast, so as to use what might be otherwise disconcerting, to good effect. For example, on Monday night, a gentleman in one of the front rows blew a stentorian blast with his nose just in a crucial part of the opera. Everybody laughed. Among those who joined in the merriment was one, presumably another man, no woman ever had such a guffaw, whose laughter made Billy Hynes' laughing song seem like the murmur of a summer brook in comparison. Then, just as the house had begun to compose itself, Bud Ross had an accident with his voice. It slipped a cog or two, producing an effect that was as unlooked for as it was upsetting. The versatile comedian was probably the most composed person in the house, and turned the matter to good account, as becomes a comedian of experience. There were other trivial things, too, but they did not take rank with those just mentioned. Bud Ross, as the deceptive Ebenezer Honeycomb, has never been better. While his singing is not exactly of grand opera quality, there is no discount on his acting, which is the principal thing with a comedian, even in musical comedy.

Dalgo Clark, as the wife, was also quite clever. Olga Stech, as Nora the daughter, has become quite popular with Princess audiences. Her interpolated song, Pansies for Thoughts, went extremely well. Francis Paon as Ruth, the maid of all work, had a minor part which she did pleasingly. Frank Veck was amusing as the proprietor of the Spa Hotel. Arthur Cunningham could not disguise the fact that he was a son of Erin, even in the uniform of a British soldier. Bert Phoenix was received with favor in a small part. Robert Makim did all that he was assigned to do in a painstaking, careful manner. Harold Abbott was excellent in a character that gave him but few opportunities. Jennie Metzler showed promise in a part with few requirements. Oliver Le Noir and Jack Martin are deserving of mention for doing a few lines well. As the Girl from Paris, Octavia Broske was not particularly successful. The choruses did much to contribute to the tuneful success of the bill.

American Theatre

This week concludes the successful engagement of Herschel Mayall, whose return to his favorite stamping ground has been most productive in placing him on a high plane of artistic achievement and worth. And it is fitting, too, that his best work should be shown during his parting week. It would be hard to find an actor who could give a better portrayal of Carl Heinrich, the boy away from the ancestral kingly halls, in a mixup with youths of his own age, for the first time in his life. There is a world of tender sentiment in this beautiful play, and Mayall grasps its possibilities with a subtle understanding and rare eloquence. It is a very quiet and subdued young princeling that he furnishes, but it is a characterization modeled closely after real flesh and blood. Next to Mr. Mayall, Gerald Harcourt claims attention by two clever doubles—the aged and grim old Court Marshal, and the buoyant, irrepressible leader of the Corps Saxonia, Von Asterberg. Mr. Harcourt differentiates nicely and scores heavily. James Corrigan as Dr. Juettner reads his lines with feeling, but is altogether too robust in his work. Will R. Abrams, who is an easy, effective actor, is thoroughly good as the Minister of State. Thurlow White scored heavily with his depiction of Kellerman. It was a finely conceived and accurately executed bit of portraiture. Harriet Worthington was Kathie, and her portrayal was rather a negative one. Edmund Flynn contributed the comedy of the piece as Ruder. The singing was very ineffective and a decided disappointment. The attendance has been decidedly good during the week.

The Kolk & Dill Company are busy rehearsing, under the direction of Frank Stammers. The principals include Kolb & Dill, Sydney De Gray, Carlton Chase, Dick Stanton, Morris Maguire, Albert Duncan, Doris Wilson, Adelaide Harland, Maybelle Baker and Olga Stech. The opening bill in Los Angeles will be Dream City.

IZETTA JEWEL will be seen this season as leading woman for Otis Skinner.

Dates Ahead

A GIRL AT THE HELM (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Detroit, Aug. 29, Sept. 4; Milwaukee, 5-11; Peoria, 12-15; Springfield, 16-18; Chicago, 19-25; St. Louis, 26 to Oct. 2.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Walla Walla, Sept. 1; Yakima, 2; Ellensburg, 3; Aberdeen, 4; Seattle, 5-11; Tacoma, 12; Victoria, 13; Vancouver, 14-15; Westminster, 16; Bellingham, 17; Everett, 18; Portland, 19-21; Eugene, 22; Red Bluff, 24; Marysville, 25; Frisco, 26 to Oct. 1.

ALCAZAR STOCK.—San Francisco.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Bozeman, August 21; Butte, 22-23; Anaconda, 24; Gr. Falls, 25; Helena, 26; Missoula, 27; Wallace, 28; Spokane, 29-31.

AS THE SUN WENT DOWN (Arthur C. Aiston)—Paterson, Aug. 23-25; Morristown, 26; East Stroudsburg, 27; Binghamton, 28; Syracuse, 30-Sept. 1; Elmira, 2; Dansville, 3; Niagara Falls, 4; Buffalo, 6, week; Akron, 13-15; Youngstown, 16-18; Salem, 20; New Philadelphia, 21; Dayton, 22-25; Cleveland, 27, week.

BELASCO STOCK CO.—Los Angeles.

BISHOP'S PLAYERS.—In stock, Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland.

BUFFALO BILL - PAWNEE BILL SHOWS.—Kearney, Nebr., Sept. 2.

DARE DEVIL DAN (W. F. Mann, owner; Robert J. Riddell, mgr.)—St. Louis, Aug. 15, week; St. Joseph, 22-28.

ELLEFORD CO.—Nevada City, Aug. 23-25; Grass Valley, 26-28; Sacramento, 30, and week.

FISCHER'S MUSICAL STOCK.—San Francisco.

GUY SMITH STOCK.—Oakland, Cal.

LITTLE JOHNNY JONES (Chas. L. Crane)—Pottstown, Pa., August 28; Norristown, 30; Huntingdon, 31; Clearfield, Sept. 2; Du Bois, 3; Punxsutawney, 4; Wheeling, W. Va., 6; Cambridge, Ohio, 13; Zanesville, 14; Coshocton, 15; Newark, 16; Lancaster, 17; Circleville, 18; Columbus, 20-22; Delaware, 23; Marysville, 24; Bellefontaine, 25; Piqua, 28; Wapakoneta, 29; St. Mary's, 30.

MERRY WIDOW (Henry W. Savage)—Colorado Springs, Aug. 24-25; Boulder, 26; Cheyenne, 27-28; Des Moines, 30-Sept. 1.

MOROSCO'S BURBANK STOCK.—Los Angeles.

PAID IN FULL.—Oakland, Aug. 23-24-25; San Jose, 26; Stockton, 27; Fresno, 28; Los Angeles, 30 and week; San Diego, Sept. 5-6; Santa Ana, 7; San Bernardino, 8; Bakersfield, 9; Hanford, 10; Sacramento, 11; Eugene, 13; Salem, 14; Astoria, 15; Portland, 16-17-18; Seattle, 20 and week; Tacoma, 26-27; Victoria, 28; Vancouver, 29-30; Bellingham, Oct. 1; Everett, 2; Ellensburg, 4; Spokane, 5-6; Missoula, 7; Butte, 8-9; Great Falls, 10; Helena, 11; Bozeman, 12; Livingston, 13; Billings, 14; Dickinson, 15; Bismarck or Jamestown, 17; Fargo, 18.

POLLY OF THE CIRCUS.—Seattle, August 15-28; Everett, 29; Bellingham, 30; Vancouver, 31-Sept. 2; Westminster, 3; Victoria, 4; Tacoma, 5-7; Ellensburg, 8; North Yakima, 9; Walla Walla, 10-11; Spokane, 12-15; Missoula, 16; Helena, 17; Great Falls, 18; Butte, 19-20; Anaconda, 21; Bozeman, 22; Livingston, 23; Billings, 24-25; Denver, 27-28.

RAYMOND TEAL.—Phoenix till Aug. 16; then Tucson for four weeks.

RICHARDS & PRINGLE'S MINSTRELS (Holland & Filkins)—Hot Springs, Ark., August 22-23; Little Rock, 24; Fort Smith, 25; Mena, 26; De Queen, 27; Texarkana, 28; Shreveport, La., 29; Marshall, Tex., 30; Jefferson, 31.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Eastern), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—St. Louis, Sept. 5-11; Springfield, 12-15; Peoria, 16-17-18; Milwaukee, 19-25; St. Paul, 26 to Oct. 2.

RINGLIN'S CIRCUS.—Red Bluff, Aug. 30; Chico, 31; Marysville, Sept. 1; Sacramento, 2; Santa Rosa, 3; Napa, 4; Oakland, 5-6; Santa Cruz, 7; Salinas, 8; San Francisco, 9-13; San Jose, 14; Stockton, 15; Fresno, 16; Visalia, 17; Bakersfield, 18; Santa Barbara, 20; Los Angeles, 21-22; Santa Ana, 24; San Bernardino, 25; Phoenix, 27; Tucson, 28.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Great Falls, Sept. 1; Helena, 2; Missoula, 3; Wallace, 4; Spokane, 5-6; Walla Walla, 7; Yakima, 8; Tacoma, 9; Aberdeen, 10; Chehalis, 11; Seattle, 12-18; Portland, 19-25; Astoria, 26; Salem, 27; Albany, 28; Eugene, 29; Roseburg, 30.

THE MISSOURI GIRL (Merle H. Norton, lessee; Joseph Rith, mgr.)—Tell City, Ind., Aug. 22; Huntingburg, 23; Cynthiana, 24; New Harmony, 25; Grayville, Ill., 26; McLeansboro, 27; Norris City, 28; Harrisburg, 29-30; Benton, 31; West Frankfort, Sept. 1; Marion, 2; Vienna, 3; Mound City, 4; Cairo, 5; Paducah, Ky., 6; Charleston, Mo., 7; Portageville, 8; Blytheville, Ark., 9; Caruthersville, Mo., 10; Hayti, 11; Kennett, 13; Campbell, 14; Rector, Ark., 15; Jonesboro, 16.

THE SOUL KISS (Albert Hoogs, bus. mgr.)—Richmond, Va., Aug. 30-31; Norfolk, Sept. 1; Lynchburg, 2; Danville, 3; Charlotte, 4; Columbia, 6; Augusta, 7; Charleston, 8; Savannah, 9; Jacksonville, 10; Macon, 11; Chattanooga, 13; Birmingham, 14; Atlanta, 15-16; Montgomery, 17; Mobile, 18; New Orleans, Tulane Theatre, 19, week; Baton Rouge, 26; Natchez, 27; Vicksburg, 28; Memphis, 29-30; Little Rock, Oct. 1; Hot Springs, 2; Dallas, 4-5; Fort Worth, 6-7; Waco, 8; San Antonio, 9-10; Austin, 11; Galveston, 12; Houston, 13-14; Beaumont, 15; Shreveport, 16-17; McAlester, 19; Muskogee, 20; Tulsa, 21; Oklahoma, 22-23; Denver, Broadway Theatre, 25, week.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (Eastern), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Peoria, Aug. 29 to Sept. 1; Springfield, 2-4; Chicago, 5-11; Detroit, 12-18; Toledo, 19-25; Louisville, 26 to Oct. 2.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (Western) (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Spokane, Aug. 29 to Sept. 4; Seattle, 5-11; Aberdeen, 12; Tacoma, 13-14; Victoria, 15; Vancouver, 16-17; Westminster, 18; Bellingham, 19; Everett, 20; Chehalis, 22; Portland, 23-24-25; Corvallis, 27; Chico, 29; Sacramento, 30.

THREE WEEKS (Ernest Shuter, ahead.)—Billings, August 24; Grand Forks, 25; Winnipeg, 26; then St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Vaudeville

The Orpheum

It strikes us that this week's bill is a singularly well-selected and varied one, that there is an abundance of all kinds of entertainment—much that will appeal to most any taste. The opening act is furnished by Lena Pantzer and is perhaps the weakest thing on the bill. It is labeled A Dancing Divertissement and is only ordinary. A distinctive offering, and one that pleases largely, is given by Herr J. Rubens, who paints rapid-fire pictures, upside down and rightside up, but always good pictures. John World and Mindell Kingston, two local favorites, go about as big as anything on the bill. World is a really clever actor, and a specially fine dancer, and Miss Kingston is one of the finest singers in vaudeville. She ought to be a comic opera prima donna. But the pair need a good sketch. They make good in their present vehicle, but a real meat-and-sinew sketch would be immense in their hands. The Five Avolos, xylophonists, have a likeable turn, and Wilbur Mack and Nella Walker present their old-time The Girl and the Pearl. Their fooling is delicious, and their dancing most graceful, but as we once before remarked, they ought to substitute something for their singing. They are great at comedy, and comedy is what vaudeville audiences appreciate. The Curson Sisters have an aerial turn which is in the nature of human butterfly spinning way up in the air. It is fascinating in its apparent riskiness, and the two sisters are comely and shapely. The holdovers include Eleanor Gordon & Co. and La Petite Revue, with new moving pictures to complete a very absorbing program.

The National

The vaudeville presentation at the National this week is, taken as a whole, surprisingly good. One or two of the turns might be left out with good effect, but they only serve to make apparent the general high standard that this popular house keeps up. Cogan and Bancroft in feats of skatorial rollerism open the bill. This is an excellent act with which to begin the evening's entertainment, being of the dummy class. It is the means of introducing two amazingly good skaters, who perform all sorts of feats, to the great delight of those who watch them. Scott and Davis offer a number replete with songs, dances and piano playing of a popular order. They were well received. Hesse and Williams follow, in songs, accompanying themselves on the banjo. The act goes with movement, not to say noise. The Stanley-Edwards company in statuary poses give what is without question the most artistic number on the bill. Their effects are beautiful. Performers such as these are entitled to have their individual names on the program. Another praiseworthy turn, of an entirely different kind, is that of the French Sisters on the bounding wire. Their work is finished, and it is done with a great deal of manner. Harry Taylor, a composer, songster and comedian, is barely all of these and not much of any one of them. He does not work hard enough to keep himself warm, let alone being interesting. Charles Mack and company do good work in a tabloid drama of Irish life, entitled Come Back to Erin. It should not be placed at the end of the program, however, when people are coming in and going out of the house. Much of its effectiveness was lost for no other reason than this.

The Wigwam

An extraordinarily long bill is offered this week. Such clever performers as the Five Juggling Jordans; McDevitt and Kelly, eccentric dancers; Jere Sanford, whistling comedian; Glendower and Manion, in their sketch; with Huntress, the impersonator and novelty dancer, as the headline act, constitute the professional bill. In addition there is an added attraction in the Eagles' Minstrels, a local aggregation of talent and enthusiasm.

Pantages-Empire

Two dainty dancers, the Wyatt Sisters, have the opening place on the Pantages bill this week. Their work, while conventional, is cleverly done. Pongo and Leo have what they call a comedy pole act. This is misleading. There is nothing in the way of comedy about their turn, which consists in playing at seesaw with a pole balanced across a swinging trapeze. Theirs is neither a good bad act, or a bad good act, and it is not funny, even in spots. Petronella D'Arville plays the violin excellently, and gave the audience several selections which were both pleasing and familiar. Neil Litchfield has a very humorous skit, Down at Brook Farm. He is assisted by his wife, who is as clever as he is. The Four Continentals sang acceptably. They have a tendency to flat which they should overcome, if they wish to be considered better than they now are. Not but what they are good, but they might be better. That singing comedian, John P. Reed, kept his house in a roar all the time he was on. His material is good, too, that is, most of it. Sometimes his humor harks back to childhood's happy days, but on the whole it is original and very popular. Dolbado's trained sheep end the performance. It is claimed that this is the only act of its kind in the world, and no doubt it is. It is an unusual feature, well put on, and showing the results of a great deal of patience. The motion pictures were clear, new and interesting.

Bookings

At the Sullivan & Considine, San Francisco Office, through Wm. P. Reese, their sole booking agent, for week of Aug. 22, 1909:

NATIONAL, San Francisco—De-frej, Barry and Johnson, J. Warren Keane & Co., Alfred K. Hall, J. K. Emmett & Co., Les Ploetz Larellas, Elmer Lissenden. BELL, Oakland—Scott and Davis, Cogan and Bancroft, Ernesto Sisters, Harry Taylor, Chas. Mack & Co. NOVELTY, Vallejo—Carita Day and Her Dancing Boys, Jack Golden & Co., The Sados. WIGWAM, San Francisco—Princess Wlademaroff, Maurice Frank & Co., Tom McGuire, Girard and Gardner, Gruet and Gruet, Damman Troupe, Tora Troupe. LOS ANGELES, Los Angeles—Barnes-Reming & Co., Rose Stevens, Prentice Troupe, Billy Windom, Berch and Hall, Silveno & Co.

Theatrical Tights

ALL COLORS, WEIGHTS AND QUALITIES—Cotton, 75c to $1.50; Wool, $2.50 to $3.50; Lisle or Silkline, $3.00 to $4.50; Silk, $5.00 to $12.50.

SYMMETRICALS BEST LINE MADE IN THE U. S. Calif. $5.00; Calif and Thigh, $10.00; Calif, Thigh and Hip, $12.50.

We also Make Padded Shirts, SWEATERS, JERSEYS, GYM, ATHLETIC and BATH SUITS, SUPPORTERS, ACROBATIC SHOES, GOOD UNDERWEAR Knit to Fit in All Materials.

We operate our own mills, carry a large stock and make goods to measure at reasonable prices. We suit the professional as if he were buying in Europe. Write us for prices and samples.

Gantner & Mattern Co.

Phone Kearny 3603

Corner Post and Grant Ave.

Sullivan & Considine

::: New Circuit :::

Of the smaller popular-priced theatres to be operated in conjunction with their regular circuit houses, comprising time in

California Colorado
Utah Kansas
and Eastern Connections

Good Acts Can Always
Secure Immediate Bookings

BOOKING DEPARTMENT

1117 Market Street

W. P. REESE, Manager

NATIONAL THEATRE

ZEKE ABRAMS
General Manager

POST AND STEINER STS., SAN FRANCISCO

Leading Vaudeville Theatre on the Sullivan-Considine Circuit. No Act Too Good for us. Write.

New York Office, Knickerbocker Theater Bldg., Lancaster, Pa., Family Theater.
Booking the Longest Chain of Vaudeville Theaters West of Chicago.
Playing the best acts in vaudeville.

BERT LEVEY CIRCUIT

2053 SUTTER ST.

INDEPENDENT VAUDEVILLE
Phone West 2038.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

PANTAGES Western States Vaudeville Association

Controlling the longest, largest and best chain of vaudeville theatres in the United States.

Mr. Manager: No matter where your house is, how large or how small, we can supply you promptly with first-class

vaudeville acts at reasonable prices, also lodges, clubs and entertainments furnished on short notice.

See O. S. BURNS, Representative.
Phone West 7140. Offices: Pantages Theatre, cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts., San Francisco, Cal.

Archie Levy's Amusement Ass'n

THE VAUDEVILLE EXCHANGE OF THE PACIFIC COAST

1643 FILLMORE STREET, SUITE 1-2-3, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers desiring talent Write. Artists send in your open time now.

In Spite of all ye Knocking Devils in H—

THE LAND OF BUNG-A-BOO, headed by Wise & Milton, are still going, while others are trying. This week, EMPIRE, half act. Next week, WIGWAM, full act. Vallejo, week of Aug. 1st.

Borden-Zeno & Haydn Bros.

In "BITS OF VAUDEVILLE" Featured Everywhere
Extract from a manager's opinion: "Gentlemanly performers, who have a novelty act that proved a big feature and success at the Wigwam, week of July 18, '09. With pleasure I recommend them.—Sam Harris, Mgr.
Week of August 1st, Crystal, Denver, Colo. Direction B. A. Myers, New York City.

GRAND, Sacramento—McDevitt and Kelly, Jere Sanford, Mile. Loretta and Her Dog, Glendower and Manion,

The Grazers, Dolline Cole. QUEEN, San Diego—Rae and Borsche, Albini, Bessie Allen, Samuels & Co.

Vaudeville Notes

Eleanor Gordon, now playing the Orpheum, was badly injured with Harry Humphrey, a Portland capitalist, in an automobile smash-up Friday evening of last week. Howard Morton, now a newspaperman in New York, but formerly of San Francisco, husband of Miss Gordon, and her sister, Blanche Gordon, who plays the maid in the sketch, Tips on Tap, with her, escaped serious injury. The collision occurred on Sloat boulevard.

Mme. Loretta, who has the posing dog, refused to open the bill at the Wigwam this week, and as a consequence she did not play San Francisco this week.

Theodore Rothschild has leased the Forrest Theatre in Stockton and will run it in conjunction with the Novelty in that city as a vaudeville house.

The Novelty Theatre of Fresno will open next month with vaudeville.

The Vallejo Adonis, Sam Mendelson, who is the only man to ever make vaudeville pay in the navy town, has been busy in conferring with that other successful Sam of the Wigwam of this city, surnamed Harris. They have a big thing to spring before long.

The old Chutes Company that was established out near Golden Gate Park, has paid to Addison Gooding the $8,000 damages awarded him by the Superior Court as compensation for injuries inflicted by a bite from a camel. Gooding filed with the County Clerk last Tuesday satisfaction of the judgment, acknowledging the receipt of $9,329.66, representing the amount of the verdict with expenses. The case was appealed to the Supreme Court, and several weeks ago the judgment was affirmed.

Duncan Inverarity has been promoted to the position of assistant manager of the S. & C. Circuit.

As announced upon Martin Beck's departure for Europe, C. E. Bray, his first lieutenant, has left for Chicago to assume the general management of the Western Vaudeville Association, and the reorganization of that institution began immediately on his arrival. Before leaving his desk at the Orpheum headquarters in New York, where he has done some important executive work for his chief in the organization of systematic details, Mr. Bray would not announce what changes would be made in the office personnel. He said: "The impression seems to be circulating that there will be a 'cleaning up,' but I do not wish to anticipate too many changes. I can tell better when I have had a chance to observe the capacity, integrity and energy of the present employees. There is lots of good material there and a big field." Mr. Bray is an executive manager, an indefatigable worker and a charming man, and those who know predict a brilliant future for the W. V. A. under his guidance.

Charles Murray and Ollie Mack are on their way to Spokane, Wash., where they will begin their thirty-four weeks' vaudeville engagement over the Orpheum Circuit in a sketch written especially for them, entitled After the Celebration.

Fire last Wednesday afternoon destroyed the Standard Theatre in Bakersfield.

At the Central this week are Cummings and Merley, sketch team; Christie Dene, Salome dancer; Wise and Milton, sketch; Tyler, xylophonist; Mamie Stuart, vocalist; Birdie Long, illustrated song, and Mickey Feeley, acrobat.

Pantages After Crystal Circuit

A deal is in process of consummation whereby the Crystal Circuit in Denver, Pueblo, Colorado Springs, Colo., and St. Joe will pass into the hands of Alexander Pantages. The circuit houses are held on long leases by Edward Ackerman, W. Z. Tiffany, Sam Harris, Hal Curtis, Marcus Blum and Wm. Weston.

San Jose Will Have Amusement Park

San Jose is to have an amusement park of respectable proportions. Audley Ingersoll, representing the Ingersoll Amusement Company, will begin building at Luna Park in that city within thirty days. Ingersoll represents one of the richest amusement companies in the United States. The company owns over a hundred parks, picnic resorts and places of amusement in this country and Mexico, and Ingersoll was the originator and builder of Idora Park at Oakland. He has been promised an eight years' lease by the San Jose and Santa Clara Railroad Company, which owns Luna Park in that city. The contract will be signed in a few days and work commenced by September 1. Mr. Ingersoll this year intends to spend about $15,000 in putting up a dance platform, a first-class scenic railway, an old mill and circle swings. He says he will spend $35,000 next year.

S. & G. Acts Only For Wigwam

The action of the Wigwam people in announcing the termination of their booking arrangement with the Pantages Circuit and the accepting of S. & G. bookings exclusively, was the sensation of the week. Huntress was the last Pantages act to play the Wigwam. The long-established rivalry between the two circuits.

Morton Film Exchange Big Concern

John W. Considine has closed out his interests in the Edison Display Company, at 221 Madison Street, Portland, to S. Morton Cohn, of Portland, and the concern will be amalgamated with the Morton Film Exchange, of Portland, of which Melvin G. Winstock is general manager, with offices at 107 Sixth Street, Portland, and it is stated that Mr. Winstock will remove his headquarters to Seattle. It is also understood that William J. Morgan will retain a substantial interest in the new concern, his holdings in the Edison company being large. The amalgamation will result in the formation of the most important film and moving picture concern on the Pacific Coast, with the important Eastern and European connections. Everything necessary to the equipment of a moving picture show is already a part of the business of the concern, song slides being another branch of the business, supplied from the largest New York, Chicago and Milwaukee publishers.

Liberati's Band a Hit at Idora Park

Liberati and his band and grand opera company of soloists have made a tremendous hit with patrons of Idora, and the announcement that tomorrow will be their last Sunday appearance at Oakland's amusement resort will be a source of regret to the thousands who have become followers of the players and singers. Tomorrow's concerts at Idora will be replete with treats ranging from brilliant band selections and grand opera scenes, sung by the company of vocalists, to instrumental and vocal duets and solos. One of the finest of the many numbers is promised in the sextet from Lucia, to be sung by the artists. Another will be scenes from Mascagni's Cavalleria Rusticana, in which the entire grand opera company will be heard. Mlle. Katherine Klarer will sing the aria from Romeo and Juliet at the afternoon concert and Meyerbeer's Roberto in the evening. Among the instrumental soloists will be Signor A. Montini, euphonium, who will play the Evening Star Song, and Signors Combattente and Errico, who will give a duet for clarinets. Tonight the opera singers will give scenes and selections from Carmen. The entire concerts are given free from Idora's open-air bandstand. Liberati will conduct at every recital.

WILLIAM WINTER, the dean of American dramatic critics, has severed his connection with the New York Tribune, which he accepted in 1865, at the invitation of Horace Greeley. His resignation was announced Monday in the following statement by Hart Layman, the editor: "Mr. Winter has resigned entirely of his own accord and much to my regret, and I have no reason to expect that he will reconsider his decision. I thought it right to publish a small part of the large amount of matter he wrote for the Tribune of August 8. Mr. Winter did not agree with me and his resignation followed."

NEW CHUTES
FILLMORE, TURK, EDDY AND WEBSTER
Open, Morning, Afternoon and Night
GREAT NEW FREE BILL
MARINO
He Promises Himself to be Run Over by a Seven Footing Automobile
MASTER HUMBERT
World's Greatest Conductor and His Recent Marine Band
DARE DEVIL LE ROY
The Man of the Iron Jaw in His Stunt for Life Across the Cliffs
TOWERS
He Has a Plan to Blow Up the Flaming
FLORENCE SPRAY
Last Appearance of the Sunday
DEMON, LA FORGE COMEDY TRIO.
FUNNY CLOWNS, OUT-DOOR MO-
TION PICTURES.
TAKE THE JOLLY JOY JAUNT.

IDORA

"The Park Beautiful"

B. P. MILLER, General Manager
Oakland, Calif.

20 Acres of High Grade
Amusement--20

The Handsomest
Park in America

Playing Only the World's Greatest Bands
and
Big Feature Acts

Performers desiring time, address
J. H. B. Fitzpatrick

Huntress

IMPERSONATOR AND DRAPERY DANCER.

Carrying full set. The season's hit in vaudeville. First act to play three weeks of first-class time in San Francisco.

Santa Fe BACK EAST EXCURSIONS

SALE DATES

Aug. 9 to 13, inclusive.
Sept. 7 to 10, 13 to 15, inclusive.

ROUND TRIP RATES

Chicago .....	$72.50	New Orleans .....	$ 67.50
Kansas City .....	60.00	New York .....	108.50
Memphis, Tenn. ....	67.50	St. Louis .....	67.50

Ask for Back East Excursion pamphlet. Gives details.
JAS. B. DUFFY, Gen. Agt., 673 Market St., San Francisco.

SANTA FE

The big scene
in
The Witching Hour

The Witching Hour

The Messrs. Shubert's production of The Witching Hour, with John Mason in the stellar role, will be the offering at the Valencia Theatre for an engagement lasting but two weeks and commencing Sunday evening, August 29th. There seems to be no question as to the public's fondness for the drama with a mystic element. This is fully proven in the record of The Witching Hour, Augustus Thomas' psychological play, in which John Mason appeared for more than a year at the fashionable Hackett Theatre, in New York. Mr. Mason played the part of Jack Brookfield, the hypnotic gambler, nightly in New York all last season and part of the present season to an attendance that completely nonplussed the skeptics who, up to the advent of the famous play, failed to see any chance for psychological drama, dealing with the problems of hypnotism and thought suggestion. The New York reviewers agreed that the longer this remarkable piece of playwriting held forth the greater grew the interest in it and the problems it proposes. The scientific discussion of telepathy in The Witching Hour is not presented in the prosy cut-and-dried manner one is accustomed to. On the contrary, the lines in the celebrated Thomas play team with the richest bits of sparkling dialogue, and it is pronounced not only one of the most instructive dramas of the decade but also one of the richest in comedy. The Witching Hour is in four acts, and the scenes depict spirited scenes in Louisville, Ky., and Washington, D. C. Mr. Mason, during his appearances here, will be supported by the original Hackett Theatre cast, including, besides Mr. Mason in his best of character studies, Jack Brookfield, Russ Whytal as Justice Prentice; Amelia Gardner as Mrs. Helen Whipple; Charlotte Ives as Viola Campbell; Clinton Preston as Clay Whipple; Albert Andruss as Frank Hardmuth; Edward See as Lew Ellinger; H. L. Walton as Justice Henderson; W. E. Butterfield as the butler; Harry S. Hadfield as Col. Bayley; W. H. Sadler as Mr. Emmet; Belle Howell Bohanas as Mrs. Alice Campbell; Preston W. Crewe as Tom Denning, and Robert Bond as Jo. The scenery and paraphernalia as seen in New York will be utilized here. There will be matinees on Wednesday and Saturday, and seats will be ready Monday morning.

Brown Will Not Resign

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—A rumor was circulated on the Rialto this week to the effect that Chris Brown was leaving the Sullivan-Considine offices in New York. This was emphatically denied by Mr. Brown, who says he has no intention of leaving, as he was never so happy and prosperous in his life, and that Considine could not get him out by buying him out, like he did his successors, and that he would have to throw him out.

W. H. HORTON, general agent of the Ringling Circus, is in town.

Headliners at the Chutes

Three big headliners, each to be seen for the first time, will lead the open-air program at the Chutes this week. They will make their first appearance Sunday afternoon and night. Marino, who will allow a seven-passenger Thomas Flyer to pass over his prostrate body; Master Humbert and his Royal Marine Band, and Daredevil Le Roy, who will cross the Chutes grounds suspended by his teeth from an aerial wire, form the triumvirate that promises the greatest bill of free attractions since the opening of the popular resort. In addition to the newcomers, Towers will be seen in a continuation of his dives into a fiery tank, Demon will ride twice down the chutes, Florence Spray will be seen for the last times, the La Forge comedy trio will furnish songs and dances and there will be new open-air motion pictures. Master Humbert is said to be the world's youngest conductor. His Royal Marine Band is composed of players years older than himself, yet they respect this fifteen-year-old lad as they would a senior director. The act of Le Roy promises the acme of sensationalism. From a mast 150 feet high a wire has been stretched across the Chutes grounds to a point near the human roulette wheel. Down this incline the man will slide at terrific speed, suspended by his teeth.

Real Theatrical War Projected

Real warfare broke out in San Francisco last Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 when Charles Bradford, advance agent of the Shubert show, The Witching Hour, notified Manager Abe Cohn of the American Theatre that, on behalf of the Shuberts, he would formally cancel the existing Shubert contract with the American Theatre, and that The Witching Hour would play the Valencia Theatre, opening August 29th. Manager Cohn of the American Theatre has issued the following statement relative to the controversy between himself, the Shuberts and the Valencia Theatre: "The contract between myself, for the American Theatre, and the Messrs. Shubert, wherein it is stipulated that The Witching Hour is to be played at the American Theatre August 29, for two weeks, is now in the hands of our attorney, Hartley F. Peart. I can not believe that the Shuberts will indorse the action of their representative now here. Mr. Bradford has acted hastily in the matter, I am sure. We have made all arrangements to produce The Witching Hour under our contract. We will take no other action in the matter until we hear from the Shuberts direct. I will not say now what we propose to do, because I have not had an authoritative statement from Shubert, but I will say that we will protect our rights as they are conserved in the agreement." Mr. Bradford in his turn said: "We are here," referring to the Valencia Theatre. "You will observe the billing that the play is getting and the posters which fill the lobby of the theatre. We have begun our campaign of advertising which should have been started by Mr. Cohn of the American Theatre long ago. I am sorry for the predicament in which Mr. Cohn finds himself. I have nothing against him personally, but I do not think he gave the Shuberts' first independent play in San Francisco, The Witching Hour, the publicity it merited, and I will say he has no one to blame but himself." The whole thing is very much of a mystery. No one outside of Mr. Bradford, Mr. Cohn, and Walter Hoff Seeley, seem to know just why this sudden switch was made and their explanations do not explain. Mr. Seely says he will play the Shubert shows in a downtown theatre to be constructed in six or eight weeks. It will be erected in record breaking time. As the Morris vaudeville time is booked to open at the Valencia on October 4, it would seem that some other theatre must be secured for the Shubert show, Going Some, that was to come here following The Witching Hour, and which opens in Los Angeles week after next. The only theatre available is the Novelty. Some rumor placed the Princess at the disposal of the Shubert shows, but this is vigorously denied at the Princess by Manager Sam Loverich, who points to the fact that Kolb and Dill are booked for a long season there in October. As the Princess is largely owned by the Valencia people, this probably started the rumor. At any angle you look at the situation, it is a pretty tangle—and what the result will be can not be conjectured. As a move to make the daily papers open up their news columns, it is a booming success. The dailies have been getting pretty niggardly of late in regard to theatrical news and this controversy will probably result in bringing show news to the front again.

Andrews
Opera Chairs

General Seating
School—Church—Bank
Office and Steel Rod
Furniture
Purchase direct from
manufacturer
THE A. H. ANDREWS CO.
Pacific Bldg., San Francisco
Chicago, New York, Tacoma

J. B. REIGHLEY

Theatrical Hauling

Promptly Attended To
Telephone Market 1601
660 Guerrero Street, Bet. 18th and 19th

Opera, Folding and Assembly
Chairs

Full Line
See Samples at 770-776
Mission St.
Bet. 3d and 4th Sts.
SAN FRANCISCO
THE WIGGIN CO.

Great New Circus

That the Gates-Royal circus story will not down is evidenced by another revival of the rumor emanating through a mysterious visit made to Chicago last week by Charles Gates, a son of John W. Gates, and Rhoda Royal, managing director and originator of the Rhoda Royal Two-Ring Circus, Hippodrome and Wild West. Circus men who claim to be possessed of inside information, say that a monster independent circus is being conceived for next summer and that the company will be headed by Gates and Royal and will be capitalized at $1,000,000. The formation of this company and the building of the circus paraphernalia, it is reported, will not interfere in the least with the winter tour of Royal's Indoor Circus. The visit of young Gates was a peculiar one. He dropped into the city quietly last week and registered as a German baron at the Auditorium Annex. Next day Royal made his appearance and stayed "under cover," as it were, for two days. Then Royal slipped out of the city and a day or two later Gates made his presence known to the chief clerk at the hotel, paid his bill and hurried to New York.—Chicago Show World.

David Belasco's Plans

David Belasco's plans for this season are most interesting. Mr. Belasco expects to produce at least four new plays, one of which will be from his own prolific pen. The name of Mr. Belasco's forthcoming play has not yet been announced, nor, as is Mr. Belasco's custom, will any inkling of its nature be allowed to leak out until the curtain rises upon its premiere performance, the date of which remains equally shrouded in mystery. The other three new plays which will be produced by Mr. Belasco are a comedy entitled Is Matrimony a Failure? which is an adaptation by Leo Dietrichstein of Blumenthal and Kadelburg's great Berlin and Viennese success; a drama, entitled Just a Wife, by Eugene Walter, author of The Easiest Way, and a play by Clyde Fitch, which that popular dramatist is now engaged upon for Blanche Bates, to be produced later in the season. In Mr. Walter's new play, Mr. Belasco will introduce the young wife of the playwright, Charlotte Walker, as a star. Is Matrimony a Failure? is scheduled for production late in August at the Belasco Theatre, and will be Mr. Belasco's initial production for the season. On the evening of September 4, Mr. Belasco will reopen the Belasco-Stuyvesant Theatre with The Easiest Way, in which Frances Starr and her original company will appear for a limited season before taking that drama on a tour of the principal cities of the United States and, later, to London, where Sir Charles Wyndham predicts a long and successful run of this most-talked-of play of the season just closed. One of the most notable of Mr. Belasco's departures this year from the beaten track will be his introduction to the public of a galaxy of excellent actors and actresses, some of them absolutely new to Broadway, and some players of long recognized ability and genius who thus far have, through the exigencies of the prevailing star system, been forced to work in an undeserved obscurity. The production of Is Matrimony a Failure? will be conspicuous in this respect, the cast headed by such well-known actors as Frank Worthing, William Morris and W. J. Ferguson, and containing Louise MacIntosh, Jane Cowl, Jane Grey and others. The Fighting Hope, which scored so great a success for Blanche Bates in New York last season, will be presented in all the larger cities of the country. Miss Bates will again be supported by the original company seen in New York. David Warfield, who a few weeks ago finished a forty-two weeks' tour of the United States with The Music Master, will again be featured by Mr. Belasco in the same production.

Stock for Monterey

Leo Bell and Rose Marston will head a stock company at the Victory Theatre in Monterey, opening next Monday.

The Orpheum

The program to be presented next week will include George Auger and his little company in Jack the Giant Killer, a clever and amusing playlet founded on that celebrated and popular fairy tale, in which it is illustrated that truth is sometimes as strange as fiction, for Mr. Auger is a real giant, while Ernest Rommel, who personates Jack, is the smallest actor and singing comedian in America. Thus Jack the Giant Killer is presented in actual reality. Messrs. Auger and Rommel are ably assisted by Sylvia Hearne, Caroline Haas and Daisy Robinson. Joseph Hart's Bathing Girls, a pretentious ensemble in six scenes and perhaps the most novel series of musical specialties this prolific producer has yet evolved, will be another strong bid for popular favor. Bathing Girls is really a miniature girl review of rapid-fire, quick-changing scenes, as carefully prepared, as far as scenery, costumes, lighting, etc., as a complete musical comedy. The Thalia Quartet, which will be heard for the first time in this city, is an organization that has met with great success in the British Isles. Carson and Willard, two Dutch comedians, will present an act which they style The Dutch in Egypt. The idea is very funny and presents a couple of Germans in exaggerated tourist dress in a scene representing the Sphinx and the Desert of Sahara. Carson and Willard are both capital and original fun-makers whose humor is irresistible. Next week will be the last of Wilbur Mack and Nella Walker, who will present the new musical sketch entitled The Bachelor and the Maid. It will also terminate the engagements of World and Kingston, Herr J. Reubens and the aerial sensation, the Curzon Sisters. A new series of Orpheum motion pictures will close the performance.

Alcazar Theatre

There is an abundance of attractiveness in the bill announced by the management for the coming week, commencing Monday evening. Evelyn Vaughan, the popular leading woman, will reappear after an absence of two months; Will R. Walling has been drawn from retirement to portray a character for which he is particularly fitted. The offering will be Charles Klein's great American play,

The Lion and the Mouse. It will be the first presentation of this celebrated drama by a stock company, Belasco & Mayer having secured it as a worthy medium for reintroducing Miss Vaughan to their patrons. Miss Vaughan will have the role of Shirley Rossmore, the young woman who fights and conquers John Burkett Ryder, a Napoleon of finance. He is a man of strong character and tremendous energy—a human dynamo—and her only capital consists of brains and determination. She is in Europe when her father, a jurist, is reduced to penury through Ryder's machinations, and on the homeward-bound steamer she meets and captures the love of his son, Jefferson. Confronted by necessity of earning her bread, she takes up literature and, under the nom de plume of Sarah Green, writes a book entitled The Great American Octopus, the central figure of which bears such a striking resemblance to the senior Ryder that he sends for her to visit him at his home. There she impresses him so favorably that, unaware of her real identity, he engages her to be his amanuensis. He tells her of his son's infatuation for Shirley Rossmore and requests her to "have the boy" by marrying him herself. The big scene of the play is that in which she tells Ryder who she is and scathingly denounces his methods of enriching himself by impoverishing others. She (the mouse) finally defeats him (the lion), and the thrilling story has a happy termination. Miss Vaughan will be Shirley, Mr. Walling will be seen as the elder Ryder, Augustus Phillips as his son, Howard Hickman as Judge Rossmore, Burt Wesner as Senator Roberts, Louis Bennison as ex-Judge Stott, Grace Travers as Senator Roberts' daughter, Bessie Barriscale as Miss Nesbitt, Adele Belgarde as Mrs. Ryder and Christie MacLean as Mrs. Rossmore.

American Theatre

Beginning tomorrow afternoon with a matinee, the American stock com-

First Time in Stock

The Strength of the Weak

Managers desiring to use this phenomenally successful play during the coming season may communicate with the exclusive agents,

The Great Western Play Agency

Van Ness Theatre Building,
San Francisco, Cal.

GOLDSTEIN & CO.
COSTUMERS for all Pacific Coast Theatres
Goldstein's Hair and Wig Store.
Make-Up, Play Books, Established 1874.
Lincoln Building, Market and Fifth Sts.

pany will enter upon its last week at the popular Market Street playhouse. The offering will be The Hills of California, with Frank Bacon in the leading comedy role. The Hills of California is a rural comedy drama from the pen of Judson Brusie. It deals with the folk of the interior, who are matched against the intrigues and unfair dealings of schemers who plot to rob them of their rights. A son is born out of wedlock to the daughter of a respected farmer, who inherits the estate of his father's father. Ariel Hill, next in kin, is not mentioned in the will, but with the boy out of the way he would naturally by law come into possession of the estate, and to this end he has the child kidnaped and hidden in San Francisco. The mother has a search for her stolen child that lasts nine years, and, through the medium of the Salvation Army, of which she becomes a member, and with the aid of a young attorney, finally finds the lost child. The scenes of this quaint comedy are laid in Amador County and San Francisco.

MARY BOLAND, leading woman with John Drew last season, will succeed herself in the same position this year, playing the part of Micheline, a young French girl to whom every year is leap year in Inconstant George.

For Rent Theatre Margarita

At Eureka, Cal.

May be leased by responsible parties. Theatre is new and modern in every respect.

Address,
C. P. CUTTEN, Agent,
Eureka, Cal.

All Kinds of
SCENERY

Painted, built and installed. The only real STUDIO on the Coast. Get our prices for road or house productions.

Front and Sheridan Sts.
Portland, Oregon

C. F. Weber & Co.
Opera Chairs
All Styles of
THEATRE AND
HALL SEATS

365-7 Market Street
San Francisco

210-212 N. Main St.
Los Angeles

FRED O. OSBORNE, Manager
Theatrical Code, "Santapole"
Home Phone F 5037

New York Dramatic Agency

Booking
Dramatic and Vaudeville Acts
Organizing and Routing Companies, Supplying "Scripts," Etc.
Belasco Theatre Building, Los Angeles
Entire Third Floor

CHARLES E. ROYAL AND ELLIOTT EDYTHE

Presenting Charles E. Royal's wonderful Burglar Playlet, "STRAIGHTENING A CROOK," and six other excellent playlets. "Best sketch ever presented at the Empire."—Eureka Times. "Full enough of dramatic and comedy situations to warrant a four-act play."—Eureka Herald. Chas. Royal and Edythe Elliott are finished artists in every sense and present a wonderfully clever act."—Watsonville Pajaronian. "Working All the Time." "Featured Everywhere."

BERT LEVEY, AGENT.

Spotlights

Gottlob & Marx have already booked twenty-five different attractions for the coming season in this city, and they will be presented at either the Van Ness, the New Columbia Theatre on Geary and Mason Streets or the Garrick Theatre, which has been secured for a limited time in order to house some special attractions brought West. Among the latter are the musical hits, Three Twins and The Parisian Model.

Music publishers are now busy with the new songs that they had been holding back waiting for the new copyright law to go into effect. The revenue to publishers, composers and song writers will be vastly increased by the clause providing for the payment by manufacturers of 2 cents on each record, scroll, or cylinder used in talking machines, hand organs, or other device supplying canned music. For one song alone 750,000 phonograph records have been made in one year. Such a song hit would have netted the publishers $15,000. The copyright law was urged by the publishers particularly against the vendors of canned music. No copyright song can be used now without the permission of the owner of the copyright. A performer will not be able to leave musical comedy and take with him into vaudeville a new song number that was a hit in a production with which he had been identified.

An arrangement—and one of considerable importance—has just been made between the directors of the New Theater, New York, which is now rapidly nearing completion, and the Shuberts whereby the latter will book the New Theater productions one night each in New Haven and Hartford, before their appearance in the Metropolis. This announcement carries with it the news that the Shuberts have acquired the Hartford Opera House, which will be conducted as a high-class house in opposition to Parsons.

HENRY KOLKER, who has been starring in Australia, has arrived in New York, and has been signed for a Shubert show.

Henry W. Savage's new production, The Florist Shop, opened at the Liberty Theatre, New York City, to phenomenal business. The cast includes Marion Lorne, Anna L. Bates, Louise Drew, Vina Morris, Lionel Walsh, John Hines and a number of others.

George M. Cohan's personal engagement for the coming season calls for a cross-continental tour while presenting his musical play, The Yankee Prince. Mr. Cohan will be surrounded by the original company that assisted him in the piece. It includes his father, mother and sister, Jerry J., Helen F. and Josephine Cohan, or, as he terms them, his royal family. It is now seven years since George M. Cohan has made a coastwise tour, and the appearance of the reunited "Four Cohans" in the cities booked will undoubtedly prove an effort out of the ordinary in so far as theatrical affairs are concerned. There will be one hundred singing and dancing players in

STEVE I. SIMMONS

MAXWELL ALEXANDER

Columbia Scenic Studio Co.

Estimates on all Classes of Theatrical Work

Office, 117 Fell St., S. F.

George P. Webster

Stage Director

Ye Liberty Playhouse Stock, Oakland, Cal.

Evelyn Selbie-Virginia Thornton

Alternating Leads

Frawley Co., Alaska

Carlton Chase

Leading Man

Fischer's Theatre, San Francisco

Lillian Hayward

Leading Business, Stock or Road.

Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

Arthur E. Witting-Mattie Davis

Character Actor

Joint or Single

Character Actress

AT LIBERTY

Address San Diego, Calif., Boundary and Howard Streets.

The Yankee Prince, with a special orchestra of sixteen pieces. The company will make the entire trip by special train.

From the Registration Bureau of the Actors' Fund comes the news that one hundred and twenty-five (125) new annual members have been added to its list during July, and one hundred and fifty registered in the Bureau, twenty-five being old members arriving in town and wishing to show their appreciation of the new venture, the success of which is now assured. The amount received for "dues" alone in the past six months is double what it has been in any "twelve months" since the organization of the Actors' Fund. With a prosperous winter before them nothing can stop the membership list from reaching a total of at least "five thousand" before the end of the coming season. Every company playing next year will be reached, so that no one can say he or she is ignorant of the workings of our "great charity."

CHARLES E. GUNN

Leads

Care Dramatic Review

BERT PORTER

Juveniles

Newman-Foltz Co.

MAX WAIZMAN

Newman-Foltz Co.

GEORGE VON BLIX

Stage Manager

Newman-Foltz Co.

FLORENCE DAVENPORT

Ingenue or Soubrette

At Liberty. Care of Dramatic Review

HERBERT MILTON

Characters and Heavies

At Liberty. Care of Dramatic Review

OLGA GRAY

Leads

At Liberty. Care Dramatic Review

COL. D. P. STONER

Business Manager Newman Foltz Co.

Care Dramatic Review

MINNIE MAYFIELD

Heavies and Characters

Late of Richard Jose Co. At Liberty. Care Dramatic Review

HERMAN HELLER

Musical Director

Valencia Theatre Social engagements filled

DAN KELLY

Comedian

Care Dramatic Review

AUSTA PIERCE

Characters

At Liberty for Summer Stock.

1210 Cedar St., San Diego, Cal.

GEORGIE WOODTHORPE

Characters

Broadway Theatre, Oakland

ALBERT ROWLAND

Late of Chas. Frohman and Chas. Dillingham

At Liberty for Characters or Heavies

Care Dramatic Review

LAURA LUCILE HEIMLICH

Leads

Everett, Wash.

FRED S. CUTLER

Late Manager for Richard Jose

Advance or with company At Liberty

Address care Dramatic Review

EDWARD B. LADA

General Music Director
for Belasco & Mayer

A. BURT WESNER

Alcazar Theatre, San Francisco

TEDDY WEBB

Comedian, San Francisco Opera Co.
Direction John Cort

HARRY J. LASK

Representative New York Clipper
N. E. Cor. Sansome and Pine Sts.

HARRY MARSHALL

Scenic Artist

At Liberty. 3748 Vermont Ave., Los Angeles

MINOR REED

Scenic Artist

At Liberty Address Dramatic Review

CARRIE CLARKE WARDE

Characters

Dick Ferris Stock, Minneapolis

GILMORE WALKER

Stage Manager

Valencia Theatre, San Francisco

EDDIE

Mitchell

Juveniles

CHESTER STEVENS

Heavies

Grand Opera House Stock, Los Angeles

MARY HARVEY-BARBOUR

Leads (Versatile)

3d Ave. Theatre, Seattle

FREDERICK GILBERT

Burbank Stock, Los Angeles

ARTHUR SHEPPARD

Scenic Artist

Care Dramatic Review

Howard Foster

Light Comedy and Characters

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

IRENE OUTTRIM

Leads

Musical Comedy Co., Reno, Nevada

ROBERT LAWLER

Leading Man

SUSIE HOWARD

Engaged for Lyric Stock

Portland, Ore.

PIETRO SOSSO

Leading Man—Elleford Co.

Address, 179 De Long Ave., S. F.

FRED. C. CHARMAN

Juveniles and Light Comedy

General Delivery, Tucson, Arizona

WARDA HOWARD

Leads

Vancouver, B. C.

CHARLES MARRIOTT

Gardiner Stock Co.

Victoria, B. C.

Walter H. Newman AND Bertha Foltz

Starring Jointly

High-Class Repertoire

Season 1909 and 1910

Alf. T. Layne    Daisy D'Avra

Del Lawrence Stock, Victoria

Edith Lyle

Ingenué — Valencia Stock

San Francisco

Donald Bowles

Dramatic Director Geo. L. Baker's Attractions.

Address Bungalow Theatre, Portland, Oregon.

Loaned by Mr. Baker to direct Mr. James Neill's Company for him in St. Paul, Minn.

Neva West

Care Dramatic Review

Permanent Address, 2110 Post Street

Johnny Williams, Jr.

"FRISCO"

"The Man in Front." Can Book or Wild Cat

Louise Kent

In Vaudeville

Her Own Company

Pantages Circuit

Thurlow White

Leads, Heavies

Invites offers

Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

E. P. Foot

GENERAL MUSICAL DIRECTOR

Murray &amp; Mack Co., Incorporated

Mason Opera House Bldg., Los Angeles.

Mina Crolus Gleason

Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland

Louis Morrison

Belasco Stock Co.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Seibert & Lindley

Presenting the headline act, "HER OWN MOTHER," in vaudeville.

Sidney B. Payne

Lyric Stock, Portland, Or.

Sydney Ayres

Leading Man

Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, Cal.

Budd Ross

Comedian

Princess Theatre, San Francisco

Al Hallett

Stage Director

Broadway Theatre, Oakland

F. F. Munier

Characters

Broadway Theatre Stock, Oakland

Priscilla Knowles

Leads

Bennett Jack

Characters

Lyric Theatre, Portland

Whit Brandon    Ethel Tucker

Leading Man and Director

Leading Woman

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Paul McAllister

Leading Man

Valencia Theatre, S. F.

George B. Baldwin, Jr.

Alcazar Stock, San Francisco

Monroe Salisbury

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

James Austin Gleason—Webster    Lucile

Playing Title Role in Checkers

Juveniles in Checkers

Godfrey Matthews

At Liberty for Leads or Heavies

Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

Leslie King

Season with E. H. Sothorn

Closed June 17th

Immediately Engaged by

Frederic Thompson for Polly of the Circus

To open June 29th

Correspondence

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The Ringmaster, a new play of Wall Street, had the stage in Maxine Elliott's Theatre last week. It is one of those terrible magazine tales of a financial steam roller who makes combines, convulses the stock market and crushes small persons. He had high brows, rolled his eyes and wore painted gray rings beneath them. But the business of the play was good and the financial methods were rational and convincing. Laurette Taylor, as the ringmaster's daughter, made a very charming heroine, who incites her sweetheart, John Le Baron, Jr., the son of his father, to down the ringmaster. This is not accomplished without a good many tears and heartburnings, but all ends happily. Arthur Byron, as the man who masters the ringmaster, did his work well, and the audience applauded his sentiments. William Rossell, as a fresh young reporter, and Oza Waldrop, as his sweetheart. Rebecca Love, were pleasing in their parts. There were so many calls for the author, or rather authoress, that Miss Olive Porter, who wrote the play, came out and acknowledged her thanks. * * * Another theatre in Broadway, the Gaiety, which has undergone elaborate alterations and improvements during the summer, reopened its doors for the season last Monday, when J. E. Dodson reappeared in J. Hartley Manners' comedy, The House Next Door, which enjoyed a long run at the Gaiety last season. Although the night was a warm one, an ice cooling plant recently placed in the theatre had a soothing effect on the large audience. Mr. Dodson, in the role of a crabbed old Englishman opposed in every instance to the Jewish people, was again excellent, while those who appeared with him assisted him in giving an enjoyable performance of the comedy. Those in the principal roles include Misses Mabel Roebuck, Eleanor Moretti and Ruth Chester and Messrs. William J. Kelley, Frank Losee and Herbert Standing. * * * The name of the new play by Edward Peple, in which Mrs. Leslie Carter will open her third season under her own management, will be Vesta Herne, the name also of the character Mrs. Carter will enact. * * * After having been thoroughly renovated and brightened up, the Bijou Theatre was reopened for the season last week by Thomas A. Wise and Douglas Fairbanks and their supporting company in a comedy of official life in Washington called A Gentleman from Mississippi. This play ran all of last season at the Bijou and was then moved for the summer to the Aerial Gardens, where it played until last Saturday night. Mr. Wise in the title role gave a pleasing performance as Senator Langdon, a newly elected member of the upper house from Mississippi, while Douglas Fairbanks again portrayed capitally a young newspaper correspondent. The other roles were acceptably played by those who have been appearing in them for many months. * * * After a season in another play, Marie Doro returned to New York last week with the play in which she appeared here for the first time as a star nearly two years ago, The Morals of Marcus, W. J. Locke's comedy of the unsophisticated young woman of the Orient who is plunged into the social life of the Occident. The play is at the Lyceum Theatre, only around the corner from the Criterion, in which Miss Doro made her successful venture. It is to run for only a week. Of the original cast of the comedy, Miss Doro is the only person who remains. * * * Messrs. Cohan & Harris' minstrels opened their season at the Apollo, Atlantic City, last week, before a large audience. The performance was up to date in songs and jokes, the former being largely in the majority. In fact, the show is a musical potpourri, with comic situations cleverly intertwined. George Evans is again featured, although Messrs. Alexander and Scott, the latter one of the most finished female impersonators of the day, scored as heavily. George M. Cohan's hand is shown throughout the entire program, for everything is done with a rush and spirit that leaves no dull moments. The first part introduces some novel effects, including a pictorial history of minstrelsy. Messrs. George M. Cohan, Sam H. Harris, A. L. Erlanger and other prominent theatrical folk were at the opening. * * * The Florist Shop, a farce adapted from the German by Oliver Herford, was produced at the Liberty Theatre last Monday by Henry W. Savage. All credit is due to Louise Drew, Marion Lorne, Lionel Walsh and Nina Morris. The others in the cast were all good.

ROB ROY.

OGDEN, Utah.—The New Orpheum Theatre (formerly the Grand Opera House) a house that ranks second to the Orpheum of San Francisco in beauty, opened Friday, August 13, with Ellery's Italian Band. The old playhouse has been rebuilt entirely in its interior and is now one of the most modern in the State. The stage, boxes, parquet, balcony and gallery and the entrance have been refinished. More than $30,000 was expended in the work. The regular vaudeville season opened Sunday, August 15, with a high-class show, headed by The Futurity Winner, to a crowded house. Will R. Winch, a manager of national experience, will manage the local house as well as the one at Logan, Utah. The Utahna Theatre, upon which a lease was secured some time ago by John Cort of Seattle, will be remodeled and will play the attractions booked by the Northwestern Theatrical Association. It is expected the work upon the rebuilding of the house will begin next week. The Lyceum Theatre, C. W. Lippincott, manager, presenting high-class vaudeville, continues to do good business, as does the Oracle, Isis and Globe, the three moving picture houses under the management of H. A. Sims.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 16.—What is supposed to be the opening attraction for the coming season of the syndicate shows came to the Bungalow last week and was welcomed by big houses. I refer to Polly of the Circus. This play is from the pen of a former Portland girl, Margaret Mayo, but who is well known to all of us as Miss Lillian Slatten. The play came to us with a reputation, and it surely was well sustained. The Girl from Rector's opens up shortly for a week. The first attraction to play at Manager George L. Baker's house, the Baker, will be Cohan's Fifty Miles from Boston, which comes about the 12th of September. The past week was a gala one at the Orpheum, where Manager James H. Errickson holds forth. Joseph Hart's musical revue,

...VAN NESS THEATRE...

For the Two Weeks Which Begin on Monday Evening, August 23, and End on Sunday Evening, Sept. 5

AMERICA'S FAVORITE ROMANTIC ACTOR

Dustin Farnum

(Direction of Liebler & Co.)

In the New Scintillatingly Successful Play of Love and Adventure, Entitled

Cameo Kirby

Written by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, Authors of The Man from Home

In Mr. Farnum's support is this remarkable cast: McKEE RANKIN, MAY BUCKLEY, JOHN J. HARRINGTON, GORDON JOHNSTONE, MAUD HOSFORD, BURR CARUTH, WILLIAM H. CARTER, RUTH LLOYD, C. R. WEBSTER, DONALD GAL-LEHER, NORA SHELBY, WILLIAM FREDERIC, JANE KENDRICK and GLADYS WILLIAMS.

ONLY MATINEE SATURDAY

The Bathing Girls, proved to be one of the most pleasing acts one could wish for, and the settings were high class. George Auger and company in Jack the Giant Killer were amusing. Mr. Auger stands over eight feet, and was formerly with Barnum & Bailey's Circus. Other good acts were Lew Bollin in monologue; Carson and Willard in a sketch, and Frank Rogers, ventriloquist. This week's bill is as follows: Hyams & McIntyre; San Francisco Musical Trio; Hayes and Johnson; Woods Trio; Cunningham and Marion; Rose Royal, and Cathryn Palmer. Yesterday marked the reopening of the stock season at the Lyric, and the management, Keating & Flood, are to be congratulated upon the strength of their new company. Yesterday's play was Doris, and a better one could not have been selected to introduce the company. Priscilla Knowles is the new leading woman. She is a woman who from all indications possesses a great deal of talent, and promises to become a big favorite with the clientele of this house. Sidney Payne is the leading man, and is a careful and painstaking actor. The balance of the company includes Ralph Bell, Robert Athon, Franklyn Murray, J. W. Bennett, Percy Kilbride, Lee Hutton, Susie Howard, Louise Hart, Alice Condon and Teddy Hart. Manager Frank Coffinberry announces the following acts for this week at the Grand: The Three Rohrs and Woods Brothers; Mitchell and Cain; Murphy and Whitman; Clarence Sisters; Vera De Bassini, and Fred Bauer. At Pan-tages, Manager John Johnson offers for this week's bill: Bonsetti Troupe; Mary Hampton and company; Goyt Trio; Martin Brothers; Harvey and Lea; Gladys Middleton, and Leo White. A. W. W.

A remarkable young man is Geo. M. Cohan. When they devise a musical play in England is usually requires the services of four authors—one for the music, one for the chatter, one for the lyrics and one for the book—but a Cohan play never has but one name attached. And besides composing music, writing the book and lyrics, and devising the stage business, Geo. M. Cohan also superintends every detail of the production from the time it goes into first rehearsal until it is completed and presented before an audience. The Talk of New York, Victor Moore's new vehicle, is from the pen of this able author and is said to be a very excellent musical play.

In The Fighting Hope, the remarkably successful drama in which David Belasco will present Blanche Bates at the Van Ness Theatre two weeks hence, Miss Bates will wear a modern costume for the first time since she became a star. The time of the play is the present and the scene is laid at Ossining, New York, better known in times past as Sing Sing. Clarence Hyde, who was ahead of Ethel Barrymore recently, will return ahead of Miss Bates.

A Play of Class—A Company of Merit—A Production of Magnitude

Opens
August 23
Coast Tour
early
in 1910

AS THE SUN WENT DOWN

By Geo. D. Baker

Address
ARTHUR C. AISTON
Sole. Owner
Room 304
1505 Broadway
N. Y. City
Tel. 941 Bryant

THE SAN FRANCISCO DRAMATIC REVIEW

• MUSIC AND DRAMA •

Published Continuously Since 1880. The Only Theatrical Publication in the Great West

Ten Cents a Copy—$4.00 a Year

San Francisco, Saturday, August 28, 1909

No. 1—Vol. XXI—New Series

Augustus
Phillips

William A. Brady Will Have Many Shows

Mr. Brady said in a recent interview: "I shall have ten new productions by the first of January and twenty-two companies covering the country. Notwithstanding the statement made by Michael Morton, that Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree will be the opening attraction at the New Theatre in New York, I desire to again announce the fact that should Sir Herbert visit America during the coming season I will be interested in the arrangement of his tour and his local appearances will be made in a theatre further downtown than the New Theatre. My first and one of the most important productions of the season will be The Dollar Mark, by George Broadhurst, which will be made at Wallack's Theatre on August 23. The play will be seen for a week out of town before coming into New York. The Dollar Mark will also be produced in Chicago by another company early in October and in San Francisco by still another organization about the same time. Grace George will make an extended tour in A Woman's Way, giving occasional performances of The School for Scandal and Divorcons at matinees. She will be the opening attraction at my new theatre on Forty-eighth Street, called the New Netherlands, which will be finished March 1, after which she will visit Australia and other countries on a world's tour, opening in London in October, 1911. If Sir Herbert Tree comes to New York she will appear as Lady Teazle with him in his production of The School for Scandal. Robert Mantell will continue in the same repertoire of Shakespearean and legitimate plays that he presented during his long stay in New York last year, and will during the season be seen in at least two new roles, one of them an original tragedy by a well-known author. Marie Booth Russell will continue as his leading support. Louis Mann will retain The Man Who Stood Still as his starring vehicle during the first part of the season, producing a new play in December which he will present to a New York audience early in the new year. Cyril Scott will be seen in a new play called The Little Brown Jug, dramatized by Owen Kildare from the novel of that name. Tim Murphy will play the Rupert Hughes play, My Boy, for an early southern tour and later come to New York for a season of American comedies, among them A Corner in Coffee, Old Innocence and Cupid and The Dollar, which have been successfully played by him out of New York. Wright Lorimer will continue in The Shepherd King on an extended tour, visiting the Pacific Coast for the first time. Way Down East will be sent to its usual city strongholds for its fourteenth annual tour. The Master Key, by Cosmo Hamilton, with a special company and no starring will be done in New York before November 1. I have new plays by George Broadhurst, Thompson Buchanan, Harrison Rhodes and Thomas A. Wise, Edward Peple, James Fagan and Frederick Lonsdale, that I will present during the season as the opportunity offers. In association with Joseph R. Grismer, the Gentleman from Mississippi company, headed by Thomas A. Wise and Douglas Fairbanks, now playing at the Amsterdam Roof, will be moved back to the Bijou Theater for a final month before going to the Park Theater, Boston, for a season run. The company presenting the same play headed by Burr McIntosh, which has been in Chicago for the past five months, will close there October 2 and play its season in the Middle West. Another Mississippi company, with James Lackaye as Senator Langdon, spends its season in the Far West. A fourth organization, headed by Robert A. Fischer, introduces The Gentleman to his neighbors in the South. And the fifth, headed by Scott Cooper, covers the territory adjacent to this city. The Man of the Hour still retains enough life to warrant us sending three companies over different parts of the country. About the middle of September, Mr. Grismer and I will produce at the Bijou Theatre The Intruder, a new play by Thompson Buchanan, the author of A Woman's Way. Cyril Scott will play a leading comedy role in this production prior to his starring tour. Phoebe Davies will later be presented in a new play entitled The Tie That Binds, by W. S. Hurlburt, author of the Fighting Hope. In the spring Wise and Fairbanks will separate as co-stars, each heading his own organization, Mr. Fairbanks producing The Machinations of Charles Edwards, by Harrison Rhodes, and Mr. Wise appearing in a comedy from his own pen, provisionally titled An Old New Yorker. Mr. Burr McIntosh will also figure as a star in a late spring production of a comedy drama, the scenes of which are laid in Japan and will create a novel American character. I shall also make two all-star revivals of old successful plays during the season.

Dates Ahead

A GIRL AT THE HELM (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Detroit, Aug. 29, Sept. 4; Milwaukee, 5-11; Peoria, 12-15; Springfield, 16-18; Chicago, 19-25; St. Louis, 26 to Oct. 2.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Walla Walla, Sept. 1; Yakima, 2; Ellensburg, 3; Aberdeen, 4; Seattle, 5-11; Tacoma, 12; Victoria, 13; Vancouver, 14-15; Westminster, 16; Bellingham, 17; Everett, 18; Portland, 19-21; Eugene, 22; Red Bluff, 24; Marysville, 25; Frisco, 26 to Oct. 1.

ALCAZAR STOCK.—San Francisco.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Bozeman, August 21; Frazee, prop.)—Wallace, Aug. 28; Spokane, 29-31.

AS THE SUN WENT DOWN (Arthur C. Aiston.)—Binghamton, Aug. 28; Syracuse, 30-Sept. 1; Elmira, 2; Dansville, 3; Niagara Falls, 4; Buffalo, 6, week; Akron, 13-15; Youngstown, 16-18; Salem, 20; New Philadelphia, 21; Dayton, 22-25; Cleveland, 27, week.

BELASCO STOCK CO.—Los Angeles.

BISHOP'S PLAYERS.—In stock, Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland.

BUFFALO BILL - PAWNEE BILL SHOWS.—Kearney, Nebr., Sept. 2.

ELLEFORD CO.—Roseville, Aug. 30; Sacramento, 31-Sept. 1-4.

FISCHER'S MUSICAL STOCK.—San Francisco.

GUY SMITH STOCK.—Oakland, Cal.

LITTLE JOHNNY JONES (Chas. L. Crane)—Pottstown, Pa., August 28; Norristown, 30; Huntingdon, 31; Clearfield, Sept. 2; Du Bois, 3; Punxsutawney, 4; Wheeling, W. Va., 6; Cambridge, Ohio, 13; Zanesville, 14; Coshocton, 15; Newark, 16; Lancaster, 17; Circleville, 18; Columbus, 20-22; Delaware, 23; Marysville, 24; Bellefontaine, 25; Piqua, 28; Wapakoneta, 29; St. Mary's, 30.

MCKENZIE'S MERRY-MAKERS.—Marshfield, Sept. 23, 4 weeks.

MERRY WIDOW (Henry W. Savage.)—Cheyenne, Aug. 27-28; MOROSCO'S BURBANK STOCK.—Los Angeles.

PAID IN FULL.—Fresno, Aug. 28; Los Angeles, 30, and week; San Diego, Sept. 5-6; Santa Ana, 7; San Bernardino, 8; Bakersfield, 9; Hanford, 10; Sacramento, 11; Eugene, 13; Salem, 14; Astoria, 15; Portland, 16-17-18; Seattle, 20 and week; Tacoma, 26-27; Victoria, 28; Vancouver, 29-30; Bellingham, Oct. 1; Everett, 2; Ellensburg, 4; Spokane, 5-6; Missoula, 7; Butte, 8-9; Great Falls, 10; Helena, 11; Bozeman, 12; Livingston, 13; Billings, 14; Dickinson, 15; Bismarck or Jamestown, 17; Fargo, 18.

POLLY OF THE CIRCUS.—Seattle, August 15-28; Everett, 29; Bellingham, 30; Vancouver, 31-Sept. 2; Westminster, 3; Victoria, 4; Tacoma, 5-7; Ellensburg, 8; North Yakima, 9; Walla Walla, 10-11; Spokane, 12-15; Missoula, 16; Helena, 17; Great Falls, 18; Butte, 19-20; Anaconda, 21; Bozeman, 22; Livingston, 23; Billings, 24-25; Denver, 27-Oct. 3.

RAYMOND TEAL.—Phoenix till Aug. 16; then Tucson for four weeks.

RICHARDS & PRINGLE'S MINSTRELS.—(Holland & Filkins.)—Texarkana, Aug. 28; Shreveport, 29; Marshall, 30; Jefferson, 31.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Eastern), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—St. Louis, Sept. 5-11; Springfield, 12-15; Peoria, 16-17-18; Milwaukee, 19-25; St. Paul, 26 to Oct. 2.

RINGLIN'S CIRCUS.—Red Bluff, Aug. 30; Chico, 31; Marysville, Sept. 1; Sacramento, 2; Santa Rosa, 3; Napa, 4; Oakland, 5-6; Santa Cruz, 7; Salinas, 8; San Francisco, 9-13; San Jose, 14; Stockton, 15; Fresno, 16; Visalia, 17; Bakersfield, 18; Santa Barbara, 20; Los Angeles, 21-22; Santa Ana, 24; San Bernardino, 25; Phoenix, 27; Tucson, 28.

THE CAT AND THE FIDDLE (Chas. A. Sellon, mgr.)—Valley City, Aug. 31; Jamestown, Sept. 1; Bismarck, 2; Mandan, 3; Dickinson, 4; Miles City, 6; Billings, 7; Livingston, 8; Bozeman, 9; Anaconda, 10; Butte, 11-12; Great Falls, 13; Helena, 14; Missoula, 15; Wallace, 16; Colfax, 17; Spokane, 18-19; Sprague, 20; Walla Walla, 21; N. Yakima, 22; Ellensburg, 23; Tacoma, 24-25; Seattle, 26 to Oct. 2.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Great Falls, Sept. 1; Helena, 2; Missoula, 3; Wallace, 4; Spokane, 5-6; Walla Walla, 7; Yakima, 8; Tacoma, 9; Aberdeen, 10; Chehalis, 11; Seattle, 12-18; Portland, 19-25; Astoria, 26; Salem, 27; Albany, 28; Eugene, 29; Roseburg, 30.

THE MISSOURI GIRL (Merle H. Norton, lessee; Joseph Rith, mgr.)—Norris City, Aug. 28; Harrisburg, 29-30; Benton, 31; West Frankfort, Sept. 1; Marion, 2; Vienna, 3; Mound City, 4; Cairo, 5; Paducah, Ky., 6; Charleston, Mo., 7; Portageville, 8; Blytheville, Ark., 9; Caruthersville, Mo., 10; Hayti, 11; Kennett, 13; Campbell, 14; Rector, Ark., 15; Jonesboro, 16.

THE SOUL KISS (Albert Hoogs, bus. mgr.)—Richmond, Va., Aug. 30-31; Norfolk, Sept. 1; Lynchburg, 2; Danville, 3; Charlotte, 4; Columbia, 6; Augusta, 7; Charleston, 8; Savannah, 9; Jacksonville, 10; Macon, 11; Chattanooga, 13; Birmingham, 14; Atlanta, 15-16; Montgomery, 17; Mobile, 18; New Orleans, Tulane Theatre, 19, week; Baton Rouge, 26; Natchez, 27; Vicksburg, 28; Memphis, 29-30; Little Rock, Oct. 1; Hot Springs, 2; Dallas, 4-5; Fort Worth, 6-7; Waco, 8; San Antonio, 9-10; Austin, 11; Galveston, 12; Houston, 13-14; Beaumont, 15; Shreveport, 16-17; McAlester, 19; Muskogee, 20; Tulsa, 21; Oklahoma, 22-23; Denver, Broadway Theatre, 25, week.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (Eastern), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Peoria, Aug. 29 to Sept. 1; Springfield, 2-4; Chicago, 5-11; Detroit, 12-18; Toledo, 19-25; Louisville, 26 to Oct. 2.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (Western) (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Spokane, Aug. 29 to Sept. 4; Seattle, 5-11; Aberdeen, 12; Tacoma, 13-14; Victoria, 15; Vancouver, 16-17; Westminster, 18; Bellingham, 19; Everett, 20; Chehalis, 22; Portland, 23-24-25; Corvallis, 27; Chico, 29; Sacramento, 30.

YANKEE DOODLE STOCK COMPANY.—(Geo. V. Haliday.)—Superior, until Sept. 5; Chippewa Falls, 6-12.

Carter, the magician, who was to play the Garrick, has been cancelled.

A $10,000 prize is offered by the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York for the best opera by an American, submitted to it by September 15th.

The Gift of the Golden West will go in advance of David Belasco's ahead of Roger Brothers in Panama. WALTER MESSENGER, last season

Slightly Worn Wardrobe for Stage Purposes

Ladies' Handsome Evening Gowns and Opera Coats; good as new; in latest styles. Men's Full Dress and Tuxedo Suits. MRS. H. JACOBS, 1050 Golden Gate Avenue, Store Phone West 2185, Residence Phone Park 4293.

Hotel St. James

Cor. Van Ness Ave. and Fulton St.
San Francisco, California

Headquarters for Agents and Managers

Half Block from Van Ness Theatre.
Friars meet at the St. James every Friday night.

F. P. SHANLEY, Manager, formerly of New York

Grass Valley Rotten Eggs Coon Show

GRASS VALLEY, Aug. 23.—Negro performers with the Fer-Don traveling medicine company were given a stale egg reception here today. One of the negroes was chased down the street and severely beaten. The trouble grew out of some alleged remarks made to some white women.

The Orpheum

The Orpheum bill for next week will have as its foremost feature John Hyams and Leila McIntyre, in a new vehicle called The Quakeress. Miss McIntyre has in Priscilla Parker, the Quakeress, a role which fits her to a nicety, while Mr. Hyams is merely called upon to personate himself in his habit as he lives, which he does amusingly and agreeably. George W. Cunningham and Herman Marion will present an Acrobatic Talkfest. It is all this peculiar title implies, combining acrobatic comedy, singing, dancing and amusing quips. Rose Royal will introduce her famous Arabian posing horse, Chesterfield. This beautiful white steed is made the subject of a series of pictures, including The Dead Soldier, The Wounded Horse and The Dead Charger. Catherine Hayes and Sabel Johnson, heavy-weight comedienne, who have already distinguished themselves in many American comic operas, will appear in a new travesty called A Dream of Baby Days, in which by means of a novel transformation they revert to the days of their childhood without reducing their avoirdupois. Imagine a two-hundred-pound Buster Brown and some idea can be gained of the fun evoked. Next week will be the last of Joseph Hart's Bathing Girls, The Thalia Quartette, Carson and Willard, and of George Auger, the tallest actor in the world, and his company in the tremendously successful fairy tale, Jack the Giant Killer. A particularly interesting series of motion pictures will be an appropriate ending to a delightful entertainment.

Valencia Theatre

After a run which lasted for more than one year at the fashionable Hackett Theatre, New York, the Messrs. Shubert will bring the entire production and cast of The Witching Hour, which is headed by that sterling actor, John Mason, to the Valencia Theatre, for the two weeks starting this Sunday evening, August 29th. Every critic in New York considered The Witching Hour to be the best play that Augustus Thomas has ever written, and at the same time the best that has been produced in New York in a decade. During its long run in the metropolis, the theatre was packed to its utmost capacity at every performance by enthusiastic theatre-goers. Augustus Thomas, the author of this delightful four-act drama (it is not a comedy), has succeeded in writing what is considered to be the long-awaited for great American play. In order to enjoy the distinction of being such a composition, it must embody, aside from its subject-matter, the treatment that will create for it the commendation of the public that lasts not for one day or a month, but for years. The dean of dramatic critics of America, William Winter, in language plain and perspicuous, declares The Witching Hour to be "the play of the century." Without attempting to be academic, Mr. Thomas has taken for the motive of his play the all-absorbing subject of telepathy and dynamic thought and weaved it into a story that holds the attention of the playgoer from the very first line until the final curtain. Without attempting to teach, The Witching Hour dissipates certain prejudices that have obtained for years and years, and shows clearly that preconceived ideas born of superstitious fancies have no logical standing. The cast includes all of the New York favorites. Matinees will be given on Wednesday and Saturday.

Alcazar Theatre

That there would be a second week of The Lion and the Mouse at the Alcazar was assured by the play's initial performance there last Monday night, for never in the history of the Sutter Street home of drama was there a more enthusiastic audience, while the reappearance of Evelyn Vaughan and Will R. Walling had much to do with creating the enthusiasm. It was the play itself and the way in which it was interpreted that gripped and held the interest of the people in front after the personal ovations had been given and acknowledged, and everyone who witnessed it went forth to praise. So, as in the case of its predecessor, The Squaw Man, a fortnight's run of The Lion and the Mouse was guaranteed ere the final curtain fell during its first presentation. Admirable as is the individual and "team" work of the three players mentioned, much of the success of the performance is due to the unusually fine balance of the entire cast. There is not one jarring note in the dramatis personae. Even the minor players—those who are more essential to the coherence of the plot than to the upholding of the histrionism—act as though upon each of them devolved entire responsibility for the whole production. It is this spirit of esprit de corps that makes even a mediocre play go well at the Alcazar. It is announced that the coming week will positively be the last one of The Lion and the Mouse, as a contract that cannot be profitably canceled demands that The Taming of Helen be presented on Monday evening, September 6th.

Garrick Theatre

The Garrick starts its season with the John Cort bookings a week from tomorrow night with the French farce, The Girl from Rectors. This

MOROSCO'S
BURBANK THEATRE
Los Angeles, Cal.
"The Best in the West"
The Leading Stock House

HOME OFFICE
BURBANK THEATRE BUILDING
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Oliver Morosco's Plays

Ready for Stock

The Judge and the Jury

The Halfbreed

The Empress and the Soldier
In South Car'liney

Is the New Majestic a winner? Well, we guess yes

ANNUAL
TOUR OF

THE ELLEFORD COMPANY

IN LATEST DRAMATIC ROYALTY SUCCESSES
Pacific Coast Representative for Brady and Grimmer's
MAN OF THE HOUR and WAY DOWN EAST

W. J. ELLEFORD, Sole Proprietor and Director
WILLIS BASS, Business Manager

FRANK WYMAN, Manager
Permanent Address, Francis-Valentine Co., 285-287 13th St., S. F.

ance enjoys a record run in New York City, where it occupied the boards at Jos. Weber's Music Hall for a year. Its original version, the one in French by Pierre Veber, was called Loute, after the name of its title character, and was the vogue in European capitals for the last four seasons. In Paris alone the piece ran for one thousand consecutive nights, while in Berlin, Vienna and Brussels it was accorded tremendous success. The plot deals with a young society matron of Battle Creek, Mich., whose husband is often away on long missions for the diplomatic service, being stationed in Shanghai, China. During his absence she has always maintained a decidedly domestic life, devoted to the charitable institutions of her native town. Becoming restless, however, she plunges into the gay life of New York, to find that she likes the environment of the famous "Rector" cafe. Here she meets many of her neighbors, who, like herself, are "doing" the metropolis, and on her return to Battle Creek at a social reception by one of her friends, she comes face to face with many of the "Rector" set. The explanations which follow make out one of the brightest, funniest comedies ever sent out from any author's brain, and it is promised that there is not one moment in the unraveling of the entire plot that is not productive of side-splitting laughter. The Girl from Rectors stays at the Garrick for two weeks, with holiday matinees on Monday and Thursday and regular matinees on Saturdays, Sundays and Thursdays. Seats will be ready Wednesday.

New Oxnard Opera House

OXNARD, CAL.
Factory Town and Wealthy Country
Five Thousand Population
New House and Doing Big Business
Write for Open Dates
GEO. P. AUSTIN . . . . . Manager

GONZALES OPERA HOUSE

GONZALES, CAL.
New, well appointed theatre, electric lighted,
full stock of new scenery.
C. H. WIDEMAN, Mgr.

WOODLAND Opera House

WOODLAND, CAL.
Greatest show town for good shows in the West. A few good dates open in September and October. Stage big enough for any production. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

Hill Opera House

PETALUMA, CAL.
JOHN R. ROCHE, Lessee and Manager
The finest theatrical town outside of the big cities in the West. Magnificent new theatre, with stage large enough for any attraction, playing regularly from $500 to $700 a night. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.
287 Thirteenth St., S. F.

BARCROFT Opera House, Merced

Entirely remodeled. New stage, big enough for any production. Stage equipped with new scenery. Merced has 4,000 population. For time write F. R. BARCROFT, Manager.

Santa Cruz OPERA HOUSE

Santa Cruz, Cal.
L. A. KNIGHT, Manager
Rental or will play first-class companies on percentage

H. Leven

H. Oppenheim

GORDAN TAILORING CO.

928 Market St., Bet. Powell and Mason
FINE CLOTHES MODERATE PRICES
No Branch Stores

NEW AUDITORIUM

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CAL.
Seating capacity, 1,000; new stage; new scenery; stage thirty feet deep, sixty feet wide; large enough for any production, a population of 5,000 to draw from; now booking for 1909-10.
Address WALTER A. CLARK, Mountain View, Cal.

BOTH TREMENDOUS SUCCESSES!

The Defiance of Doris

and

Running For Governor

Two Comedy-Dramas that have pleased everybody—managers, actors and audiences—whenever and wherever put on. Get good press notices and big box office returns. For terms, address,

Great Western Play Agency

Van Ness Theatre Building
San Francisco

Madison's Budget No. 12, Just Out
Parent's Stationery Co., 818 Van Ness Avenue, S.F.

Correspondence

LONG BEACH, August 21.—L. H. Bentley, owner; Perry Girton, manager. The Girton stock company are now on their third week and are doing very good business. The company is well liked and very popular. First-class productions are being presented since Mr. Girton has taken the management. This week they are giving us a beautiful production of The Merchant of Venice. The costumes are gorgeous with elaborate scenery. Mr. Joseph De Grasse is playing a special engagement for one week, playing the part of Shylock and is giving us a good piece of acting as has ever been seen here. Iva Shepard is seen in Portia to good advantage. She gives a finished portrayal of this role. Miss Shepard is one of the prettiest and most popular leading women we have yet had. In each of her many different roles she has played here she shows good ability. James Guy Usher, Corbett Morris, rank Bonner, Chester Stevens and Stan Twist are all seen to good advantage, as does the ladies, Marjorie Dalton and Josephine Dillon. Richard Scott joins the company next week as director. The roster of the company is as follows: Corbett Morris, James Guy Usher, Richard Scott, Chester Stevens, Frank Bonner, Stan Twist, Nat Holmes, Harry Willard, Perry Girton, Iva Shepard, Josephine Dillon, Marjorie Dalton, Nine Gilbert and Mrs. Shaw. Hyde-a-Wyle, Frank M. Clark, lessee and manager. Vaudeville rules at this house, playing to good business. This week Steele and McMasters, acrobats, Ballard and Albert, a comedy sketch, Daisy Cort, the magnetic girl, Frances Holland Tait and Risner and Gores, singers and dancers. The three moving picture shows are all doing capacity business.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Cal., August 23.—The new theatre, managed by Walter A. Clark, opened last Thursday with Frank Bacon, Wilfred Roger, Jane Weideman and Louise Brownell in the cast of Young Mrs. Winthrop. The house was packed.

TACOMA, August 21.—That the people of Tacoma were anxious to see The Girl From Rector's was evidenced by big business August 15th and 16th. This spicy show was well acted, and the comedy of William Selery was sufficiently novel to be a big hit. John J. Clark is a capable actor and was ably assisted in the fun by Dwight Allen and Edward Burton. Carrie Weber as the girl was excellent in her part; in fact the whole support was satisfying. The piece was well staged. August 25th, concert by choir of Mormon Tabernacle; August 27th, Ferris Hartman in The Yankee Consul; August 29th and 31st, Polly of the Circus. So far it looks as if Tacoma would have no stock company during the winter. The only available building is the Savoy Theatre, and as the building inspector announces that at least $5,000 must be expended in needed repairs it hardly seems likely that any one will care to invest that amount on as uncertain a proposition as this playhouse has always proved itself. Ringling Brothers circus showed here to-day, doing its usual good business. The show was satisfactory in every respect. The vaudeville houses are presenting evenly balanced bills. No great features have been offered at either house for some time, but a general average of attractive offerings has been maintained.

A. H. SPOKANE, August 22.—The Spokane Theatre is dark this week. The opening attraction will be The Time, the Place and the Girl, week of 29th. The Auditorium will be formally opened 27-29 with A Gentleman From Mississippi. The Orpheum is celebrating the first anniversary of the opening of the Orpheum Theatre with one of the best bills that have been seen there for some weeks. The bill includes Rosario Guerrero, assisted by Sig. L. Paglieri in a musical pantomime, The Rose and the Dagger, Margaret Fealy Company, a one-act play in Witch's Hour and Candle Light; Charles Murray and Ollie Mack in their latest offering to vaudeville, After the Celebration; Tom Waters in song, dance, story, mimicry; Spaulding-Riego, fun on the flying trapeze; The Girl Behind the Veil, Charles Weber, eccentric juggler, and motion pictures. Next week, Jessie Shirley and company will appear in The First Woman Governor. The Washington presents a strong bill this week, which includes McLellan-Carson, the world's greatest roller skaters; Johanna Matt, classy musicians; Flo Paterson, singer of Southern melodies; Bissonette-Newman in West Point cadet pastimes; Florence Modena company and motion pictures. The usual good bill at Pantages this week, The Three Dewans, The Doric Trio, Justus-Romain company, Marks Brothers, Naida company, William D. Gilson and moving pictures. Charles York, well known on the Coast, has been appointed manager of the Spokane Theatre to succeed Charles Muchman, who resigned and has gone to New York. Mr. York is well known in San Francisco, and has many friends who will wish him success in his new field. He was manager of the Bungalow Theatre in Salt Lake, also in Portland and Los Angeles.

SMYTH.

PORTLAND, August 23.—The Bungalow Theatre reopened last night with The Girl From Rector's, and the play was received by a big house. It remains for the entire week. The Girl From Rector's proved to be the most daring thing ever offered in a first-class theatre in this city. The company is good. Manager James H. Erickson offered a good bill to the patrons of the Orpheum last week, Hyams and McIntyre being the head liners, and they well sustaining their positions. Miss McIntyre is just about as clever a piece of femininity as has come this way, and the male part of the sketch compares favorably with any of them. The bill for this week is as follows: Lasky's at the Country Club, Sig. Luciana Lucca, Gardner and Revere, Arlington Four, Ruby Raymond, The McGrady's and Marceilles. At the Lyric Keating & Flood are offering the Athlon stock company in The Plunger this week. They are giving the play a fine scenic production. Priscilla Knowles is one of the best leading women this house has

CHAS. F. THOMPSON SCENIC CO.

MAIN OFFICE AND STUDIOS, 460, 462, 464 WITMER STREET, LOS ANGELES

THE FINEST, LARGEST AND MOST MODERN SCENIC STUDIOS IN THE WORLD. SCENERY FOR OPERA HOUSES AND PRODUCTIONS. DROP CURTAINS AND SCENIC ADVERTISING DROP CURTAINS OUR SPECIALTY. IN USE IN 1268 THEATRES IN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA. WHY NOT YOURS?

LEVY'S BIG TRUNK STORE

INCORPORATED

COAST AGENTS

FOR THE

Taylor Trunks

687 Market St., S. F. opp. Kearny Phone Douglas 3192 GENERAL REPAIRING

ever had and the supporting stock company averages up well. They will no doubt have a very successful season at this house. The Grand, under the management of Frank Coffinberry, offers the following acts for this week: Hugh Lloyd, Boltaire, Tom Bateman, Harvard and Cornelle, La Maze Brothers, Si Dodd and company and Fred Bauer. Pantages has Pollard-Fischer company, the operatta, the Gypsy Wayfarers, Davine and Williams, John Buckley, Leo White, Sandor Trio and Doranto. Ringling Brothers circus is here to-morrow and following day. The Mormon Tabernacle choir are at the Baker to-morrow night.

Next season Charles Frohman will add two stars to his already lengthy list. Although both of these are English—Gerald du Maurier and Irene Vanbrugh—they will each head separate organizations. Mr. du Maurier is now rehearsing his part in Arsene Lupin, and Miss Vanbrugh the chief role she is shortly to play in Pinero's Mid-Channel.

Novelty Theatre, San Francisco
TO RENT

By the day, week or month. Fine, comfortable theatre, seating 1,200 people. Large stage.
SPECIALLY ADAPTED TO POLITICAL MEETINGS

LOW RATES TO Alaska-Yukon-Pacific ...Exposition...

FOR ROUND TRIP TICKETS

FROM		FROM
San Francisco .....	$32.50	Suisun .....	$32.50
Sacramento .....	32.50	Davis .....	32.50
Lathrop .....	32.50	Napa .....	32.75
Stockton .....	32.50	Santa Rosa .....	33.60
Tracy .....	32.50	Calistoga .....	33.95

Greatly reduced rates from other points in California. Tickets sold daily May 25 to Sept. 30, and cover two months' trip going and coming via the famous

Shasta Route of the Southern Pacific

Stopovers going and coming.

Many other routes at slightly higher rates for you to select from.

Write or call on our nearest agent for full details of service, etc., or address

DEPT. ADV., 948 FLOOD BUILDING, FOR INFORMATION

Richard Bennett Closes at the Belasco in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—Much interest is being displayed by theatregoers in the numerous changes which are taking place in the personnel of the Belasco company. Last week we noted two important changes, and now comes word of still other changes. Beatrice Noyes closed a year's engagement with the company last Sunday night. The last of this week she will leave for New York, where she will either accept an offer with the Shuberts or will play the lead in Polly of the Circus. The resignation of Stage Director Hartford is in the hands of Mr. Blackwood, although this is not announced yet. Mr. Hartford will be succeeded by Harry Andrews, a man of considerable Eastern experience. Louis Morrison has resigned and his place will be taken by W. H. Freeman, who has been with Thomas Jefferson's company. Thais Magrane, the new leading woman of the Belasco company, will make her first appearance on the Belasco stage next Monday night in the American comedy drama, The Way of the World. Richard Bennett will make his farewell appearance with the Belasco company at this time. September 6 will mark the fifth anniversary of the Belasco Theatre. This date will also celebrate the return to the Belasco stage of the popular leading man, Lewis S. Stone, in Edwin Milton Royle's The Squaw Man. Frank E. Camp, the new second man of the company, and Florence Rittenhouse, the new soubrette, will both appear for the first time on the Belasco stage. Lillian Hayward is playing this week with the Burbank company. She has been especially engaged by the management of the Grand to play the role of Lady Isabel in the coming revival of East Lynne, which will follow The King of Tramps. Oliver Morosco and Joseph Montrose have returned from their vacations spent in the Tehachapi country. They have been roughing it for the most part, but have had a genuinely good time and a rest from all things theatrical. Sidle Lawrence, the genial press agent of the Burbank and Majestic Theatres, left Los Angeles last Thursday for a vacation trip to his old home in Minneapolis. It is probable that when he returns he will be more than willing to remain in our midst, satisfied that Los Angeles is the best place on earth. George M. Clayton, the popular treasurer of the Belasco Theatre, and Percy Bronson, a former member of the Kolb and Dill forces, left Monday for Cold Brook Camp, where they will spend two weeks hunting and fishing and forgetting about their work. During Mr. Clayton's absence Ira Joseph will succeed to his position in the Belasco box-office. Arrangements have been practically completed whereby Ferris Hartman takes over the Grand for a year. He will open in about seven weeks, with Dorothy Morton as his leading woman and with The Yankee Consul as his first bill. There will be several familiar faces in the company. Among them will be noticed Walter de Leon and Muggins Davies de Leon. Leo Wells will probably be the treasurer of the Auditorium, under the Shubert management, and Clifford Bernard will be the assistant treasurer. Lillian Burkhart and Harry Mestayer are planning to give a series of literary matinees at the Majestic Theatre this fall, under the patronage of a little group of club women. They plan to stage some of the less widely known dramas of Ibsen, Maeterlinck, Sudermann and Hauptmann. It is understood that no play will be offered which has ever been seen on a local stage. Kolb and Dill will open their season at the Majestic, September 5, in Dream City. It is rumored that C. William Kolb has secured the Western rights to The Girl Behind the Counter.

BELASCO—The first Western production of Pierre of the Plains is being given by the Belasco company this week. It is a wonderfully clever production and we have at last had a chance to see Richard Bennett in a part that demands some acting. This is distinctly a one-part play, and the Pierre of Mr. Bennett holds the center of the stage at all times. He works out all the traits and tricks with which the author has endowed the character, and Bennett is seen at his best in the part. It is the first opportunity we have had to see the real actor, and he certainly comes up to our expectations. There are many flaws in the drama itself, but these are covered by the clever acting of the company. There are times when the play is very talky and the action drags, but one soon forgets all this in watching the real art of the players. Bennett makes Pierre, the lackadaisical romantic hero, a very interesting character. He has the patois—equally French, English and Indian to perfection. Charles Ruggles does very good work as Matt Brady, "Galbraith's man of all work." Sheldon Lewis makes much of the part of Jap Durkin, the guide who has it in for Pierre all the time. Richard Vivian is well cast as Sergeant Redding, in love with Jen Galbraith. David Hartford is also cast as a sergeant of mounted police. Helen Holmes is sweet and pleasing as the heroine, Jen Galbraith. The parts of the Indian and squaw are taken by Harry Spears and Adele Farrington. Mr. Applebee is Father Coraine; Louis Morrison, Peter Galbraith, and Charles Giblyn is the son, Val Galbraith.

BURBANK—William J. Locke's dramatization of his own novel, The Morals of Marcus, is the offering at the Burbank this week. This play has been very recently produced locally and the story is well known. As produced by the Burbank company it has lost none of its charm, but is indeed one of the finest things that this able company has done. Mr. Beasley in the part of Sir Marcus is ideal. The part fits him admirably; his emotional scenes are not overdone in the least, but seem just as they were intended by the author. Miss Hall, in the role of Carlotta, has a part that suits her well. Lovell Alice Taylor is well cast as Judith Mainwaring, and as usual she wears some stunning costumes. Mr. Mestayer and Frederick Gilbert are cast as the "bad men," Sebastian Pasquale and Hamdi Effendi. Both are clever characterizations. The balance of the company is well cast. Marie Doro closed her season in The Morals of Marcus in New York last Saturday night. The following afternoon the comedy was played for the first time in stock at the Burbank Theatre. This establishes a new record for Los Angeles stock organizations.

MASON—The Climax is still doing good business at the Mason Opera House for the second week. This is a pretty comedy, well acted, and the company deserves the splendid patronage it is receiving at the hands of the theatregoing public.

GRAND—The King of Tramps, W. A. Tremayne's melodrama, is pleasing patrons of the Grand this week. It is truly a very good play and the present production is excellent. There is more plot than is usual in these plays, and there is also a pretty love story with its customary happy ending. George Webb plays the title role, and is a most satisfactory King of Tramps. Grace Rauworth plays the heroine, and it is by far the best work she has done since the opening of the season. Harry Earl is well cast as the villain. The character parts are in the hands of Jack McDonald, William Harris and Gertrude Claire. Frank Frayne has the comedy role of the newsboy. The staging is good.

ORPHEUM—The holdovers are the best numbers on the Orpheum program this week. They include Lily Lena's songs, the pictures of the Gibson Girl Review, Julius Tannen's dry wit and the acrobatic work of the Donals. The best of the new acts is Sam Watson's farmyard circus. He trains roosters, geese, sheep, dogs, a donkey, and finally a little squealing pink pig, to do stunts. Griff is billed as a "jesting juggler." There is nothing very new to his act. Herbert and Willing work in blackface. Walter Schrode and Lizzie Mulvey present a comedy and specialty act, entitled A Theatrical Agency. This number is only fair, the best part of it being the acrobatic dance of the pair. As a whole the bill is not up to the standard.

LOS ANGELES—The headliner at the Los Angeles for the week is being furnished by two local favorites. Carl Berch and Franklin Hall appear in the playlet entitled The Turning Point. It is a clever piece and is very well acted by our friends from the Grand. Billy Windom, the minstrel man, is also on the bill and is very funny in his skit, called The Colored Nurse Girl. The Prentice troupe of acrobats do some good work, as do the Juggling Jordons. Rose Stevens sings three songs well and she also has a very pleasing stage presence. Silveno and company of two offer entertainment with their shadowgraphs. Barnes, Reming and company have a very good sketch called Mrs. Potter's First. Motion pictures conclude a very good bill.

FISCHER'S—Allen Curtis has chosen for his playlet at Fischer's this week, The Wishing Cap. It is a one-act musical comedy with many funny situations and is full of snap and wideawake songs. Mr. Curtis in the role of Mr. Budweiser has a very different part from those in which we are accustomed to seeing him. The Wishing Cap is hardly up to the standard of plays that have been produced by Mr. Curtis, but the chorus numbers make up in a measure for what the piece lacks otherwise. The electrical effects in Miss Hathaway's song, Glow Worm, are very attractive. We are told that there will be a new leading man and a soubrette in the company.

UNIQUE—Edwin T. Emery is successful in his first week at the Unique as producer. The Millionaire is the title of the playlet. Mr. Emery in the title role is pleasing. Denton Vane has the juvenile lead and his interpretation of the role is very clever. Alice Douvee is the new leading woman; she is pretty and graceful as well as clever. Hazel Salmon, the soubrette, has one of the best roles yet assigned to her. She has a dance with Al Franks and Mr. Emery and makes a decided hit. Al Franks, Miss Constance and Herbert Cramer all have good parts. Sytz and Sytz present a novelty act. They introduce singing, dancing and acrobatic work and quick change of costume. The other vaudeville number is furnished by the Russian troupe of dancers. An illustrated song and motion pictures conclude the bill. FLORENCE EMERY.

CHICO—The theatrical season here will open Friday night, September 3, when The Girl from Rector's will be presented. C. E. Brazier has been appointed manager of the local playhouse. Mr. Brazier states that many first-class attractions have already been booked for the coming winter. C. H. CHACE.

ONTARIO, Aug. 20.—A. Barber, manager of the local opera house, has completed arrangements whereby the local house will be hereafter on a circuit of five shows. The other houses will be located at Colton, Chino, Oxnard, Redlands and probably Covina. At the present time Mr. Barber is making arrangements with Kelly & Gambold of Los Angeles for the organizing of one of the best musical comedy companies which has ever played, including a large part of the former Fischer company, according to report, and several big "lights" in the theatrical world will play leading parts. This company has a large repertoire, and will be able to offer to the local public something different each evening. This week Manager Barber is offering Day and Weeks, in blackface; Alfredo, eccentric, and Leslie Forrest in illustrated songs. FLORENCE EMERY.

CHIC PERKINS.—(Frank G. King, mgr.)—Woodward, Sept. 1-2; Boone, 3; Iowa Falls, 4; Cedar Rapids, 5; Seymour, 6; Bloomfield, 7; Moravia, 8-9; North English, 10-11; Buxton, 13; Hartman, 14; Milton, 15; Mystic, 16; Wayland, 17-18; Winfield, 20-21; Kalona, 22-23; Wellman, 24-25; Deep River, 27; Marengo, 28; Dysart, 29; Reinbeck, 30.

Girls appears at the Alhambra in Seattle next week, to be followed by Corinne, then Going Some.

Correspondence

DENVER, August 23.—The pulse of Denver went down this morning! The soothing balm was the departure last night of The Merry Widow. The most amusing thing about the Denver public's acceptance of the opera was the general exclamation, "Why, I thought The Merry Widow was very naughty!" It seems we Mile Highers refuse sugar-coated goodies; we want them in the raw. If there is anything on the stage that comes nearer, as Tom Masson would say, "to the married man's heaven" than The Merry Widow, let's see it! It is certainly short on morals and long on lingerie! It has the Oriental abandon and the American adulation for Continental cafes and ballet dancers. The society leaders and prospective buds had to step aside last week for the stage favorites. May Buckley of the Dustin Farnum company, Christine Norman, the leading woman of the Elitch stock company, and our own Maude Fealy held the center of the social stage the past week. May Buckley was the house guest of Mrs. Edward Scholtz while playing here, and on last Monday afternoon Mrs. Elitch-Long, the owner of Elitch's Gardens, started the social whirl with a luncheon under the spreading trees at the Gardens with Misses Buckley, Norman and Fealy as the guests of honor. It was a welcome back for Bay Buckley and Maude Fealy and a farewell to Miss Norman, who closed her engagement at Elitch's in The College Widow. Miss Buckley is a favorite here, as her many weeks of work as leading woman at the Gardens made her hosts of admirers, but with Miss Fealy it is the advent of opening all arms when she comes home to Denver to play for us. Her presentation of Merely Mary Ann at the Gardens this week was a delightful and excellent piece of work and she scored tremendously in the role of the "slavey girl." Miss Fealy is ethereal and spirituelle in the role of Mary Ann, rising to great depths of tenderness as the character of the child unfolds. Her presentation of Peter Pan is a foregone conclusion in her portrayal of Miss Adams' banner role. A theatre has been promised the South Side, in fact, South Denver expects to become a thriving community unto itself, just as is the South Side in Chicago, and South St. Louis in the Missouri metropolis. It is announced that a modern theatre erected by Fleming Bros. of Denver will occupy the ground adjoining the First Avenue Hotel on the north and fronting on Broadway. The house will have a seating capacity of 1,500 and will cost $50,000. The Majestic, the house owned by Sullivan & Considine in Denver and managed by Mr. McCoy is doing a great business. The Shuberts, who had promised to fill all the time at the Curtis, the independent family theatre, have fallen down and Pelton & Smutzer, the managers, have announced a season of stock, commencing after the close of Going Some at the Curtis this week. A good stock company ought to be a money-making scheme at the Curtis, but we have had too much of Theodore Lorch down there and the clientele of the Curtis has been offended beyond patience. The house is clean and airy, the stage well equipped and with hustling men at the helm, why, with a good company, can not the Curtis mark up a new era for itself? Why not? Vaudeville.—Orpheum: Mary Norman in imitations of certain types of women, well done. Pulu, a really wonderful dog, who reads minds, drew fairly well and the Hughes Musical Trio was a great disappointment. Johnny Hughes is a barnstormer, no finish. Reynard was more than satisfying and Williams and Tucker's sketch was scarcely up to the standard. The Camille Acrobatic Trio were a wonder of grace and originality, while the Worthleys closed a program on the whole below the average. Majestic—The Buch Bros., just heralded from European triumphs, were all that had been promised for them and more. Their feats were sensational and marvelous. Mann and Franks, the coster singers, were very satisfying, while Leo Cooper and company, in a playlet, The Price of Power, gave an excellent rendering to a rather precarious bit of a drama. Virginia Grant was dainty and refreshing and received a splendid response, while Kelley and Kelley held the audience breathless and trembling with their daring feats with chairs. The Crystal—The usual bill comprised the program at the Crystal. The theatre closes for repairs, being taken over by the Pantages. The present local staff will not be changed.

EMMA HERBY-MEYER.

VALLEJO, Aug. 24.—The Harry Bernard Musical Comedy Company which opened a four-weeks' engagement at the Farragut Theatre, Vallejo, on July 18th, has been doing a business that has broken all records at this house, and as a result of the general demand for the Bernard brand of amusement dope, Manager O'Donnell has deemed it advisable to extend the original engagement to eight weeks instead of four, after which time Mr. Bernard will go to Eureka intending to return to Vallejo later. The Bernard company closing on September 11th, as stated, will leave an opening for some other musical farce comedy company at the Farragut; and as this theatre has been greatly remodeled and improved within recent months, it seems to be meeting with great favor from the theatre-going public, and is getting a reputation for giving most creditable performances.

SEATTLE, Aug. 23.—MOORE THEATRE—Polly of the Circus continues on at the Moore Theatre for its second week, which is likely to prove bigger than the first week.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE—John Mason in The Witching Hour will be the attraction at the Alhambra until Thursday, thereby making a record run of twenty-eight performances in Seattle. Following this splendid production will be Clyde Fitch's comedy, Girls.

GRAND THEATRE—The last week of the Ferris Hartman engagement opened yesterday with a record crowd, the attraction being The Toymaker, which never fails to please. The piece was well handled by Mr. Hartman and his company.

SEATTLE THEATRE—Western atmosphere abounds at the Seattle this week, for Emma Bunting and the Russell and Drew players have changed their bill to The Girl of Eagle Ranch, which has a complicated plot and a number of startling situations. Two big crowds were the order yesterday.

ORPHEUM—Harrison Armstrong's Circumstantial Evidence, which is presented this week, depicts

WE CARRY IN STOCK ready for immediate shipment, the only line of special

Musical Comedy and Dramatic Lithograph Paper

We can equip your show with Special Cross-lined Lithograph Paper on 24 hours' notice, and sell you small quantities at 5 cents per sheet.

Our Special Cross-Lined Lithograph Paper Looks Like Special Paper

Send for samples of Cross-lining and New 112 Page Illustrated Catalogue.

Lowest Prices on Block Work, Type Work, Dates, Heralds and Small Stuff

All your Printing and Lithographing in one shipment, and the lowest price on everything.

60 Styles Stock Circus Lithograph Paper. Send for Special Catalogue.

ACKERMANN-QUIGLEY LITHOGRAPHING CO.

KANSAS CITY

New York Sales and Sample Office: 201-202 Knickerbocker Theatre Building, 1402 B'way. Chicago Sales and Sample Office: 61-65 Grand Opera House Bldg.

a scene that is one of the greatest features of our national law, with all twelve jurymen deliberating and weighing evidence that has been presented before them in the court, and deciding the fate of a fellow creature. As a vaudeville feature it is a decided change from the musical comedy skits, the acrobats and other familiar features. Besides the feature act are Ed Wynn and Al Lee, The Billiken Freshman; Charles Montrell, the juggler; that lively pair, Crouch and Welsh; Harry H. Richards and his company in Love a la Mode; the Musical Johnstons and Beth Stone.

PANTAGES—A startling reminder of the ancient tale of the Handwriting on the Wall is to be seen this week in the act of Mene-tekei or the Magic Ball. A large drawing board is suspended from the "gridiron" of the stage, suspended by thin cords and with no connection with any other part of the stage, swinging like a pendulum from the cords all the time. A small tennis ball, dipped in adhesive ink, is placed against a sheet of paper on the front of the board, where it is seen to adhere, and at a word of command it crawls across the paper, leaving a trail of words in its path.

LOIS—Aileen May has a new sketch called One of the Girls. Miss May has the part of a chorus girl who is both long-headed and sensible. Other good acts on the bill will be Martin and Gresham, in a comedy skit; De Harport and Scott, in a musical act; Revell and Leary, novelty ring artists; Mondaine Phillips, the girl of many voices; William Rowe, a trick dancer, and Evelyn Clark, the girl in the pictured melody.

STAR—Dolan and Lenharr are seen in Dolan's latest one-act farce, The High-Toned Burglar's Christmas Tree. Others on the bill are Sharp and Turek, character singing, dancing and dialogue act; Caswell and Arnold, the well-known "barrel bumpers"; the Three Vagrants, Italian street singers, in a new repertoire; Dorothy Vaughan, the popular comedienne, and Eddie Roche, in illustrated song.

E. MORGENSTERN.

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 25.—A lively vaudeville war will be on in this city this winter between the Orpheum Circuit and the Wm. Morris Circuit. The Orpheum will be the first in the field, as they have already concluded arrangements with J. M. Dodge, manager of the Garrick Theatre, to play their entire show just as it is given in the Los Angeles Orpheum here for two nights each week. This being all the time Mr. Dodge could spare from the regular road shows. The first show will be sent down about September 15th. The Wm. Morris Company have secured a lease on a lot 50 x 100 feet, directly across from the Garrick, and will immediately begin construction of one of the finest vaudeville houses in California. This theatre when completed, which will be about December 1st, will seat 1,200 and will have a stage large enough to accommodate the largest acts. With the Garrick playing the Orpheum shows, and the Queen playing Sullivan-Considine, and last, but not least, the new Morris house, a lively and interesting competition will be on, and lovers of high-class variety are smacking their lips in eager anticipation. The Garrick is dark this week and will remain so until August 29th, when the Climax Company opens an engagement of three nights. Sept. 5-6, Paid in Full will again pay us a visit. At the Pickwick, the James Post Musical Comedy Company is putting on the second act of May the Best Man Win to big business. Post and Hayden have the comedy roles and are doing excellent work. Good work is also done by Millar Bacon, Esco Ives and Lotus Moore. The chorus

Terry McKean's Players

A FIRST-CLASS COMPANY IN STANDARD PLAYS

Time open from Sept. 1st for extended stock engagement. Write

TERRY MCKEAN, Sole Proprietor and Manager

Address care Francis-Valentine, 285 Thirteenth St., San Francisco, Cal.

Menzel's Dramatic Agency

Moved to 915 Van Ness Avenue, Third Floor

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers Wanting Reliable People in Dramatic Lines, Write.

Honest Dealing. No Misrepresentation

NOTICE—We invite people in all lines of the theatrical profession that wish first-class engagements to call or write.

WM. MENZEL, Manager

Correspondence

have several catchy songs. The Queen has a well diversified bill this week, which is headed by Albini the Great. Other acts include Rae and Borschin, sketch, Just Like a Woman; Robert Hildreth and Mattie Davis in playlet, A Four-Leaf Clover, and Bessie Allen, soubrette. Moving pictures round out an excellent bill. Next week, Manager Donnelan announces that he will add two additional acts to the bill, bringing the entire show just as it is presented at the Sullivan-Considine house in Los Angeles. The Grand has a good show, which is headed by Steeles and McMasters, who have a good comedy skating act. The Clodene Sisters, singing and dancing soubrettes, have a fair act. The Hill Sisters please with their singing specialty. Moving pictures conclude. Ringling Brothers' Circus plays here, September 23d.

Moved by the pitiful life-tragedy of which Miss Ve Readmaster came so near being the victim when she attempted to throw herself into the waters of San Diego bay several nights ago, the San Diego Humanitarian Society gave a benefit for her yesterday afternoon at the Queen Theatre. Mrs. Pansy Bushloush, chairman of the committee in charge, met with the hearty co-operation of Manager E. J. Donnellan of the theatre, who placed the playhouse, rent free, at her disposal. The performers on this week's bill at the Queen tendered their services, as did all the employees of the theatre. In addition to the Queen's vaudeville stars, there were the following contributions of local talent: Joseph Bushloush, contortionist; Alvie Nosler, boy soprano in classical selections; Mrs. W. F. McCracken, in Dutch characterizations, and Robert Hildreth and Mrs. Arthur Hill, in a one-act pastoral sketch entitled A Four-Leafed Clover. It is expected that the benefit will net Miss Readmaster, who is still an inmate of the county hospital, several hundred dollars. The audience was large and appreciative. It was especially liberal in its applause for Sam Hildreth, who married a San Diego girl and was quite a favorite two years ago at the Pickwick and Grand theatres, and Mrs. Hill, who is also a local woman, better known in theatrical circles as Miss Rilla Barbee. Hildreth wrote the lines of A Four-leaf Clover, and yesterday afternoon's presentation was its first. It made a decided hit with the audience, holding an undivided interest throughout its rendition.

CARL E. LUNDQUIST.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 26.—The Clunie will open for the fall season, Aug. 29-30, with the International Grand Opera Company in La Traviata and Carmen. The Elleford Company will play a week's engagement in repertoire at the Clunie, beginning Aug. 31. The California State Fair opens for eight days, beginning Aug. 28 to Sept. 4. Ringling's Circus will be here, Sept. 2. The Jack Massie Company is giving An Up-to-Date Galatea at Oak Park Theatre. At the Grand Theatre, beginning Aug. 22: Mlle. Loretta and her $10,000 statue dog; Glendower and Manion, in Christmas on the Comstock; The Grazers, musical and toe dancing; Jerre Sanford, whistling and yodling comedian; McDevitt and Kelly, eccentric dancers; Dolline Cole, female baritone. At Pantages, week, Sunday, Aug. 22: Venetian Street Musicians, four harmonious vendors of music; Carter Taylor & Co., comedy skit at Camp Rest; Alva York, England's Favorite Comedienne; Ben Boyer and Bro., trick bicyclists; the Gardiners and Duke, musical comedy skit; Silveno & Co., shadowgraph artists.

Fay Wallace's Husband Suicide Because They Are Separated

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—"If a man marries an actress because of an attachment so deep that it will permit of no separation from her, even for a few days, life for that man will not be worth living when his wife is away on the road and he sits at home alone, depressed and melancholy." These words, spoken last Tuesday by Lewis Bishop Hall, actor and stage manager, convince his friends that he committed suicide because his wife, Fay Wallace who is playing Polly in a Polly of the Circus company, was to be away from him for six months. Today he was found dead from gas in his room in the Paula apartment house. Hall's grandfather was former Governor Lewis Bishop of Ohio.

Dick French has Gathered Fine Stock for Seattle

Commencing September 5, the new stock company of Russell & Drew, under the management of R. E. French, will open at the Seattle Theatre for an indefinite season. Neva M. West will head the feminine contingent. She possesses an elegant wardrobe and is not only extremely handsome but unusually talented. Claire Sinclair, who will play heavies and heavy leads, is a clever actress who will make good. Anita Allen will be soubrette and ingenue. Eva Earle French is to be character woman. Orral Humphreys, who will play juvenile leads, is well known all over the West. True Boardman is to play the heavy leads. Clark Burroughs is to be seen in juveniles and heavies. George B. Berrell, who will play old man and character parts, and assume the position of assistant stage manager, has been for years with Eastern theatres. Charles Connors is to be comedian and character man. Al L. Dickinson is to play characters and act as stage manager. The company will have in all sixteen people. The first attraction, opening September 5, will be The Factory Girl. This will be followed by The Cowboy and Squaw, by Joseph Byron Totten.

Wesner is to Leave Us

It will be a cause of regret to many theatregoers of this city when two weeks from tomorrow night, A. Burt Wesner, of the Alcazar stock, ends almost a four years' engagement in San Francisco, the greater part of which has been spent at the Alcazar. Mr. Wesner has shown that he is an exceptionally fine character man and a comedian of the first class. His work has been liberally appreciated by the public, and his fellow-actors have been among his greatest admirers. Good luck to you, Burt.

Hartman Will Have Los Angeles Theatre as Base of Operations

Charley Kavanagh returned from Los Angeles Friday of last week with a contract in his pocket transferring the lease from the John Blackwood interests, by which he takes over the lease of the house for five years. The opening attraction will be Ferris Hartman in The Yankee Consul, in six weeks, following the Hartman season at the Princess Theatre in this city. Mr. Kavanagh states that the Grand Opera House will be the base of operations for the Ferris Hartman company.

Seely Gets Playhouse for Morris in Los Angeles

Walter Hoff Seely returned Wednesday from Los Angeles with the announcement that he had completed arrangements for the construction of a theatre in that city to house William Morris vaudeville attractions. The Los Angeles Theatre, which will be allied with the Valencia in this city in the chain of variety houses which will stretch from Omaha in the middle west to Seattle in the northwest, will be built, says Seely, within a block of the Alexandria Hotel and will cost $200,000. Ground will be broken, according to the contract, within twenty days. Sherman & Clark of the Los Angeles-Pacific street railroad company want to back the project. The structure will be an office building, as well as a theatre, and will be completed within seven months. Meantime, arrangements have been made, says Seely, to take care of the vaudeville attractions which the Morris interests are sending out in September at another playhouse temporarily engaged in Los Angeles.

Grauman's Theatre Going Ahead

The construction of Grauman's Theatre in Market street between Fifth and Sixth, combined with an office building, will be commenced immediately for the Spreckels estate. A permit has been issued to the executors and contracts have been awarded amounting to $154,380. The cost of the building will be $225,000. Two stories are planned. The theatre will occupy the back of the lot and six stores will face on Market street. The lot, which is 137.6 by 165 feet, extends through to Stevenson street. The entrance to the theatre will be on the west end of the building. After running along the side of the west store the entrances will turn at a right angle. The building will be class A. The theatre part of the building will be arranged to seat 1,800. The auditorium will be 90 by 95 feet. The stage, including the space taken by the flies, will be 90 by 33 feet. There will be eight boxes and one balcony to augment the seating capacity. The entrance to the theatre will be quite elaborate. It will be wainscoted with marble. Marble pilasters and other ornamental features will be added. It is expected the opening will take place in March.

RICHARD JOSE and wife expect to leave for New York next week.

Terkelsen & Henry, Photo.

Allan Atwell

Allan Atwell is a Californian, who gave up a chance to play in a New York company in order to take the Western trip. For two years Mr. Atwell has been playing the Jap in Paid in Full, and when Wagenhals & Kemper were organizing their four companies this summer they tried hard to induce Mr. Atwell to stay with the New York company. But the lure of the West was too strong and in consequence we have been enabled once more to see and enjoy Mr. Atwell's wonderfully artistic portrayal of the Jap valet. Mr. Atwell left California five years ago for New York and was soon connected with some of the best companies there. He played with Belasco's Rose of the Rancho during its entire run in New York, and it is more than likely that if Eugene Walter writes a continuation to Paid in Full, as it is rumored he threatens to do, Mr. Atwell will be afforded an opportunity to create a big edition of his present role, for his work is in strong favor with Wagenhals & Kemper.

The Hallett Stock for Fresno

Al Hallett has completed his stock company, which will open in Manager Holm's fine little reconstructed Empire Theatre in Fresno on September 13th. Mr. Hallett will present the strongest stock ever known in Fresno, and will for the first time in the stock history of that town play royalty bills with the permission of authors or agents. Roy Clements will head the men and Olga Gray, a strikingly pretty blonde, will play the feminine leads. The supporting company will include Thurlow White, Fred Munier, Charles Dey, Lester Paul, Florence Plummer, Inez Bayard, Ethel Howe, A. J. Lopworth, scenic artist, and Al Hallett, director.

Georgia Harper is Dead

Mrs. Georgia Cullard Harper, wife of J. G. Harper, died in Greely, Colo., at the home of her brother-in-law, Dr. C. S. Harper, Friday morning, Aug. 20, 1909. Mrs. Georgia Cullard Harper was born in Windsor, Ill., October 27, 1872. For years Miss Harper had been a favorite Western actress and was beloved in every town and village on the Coast.

THE SAN FRANCISCO Dramatic Review

Music and Drama
CHAS. H. FARRELL, Publisher

Issued Every Saturday

Address all
letters and
money orders to San Francisco
Dramatic
Review, Van

Ness Theatre Bldg.,
Van Ness
Avenue,
Telephone
Park
1773

Entered at San Francisco as Second-class
Mail Matter. Established 1880.

Augustus Phillips

Augustus Phillips, the Alcazar's new leading man, who made his first San Francisco appearance in The Squaw Man and won such unqualified praise from all the critics of the town, was born and educated in Indiana, and made his histrionic debut in the support of his brother, who was a well-known repertoire actor throughout the East. Two years in that capacity qualified him to branch out as a star on his own account, and he headed a company entitled Phillips' Ideals. After a season of stardom he received so advantageous an offer from Mrs. Mary Gibbs Spooner to become the leading man of her forces that he accepted it, and for about a dozen seasons played opposite Edna May Spooner, one of the most popular Eastern actresses. After Mr. Phillips joined the company there was a long and prosperous stay in Brooklyn and in Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre. But excellent people though the Spooners were, they could not retain Mr. Phillips' services for all time, and when he was offered the leading part in the original production of Eugene Walters' play, The Wolf, he severed his connection with the management he had served so brilliantly. All of last season he was the star of the Eastern The Wolf company. He is an exceptionally valuable stock actor because of his extensive repertoire and a complete knowledge of the finer technicalities of stage art. It is fitting tribute to his ability that during his dozen years of stage work he has played under practically but three managements—his own, that of Mrs. Spooner and that of the Shuberts. In referring to his great reception on his opening night, Mr. Phillips is still in a maze of wonderment. "I have heard a lot about Western hospitality," said he, "but I didn't know what it meant until I encountered it on my opening night. I had not spoken a line; certainly I had not 'made good,' but when I stepped on the stage the house went crazy. 'Am I really a Native Son?' I asked myself. When I opened in The Soldier of the Empire in New York following a popular player, as popular in fact as Bertram Lytell is in this city, I was given a quiet hearing. No one prompted me to 'make good' and there was no applause when I made my first entrance. They sat in front and waited. At the Alcazar they sat in front and encouraged me. That's the difference between a Western and an Eastern audience. I should say that the effort to aid me in my difficult debut was as effective to the nerves as the salty breeze that I have enjoyed, has been a tonic to my heart."

American Theatre Policy Still Undecided

At the time of going to press the future of the American Theatre has not been settled. During the week Manager Abe Cohn has been busy with a new deal, and also has considered continuing stock. He has had several conferences with Paul McAllister about playing leads, but nothing has been definitely settled. There is a possibility that Mr. Cohn may put in vaudeville, as it is known his partner, Ed Homan, favors that idea. Probably next week the whole matter will be settled. In the meantime stock continues, with The Professor's Love Story underlined.

The Orpheum Ties Up European Acts

A cable message to the local management of the Orpheum indicates that President Morris Meyerfeld and General Manager Martin Beck have carried the fight for vaudeville acts to Europe in the struggle now on between the associated vaudeville circuits and the independent William Morris (Inc.) company. The latter's extension of his activities to the West and his diligence in acquiring desirable and important acts will be met, it is said, by an increased activity on the part of the Orpheum management to corner the supply of variety turns in Europe.

The message received here states that Meyerfeld and Beck are now in Berlin in conference with Director Steiner of the Wintergarden, Ben Tieber of the Vienna Opollo, Charles Aumont of Paris, E. K. Tichy of Prague, H. E. Marinelli, W. E. Passpart and Director Thurin of the Apollo in St. Petersburg. It is asserted that a working agreement has been reached whereby attractions playing in the houses these managers represent will be banded together, and that this compact practically ties up the European situation so far as vaudeville is concerned, giving by a co-operative agreement to Beck for the Orpheum an interchange of acts with the allied vaudeville interests of America. Attractions successful here will be sent to Europe and booked over the allied circuits in the old country, and turns successful there will be sent to American vaudeville houses allied with the Orpheum.

New Opera House For Brooklyn

At a point in Brooklyn, eight miles from Long Acre Square by the usual route, Oscar Hammerstein is to build a new opera house costing $1,000,000. Brooklyn has already one opera house more beautiful than the Metropolitan, which her regard for precedent has named "The Academy of Music," says the New York World. An opera house "on the Surrey side" of the Thames in London, or the Quartier-Latin side of the Seine in Paris would be more unthinkable than almost anything else—except two opera houses. But in all the world there is no other suburb like Brooklyn. There is no other nearly so large. As a city Brooklyn was the rival not of Boston and Baltimore, but of Chicago and Philadelphia. The vote that joined her to New York was enthusiastic in the larger city; in the smaller one close and hesitant. Lower taxation was the bait. Manhattan now pays nearly half the tax money spent in Brooklyn, yet local "autonomy" is a cry so popular that it keeps in power a boss unrepresentative of the community; some Brooklyn people even have the temerity to advocate municipal divorce. Brooklyn has an art museum which snaps up a collection of Sargents the Metropolitan would have liked. It proposes a Brooklyn University, to be formed like the vast University of London, by grouping present institutions and adding to them. It plans for a confident future. No longer famed for great lawyers or great clergymen, it is a borough of quiet homes. The road from the Tenderloin to Coney Island passes through and leaves it unchanged. It has a society of its own, constantly drained to Manhattan and as constantly renewed.

Spotlights

Incidental to the completion of the new Columbia Theatre, the Board of Public Works has granted the Crocker Hotel Company permission, revocable at will of the Board of Supervisors, to lay and maintain two steam pipes of diameters respectively two and six inches, from the St. Francis Hotel on Geary and Powell streets; thence along Geary street westerly to the westerly line of Mason street, and thence southerly to the premises known as the Columbia Theatre on the southwest corner of Mason and Geary streets.

Our New Minister will open its ninth session at Vineland, N. J., September 20th, inaugurating a tour which will extend to the Pacific Coast.

Joseph Conyers will also produce a new play of New England life by a new author in San Francisco late in December.

WILLIAM MAXWELL ATTORNEY-AT-LAW

Lick Building, 25 Montgomery Street.
Telephone Kearny 724.

Valencia Theatre

Valencia Street, near Thirteenth
Phone Market 17

Starting Sunday Evening, August 29th
Matinees Wednesday and Saturday
Two Weeks Only
S. S. and Lee Shubert's Most Pretentious
Theatrical Offering

JOHN MASON

In Augustus Thomas' Greatest Play,

The Witching Hour

Precisely Original New York Cast and Production. Seats on Sale at the Box Office and the Emporium.

New Alcazar Theatre

Cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts.
Belasco & Mayer, Owners and Managers
Absolutely "Class A" Building

Monday, August 30th, Starts the Second and Final Week of Charles Klein's Great Play

The Lion and the Mouse

Its First Production in Stock.

PRICES: Nights, 25c to $1; Matinees,
Saturday and Sunday, 25c to 50c.

New Orpheum

O'Farrell Street, Bet. Stockton and Powell
Safest and Most Magnificent Theatre in
America

Week Beginning This Sunday Afternoon
Matinee Every Day

ARTISTIC VAUDEVILLE

JOHN HYAMS and LILLA MCINTYRE
in the Quaint Offering, The Quakers;
GEORGE W. CUNNINGHAM and HER-
MAN MARION; ROSE ROYAL and Her
Famous Arabian Posing Horse, CHESTER-
FIELD; CATHERINE HAYES and SABEL
JOHNSON; JOSEPH HART'S BATHING
GIRLS, with Glenwood White and Pearl
Hunt; CARSON and WILLARD; THALIA
QUARTETTE; NEW ORPHEUM MOTION
PICTURES. Last Week—Tremendous Hit
—GEORGE AUGER, the Tallest Actor in the World, and His Players in Jack the Giant Killer.

EVENING PRICES—10c, 25c, 50c, 75c;
Box Seats, $1.
MATINEE PRICES (Except Sundays and
Holidays), 10c, 25c, 50c
Phone Douglas 70

Princess Theatre

Absolutely "Class A" Theatre Building
Phone West 663
Ellis Street, near Fillmore
Samuel Loverich, Manager

TONIGHT AND ALL THIS WEEK
Matinees Saturday and Sunday
The Great Mad-manner Extravaganza

Jack and the Beanstalk

All the Favorites in the Cast and the
PRINCESS BEAUTY CHORUS

Popular prices: Evenings, 25c, 50c, 75c.
Saturday and Sunday Matinees, 25c and 50c.

Coming—FERRIS HARTMAN
and a New Company.

AMERICAN THEATRE

Market St., near Seventh
Phone Market 381 for Good Seats
The Playhouse of Comfort and Safety

Commencing Sunday Matinee, August 29th
That Quaint Comedian

FRANK BACON

and the American Players in

The Professor's Love Story

By J. M. Barrie, Author of
Peter Pan and The Little Minister

Prices: Evenings, $1.00, 75c, 50c and 25c.
Matinees, 75c, 50c and 25c. All Reserved.

GILLE PRINTING CO. SAN FRANCISCO

THEATRICAL PRINTING OF ALL KINDS

POSTERS
2257 MISSION ST. Phone MARKET
1865

THE FRANCIS- VALENTINE CO.

Thirteenth St., near Mission, S. F. Cal.

Spacious Headquarters
for Theatrical Agents

PHONE—MARKET 2114

Send Billings and Lading to us. We will take care of your paper

Show Printers

Van Ness Theatre

The Booth Tarkington-Harry Leon Wilson drama, Cameo Kirby, has introduced to theatre goers a new style of play, for which we are deeply grateful. The authors have gone back to the days of romance, to the exploitation of a delicate poetic humor that has been lost sight of the last few years in the cold-blooded mental and moral dissection of the prevailing vogue. It is a superb company that Liebler & Company have surrounded Dustin Farnum with, and the consequence is a performance immensely enjoyable. Mr. Farnum, who is starred, in the title part, divides honors with the veteran McKee Rankin, who plays Cameo Kirby's partner, Larkin Bunce, a fat, matter-of-fact Mississippi river gambler, whose lack of imagination acts as a delightful foil to the intellectual and romantic qualities of his daring and picturesque partner. Mr. Farnum has his smile, his sincerity and his altogether pleasing personality, and conquers absolutely in the same part that was the undoing of Nat Goodwin. Mr. Rankin in a comedy part, displays a wonderful knowledge of stage craft, and brings to bear on the character his wealth of ripened ability. His Larkin Bunce is a thoroughly accurate human portrayal. John Harrington, who got his first chance on the stage in this city years ago with James Neill, has developed in a big, commanding actor. His work is virile and intelligent and the short part of Colonel Moreau was handled skilfully. Donald Gallaher, a boy with a genius for acting, not parroting, claims great attention by a remarkable portrayal of "The General," the small boy of the family. May Buckley, who has been away for years, was a most sympathetic Adele Randall. She has still her great, appealing personality. Maud Hosford, in the part of Madame Davenport, played with distinction and furnished one of the best characterizations of the evening. Ruth Lloyd gave considerable importance to the small negro part of Poulette, and Nora Shelby was a charming Southern girl in the part of Anne Pleydell. C. R. Webster presented a fine, life-like negro servitor of the old regime, and Gordon Johnston, as Tom Randall, Wm. H. Carter, as Anatole Veaudray, Burr Caruth as Aaron Randall, and Wm. Frederic as Judge Pleydell were, one and all, thoroughly satisfying in their portrayals.

Alcazar Theatre

Every time a favorite returns to the cast, long established custom at the Alcazar has given that occasion all the importance of an opening. So, when, on Monday night, The Lion and the Mouse brought back Evelyn Vaughan and Will Walling and practically introduced the complete new company, it was an occasion that was full of great significance and really was more of a ceremony than anything else. Such enthusiasm, such good feeling, such clever speeches and such a display of floral offerings have rarely been seen on any similar occasion. Miss Vaughan, who, after the natural nervousness of a return first night, got quickly into the character of Shirley Rossmore and gave a brilliant performance and one so full of both womanly graciousness and power that there was no need for comparison with those who in three previous occasions had portrayed the character in this city. Will Walling also shared in the wonderful enthusiasm and triumphs of the evening. He gave possibly his greatest characterization in the role of John Burkett Ryder. Altogether it was very satisfying. Augustus Phillips took care of young Jeff Ryder, and showed up with nice skill the weak and vacillating characteristics of the boy who had never conceived the idea of asserting himself until Shirley Rossmore had appeared upon his horizon. Burt Wesner was a most pleasing Senator Roberts, and William Garwood developed a valuable caricature of the Hon. Fitzroy Bagley. Bessie Barriscale was a breezy, charming Miss Nesbitt, and Helen Yarbrough caused many a laugh by her rough and tumble Eudoxia. Adele Belgarde was imposing as the rich man's wife, and Grace Travers made a good impression in the part of Kate Roberts. The settings were in fine taste, and the dressing of Miss Vaughan a delight to feminine eyes, as was the elegance of Adele Belgarde's gowns. The week has been attended by immense business, which will continue all next week.

Princess Theatre

The strange adventures of Jack and the Beanstalk occupies the stage of the Princess this week. The fun is fast and furious the entire evening, although, when the performance is over, no one can tell just what it is all about, and the only definite memory that lingers is that a very pleasant time has been had watching nonsensical foolishness by grown-ups, most of whom know how to be funny, doing the most trivial things. As may be imagined, the music is on a par with the plot, very light and entertaining, the kind one whistles after the performance is over without remembering or caring to remember the words to which it was sung. Jack Martin plays the part of that august potentate, Old King Cole, with much unction and effect. Sinbad the Sailor in the hands of Bud Ross is, of course, screamingly amusing. He is funny to look at and funnier to listen to. Octavia Broska is possible as Jack. Sir Harry Haitwork, the captain of the forty thieves, is acceptably done by Arthur Cunningham. Bert Phoenix, as Solanum Tuberosum, queen dowager of the fairies, was one of the best things in the cast. His eccentric makeup was effectively complimented by his acting. As the giant Oliver le Noir was appropriately hideous. Mr. Mesmer, Mr. Tobie and Miss Phillips were also good in small parts. Mr. Stuart played the part of the court physician as well as its small demands allowed. Olga Stech had an excellent opportunity to shine in the role of Princess Mary. Little Miss Muffit, as acted by Jennie Metzler, was acted with fineness and polish. Marta Golden as Mother Hubbard had a part that demanded the intelligence of the person playing it to make it effective, and it is to her credit that she made it stand out as she did. Lydia Crane was also meritorious. There were the fiddlers three, pretty maids all in a row, fairies, forty thieves, villagers and courtiers with which to fill in the gaps. The performance went with remarkable smoothness on Monday night, and was much more pleasing, taken as a whole, than the one of a week previous.

American Theatre

Frank Bacon is having the time of his life. He has his name in illumination in front of the theatre and he is selecting his own plays for use back of the curtain. Surely that is triumph enough. This happy condition of things explains why The Hills of California has been resurrected. This play, the first stage effort of the late Judson Brusie, known originally as The Estate of Hannibal Howe, is a curious affair. Originally it contained a few chances for the company. Now it is frankly merely a vehicle to exploit the gentle humor of Frank Bacon, although there are occasional opportunities for the others, as is the case with Jim Corrigan, who plays Scholasticus Stokes, the fat boy who is trying to be a lawyer. In quite a long cast, there is a plethora of talent, and Thurlow White, Pietro Sosso, Gerald Harcourt, Louise Brownell, Antoinette Crawford, Edmund Flynn, Lillian Elliott, Charles Franklin, Harriet Worthington, James Corrigan and Godfrey Matthews play their parts well, taking advantage of the opportunities offered. It is interesting to note that this play is the first Salvation Army drama, which idea was later developed in Mrs. Fiske's play with such signal success.

Conway At Idora Park

Patrick Conway, his New York band and coterie of soloists, who made a decided impression with music-lovers of San Francisco and the bay cities at the beginning of the Idora season, will return to the popular Oakland amusement resort this Saturday afternoon for an engagement of indefinite length. Florence Drake Le Roy, whose arias, quaint ballads and popular songs were a feature of the former engagement, will again be the soprano soloist. Of the instrumental soloists to be heard with Conway will be John Dolan, cornet; Gardelle Simons, trombone; H. Benne Henton, saxophone; G. M. Edwards, cornet; and H. G. Sportelli, piccolo. Four of the soloists will be heard tomorrow afternoon and evening. Miss Le Roy will sing the aria from Traviata and the Inflammatus. Gardelle Simons will give the beautiful Bach-Gounod Ave Maria on the trombone, and John Dolan play the Carnival of Venice. The band numbers will include: Scenes from Fra Diavolo; airs from Victor Herbert's Prima Donna; the overture from Tannhauser; Paderewski's Famous Minuet; Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody; scenes from Madame Butterfly; Tschaikowsky's 1812 Overture; the Blue Danube waltz; airs from the Three Twins; Beethoven's Sonata Pathetique, and Kuskuska by Lehar, composer of the Merry Widow waltz.

Harry Bernard and company, who have been playing at the Farragut in Vallejo, were secured by Manager Sam Mendelson of the Novelty to open at his house next week. Bernard goes to Europe on September 11th.

Personals

OLIVE D. BAILEY, it is reported, to be a new member of the Alcazar company.

REBA RAYMOND joins the Terry McKean show next week to play leads.

E. C. FILKINS will not make the Coast this season with the Georgia Minstrels.

CHARLES MARRIOTT is now playing with the Del Lawrence company in Vancouver.

FRANK C. PAYNE, for a long time general press agent for Henry W. Savage, has been succeeded by Arba Haldet.

THE death from appendicitis in a Jersey City hospital is announced of Charles Alfred Byrne, journalist and playwright.

GODFREY MATTHEWS, who is playing the lead in The Hills of California this week, shows cleverness that would retrieve in a better part.

JAN KUBELIK, the Bohemian violinist, has purchased Prince Hohenlohe's ancient feudal castle and estate in Silesia for the sum of $800,000.

LILLIAN LAWRENCE has been engaged by Charles Frohman to support Francis Wilson in a play written by the latter and called The Bachelor Baby.

BLANCHE BATES has taken to writing. In a monthly publication she has an article detailing her experiences on her farm in Westchester county, New York.

CHARLES MCCUEN, formerly of the Garrick Theatre, Chicago, has been appointed manager of the Auditorium Theatre, Des Moines, which the Shuberts have leased.

CHARLES DON CLARKE, who as comedian of the Valencia, gained a large following in this city, has been signed by the Alcazar stock, and will open in the bill following The Taming of Helen.

GRACE VON STUDDIFORD, comic opera star, filed suit last Saturday in St. Louis for divorce from Charles von Studdiford, a member of an old St. Louis family. Desertion is alleged in the petition.

THE MULLALLY SISTERS, who are with the Charles A. Taylor company in Fairbanks, Alaska, send THE DRAMATIC REVIEW a postal showing things up there when the thermometer is down to 70 degrees below.

Two leaders in their respective lines of public endeavor, A. Erlanger of the theatrical trust and John D. Rockefeller of the oil industry, met at Forest Hill (Cleveland) golf links last Tuesday. Erlanger, with his business associates from New York, was an early guest by appointment. He did not play, but followed Rockefeller and Captain Schofield over the course. John D. told Erlanger that while he was a comparatively young man he should lose no time in taking regular exercises. "I have received a great deal of benefit from playing here this summer," said John D. "I was slightly under weight when I came to Forest Hill, but now I am up to my right weight."

Budd Ross is a very dignified little comedian these days. Last Monday at dress rehearsal at the Princess, Budd, was hanging on to the beanstalk, with a trap yawning below. Octavia Broska was knocked against him and two chorus girls bumped her. Budd broke their fall below the stage, with a very stiff neck to remind him of a narrow escape.

Vaudeville

The Orpheum

Herr J. Rubens, the transparent painter, as the program terms him, opens the bill at the Orpheum this week. That there may be no misunderstanding it may be well to state that it is not the Herr himself who gives an impersonation of a window pane, as the language of the bill would indicate, but the medium upon which his paint is applied, behind which is a light, revealing the applied colors, in a sort of stained glass effect, after having been removed from the palette by the Herr's brush. The program probably intended to say that Herr Rubens is a transparency painter. Wilbur Mack and Nella Walker follow in a pleasing vehicle, which serves to introduce Mack's songs, What People Don't Know Won't Hurt Them and St. Louis Lue. Their entertainment is extremely good of its kind. George Carson and Jake Willard, two scientific manglers of English as it is spoken, follow in their skit, The Dutch in Egypt. Why Egypt it is hard to say. Their fun would be as appealing anywhere else as in the land of the pyramids. The two have their own way of working, and to compare them with any other team of Dutch comedians is manifestly unfair to Carson and Willard. The Curzon Sisters still revolve from the top of the house, holding to small cables by their teeth. Although in their second week their act goes well. John World and Mindell Kingston are pleasing after their own original fashion. Jack the Giant Killer, with a real giant, is the most out of the common number on the bill. George Auger, more like a telegraph pole than an auger, and who is credited with standing eight feet in his stockings, has the name part of the little play that makes objective the nursery tale. Ernest Rommel, the smallest comedian on earth, is the dauntless Jack, while Sylvia Hearne, Caroline Hass and Daisy Robinson assist in the presentation. The Thalia Quartet dispenses melody and comedy, the latter of a kind. As singers they are excellent, but their funmaking demands the mantle of charity at times. They should do their turn straight and leave out the horseplay which has neither rhyme, reason or excuse for being. So ponderous is their clowning that one suspects them of being English. But they can sing. Joe Hart has a number on the program that rivals the swiftest thing George Cohan ever wrote in the matter of fast work. It is full of ginger from start to finish. Glenwood White and Pearl Hunt are featured in the spectacular turn, The Bathing Girls, which marks Hart a producer to be reckoned with. There are some singing girls who can dance and sing and bathe. The act includes six vocal numbers, each executed to an entire change of scenery. Each set is on a full stage. The motion pictures are good and the orchestra as thoroughly melodious as ever. Rosner's is a number that always makes good.

The National

Manager Zeke Abrams keeps up the quality of his programs with the utmost success, and the usual big business of this theatre is the answer. The bill this week shows such fine acts as Kalfrej, Barry and Johnson, J. Warren Keane and company, Alfred K. Hall, J. K. Emmett and company, Les Ploetz Larrellos and Elmer Lissenden. J. Warren Keane is a clever magician and adds to the strength of the bill, and J. K. Emmett, with the pull of a famous name and his own ability, gets his audience. Elmer Lissenden is both a good singer and monologist and always has a large following all over the circuit. As an added feature Huntress was engaged and his impersonation act and drapery dance met with a big reception. Huntress has now played three weeks in the big houses here. The other acts are equally good, and even if they were not, so thoroughly ingrained is the National habit in a large part of our theatre-goers, that there would be little complaint made. Such is the value of a following.

The Wigwam

Another of those carefully selected Sam Haris bills is offered this week to the usual big business. The show opens with Maurice Frank & Co. in their sketch, The Advance Agent, which was reviewed when it appeared at another theatre. Tom McGuire, the Scotchman, is another performer who is well known and liked here, and the Tora Troupe of Jap. acrobats give their well-known juggling and magic act. Princess Wladmenoff, a dainty and charming woman, is successful in her novelty dancing and musical efforts. Girard and Gardiner, in their funny Dooley and the Diamond, win much applause, and Jack Symonds, who is probably the greatest favorite in monolog who has appeared at the Wigwam, is going big, as usual. There is a spontaneity and freshness about Jack's work that never loses its charm. Besides, he never lets his stuff get too old—he is constantly putting new material over the footlights. Gruet and Gruet are a good type of minstrel men, and the Damman Troupe go strong.

Pantages-Empire

It was Thursday night when I made my weekly visit to Manager Tiffany's theatre, and then I recollected it was amateur night. My, how popular this institution is with the Pantages' patrons! Standing room was all that was left. Aside from the fun created by the amateurs (and professional amateurs), a very good bill is presented and was hugely enjoyed. Le Millas and Oreo open in their Mok-Na, the Tourist's Love Dream. It went well. The Three Olivers have a sensational tight-wire act that is most unusual. On Sunday matinee the act came near having a fatal termination. Hugh Oliver, who takes the part of the girl, met with a mishap and fell 17 feet. By a stroke of good fortune he was not killed and came out of the fall with a badly wrenched shoulder and elbow. Charles Sanders, the musical comedian, has a fair turn, and the shadowgraph act of Sylvene & Co. is an exceedingly interesting one. Herbert O'Connor and company in their playlet, The Midnight Guest, have a strong little play. Sampson and Douglas have a good comedy offering, and Klein, Ott Brothers and Nicholson present

Theatrical Tights

ALL COLORS, WEIGHTS AND QUALITIES—Cotton, 75c to $1.50; Wool, $2.50 to $3.50; Lisle or Silkline, $3.00 to $4.50; Silk, $5.00 to $12.50.

SYMMETRICALS BEST LINE MADE IN THE U. S. Calif. $5.00; Calif. and Thigh, $10.00; Calif. Thigh and Hip, $12.50.

We also Make Padded Shirts, SWEATERS, JERSEYS, GYM, ATHLETIC and BATH SUITS, SUPPORTERS, ACROBATIC SHOES, GOOD UNDERWEAR Knit to Fit in All Materials.

We operate our own mills, carry a large stock and make goods to measure at reasonable prices. We suit the professional as if he were buying in Europe. Write us for prices and samples.

Santner & Mattern Co.

KNITTERS

Phone Kearny 3603

Corner Post and Grant Ave.

Sullivan & Considine

::: New Circuit :::

Of the smaller popular-priced theatres to be operated in conjunction with their regular circuit houses, comprising time in

California Colorado
Utah Kansas
and Eastern Connections

Good Acts Can Always
Secure Immediate Bookings

BOOKING DEPARTMENT

1117 Market Street

W. P. REESE, Manager

NATIONAL THEATRE

ZEKE ABRAMS
General Manager

POST AND STEINER STS., SAN FRANCISCO

Leading Vaudeville Theatre on the Sullivan-Considine Circuit. No Act Too Good for us. Write.

New York Office, Knickerbocker Theater Bldg. Lancaster, Pa., Family Theater.
Booking the Longest Chain of Vaudeville Theaters West of Chicago.
Playing the best acts in vaudeville.

BERT LEVEY CIRCUIT

2053 SUTTER ST.

INDEPENDENT VAUDEVILLE

Phone West 9998.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

PANTAGES Western States Vaudeville Association

Controlling the longest, largest and best chain of vaudeville theatres in the United States.

Mr. Manager: No matter where your house is, how large or how small, we can supply you promptly with first-class

vaudeville acts at reasonable prices, also lodges, clubs and entertainments furnished on short notice.

See O. S. BURNS, Representative.
Phone West 7140. Offices: Pantages Theatre, cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts., San Francisco, Cal.

Archie Levy's Amusement Ass'n

THE VAUDEVILLE EXCHANGE OF THE PACIFIC COAST

1643 FILLMORE STREET, SUITE 1-2-3, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers desiring talent Write. Artists send in your open time now.

their well-known musical act most effectively.

Big Vaudeville for San Diego

By recent arrangements just completed, the Orpheum circuit will play its shows in Santa Ana one night each week in the Grand Opera House, commencing October 1st, then three nights in San Diego at the Garrick, thus allowing three nights for the break between Los Angeles and Salt Lake to be filled. William Morris is also to have a new house there, located at Fifth and B streets. If San Diego doesn't look out she will have too many shows. She has all she can stagger under now.

Frank Sheridan Ordered to Pay $1825 On Note Endorsed

As a result of leaving alleged unpaid bills behind, contracted through endorsing a note some years ago, Frank Sheridan has been ordered by Superior Judge Conley to pay "Jake" Rauer, a bill collector, $1,825, which amount, it is alleged, the actor owes.

Bookings

At the Sullivan & Considine, San Francisco Office, through Wm. P. Reese, their sole booking agent, for week of August 29, 1909:

THEATRE JOSE, San Jose—Glasscock's Elephants; Celeste and Welsh; Malon, Howard and McGrath; Glendower and Manion; Jere Sanford; Gaynell Everett. WIGWAM, San Francisco—Castle, Richi and Gerard; Scott and Davis; Cogan and Bancroft; Ernesto Sisters; Harry Taylor; Chas. Mack and company; May Nannery and company. LOS ANGELES, Los Angeles—Cerita Day and Boys; The Sados; Dammann Troupe; Mlle. Loretta and Dog; Black, Frank and company; John P. Reed. QUEEN, San Diego—Rose Stevens; Billy Windom; Berch and Hall; Silveno and company; Hill and company. GRAND, Sacramento—Gruet and Gruet; Tora Troupe; Tom McGuire; Girard and Gardiner; Stanley-Edwards Company; H. Tyler. NATIONAL, San Francisco—Pritzkow and Blanchard; Clarence Sisters; Wood Brothers; Vera De Bassini; Mitchell and Caine; The Three Roehrs; Murphy-Whitman Company. BELL, Oakland—Doblado's Sheep; J. Warren Keane and company; Alfred K. Hall; J. K. Emmett and company; Les Ploetz Larellas; Princes Wlademaroff. NOVELTY, Vallejo—Barry and Johnson; Jack Symonds.

Vaudeville Notes

Manager Chester N. Sutton announces that, after an expenditure of between $12,000 and $15,000 in transforming the Lulu Theatre into one of the handsomest, roomiest, best appointed and acoustically excellent playhouses under the S. & C. management, the new Orpheum vaudeville, as the house is now called, was opened last Saturday in Butte. This theatre has been leased from Dick P. Sutton for a term of ten years and will play Orpheum attractions, while S. & C. retain their interests in the Majestic, thus controlling two vaudeville shows opposite Broadway from one another. The Orpheum's opening bill consisted of Edna Aug, Jessie Shirley and company of five, Walthon troupe of bikers, Big City Four, Henry Clive, Myosisto Sisters and Davey and Pony Moore.

George Skyrock, a professional clown, known in the circus ring as Tote Ducrow, has begun suit for divorce against Eleanor Skyrock, an actress, whose stage name is Florence Ashbrooke. They were married in March, 1898, in Pittsburg, Pa., and Skyrock alleges that his wife deserted him in Philadelphia in December, 1904.

May Nannery, supported by Norval McGregor, will present the dramatic sketch called The Penalty Paid at the Wigwam Theatre next week.

Mrs. Nellie Reynolds, a stylishly gowned woman, who says she is an actress and that she came to Des Moines from Kansas City, was arrested along with her daughter, Marie, aged 17, in Des Moines last Saturday, charged with bold thefts in fashionable homes of diamonds worth $300. The police say the woman has worked in Kansas City, Dallas and Galveston. She gives her home as San Francisco.

A man who had lived in Los Angeles since January under the name of Albert F. Roth, but who is said by his wife to have been Anton Friedl, wanted in Chicago for embezzlement, committed suicide at 6:30 o'clock Sunday morning in the second floor hallway of the Hotel Del Mar, Long Beach, a popular tourist hotel, at Ocean and Locust Avenues. Standing in front of the door leading to room No. 65, occupied by his wife, a vaudeville actress known as Daisy Cort, the man shot himself in the right temple with a 38-caliber revolver. Death was instantaneous.

Edwin T. Emery and Alice Douvel are putting on sketches at the Unique in Los Angeles.

Morris Vaudeville Postponed

The coming of Morris vaudeville, scheduled to take place October 4th, has been postponed until November 1, in order that the Shuberts may hold the Valencia Theatre until that date. Arrangements for the change in dates were made in the East Thursday by the heads of the two big theatrical organizations. Walter Hoff Seely, manager of the Valencia Theatre, received a telegram from Lee Shubert Thursday morning, apprising him of the new agreement, and in the afternoon a telegram confirming the arrangement was received from William Morris. The two met in New York and came to an understanding in the matter, Morris acceding to Shubert's request that the Valencia be allowed to him until November. J. J. Shubert is on his way to arrange for a theatre in which to give his performances after Morris succeeds him at the Valencia. Shubert will begin his campaign with The Witching Hour Sunday night, and follow this with Going Some, a comedy by Rex Beach; Girls; Eddie Foy in Mr. Hamlet on Broadway; The Great John Ganton, and Maxine Elliott. This will bring November around, and the new date for the Morris advent. In the meantime Walter Hoff Seely is to start a Shubert Theatre down town. The reported deal for one on Post Street near Powell is characterized by Mr. Seely as being mere wind.

Vaudeville War in Chicago

With the arrival of C. E. Bray in Chicago to take charge of the offices of the Western Vaudeville Managers' Association, things began to stir in the vaudeville field. It was rumored for some time that certain of the booking agents of that association would be "let out." Action began with the removal of Walter Keefe. His departure was followed by the resignation of C. S. Humphreys. Angered by this action, J. J. Murdock immediately got busy. He arranged with C. E. Kohn for a price satisfactory to both to buy the former's theatrical interests, and Mr. Kohl took up negotiations for the purchase of M. C. Anderson and George Middleton's Chicago interests for Mr. Murdock, the acquisition of which will give him a large control in the Western vaudeville situation. Meanwhile, anticipating trouble, Martin Beck has hurried to Europe on a fast steamer to consult with Morris Meyerfield Jr., president of the Orpheum circuit. Keefe, with Humphreys, has started an independent booking agency in the Schiller building in Chicago, which was the scene of a protracted meeting of agents and managers all day Tuesday of last week, the outcome of which was the formation of a formidable vaudeville combination, which apparently will be a weighty factor in the vaudeville of the immediate future, since it ostensibly has the moral support of J. J. Murdock, whom, it is said, is backed by a capital of $2,000,000, which, in the event of the failure of the Kohl Anderson Middleton deal, will be employed in part to build high-class vaudeville theatres in Chicago, San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles, Denver, Minneapolis and Kansas City and other theatrical centers.

Shuberts Busy in Portland

Acting under instructions from the Shuberts, Russell & Drew of Seattle, representing the Alhambra Theatre Company, August 25th leased the Star and Heilig theatres, Portland, for a term of years. The Shubert attractions will be played at the Star until the Heilig is rebuilt. The transaction involves $100,000.

MADISON'S BUDGET

.....No. 12.....

Greatest book of comedy material ever written. Contents include 10 new monologues, 46 up-to-date parodies, 21 original acts and sketches for two males and male and female, 2 jolly farces, a complete minstrel first part with finale, besides hundreds of brand-new jokes, stories, get-backs, etc.

Price One Dollar

And money back if not absolutely satisfactory. For sale in San Francisco by L. PARENT, 818 Van Ness Ave., or direct of the publisher, JAMES MADISON, 1104 Third Ave., New York.

SAM THALL will soon be in West ahead of The Gentleman from Mississippi.

NEW CHUTES

FILLMORE, TURK, EDDY AND WEBSTER

Open Morning, Afternoon and Night

THIS SUNDAY ONLY

The Highest-Priced Free Attraction Ever Presented in the West

JACK JOHNSON

The World's Champion Heavy Weight Champion, in Two Three Round

Boxing Bouts, and

The Great Marino; Dare-Devil LeRoy;

Towers; Demon; Master Humbert; Royal

Marine Band; La Forge Comedy Trio;

Open-Air Motion Pictures, and

10—OTHER BIG FEATURES—10

TAKE THE JOLLY JOY JAUNT

IDORA

"The Park Beautiful"

B. P. MILLER, General Manager
Oakland, Calif.

20 Acres of High Grade
Amusement—20

The Handsomest
Park in America

Playing Only the World's Greatest Bands
and
Big Feature Acts

Performers desiring time, address
J. H. B. Fitzpatrick

Huntress

IMPERSONATOR AND DRAPERY DANCER.

Carrying full set. The season's hit in vaudeville. First act to play three weeks of first-class time in San Francisco.

Santa Fe BACK EAST EXCURSIONS

SALE DATES

Aug. 9 to 13, inclusive.

Sept. 7 to 10, 13 to 15, inclusive.

ROUND TRIP RATES

Chicago .....	$72.50	New Orleans .....	$ 67.50
Kansas City .....	60.00	New York .....	108.50
Memphis, Tenn. ....	67.50	St. Louis .....	67.50

Ask for Back East Excursion pamphlet. Gives details.
JAS. B. DUFFY, Gen. Agt., 673 Market St., San Francisco.

SANTA FE

Theatres and Opera Houses, National and Municipal, in Latin America

Cuts and data furnished through the courtesy of The International Bureau of the American Republics.
FIFTH ARTICLE.

THE DRAMATIC REVIEW takes great pride in commenting on the decided interest that has been aroused by the publication of the series of articles which has pictured a great chain of

NEW NATIONAL THEATRE, CITY OF MEXICO.

This handsome municipal theatre, to be finished in 1910, stands on the site formerly occupied by the Convent of Santa Isabel, the old National Theatre having been demolished in order to lengthen Cinco de Mayo Avenue. The plans were drawn by the celebrated architect, Adamo Boari. An appropriation of $1,750,000 has recently been made with which to finish the edifice, of which a distinguishing characteristic is to be a dome of burnished metal.

Two splendid examples of architecture are shown this week.

DEGOLLADO THEATRE (MUNICIPAL), GUADALAJARA, MEXICO.

This magnificent structure, erected at a cost of $5,000,000 gold, is reported, as the paper goes to press, to be on fire and in danger of total destruction. It was the largest theatre in the Republic, the plan of the interior being similar to that of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, with five balconies and a seating capacity of 5,000.

Spotlights

Excitement attended the final balloting for the goddess of labor when a grand ball was given by the Federated Trades Council General Committee at the Auditorium rink in San Jose last Friday night. Thousands were present and the immense floor was crowded to its capacity. The committee conducted dances at 5 cents each throughout the evening, and upon each dance ticket as it was dropped into the box the dancer wrote the name of his candidate for the honor. Balloting had been going on for two weeks, the ballots having been secured in divers manners, but this evening's final spurt was a remarkable one. Late Friday night Miss Alta Phipps, leading lady of the Ed Redmond company, headed the list, as she has from the first, by over 700 votes. Miss Rita Matthews was second, Miss Nadine Spooner third and Miss Olga Reinhold fourth. These are putting up the best fight. The Labor Day Committee at a late hour decided to withhold their plans for the three days' celebration for several days yet.

Gus Bothner's and Robert Campbell's production of Just Out of College, now in its fifth season, will open at Fall River, Mass., September 4th, for a tour reaching to the Pacific Coast. The cast includes William A. Mortimer, William C. Miller, George C. Denton, Martha Conway, George Ricketts, Margaret Ray, Alice Endres, Edna Ross, Alice Adams, Norman Gray, Sam Thompson, Phil Smith, George Archer, Freda Haubriel, Jennie Reiser and Ella Valentine.

Charles Frohman has selected Vernon Steele, a young English actor, for some time a member of the Playhouse Company, London, as leading man for Billie Burke. Miss Burke will be seen here in October in her charming comedy, Love Watches.

Paul Everton, who appeared here in the Eastern production of The Lion and the Mouse, has been cast for the leading role in Charles Klein's drama, The Third Degree.

Big Fighters at the Chutes

The most unusual attraction offered New Chutes patrons since the opening of the popular Fillmore Street park, will be put on this Sunday afternoon and evening, when Jack Johnson, champion heavy-weight pugilist of the world, will be presented in boxing bouts. Few of the big fighters have been the subject of more notoriety than that accorded Johnson, and the announcement that he is to be seen at the Chutes in two three-round exhibitions has been received with no little interest. The matches will be given free of charge from the bandstand. Bob Armstrong, a well-known local boxer, will be the sparring partner. Special arrangements have been made to handle the crowds. The usual bill of free, open-air attractions will be in no wise curtailed because of the added exhibition. Marino, the powerful German athlete, who has created so much comment during the past week with his wonderful power of endurance, will again permit himself to be run over, afternoon and evening, by a 70-horsepower automobile. The machine, which passes completely over the performer's body, is loaded with seven passengers and weighs two tons. Another of the recently arrived performers who has created wondering and thrilled attention with his act, is Le Roy, who slides hundreds of feet through the air suspended by his teeth. The Royal Marine Band, under the direction of the boy conductor, Master Humbert, is the best that has yet been presented by the Chutes management. Concerts will be played afternoon and night. Additional entertainment will be furnished by Towers, in his high dives; by Demon; the La Forge Comedy Trio with songs and dances; and open-air motion pictures. For the children there will be the elephants with their penchant for peanuts and the endless views of the panorama-scope.

The Central Theatre opens on Sept. 11 with Nat Fields and a burlesque company of five principals and twelve girls, with six vaudeville acts on the bill.

Jack Symonds

Comedians and monologists come and go—mostly go—but Jack Symonds comes stronger each year, for he is a real comedian, and he is always presenting new and taking ideas. For three years Mr. Symonds has been the feature act over the Pantages time and is a general favorite throughout the West. In the middle West and East he is constantly in demand in the best houses, and never knows what a lay off means, except to rest up. This week he is the hit of the bill at the Wigwam, as he was at the Empire last week. He has about eight weeks more in California, after which he plays East.

The vaudeville tangle still continues. The Jose Theatre of San Jose, that is owned by people closely connected with the Pantages Circuit, has booked for next week, acts contributed by Oscar Burns, Bert Levey and the S. & C. office. What next?

Fischer's Theatre, having, as a last resort, tried moving pictures and vaudeville, and the returns not being satisfactory, closes Sunday night.

Charley King and his stock open at the Pickwick in San Diego on September 29th.

Imperial Amusement Co.

Star Theatre, Portland, Oregon
S. MORTON COBB, Pres.; MELVIN G. WINSTOCK, Gen. Mgr.
Acts of every kind are requested to write in, quoting lowest salary in first letter. Satisfactory booking for right acts at right figures.

Andrews Opera Chairs

General Seating
School—Church—Bank
Office and Steel Rod
Furniture
Purchase direct from
manufacturer
THE A. H. ANDREWS CO.
Pacific Bldg., San Francisco
Chicago, New York, Tacoma

J. B. REIGHLEY Theatrical Hauling

Promptly Attended To
Telephone Market 1601
660 Guerrero Street, Bet. 18th and 19th

Opera, Folding and Assembly Chairs

Full Line
See Samples at 770-776
Mission St.
Bet. 3d and 4th Sts.
SAN FRANCISCO
THE WIGGIN CO.

Correspondence

NEW YORK, August 22.—A Broken Idol caused the Herald Square Theatre to bloom again with color and to flash its brightest last week after a week of darkness. Harry Williams and Egbert Van Alstyne, the words and music team, wrote the lyrics, choral numbers and music, and together they gave Broadway a whole lot of new things that ought to keep it whistling for a long time to come. The book of A Broken Idol is by Hal Stephens. It hinges on anything you wish that will give the Williams-Van Alstyne-Gus Sohlke (who staged the production elaborately) combination a chance to send comedians or the prima donna out on the stage to sing things, with all the stage back of the soloists jammed with wildly dancing chorus girls, who come out of vases of roses or form parts of green silk dragons or what not until it is time for them to trip down to the footlights and dance. There is a bit of plot for a while, even a touch of real melodrama, but the singers forget all that soon and sing and dance their way to the finale and 11 o'clock, with no thought of plot again until the finale is reached. The songs received so many encores the opening night that there was little time for plot anyway. It all begins in Los Angeles' Chinatown in the course of the Chinese New Year's celebration. There are Sing Wee (Madge Voe) and her father, Sun Lee Loo (Lawrence Commer), for local color, and little Sing Wee pines for Otis Harlan. Otis is Doe Whatt, who is all in white and says he has been knighted once and ignited on countless occasions. Lord Dunby (David Andrada) is a friend of Otis, and naturally Otis starts in to help the title hunter win the hand of Marion Pugsley, who was played very prettily by Alice Yorke—all dressed in a hat of wonderful white aigrettes and diamonds and lots of other things that makes you sit up. * * * George Cohan's little piece, The Fireman's Picnic, with which the Cohan and Harris minstrels closed their show at the New York Theatre last week was one of the principal features of the bill. It was very much like most of the productions of the same author—had some snappy music, live dances, a few bright lines and enough of interest as far as a story went to make the audience wonder what was going to become of the dead game bad negro with a graveyard of his own who threatened to come back and kill a whole picnic party, and to speculate if the heiress from Louisville, who had been rescued from a fire and was grateful, would really marry "the good for nothing nigger" who passed himself off as her hero. The first part was made attractive by an elaborate setting, showing a flower trellis in crimson and the performers dressed to make the color scheme most effective. Harry Van Fossen made a hit with his song, I'm Going Home. Will Oakland put on the tremolo in the Rose of Killarney. John P. Rogers sang, as most all minstrel basses do, something about the deep sea, Any Port in a Storm, and Earl Benham led an old song and a march that was rather picturesque, The Hat My Father Wore. George Evans had the stage to himself most of the time that he was on. He sang a few songs that were well received and told some stories, some new. In the vaudeville section lively dances were introduced in Scenes from Blackville. Alexander and Scott displayed togs that would have brought joy to the heart of any Ethiopian lucky enough to possess them, and one of the team did a clever bit of female impersonation. * * * Oscar Hammerstein has announced the repertory for the opening week of his educational opera season, beginning Monday evening, August 30th, at the Manhattan Opera House. The first opera of the season will be Meyerbeer's Le Prophete in French, an opera seldom heard in New York. The title role will be sung by M. Lucas, whose work in this opera first impressed Mr. Hammerstein with his ability. The opera will also introduce to the American public Mme. d'Alvarez, a Spanish coloratura from the Royal Antwerp Opera. In Mr. Hammerstein's opinion she has one of the finest coloratura voices of to-day. She may sing Fides. Others in the cast will be MM. Lerouz, tenor, and Laskin and Nicolay, bassos. Signor Carasa, the young Spanish tenor, will make his debut in Aida on Tuesday evening in the character of the Egyptian warrior. Mme. Alice Baron, late of the Paris Opera, will appear for the first time here in the title role. Mme. Soyer will be the Amneris and M. Pignataro the Amonasro. The American basso, Henri Scott, will make his first appearance as a member of Mr. Hammerstein's company, singing Ramfis. Mme. Marguerite Sylva, formerly an operetta prima donna, will make her American debut as a grand opera singer in the title role of Carmen on Wednesday evening. M. Duffault, a French tenor new to New York, will be the Don Jose. The Micaela will be another newcomer, Mme. Walter-Villa, and the Torreador, M. Laskin. Lucia on Thursday evening will present another new singer recently popular in Europe, Mme. Lalla Miranda. With her will appear the young Italian tenor, Domenico Russo. Others in the cast will be MM. Pignataro, Venturini and De Grazia. Aida with M. Carasa and Mme. Baron will be repeated on Friday night. The Saturday matinee bill will be Traviata, with Mme. Miranda as the heroine and another new Italian tenor, Signor De Bernardo, as Alfredo. M. Pignataro will be the father. Le Prophete will be repeated on Saturday night with the same cast as on Monday. Maestro Sturani, musical conductor at the Philadelphia Opera House last season, will conduct the performance. * * * The Third Degree began another season at the Hudson Theatre last week. Charles Klein's idea of the police ordeal in which the victim of suspicion is bullied and worried until he is in a state of passivity has not lost its power to thrill in the company's short vacation. Wallace Eddinger's portrayal of the suspect, Howard Jeffries Jr., was as masterly as ever. Helen Ware as Annie Jeffries and Edmund Breese as the lawyer, Richard Brewster, shared in many calls after each act. * * * William Hodge and The Man From Home came back to entertain their many admirers last week. They appeared at the Astor Theatre, where they renewed the signal success achieved by both actor and play last winter. ROB ROY.

OAKLAND, August 25.—After being closed for a period of three weeks, the Macdonough reopened the 23rd. The attraction was Paid in Full, and the house was filled to overflowing. Although the personnel of the cast is not exactly the same as the one which was presented here last year, it contains many of the former members and is fully as strong and efficient. The engagement lasted for three nights and met with very appreciative audiences. The International Grand Opera Company, 26-28. At Ye Liberty it is George Friend's turn to shine this week, and his interpretation of Jack Spencer, the leading character in Nat Goodwin's old-time success, The Genius, is a pleasing revelation. Next to share the applause was Henry Shumer as the musician, whose comedy work produced a constant stream of laughter. Robert Harrison, Robert Lawlor and Walter Whipple were excellent in their parts. Sidney Ayres had an unimportant role, but showed his capability just the same. Edith Lyle, Bishop's new ingenue, had a part very much to her liking, and as the artist's model was a picture of charm and grace. Mina Gleason was a pleasing Mrs. Van Dusen. The play is drawing good houses and giving fine satisfaction. Romeo and Juliet will follow. Are You a Mason? is the offering at The Broadway. This is the last week for many of the members of the company and everybody seemed to give their very best efforts to give the audience a good performance. Landers Stevens played the leading character. Frank Perry, Roy Clement, Al Hallett, Fred Munier and Albert McQuarrie, who are in their last week, all entered into the spirit of the play and gave the best that was in them. Their performances were all good. Anita Murray, Anna Rogers and Beth Andree, new people in the company, showed up well. Georgie Cooper and Georgie Woodthorpe gave good performances. Manager Smith announces some very fine attraction for the very near future. La Petite Revue and Eleanor Gordon share the honors at the Orpheum. Some interesting stunts were presented by Lena Pantzer, Frank J. Conroy, George Le Maire and company, six American dancers, Matthews and Ashley, Sam Chip and Mary Marble, the Five Avolos, and every one received their share of the applause. Capacity houses still prevail. Liberati's band is in its last week at Idora, and its engagement has been satisfactory from every standpoint. At The Bell business is very good and high-class specialties are still the rule. The following bill speaks for itself: Ernesto Sisters, Harry Taylor, Cogan and Bancroft, Scott and Davis, The Great Tyler, Charles Mack & Co. Romeo and Juliet, with Sidney Ayres and Florence Oakley in leads, will be given a most elaborate production at The Liberty next week. George Webster will be in charge of the production. The Lion and the Mouse will follow. Pierre of the Plains will also be an early Liberty production. At The Broadway At the Old Cross Roads will be given next week, to be followed by In the Bishop's Carriage. Godfrey Matthews, the capable actor, who has recently been playing at The American Theatre, has accepted an engagement with the Smith stock company. Lee Willard has also been added to the company. LOUIS SCHEELINE.

WILTON DALE will open with the Broadway stock of Oakland next week.

GOLDSTEIN & CO.
COSTUMERS for all Pacific Coast Theatres.
Goldstein's Hair and Wig Store,
Make-Up, Play Books. Established 1876.
Lincoln Building, Market and Fifth Sts.

Enter, the Husband

Lawrence J. Anhalt, business manager for David Warfield, brings in from the road the story of the manager of a thrilling melodrama, in one scene of which a husband enters one door an instant after an admirer of his wife has made his exit from another. During a run of one week in one city the manager noticed that one man, obviously from the country, went in every night. Finally he remarked to the man that he must enjoy the performance. "Tolerably so," replied the playgoer, "but some night that husband is going to catch that other feller, and I want to be on hand to see what happens."—September Lippincott's.

Opera House :::FOR SALE::: Albany, Ore.

Live, growing town, 6,500 population. Modern, built 6 years ago. Capacity, 650. Ground floor, Stage, 19 x 26 x 48 to gridiron. Including scenery, piano and all within House, 50 x 100 feet. Lot, 57 x 100 feet. On main business street of town.

Price - - - $11,000
Good Chance

Address, H. R. SCHULTZ, Albany, Ore.

For Rent Theatre Margarita

At Eureka, Cal.

May be leased by responsible parties. Theatre is new and modern in every respect.

Address,
C. P. CUTTEN, Agent,
Eureka, Cal.

All Kinds of SCENERY

Painted, built and installed. The only real Scenic Studio on the Coast. Get our prices. For Road or House productions.

Front and Sheridan Sts.
Portland, Oregon

C. F. Weber & Co. Opera Chairs

All Styles of
THEATRE AND
HALL SEATS

365-7 Market Street
San Francisco

210-212 N. Main St.
Los Angeles

FRED O. OSBORNE, Manager
Theatrical Code, "Santapole"
Home Phone F 6037

New York Dramatic Agency

Booking
Dramatic and Vaudeville Acts
Organizing and Routing Companies, Supplying "Scripts," Etc.
Belasco Theatre Building, Los Angeles
Entire Third Floor

CHARLES E. ROYAL AND ELLIOTT EDYTHER

Presenting Charles E. Royal's wonderful Burglar Playlet, "STRAIGHTENING A CROOK," and six other excellent playlets. "Best sketch ever presented at the Empire."—Eureka Times. "Full enough of dramatic and comedy situations to warrant a four-act play."—Eureka Herald. Chas. Royal and Edythe Elliott are finished artists in every sense and present a wonderfully clever act."—Watsonville Pajaronian. "Working All the Time." "Featured Everywhere."

BERT LEVEY, AGENT.

Newman & Foltz Company a Big Success

The company headed by Walter H. Newman and Bertha Foltz opened at Hart's Theatre, San Mateo, Sunday, August 22d, in The American, to an audience that tested the capacity of the theatre. The company made good from the start, and Mr. Newman and Miss Foltz won the hearts of their auditors at their first appearance and held them to the end. Carmen, Monday; Divorcons, Tuesday, and Camille, Wednesday, packed the house each night, Wednesday night being sold out before the doors opened. The street in front of the theatre the nights of Divorcons and Camille had the appearance of grand opera season, being lined with automobiles and carriages for over a block. This company is carrying a full production of Carmen, which is one of their feature bills. A great deal of credit is due Col. D. P. Stoner, who has the management of the Newman-Foltz combination, and as the company is strong and well balanced, their success, both financially and artistically, is assured.

Spotlights

Two of Henry B. Harris' biggest productions, The Traveling Salesman and The Third Degree, are booked for early dates at the Van Ness Theatre. The first named is a rousing good comedy, and the latter is a play of great dramatic interest, from the pen of Charles Klein, dealing with men and women in society and the methods of the police in wringing out confessions of guilt through the sweating process of the so-called third degree.

One of the song hits of the musical production, The Parisian Model, is called On San Francisco Bay, and from all accounts, wherever sung, numerous encores are required to satisfy. The Parisian Model comes here from a long run at the Broadway Theatre, New York.

A Gentleman from Mississippi, dealing with graft among the Senators at Washington, will be an early attraction at the Van Ness Theatre. The Wise-Rhodes play will be seen here with some notable people in the cast. James Lackaye will have the leading role.

Blanche Bates presented The Fighting Hope for three hundred performances at the Belasco Theatres in New York City. David Belasco has staged the play in a most effective manner, and it should prove one of the notable hits of the present season in San Francisco.

The New York Hippodrome will re-open its doors to the public on Saturday evening, September 4th, with a colossal new performance that promises to excel in size and in beauty as well as in the sumptuousness of detail its own splendid predecessors. It will be called A Trip to Japan, Thro' the Center of the Earth and The Ballet of the Jewels.

STEVE I. SIMMONS

MAXWELL ALEXANDER

Columbia Scenic Studio Co.

Estimates on all Classes of Theatrical Work

Office, 117 Fell St., S. F.

George P. Webster

Stage Director

Ye Liberty Playhouse Stock, Oakland, Cal.

Evelyn Selbie-Virginia Thornton

Alternating Leads

Frawley Co., Alaska

Carlton Chase

Leading Man

Fischer's Theatre, San Francisco

Lillian Hayward

Leading Business, Stock or Road.

Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

Arthur E. Witting-Mattie Davis

Character Actor

Joint or Single

Character Actress

AT LIBERTY

Address San Diego, Calif., Boundary and Howard Streets.

Claire Sinclair

Second Business

Stock

Seattle Theatre, Seattle

Doris Wilson

Prima Donna, Kolb and Dill Company

OLGA GRAY

Leads

At Liberty. Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

COL. D. P. STONER

Business Manager Newman Foltz Co.

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

FLORENCE DAVENPORT

Ingenue or Soubrette

At Liberty. Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

HERBERT MILTON

Characters and Heavies

At Liberty Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

CHARLES E. GUNN

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

BERT PORTER

Juveniles

Newman-Foltz Co.

MAX WAIZMAN

Newman-Foltz Co.

GEORGE VON BLIX

Stage Manager

Newman-Foltz Co.

MINNIE MAYFIELD

Heavies and Characters

Late of Richard Jose Co. At Liberty. Care

DRAMATIC REVIEW

HERMAN HELLER

Musical Director

Valencia Theatre Social engagements filled

DAN KELLY

Comedian

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

AUSTA PIERCE

Characters

At Liberty for Summer Stock.

1210 Cedar St., San Diego, Cal.

GEORGIE WOODTHORPE

Characters

Broadway Theatre, Oakland

ALBERT ROWLAND

Late of Chas. Frohman and Chas.

Dillingham

At Liberty for Characters or Heavies

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

LAURA LUCILE HEIMLICH

Leads

Everett, Wash.

FRED S. CUTLER

Late Manager for Richard Jose

Advance or with company At Liberty

Address care DRAMATIC REVIEW

EDWARD B. LADA

General Music Director
for Belasco & Mayer

A. BURT WESNER

Alcazar Theatre, San Francisco

TEDDY WEBB

Comedian, San Francisco Opera Co.
Direction John Cort

HARRY J. LASK

Representative New York Clipper
N. E. Cor. Sansome and Pine Sts.

HARRY MARSHALL

Scenic Artist

At Liberty. 3748 Vermont Ave., Los Angeles

MINOR REED

Scenic Artist

At Liberty Address DRAMATIC REVIEW

CARRIE CLARKE WARDE

Characters

Dick Ferris Stock, Minneapolis

GILMORE WALKER

Stage Manager

Valencia Theatre, San Francisco

EDDIE

Mitchell

Juveniles

CHESTER STEVENS

Heavies

Grand Opera House Stock, Los Angeles

MARY HARVEY-BARBOUR

Leads (Versatile)

3d Ave. Theatre, Seattle

FREDERICK GILBERT

Burbank Stock, Los Angeles

ARTHUR SHEPPARD

Scenic Artist

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Howard Foster

Light Comedy and Characters

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

IRENE OUTTRIM

Leads

Musical Comedy Co., Reno, Nevada

ROBERT LAWLER

Leading Man

SUSIE HOWARD

Engaged for Lyric Stock

Portland, Ore.

PIETRO SOSSO

Leading Man—Elleford Co.

Address, 179 De Long Ave., S. F.

FRED. C. CHARMAN

Juveniles and Light Comedy

General Delivery, Tucson, Arizona

WARDA HOWARD

Leads

Vancouver, B. C.

CHARLES MARRIOTT

Gardiner Stock Co.

Victoria, B. C.

Walter H. Newman AND Bertha Foltz

Starring Jointly

High-Class Repertoire

Season 1909 and 1910

Alf. T. Layne    Daisy D'Avra

Del Lawrence Stock, Victoria

Edith Lyle

Ye Liberty Stock, Oakland

Donald Bowles

Dramatic Director Geo. L. Baker's Attractions.

Address Bungalow Theatre, Portland, Oregon.

Loaned by Mr. Baker to direct Mr. James Neill's Company for him in St. Paul, Minn.

Neva West

Care Dramatic Review

Permanent Address, 2110 Post Street

Johnny Williams, Jr.

"FRISCO"

"The Man in Front." Can Book or Wild Cat

Louise Kent

In Vaudeville

Her Own Company

Pantages Circuit

Thurlow White

Leads, Heavies

Invites offers

Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

E. P. Foot

GENERAL MUSICAL DIRECTOR

Murray &amp; Mack Co., Incorporated

Mason Opera House Bldg., Los Angeles.

Mina Crolus Gleason

Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland

Louis Morrison

Belasco Stock Co.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Seibert & Lindley

Presenting the headline act, "HER OWN MOTHER," in vaudeville.

Sidney B. Payne

Lyric Stock, Portland, Or.

Sydney Ayres

Leading Man

Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, Cal.

Budd Ross

Comedian

Princess Theatre, San Francisco

Al Hallett

Stage Director

Broadway Theatre, Oakland

F. F. Munier

Characters

Broadway Theatre Stock, Oakland

Priscilla Knowles

Leads

Bennett Jack

Characters

Lyric Theatre, Portland

Whit Brandon

Leading Man and Director

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Ethel Tucker

Leading Woman

At Liberty

Paul McAllister

Leading Man

Valencia Theatre, S. F.

George B. Baldwin, Jr.

Alcazar Stock, San Francisco

Monroe Salisbury

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

James Austin Gleason—Webster Lucile

Playing Title Role in Checkers

Juveniles in Checkers

Godfrey Matthews

At Liberty for Leads or Heavies

Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

Leslie King

Season with E. H. Sothern
Closed June 17thImmediately Engaged by
Frederic Thompson for Polly of the Circus
To open June 29th

Edith Mason

EDITH MASON, prima donna of the Perssee-Mason company in the new comedy opera by Herman Perlet, the singing bandits is pictured above. Included in the cast are such well known people as Thomas Persse, tenor; Bernice Holmes, the contralto; Jane Roberts, mezzo soprano; Joseph Mills, baritone, and Noble Gerson, basso. The company is booked solid for a forty weeks' tour and will open about September 20th.

Personals

TUNIS F. DEAN, who has not been to the Coast for a number of years, is the manager of the new Blanche Bates company now headed this way.

T. H. SCHOLER, the Monterey manager who has given away to A. J. Chapman of Watsonville, who has taken a three years' lease on the Works Theatre of Monterey, is spending a vacation in Berkeley.

JAMES PILLING, formerly manager of Idora Park in Oakland, a theatrical man of experience, will direct the tour of the Persse-Mason Opera Company. D. S. McFadden, formerly of the San Francisco Opera Company, will go in advance.

ROBERT W. MACBRIDE, who passed through San Francisco some three months ago for Australia on an errand for the Shuberts, left last Saturday for New York, taking with him forty Maoris, who will be used in the Hippodrome's new spectacle.

LITTLE DONALD GALLAGHER, who plays the role of the general in Dustin Farnum's production of Cameo Kirby, was here last season with the same star in the production of The Squaw Man. Young Gallagher is one of the hits of the Cameo Kirby.

MABEL WILBUR, after touring the Pacific Coast as Sonia in The Merry Widow, returned to New York to join the Eastern company organized for the Viennese operetta. The new Merry Widow company begins its season with four performances at Ashbury Park, beginning August 25th.

MARTIN BECK is quoted as predicting that in time all vaudeville houses will be divided into two classes, those presenting an evening of variety acts and those offering a bill composed of seven or eight twenty-minute dramas.

MRS. LOUIS MORGENSTERN, wife of Al Hayman's private secretary, formerly of San Francisco, but now a resident of New York, is visiting in this city and is the guest of her mother, Mrs. K. Isaacs.

THE first of the opera singers to arrive in New York this season were on the steamer La Torraine, which reached New York from Havre last Saturday. There were about twenty-five members of Oscar Hammerstein's

The Greatest

Cast of

Singers

Headed by

THOS. H. PERSSE
Tenor

EDITH MASON
Soprano

Now Booking Season 1909 & 10

The Persse-Mason Co.

In the New Operatic Comedy

The Singing Bandits

Book and Music by HERMAN PERLET

THOS. H. PERSSE.....Sole Proprietor
JAMES PILLING.....Manager

Permanent Address: Dramatic Review, Van Ness Theatre Building, San Francisco

Everything
Complete

New Scenery

Excellent
Music

Quartette of Comedians

forces, who have come for what is known as the "educational opera" at the Manhattan Opera House, opening August 30th. Margarite Sylva, soprano, and the new Spanish tenor, Carasa, were members of the party.

WILLIAM GILLETTE's new comedy drama, at which he is now at work, will have its first presentation in Paris, the first known instance of a play written in America and given its premiere before a foreign audience. If successful in French the piece will be produced in English in London and New York. Mr. Gillette is now on board his houseboat, Aunt Polly, on Long Island Sound. He will do most of his work afloat. His future plans include a farewell tour of the United States in a repertoire of his old plays, including The Private Secretary, Held by the Enemy, Too Much Johnson, Secret Service, Clarice and Sherlock Holmes. He will then become associated with Charles Frohman in a new theatre in New York.

GEORGE BRONSON, according to the story told in New York by Miss Theodora Girard, a performer in a Broadway musical production, compelled her to give him one of her rings Saturday and threatened to kill her. Miss Girard did not wish to press the charge of assault she had made against Howard and was willing to withdraw that of robbery also if she could recover her ring, but Magistrate Corrigan would not let the complaint be withdrawn. When he saw the knife with which Howard, it is alleged, had threatened Miss Girard, the clerk was ordered to make out a complaint against Howard for carrying a concealed weapon. Howard is joint author with Wilson Mizner, formerly of San Francisco, of The Only Law. He has also written many novels and was formerly on the stage. According to the police, he said he went to Miss Girard's rooms to borrow money. Wilson Mizner supplied $2,000 bail for Howard's appearance.

...VAN NESS THEATRE...

For the Two Weeks Which Begin on Monday Evening, August 23, and End on Sunday Evening, Sept. 5

AMERICA'S FAVORITE ROMANTIC ACTOR

Dustin Farnum

(Direction of Liebler & Co.)

In the New Scintillatingly Successful Play of Love and Adventure, Entitled

Cameo Kirby

Written by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, Authors of
The Man from Home

In Mr. Farnum's support is this remarkable cast: McKEE RANKIN, MAY BUCKLEY, JOHN J. HARRINGTON, GORDON JOHNSTONE, MAUD HOSFORD, BURR CARUTH, WILLIAM H. CARTER, RUTH LLOYD, C. R. WEBSTER, DONALD GALLEHER, NORA SHELBY, WILLIAM FREDERIC, JANE KENDRICK and GLADYS WILLIAMS.

ONLY MATINEE SATURDAY

Opened Season Paterson, N. J., Aug. 23, A Real Success

Will Play a Long
Coast
Tour

—with—
Colonel John Cort

AS THE SUN
WENT DOWN

By Geo. D. Baker

Address
ARTHUR C. AISTON
Sole Owner
Room 304
1505 Broadway
N. Y. City
Tel. 941 Bryant

THE SAN FRANCISCO DRAMATIC REVIEW

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Published Continuously Since 1880. The Only Theatrical Publication in the Great West

Ten Cents a Copy—$4.00 a Year

San Francisco, Saturday, September 4, 1909

No. 2—Vol. XXI—New Series

Harold
Nelson

The Success of Billy

"Billy" is now safely aboard the steamship "Florida," having anchored at Daly's Theatre, N. Y., August 16th for an indefinite period. The farce, which is in three acts, with Sidney Drew as the star, was first tried out at the Ocean Park Casino, Long Branch, and is well known here in its first form as a playlet at the Orpheum. At one time Alan Dale went into a fine frenzy over it. His impressions were on this order: "There is one charm about vaudeville which, like the table d'hôte dinner, is made up of many courses, some digestible, and some indigestible. The charm is that you can pin your faith to the one thing that digests. Sometimes the very course that you have made up your mind to gluttonize over proves to be quite uneatable. For instance, I went to Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue, thither lured by Mr. Lawrance D'Orsay and company in Footfalls, found myself unable to assimilate it (though I tried hard) and was just on the verge of hungry desperation when Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew saved the situation with the most amusing sketch I have ever seen in vaudeville, called Billy's Tombstones. It was worth waiting for. It was worth any theatre-goer's trouble. While new to the Fifth Avenue Theatre, it had been done elsewhere, I am told—not that I care a hang. My vaudeville reflections, such as they are, are not designed for vaudeville fiends, who can tell you how long each act runs, where it came from, whither it goeth, what circuit it is playing, and all the rest of the tedious technicalities. This is designed for theatre-goers. I honestly assure them that Billy's Tombstones would go in any legitimate theatre, and make a hit there. Billy's tombstones are his false teeth. He is affectionate but falsely toothed. He is on board the steamship Florida bound for Havana, with his sister. He was a football hero, and lost his natural born teeth on the field of honor. On board he meets sweet Beatrice and loves her, but his false teeth hold him back, as it were. He feels that she should know his past—his dental past—but he hates to tell her. The situation curdles. Billy is standing by her side, with a door at the back of him, when through that door a steward, food-laden, rudely rushes. Billy is knocked over; his teeth fall out; they are lost! Away he goes, stricken and toothless. Without them he can but lisp. Beatrice degenerates to Beatrith. His helpful little sister has forgot to pack his substitute teeth. It is not tragedy. The hero is there, in his nude gums. Mr. Kenneth Lee, the humorous author of the sketch, piles on the agony. It is genuine agony to the stage, complete laughter to the audience—a condition which is the real essence of good farce. Never have you imagined so many entirely plausible complications accruing from false teeth. A life's happiness is made to depend upon them. You roar with laughter, in your innate cruelty. Finally, the teeth are found by a sailor, and given to the pursuer, who puts them in the usual glass case at the head of the stairs, with the legend that the owner can have them upon personal application. Poor Billy, condemned to soft food, and lisp, hates to apply in person, and, in the meantime, an auction sale of souvenirs takes place, and the teeth are auctioned off, as a weird remembrance of the trip. It costs Billy $1,000 to get them back. In many a laughing Manhattan mouth dwells the sweet deception of dental skill. All that's ivory is not—tooth. Billy's Tombstones must strike home into many a mysterious mouth, while those whose teeth are as nature made 'em will laugh in benign superiority. It is a well-written, clever and telling little play, and it is capably acted by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew. Sidney Drew, whom I have not seen for years, appears to have developed tremendously. The farcical work he does in Billy's Tombstones is finer than any that you may find at legitimate theatres. It is straight, sincere, and—tragic. He is in dead earnest, and what is laughter to the audience is misery to him. That he never forgets, nor does he ever cater to the mirth that prevails. It is genuinely pure farce work, and as such it is worthy of critical attention. Almost equally good is Mrs. Sidney Drew, who has a keen sense of humor and knows how to make a point. Billy's Tombstones is a good thing because it is an unusual one. If farce writers paid more attention to this sort of sketch, and less to the silly convention of banging doors, and mistaken identity, one might glean more fun.

Anna, the Blacksmith's Daughter, Who Has Been Called to Grand Opera

Last spring, Miss Anna Case was helping her father shoe horses in his blacksmith shop in the village of South Branch, N. J., on week days and was singing in the First Presbyterian church of Plainfield on Sundays. This fall she will make her debut at the Metropolitan Opera House as a member, duly signed and under contract with that famous organization which includes some of the greatest names in the world of present-day music. These two facts sum up the career of a most remarkable girl. She is only 21 years old, and when she was born her father was a country blacksmith in a small way, as he is still. From Clinton, N. J., her family moved to Newark, where, before she was three years old her constant singing of the period's popular song won her the pet name of "Little Annie Rooney." In South Branch, N. J., where the Cases moved shortly afterwards, the child continued to sing, and before she was twelve years old taught herself to play "by ear" on the family organ. Her father sent her for lessons on the violin to a local virtuoso, but the girl soon gave this up and began to concentrate her ambition on singing. Finally, when she was fourteen, she made a bargain with a vocal teacher in Somerville, a neighboring village, to give her one lesson a week at 25 cents a lesson. During all this time the girl helped her father in his shop, soothing restless horses, carrying tools for him, and sometimes "dunning" patrons who were slow in paying. When she was seventeen years old she took the place of organist in the local church, and then sang in the choir. At the same time she had advanced in the blacksmith shop, and had become so expert that she shod horses when her father had an extra rush of work.

She kept up her lessons, first with one country teacher and then with another, always trying to seize what was best within her limited field. Then she made what was a great advance, for she obtained the place of soprano soloist with a church in Plainfield, a large town. With the increased salary she was able, by very strict economy, to go to a high-priced teacher in Brooklyn. Her naturally beautiful voice, by this time moulded through her long and serious study, now began to attract attention. She sang in some of the Brooklyn churches, and appeared last spring at a musicale in Philadelphia, where Herr Director Dippel, of the Metropolitan heard her. He invited her to sing before him and other heads of the opera house. When she did so it proved an end of blacksmithing, and an end of circulating among country teachers in an effort to acquire her art. She was "signed" with the Metropolitan forces and it was decided that she shall sing at the Metropolitan this year before being sent abroad to study under the greatest teachers, at the expense of her employers. The girl who has accomplished all this still remains in all outward appearance the demurely pretty village singer. Her head has not been turned, and she makes no predictions save the obvious one that if hard work will bring her fame then she will be famous. She knows whereof she speaks, for, as she remarks with a laugh, hard work has been her "lifelong friend."

Early History of the Drama

Shakespeare wrote between 1590 and 1599 nineteen dramatic works, and according to Henslowe's diary not more than £11 was paid for any one of them. He received from other sources sums that aggregated in the neighborhood of £115. After 1599 his income increased very much. Higher prices were paid for plays and with the building of the Globe Theatre, in which Shakespeare became part owner, he amassed quite a sum. That he was well-to-do was known to his fellow-townsmen, who called him a man of considerable means. From such records as we have, it would seem that Shakespeare earned during the twelve best years of his career, an annual sum of about £500. Much feeling was aroused during the Elizabethan period between the actors as a class, and the nobility, due to the Thespian's vanity for rich apparel. In Alleyn's papers it is mentioned that for £20 10 shillings a cloak was transferred to John and Edward Alleyn. It was of velvet, elaborately embroidered in silver and gold and lined with black and gold striped satin. John Alleyn also paid £16 for one cloak of velvet with a cape embroidered with gold, pearl and red satin, and one robe of cloth of gold.

At this time the materials in which actors appeared were genuine and expensive. No cheap silk or tinsel was used. In Henslowe's diary he mentions on the 26th of November, 1597, he loaned Robert Shaw £4 for the use of the company to buy eight yards of cloth of gold. He mentions shortly after giving the same Robert Shaw 16 shillings to buy copper lace of silver to lace a pair of hose for Alice Pierce. There is also another item of having "Lent unto Bengemen Johnstone, the 3 of december, 1597, upon a Booke wch he showed the plotte unto the company: I saye lente in Redy money unto him the some of 20 shillings." Henslowe, it seems, was a good friend to the actors who spent their fees on costly dresses which afterwards went into the pawn-broker's shop, and then in order that they might properly apparel themselves for the plays he produced, Henslowe was compelled to advance the money to redeem the pledges.

Spotlights

The Ed Redmond company closes in Santa Cruz tonight.

Dan S. Fishell, who is the power behind the throne in the new Princess Theatre located in the southeast corner of Grand and Olive, St. Louis, after a certain amount of difficulty had his building plans accepted by Commissioner J. Smith last week.

David Belasco has once more shown his wizardry in the new Dietrichstein farce, Is Matrimony a Failure? from a German source, produced at the Belasco Theatre in New York on August 24th. Mr. Belasco's hand is as clearly shown as ever it was in any of the more serious pieces he has written or produced. Is Matrimony a Failure? is a laugh from start to finish. It is farce, but with a sting in it. In a small village several husbands leave as many wives after discovering that a technical error apparently has made their marriages null and void. The men try to dictate terms to the women, but are beaten at their own game. The way the women win out and bring the men to their feet is a matter that makes for laughter from start to finish. It's the most deliciously droll farce, whereas farce usually is too obvious to be droll. Anne Sutherland, as the leader of the woman's side, is simply immense. She is amusing when she isn't brilliant, and vice versa, or both. Louise Mackintosh also is clever and up to the Belasco standard of acting requirements. Frank Worthing is very good as one of the fighting husbands. W. J. Ferguson and William Morris also render good service.

Slightly Worn Wardrobe for Stage Purposes
Ladies' Handsome Evening Gowns and Opera Coats; good as new; in latest styles. Men's Full Dress and Tuxedo Suits. MRS. E. JACOBS, 1050 Golden Gate Avenue, Store Phone West 2185, Residence Phone Park 4298.

Hotel St. James

Cor. Van Ness Ave. and Fulton St.
San Francisco, California

Headquarters for Agents and Managers

Half Block from Van Ness Theatre.
Friars meet at the St. James every Friday night.

F. P. SHANLEY, Manager, formerly of New York

Henry B. Harris Starts a Crusade

At the quarterly meeting of the National Association of Theatrical Producing Managers held in New York on August 3, 1909, Henry B. Harris submitted to the association a copy of a bulletin issued by him to his advance representatives, which reads as follows:

Deal direct with transfer companies. Ascertain whether or not anyone receives any "rake-off" from transfer charges.

Do not go in on electric signs.

When doing extra advertising, find out from the newspapers the cost per line and see that you are not charged more than your proper share.

Report conditions in each theatre in front and back, where uncleanly or unsanitary.

Report each case of graft or extortion exacted or sought to be exacted from the company or its members.

"To the honest manager," said Mr. Harris, "this bulletin will be welcome, as it is the aim of the producing managers to eradicate and drive out of the business that element in the profession who thrive on graft, extortion, and unjust demands. To the advertising department of newspapers who have been compelled to stand in with the dishonest theatrical manager lest they be discriminated against in the apportionment of advertising, this news should be exceedingly pleasant. It is not the intention of the producing managers' association, nor do they strive to tell the manager of the local theatre how he must run his business, but they do insist that whatever proposition is paid for by the traveling manager, must be the absolute honest price and he will not permit the local manager to take a "rake-off." This not alone applies to advertising, but also to the hauling of baggage and scenery."

Personals

EDWARD KELLIE and Roy Sutherland have been added to the stock in the Seattle Theatre, Seattle.

CHARLES EMERSON COOK, for a long period David Belasco's general press representative, has started out for himself. Mr. Cook has had two stock companies in New England this summer, where he tried out a new play, The Upstart, which he believes will be a moneymaker in the larger cities, and he will therefore give it an important production this season. This fact, of course, would make it practically impossible for him to take care of Mr. Belasco's interests; hence his departure from Mr. Belasco's office.

MRS. EVELYN NESBIT THAW, when asked in New York last Wednesday regarding persistent rumors that she had joined the divorce colony in the Nevada town, said: "I have never been in Reno in my life." And she continued: "I don't intend to go there. I have been right here for the last three years and I am sick and tired of hearing these reports that I have been seen in different parts of the country. I need money more than I need a divorce just at present. That is necessary to live on, and I shall make no plans until I arrange a settlement with the Thaw family."

J. W. SAYRE, the Seattle critic, who has just returned from a vacation spent in Alaska, reports that at Prince Rupert, Juneau, and one or two other of the British Columbia and Alaska towns he visited he was told that the Frawley company was booked for two and three night engagements on its way out from the Yukon country. Charlie Taylor played those towns on the way in. A letter from T. Daniel Frawley says that he is playing to capacity and standing room every night at prices ranging from $1 to $2.50.

Dates Ahead

A GIRL AT THE HELM (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Milwaukee, Sept. 5-11; Peoria, 12-15; Springfield, 16-18; Chicago, 19-25; St. Louis, 26 to Oct. 2.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Aberdeen, Sept. 4; Seattle, 5-11; Tacoma, 12; Victoria, 13; Vancouver, 14-15; Westminster, 16; Bellingham, 17; Everett, 18; Portland, 19-21; Eugene, 22; Red Bluff, 24; Marysville, 25; Frisco, 26 to Oct. 1.

ALCAZAR STOCK.—San Francisco.

AS THE SUN WENT DOWN (Arthur C. Aiston.)—Niagara Falls, Sept. 4; Buffalo, 6, week; Akron, 13-15; Youngstown, 16-18; Salem, 20; New Philadelphia, 21; Dayton, 22-25; Cleveland, 27, week.

BELASCO STOCK CO.—Los Angeles.

BISHOP'S PLAYERS.—In stock, Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland.

CHIC PERKINS.—(Frank G. King, mgr.)—Iowa Falls, Sept. 4; Cedar Rapids, 5; Seymour, 6; Bloomfield, 7; Moravia, 8-9; North English, 10-11; Buxton, 13; Hartman, 14; Milton, 15; Mystic, 16; Wayland, 17-18;

GUY SMITH STOCK.—Oakland, Cal.

HAROLD NELSON IN PRINCE OTTO.—San Francisco, Sept. 13 and week.

LITTLE JOHNNY JONES (Chas. L. Crane)—Punxsutawney, Sept. 4; Wheeling, W. Va., 6; Cambridge, Ohio, 13; Zanesville, 14; Coshocton, 15; Newark, 16; Lancaster, 17; Circleville, 18; Columbus, 20-22; Delaware, 23; Marysville, 24; Bellefontaine, 25; Piqua, 28; Wapakoneta, 29; St. Mary's, 30.

MCKENZIE'S MERRY-MAKERS.—Marshfield, Sept. 23, 4 weeks.

MOROSCO'S BURBANK STOCK.—Los Angeles.

PAID IN FULL.—San Diego, Sept. 5-6; Santa Ana, 7; San Bernardino, 8; Bakersfield, 9; Hanford, 10; Sacramento, 11; Eugene, 13; Salem, 14; Astoria, 15; Portland, 16-17-18; Seattle, 20 and week; Tacoma, 26-27; Victoria, 28; Vancouver, 29-30; Bellingham, Oct. 1; Everett, 2; Ellensburg, 4; Spokane, 5-6; Missoula, 7; Butte, 8-9; Great Falls, 10; Helena, 11; Bozeman, 12; Livingston, 13; Billings, 14; Dickinson, 15; Bismarck or Jamestown, 17; Fargo, 18.

The Oliver Morosco Enterprises

HOME OFFICE
BURBANK THEATRE BUILDING
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Oliver Morosco's Plays

Ready for Stock

The Judge and the Jury      The Halfbreed
The Empress and the Soldier
In South Car'l'ney

Is the New Majestic a winner? Well, we guess yes

MOROSCO'S
BURBANK THEATRE
Los Angeles, Cal.
"The Best in the West"
The Leading Stock House.

Hamburger's MAJESTIC Theatre
The Handsomest in the West
Cost $300,000.00
Oliver Morosco, Lessee & Mgr
For time address JOHN COIT

The
Garrick Theatre
San Diego, Cal.

MOROSCO & WYATT,
Lessees and Mgrs.

ANNUAL
TOUR OF

THE ELLEFORD COMPANY

IN LATEST DRAMATIC ROYALTY SUCCESSES
Pacific Coast Representative for Brady and Griener's
MAN OF THE HOUR and WAY DOWN EAST

W. J. ELLEFORD, Sole Proprietor and Director

FRANK WYMAN, Manager

WILLIS BASS, Business Manager

Permanent Address, Francis-Valentine Co., 285-287 13th St., S. F.

POLLY OF THE CIRCUS.—Victoria, Sept. 4; Tacoma, 5-7; Ellensburg, 8; North Yakima, 9; Walla Walla, 10-11; Spokane, 12-15; Missoula, 16; Helena, 17; Great Falls, 18; Butte, 19-20; Anaconda, 21; Bozeman, 22; Livingston, 23; Billings, 24-25; Denver, 27-Oct. 3.

RAYMOND TEAL.—Phoenix till Aug. 16; then Tucson for four weeks.

SANFORD DODGE—Deadwood, Sept. 6-7; Hot Springs, 8; Newcastle, 9; Gillette, 10-11; Buffalo, 13-15; Sheridan, 16-18; Crawford, 20; Lander, 22-23; Caspar, 24-25; Douglas, 27 and week.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Eastern), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—St. Louis, Sept. 5-11; Springfield, 12-15; Peoria, 16-17-18; Milwaukee, 19-25; St. Paul, 26 to Oct. 2.

RINGLING'S CIRCUS.—Napa, Sept. 4; Oakland, 5-6; Santa Cruz, 7; Salinas, 8; San Francisco, 9-13; San Jose, 14; Stockton, 15; Fresno, 16; Visalia, 17; Bakersfield, 18; Santa Barbara, 20; Los Angeles, 21-22; Santa Ana, 24; San Bernardino, 25; Phoenix, 27; Tucson, 28.

THE CAT AND THE FIDDLE (Chas. A. Sellon, mgr.)—Dickenson, Sept. 4; Miles City, 6; Billings, 7; Livingston, 8; Bozeman, 9; Anaconda, 10; Butte, 11-12; Great Falls, 13; Helena, 14; Missoula, 15; Wallace, 16; Colfax, 17; Spokane, 18-19; Sprague, 20; Walla Walla, 21; N. Yakima, 22; Ellensburg, 23; Tacoma, 24-25; Seattle, 26 to Oct. 2.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Walla Walla, Sept. 4; Spokane, 5-6; Walla Walla, 7; Yakima, 8; Tacoma, 9; Aberdeen, 10; Chehalis, 11; Seattle, 12-18; Portland, 19-25; Astoria, 26; Salem, 27; Albany, 28; Eugene, 29; Roseburg, 30.

THE MISSOURI GIRL (Merle H. Norton, lessee; Joseph Rith, mgr.)—Mound City, Sept. 4; Cairo, 5; Paducah, Ky., 6; Charleston, Mo., 7; Portageville, 8; Blytheville, Ark., 9; Caruthersville, Mo., 10; Hayti, 11; Kennett, 13; Campbell, 14; Rector, Ark., 15; Jonesboro, 16.

THE SOUL KISS (Albert Hoogs, bus. mgr.)—Charlotte, Sept. 4; Columbia, 6; Augusta, 7; Charleston, 8; Savannah, 9; Jacksonville, 10; Macon, 11; Chattanooga, 13; Birmingham, 14; Atlanta, 15-16; Montgomery, 17; Mobile, 18; New Orleans, Tulane Theatre, week of Sept. 19; Baton Rouge, Sept. 26; Jackson, 27; Memphis, 28-30; Little Rock, Oct. 1; Hot Springs, Oct. 2; Dallas, 4-5; Fort Worth, 6-7; Waco, 8; San Antonio, 9-10.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (Eastern), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Chicago, Sept. 5-11; Detroit, 12-18; Toledo, 19-25; Louisville, 26 to Oct. 2.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (Western) (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Seattle, Sept. 5-11; Aberdeen, 12; Tacoma, 13-14; Victoria, 15; Vancouver, 16-17; Westminster, 18; Bellingham, 19; Everett, 20; Chehalis, 22; Portland, 23-24-25; Corvallis, 27; Chico, 29; Sacramento, 30.

YANKEE DOODLE STOCK COMPANY.—(Geo. V. Haliday.)—Superior, until Sept. 5; Chippewa Falls, 6-12.

New Oxnard Opera House

OXNARD, CAL.

Factory Town and Wealthy Country
Five Thousand Population
New House and Doing Big Business
Write for Open Dates
GEO. P. AUSTIN . . . . . Manager

GONZALES OPERA HOUSE

GONZALES, CAL.

New, well appointed theatre, electric lighted.

full stock of new scenery.

C. H. WIDEMAN, Mgr.

WOODLAND Opera House

WOODLAND, CAL.

Greatest show town for good shows in the West. A few good dates open in September and October. Stage big enough for any production. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

Hill Opera House

PETALUMA, CAL.

JOHN R. ROCHE, Lessee and Manager

The finest theatrical town outside of the big cities in the West. Magnificent new theatre, with stage large enough for any attraction, playing regularly from $500 to $700 a night. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

287 Thirteenth St., S. F.

BARCROFT Opera House, Merced

Entirely remodeled. New stage, big enough for any production. Stage equipped with new scenery. Merced has 4,000 population. For time write F. R. BARCROFT, Manager.

Santa Cruz OPERA HOUSE

Santa Cruz, Cal.

L. A. KNIGHT, Manager

Rental or will play first-class companies on percentage

H. Lewin

H. Oppenheim

GORDAN TAILORING CO.

928 Market St., Bet. Powell and Mason
FINE CLOTHES MODERATE PRICES
No Branch Stores

NEW AUDITORIUM

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CAL.

Seating capacity, 1,000; new stage; new scenery; stage thirty feet deep, sixty feet wide; large enough for any production; a population of 5,000 to draw from; now looking for 1909-10.

Address WALTER A. CLARK, Mountain View, Cal.

Madison's Budget No. 12, Just Out
Parent's Stationery Co., 818 Van Ness Avenue, S.F.

Correspondence

NEW YORK, August 29.—George Broadhurst's play, The Dollar Mark, produced at Wallack's Theatre last week deals with that rather common phase of human nature, the love of money, and more especially that sturdy manhood marked by love of one's fellows, which is not quite so prominent as the other phase. On the opening night after much applause Mr. Broadhurst had to make a little speech, in which he gave well merited credit to the cast and thanked William A. Brady for getting the company together. The Dollar Mark deals with the attempt of a great New York trust to get control of a rich Rocky Mountain gold mine belonging to a miner who has no use for dishonest men or dishonest measures. The hard-headed and hard-hearted head of the trust makes some very frank revelations of the workings of "high finance" and the popular idea of a trust's contempt for "the people." Incidentally the audience learned how a panic can be brought on and how its authors can "save the country—for a rainy day." * * * Miss Hattie Williams appeared last week at the Garrick Theatre in Michael Morton's new comedy, Detective Sparks. It is neither a farce nor a melodrama, but a clever combination of both, and nothing nearly so classic as a "comedy" as the program described it. It is undoubtedly amusing, the unexpected happens at every turn. The role of Athole Forbes keeps Miss Williams on the stage very nearly all the time during the four acts. The company is headed by Julian Royce, who plays Fred Coleridge delightfully. Edward Nicander is pleasing in the role of the brother. David Torrence plays the bit of the inspector very well, and if Vira Stowe had done nothing but her hysterical scene she should deserve a line of praise. F. Owen Baxter played an English journalist to the life. The author was called out at the end of the second act and told the audience that they had really better wait until the end of the play before they commended it. So at the end of the play he was called out again to bow and say his thanks. * * * Charles Frohman made the second of his productions last Monday night at the Apollo Theatre in Atlantic City when he presented for the first time in this country The Flag Lieutenant, an English play. The drama opens on board of a warship in the harbor of Malta. The admiral of the Mediterranean fleet is at a reception. In the midst of gayety word comes of an uprising in Kandia, and help must be sent at once. Major Thesiger is ordered to proceed immediately with a gunboat. Flag Lieutenant Lascelles goes with Thesiger. Thesiger makes an attempt to scale the walls at Kandia and is dangerously wounded. Lascelles scales the walls, signals the fleet and the threatened massacre is averted. The bullet which hit Thesiger robbed him of all memory. No one but the surgeon and telegrapher knows of the part that Lascelles has played. Lascelles determines Thesiger shall have all credit and explains his absence from the scene by saying he was asleep. Insinuations of cowardice are made against him. At the last minute the true story is brought out and Lascelles comes into his own. Lascelles is acted by Bruce McRae. Isabel Irving has the part of Mrs. Cameron. Francis Carlyle is cast as Major Thesiger and Lumsden Hare, an English actor, as admiral of the fleet. * * * McIntyre and Heath appeared last Monday night in In Hayti, a production by Klaw & Erlanger at the Euclid Avenue Opera House, Cleveland. Although this is the home city of A. L. Erlanger, this is the first time he has ever made the first production of a play in this city. At the end of the second act Mr. Erlanger was called upon for a speech. He said in part: "I am very glad that you have given me an opportunity of appearing behind the footlights again, because I have not appeared on any stage since that last time I performed in this very theatre. In fact, they would not let me appear. If some of my old friends are present to-night they will probably remember that my first public appearance was made at the old Academy of Music at the benefit of Francis Finney, a brother-in-law of John Ellsler. I recited the poem of 'Shamus O'Brien.' I knew I did it well, because there are fifty-six verses in the poem, and the audience allowed me to finish it. The first line of that poem—'It was just after the war of the year '98'—has furnished the newspapers with ammunition to bombard me with ever since, and if I had known as much then as I do now I would never have changed the line to read 'It was just after the war of the year '88,' because I have been accused of being in a war ever since. But, fortunately, theatrical wars are not as serious as real warfare. In real battles armies oppose each other with infantry, cavalry and gatling guns, while the ammunition of theatrical wars consists largely of hot air." The play will open at the Circle Theatre, New York, to-morrow evening. * * * Such a Little Queen, a comedy by Channing Pollock, was produced at the Grand Opera House, New Haven, last Monday evening. The name part was played by Elsie Ferguson, and Frank Gilmour acted the part of King Stephen. The plot centers around the dethroning of the king and the queen of two little countries in Central Europe after they were pledged to each other, and their struggles in New York city to earn a living. The other leading roles were played by Ralph Stuart, Eleanor Lawson, Francis Byrne and George W. Barnum.

ROE ROY.

Persse-Mason Have Strong Offering

One of the best and greatest singing shows to visit the Coast this season will be the Singing Bandits, headed by the well-known artists, Thomas H. Persse, tenor, and Edith Mason, prima donna, assisted by a specially selected cast of well-known singers and actors. The Singing Bandits was especially written for Mr. Persse and Miss Mason by Herman Perlet, the well-known composer and musical director, who also wrote such successes

Novelty Theatre, San Francisco TO RENT

By the day, week or month. Fine, comfortable theatre, seating 1,200 people. Large stage. SPECIALLY ADAPTED TO POLITICAL MEETINGS

FEW LEFT

Dates on Which You Can Go East Cheap

Low Rate Round Trip Tickets ::: Sold :::

SALE DATES: September 7, 8, 9, 10, 13, 14, 15, 1909

Other Dates and Rates to Various Points in Effect During October, 1909

SOME RATES:

OMAHA .....	$60.00	NEW ORLEANS .....	$ 67.50
COUNCIL BLUFFS .....	60.00	WASHINGTON .....	107.50
ST. LOUIS .....	67.50	NEW YORK .....	108.50
CHICAGO .....	72.50	BOSTON .....	110.50

Tickets good until October 31, 1909. Some cases longer

Choice of Routes. Stopovers. Write Agents for Details.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC

TICKET OFFICES

FLOOD BUILDING

THIRTEENTH AND FRANKLIN STREETS, OAKLAND

MARKET STREET FERRY DEPOT

CHAS. F. THOMPSON SCENIC CO.

MAIN OFFICE AND STUDIOS, 460, 462, 464 WITMER STREET, LOS ANGELES

THE FINEST, LARGEST AND MOST MODERN SCENIC STUDIOS IN THE WORLD. SCENERY FOR OPERA HOUSES AND PRODUCTIONS. DROP CURTAINS AND SCENIC ADVERTISING DROP CURTAINS OUR SPECIALTY. IN USE IN 1268 THEATRES IN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA. WHY NOT YOURS?

LEVY'S BIG TRUNK STORE

INCORPORATED

COAST AGENTS

FOR THE

Taylor Trunks

687 Market St., S. F. opp. Kearny GENERAL REPAIRING Phone Douglas 3192

as Miss Philadelphia, Mademoiselle Hawkins, etc., besides numerous songs. The company was selected with the idea of each one to fit its own character in the play. The company carries its own scenery and everything is complete to give a first-class production, and we can assure our readers of a splendid evening's entertainment.

J. ROSS CLAWSON JR. is doing the advance for the Western Girls company.

Opera House :::FOR SALE::: Albany, Ore.

Live, growing town, 6,500 population. Modern, built 6 years ago. Capacity, 650. Ground floor. Stage, 49 x 26 x 38 to gridiron. Including scenery, piano and all within. House, 50 x 100 feet. Lot, 57 x 100 feet. On main business street of town.

Price - - - $11,000
Good Chance

Address, H. R. SCHULTZ, Albany, Ore.

Belasco Stage Director Signs With the Burbank Stock in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—We are getting so accustomed to being surprised down here that nothing can upset us now. Just as we think that things are nicely fixed and everyone is happy, someone else comes to the front with something new. The most recent surprise is the fact that David M. Hartford goes to the Burbank Theatre as stage director instead of to New York, as we were previously told. Mr. Gardner retires to go into business, and Mr. Hartford has signed a year's contract with Mr. Morosco, to act in the capacity of stage director and heavy man of the Burbank Company. Harry Andrews, the new stage director of the Belasco, is in town and is directing rehearsals of The Squaw Man, to be produced at that house next week. De Witt Jennings, late of the Belasco Company, will be seen this season in support of Kyrle Bellew. Olga Stech, a Los Angeles girl, last week signed a year's contract with Kolb and Dill. She will open with the company at the Majestic Theatre next Sunday in Dream City. Boyd Marshall, who was leading man for Fritz Scheff in Mlle. Modiste, has been engaged by Kolb and Dill to play all the straight parts during their coming season at the Majestic. H. G. Ginn, formerly of the Burbank Company, is appearing with Charles Frohman's Company, playing The Flag Lieutenant. This is the first American production of the piece, and Bruce McRae plays the lead. William Desmond will soon appear in his old part in The Judge and the Jury, at the Dauphine Theatre, New Orleans. Robert Morris, formerly stage director of the Burbank Theatre, will arrive in Los Angeles this week to visit his family. Mr. Morris is under the management of Harrison Grey Fiske and will make Los Angeles only a short visit.

AUDITORIUM—The Auditorium is re-opened this week under Shubert management. The play selected for the opening is Going Some, the farce-comedy by Paul Armstrong and Rex Beach. The company is not a particularly strong one, but there is no one who is bad, and there are at least two members who are very clever; these two are Eugene O'Rourke, who plays the coach, and Frank Wunderlee, playing Berkeley Fresno, "a native son and Stanford glee singer." The scenic equipment is fine, the company large and well trained, and the presentation very pleasing. The authors have taken—not the West, but that West which the public has expressed a desire to see, the West of romance, in which cowboys always carry half a hundred-weight of artillery, Mexicans herd cattle in fiesta sombreros, and things are as laid down exactly as in the early romances. They have taken this sort of thing for a groundwork, and have given it a modern glossing absolutely funny. The scene is the Flying Heart ranch, New Mexico, and the cause for the excitement a challenge to a foot race, issued by the Centipede ranch. There are opportunities for the introduction of many good characters, and they are worked in with great effectiveness.

MASON—Paid in Full, Eugene

Walter's great play, is occupying the stage at the Mason for the week. This play is too well known to need to be reviewed at this time. The play is a vivid picture of life in which a weak man and a strong woman are mismatched, and in which purity of life and purpose triumphs over sordid, mercenary, selfish meanness. The best member of the cast at the Mason is Ned Finley, as Smith, the friend of Emma and her husband. Finley has an almost faultless conception of the role. Sara Perry, as Emma is very good, and Allen Atwell as the Japanese valet is also good. Louis Morrell as Brooks is not as good as the balance of the cast. The play itself is truly wonderful and is deserving of better interpreters; however, it is well worth seeing at that. There is sufficient good acting to make up for that which is not quite so good. One critic says: "It comes so close to being the long-awaited great American drama that the awarding of the laurel is an open question."

BURBANK—The Great Divide is the attraction at the Burbank Theatre this week. Mr. Beasley is having an opportunity to show what he can do in the variety of parts which he has been called upon to play. Last week we saw him in comedy, and this week it is melodrama. He is certainly proving himself a very versatile actor. The Great Divide is a great play, and it is being presented in a very fine manner by Mr. Morosco's company. Mr. Beasley is giving us a very splendid portrayal of Stephen Ghent. His acting is forceful and dignified, and in fact he fills all the requirements of the role. The other particularly strong character of the play is the Ruth Jordan of Miss Hall. She has devoted much time and study to the part, and the result is the best work she has done in many moons. The minor roles are all well taken care of, but probably the best work is done by Frederick Gilbert in the part of Philip Jordan. Mr. Trask does good work in a character part, and Mr. Young and Mr. Stockbridge are also well cast. The play itself is a wonderfully strong one and is full of heart interest from beginning to end. The performance is quite up to the high standard of excellence which we expect from the Burbank players.

BELASCO—Once again we have a new leading woman on the stage of the Belasco Theatre. Thais Magrane is very charming as far as we are able to judge her by her work in Channing Pollock's well-known comedy, Clothes, or The Way of the World, as it is called on the Belasco program. Miss Magrane is charming, both as to face and figure, and she certainly does wear some beautiful gowns. Her voice is pleasing, and she has "made good" in her opening performance. Sheldon Lewis does some very fine work as Arnold West. His is a part that might easily be over-acted, but this Mr. Lewis does not do. His acting is forceful all the way through. Mr. Bennett as Richard Burbank is all that we expect him to be. It is not a large part, but it would not be possible for Mr. Bennett to be anything except excellent. Mr. Giblyn appears well in a character part. Miss Farrington and Miss Lewis do good work in their respective parts.

GRAND—That old but always popular play, East Lynne, is being put on by the stock company at the Grand for the current week. The principal attraction this week is Lillian Hayward, who makes her re-appearance at the Grand. She was one of the most popular members of the Ulrich Stock Company. The story of this old play is too well known to need repeating. It is as much a favorite as ever, and the present production is all that we might expect. Miss Hayward appears in the leading feminine role of Lady Isabel. Her work in this part is well done. George Webb is fine as the "villainous" Sir Francis Levison. Grace Rauworth is cast as Barbara Hare. Miss Claire does well with the principal comedy role, Miss Carlyle. Messrs. Harris, Brunton, McDonald, Metcalf, and Mr. Cox are all good in minor roles. The stage settings are good and the performance very satisfactory.

ORPHEUM—The Orpheum bill for the week is a very good one, and that is saying a lot for this kind of weather. The act must be very clever to keep us entertained during this hot spell. At the head of the bill we have the Six American Dancers. This act furnishes something new in the way of dancing numbers, and it is a very clever act. The costuming is also attractive. Sam Chip and Mary Marble, who are remembered for their fine work in Dream City last season, appear in A Deft Dialogue with Ditties Designated "In Old Edam." There are bright songs in this act, good clean comedy and real impersonation. Bob Matthews and Herbert Ashley are seen to advantage in a new sketch entitled, Held Up. Frank Conroy, George Le Maire and a very good company present A King for a Night in a very pleasing manner. Mr. Conroy's negro impersonation is particularly good. The holdovers include Griff, London's Favorite Juggling, Jesting Johnnie, Sam Watson's Barnyard Circus, which continues to please everybody; Schrode and Mulvey, in their skit, and Herbert and Willing in black-face comedy. Motion pictures of a humorous variety conclude the bill.

LOS ANGELES—Mlle. Loretta and her posing dog offer one of the best acts that have appeared on a vaudeville stage in Los Angeles in many months. They present a series of poses reproducing many of the famous hunting pictures. The Dammann Troupe present a number of new and clever acrobatic feats and work very rapidly. Carita Day and her dancing boys furnish some good and lively dancing that makes their act one of the best on the bill. John P. Reid is one of the droll type of monologists who tells funny stories and sings funny songs in a unique and amusing way. John J. Black presents a well-written sketch entitled The Advance Agent. This sketch is well acted, and the story is interesting with many good bits of comedy in it. Sandos does some difficult juggling, while his assistant furnishes the comedy of the act. Motion pictures complete the bill.

EMPIRE—The Empire is re-opened this week with a new musical company. The first bill is a condensed version of Roly Poly, an old Kolb and Dill success. Billy Onslow and Max Steinle create much of the fun in Irish and German comedy parts. Charles Reilly, as a race-track grafter, makes a hit and does some good singing. The other roles are acceptably filled by Ben Sellar, Annie Baumann, Devola May and Mattie Hyde. The chorus of eight girls does good work, and the first offering is being well presented.

FISCHER'S—A Runaway Honeymoon is the one-act musical comedy being given at Fischer's this week. There are many amusing situations developed, and the Allen Curtis Company are putting on a good show. Mayme Praeger is effective as an elderly spinster, and Arthur Clamage is good in a character part. Charles 0752—Galley 11. Dramatic Figg comes into his own in the role of an old soldier, and Albert Leonard and Estelle Praeger do well in minor roles. The chorus does good work, and the best songs in the piece are, On a Monkey Honeymoon and Won't You Buy a Paper, Dearie?

UNIQUE—The special feature act at the Unique Theatre this week is Huntress, who, after making his entrance in male attire, changes for his female impersonations, his first being of Blanche Ring. The gowns worn by Huntress are pretty, and scenically the act is beautiful. His dances are executed with grace and ease. DeVerne and Mack have a singing and musical act in which the singing of the woman is the feature. She has a very deep voice which she knows how to use. Johnnie on the Spot, the comedietta of the week, is well presented by Edwin Emery, Denton Vane, Al Franks and the other members of the company. Herbert Cramer, Miss Douvee, Miss Constance and Miss Salmon all have good parts and play them well. Al Franks has the illustrated song, and amusing motion pictures conclude the performance. FLORENCE EMERY.

Blanche Bates' Pacific Coast Tour

BLANCHE BATES (David Belasco)—San Francisco, Sept. 6, two weeks; Los Angeles, 20, and week; San Diego, 27; Santa Barbara, 28; Bakersfield, 29; Stockton, 30; Sacramento, Oct. 1; San Jose, 2; Oakland, 4, and week; Portland, 11, and week; Seattle, 18, and week; Tacoma, 25-26; Victoria, 27; Vancouver, 28-29; Bellingham, 30; Spokane, Nov. 1-3.

Clyde Fitch Reported Very Ill

PARIS, Sept. 2.—It is reported that Clyde Fitch, the playwright, is seriously ill at Chalons-sur-Marne, following an operation. No details have been received as to the nature of Fitch's affection.

The Ed Redmond Company closed in Watsonville last week, and the company was taken over by Fred Giesea of the Victory Theatre in San Jose, who proposes to play them for two weeks more.

Harold Nelson, the well-known Eastern actor, will make a short Western tour in Prince Otto, under the direction of G. G. Garette. In the company are Boyd Cobb and wife, Lewis Lytton and wife, and Harold Houston.

ANITA MURRAY

Eugenie
Broadway Stock, Oakland.

Correspondence

SALT LAKE CITY, August 30.
—SALT LAKE THEATRE—Geo. D. Pyper, manager, September 2-4—David Belasco will present Blanche Bates in her latest success, The Fighting Hope, by W. J. Hulbert.

THE COLONIAL—R. A. Grant, manager—Will reopen this week with Geo. M. Cohan's rural play, Fifty Miles From Boston; Grace King will head the company, with Edward O'Connor in the role of the famous Harrigan, hero of the popular song of that name which Mr. Cohan wrote for this play.

ORPHEUM—Henry Sonnenberg, manager—The bill presented last week was again up to the standard and seemed to get better and stronger at every performance. Three or four members competed closely for the title of "headliner." Jack Moffett and Elsie Clare, in their whirl and dance, are quite out of the ordinary; Herr Londe and Fraulein Tilly are clever European gymnasts, Herr Londe, especially, has a wonderful feat of climbing a ladder in mid-air, which was supported at one end by a steel rod; Harry Armstrong and Billy Clark, the noted song writers, appear in a playlet entitled Finding A Partner, and sing their own compositions such as The Story the Violet Told, I Love My Wife, But Oh You Kid! and The Bold Brave Fireman; The Lancton Lucier company appear in a farcical play entitled A Fool's Errand, Mr. Lucier, as a messenger boy, made a decided hit with the audiences; Geo. Hillman, as a German teacher with his Redpath Napañees, in a musical comedy, Fun in a Schoolroom, was good and well received.

THE GRAND—A. B. Jensen, manager—The first part of last week Girls was presented at this Theatre by Sam S. and Lee Schubert (Inc.), playing to fairly large houses. This play terminated the Schubert productions, as Pelton and Smutzer of the Denver Theatre Co. have cancelled all Schubert attractions. The syndicate controlling this theatre has engaged the Willard Mack Stock Co. which has been playing here through the winter for an indefinite time. Willard Mack will head the company with Blanche Douglas as leading lady. They will open with Salomy Jane, followed by The Squawman. The new Bungalow Stock Co. will open its season September 6th, in The Love Route.

R. HARBACH.

DENVER, Aug. 30.—Denver has had the pleasure of seeing Miss Blanche Bates in a Belasco production the past week, which for artistic work on the part of the players and the perfection of setting cannot be excelled. Miss Bates is an artist through and through and in the present vehicle she has a tremendous opportunity to use her emotional powers, which she does to prodigious advantage. She possesses the whole gamut of emotions that are trained and deep, and in her portrayal of the convict's wife and as a tender mother, her work was superb. Besides her power of conservation of a wonderful emotional nature, Miss Bates is physically beautiful. She is a joy to behold in the radiance of her womanly beauty and her well-modulated voice fell like summer waters upon the enthusiastic audiences which crowded the fashionable Broadway Theatre to see The Fighting Hope. As is the case with all Belasco productions, the star is well-supported. Miss Bates was the honor guest of Mrs. Elitch-Long, the owner of Elitch's Gardens, where Miss Bates was leading woman for a summer stock season some years ago. Denver welcomed Miss Bates with the affectionate regard of Westerners for their own, and set a good pace for San Francisco to take when her talented daughter steps through the Golden Gate. Going Some, a play by Rex Beach and Paul Armstrong, is the greatest laugh-getter this side of Broadway, and had a fine run at the Curtis Theatre under the Shubert management. It is a delightful comedy, with a great variety of characters introduced but so well harmonized that a plot is scarcely necessary. In Going Some, in order to keep up the terrific laughter which the previous acts have produced, the last act is marred and the climax impaired by too much horse-play on the part of the leading man. No one can afford to miss seeing the excellent work of this numerous company, especially that of Eugene O'Rourke in the role of Larry Glass, as athletic coach, masseur and nerve specialist. But the record-breaking houses were had at Elitch's Gardens where Maude Fealy starred in Peter Pan and at the Tabor where Geo. Cohan's rural musical play, Fifty Miles from Boston, was produced. Maude Fealy was a delicious Peter. She was a joy serene to watch and hear. Miss Fealy is playing Peter Pan again this week and goes from here to Cleveland for a three weeks' stock engagement, after which she returns to New York, where she starts for the provinces Nov. 1st in a new play. The Broadway Theatre will be dark this week and so will the Curtis, which latter has abandoned the Shubert arrangement and will open next week with a stock company. The Shuberts, according to Messrs. Pelton & Smutzer, have failed to keep their part of the contract to furnish the independent house with consecutive attractions, but started out with giving one every three weeks and then the manager of the Curtis complained, when they sent a big attraction like Madame Butterfly, it was sent to the new Auditorium, which is owned by the city, thereby discriminating against the smaller house. The last straw was when the engagement of John Mason in The Witching Hour was canceled, and Messrs. Pelton & Smutzer canceled all promised attractions and installed a stock company, the Van Dyke players, from Milwaukee. Popular plays of the emotional kind will be produced there hereafter and the opening offering will be The Knobs of Tennessee. Two of the profession responded to the last great call and silently turned their faces to the sleep "which knows no wakening." Sweet Georgia Harper, known for her versatility throughout the West, was laid in her last home in Greeley, Colorado, last Monday. L. A. Kempton, the theatre owner and life-long manager of several big enterprises, was buried Tuesday in Denver. His son and a daughter, who are both in the profession, were with him at the last and are the recipients of a large fortune accumulated by their father in his splendid

WE CARRY IN STOCK ready for immediate shipment, the only line of special

Musical Comedy and Dramatic Lithograph Paper

We can equip your show with Special Cross-lined Lithograph Paper on 24 hours' notice, and sell you small quantities at 5 cents per sheet.

Our Special Cross-Lined Lithograph Paper Looks Like Special Paper

Send for samples of Cross-lining and New 112 Page Illustrated Catalogue.

Lowest Prices on Block Work, Type Work, Dates, Heralds and Small Stuff

All your Printing and Lithographing in one shipment, and the lowest price on everything.

60 Styles Stock Circus Lithograph Paper. Send for Special Catalogue.

ACKERMANN-QUIGLEY LITHOGRAPHING CO.

KANSAS CITY

New York Sales and Sample Office: 201-202 Knickerbocker Theatre Building, 1402 B'way. Chicago Sales and Sample Office: 61-65 Grand Opera House Bldg.

management of things that make up stage business.

EMMA-HEREY-MEYER.

WATSONVILLE, August 30.—The Ed Redmond engagement that closed here last week was notable for fine business and clever performances. The repertoire included What Happened to Jones, Are You a Mason, The Man on the Box, A Banker's Holiday, and An American Citizen.

OAKLAND, Aug. 30.—This week at Ye Liberty, the members of the new stock company are adding new laurels to their already well-filled wreath. It is their first attempt in a Shakespearean play, and although the production, Romeo and Juliet, is one that would tax the ability of any company and especially that of a stock aggregation, the play was presented in a manner that commanded the plaudits of the audience. The work of Sidney Ayres and Florence Oakley in the leading roles was frequently compared with that of E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe, and Bishop's popular players were the medium of many complimentary remarks. Ayres had a very clear conception of his role, Romeo, and looked every inch the handsome lover. Miss Oakley made a very pretty Juliet, and showed to exceptional advantage in the balcony scene. The work of George Friend is always clear-cut and efficient, but his Mercutio this week is probably the best performance he has given us for some time. The heads of the two houses, Montague and Capulet, were in the capable hands of George Webster and Walter Whipple, and the two characters were well taken care of. Henry Shumer, Robert Lawlor and William Wolbert had prominent roles and sustained them well. Marcus V. Page, a newcomer, gave a good account of himself, as Ercalus, the Prince of Verona. Laura Hudson made a good Lady Capulet, and the Nurse to Juliet of Mina Gleason was more than acceptable. The prologue was well rendered by Edith Lyle, and the minuets arranged by Helena Butler were picturesque and excellently executed. The production receives a most elaborate staging. The greatest of credit is due George Webster, who is responsible for the creditable showing. Business is more than satisfactory, and every performance is well attended. The Lion and the Mouse next, and then Pierre of the Plains. The Girl from Rectors is booked at the Macdonough, week of September 4th. At the Old Cross-Roads, an interesting drama dealing with life in the sunny South, is drawing enormous crowds to the Broadway. The drama is full of good, wholesome action, which centers

For Stock or Road

ALL BOX OFFICE WINNERS

Before the Grin-goes Came

A play that deals with life in California. One of the best Western dramas ever written. Quite within the range of the ordinary stock or road company.

In Arkansaw

A rural comedy-drama of strong appeal. It holds them from start to finish. A good play for a small company—or for a large one, either.

By Kingly Favor

A romantic comedy-drama of the time of King George III. Has what is unusual in plays of this class—a strong vein of comedy. Small cast.

For Further Particulars Address GREAT WESTERN PLAY AGENCY
Van Ness Theatre Building
San Francisco, Cal.

Terry McKean's Players

A FIRST-CLASS COMPANY IN STANDARD PLAYS

Time open from Sept. 1st for extended stock engagement. Write

TERRY MCKEAN, Sole Proprietor and Manager

Address care Francis-Valentine, 285 Thirteenth St., San Francisco, Cal.

Menzel's Dramatic Agency

Moved to 915 Van Ness Avenue, Third Floor

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers Wanting Reliable People in Dramatic Lines, Write.

Honest Dealing. No Misrepresentation

NOTICE—We invite people in all lines of the theatrical profession that wish first-class engagements to call or write.

WM. MENZEL, Manager

Correspondence

around a supposed octoroon, Parepa. The difficult character which calls for a considerable display of talent is portrayed in a most praiseworthy manner by Georgie Cooper, who scores a most distinct success at every performance. Doc Kerr, the big-hearted gambler in love with Parepa, was well played by Landers Stevens. His conception of the character was perfect. Roy Clements played the villain and made a good one. Maurice Stewart, as the tramp, was one of the hits of the play. Lee Willard made his first appearance with the company and made an emphatic hit. Plenty of comedy was effused by Georgie Woodthorpe and Jessie Mendelson as Aunt Eliza and Mississippi. The play will continue for the balance of the week, and will then give way to The Bishop's Carriage. At the Orpheum, small-sized audiences are an unknown quantity, and every member on this week's bill is greeted with well-deserved recognition. Curzon Sisters; World and Kingston; Wilbur Mack and Ella Walker; Herr J. Rubens; La Petite Revue; Five Avolos; Lena Pantzer, and Eleanor Gordon and company. I. K. Emmett and Viola Crane are headliners of a good bill at the Bell. The Russian Princess, Wlademaroff, is also making a hit. Hall, the dancer, and Professor Doblado's trained animals are well received. Conway's Band is drawing immense crowds out to Idora Park and is giving the greatest of satisfaction. The music is enjoyed immensely. The Four Bards also give a pleasing performance. Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall will be seen very shortly at The Liberty. The Man from Mexico, The Lightning Conductor, and Shore Acres will be early productions at the Broadway. Louis Bennison of the Alcazar Stock has been especially engaged to play the part of the money king in The Lion and the Mouse, which will be the Liberty attraction, week of September 9th. After the performance at the Broadway, Monday evening, a masher stepped up to Georgie Cooper and made some insulting remark. He was immediately knocked down by her husband, Landers Stevens, who administered the hoodlum a well-deserved thrashing.

LOUIS SCHEELINE.

PORTLAND, August 30.—The Shuberts have at last acquired a theatre in Portland, the necessary documents having been signed last week for the old Heilig Theatre between them and the owners of the building. It will be remembered that this theatre was closed by the building inspector upon the ground that the building was unsafe, since then, the owners of the property have made arrangements with the authorities to place the building in a safe condition, and, upon this being done, they will be allowed to reopen the house. Work has already commenced on the repair of the place, and it is scheduled to reopen the middle of October with John Mason in The Witching Hour. Meanwhile, any other Schubert productions coming this way will find a home at the Star Theatre, which is owned by the same people who own The Heilig property. The Bungalow has been dark the past week, but reopens next Sunday night with the International Grand Opera Company who remain a week. This is virtually the commencement of the season of 1909-10. Manager George L. Baker has made some changes in the opening of his house, The Baker, and next Sunday afternoon will witness the inauguration of the season at his house, when Donald Bowles and Izzetta Jewell will offer Salomy Jane. The play is in the nature of a farewell of these two popular players. Fifty Miles from Boston follows. At the Orpheum, one of Lasky's one act musical comedies was featured by Manager James H. Errickson the past week. It was entitled, At The Country Club. The company was strong in every particular and was headed by Jane Jensen, who proved to be a delight in every meaning of that word. The Arlington Four was one of the best quartettes we have had, and Gardner and Revere were very amusing in their playlet. This week's bill includes the following: The playlet, Circumstantial Evidence; Wynn & Lee; Charles Montrell; Crouch & Welch; Harry Richards; The Musical Johnstons, and Beth Stone. Keating & Flood are producing The Ranch King at The Lyric for this week's bill. It is a Western melodrama, and the locale is in Colorado. It contains enough spice and pepper to satisfy anyone whose cravings are along the melodramatic line. Robert Athon is playing the leading role this week, and gets all out of the part that is required. Percy Kilbride is well cast in the comedy role of the negro, as is Ralph Bell, as the sentimental young cowboy. Alice Condon is entitled to honors amongst the lady folks. Manager Frank Coffinberry announces the following acts for this week at The Grand: Edwin Carewe & Co.; Tom Moore; Mort Sharp and his dancing belles; Ahlberg Brothers; Billy Cort, and Fred Bauer. At Pantages, Manager John Johnson has the following acts: Hansen & Jennie; Mortinetti & Grossi; Hamilton & Ronca; Yegge & Daniel; Shelvey Brothers; Mlle. Nada Meret, and Loe White. A. W. W.

SPOKANE, August 29.—The season was opened at the Spokane Theatre under the management of Charles York with The Time, The Place and the Girl, week of 29th, for one week, pleased a well-filled house. The opening night the San Francisco Opera Company will come for an engagement of three weeks, opening September 5th. The Auditorium was formally opened, 27-28, with A Gentleman from Mississippi, to good houses. August 29-September 1, A Knight for a Day, a musical comedy company which can well be termed classic. The chorus and electrical effects are very beautiful; it opened to a fair house, September 5-6; The Girl Question. Heading the list at the Orpheum this week is Jessie Shirley and Company, which include Frank McQuarrie, Less C. Greer, and Dan Edson, will present a pleasing little playlet entitled The First Woman Governor. Miss Shirley was given a big ovation on her opening night, her friends welcomed her with many beautiful flowers and much applause; Edna Aug is immense in her portrayal of Types; Daisy-Poney Moore in The Dancing Fenderwheel; Henry Clive is good in his juggling act; Les Myosotis premiere dancers of the ballet at the Royal Opera, Munich;

Big City Quartette made a big hit; The Walthour Trio are clever in their acrobatic work. At the Washington, the Stars and Barney Fagan-Henrietta Byron, Herbert Willson, William Stonaker late feature of Dockstader's Minstrels; Mme. Frana Orbasany's Cockatoos presenting a complete pantomime, The Shipwreck, by cockatoo actors; Aida Woolcott Co.'s of players in A Fisherman's Luck, The Modern Hercules; Frank Parker company in his original novelty, A Hotel in Midair; Barlow's ponies and dogs is the headline attractions, this is their first time west and they are offering a good show; James Casey and Maggie LeClair have an Irish turn, The Irish Tenants; Charles and Anna Glocker have a juggling act; Kaupman Bros., in burlesque opera; Rogers, Sherman and Lukin, comedy singers and dancers; Meyer Bros., equilibristic marvels; Wm. D. Gilson, song illustrator. St. Olaf's College band closed a successful engagement of a week at Natatorium Park; the daily average attendance was about 3000, according to a statement by Manager John W. Pace. This week Tom Hennesey, a daring bicycle rider, will give exhibitions of riding down the chutes on his wheel. Another attraction is Miss Celia Mabis, a soprano singer from Australia; Bowen's American band will give daily concerts. George D. MacQuarrie and Lauro Adams, late of the Jessie Shirley Stock Company, have gone to Vancouver, B. C., to join the Walter Sanford Stock, which opens September 6th.

SMYTH.

SEATTLE, Aug. 30.—MOORE THEATRE—A Washington, D. C., comedy, A Gentleman from Mississippi, is the attraction this week at the Moore. Non-partisan in its politics, it is a rattling good comedy, well-played and well staged, with the central character teaching a lesson of goodness and honesty, but with no sermonizing in the lines.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE—Girls opened last Friday night at the Alhambra Theatre, for a two weeks' run. This play is as good as when it was seen here last season—in fact, a little more has been added to the lines, and in some respects the company is better than last season's.

GRAND THEATRE—Dark.

SEATTLE THEATRE — The Bunting engagement will end this week and Seattle Theatre patrons will be sorry to see little Miss Bunting go. Lena Rivers is staged this week with all the new scenery which the company will use on the road, and it produced an excellent impression on the record audience of yesterday.

MAJESTIC THEATRE — Another new theatre will be added to the list of Seattle playhouses tonight when the Majestic Theatre is thrown open to the public. Sullivan and Considine are to be congratulated upon this most up-to-date vaudeville house, containing all the features of high-priced places of amusement. Popular prices, however, will prevail. Two fashionable audiences will turn out tonight to be present at the dedication of this beautiful theatre, and seven star acts have been provided by the management.

ORPHEUM—The show this week is an all-star, topping the bill is Rosario Guerrero, the dancer, in a musical pantomime, The Rose and The Dagger; Margaret Fealey, mother of Maude Fealey, presents her own playlet, Witches' Hour and Candle Light; Charles Murray and Ollie Mack make their first appearance in vaudeville; Tom Walters, late of Coming Thro' the Rye is seen; Spaulding and Riego furnish fun on the flying trapeze; The Girl Behind the Veil has a most beautiful voice; Charles Weber, a comic juggler is good.

STAR THEATRE—Heading the programme is Mme. Celeste, an Australian pianist; Curran and Edwards, singers and dancers; Sam Carlton, Hebrew comedian; Eddie Roesch, in ballads and motion pictures.

PANTAGES — The Three Demons in sensational acts of bicycle riding; a second feature, Naida and company, in a costly and beautiful act entitled, The Water Nymph, a fish and mermaid; The Doric Trio, three vocalists; Justis Romaine and company, in a dramatic playlet; Markee brothers, musical comedians; Sutherland and Curtis, in The Belle of Jaytown, are other features.

LOIS—Among the good things on the bill are Edith Haney; the Four Haydens; Prof. Wiley; Lipman and Lewis, also Aileen May and company in a farcical sketch, My Turn Next, those taking part are: Miss May, Ed. M. Kimball, Fred Huebner, Verna Layton, and Annie Girard. E. MORGENSTERN.

Society Man Become Advance Agent

"Society to the Stage," as a newspaper heading is "old stuff," but something right up to date in this line is the advent of a society man, not a "bud" or a "debutante," in the theatrical business and he has become an advance agent! His name is James Pooton Jr., and his home, of course, is New York. Mr. Pooton is a member of Racquet, Calumet, New York and Knickerbocker Clubs, the Meadow Brook Hunt and the Larchmont Yacht Club. He is the champion amateur squash tennis player of Newport and as a cotillion leader is without a peer. In addition to all this glory Mr. Pooton is accounted a first rate fellow and is very popular in his new surroundings. Years ago Mr. Pooton was the associate, advisor and literary companion of the late Ward McAllister, the originator of the term "the 400." After the distinguished society leader's death Mr. Pooton wrote on society topics for several weekly papers and, under a non de plume, was society editor of the New York Commercial Advertiser, now the Globe. For the past year he has been motoring in Europe and taking the waters at Bad Nauheim. His new occupation, however, will take him away from the New York smart set and afford him an opportunity to see the country west of the Hudson River. He has become the advance agent of the Grace van Studdiford Opera Company.

D. S. McFADDEN has been engaged to go in advance of the Persse-Mason company in The Singing Bandits. For several years Mr. McFadden very successfully exploited the San Francisco Opera Company, directed by Frank Healy.

THE SAN FRANCISCO Dramatic Review

Music and Drama
CHAS. H. FARRELL, Publisher

Issued Every Saturday

Address all
letters and
money orders to San Francisco
Dramatic
Review, Van

Ness Theatre Bldg.,
Van Ness
Avenue.
Telephone
Park
1773

Entered at San Francisco as Second-class
Mail Matter. Established 1880.

Harold Nelson

Harold Nelson, whose picture appears on our front page this week, is an actor whose work in the romantic and classic drama has won for him the greatest admiration and praise in England, Canada and the Eastern United States. A stranger in California, he makes his San Francisco debut at the Garrick Theatre, the week commencing Sunday, September 10th. His stage career has been long, and his achievements command respect for their scholarly and artistic qualities. Beginning his work when a boy, he abandoned the stage for a university course of study. After receiving his degree, he decided upon a musical career and spent several years in hard study, not only in England, but Paris, Milan and Munich, after which he appeared in grand opera, but, finding his voice would not stand the strain of the operatic stage, he returned to the legitimate drama, when, after experiencing the various difficulties which the earnest artist must to achieve success, he steadily forged ahead until his undoubted abilities won recognition. He has always stood for the best in dramatic literature and has won much distinction as a lecturer on that subject. As Hamlet he has been compared most favorably to Forbes-Robertson, and his reading of the lines is full of charm and conviction. He possesses a splendid voice, excellent stage presence and a magnetic personality that is unusual. As a romantic actor, his work is full of dash and virility, never neglecting the intellectual grasp which evidences the student, or the finish of the experienced artist. For several years he has been under the management of the eminent Canadian manager, Mr. C. P. Walker, of Winnipeg, in the classic and romantic drama. And throughout Canada and the Eastern and Middle United States, his success has been exceptional. In Hamlet, Richelieu, Romeo and Juliet, Prince Otto, Paul Kauvar and David Garrick his work has won golden encomiums from the critics. As a stage director he has won fame in New York and other centres. Several Eastern stars who appeared in San Francisco last season had their plays staged by him. Mr. Nelson is under the management of G. G. Garrette, a Californian well known in theatrical circles, who is at present booking an extended tour throughout the States; and is enthusiastic in the anticipation of success for his star.

Dinner to Dustin Farnum

Messrs. Chris Ward and A. B. Smith of the St. James Hotel and E. Satlow gave their annual dinner to Dustin Farnum at the St. James Hotel last Wednesday evening. The affair was a magnificent success. Sixteen friends of the popular actor sat down to a great feed, and wit and humor and good fellowship dominated the occasion. Those present were Dustin Farnum, McKee Ranken, Will O. Wheeler, Chris Ward, A. B. Smith, J. Clarence Hyde, John Campbell, Ralph Pincus, Charles H. Farrell, John Harrington, F. P. Shanley, W. H. Carter, Jack O'Brien and E. Satlow.

Blanche Bates Arranges Benefit for L. R. Stock- well

Blanche Bates, who only recently learned that L. R. Stockwell, her old manager and associate, had become totally blind, has written to Gottlob & Marx suggesting that on Thursday afternoon, September 16th, the second week of her engagement at the Van Ness Theatre, a testimonial benefit be arranged for Mr. Stockwell. Gottlob & Marx have entered into the matter heartily and an interesting bill is now arranged from the various acts and attractions then playing this city.

Wm. Stoermer Has New Star

"Billy" Stoermer, the hustler and irrepresible, has concluded arrangements to star Millidge Sherwood in Shakespeare's King Lear, opening on September 20th, with a company of twenty-five people and two agents ahead. Mr. Sherwood is a brilliant Shakespearean student and has played with some of the best companies in America, having been for a long time with Frederick Warde.

Show Rivalry in San Rafael

SAN RAFAEL, September 1.—The Military Girl, the drama staged by the local members of the Young Ladies' Institute, was given to a crowded house to-night, despite the fact that W. Taylor Marshall, manager of the Garden Theatre, in which the performance was given, was arrested because his playhouse is provided with wooden fire escapes only, in defiance of the town ordinance. W. A. Powning, manager of a rival theatre, caused the arrest. The trouble is the outcome of the fight started when the City Marshal refused to allow Manager Powning to play Dick Jose or his theatre when he had practically sold out, claiming the house was unsafe, all of which was the veriest tommy rot. Some officials in small towns seem to do all they can to prevent good shows coming to their towns.

Personals

UNCLE DICK SUTTON has arrived in Butte from Chicago, bringing with him a new stock company for his Family Theatre.

MARY HAMPTON, once well known on the Coast as a leading woman of the big shows, comes here next week with a sketch to Pantages Theatre.

MINNETTE BARRETT, member of the old Frawley company, will be seen here in A Gentleman from Mississippi.

Hal de Forrest will also be in the company.

GENEVIEVE BLINN received a telegram from Wales Winters last week ordering her to leave for the East immediately, to participate in a New York production.

JOHN W. COPE, the well-known actor, is a member of the company appearing in support of Blanche Bates. He plays the role of the banker's confidential adviser.

GEORGE LASK, who used to be the Caesar of the stage, is now the great pacifier, having signed as business manager with The Traveling Salesman company. George was always a capable man.

"DICK" STRONG, the popular treasurer, formerly of the Alcazar and American forces, will hold down the box office at the Garrick during the Greenbaum regime. "Dick" is well liked by local playgoers, who will be glad to see him in harness again.

CHAS. K. FRENCH, who has been putting on In Kentucky for a number of seasons, besides playing the part of Uncle Neb, has joined the ranks of motion picture actors and is now putting in picture dramas for the New York Motion Picture Company. He writes to THE DRAMATIC REVIEW, saying: "I like this very much. It is interesting and the work is hard, as it is like putting on a new play every day, or every two days."

WILLIAM MAXWELL

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW

Lick Building, 35 Montgomery Street.
Telephone Kearny 724.

Valencia Theatre

Valencia Street, near Thirteenth
Phone Market 17

Every Evening This Week and Saturday
Matinee
S. S. and Lee Shubert Present Their Most Pretentious Dramatic Attraction

JOHN MASON

And his original New York company in Augustus Thomas' greatest play,

The Witching Hour

Seats now on sale at box office and Emporium. Seats for second week now ready.
MATINEES MONDAY, LABOR DAY, AND
THURSDAY, ADMISSION DAY.

Garrick Theatre

Ellis Street, near Fillmore

Two Weeks, Starting Sunday, Sept. 5th
The Sensational Farce

The Girl From Rector's

Direct from a Year at Weber's Music Hall,
New York

Matinees Labor Day, Admission Day, Saturday and Sunday.

Prices—25c to $1.50.

New Alcazar Theatre

Tel. West 1400

Cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts.
Belasco & Mayer, Owners and Managers
Absolutely "Class A" Building

Week Commencing with Matinee
Monday, September 6th
Richard Harding Davis' Charming Comedy

The Taming of Helen

All the Alcazar Favorites in the Cast
Extra Admission Day Matinee, Thursday

PRICES: Nights, 25c to $1; Matinees,
Saturday and Sunday, 25c to 50c.

New Orpheum

O'Farrell Street, Bet. Stockton and Powell
Safest and Most Magnificent Theatre in
America

Week Beginning This Sunday Afternoon
Matinee Every Day

ARTISTIC VAUDEVILLE

AT THE COUNTRY CLUB, a Musical
Sketch by Geo. Spink, Author of Bill Simmons; GARDNER and EVERETT; SIG. LU-CIANO LUCCA; ARLINGTON FOUR;
ROSE ROYAL and Her Famous Arabian
Posing Horse, CHESTERFIELD; CUN-
NINGHAM and MARION; CATHERINE
HAYES and SABEL JOHNSON; NEW
ORPHEUM MOTION PICTURES. Last Week—Great Success—JOHN HYAMS and LEILA MCINTYRE in the Quaint Come-dietta, The Quakeress.

EVENING PRICES—10c, 25c, 50c, 75c;
Box Seats, $1.
MATINEE PRICES (Except Sundays and
Holidays), 10c, 25c, 50c
Phone Douglas 70

Princess Theatre

Absolutely "Class A" Theatre Building
Phone West 663
Ellis Street, near Fillmore
Samuel Loverich, Manager

MATINEES SATURDAY AND SUNDAY
Last Week of
The Great Midsummer Extravaganza
Jack and the Beanstalk

All the Favorites in the Cast and the
PRINCESS BEAUTY CHORUS
Popular prices: Evenings, 25c, 50c, 75c.
Saturday and Sunday Matinees, 25c and 50c.

Starting Monday Matinee, Sept. 6.

Ferris Hartman

and New Company in
"THE YANKEE CONSUL."

AMERICAN THEATRE

Market St., near Seventh

Abe S. Cohn, Manager

Phone Market 381 for Good Seats
The Playhouse of Comfort and Safety

AMERICAN VAUDEVILLE

Will be Inaugurated Next Sunday, by a
Ten-Act

Vaudeville Show

This theatre will now book the best
vaudeville acts obtainable under the booking direction of Edward Homan.

No Acts too big. No Price too big.

GILLE PRINTING CO.

SAN FRANCISCO

THEATRICAL PRINTING OF ALL KINDS

POSTERS
2257 MISSION ST. Phone MARKET
1865

THE FRANCIS- VALENTINE CO.

Thirteenth St., near Mission, S. F. Cal.

Spacious Headquarters
for Theatrical Agents

PHONE—MARKET 2114

Send Bills of Lading to us. We will take care of your paper

Van Ness Theatre

With tonight's performance, Dustin Farnum and his magnificent company will depart for other fields where his popularity is (like it is here) something to be proud of. San Franciscans have enjoyed Cameo Kirby immensely and will welcome it again. Next week, Blanche Bates.

Princess Theatre

The last performances of Jack and the Bean Stalk are now being given. With these last shows, the present Princess Company will be disbanded, and on Monday, Ferris Hartman and his company will open in a fine performance of The Yankee Consul.

Alcazar Theatre

The second week of The Lion and the Mouse seems to be as satisfactory to the management of this house as was that of last. This is saying a great deal, when it is to be remembered that the business of last week at the Alcazar was, with the exception of one other week in which there were a number of matinees, the best the house has ever known. Evelyn Vaughn continues to score in the appealing part of Shirley Rossmore, while Will Walling loses nothing in his portrayal of Ryder, the millionaire manipulator of politics, and of men. Augustus Phillips as the son, Jefferson Ryder, was one of the most popular members of the cast. He is rapidly developing a following that gives evidences of deep loyalty. A Burt Wesner, whose abilities as a character actor stamp him as being among the best, gave a most excellent portrayal of Senator Roberts. Wesner does not repeat himself either in makeup or in his style of acting. George Baldwin made the small character of the Rev. Pontifex Deedle distinctive by his handling of it. Following this week's bill comes The Taming of Helen, in which Augustus Phillips made his most pronounced Eastern hit.

American Theatre

Certain dramatists enjoy a monopoly upon certain adjectives. Bernard Shaw, for example, is always pronounced clever. In fact, he says that he, of all contemporaneous English dramatists, has first right to the use of this word. Eugene Walter is invariably described as virile, Clyde Fitch as clever. No one thinks of expressing himself regarding Sardou without calling him theatrical. Barrie is written of as being never anything else but delightfully whimsical. The Professor's Love Story was written years before Peter Pan, yet the tale of the old man who is in love without knowing it possesses all those characteristics which have their full fruition in the play of the boy who never grew up. There is but little, very little, in the way of plot in the drama having to do with that delightful old pedagogue, Professor Goodwillie, but in the way Barrie has manipulated his material, he has demonstrated that he is able to make a good drama out of elements that the common, or garden playwright would pass by without even a moment's notice. As the Professor, Frank Bacon does some of his best and most legitimate work. For one thing, it is not all Frank Bacon, a too common thing with many of the parts he assumes. Not but that Frank Bacon is a most enjoyable person both on and off the stage, but variety is the spice of life, even in the theatre. While his portrayal of the character may not be as broad as that of E. S. Willard, it is very well done. Marie Baker, as the sister, was good in a colorless role. Louise Brownell, as Lucy White, did work which will stand comparison with that of Maud Feeley in the same part. Peggy Monroe was good as the Dowager Lady Gilding, but too pretty and too young in appearance to make the part as effective as it might otherwise have been. Both of these high crimes are susceptible of condonation, however. Elaine Davis was praiseworthy as Lady Gilding, while the Sir George Gilding of Gerald Harcourt revealed him in a line of work that differed radically from anything else he has ever attempted in San Francisco. It was, as usual, well done. In the character of the genial Dr. Cousins, Will R. Abrams looked and acted well. It gave him one of the best opportunities he has had this season to shine, and he took every advantage of it. Thurlow White, as Dr. Yellowlees, made the most of a part that demands little. It is to be regretted that the season that is closing at the American has not given this excellent actor more of an opportunity to show what he could do. The three comedy characters of the cast were well taken care of. It is doubtful if they were ever better acted before a local audience. James Corrigan, as the exacting Henders, did surprisingly well. He was in his element in the dry humor of the role, although at times he had a tendency to drop into the Irish brogue, instead of sustaining the Scotch burr. Edmund Flynn might have just stepped from the other side of the Tweed. He made Pete a creation of flesh and blood. Lillian Elliot, as Effie, was both handsome and buxom. It has been some time since better low comedy work by a woman has been seen in this city.

Valencia Theatre

The Witching Hour has been a long time in arriving on the San Francisco horizon, but now that it is here we will forgive its tardiness. Touching upon a most absorbing topic and written by America's foremost playwright, the play has everything in its favor. The company, while not the original New York cast, is in every way worthy of the play, and in simple justice we must say that The Witching Hour is the strongest, most brilliant, most absorbing dramatic offering San Francisco has been allowed to pay tribute to in ten years. John Mason is the star of the show and gives a most engaging and artistic (if somewhat superficial) portrayal of the gentlemanly gambler, Jack Brookfield, but for artistic achievement and popular appreciation he must divide honors with Russ Whytal, whose characterization of Justice Prentice of the Supreme Court is a cameo-like bit of excellence. Mr. Whytal endows the part with all of the gentle, whimsical humor and sentiment that the author intended, and his triumph is of large proportions. Edward See has the comedy part, that of the plunger, Lew Ellinger. Mr. See has a breezy, infectious good humor that fits snugly into the part. The only criticism that could be directed against him is but a minor one—his makeup is bad. That white wig brings out a redness of face that is annoying and not at all human. Amelia Gardner, whose charming personality is recalled from the stock days before the fire, enacted the part of Mrs. Whipple with fine appreciation and much power. Miss Gardner has advanced immeasurably in her artistic development. Charlotte Ives, an extremely pretty girl, was charming as young Clay Whipple's sweetheart. Clinton Preston was a happy selection for the part of Clay Whipple. He conceived the character of the young fellow most acceptably and carried out his ideas to a most satisfactory conclusion. The rest of the company were entirely satisfactory. In the matter of staging, lighting, etc., there was nothing but admiring comment. The Witching Hour is a brilliant, absorbing play and is worth a number of visits. Next week will be its last in San Francisco this season.

Blanche Bates in a scene from The Fighting Hope, at the Van Ness Theatre next week

The cast in support of Eddie Foy in Mr. Hamlet of Broadway, which will come to the Coast, will include Belle Gold, who succeeds Maude Raymond; Laura Jaffray, Alfred Lattell, Charles Halton and Ralph Strong.

Blanche Bates in The Fighting Hope

David Belasco will present Blanche Bates at the Van Ness Theatre for a two weeks' engagement, beginning on Monday, September 6th, with matinees on Saturdays and Admission Day, Thursday, September 9th, in The Fighting Hope, a modern American drama in three acts, by W. J. Hurlbut. This is surely an event of exceptional interest, for Miss Bates is foremost among the emotional actresses on the American stage today, and she comes here in a play that was the notable dramatic hit of the past year in New York, where it was played for over three hundred performances. In addition, the production is made by David Belasco, which means much in itself. The new play, The Fighting Hope, is in every sense a modern play dealing with modern American conditions, and in it Miss Bates appears upon the stage for the first time as a star in a modern costume. The masterful stagecraft of David Belasco is always in evidence in The Fighting Hope. The play is in three acts, with the scenes laid in the library of a country house on the Hudson River, near Ossining, New

Continued on Page 12.

Vaudeville

The Orpheum

The real headline act this week is without a dissenting voice awarded to Leila McIntyre and John Hyams, who have a clever concoction of song and dance, conversational matter and travesty entitled, The Quakeress. Without the personal appeal of these two fine actors there would be little to the sketch. The Thalia Quartet finds a ready response from our music loving public and encores are frequent. George Carson and Jake Willard, comedy talking and singing turn that is familiar to this city. Joseph Hart's Bathing Girls is another of those pretentious musical affairs that seem to be the rage. The chief feature of the act is the lighting effects, showing the girls in bathing at the seashore, and it has been seen here before. Catherine Hayes and Sabel Johnson, two very, very buxom lassies, present A Dream of Baby Days. It is described as an oddity. It is. Jack the Giant Killer is extremely interesting to the large juvenile following of the Orpheum, who evince a decided interest in the giant, who is eight feet ten inches high and the little men and women who reach as high as 44 inches. One of the best things in the act is the explanation monolog that Mr. Auger delivers after he has been killed by little Jack. George Cunningham and Herman Marion do some talking and execute some marvelous acrobatic work. Their act is a sensational hit. Rose Royal, a handsome woman, has a wonderful white posing horse, who is seen in a series of unusual poses. For an act of this kind, it would be hard to conceive of anything finer or more interesting. As usual, the unexcelled Orpheum pictures conclude the performance.

Pantages-Empire

Frank Selma, on the horizontal bar, opened a very good bill at the Empire this week. Then followed Goodhue and Burgess, a typical song and dance team, who have a rather pretentious set showing a hammock built for two. They close in one, doing a little singing, some fair banjo playing and some excellent dancing. Ben Berger and brother have an entertaining comedy bicycle act. As old as this kind of an act is, there is always a decided appeal in it to a large public. E. Alva York has a conventional English comedy turn that has considerable merit. The Gardiners and their dog, Duke, present a popular musical comedy skit. Chas. B. Carter and Gussie Taylor present a novel little comedy entitled At Camp Rest. They create a great deal of laughter. Four Venetian street musicians have an act that is always very much to the liking of San Francisco audiences. In conclusion it may be said that this week's bill is of a superior brand.

The National

There are no halts or sags in the bill offered by the National this week. From start to finish everything goes with plenty of snap and vim. The Three Roehrs, in their cycling exhibition in the revolving globe, have the most sensational thing on the program, although the other numbers contributed are not behind it in interest. The Roehrs have a huge cave, which looks very much like a barrel with every other stave removed. Inside this circular cage the three men race up, down, and sideways, apparently defying the laws of gravitation. The act ends by the globe being turned completely upside down and around, by means of a mechanical apparatus connected with the globe. At one time the single Roehr who remains in the cage, is wheeling in such a manner that he is, so to speak, at a certain point in his path, wheeling on his head. Pritzkow and Blanchard present a mixed affair, composed of singing, yodeling and comedy, all of which is very well done. The turn has lots of ginger in it. Murphy and Whitman, supported by a competent company, appear in a clever sketch, as do Mitchell and Caine. The Clarence Sisters, two Australian girls, do a song and dance turn that is somewhat different from the ordinary. The motion pictures are excellent.

Fischer's

Fischer's Theatre, rechristened as mentioned above, will open a week from Tuesday night under the management of Robert Brackett, who has achieved considerable managerial success in Los Angeles, and Jack Raynes and Charley St. Clair, who are at present musical director and producer at the Princess Theatre. These gentlemen aim to present a series of high class musical pieces with a small but clever company and a fine, well-drilled chorus. Budd Ross and Burt Wesner will be the two comedians and the rest of the principals will be signed next week. The prices of admission will be 10 cents to 50 cents.

The Wigwam

Quite a diversified bill is Manager Harris' offering this week. Those three athletic young women, Castle, Richi and Gerard, have a good impersonation act, and May Nannery and company must have been in close telepathic sympathy with Wm. J. Hurlbut when he wrote The Fighting Hope, for their act is a twin idea to Mr. Hurlbut's third act. Other interesting people on the bill are Scott and Davis, Cogan and Bancroft, Ernesto Sisters, Harry Taylor, and Charles Mack and Company.

Bookings

At the Sullivan & Considine, San Francisco Office, through Wm. P. Reese, their sole booking agent, for week of Sept. 5, 1909.

NATIONAL, San Francisco—Roltaire; Mondane Phillips; Harvard and Cornelle; Emily and Jessie Dodd and company; Tom Bateman; Hugh Lloyd; La Maze Bros. BELLE, Oakland—Clarence Sisters; Vera de Bassini; Mitchell and Caine; The Three Roehrs; Murphy-Whitman company. WIGWAM, San Francisco—Klein, Ott Bros. and Nicholson; Barry and Johnson; J. Warren Keane and company; Alfred K. Hall; J. K. Emmett and company; Les Ploetz Larellas; Doblado's Sheep. AMERICAN, San Francisco—Carter; Jere Sanford; Josh Dreano; Stanley-Edwards company; Fay Carranza; Carter, Taylor

Theatrical Tights

ALL COLORS, WEIGHTS AND QUALITIES—Cotton, 75c to $1.50; Wool, $2.50 to $3.50; Lisle or Silkline, $3.00 to $4.50; Silk, $5.00 to $12.50.

SYMMETRICALS BEST LINE MADE IN THE U. S. Calf, $5.00; Calf and Thigh, $10.00; Calf, Thigh and Hip, $12.50.

We also Make Padded Shirts, SWEATERS, JERSEYS, GYM, ATHLETIC and BATH SUITS, SUPPORTERS, ACROBATIC SHOES, GOOD UNDERWEAR Knit to Fit in All Materials.

We operate our own mills, carry a large stock and make goods to measure at reasonable prices. We suit the professional as if he were buying in Europe. Write us for prices and samples.

Gantner & Mattern Co.

KNITTERS

Phone Kearny 3603

Corner Post and Grant Ave.

Sullivan & Considine

::: New Circuit :::

Of the smaller popular-priced theatres to be operated in conjunction with their regular circuit houses, comprising time in

California Utah and Eastern Colorado Kansas Connections

Good Acts Can Always Secure Immediate Bookings

BOOKING DEPARTMENT

1117 Market Street

W. P. REESE, Manager

New York Office, Knickerbocker Theater Bldg. Lancaster, Pa., Family Theater. Booking the Longest Chain of Vaudeville Theaters West of Chicago. Playing the best acts in vaudeville.

BERT LEVEY CIRCUIT

2053 SUTTER ST.

INDEPENDENT VAUDEVILLE Phone West 9098.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

PANTAGES Western States Vaudeville Association

Controlling the longest, largest and best chain of vaudeville theatres in the United States.

Mr. Manager: No matter where your house is, how large or how small, we can supply you promptly with first-class vaudeville acts at reasonable prices, also lodges, clubs and entertainments furnished on short notice.

See O. S. BURNS, Representative. Phone West 7140. Offices: Pantages Theatre, cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts., San Francisco, Cal.

Archie Levy's Amusement Ass'n

THE VAUDEVILLE EXCHANGE OF THE PACIFIC COAST

1643 FILLMORE STREET, SUITE 1-2-3, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers desiring talent Write. Artists send in your open time now.

and company. NOVELTY, Vallejo—Pritzkow and Blanchard; Siebert and Strauss. GRAND, Sacramento—Ernesto Sisters; Cogan and Bancroft; Frank Bacon and company; Harry Taylor; Chas. Mack and company. JOSE, San Jose—Gruet and Gruet; Tora Troupe; Signar; Tom McGuire; Roberts' Rats; Girard and Gardner. LOS ANGELES, Los Angeles—H. Tyler; Gaynell Everett; Ross and Shaw; Glendower and Manion; Jack Symonds; Scott and Davis. QUEEN, San Diego—Black Frank and company; Sados; John P. Reed; Carita Day and Boys.

American Goes to Vaudeville

At last, the American Theatre is to revert to the purpose it was built for—vaudeville. Manager Abe Cohn made the decision last Monday, and straightway arrangements to open with a monster vaudeville bill, to open Sunday. Carter, the magician, and Fay Carranza, the singer, will be the big features. Edward Homan, who is a partner in the American, and who is a vaudeville expert, will book the theatre. He invites the biggest acts in the country, as he intends to make a feature of big things. Money will be no object when something big or novel is in sight.

Opera House, Watsonville, week Aug. 30.—Harding and Clough, a sister dancing and singing team, and Pheonie Edwards, illustrated songs, furnish the acts.

Valeska Surett and Wm. Gould, who have been together in vaudeville for a number of years, have separated.

John Considine's Magnificent New Theatre in Seattle

Last Monday the beautiful Majestic Theatre was added to the list of Seattle's modern fireproof playhouses. The Majestic occupies a prominent corner in the heart of the retail district. With the exception of the new Orpheum in San Francisco, no other vaudeville playhouse in Western America will compare in magnificence with the Majestic. The house has been built along the most modern lines. There are no posts, and every one of the 1,700 seats has an unobstructed view of the stage. Sullivan & Considine are the proprietors and managers of the Majestic offering therein the Sullivan & Considine vaudeville acts which have up to this time been seen in the Star or Coliseum theatres in Seattle. The resident manager is Frank H. Donnellan, at present the manager of the Seattle Star. The house staff includes Orchestra Leader Lombardi, Stage Carpenter Budzelini, Property Master Hall, Doorkeeper Henry Weingarten and Head Usher George Carruthers. The treasurer of the Majestic is G. G. Gramm, late of the Majestic in Denver, and his assistant is Clark Donnellan, now at the Seattle Orpheum. The Majestic gives three daily performances. The scale of admission prices are 10, 20 and 30 cents for the body of the house and 50 cents for box seats.

Wm. Morris Vaudeville Stars to Play Downtown

Walter Hoff Seeley is our authority for the statement that the Wm. Morris vaudeville house will be built downtown and that the Schubert shows will continue at the Valencia. Mr. Seeley has completed financing the new Morris theatre and will leave next week for New York to consult with Mr. Morris. Following The Witching Hour at the Valencia, Going Some will open, and then, according to Mr. Seeley's list, San Francisco theatre goers will be offered at the Valencia Corinne, in Mlle. Mischief; George Fawcett, in The Great John Ganton; Eddie Foy, in Mr. Hamlet on Broadway; Charles Cherry, in The Bachelor; Lulu Glaser, in Mme. Butterfly; Forbes Robertson and Gertrude Elliott; Mrs. Fiske and David Warfield.

Boxing Attraction at the Chutes

Another pugilist who is now occupying the lime light will be seen this Sunday, when Al Kaufman, the man who is to meet Champion Jack Johnson for heavyweight honors at Colma next Thursday, will be presented in two three-round exhibition sparring matches. It will be the big blacksmith's only public appearance prior to the battle at Colma. Joe Willis will be the opponent and the bouts will be given from the open-air bandstand. Before and after the fist exhibitions Sunday's patrons will be entertained with the performances of the sensationalists and the music of the band and comedy trio. The Royal Marine Band, conducted by the boy leader, Master Humbert, will give its farewell concerts. The Chutes Carnival March, written by Master Humbert for Friday evening's confetti carnival, will be repeated at both concerts. Marino, whose act consists of permitting an automobile weighing two tons to pass completely over his body, will close his engagement by adding sensation to his remarkable feats. Seven passengers have heretofore occupied the machine which runs over him. On Sunday he will permit ten men to take seats in the car. The last slides for life made by Le Roy, suspended from an aerial wire by his teeth, will be given afternoon and night. Other bids for favor will be made by Towers in his high dives; by Demon, of the fiery bicycle, and New Orleans Quartet in character songs and dances. Open-air motion pictures and the panoramascope will complete the bill.

Conway Very Popular at Idora

Fifty selections by Patrick Conway's band and soloists, aerial and acrobatic acts, the burlesques of a troupe of delightfully foolish clowns, the skating rink orchestra, and continuous entertainment on the children's playgrounds, will be among the features on Sunday's free program at Idora. The first week of Conway at the Oakland amusement resort has been notable for the large audiences that have greeted the popular conductor and his excellent organization. Much unusual music will be offered during tomorrow's concerts. Many of the selections will be heard for the first time on the Pacific Coast and at least one number, a trio for oboe, flute and clarinet, for the first time on any concert stage. It will be rendered by Messrs. De Vaux, Boxheimer and McGibeny. One of these tremendous numbers in which Conway delights will be a grand selection from Faust. For those who admire orchestral effects, there will be played such compositions as Massenet's Angelus and Fete Boheme and Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody. Rachmourinoff's celebrated prelude will be one of the new offerings. Other band numbers will include the overtures from Masaniello and William Tell; three new Irish dances by Ansell; scenes from the most admired Wagnerian operas; selections from Carmen; the March of the Bells from Coppelia; and The Awakening of the Lion. Florence Drake Le Roy will sing the Garden of Roses and Arditi's Magnetic Waltz. An unusual solo will be that played by William Gruner on the bassoon. It will be a humorous entitled Grandfather's Clock, and is said to be highly amusing. The other soloists will be H. Benne Henton, saxophone, and Gardelle Simons, trombone. Conway will conduct during every number.

DEE AND NOBLE WRITE: Duluth, Aug. 23.—We have cancelled all our vaudeville bookings to accept an engagement with the Eastern, In Wyoming company. Very sorry we didn't get the Western company, as we would have enjoyed a trip to the Golden West very much.

Vaudeville Notes

The Orpheum contemplate booking night shows made up of their acts in Logan and Ogden, Utah, this season.

From Seattle comes the story that the spangled dresses of Catherine Hayes and Isabel Johnson, seen there at the Orpheum, were seized in Portland last week by a constable, to secure an advertising bill. The girls say they lost all their money speculating in the stock market.

John Welsh, Juliette Chandler and Al Watson will be principals in a musical comedy company that will be installed at the Central next week.

Jack Massie's actors at Oak Park, Sacramento, went on a strike last week, but Jack quelled the rebellion by getting a new company and still holds the fort with musical comedy.

ROBERT HILDETH WRITES: Los Angeles, Aug. 31.—This week I am here in Los having a good time and incidentally having a visit with Mrs. Hallett, my old friend who gave me many a boost in S. F. eight or ten years ago. We are going to play some of their time and will be the headline attraction at Long Beach next week and San Bernardino the following week. After that will either jump to Arizona for five weeks or go north.

Dates Ahead

THE MAN OF THE HOUR (Western).—(Brady and Grismer).—York, Pa., Sept. 6; Lancaster, 7; Harrisburg, 8; Altoona, 9; Johnstown, 10; Zanesville, 11; Newark, O., 13; Springfield, 14; Richmond, Ind., 15; Terre Haute, 16; Springfield, Ill., 17; Decatur, 18; St. Louis, 19-25; Alton, Ill., 26; Mexico, Mo., 27; Moberly, 28; Hannibal, 29; Keokuk, Ia., 30; Brookfield, Mo., Oct. 1; Sedalia, 2; Kansas City, 3-9; Fremont, Neb., 11; Norfolk, 12; Columbus, 13; Grand Island, 14; Kearney, 15; North Platte, 16; Denver, Colo., 17-23.

Next Monday the Del Lawren company will open for a season the Lois Theatre in Seattle.

NEW CHUTES

FILLMORE, TURK, EDDY AND WEBSTER

Open Morning, Afternoon and Night

THIS SUNDAY ONLY

FREE AFTERNOON AND NIGHT

AL. KAUFMAN

The Man Who Will Meet Jack Johnson to Decide the World's Heavyweight Championship, Will Be Presented

IN TWO THREE-ROUND BOXING BOUTS

10—OTHER BIG FREE ACTS—10

Beginning Next Monday

CALIFORNIA STATE BAND

3—GREAT SMILETTAS—3

TAKE THE JOLLY JOY JAUNT

IDORA

"The Park Beautiful"

B. P. MILLER, General Manager
Oakland, Calif.

20 Acres of High Grade
Amusement—20

The Handsomest
Park in America

Playing Only the World's Greatest Bands
and
Big Feature Acts

Performers desiring time, address
J. H. B. Fitzpatri

Huntress

IMPERSONATOR AND DRAPERY DANCER.

Carrying full set. The season's hit in vaudeville. First act to play three weeks of first-class time in San Francisco.

3 times a day

Chicago-Kansas City

AND POINTS EAST

EASTERN EXPRESS

Leave San Francisco, 7:15 a. m. Leave Oakland, 7:40 a. m.

OVERLAND EXPRESS

Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 8:00 p. m.

CALIFORNIA LIMITED

Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 10:00 p. m.

Courteous employees—Unique scenery—Harvey meals—Equipment built by Pullman—One management all the way to Chicago. Our descriptive folders give reliable information.

JAS. B. DUFFY, GENERAL AGENT, 673 Market Street, S. F.
T. LOVE, T. A., Market St. Ferry Depot, San Francisco.
J. J. WARNER, G. A., 1112 Broadway, Oakland.

Once Great Singer Dead

Mme. Inez Fabri-Mueller, a former great favorite of the operatic stage, died at the German Hospital early Monday morning. She was 78 years old. California as much as Europe and the East, lost a notable figure in the death of the former singer, as her life is interwoven with much of the early history of this State. After finishing her work in grand opera, Mme. Fabri settled here to pass the remainder of her life. She became a music teacher, and many of her pupils after became famous. Mme. Fabri was born in Vienna and before her twentieth year the composer, Meyerbeer, pronounced her voice the most marvelous he had ever heard. He was charmed with her portrayal of Valentine in The Huguenots, in which she afterward became world famous, and Richard Wagner pleaded with her to create the role of Isolde in Tristan and Isolde. The singer's life in California began primarily in 1876, when she opened the Grand Opera House in Mission Street near Third. Then she sang her great role of Valentine. For many years she has been living with a niece in this city, teaching music. One of the ties that bound Mme. Fabri to San Francisco was the attachment for her first husband, Richard Mulder, who was a famous musician and impresario. His body lies in a grave overlooking the Golden Gate. Subsequently the singer married James Mueller, a noted barytone. Mme. Fabri's funeral took place Wednesday morning from St. Mary's Cathedral. Interment was in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Personals

GLADYS FIELD is a new member of the Elleford Company.

MAX WAIZEMAN and Jane Wilson will retire from the Newman-Foltz Company next week.

AUDA DUE has been playing in Corianton, the Mormon play, in Salt Lake, the past two weeks.

IRENE OUTTRIM and Elmer Booth have joined the Willard Mack Company in Salt Lake City and will be found to be valuable additions to that clever company.

MIRABEL SEYMOUR is ill with a most painful case of neuralgia. In the interim between pain, Miss Seymour is, although confined to her bed, finishing some of her clever sketches.

LORRAINE BUCHANAN, who has been a sensational success in Santa Cruz, will stay there three or four weeks longer and then play some week stands under the direction of the Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

FRED COOPER, the veteran actor and manager, who is fooling the doctors in Oakland by toeing the mark as chipper as a youngster, after each new operation, is writing two plays that promise well. One is a Western drama, called The Great Stampede, that has all the ear-marks of greatness.

RICHARD BENNETT, now playing leads at the Belasco Theatre, Los Angeles, is to return to Los Angeles next summer, and is to be leading man at the Burbank Theatre during an extended vacation now planned by Arthur Byron Beasley, who will put in a busy season at the head of this organization until that time. Arrangements between Mr. Morosco and Mr. Bennett were practically concluded last Monday night.

Tedd Brackett is supporting Gertrude Ewing in repertoire in the Mississippi Valley towns. Others in the company are Allwyn King, Wm. Desmond, Wm. N. Smith, Clark Mounts, Harry Dougherty, Harry F. Lewis, J. C. Crippen, Marie Desmond, Dollie Desmond, Helene Del Mar, Irene Jones, and Mrs. J. C. Ewing.

It is expected that the new Columbia Theatre will be completed and ready for occupancy within four months' time. Work is now progressing most rapidly, and at the present time the management hopes to open the theatre about the holidays.

The Traveling Salesman, by the author of Rose Stahl's great hit, The Chorus Lady, is to be an early attraction at the Van Ness Theatre. James Forbes is said to have a very amusing comedy in his latest effort, and Henry B. Harris has given it a splendid production.

Correspondence

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 1.—Garrick (J. M. Dodge, mgr.): The Climax played to three large and very appreciative audiences, Aug. 28-31, and it proved beyond a doubt to be one of the greatest plays we have even had the pleasure of witnessing here; it grips from the very start. Ruby Bridges as Adelina Von Hagan, the pupil, gave an artistic interpretation. She is a charming young lady, and is the possessor of a clear and beautiful voice. Walter Wilson as the teacher, Albert Latscha as the son, and John Raymond as the doctor all handled their respective parts in a superb manner, which showed clearly that they are artists from their finger tips. This beautiful little play will shortly begin an engagement in San Francisco, and it should do a big business, as it is a play that cannot be overpraised, and must be seen to be appreciated. Sept. 5-6, Paid in Full. Pickwick (Scott A. Palmer, mgr.): Muldoon's Picnic, a sprightly comedy with music, is the offering by the Jim Post Company this week, and it is receiving a good reception. James Post as Dennis Mulcahy and Joe Hayden as Michael Muldoon both have good parts and are as funny as ever. Millar Bacon, Esco Ives and May Ashley are congenially cast. Several catchy songs are introduced, among them are Good Luck Mary, by Millar Bacon, and Tipperary, by Juliet Mahr. Lola Norris scored a big hit with her child specialty. Kelly and Violette, the fashion-plates, have joined the Post Company for a short season. They open the olio this week with their refined singing act, and scored an instantaneous hit. The audience couldn't seem to get enough of

GARRICK THEATRE

Formerly Orpheum, Ellis and Fillmore Sts.

2 Weeks Beginning Sunday September 5

THE SENSATIONAL SUCCESS OF THE SEASON

MATINEES

MONDAY (Labor Day)

THURSDAY (Admission Day)

SATURDAY

SUNDAY, September 12

THURSDAY, September 16

SATURDAY, September 18

SEATS NOW ON SALE

Prices—50c, 75c, $1.00 and $1.50

them. Queen (John Donnellan, mgr.): Arthur Hill and company head the bill at this popular little house this week in a little comedy of sentiment and slang—A Strenuous Daisy. This little piece went big. The balance of the bill consists of the following good acts: Billy Wisdom, the famous minstrel; Rose Stevens, prima donna soprano; Birch and Hall in the Turning Point; Silveno and company, shadow-graphs. Motion pictures and the Peerless orchestra conclude an A-1 show. Grand (Fred Ballien, mgr.): The Imperial Russian Troupe of singers and dancers head the bill at the Grand this week. The balance of the bill consists of the Hill Sisters and Chas. E. Royal. Motion pictures conclude. CARL E. LUNDQUIST.

The Fighting Hope

Continued from Page 4

York. The central character is Anna Granger, the wife of an embezzling cashier of a New York trust company, who has been convicted and imprisoned. She believes him innocent, and with the object of exonerating the father of her children she enters the employ of Burton Temple, the president of the trust company, and whom many believe to be the real culprit. In time Anna Granger learns that there is no question of her husband's guilt. In the month that she has spent in Temple's house, he has fallen in love with her, and with the knowledge of her husband's perfidy, her feeling of hatred for Temple undergoes a change. It is only at the very end of the last act that the intense dramatic situations are cleared up. The company provided by Mr. Belasco for Miss Bates' support is exceptionally capable. It includes Milton Sills, John W. Cope, Wedgwood Nowell and Loretta Wells. The Fighting Hope, in addition to being of timely interest, is described as a play of unusual force, and the central character, Anna Granger, is admirably suited to Miss Bates' personality.

Imperial Amusement Co.

Star Theatre, Portland, Oregon
S. MORTON COHN, Pres.; MELVIN G. WINSTOCK, Gen. Mgr.
Acts of every kind are requested to write in, quoting lowest salary in first letter. Satisfactory booking for right acts at right figures.

Andrews Opera Chairs

General Seating
School—Church—Bank
Office and Steel Rod
Furniture
Purchase direct from
manufacturer
THE A. H. ANDREWS CO.
Pacific Bldg., San Francisco
Chicago, New York, Tacoma

J. B. REIGHLEY

Theatrical Hauling

Promptly Attended To
Telephone Market 1601
600 Guerrero Street, Bet. 18th and 19th

Opera, Folding and Assembly Chairs

Full Line
See Samples at 770-776
Mission St.
Bet. 3d and 4th Sts.
SAN FRANCISCO
Whitaker & Ray-
Wiggin Co.

Augustus Phillips

Leading Man

Alcazar Stock—San Francisco

FOR SALE

All Scenery
Drops, Set Pieces
Border Lights
Dimmers
Switch Boards
Chairs
Good Gas Heater, etc.

USED IN THE OLD COLONIAL THEATRE

Everything in First-Class Shape
McAllister Street, Near Market
Enquire—H. H. WHITING.
Office Leavenworth St., Near McAllister
San Francisco

Scene from The Girl from Rector's at the Garrick Theatre next week

The Girl From Rector's

After the most successful engagement of any theatrical attraction in New York the past season, The Girl From Rector's has taken to the road and will be seen at the Garrick for an engagement of two weeks, commencing September ... The work is that of Paul M. Potter, who acquired world wide fame through the authorship of Trilby. This newest work of the gifted writer is distinctly of New York flavor. The story in the main is woven about a young society woman of Battle Creek, Mich., who spends a great deal of her time in the metropolis in the quest of pleasure and recreation. When she is at her home her spare moments are taken up in charitable work, and as the scene shifts from the West to the East, so do the young woman's ideas. She finally earns the sobriquet of "the girl from Rector's," and the audience is kept in a continual uproar while the entanglements follow. In its seven months at Weber's Music Hall every previous record was broken there.

Garrick Theatre

The reopening of the Garrick Theatre to-morrow night will be an auspicious event theatrically, marking, as it will, the re-entry of the former Orpheum into the ranks of local playhouses. Throughout the incumbency of the vaudeville management at that house it was the most popular of all our theatres with local theatre-goers, and under the direction of Will Greenbaum bids fair to resume its leading place as a theatre. The opening bill will be the famed farce, The Girl From Rector's, which is possibly the best selection that could be made to start proceedings there. The Girl is a French farce, which created a great deal of comment in both Chicago and New York, and is said to be one of the best farcical comedies ever put upon the stage. It is by Paul M. Potter, the author of Trilby, and is a free translation of Pierre Veber's Parisian success, Loute. It deals with the rather bold theory that married men lead double lives, and in the expounding of its theme necessarily the somewhat risque situations cause considerable merriment. Carrie Weber, well known in New York as a sou-brette of much ability, is cast as the girl, and critics everywhere agree that she is perfectly charming in the part. William Sellery, whose comedy is of the droll variety, fairly shines as the husband. A special feature of the performance is the appearance of the Three Pendleton Sisters, madcap whirlwind dancers, whose specialties are introduced as an added feature. Seats for the two weeks' engagement of the Girl From Rectors are now selling at the Garrick. Special matinees will be given on Monday (Labor Day) and Thursday (Admission Day), and during the regular season matinees will be given on every Sunday, Saturday and Thursday.

The Orpheum

The Orpheum announces for next week another splendid vaudeville programme. It will be headed with a musical sketch called At the Country Club. The story is based on a recent incident at a swagger country club in the vicinity of New York, and it exhibits society folk at their gambols. Numerous specialties are introduced in an unusual and clever manner. Dick Gardner and Anna Revere will indulge in an act that is appropriately styled Real Variety. Laciano Lucca, the man with two voices, will be heard next week. It is wonderful how easily this artist reaches the highest soprano notes and executes the most difficult variations. An instant later he is heard singing in a delightful baritone voice. The Arlington Four, The Singing and Dancing Messenger Boys, consisting of Messrs. Leever, Lee, Manny and Roberts, will be a feature of the coming program. The holdovers will be Rose Royal and her beautiful Arabian posing horse, Chesterfield; George W. Cunningham and Herman Marion; Catherine Hayes and Sabel Johnson in A Dream of Baby Days, and those delightful comedians, John Hyams and Leila McIntyre, in their great success, The Quakeress. A novel and interesting series of Orpheum motion pictures will pleasantly terminate one of the best bills in the annals of vaudeville.

Alcazar Theatre

Starting with a matinee Monday, the offering for the week will be Richard Harding Davis' three-act comedy, The Taming of Helen, which was last presented in San Francisco about eight years ago by a company, of which Henry Miller and Margaret Anglin were the leaders. Since then it has served to win New York's favoritism for Augustus Phillips, who pronounces it the best medium of exploiting his best talents in which he has ever appeared. It is all about the struggles of an American dramatist, Phillip Carroll (Mr. Phillips) to get one of his works presented in London. He is reduced to penury and feeling much discouraged when Marion Cavendish (Bessie Barriscale), a young actress, persuades a prominent manager to produce the play, and to her is assigned the principal character. Another actress, Mrs. Evian, also perceives merit in it and persuades her backer, the Marquis of Woodcote, to offer a price for it, but Carroll refuses to sell and thereby incurs the enmity of both these people. In the meantime there has come to London an American girl, Helen Cabot (Miss

GOLDSTEIN & CO.
COSTUMERS for all Pacific Coast Theatres.
Goldstein's Hair and Wig Store.
Make-Up, Play Books. Established 1876.
Lincoln Building, Market and Fifth Sts.

Vaughan, to whom Carroll was much devoted in New York, but her sudden acquisition of wealth and the whirl of London society have so turned her head that she engages herself to marry the Marquis of Woodcote. Realizing that her treatment of the struggling author has not been exactly fair, she tries to ease her conscience by imagining him to be as fickle as herself, and thus the situation exists when the third act opens. The scene is the green room of the theatre, and the first act has just concluded when Helen enters to bid the author good-by. At the same moment Marion, exuberant over Carroll's and her own success, impulsively embraces him, and the incident is witnessed by Helen, who leaves for him a note of congratulation on his having won such a clever woman as the little actress. This note is found by Marion, who starts out to overtake Helen and remedy her blunder, and when the second act is called the leading woman is missing and cannot be found anywhere in the theatre. Consternation possesses all present, for it looks as if the play is about to be ruined when Marian triumphantly dashes into the greenroom, accompanied by Helen, whom she caught just in the nick of time at the railway station. Explanations follow and all ends happily for the folk deserving happiness.

For Rent Theatre Margarita

At Eureka, Cal.

May be leased by responsible parties. Theatre is new and modern in every respect.

Address,

C. P. CUTTEN, Agent,
Eureka, Cal.

All Kinds of
SCENERY

Painted, built and installed. The only real Scenic Studio on the Coast. Get our prices. For Road or House productions.

Front and Sheridan Sts.
Portland, Oregon

C. F.
Weber & Co.
Opera Chairs

All Styles of
THEATRE AND
HALL SEATS

365-7 Market Street
San Francisco

210-212 N. Main St.
Los Angeles

FRED O. OSBORNE, Manager
Theatrical Code, "Santapole"
Home Phone F 5037

New York Dramatic Agency
Booking
Dramatic and Vaudeville Acts
Organizing and Routing Companies, Supplying "Scripts," Etc.
Belasco Theatre Building, Los Angeles
Entire Third Floor

CHARLES E. ROYAL AND ELLIOTT EDYTHE

Presenting Charles E. Royal's wonderful Burglar Playlet, "STRAIGHTENING A CROOK," and six other excellent playlets. "Best sketch ever presented at the Empire."—Eureka Times. "Full enough of dramatic and comedy situations to warrant a four-act play."—Eureka Herald. Chas. Royal and Edythe Elliott are finished artists in every sense and present a wonderfully clever act."—Watsonville Pajaronian. "Working All the Time." "Featured Everywhere." BERT LEVEY, AGENT.

Spotlights

One of the big musical novelties of the season, A Knight for a Day, will be at the Garrick soon. The latest electrical features in stageland play an important part in the evening's entertainment. The swinging see-saws are a novelty that please.

Geo. Cohan's big music success, Fifty Miles From Boston, is a coming Garrick attraction. The show was a big hit here at the American last season. It has the same cast, but a brand new production for this year's tour.

Dan Considine and his famous Picanniny band will be at the Garrick during the coming Greenbaum season there, when In Old Kentucky makes its 'steenth appearance in San Francisco.

The first of the secret hearings for taking of testimony in the suit for absolute divorce Alice Mack has brought against Andrew Mack, the singing comedian, was held August 19th in New York City before Referee Harburger, who was recently appointed to decide the merits of the charge the actress makes. Her husband's real name is Andrew McAloon. The comedian was represented by Daniel O'Reilly. He and the other attorneys interested in the case refused to make public the name of the co-respondent, who is said to be a well-known dramatic star.

Harry Corson Clarke has decided to remain in America the coming season, and about Thanksgiving week will open with his comedy company for a tour of the West, accompanied by Margaret Dale Owen.

One of the newest musical comedy hits of the season has been produced by the Henry Askin company under the title of Lo. It is from the pen of the noted writer, O. Henry.

Dustin Farnum and his splendid company will make their final appearance in Cameo Kirby on Sunday night at the Van Ness Theatre. This attraction has proven one of the real artistic triumphs of the year.

Any play by Charles Klein, the author of The Lion and the Mouse, should arouse interest. His latest play, The Third Degree, is to be seen in this city shortly. The drama deals with conditions in social life in New York that have long been a matter of comment, as well as the methods of the police departments of large cities. Paul Everton will be seen in the leading role. He was last here in The Lion and the Mouse.

Following Blanche Bates at the Van Ness Theatre will be seen the Brady-Grismer production of A Gentleman from Mississippi. It is a pretty and merry story, prettily and merrily told, of the adventures in Washington, D. C., of a newly elected United States Senator. His ignorance of the game, social and official, as it is played at the capital, make him a shining mark for the unscrupulous. James Lackaye will appear in the leading role.

Wright Lorimer, at present considered one of the leading romantic actors in America, is to make his appearance here this winter in his pronounced success, The Shepherd King.

STEVE I. SIMMONS

MAXWELL ALEXANDER

Columbia Scenic Studio Co.

Estimates on all Classes of Theatrical Work

Office, 117 Fell St., S. F.

George P. Webster

Stage Director

Ye Liberty Playhouse Stock, Oakland, Cal.

Evelyn Selbie-Virginia Thornton

Alternating Leads

Frawley Co., Alaska

Carlton Chase

Leading Man

Fischer's Theatre, San Francisco

Lillian Hayward

Leading Business, Stock or Road.

Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

Arthur E. Witting-Mattie Davis

Character Actor

Joint or Single

AT LIBERTY

Character Actress

Address San Diego, Calif., Boundary and Howard Streets.

Doris Wilson

Prima Donna, Kolb and Dill Company

Billie Burke goes direct to Chicago after her Van Ness Theatre engagement, and there will give her final performance of Love Watches while rehearsing a new play. The new comedy will be offered at the Lyceum Theatre, New York. Vernon Steele, a young English actor, is Miss Burke's leading man.

BOYD MARSHALL, who was leading man for Fritz Scheff in Mlle. Modiste, will play the juveniles for Kolb and Dill this season.

THURLOW WHITE

Leads, Heavies

Address, Dramatic Review

HERBERT MILTON

Characters and Heavies

At Liberty Care of Dramatic Review

CHARLES E. GUNN

Leads

Care Dramatic Review

BERT PORTER

Juveniles

Newman-Foltz Co.

MAX WAIZMAN

Newman-Foltz Co.

GEORGE VON BLIX

Stage Manager

Newman-Foltz Co.

OLGA GRAY

Leads

At Liberty. Care Dramatic Review

COL. D. P. STONER

Business Manager Newman Foltz Co.

Care Dramatic Review

MINNIE MAYFIELD

Heavies and Characters

Late of Richard Jose Co. At Liberty. Care Dramatic Review

HERMAN HELLER

Musical Director

Valencia Theatre Social engagements filled

DAN KELLY

Comedian

Care Dramatic Review

FLORENCE DAVENPORT

Ingenu or Soubrette

At Liberty. Care of Dramatic Review

GEORGIE WOODTHORPE

Characters

Broadway Theatre, Oakland

ALBERT ROWLAND

Late of Chas. Frohman and Chas. Dillingham

At Liberty for Characters or Heavies

Care Dramatic Review

LAURA LUCILE HEIMLICH

Leads

Everett, Wash.

FRED S. CUTLER

Late Manager for Richard Jose

Advance or with company At Liberty

Address care Dramatic Review

EDWARD B. LADA

General Music Director
for Belasco & Mayer

A. BURT WESNER

Alcazar Theatre, San Francisco

TEDDY WEBB

Comedian, San Francisco Opera Co.
Direction John Cort

HARRY J. LASK

Representative New York Clipper
N. E. Cor. Sansome and Pine Sts.

HARRY MARSHALL

Scenic Artist

At Liberty. 3748 Vermont Ave., Los Angeles

MINOR REED

Scenic Artist

At Liberty Address Dramatic Review

CARRIE CLARKE WARDE

Characters

Dick Ferris Stock, Minneapolis

GILMORE WALKER

Stage Manager

Valencia Theatre, San Francisco

EDDIE

Mitchell

Juveniles

CHESTER STEVENS

Heavies

Grand Opera House Stock, Los Angeles

MARY HARVEY-BARBOUR

Leads (Versatile)

3d Ave. Theatre, Seattle

FREDERICK GILBERT

Burbank Stock, Los Angeles

ARTHUR SHEPPARD

Scenic Artist

Care Dramatic Review

Howard Foster

Light Comedy and Characters

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

IRENE OUTTRIM

Leads

Willard Mack Co.—Salt Lake City.

ROBERT LAWLER

Leading Man

SUSIE HOWARD

Engaged for Lyric Stock

Portland, Ore.

PIETRO SOSSO

Leading Man—Elleford Co.

Address, 179 De Long Ave., S. F.

FRED. C. CHARMAN

Juveniles and Light Comedy

General Delivery, Tucson, Arizona

WARDA HOWARD

Leads

Vancouver, B. C.

CHARLES MARRIOTT

Gardiner Stock Co.

Victoria, B. C.

Walter H. Newman AND Bertha Foltz

Starring Jointly

High-Class Repertoire

Season 1909 and 1910

Alf. T. Layne    Daisy D'Avra

Del Lawrence Stock, Victoria

Edith Lyle

Ye Liberty Stock, Oakland

Donald Bowles

Dramatic Director Geo. L. Baker's Attractions.
Address Bungalow Theatre, Portland, Oregon.
Loaned by Mr. Baker to direct Mr. James Neill's Company for him in St. Paul, Minn.

Neva West

Care Dramatic Review

Permanent Address, 2110 Post Street

Johnny Williams, Jr.

"FRISCO"

"The Man in Front." Can Book or Wild Cat

Louise Kent

In Vaudeville

Her Own Company

Pantages Circuit

Claire Sinclair

Second Business

Stock

Seattle Theatre, Seattle

E. P. Foot

GENERAL MUSICAL DIRECTOR

At Liberty.

Care Grand Opera House

Mina Crolus Gleason

Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland

Louis Morrison

Belasco Stock Co.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Seibert & Lindley

Presenting the headline act, "HER OWN MOTHER," in vaudeville.

Sidney B. Payne

Lyric Stock, Portland, Or.

Sydney Ayres

Leading Man

Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, Cal.

Budd Ross

Comedian

Princess Theatre, San Francisco

Al Hallett

Stage Director

Broadway Theatre, Oakland

F. F. Munier

Characters

Broadway Theatre Stock, Oakland

Priscilla Knowles

Leads

Bennett Jack

Characters

Lyric Theatre, Portland

Whit Brandon

Leading Man and Director

Ethel Tucker

Leading Woman

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Paul McAllister

Leading Man

Valencia Theatre, S. F.

George B. Baldwin, Jr.

Alcazar Stock, San Francisco

Monroe Salisbury

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

James Austin Gleason—Webster Lucile

Playing Title Role in Checkers

Juveniles in Checkers

Godfrey Matthews

At Liberty for Leads or Heavies

Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

Leslie King

Season with E. H. Sothern
Closed June 17th

Immediately Engaged by
Frederic Thompson for Polly of the Circus
To open June 29th

VAN NESS THEATRE, Two Weeks, Beginning Monday, Sept. 6

MATINEES SATURDAY AND ADMISSION DAY

DAVID BELASCO Presents

BLANCHE BATES

IN HER GREATEST SUCCESS

... The Fighting Hope ...

BY W. J. HURLBUT

One Year at the Belasco-Stuyvesant Theatre, New York

David Belasco

That David Belasco is still the greatest master of stagecraft of the day is evidenced even in his productions which do not call for elaborate sets of scenery, such as The Fighting Hope, in which Mr. Belasco presents Blanche Bates for a two weeks' engagement at the Van Ness Theatre, beginning next Monday. In this play there is only one scene, showing the library in the country residence of the president of a trust company at Ossining, New York. Yet this one scene is perhaps the most artistic and harmonious that has been shown on the stage in recent years. It is a real room in a real house of a rich, cultured and refined American. David Belasco has again demonstrated that as a producer and director of plays he stands pre-eminent. In The Fighting Hope he pictures life as it is and not as it might be or might have been. In this powerful play he has set another and higher mark for copyists.

JOHN HALE is back with A Gentleman from Mississippi, and Sam Thall is ahead.

Was Anna Only Dreaming?

According to a dispatch from Seattle, Anna Little, prima donna with the Hartman Opera Company, has announced her engagement to Al Kaufman, the big blacksmith, who will endeavor to wrest the heavyweight title away from Jack Johnson Admission Day. Kaufman won't stand for being engaged. When seen at his training quarters he said the report was "the bunk," and that nobody had any matrimonial strings on him. He said he was too busy trying to figure how he was going to beat Jack Johnson to be troubled with matrimonial affairs.

Fred Peel, Publicity Broker

The only publicity broker in the world is Fred Peel, the theatrical manager of former days so favorably known on the Coast. There are many publicity promoters, press agents, publicity inciters and the like, but Mr. Peel, always original, has staked off the term "publicity broker" for himself. Mr. Peel has a large suite of rooms occupying nearly the entire fourteenth floor of the New York Times building, right in the heart of the theatre district of New York. His especial mission in life is to tell business men what an excellent medium billboards are for advertising, and then to place their announcements anywhere in the United States or Canada where there is a fence or a wall. He has just issued a neat little pamphlet about the cost of billboard advertising, which is a gem in its way. Mr. Peel for many years has been identified with the road management of the Klaw and Erlanger and William A. Brady companies. The city that proudly claims him as her own is Portland, Ore.

She's Under The Wire, Boys—A Real Winner

Opened
Season
August 23
Hit
Instantaneous

AS THE SUN WENT DOWN

By Geo. D. Baker

Coast Trip Early in 1910

Address
ARTHUR C. AISTON
Sole Owner
Room 304
1505 Broadway
N. Y. City
Tel. 941 Bryant

The Greatest
Cast of Singers

Headed by
THOS. H. PERSSE
Tenor
EDITH MASON
Soprano

Now Booking Season 1909 & 10

The Persse-Mason Co.

In the New Operatic Comedy

The Singing Bandits

Book and Music by HERMAN PERLET

THOS. H. PERSSE.....Sole Proprietor
JAMES PILLING.....Manager

Permanent Address: Dramatic Review, Van Ness
Theatre Building, San Francisco

Everything
Complete

New Scenery

Excellent
Music

Quartette of
Comedians

THE SAN FRANCISCO DRAMATIC REVIEW

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Published Continuously Since 1880. The Only Theatrical Publication in the Great West

Ten Cents a Copy—$4.00 a Year

San Francisco, Saturday, September 11, 1909

No. 3—Vol. XXI—New Series

Betsy
Bourke

Terkelsen & Henry, Foto.

George Ebey Engineers Fine Program Feature in Oakland

The high water mark in the matter of unique and tasteful theatre program publications seems to have been reached by the management of the Oakland Orpheum. A letter from George Ebey, manager of that theatre, to THE DRAMATIC REVIEW, contains a copy of the new program for the Oakland Orpheum, which, beginning on September 5th, is to be a steady feature of the attractions at that playhouse. Expense appears to have been ignored in the preparation of the new Orpheum program. It has been enlarged in size and is now printed in magazine form. Its beauty from a typographical and pictorial standpoint is apparent at a glance. The publishers, Max Horwinski & Co., were for many years in charge of the Orpheum's program work in San Francisco. Their skill and taste is in evidence throughout the Oakland Orpheum's new program. There are half a dozen departments, which are devoted to discussion of the Orpheum shows, the Orpheum Circuit, the Orpheum artists, the Orpheum officials and the world of vaudeville in general. Each of these departments is treated with a seriousness that might be expected in a high-class magazine, instead of a mere theatre program. Skilled artists have designed heads for these departments. First is a section entitled The Kings and Queens of Vaudeville. In this department one finds notes of interest about the principal artists in the vaudeville world, especial notice being given to those who are Orpheum favorites and who have appeared on this Coast. Under the heading of Orpheum Foyer Chat there is found a variety of matter dealing with the Oakland Orpheum, its staff and all the conveniences of the theatre, and various matters of especial interest to the big clientele of the Oakland Orpheum. As Seen by the Gallery Boy is a unique department, in which the gallery boy gives his views of theatre matters in general and of the Orpheum show in particular. The sketch of the gallery boy has a look suspiciously like the appearance of Laddie Cliff, the bright youngster who made such a big hit at the Orpheum a few weeks ago. The gallery boy is breezy, bright and unconventional. Flash Lights from the Great Orpheum Circuit is a feature wherein special notice is paid to the development of the Orpheum Circuit, its theatres, its officials; its plans, its successes and its history in general. A large number of beautiful pictures are printed in the program, embellishing it in a thoroughly artistic style. There have been many new features devised and executed by the different Orpheum theatres throughout the country, but it is quite safe to say that nothing more artistic than this new program has yet been put forward in either the Orpheum theatres or any theatres of the so-called legitimate class.

David Belasco's Plans

More extensive than in past years are the plans of David Belasco for the new theatrical season. This distinguished author-manager will extend his field by making more productions than ever. Mr. Belasco, always an optimist, believes that the new season promises to be one of the most prosperous in the history of the theatre. The first of Mr. Belasco's stars to open this season was Blanche Bates in The Fighting Hope, now at the Van Ness Theatre. Miss Bates appeared in this play for over three hundred times at Mr. Belasco's theatres in New York last season. David Warfield, according to Mr. Belasco's present plans, is to appear in a new play before the season ends on which Mr. Belasco is now at work, but in the meantime Mr. Warfield will tour the principal cities in the East, South and West in The Music Master. Frances Starr's success in The Easiest Way insured her early reappearance in Eugene Walter's powerful drama at the Belasco-Stuyvesant Theatre in New York. When the New York run is ended, probably in the spring, it is Mr. Belasco's intention to send Miss Starr and the entire production and cast of The Easiest Way, to London, where it will be seen at Sir Charles Wyndham's Theatre. It is also planned that Mr. Belasco will present Charlotte Walker in a new play of American life by Eugene Walter. Mr. Belasco's first novelty of the season was an adaptation of a German play, called Is Matrimony a Failure? This farce comedy was recently produced at the Belasco Theatre in New York, and scored a big hit. In addition to these undertakings Mr. Belasco has under contract for early production several plays by American authors.

Another Newspaper Man Gone Wrong

Robert R. Clark has resigned from the desk of the Inter-Ocean, Chicago, and joined the forces of the Shubert Brothers. He will handle the advance work of Charles Cherry in The Bachelor.

LEILA KERBER, the vaudeville actress, known on the stage as Marie Dressler, now playing a week's engagement in New York, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy Friday afternoon in the United States District Court. She gives her liabilities as $24,886, and says her only assets consist of necessary wearing apparel worth $100. The petition is said to be the outcome of an unsuccessful theatrical venture in England.

Valencia Theatre

The last performances of Augustus Thomas' great play, The Witching Hour, will be given this Saturday afternoon and evening. Sunday the house will be dark, and on Monday evening, Going Some, the New York Belasco Theatre success, which is the joint work of Paul Armstrong and Rex Beach, will begin a two weeks' engagement under the directions of the Shuberts. The story is that of a college "head yeller," J. Wallingford Speed, who visits the Flying Heart ranch, New Mexico, with his coach. There he meets Helen Blake, a Smith College girl, who is dearly fond of athletes. Being a side line cheerer, Speed quickly decides to pose as Yale's champion runner. Of course, he knows nothing of the "past sorrow" of the cowboys of the Flying Heart ranch, the "sorrow" having been occasioned by the loss of a talking machine which they bet and lost on a foot race between one of their own men and the cook of the Centipede ranch. Speed makes his bluff so strong that the cowboys ask him to run against the fleet cook. He accepts because he has information that Culver Covington, the real Yale champion, is on his way to the ranch. Therefore, so Speed calculates, he can plead injury or something of the sort at the last moment and get Covington to run in his stead. When the latter arrives the hopes of the various characters go up and down, this barometric condition being one of the clever phases of the comedy, especially as Covington comes in on crutches. Speed realizes that his last chance is gone and so does his trainer, and their dismay is increased when the cowboys announce that if the race is lost they must both forfeit their lives. This is low barometer for two. But the villain, a most humorous type, known as the Fresno Nightingale on account of his tendency to break into song, knows the real status of affairs, and it is a case of high barometer for him—especially as he is also after the girl. But Speed runs and wins, and the fourth and final act finishes with the race—a most realistic stage picture. Matinees will be given on Wednesday and Saturday.

Alcazar Theatre

The Great Divide, which is to be the Alcazar's offering the coming week, was written by William Vaughn Moody and first produced about three years ago, with Henry Miller and Margaret Anglin in the leading roles. For two seasons it was the most-talked-about play on the American stage, because of the perplexing question it produced and its excellence of dramatic treatment. To save her honor a woman of Puritan ancestry and training marries a man who is repulsive to her every ideal and whom she had never heard of until within the hour. Did she do right, or would it have been more consistent with her nature to prefer death to such a union? That is the interrogation conveyed by the play. There is no unanimity to answer. Its action opens in southern Arizona, where Ruth Jordan dwells on her brother's isolated ranch. He is compelled to leave her there alone over night, but so great is the loneliness of the place that she fears no intrusion until three men, types of what is worst in frontier masculine character, arrive and discover her unprotected condition. They force entrance to the house and decide to gamble for exclusive right to possess her. Then she takes the step that establishes the query for good men and women to ponder over. Realizing the horror of her position—what the outcome of the game would mean to herself—she offers to marry the least ruffianly of the trio if he will save her from the possibility of falling into the hands of either of his companions. His name is Stephen Ghent, a miner, and he bribes one of the men and is forced to fight and kill the other, being himself wounded in the arm. Ruth dresses the wound, fulfill her promise by marrying him. After the ceremony she accompanies him to his cabin in the mountains. When the second act opens they are living together. He has learned to love her with an honest love. But she has never forgiven herself for becoming his wife, and has devoted all her spare time to manufacturing Indian trinkets and selling them, her purpose being to restore to him the price he paid to secure her. When she has earned it she pays him and returns to her old home in Massachusetts. He follows there and in a very effective scene persuades her to return to him, for after her release was purchased she discovered that she loved him. Evelyn Vaughan will play Ruth and Augustus Phillips will be seen as Ghent.

The Orpheum

The program for the coming week will prove particularly interesting and attractive. The chief novel feature will be Harrison Armstrong's one-act play, Circumstantial Evidence. It will be presented with a company of twelve. One scene contrived by the author shows the interior of a jury room. Eleven out of twelve jurors have voted for the conviction of a man charged with murder. The twelfth juror has resisted all argument for more than twenty-four hours. He insists that the accused is innocent and he refuses to be swayed by any argument based on the testimony. He admits that the weight of evidence is against the prisoner, still he is unshaken in his determination to vote for his acquittal. The eleven jurors weary of trying to win him over and they settle around a table to a game of poker. They assert the game will continue until all are unanimous. The twelfth juror sits aside, telling them he will never change his opinion. In an impassioned appeal he tears the evidence to pieces, finally convincing his associates of the defendant's innocence. Ed Wynn and Al Lee, who will appear in The Billiken Freshman, are original comedians. Charles Montrell, the European juggler, will return after an absence of two years from this country. Rosa Crouch and George Welch, who are appropriately styled That Lively Pair, will be an amusing feature of next week's bill. It includes straight singing and dancing and witty dialogue. Next week will be the final one of Gardner and Revere, Signor Luciano Lucca, the Arlington Four and of that stunning musical hit, At the Country Club. As usual the performance will finish with a new series of Orpheum motion pictures.

Slightly Worn Wardrobe for Stage Purposes
Ladies' Handsome Evening Gowns and Opera Coats; good as new; in latest styles. Men's Full Dress and Tuxedo Suits. MRS. H. JACOBS, 1050 Golden Gate Avenue, Store Phone West 2185, Residence Phone Park 4298.

Hotel St. James

Cor. Van Ness Ave. and Fulton St.
San Francisco, California

Headquarters for Agents and Managers

Half Block from Van Ness Theatre.
Friars meet at the St. James every Friday night.

F. P. SHANLEY, Manager, formerly of New York

Clyde Fitch is Dead as Result of Appendicitis

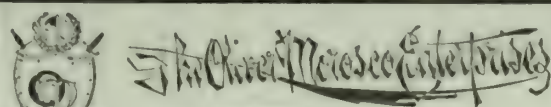

CALONS-SUR-MARINE, France, Sept. 4.—Clyde Fitch, American playwright, died at 9:30 o'clock this evening. He had been unconscious since 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The doctors and his friend, Eugene Cauthier, were present at the bedside. Death was due to appendicitis. Fitch was stricken with an acute attack while traveling in Germany, and upon his arrival here underwent an operation at the hands of Dr. Alquier. The patient rallied somewhat after the operation and yesterday showed some signs of improvement. He suffered a relapse last night, however, and although he was fully conscious during the early hours today, the improvement in his condition was not maintained. After marked delirium he lapsed into unconsciousness about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time the attending physicians gave up hope of his recovery.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Clyde Fitch, easily the most prolific of younger American dramatists, was born at Elmira, N. Y., in 1865, of English ancestors, who settled in Connecticut early in the seventeenth century and left descendants who have been prominent in the religious and political life of the country ever since. Early in life he began to write for the magazines and publishers. In 1889 came his first novel, The Wave of Life, followed by Some Correspondence and Six Conversations, and The Smart Set. Nothing from his pen found any prominence on the boards until the production of Beau Brummel, in 1890, by the late Richard Mansfield. The play jumped into instant popularity and won with the years a classic place in the American repertoire. Thereafter plays came two, and sometimes three, to the year with unflagging regularity. Among the best known of them are Nathan Hale, The Cowboy and the Lady, Barbara Frietchie, Sapho (from the French), The Climbers, The Girl and the Judge, The Last of the Dandies, The Girl with the Green Eyes, Her Own Way, Her Great Match, The Blue Mouse (from the German), and The Happy Marriage. Still other plays of his are in rehearsal for the coming season and the count of them all, including those written in collaboration, will run to the astonishing total of more than fifty. Clyde Fitch made writing pay. His income from his dramas has been estimated at all the way from $150,000 to $250,000 a year. And for all his rapid production he was the most careful worker. Fitch was a great believer in the American drama. "There is a great field in America for plays dealing with the history of the country," he once said. "Such plays in England are made social documents. There is no reason why we should not have them."

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 4.—Captain W. G. Fitch, U. S. A., father of Clyde Fitch, playwright, was grief-stricken tonight upon learning of his son's death. Mrs. Fitch left here Friday for France to nurse her son. Clyde Fitch, it is understood, has had two previous attacks of appendicitis, but he always feared an operation.

Clyde Fitch was the most adaptable of all our American play writers. He was, strictly speaking, an impressionist. His sympathy was acute. He could delineate women, especially women of the rich circles more accurately than any one we know of. He could reflect their moods and register their irresponsible and sparkling chatter as could none of his fellows. He was not a strong dramatic writer, although he had a most certain technique. He was an artist to his finger tips and his writings more often reflected the artistic littleness of things. At all times he was original, bright and interesting. Many of his plays merely reflected minor conditions of the hour and will not live very long. Yet he has written plays of enduring merit—as Beau Brummel, The Truth, and The Climbers. He was in receipt of a very large income from his plays and owned town houses and country places in several places. They were fitted up gorgeously, yet artistically. Before he made a hit with Beau Brummel, he referred in conversations with a member of THE DRAMATIC REVIEW staff, to the time when he was pursuing his art and newspaper work in Paris, to the times he had gone hungry and footsore about the streets of the gay French capital. A complete list of his plays and adaptations are as follows: Beau Brummel, 1890, in which Richard Mansfield appeared with great success; Betty's Finish, Frederic Lemaître, in the same year; A Modern Match, subsequently played as Marriage, and Pamela's Prodigy, 1891; The Masked Ball, adapted from the French, 1892; The Harvest, A Shattered Idol, from the French; The Social Swim, and Mrs. Grundy Junior, 1893; His Grace de Grammont, April Weather, 1894; Miss Betty, which was afterward revived and produced as The Toast of the Town, 1895; Gossip, with Leo Ditrichstein, 1894; Bohemia, from the French; The Liars from the French, both in 1896; A Superfluous Husband, with Leo Ditrichstein, 1897; Nathan Hale, The Moth and the Flame, The Head of the Family, from the German, with Leo Ditrichstein, 1896; The Cowboy and the Lady, Barbara Frietchie, 1899; Sappho, from the French; The Climbers, both in 1900; Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines, Lover's Lane, The Last of the Dandies, The Way of the World, The Girl and the Judge, The Marriage Game, from the French, all in 1901; The Stubbornness of Geraldine and The Girl with the Green Eyes, 1902; and in 1903 the following: The Frisky Mrs. Johnson, from the French; The Bird in the Cage, Algy, Her Own Way, Glad of It, and Major Andre. Then in 1904 Mr. Fitch wrote The Coronet of a Duchess, Granny, Cousin Billy, The Woman in the Case, Wolfville. In 1906 the following group of plays appeared: The Girl Who Has Everything, The House of Mirth, in collaboration with Mrs. Wharton; The Truth, The Straight Road, and in 1908 Girls and Toddlers.

The Sam S. Shubert Booking Company has been incorporated in California with a capital stock of $50,000. The incorporators are H. O. Coughlan, Thomas F. Barrett and James M. Woods.

HOME OFFICE
BURBANK THEATRE BUILDING
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Oliver Morosco's Plays

Ready for Stock

The Judge and the Jury      The Halfbreed
The Empress and the Soldier
In South Car'liney

Is the New Majestic a winner? Well, we guess yes

MOROSCO'S
BURBANK THEATRE
Los Angeles, Cal.
"The Best in the West"
The Leading Stock House.

Hamburger's MAJESTIC Theatre
The Handsomest in the West
Cost $300,000.00
Oliver Morosco, Lessee & Mgr
For time address JOHN CORT

The
Garrick Theatre
San Diego, Cal.
MOROSCO & WYATT,
Lessees and Mgrs.

ANNUAL
TOUR OF

THE ELLEFORD COMPANY

IN LATEST DRAMATIC ROYALTY SUCCESSES
Pacific Coast Representative for Brady and Grismer's
MAN OF THE HOUR and WAY DOWN EAST
W. J. ELLEFORD, Sole Proprietor and Director
FRANK WYMAN, Manager      WILLIS BASS, Business Manager
Permanent Address, Francis-Valentine Co., 285-287 13th St., S. F.

Orchestral Music in College Course

ORCHESTRAL MUSIC IN COLLEGE COURSE

BERKELEY, Sept. 3.—Important innovations were made in the University of California today when the faculty decided to appoint Paul Steindorff, the musician, director of the university orchestra and to allow student musicians credit for their work in the orchestra in the same manner as in other subjects. According to the decision of the academic council the members of the orchestra will be allowed two units for each two hours a week spent at rehearsal. In his capacity as director Steindorff will be called upon to keep an account of the student players and to supply the record, which will be passed upon officially by Professor R. F. Scholz as president of the orchestra organization. The action of the faculty was a distinct surprise, particularly to the students on the staff of the Daily Californian, the university newspaper, who for some time past have been endeavoring to secure credits for their journalistic labors. Heretofore all advances in this direction have met with refusals. Professor Wolle declared himself as being greatly pleased with the action of the faculty, and said that, though it was somewhat out of the ordinary, no fair objection could be raised against it. He also heartily approved of the appointment of Paul Steindorff as musical director.

Blanche Bates is a Skilful Typist

There is no make-believe typewriting when Blanche Bates writes a letter in The Fighting Hope at the Van Ness Theatre. Miss Bates has mastered the typewriter and writes the letter as it is dictated to her. Practicing on the typewriter caused Miss Bates more trouble than learning her lines. All during the rehearsals she gave up considerable time to the machine until she could take dictation from David Belasco, who is noted for his accuracy in details when producing a play, so when it came for Miss Bates to write a letter on a typewriter during one of the scenes of the play, the manager decided that the scene would have to look natural. He did not want Miss Bates simply to bang the keyboard, but really to write the letter. Miss Bates took in the situation and at once went to work on a machine that had been provided for her at the rehearsals. She spent an hour practicing every day, and when the performance opened she reeled off the letter with all the speed of an expert typist. Miss Bates is pleased with her success. She feels that she possesses a profession outside of acting.

C. CLAYTON BURNISON has been engaged for the part of the Devil by Edgar Forrest in Who's Your Friend, in support of Harry Beresford. Kathleen Taylor, the original ingenue of the Pantages Players, Seattle, has been engaged as Mr. Beresford's leading woman in the same attraction, opening in Norfolk, Va., Sept. 11.

New Oxnard Opera House

OXNARD, CAL.

Best stage between Frisco and Los Angeles. Playing all of the best shows that come to the Coast. Doing good business. Write for open time.

GONZALES OPERA HOUSE

GONZALES, CAL.

New, well appointed theatre, electric lighted.

full stock of new scenery.

C. H. WIDEMAN, Mgr.

WOODLAND Opera House

WOODLAND, CAL.

Greatest show town for good shows in the West. A few good dates open in September and October. Stage big enough for any production. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

Hill Opera House

PETALUMA, CAL.

JOHN R. ROCHE, Lessee and Manager

The finest theatrical town outside of the big cities in the West. Magnificent new theatre, with stage large enough for any attraction, playing regularly from $500 to $700 a night. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

287 Thirteenth St., S. F.

BARCROFT Opera House, Merced

Entirely remodeled. New stage, big enough for any production. Stage equipped with new scenery. Merced has 4,000 population. For time write F. R. BARCROFT, Manager.

Santa Cruz OPERA HOUSE

Santa Cruz, Cal.

L. A. KNIGHT, Manager

Rental or will play first-class companies on percentage

H. Lewin

H. Oppenheim

GORDAN TAILORING CO.

928 Market St., Bet. Powell and Mason
FINE CLOTHES MODERATE PRICES
No Branch Stores

NEW AUDITORIUM

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CAL.

Seating capacity, 1,000; new stage; new scenery; stage thirty feet deep, sixty feet wide; large enough for any production; a population of 5,000 to draw from; now booking for 1909-10.

Address WALTER A. CLARK, Mountain View, Cal.

Madison's Budget No. 12, Just Out
Parent's Stationery Co., 818 Van Ness Avenue, S. F.

Correspondence

DENVER, Sept. 4.—To the stranger within its gates is forcibly presented every justification why Denverites should be a race of stay-at-homes; for aside from its world-famed climate, its summer amusements provide a wide range of distractions. One finds here a number of attractive parks, each with its individual program of entertainment, to say nothing of the innumerable picture shows. Lakeside Park, with its White City and Elitch's Garden, with its famous annual stock company, are the leading resorts. The former is a dream of electrical magnificence, the illuminating expense of its famous tower is enough to baffle the hopes of only the most venture-some promoters. Inside the grounds are to be found all of the devices for taking care of the visitors' loose change and there must have been two thousand persons seeking separation. The ball room was well patronized and so was the miniature railroad which skirts the lake and affords the best view of the gorgeous liberality of the illumination. I am told that each season sees an active bid by the leading professionals to become members of the Elitch stock company, as it not only affords an opportunity to replenish exhausted energies by a tonic of bracing climate after the arduous winter campaign, but gives at the same time, remuneration during the dog days. The writer was exceptionally lucky in witnessing Peter Pan, with Maude Fealy, a Denver girl, supported by the full strength of the company. So successful was the production, the engagement ran for two weeks to packed houses. In paying tribute to the sponsors of this high class entertainment the big royalty paid must not be overlooked. Miss Fealy made an ideal Peter Pan and gave to the part intellectuality of a high order. Possessed of beauty and youth, I found in her all the necessary buoyancy and magnetism to make the role one of personal triumph. Among her support were several who created the parts in the original production. The entire supporting company was individually faultless, special distinction should be accorded Ina Hammer, Leona Powers, Wilson Melrose, Carl Nordquist, and John Daly Murphy. As Nana the work of Chas. H. Weston was brilliant. Claribel Campbell as Michael Darling is a youngster with a bright future. Great credit is due Ira Hards for his genius and most excellent stage craft. For the season's farewell the company will give Merely Mary Ann at the Monday night's performance.

W. L. McCONNELL.

SPOKANE, Sept. 6.—The Girl Question at the Auditorium, 5-6, with John S. Kearney as Con Ryan. The chief comedian is a favorite from the start. Dorothy Maynard as Elsie Davis, a cashier, is the Girl, about whom there seems to be the question. The support is good and the chorus is prettily costumed. There was a matinee Labor Day. 12-15—Polly of the Circus. Commencing 6, the San Francisco Opera Company will be at the Spokane for a three weeks' engagement. This week The Gay Parisienne. There is an all-star vaudeville bill at the Orpheum this week. Mary Norman, presenting Some Types of Women, was well received. James Young, assisted by Lorraine Osborne. Robert Strayss in his college farce,

Wanted, A Sister, is scoring big. Pila, the mind reading dog, is very entertaining. Ed F. Renard, presenting A Morning in Hicksville, and the act with his mechanical dummies is clever. The Hughes Musical Trio are excellent. The Bison City Four, tuneful melodies artistically rendered, and the Orpheum pictures conclude the bill. The Washington has an excellent bill. Helen Beresford company, presenting The Pantaloon Skirt, are the headliners. William Cahill in his Irish melodies and funny jokes are the feature of his act. Bandy Fields' dancing-singing act. Charles E. Colby and Lillian May present a novel entertainment entitled The Ventriloquist and His Dancing Doll. Frobels-Ruge have an aerial acrobatic act and motion pictures. Minerva, America's queen of mystery, is the star at Pantages. Smith, Evans and Williams, comedy sketch artists; Rogers, Sherman and Suken, comedians; Frank O'Brien, the Dissipated Gentleman; Roberts and Downey, premier American dancers; Wm. D. Gilson, song illustrator, and moving pictures. SMYTH.

TACOMA, Sept. 4.—Polly of the Circus closed her engagement at the Tacoma Theatre, Aug. 31, having given three performances to splendid business. This clean little play pleased everybody. Sept. 3, St. Olaf's College Band, to fair-sized audience. Sept. 5, the Emma Bunting company will appear in Lena Rivers; 9, The Girl Question; 10-11, The Gentleman from Mississippi. Earl Ryder, leading man of the Polly of the Circus company, while here was the guest of his uncle, Capt. R. M. Mountfort, an old resident of this city. News has been received of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lawrence, now in Bellingham. Mr. Lawrence was one of the most popular members of the McRae company during its stay in Tacoma. Bothwell Browne, a female impersonator, was the headliner at the Grand, and Edward Blondell carried off the honors at the Pantages in his sketch, The Lost Boy. A. H.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 8.—The Elleford company closed an unusually successful engagement of one week ending August 31, at the Clunie. Paid in Full comes to the Clunie, 11. Manager Chas. P. Hall has booked the following for production at the Clunie: The Girl from Rector's, Sept. 19-20; Dustin Farnum in Cameo Kirby, 25; The Climax, 26-27; The Time, the Place and the Girl, 30; Blanche Bates in The Fighting Hope, Oct. 1; A Knight for a Day, 4; The Gentleman from Mississippi, 12-13; Fifty Miles from Boston, 16-17; The Girl Question, 18. Maude Caswell and her husband, Arthur Arnold of this city, who have been away for six years in Europe, are now in the Sullivan & Considine circuit and will appear in a pantomime act in a few weeks. At the Grand Theatre, week of Sept. 5—Chas. Mack and company, in tabloid form, the story in song, Come Back to Erin; Frank Bacon and company in An Easy Liar; Cogan and

CHAS. F. THOMPSON SCENIC CO.

MAIN OFFICE AND STUDIOS, 460, 462, 464 WITMER STREET, LOS ANGELES

THE FINEST, LARGEST AND MOST MODERN SCENIC STUDIOS IN THE WORLD. SCENERY FOR OPERA HOUSES AND PRODUCTIONS. DROP CURTAINS AND SCENIC ADVERTISING DROP CURTAINS OUR SPECIALTY. IN USE IN 1268 THEATRES IN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA. WHY NOT YOURS?

LEVY'S BIG TRUNK STORE

INCORPORATED

COAST AGENTS
FOR THE

Taylor Trunks

687 Market St., S. F. opp. GENERAL REPAIRING
Kearny Phone Douglas 3192

Bancroft, skatorial comedians; Ernest Sisters, feats on the bounding wire; Harry Taylor, composer, songster and comedian. At Pantages, week of Sept. 5—Will Bradley and company, The Six Gypsy Wayfarers, comic operetta; Devine and Williams, The Traveling Salesman and the Female Drummer; the Sander Trio, novelty gymnasts; Le Witt Ashmore and company, farce, A Pair of White Ducks; Doronto, Chinese musical act; Chas. Buckley, eccentric dancer.

Opera House
:::FOR SALE:::

Albany, Ore.

Live, growing town, 6,500 population. Modern, built 6 years ago. Capacity, 650. Ground floor. Stage, 49 x 26 x 38 to gridiron. Including scenery, piano and all within. House, 50 x 100 feet. Lot, 57 x 100 feet. On main business street of town.

Price - - - $11,000
Good Chance

Address, H. E. SCHULTZ, Albany, Ore.

Novelty Theatre, San Francisco
TO RENT

By the day, week or month. Fine, comfortable theatre, seating 1,200 people.
Large stage.
SPECIALLY ADAPTED TO POLITICAL MEETINGS

:::FEW LEFT:::

Dates on Which You Can Go East Cheap

Low Rate Round Trip Tickets
:::Sold:::

SALE DATES: September 7, 8, 9, 10, 13, 14, 15, 1909

Other Dates and Rates to Various Points in Effect During October, 1909

SOME RATES:

OMAHA .....	$60.00	NEW ORLEANS .....	$ 67.50
COUNCIL BLUFFS .....	60.00	WASHINGTON .....	107.50
ST. LOUIS .....	67.50	NEW YORK .....	108.50
CHICAGO .....	72.50	BOSTON .....	110.50

Tickets good until October 31, 1909. Some cases longer

Choice of Routes. Stopovers. Write Agents for Details.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC

TICKET OFFICES

FLOOD BUILDING

THIRTEENTH AND FRANKLIN STREETS, OAKLAND

MARKET STREET FERRY DEPOT

Los Angeles Recognizes the Necessity of Special Interest Hence the Constantly Changing Faces in Her Stocks

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9.—Interest naturally centers around the Belasco and Majestic Theatres this week. The former, because of the return of Lewis S. Stone, the popular leading man of the company, and the latter, because of the return of the popular comedians, Kolb and Dill. Mrs. Lewis S. Stone (Margaret Langham) also returns to the stage of the Belasco after an absence of three years. George Clayton is back in his accustomed place after a vacation of two weeks. Wayland Trask, who appears in the cast of Strongheart at the Burbank this week, has been engaged by Mr. Morosco for a year. John W. Burton, who has been away on a six weeks' vacation, will return to the Burbank next week in the production of Before and After. After the Kolb and Dill engagement at the Majestic, Manager Morosco will offer the New York show, The Girl from Rector's. Lillian Burkhart has been engaged for four weeks in the Burbank stock company. She is to take Blanche Hall's place during the latter's vacation, and will begin her engagement week after next, appearing in Lady Frederick, in which Ethel Barrymore shone. Richard Bennett will probably be presented as a star in the near future by the Frohmans, appearing in Richelieu, to which he has devoted much of his spare time in study during the present summer here. The following is a list of plays to be produced at the Belasco in the order named: Classmates, The Regeneration, Sweet Kitty Bellairs, and then a new play by Augustus Thomas will have its first performance on any stage.

AUDITORIUM—Going Some is being played for the second week at the Auditorium, and is as much a favorite as on its first presentation. The company is a well-balanced one and the performance very pleasing. The offering for next week will be John Mason in The Witching Hour, that fascinating play by Augustus Thomas.

BELASCO—Lewis S. Stone, the popular leading man of the Belasco, has returned and is making his first appearance in the first stock production of Edwin Milton Royle's The Squaw Man. The play is a strong one and in the hands of the Belasco company is being given a very fine production. There are so many new faces in the cast that we hardly recognize the company. Interest, of course, centers around Lewis S. Stone as the Englishman, Wynne, who has been ostracised from his people for several reasons, coming to America and settling in the "wild West." Mr. Stone gives a forceful and convincing portrayal of Capt. Wynne. After a long absence from the stage Mrs. Lewis Stone returns to the Belasco in the role of the Indian girl whom the captain makes his wife. The part, although not one of great possibilities, is well handled. The cast is very long and includes a lot of extra people. Thais Magrane appears as Diana, the wife of Henry Wynnegate, Earl of Kerkill, played by Charles Giblyn. The work of Charles Ruggles in the role of Nick, the barkeep, is particularly fine. Ida Lewis is also well cast as the English mother. Frank Camp, a newcomer in the company, gives a strong study of Cash Hawkins, cattle rusher and general trouble-maker. Harry Andrews, the new stage director, has a small role as the Bishop of Exeter. The scenic work of Robert Brunton is deserving of special mention. The attendance has been so large that it is more than likely the piece will have a long run.

BURBANK—Strongheart, the William C. De Mille play, is the offering at the Burbank Theatre this week. This strong melodrama, which deals with college life, is well known to all theatregoers, but it is as entertaining as ever. As Strongheart, Mr. Beasley has scored another triumph as leading man of the company. His make-up is exceedingly clever and his acting strong and convincing from beginning to end. Miss Hall does her usual good work in the small part of Dorothy Nelson, with whom Strongheart is in love. Wayland Trask, as "Billy" Saunders, the center, both looked and played the part well. Willis Marks as Reade, the college "grind," does some very clever work, and Margo Duffett makes a capital Molly Livingston. Mr. Hartford is seen to advantage in the role of Dick Livingston. Frederick Gilbert makes a very good Thorne. All the details of the play are very well worked out and the Burbank company is giving it a creditable performance.

MAJESTIC—The Majestic Theatre is reopened this week, and with the old favorites, Kolb and Dill. This time they offer Dream City as their opening bill. This piece furnishes ample opportunity for the display of the talents of these two clever comedians. There are plenty of good laughs in the show and it furnishes a good evening's entertainment. Some of the members of the old company have been retained. Olga Stech is as pleasing as ever and Sidney de Grey and Carlton Chase are both seen in good parts. Maybelle Baker is another member of the old company who is being welcomed by her many friends. Little "Bud" Duncan makes a tremendous hit as the Billiken man. Doris Wilson is the new leading woman and Adelaide Harland is the character soubrette. Both are clever additions to the company. Harris McGuire does good work as a character comedian. The costumes and scenery are new and the whole effect is pleasing.

MASON—The Mason is dark this week. Next week Dustin Farnum makes his appearance in a new play by Booth Tarkington and Harry Wilson. Cameo Kirby is the title of the play.

GRAND—Harry Earl of the stock company at the Grand is putting on one of his own plays this week, and it is meeting with success. A Wife's Peril is the title of the piece. The play is both interesting and wholesome and is well acted. Harry Earl and Grace Rauworth have the two best parts and they do them well. Mr. Webb as the Italian roue does a fine piece of acting and the make-up is clever. Mr. Cox and Miss Claire have small parts which they handle very acceptably. Lillian Hayward plays the wife in her usual capable manner. The story is that of a weak woman, faithless in all but deed, saved from rum by the persistent conspiracy of her friends. The dialogue is well written and the characters well drawn and the whole a very interesting and pleasing melodrama.

ORPHEUM—Eleanor Gordon, the first "heavy" woman with the Ulrich stock company five years ago, is at the head of the bill at the Orpheum for the week. She appears in a comedietta, Tips on Tap. A company of seven is required to present a novelty act called La Petite Revue. A youth in reverie beholds many of the stage celebrities of the past; the scene changes and he sees some of the favorite vaudevillians of today; another change, and he sees a miniature Pinafore, and the finale is a Slumberless Serenade. Lena Pantzer, assisted by Sam Mint, does some dances on various household implements. The Five Avolos give a good xylophone act. The holdovers include Sam Chip and Mary Marble, in Old Edam; the Six American Dancers; Matthews and Ashley, in Held Up, and Conroy, Le Maire and company in A King for a Knight. New motion pictures conclude the bill.

LOS ANGELES—There are six new acts on the Los Angeles' bill for the current week. Monda Glendower and Raymond Manion head the bill in a sketch called A Christmas on the Comstock. Both players are capable and the act is pleasing. Ross and Shaw present their musical comedy absurdity, Down in Jungle Town. Scott and Davis have a bright singing and dancing act. Harry Taylor plays the xylophone very well. Gaynell Everett sings and dances. Her dancing is rather the best of her accomplishments. Jack Symonds is a very clever monologist and his act is one of the best on the program. Motion pictures, and good ones, too, conclude the bill.

EMPIRE—The American Musical Comedy Company is putting on a very good show at the Empire Theatre this week. The piece is called The Pirate Chief. The list of principals includes Billy Onslow, Devola May, Ben Sellar, Annie Baumann, Chas. Reilly, Mattie Hyde and Max Steinle. Max Steinle and Billy Onslow furnish enough of the fun to keep all in a good humor and the chorus of eight girls does good singing and dancing. The solo numbers are all very well handled.

FISCHER'S—The Merry Grafters is the title of the play being used by the company at Fischer's this week. The play has to do with three around-the-world tourists, two Germans and a Jew, who graft their way. In Paris they meet an American adventuress who relieves them of their spare coin. Allen Curtis is seen as the Jew, Arthur Clamage is cast as one of the German grafters and Harry Auerbach is the other one. Jean Hathaway plays the part of the American adventuress. The chorus numbers are bright and snappy. Among the best are Hello, Mr. Stein, led by Mayme Praeger; Senora, by Miss Hathaway, and My Wife's Gone to the Country, by Albert Leonard.

UNIQUE—Pongo and Lee, acrobats, and the Del Costa Duo, popular singers, furnish the vaudeville part of the program at the Unique. Both numbers are well worth seeing. Edwin T. Emery, author of The Mysterious Mr. Smith, this week's one-act comedy, plays a leading part in it, in which he exhibits his talent in dialect to advantage. Miss Salmon is a pert French maid, and her duet with Denton Vane evokes several recalls. A Franks, Miss Hayden, Miss Douvee and Mr. Cramer are well cast. An illustrated song and motion pictures finish the bill.

An actress with real stolen diamonds is the novel figure that Betty Hart, a clever young ingenue, presented in Department 11 of the Superior Court last week, which was presided over by Justice Crowe of Santa Barbara, who, in the absence of Judge Willis, is holding court for him, occupied his place. Miss Hart accused L. B. Warren of being the principal in a robbery, when her jewels were stolen at Long Beach, May 25, when she, Warren and her sister, Miss Blanche Light, were bathing. Miss Light and Miss Hart claim to be cousins of Margaret Illington. Mrs. Warren, who is but sixteen years of age, has already confessed her share in the crime and is now on probation from the Juvenile Court. She told Judge Willis how she and her husband had planned the robbery. The police regard Mrs. Warren as a dupe for her husband. The bride of a month was accompanied in court by her father and mother, in whose custody she is, and was obliged to arise several times in the courtroom to be identified as the woman who, under the name of Gladys Turner, pawned the jewels. A letter written by Warren to his wife, in which he admits all his share in the crime, and which was obtained through the detective work of Chief of Police Williams of Long Beach, played a prominent part in the proceedings.

It was announced the other night that Blanche Hall of the Burbank Theatre would leave on a four-week vacation the week after next, and that during her absence Lillian Burkhart will play the leads. Mr. Morosco also announced that he had signed Wayland Trask and Warren Ellsworth for regular work.

The Belasco Theatre management may spring a large surprise upon its patronage next summer in presenting Mrs. Leslie Carter at the head of the well-known local aggregation for a limited season, in a repertoire of the pieces she has made famous in the past few years, with possibly a few new productions. Nothing is said about this projection around the Belasco offices at present, but the inquiry into its feasibility was part of Manager John Blackwood's business trip East recently—spoken of as the "sleuth expedition" around certain mystified newspaper desks. Mr. Blackwood has already announced a policy of summer celebrities for his playhouse. Preliminary negotiations have been entered into, and it is understood that Mrs. Carter looks favorably upon the scheme. This actress has appeared in several emotional plays since her last visit to Los Angeles, spent a good part of last year in Kassa, a fanciful drama by John Luther Long, and is shortly to try out, in a Western city, a new emotional play, of which she has high metropolitan hopes. As an emotional actress, Mrs. Carter holds a unique position on the American stage, and in her delineation of women of powerful, primitively passionate type is probably without an equal among English-speaking actresses. Her Los Angeles

Continued on page 8.

ANITA MURRAY

Ingenue
Broadway Stock, Oakland.

Izetta Jewell and Donald Bowles Tremendously Popular in Portland

PORTLAND, Sept. 6.—At last the theatrical season has commenced in so far as this city is concerned. It was heralded in yesterday by the opening of the Bungalow and Baker theatres for the season of 1909-10. Next Sunday will witness the advent of the Shuberts as independents into this city, for that is the date announced for their opening. It looks like Portland is to be well taken care of the coming season. The list of plays announced for the Bungalow and the Baker by the syndicate are of the very best, the Shuberts are sure of sending they best they have, while the Orpheum, Grand and Pantages will continue to present vaudeville. Meanwhile the new Heilig is being built, and also plans are being made by Manager Geo. L. Baker for a new home for his stock company, who will again take possession of the Bungalow at the close of the playing of the syndicate shows there and their transfer to the new Heilig. The Morris vaudeville company will also have a new house here, the rumor being that they will build, and not occupy one of the Heilig houses as previously stated.

BUNGALOW (Wm. Pangle, acting mgr.)—The International Grand Opera Company commenced their week's engagement at this house last night and a big Sunday night's audience was present. The opening opera was Aida. The only complaints that could be made relative to the opera last night was that the theatre was too small for grand opera, and secondly the poorness of the orchestra. It seems that the orchestra went on a strike prior to last night's opera. The claim was made that they had been paid for only three nights' work, while they were entitled to four nights. The management claimed that the fourth night was devoted to traveling, and therefore they were not entitled to compensation. As far as the company was concerned no complaint can be made, they gave a first-class presentation of the opera, and the principals were all in good voice. Signor Bari who sang the principal male role proved to be a singer of high standing and acquitted himself brilliantly. Miss Strauss carried off the honors for the ladies, although Mme. Bertossi in the title role was very acceptable. Tonight the company offers Lucia, with Mme. Norelli in the title role. Mme. Norelli lived in this city for quite a while, and no doubt will be given a rousing reception.

BAKER THEATRE (Geo. L. Baker, mgr.; Milton Seaman, bus. mng.)—Izetta Jewell and Donald Bowles are joint stars at this theatre this week, where they are offering Salomy Jane. They opened yesterday to big houses and were given a reception that could leave no doubts in their minds as to how they stood with Portland theatre-goers, and who in this way expressed their feeling at the loss of these two favorites to this city. Both were the recipients of many floral offerings. Miss Jewell gave a fine portrayal of the role of Salomy, while Mr. Bowles in the leading man's part instilled the part with a realism that was very fetching. The support was good in every respect. Manager Baker has provided a fine production for the play. It looks like the Bowles-

Jewel farewell week will be a top-notch from the box-office standpoint. Next week—Fifty Miles From Boston.

STAR (Richard French, mgr.)—This house re-opens as a Shubert home next Sunday with the play Girls.

ORPHEUM (James H. Errickson, mgr.)—The dramatic sketch Circumstantial Evidence is the feature of this week's bill at this house, and it proves to be a melodrama of some fascination. Wynn and Lee in The Billiken Freshman proved to be a vehicle that gave the two actors a chance of comedying in good style, and the Musical Johnsons had a good act in which the xylophones proved much in evidence. This week's bill: Rosario Guerrero; Margaret Fealy and company; Murray and Mack; Tom Waters; Spalding and Rigio; Charles Weber; and The Girl Behind the Veil.

LYRIC (Keating & Flood, mgrs.)—For this week the stock company have deserted melodrama and are offering a rip roaring farce, A Runaway Match. Robert Athon is playing the leading role and is getting all the laughs possible out of the role. Priscilla Knowles does well in the leading woman's role, and wears several costumes that simply make the ladies sit up and gasp. The smaller assignments are well taken care of by Alice Condon, Jack Bennett, Susie Howard, Sidney Payne and Frank Murray.

GRAND (Frank Coffinberry, mgr.)—For the week of Sept. 6: Bothwell Browne in the headline act, and others appearing are Selbini and Grovini; McFarland and Murray; Marion and Rial; Will Morrissey; Steele Sisters; and Fred Bauer.

PANTAGES (John Johnson, mgr.)—This week's bill includes Edward Blondell and company; Irene Lee and company; George Yeomans; Professor Buckley; Leo White; and Dorothy Lamb and company. A. W. W.

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 6.—Salt Lake (Geo. D. Pyper, mgr.)—Blanche Bates was seen here, Sept. 2-4, in The Fighting Hope, and played to crowded houses at every performance. She made a decided hit with her audiences. This theatre will be dark for some time, but will reopen Sept. 23 with Billie Burke in Love Watches. The Colonial (R. A. Grant, mgr.)—Geo. M. Cohan's musical play, Fifty Miles from Boston, played here to fairly large audiences. It was a snappy little play and was well received. Beginning this week with a matinee Labor Day, the new Bungalow stock company, known as the Arlington Players, will open their season in this theatre instead of the New Bungalow, as the interior decorating has not been completed yet. They will begin with The Love Route, by Edward Peple, author of The Prince Chap, followed by Raffles. The Love Route is one of the Shubert successes, the play is laid in New York and Texas. Bertha Creighton will be leading lady, while John Ince will be leading man. The new play, As the Sun Went Down, by George D. Baker, will be presented here in the near future. Grand (A. B. Jensen, mgr.)—The Willard Mack stock company played here last week to good houses. They played Salomy Jane, with Mr. Mack

WE CARRY IN STOCK ready for immediate shipment, the only line of special Musical Comedy and Dramatic Lithograph Paper

We can equip your show with Special Cross-lined Lithograph Paper on 24 hours' notice, and sell you small quantities at 5 cents per sheet.

Our Special Cross-Lined Lithograph Paper Looks Like Special Paper

Send for samples of Cross-lining and New 112 Page Illustrated Catalogue.

Lowest Prices on Block Work, Type Work, Dates, Heralds and Small Stuff

All your Printing and Lithographing in one shipment, and the lowest price on everything.

60 Styles Stock Circus Lithograph Paper. Send for Special Catalogue.

ACKERMANN-QUIGLEY LITHOGRAPHING CO.

KANSAS CITY

New York Sales and Sample Office: Chicago Sales and Sample Office:
201-202 Knickerbocker Theatre Building, 1402 B'way. 61-65 Grand Opera House Bldg.

as Jack Marbury, the gambler, and Miss Douglas in the leading role as Salomy Jane Clay. The company was very good and was well received by the people. This week they will offer The Squaw Man, with Mr. Mack in the title role. The Orpheum (H. Sonnenberg, res. mgr.)—Was again good this week. Charlotte Parry and company in The Comstock Mystery was very good; Miss Parry takes the part of seven different characters. Selma Braatz, styled the "Girl Juggler," can juggle like a veteran. The Misses Marshall, Freeman and Rogers have a good musical offering. Cathryn Palmer was good as a comedienne. The Woods and Woods Trio offer something new in their Elopement by Wire. Frank Rogers, the colored ventriloquist, is about the best one that has been seen here for some time. Romania Hyde is a good player on the violin. This week's bill is as follows: Lily Lena, the English comedienne; Charles Dana Gibson's Electrified Girl Review; Julius Tannen, in his monologue; Ruby Raymond in a little skit entitled The Street Urchins; the Three Donals, in an acrobatic novelty; Marseilles in his A Puzzle in Black and White; and the McGradys, the bow and arrow shooters; and the motion pictures. R. HARBACH.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 1.—The Selby Musical Comedy Company, largely composed of players from the Fischer and Grand theatres, Los Angeles, broke up today after its first performance, presented at the Grand Theatre here last night. The performance was far from successful and the theatre management cancelled the engagement. Manager Selby is said to be the only one with enough money to get back to the Coast.

VALLEJO, Sept. 6.—An act that was not on the program was the feature at the Farragut Theatre last evening, where Harry Bernard and a company of San Francisco players staged a musical comedy. The outcome today was the arrest of Mrs. Bernard for battery, the complainant being Sadie Vanderhoff, also of San Francisco, who is employed as a piano player at the theatre. Just before the curtain arose Mrs. Bernard walked down to where the piano player was sitting and the two ladies indulged in a heated conversation. Before long the pianist felt a sharp blow on the jaw. Soon there was a pretty fine imitation of a real mix-up. The audience was in an uproar. Finally the women were separated.

OXNARD, Sept. 7.—We had Kolb and Dill with us last Saturday night in Dream City, and they drew the largest house ever played to in the history of this town. The seating capacity of the new theatre was sold out long before the curtain went up. The local papers are full of praise for the company and the new house and predict a record breaking season here. Climax next. The audience reflected the prosperity of Oxnard and the country tributary to it. It was a transitory exposition of the social, and to a certain extent, economic resources of the city and an object lesson of interest and instruction. The Climax next.

New Opera House for Kennett

The Mammoth Mine Band and the Kennet Band are to be honored with furnishing the music at the official opening of the Kennet Opera House company for an excellent time on that occasion. The event is to be celebrated in the nature of a dance, and owing to the large size of the floor space, 42 by 70, there will be ample room for the enjoyment of dancing to the uttermost.

Nat Fields at the Central

Nat Fields, the brother of Lew, of New York fame, is here from the Trocadero, Chicago, rehearsing a splendid burlesque company, which will open at the Central next Sunday in Whirl-I-Gig, to be followed by Fiddle-Dee-Dee, The Glad Hand, Hoity Toity and Barbara Fidgety. Mr. Fields, who is a producer of note and a clever comedian, will have a strong company in Myrtle Vane, prima donna, Will Vock, Fred Lancaster and Dave Lerner. There will be a chorus of twenty girls.

CHARLES SALISBURY, the brilliant newspaper man who was last year ahead of A Knight for a Day, will be in town next week in advance of the same show.

Menzel's Dramatic Agency

Moved to 915 Van Ness Avenue, Third Floor

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers Wanting Reliable People in Dramatic Lines, Write.

Honest Dealing. No Misrepresentation

NOTICE—We invite people in all lines of the theatrical profession that wish first-class engagements to call or write.

WM. MENZEL, Manager

Correspondence

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (Special).—Hammerstein's educational grand opera season opened tonight with a capacity house and a superb rendering of Meyerbeer's Le Prophete.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—When twenty odd girls in the chorus of McIntyre and Heath in Hayti, which opened at the Circle Theatre last week, appeared in the finale of the second act made up as roosters and sang Chicken with Miss Marion Stanley, there was much applause. The audience was still more amused when the blackfaced comedians walked across the stage carrying live chickens which flapped their wings and tried to escape. Mr. Heath's chickens took the ensuing curtains calls with him, but Mr. McIntyre's fled to their roost, and he looked in vain for them. Chickens are not so frequently seen on the New York stage now as they may be after Chanteclair is produced. The audience may have been largely made up of McIntyre and Heath devotees, but it seemed to enjoy the new piece, and it is probable that there are enough admirers of the humor of this pair in New York to fill the theatre with laughing audiences for some time. They are again brought before the footlights in the characters which they have made well-known, and the show was lively when they were on the stage. Mr. McIntyre shooting craps and pegging the seven to come is an amusing figure, and the onion bet will probably be tried on unsuspecting countrymen in the hotel bars before long. Jerome and Schwartz have provided some lively tunes for the piece. Fletcher Norton had one of the best ones, called Come Toddle Along. I Would Like to Correspond With You and Romeo and Juliet are likely to be whistled. The finales were arranged as complicated song and dance numbers, and always succeeded in rousing the audience to call for repetitions. Adele Rowland appeared in the plot now and then. There are three scenes in the new piece, the first of which takes place in French Lick, Ind. The other two happen in Hayti, where there is an attempt to make a president out of Geronimo Jobbs, played by James McIntyre. The rest of the plot is concerned with successful love affairs. * * * The first production of Geo. M. Cohan's musical play, The Man Who Owns Broadway, with Raymond Hitchcock as the star, was given at the Euclid Avenue Opera House, Cleveland, last week. This piece is a musical version of Mr. Cohan's play, Popularity, which he produced two seasons ago. Hitchcock acts the part of an actor breaking into the social world. The company includes Flora Zabelle, Scott Welsh, Lora Lieb, Frances Gordon, Maud Morris, Stanley Forde, Mark Sullivan, and George Lydecker. * * * De Wolf Hopper has begun rehearsals of his new play, A Matinee Idol, the music of which was written by Silvio Hein, the lyrics by Seymour Brown, and the book by Armand and Bernard. Mr. Hopper will appear as an actor who works his way out of a dilemma by pretending to be a clairvoyant. This will be Mr. Hopper's first season under the management of Daniel V. Arthur. * * * The audience that saw the first production in America of The Flag Lieutenant at the Criterion Theatre last Monday night were agreeably disappointed in more ways than one. A first act devoted chiefly to explaining who were the persons in the cast and what were their relations with each other, and sprinkled with some puzzling British humor, led up to a second act full of lively melodrama and third and fourth acts of smart comedy. The Flag Lieutenant is thoroughly English. Its authors are Major W. P. Brury and Leo Trevor, and it has run for some three or four hundred nights at a London theatre. Charles Frohman brought it over to us and made it the occasion of raising Bruce McRae from the comparatively humble place of leading man for Ethel Barrymore to the head of his own company. The Flag Lieutenant is by no means a woman's play. Only Mrs. Cameron and Lady Hermione have much to do with the story, and they only as the sweethearts of the real hero and their friend whom he has tried to aid. Isabel Irving was the Mrs. Cameron. She received a hearty welcome whenever she appeared and great applause when she left the stage after the one or two scenes in which she had a chance to show her mettle. Vera McCord, who is remembered as the heroine of Via Wireless, had not a great deal to do, but what she did stamped her as an actress of more than ordinary skill. Bruce McRae was a delightful Dickey Lascelles, which is a character dear to Englishmen, but perhaps not so readily understandable to Americans. He is the easy-going son of a well to do family forced for a while to live on his pay, but subsequently rich in his own right, who takes the Service as something of a joke, but is quite ready to be a hero at a moment's notice. Mr. McRae played the part in a rollicking way and had the audience with him. Francis Carlyle was the Major Thesiger who blundered into honors and who deserved all he got if good intentions are their own reward. In less important parts Lumsden Hare was the dignified Vice-Admiral, and Basil Hallam and George Probert were the midshipmen upon whom devolved the duty of furnishing whatever of humor was in the play. C. Leslie Allen and Adeline Wheatcroft, both old favorites in New York, appeared for but a few minutes. The setting was fine. The curtain fell on an unusual finale with most of the leading characters off stage and the ship's crew saluting the flag while the band played God Save the King. * * * The Only Law moved from the Hackett to the American Theatre last week. The play will be performed in the theatre in the evening and in the roof garden on Thursday and Saturday afternoons. This arrangement will not interfere with the William Morris vaudeville performances, which will continue on the roof garden in the evenings. * * * Oscar Hammerstein began at his Manhattan Opera House last Monday what he calls a season of "educational opera" with a performance of Le Prophete, by Meyerbeer. Mr. Hammerstein deals in the unusual and the surprising. A season of what is spoken of as "grand opera" on any such scale as Mr. Hammerstein proposes, and as was exemplified by the performance of last evening, has not been undertaken in New York in the dog days within the recollection of man; and most ambitious musical enterprises that have been purveyed for New York in the summer, from Theodore Thomas's concerts in the Central Park Garden and Anton Seidl's later ones of the same sort, as well as others of more recent memory, have resulted in more or less dismal financial failure. But "grand opera" after all, makes a different appeal; and Mr. Hammerstein is of course counting on various hypothetical factors to carry him to success; on the newly awakened frenzy for operatic entertainment that is supposed to have kindled all the levels of New York's population, on the interest of the summer visitors to this resort in what they have never had opportunity to enjoy at this time before. The audience last week was large and seemed ready to be educated. It found many occasions for applause and enthusiasm, which indeed were not misplaced. The performance was in many ways of surprising excellence. It certainly was not to be compared with any of the offerings of opera at cheap prices that are made from time to time in this town. It had much of the flavor of the real thing in opera; there were several of the principal singers of competence and more than competence; there was a chorus, large, sonorous and active, well trained in both singing and action on the stage. There was appropriate if not always rich or sumptuous scenery, and there were new and effective costumes. They who had the principal parts in this production were by no means unworthy of the respectful attention and interest of the listeners. The performance was one that stood on a different plane from most performances of opera that have been heard in New York. To those who heard it, it was certainly remarkable. There was uncommonly good money's worth in it, and there was promise of something to interest the public. Mr. Hammerstein is aiming to reach in the future performances of the season. * * * Winchell Smith's comedy, The Fortune Hunter, was presented at Parson's Theatre, Hartford, Conn., last Monday. John Barrymore heads the company, which includes Mary Ryan, Sidney Ainsworth, Edna Bruna, Ogden Stevens, Byron Ongley, J. Charles Brownell, Forrest Robinson, Edgar Nelson, Kathryn Marshall, Hale Hamilton, Alice Parks Warren and Walter Horton. * * * At the Baker Theatre, Dover, N. J., last week, Al H. Wilson, singing comedian, gave the first performance of his new romantic drama, Metz in Ireland, written for him by E. B. Tilton. The story tells of the adventures of a young German in the land of the shamrock. For this production Mr. Wilson has composed several new songs. Rob Roy.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 1.—Metropolitan (L. N. Scott, mgr.)—Season opened 30th with The Three Twins, featuring Victor Morley. Business fine and show good. Chauncey Olcott, week 6th. Grand (Theo. Hays, mgr.)—The everlasting In Old Kentucky opened the house for the season 29th. Big business, show good. Babes in Toyland, next week. Orpheum (Martin Beck, gen. mgr.)—Week 29th, packed houses. Claude Gillingwater and Geo. S. Van's Imperial Minstrels, headliners. Balance bill only fair. Star—The Washington Society Girls (?) Burlesque, week 30th. Business great, show ordinary. Majestic (S. & S. house)—Vaudeville. Fair business and show weak. Wonderland, the big outdoor attraction closed this week. The great Minnesota fair at Midway, 6 to 11. All kinds of good things promised. The James Neill company, which played at the Metropolitan all summer, open the Princess, Minneapolis, for a run of winter stock. The venture looks good. The genial Jim sends regards. AL. G. FLOURNOY.

LONG BEACH, Sept. 7.—Bentley Grand Theatre (Perry Girton, mgr.)—The Girton stock company are this week presenting Flower of the Ranch. Iva Shepard as Roxy or the girl, is very natural in the part and handles the strong scenes with ease. Corbett Morris as Jeck Delmore, the road agent, does very good work. Chester Stevens as Luke Short, the sheriff, is seen at his best. Richard Scott, Frank Bonner, Harry Willard, Perry Girton, Josephine Dillon and Marjorie Dalton, are all seen to a good advantage. Jas. Guy Usher closed his engagement with the Girton company last week to accept an engagement with the Belasco Theatre in Los Angeles. Next week Manager Girton announces an elaborate production of Faust. Byde-a-Wyle Theatre (Frank M. Clark, mgr.)—A number of good vaudeville acts make up a good program at this theatre and it is doing a good business. Robert Hildreth and Miss Robertson made a hit in their character sketch, A Four-Leafed Clover. Elma Ellwood and Geo. A. Feild, and Pearl's Imperial Russian Troupe, all do their part in making a good entertainment.

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 8.—Garrick (J. M. Dodge, mgr.)—Sept. 5-6, Paid In Full played to two good sized audiences. The play is in the hands of very capable players, and repeated its success of last season. Sara Perry, in the role of Emma Brooks, who was here with the company last year, again gave a very clever interpretation. Louis Morris as Joe Brooks, handled his part in a faultless manner. Ned Finley as Jimsey, and Charles Reigel as Captain Brooks, also did excellent work. Dustin Farnum in Cameo Kirby, 19-20. Blanche Bates in The Fighting Hope follows. Pickwick (Scott A. Palmer, mgr.)—The James Post company are putting on Slippery Days this week to good business. This piece is about the best Post has put on here, and it affords himself and Joe Hayden ample opportunity to display most advantageously a large amount of comedy which keeps the audience in a continual round of laughter. Esco Ives in the role of a policeman and Millar Bacon as a messenger boy, do excellent work. The chorus this week is exceptionally well dressed, and under the personal direction of Mabel La Monaie many well executed dances are interpolated that show the effects of good stage management. Kelley and Violette again scored a big hit in the olio with their singing act. Queen (John Donnellan, mgr.)—The bill as presented this week is a fair one and composed of the following acts: Bendix and Goranhson, acrobats; John P. Reed, monologist and parody singer; The Sados, European juggling eccentrics; Carita Day and her dancing boys; John J. Black and company in The Advance Agent. After this week the Queen will be known as the Orpheum. Grand (Fred Ballien, mgr.)—Huntress heads the bill at this theatre with his impersonating acts. He has one of the best dressed acts of its kind ever witnessed here. Louis Stone has a fair dancing act. Hill Sisters have a new illustrated song. LUNDQUIST.

THE SAN FRANCISCO Dramatic Review

Music and Drama

CHAS. E. FARRELL, Publisher

Issued Every Saturday

Address all
letters and
money orders to San Francisco
Dramatic
Review, Van
Ness

Ness theatre Bldg.,
Van Ness
Avenue.
Telephone
Park
1773

Entered at San Francisco as Second-class
Mail Matter. Established 1880.

Betsy Bourke

McKee Ranken, who is acknowledged to be one of the finest actors in America, has a new protege, whom he discovered in New York. Her name is Betsy Bourke and when Mr. Ranken's managerial eye fell upon her she was making a hit of large proportions with the Robert Mantell company. As a discoverer and developer of talent, Mr. Ranken has no equal in the show business. One of the present-day leading actresses of London he took out of the chorus and trained so well that today she is a big figure in theatricals. We are all acquainted with the wonders he accomplished with Nance O'Neil. Now in Betsy Bourke, Mr. Ranken says he has the most promising of any young actress he has directed. Her emotional qualities are exceptional and her appearance is most attractive. A new play is being written for her and she will be introduced to New York audiences and then will be brought West. While on the subject of Mr. Ranken's activities, it is an interesting fact that George W. Tyler was so pleased with the triumph of Mr. Ranken in Cameo Kirby that he says the veteran is to be starred next season if a suitable play can be secured.

King Stock For San Diego

Charles King was in town last Monday and Tuesday, engaging people for a stock he will put in the Pickwick Theatre in San Diego in October. Marjorie Rambeau will play the female leads and Pietro Sosso will alternate with Mr. King in the male leads. Audra Due has been signed for ingenue parts. Elaine Davis will play second business. The opening bill will be Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall.

At Last a Sensible View from an Actress

Julie Opp (Mrs. William Faversham) was interviewed in England lately, when she said: "I simply cannot understand why so many women of the stage, who have reached the enviable position of star, tell every young girl who comes to them for advice that they had better not go on the stage. The stage has given me everything, as in their cases it must have given them everything also. To be a conscientious actress, with intelligence, will power and a capacity for hard work—for all of them are needed—is to have the privilege of meeting practically all of the leading artists of the time and of the countries in which it is your fortune to act. What would I have been if I had not gone upon the stage? Merely a dull, usual woman of the middle class, with no real knowledge of the outside world or of books or music or art or of the men and women who make art live. All of these the stage has given me. On the stage you are alive all over, in mind, as well as in body. You cannot get into any grooves of incrusting habits nor into an intellectual state of vegetation. You simply have to progress all the time in your perceptive and expressive faculties or you will go down. Isn't that stimulating enough for any vigorous person? No, sir; for any girl who has the courage to try to overcome the difficulties of the stage, I say let her try it, and in succeeding I say she will find a satisfaction and an enjoyment in life that is offered by little else." Good for you, candid, sensible, intelligent Mrs. Faversham. The stage does offer the greatest career for a serious, persistent woman.

Millidge Sherwood in King Lear

That shrewd young manager, William Stoermer, has picked a winner in Millidge Sherwood, whom he will star in King Lear, presenting him with a strong supporting company and a thoroughly equipped organization. The tour opens about September 27, and so far the following company have been signed: Frank Opperman, Howard Foster, Floyd Menzel, Norma Fusier, Orrin Shear, James O'Reilly, Charles Hohl, Marion Meredith, Gladys Daye, Clarisse Boardman, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rowland.

The Barrier, Eugene Presbrey's dramatization of Rex Beach's novel, is in rehearsal. Theodore Roberts will play the part of John Gale. Frank Sheridan is cast as Strak and Florence Rockwell will play the leading feminine role. The production is to be on the usual Klaw & Erlanger and Joseph Brooks' scale.

Personals

ZOE BARNETT has joined the King Dramatic Company in St. Paul.

SUSIE HOWARD will retire from the Lyric stock of Portland next week, as will Stage Director Murray.

BURT WESNER has been signed to create the comedy part in Richard Jose's new comedy, Silver Threads.

ISABELLE FLETCHER opened last Monday as leading woman with the Walter Sanford stock in Vancouver, B. C.

CHARLES DAVID, the popular treasurer of the Van Ness is all abeam these days. It was a girl last Wednesday.

J. W. CONOLY, ahead of The Climax, is in town, the first time in seven years, when he was ahead of Haverley's Minstrels at the California Theatre.

BURT WESNER is considering a proposition to star for three weeks at the Broadway Theatre in Oakland, during a projected visit of Landers Stevens in the East.

Edward L. Livermore, property man at the Princess Theatre, whose wife, Mrs. Marie Ellen Livermore, committed suicide last March, was shot and almost instantly killed late Sunday afternoon by William A. Stein, a brother of Livermore's dead wife.

CHARLES E. GUNN, the handsome and clever leading man, who has been winning great popularity in San Jose with the Ed Redmond company, leaves next week to join the new stock at the Curtis Theatre in Denver, where he will play the leads.

GOTTLOB & MARX deny the claim made by Walter Hoff Seeley that David Warfield is to play the Valencia Theatre. They claim to have him booked for their house, and it is possible that he may open the new Columbia.

LOS ANGELES LETTER

Continued from page 5.

engagement would probably be for eight or ten weeks.

Final negotiations have been completed whereby Richard Bennett will return to Los Angeles next June, appearing this time at the Burbank Theatre. Manager Morosco has arranged with Mr. Bennett to play a number of the Frohman successes during his engagement, which will be for eight weeks. Mable Morrison (Mrs. Bennett) will appear in a number of the bills. Mr. Bennett will appear with Maude Adams in What Every Woman Knows at the Mason in about two months.

After a successful season in the East, Dick Ferris, actor and playwright, returned to his West Adams Street home last week. He arrived on the Salt Lake Limited, accompanied by his wife, Florence Stone.

FLORENCE EMERY.

WILLIAM MAXWELL

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW

Lick Building, 35 Montgomery Street.
Telephone Kearny 724.

Valencia Theatre

Valencia Street, near Thirteenth
Phone Market 17

This Saturday Afternoon and Evening,
Last Times of

John Nason in The Witching Hour

Two Weeks, Starting Monday Evening,
Sept. 13, Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Sam S. and Lee Shubert Present
The Straight-Away Champion of Comedies

Going Some

A PLAY OF COLLEGE MEN AND COWBOYS

By Paul Armstrong and Rex Beach. Eight months at the Belasco Theatre,
New York

Reserved Seats from $1.50 to 50c, on sale at the box-office and Emporium.

Garrick Theatre

Ellis Street, near Fillmore
Phone West 1194

Second and Last Week
The Fun Hit of the Year

The Girl From Rector's

Exactly as Played in New York.

Matinees Sunday, Thursday and Saturday. Prices 25c to $1.50.

Sunday, Sept. 19—HAROLD NELSON in PRINCE OTTO, by Robert Louis Stevenson.

New Alcazar Theatre

Tel. West 1400

Cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts.
Belasco & Mayer, Owners and Managers
Absolutely "Class A" Building

Monday Evening, Sept. 13, and Throughout the Week, with Matinees Saturday and Sunday

Henry Miller's Recent Successful
Vehicle

The Great Divide

By William Vaughn Moody

Prices—Night, 25c to $1.00; Matinee, 25c
to 50c.

New Orpheum

O'Farrell Street, Bet. Stockton and Powell
Safest and Most Magnificent Theatre in
America

Week Beginning This Sunday Afternoon
Matinee Every Day

ARTISTIC VAUDEVILLE

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE, an Intense Dramatic Playlet by Harrison Armstrong with a company of twelve; ED
WYNN and AL LEE; CHARLES MON-
TELL; CROUCH and WELCH; GARD-NER and REVERE; LUCIANO LUCCA;
ARLINGTON FOUR; NEW ORPHEUM
MOTION PICTURES. Last Week—Stunning Hit of the Musical Delight, "AT THE COUNTRY CLUB."

EVENING PRICES—10c, 25c, 50c, 75c;
Box Seats, $1.

MATINEE PRICES (Except Sundays and
Holidays), 10c, 25c, 50c
Phone Douglas 70

Princess Theatre

Absolutely "Class A" Theatre Building

Phone West 663
Ellis Street, near Fillmore
Samuel Loverich, Manager

ONLY FIVE TIMES MORE
Matinee Tomorrow and Sunday

Ferris Hartman

And His Big Singing Company, in the First Stock Production of
The Yankee Consul

Popular prices: Evenings, 25c, 50c, 75c.
Saturday and Sunday Matinees, 25c and 50c.

Next Monday

The Blue Moon

AMERICAN THEATRE

Market St., near Seventh

Abe S. Cohn, Manager

Phone Market 381 for Good Seats
The Playhouse of Comfort and Safety

AMERICAN VAUDEVILLE

Will be Inaugurated Next Sunday, by a
Ten-Act

Vaudeville Show

This theatre will now book the best
vaudeville acts obtainable under the book-
ing direction of Edward Homan.

No Acts too big. No Price too big.

GILLE PRINTING CO.

SAN FRANCISCO

THEATRICAL PRINTING OF ALL KINDS

POSTERS

2257 MISSION ST.

Phone MARKET
1865

THE FRANCIS- VALENTINE CO.

Thirteenth St., near Mission, S. F. Cal.

Spacious Headquarters
for Theatrical Agents

PHONE—MARKET 2114

Send Bills of Lading to us. We will take care of your paper

Van Ness Theatre

The return of Blanche Bates to her friends and her home town was the event of the week and a record-breaking audience was present. It is several years since Miss Bates has played here and those several years have been employed in making complete her conquest of the East—principally of New York. Miss Bates has advanced immeasurably toward the goal of artistic supremacy. She has gained poise and has lost nothing of her earlier power and intensity. In a long part that would prove talky and tiresome in the hands of another less magnetic and less accomplished, she maintained an absorbing interest to the end, and all the while she was simulating so artistically that only the picture of a suffering, natural woman was before the audience. The small cast of five people was carefully chosen. John W. Cope, who was last here as the ranchman, Canby, in Arizona, played the confidential legal adviser of the suspected bank president, and next to Miss Bates, he was the big figure in the play. Mr. Cope is a big actor in every way, and it was a great pleasure to see him portray his part. It was a vivid lesson in realism. Milton Sills, as the bank president, gave a good, clean cut depiction, but his work was at times somewhat stiff, a little too precise and mechanical. Wedgewood Newell, in the guise of the embezzling treasurer and unworthy husband, presented a small part in the last act that was a gem of intelligent and convincing effort. Loretta Wells, as the housekeeper, played the part with ease and intelligence. The single set, the library of the bank president's home on the Hudson, was the finest achievement in the way of stage adornment we have seen for years. It more nearly approximated what it was supposed to represent than anything we have been shown. Next week will be the last of the engagement.

American Theatre

Market street and down town is vaudeville mad. Manager Abe Cohn made the switch at his fine theatre at the psychological moment. From the first performance vaudeville has become firmly established at the American. It was a case of turn away the crowds last Sunday and packed houses have been the order of things daily. An excellent bill has had much to do with this state of affairs. Several old favorites and fine acts are in evidence. There is Jack Golden and wife in a comedy sketch that is received with outbursts of applause. In it the Goldenes do their best work, which is always of a high order. Then there is Fay Carranza, the best singer in vaudeville, East or West, over the big circuits or little ones. She tops them all. Jere Sanford, the Rube singing and yodeling comedian, has taken American audiences by storm. They never get enough of him. The living statuary pictures by Stanley Edwards' company are most pleasing, for the girls have glorious shapes. Carter, the magician, is a deft wonder worker, and something of a comedian. He has one fault—he is difficult to hear in the rear of the house. His work is first-class. Moving pictures conclude the performance.

Princess Theatre

Ferris Hartman, accompanied by his big singing company, opened his season at the Princess with the Monday matinee. Hartman is too well known in San Francisco to make any extended analysis of his methods and professional technique necessary. Suffice to say that age has not withered nor has custom made stale his peculiar humor, which has been so popular to San Francisco audiences for now almost twenty years. As Abijah Booze, the Yankee consul, the star of the organization has a part that enables him to be funny all the time he is on the stage. Some of the jokes might be expurgated with advantage, and the too constant references to jags and booze might be made less important as vehicles of Hartmanesque humor. Otherwise there is little to criticize adversely. Don Raphael Deschardo, the governor, was well acted by that quaint comedian and vocalist, Joseph Fogarty. Leopoldo, a revolutionist, as portrayed by Walter De Leon, gives that young man an opportunity to demonstrate how much he has improved as a comedian since he made his professional debut. Josie Hart made the house laugh time and again with her comical portrayal of Donna Theresa, a rich Spanish widow. "Muggins" Davis, as her niece, was clever. She sings well and dances better. Others in the cast who do most excellently are Oscar Walsh, Walter Catlett, Leonard Bowes, Leslie Mote, Don H. Seaton, Colin Clinch, F. W. Hanrahan, Octavia Broske, Anna Little and Elvina Rand. The chorus is good, but some one ought to see to it that they are instructed in the elementary principles of making up. Several of the girls look dangerously like caricatures.

Alcazar Theatre

"Dickey" Davis presented us with one of the most fragile of his comedies when he assumed the authorship of The Taming of Helen. The drama is evolved out of a typical Davis plot. A young American author is in London, trying to place a play. He has been at it for nearly two years, and is experiencing many of the vicissitudes of life that were the lot of Eugene Walter before he landed with Paid in Full. The young lady who loves him and whom he loves, and who is the ward of the dramatist, misconstrues his conduct towards an actress after his play has been accepted. You know the rest. The Taming of Helen is of the present, and the scene of the same is in London. Everybody is on his or her good behavior, with one or two exceptions, after the manner of the modern English society play, which Davis was obviously following when he wrote this piece. The gracious part of the young American author with the "script" which he finally has accepted falls to Augustus Phillips. He does the part very well, although, in all frankness, the character is not one that makes great demands of an actor. A. Burt Wesner, as Upsher, had a small part which he made quite distinctive. A young member of the company who gives promise of much better things is Alden Wheeler. He has been cast this week as Sir Charles Welby. There is very little to it, but that little is excellently done. Charley Clark, in a bit, is praiseworthy. He portrays the stage-door keeper of the Imperial Theatre, making the character an appealing one. Evelyn Vaughan shared the honors of the performance with Augustus Phillips in the part of Helen Cabot. Others in the cast were Margaret Clayton, Christie McLean, Diana Argall, Grace Travers, Adele Belgarde, Bessie Barriscale, John Graham, George Baldwin, Ancy McNulty, Andrew Bennison, Hobart Cavanaugh, Glenn Jones, L. Isaac Dillon, Walter Belasco, Roy Neill, Herbert Farison, Charles Trowbridge, Will R. Walling, William Garwood and Howard Hickman.

Valencia Theatre

The Witching Hour entered on its second week last Sunday to a large audience, which has increased so appreciably nightly that this last week will in point of business be considerably larger than was the first week, and that was an unusually good one. The Witching Hour, a great play, acted by a most satisfactory company, has made a profound impression in San Francisco, and the large attendance it has drawn is only a just tribute to its merits. Next week, commencing Monday, comes the farce, Going Some.

Garrick Theatre

The Girl from Rector's has almost upset the town. This naughty, free loving young thing from Battle Creek, who at odd moments radiates in the red light district of New York, has put the church element, the woman's club element and the police in a whirl of excitement, indignation and activity. By Wednesday night, after an all day's session with the police and the District Attorney, it was definitely decided by the authorities that an expurgated version would be allowed to continue. After that John Campbell, who piloted the show here, Acting Manager Ficke, who came along with it, and Manager Selby Oppenheimer, who is the manager of the Garrick, all breathed more freely. All during this time of moral frenzy, the show was playing to standing room only—and that means something over $10,000 on the week. The most interesting thing about the performance is the author's note, which explains that "The Girl from Rector's, by Paul M. Potter, is a free version of Pierre Veber's famous comedy, Loute, which has had a triumphant career in Europe. Based on the strange theory that married men often lead double lives, and that the saint of the rural home may be the Lothario of the city, Mr. Potter hesitated to introduce this comedy to a community where, he believed, in his innocence, that married men of double lives were practically unknown, but as many recent lawsuits have tended to prove the contrary, the management has now decided to produce this play, in the hope that it will serve as a warning to American husbands, and strengthen the hands of matrons and maids, who are battling for the purity of the American home." All our readers will admit that the above lines are rich—after seeing the play. The chief fault with the play is not so much its moral offending as its lack of brilliance. Clothed in the garb of a Camille, of a Zaza or of a Sapho, it would simply be palpitating. Now, in its direct attack, it merely leaves little to the imagination. That is the chief measure of its offending. A very capable company present the play and many a good, enjoyable laugh obtains. Carrie Weber is the Girl, and she is an experienced, volatile, magnetic sou-brette. Wm. Sellery is an exceedingly clever comedian who wins a succession of honest laughs. John J. Clark is a handsome and pleasing juvenile and Edward Barton plays the judge in a most satisfying way. Of the good looking and pleasing young women in the cast is Marie Tower, who has appeared here before. The Three Pendleton Sisters are madcap dancers of a superior brand and their turn is one of the finest things in the show. A large proportion of the audiences during the week have been made up of women, who have seemingly enjoyed the humor and situations of the show immensely. Next week will be its second and last week here.

Personals

ROBERT ATHON, who is now directing stock at the Lyric Theatre in Portland, contemplates establishing similar companies in Seattle and Boise.

TUNIS F. DEAN, who will be pleasantly remembered here in a managerial capacity several years ago, has returned in charge of the Blanche Bates company.

RICHARD JOSE and wife left Thursday for a short trip to New York, in the interest of the new play, Silver Threads that Mr. Jose will star in this season, opening in October.

FLORENCE OAKLEY expects to leave for Los Angeles next week on an automobile trip that will last three weeks, after which needed rest she will resume her position at Ye Liberty Playhouse in Oakland.

GEORGIE KNOWLTON, late of the Liberty Theatre and Idora Park, Oakland, has joined forces with the Persse-Mason company. Miss Knowlton has been identified with such companies as the Wilbur Opera Company of Boston and other well known Eastern organizations. She was at one time the ingenue with that grand old actress, Rose Eytinge. As a character woman Miss Knowlton has few equals.

It will be news to those who have known Joseph Buckley long and well to learn that at last he has entered the state of double blessedness. Mr. Buckley, long conceded to be one of the hardened bachelors of Broadway, yielded to the slings and arrows of delightful fortune in Chicago last Tuesday, and without taking into his confidence his friends on the Atlantic seaboard. The bride was Mrs. Mary D. Thiel, widow of the late Gustavus H. Thiel, a prominent and wealthy Chicagoan. A year ago the announcement of the engagement of Mr. Buckley and Mrs. Thiel was made. Astonished for the moment, those who knew Buckley said that was as far as the matter would go. "Get Joe to the altar? Never!" they asserted. As months went by without a wedding, it seemed that they were right. But Mr. Buckley very quietly was pursuing his romantic way. As soon as Mr. Skinner closed his season in The Honor of the Family he went to Chicago, but kept far from his former haunts. It is said that Mrs. Buckley will travel with her new husband when he goes on the road with Mr. Skinner this season.

Vaudeville

The Orpheum

This week's bill, with four popular holdovers in addition to new acts scintillating with an abundance of "clogs" and strengthened by the clever work of those versatile people, Hyams and McIntyre in their comedietta, The Quakeress, likewise comedy puns offered by the Arlington Four, serves to delight the Orpheum patrons and maintain the standard of attractions this circuit has been giving the public of San Francisco. The feature act on the program, At the Country Club, is a combination of low comedy, burlesque and musical comedy numbers, spiced with opera that borders along lines of popular fun. By far the best thing in this offering are the pretty girls, stylishly gowned in sheaths-a-la-directoire. Sig. Luciano comes to us with a novelty this week. His number consists of vocal work that pleases. While this act seems commonplace, it is nevertheless very attractive, as this gentleman possesses two distinct voices—baritone and a high soprano. With feminine make-up he would be capital as an impersonator. He is worth hearing. Cunningham and Marion continue to amuse patrons by their head spins and rough and tumble work. Their act is greatly appreciated. The motion picture, In Sunny France, was very clear, and enjoyed by many. The picture was so interesting that many of the "Regulars" who were wont to leave upon the conclusion of the regular program, remained in their places until the final curtain.

Pantages-Empire

The quality of the Pantages offerings is improving each week and so is the attendance. The Goyt Trio have a good act, the chief interest centering in the dog, Daisy, who does a complete somersault from a one-hand balance. Gladys Middleton is an attractive young woman with a good voice, who is successful in a number of character selections. Martin Bros., xylophone players, neither better nor worse than the usual run of players who affect this style of music, please their audience. The feature act is furnished by Mary Hampton, a beautiful and favorite actress, who is particularly well known out here for fine dramatic work. Miss Hampton has a good sketch, The Melodrama, and pleasing support is given her by Jos. Clark and Alfonso Ercole Harvey and Lea, Hebrew comedians and parodists, have something of interest and the Bonesetti Troupe of acrobats have a distinctly good and skillfully performed turn.

The National

Manager Zeke Abrams invited our particular attention this week to the moving pictures, and they were great. A feminine neighbor next to me invited my attention by audible comments, to the superior excellence of the acts, which were wonderful at the price asked and good enough at the highest vaudeville prices. And we thoroughly agreed National vaudeville is worth seeing. That is why the house is always crowded. The bill this week is made up of Roltaire, a good magician; Harvard and Cornelle in a pleasing sketch, The Actress and the Dude; Le Maze Bros., acrobats, who have the best team of its kind this town has seen in years; Mondane Phillips, an attractive songstress, and Emily and Jessie Dodd in a playlet, Dutton's Claim, which is so well played as to claim attention to the end. There are also Tom Bateman, a good singing comedian, and Hugh Lloyd, who is sufficiently described by the program note as "King of the card elastique."

The Wigwam

Sam Harris still wears the happy smile of satisfaction and prosperity, for the regular Wigwam business shows no letting down. The bill for the week consists of Klein Bros.; Ott and Nicholson; Barry and Johnson; J. Warren Keane; Alfred K. Hall; J. K. Emmett and company; Les Ploetz Larells; and Doblado's sheep, all of which have been written up in these columns before. It is a carefully selected bill.

Bookings

At the Sullivan & Considine, San Francisco Office, through Wm. P. Reese, their sole booking agent, for week of Sept. 12, 1909:

NATIONAL, San Francisco—McFarland and Murray; Ahlberg Brothers; Billy Cort; Mort Sharp and his Dancing Belles; Tom and Stacia Moore; Edwin Carewe and company; Grace Darnley. BELL, Oakland—Goodhue and Burgess; Roltaire; Harvard and Cornelle; Emily and Jessie Dodd and company; Tom Bateman; Hugh Lloyd; Josh Dreano. WIGWAM, San Francisco—Clarence Sisters; Wood Brothers; Vera de Bassini; Mitchell and Caine; the Three Röehrs; Carter-Taylor company. AMERICAN, San Francisco—Girard and Gardner; Murphy-Whitman company; Alva York; La Maze Brothers; Alfred K. Hall. NOVELTY, Vallejo—Cogan and Bancroft; Abrams and Johns; Tom McGuire. GRAND, Sacramento—J. Warren Keane and company; Armada; J. K. Emmett and company; Les Ploetz Larells; Fay Carranza; Jack Golden and company. THEATRE JOSE, San Jose—The Four Bards; Chas. Mack and company; Mondane Phillips; La Tosca. LOS ANGELES, Los Angeles—Barry and Johnson; Frank Bacon and company; Gruet and Gruet; Tora Troupe; Harry Taylor; Ernesto Sisters; Princess Wlademaroff. QUEEN, San Diego—Glendower and Manion; Jack Symonds; Gaynell Everett; Ross and Shaw; Zamloch and company. GARRICK, Stockton—Haight, Dean and company; Jere Sanford; Doblado's Sheep; Defrej.

Levy and Foley Get Big Booking Contract

Archie Levy and Ed Foley turned a big trick early in the week when they signed up with the San Francisco Labor Council to furnish the acts for the big Labor Council Industrial Exposition at Central Park, which opens October 16 and runs for nine days—during the Portola Carnival. Levy and Foley have secured J. Anthony Gorman, one of the best carnival promoters, to act with them. Mr. Levy's recent trip to Seattle was largely in interest of this deal, and in consequence The Crystal Labyrinth, Darwin Was Right, Deep Sea Divers,

Theatrical Tights

ALL COLORS, WEIGHTS AND QUALITIES—Cotton, 75c to $1.50; Wool, $2.50 to $3.50; Lisle or Silkline, $3.00 to $4.50; Silk, $5.00 to $12.50.

SYMMETRICALS BEST LINE MADE IN THE U. S. Calf. $5.00; Calf and Thigh, $10.00; Calf, Thigh and Hip, $12.50.

We also Make Padded Shirts, SWEATERS, JERSEYS, GYM, ATHLETIC and BATH SUITS, SUPPORTERS, ACROBATIC SHOES, GOOD UNDERWEAR Knit to Fit in All Materials.

We operate our own mills, carry a large stock and make goods to measure at reasonable prices. We suit the professional as if he were buying in Europe. Write us for prices and samples.

Gantner & Mattern Co.

Phone Kearny 3603

Corner Post and Grant Ave.

Sullivan & Considine

::: New Circuit :::

Of the smaller popular-priced theatres to be operated in conjunction with their regular circuit houses, comprising time in

California Utah Colorado Kansas and Eastern Connections

Good Acts Can Always Secure Immediate Bookings

BOOKING DEPARTMENT

1117 Market Street

W. P. REESE, Manager

New York Office, Knickerbocker Theater Bldg. Lancaster, Pa., Family Theater. Booking the Longest Chain of Vaudeville Theaters West of Chicago. Playing the best acts in vaudeville.

BERT LEVEY CIRCUIT

2053 SUTTER ST. INDEPENDENT VAUDEVILLE Phone West 9098. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

PANTAGES Western States Vaudeville Association

Controlling the longest, largest and best chain of vaudeville theatres in the United States.

Mr. Manager: No matter where your house is, how large or how small, we can supply you promptly with first-class vaudeville acts at reasonable prices, also lodges, clubs and entertainments furnished on short notice.

See O. S. BURNS, Representative. Phone West 7140. Offices: Pantages Theatre, cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts., San Francisco, Cal.

Archie Levy's Amusement Ass'n

THE VAUDEVILLE EXCHANGE OF THE PACIFIC COAST

1643 FILLMORE STREET, SUITE 1-2-3, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers desiring talent Write. Artists send in your open time now.

Palace de Costume, Skeleton Whale, Spanish Theatre, and Taylor's big animal show will be brought down from the Seattle Exposition. In regards to the vaudeville situation in the Northwest, Mr. Levy states that as sure as anything Wm. Morris will have houses in Portland, Seattle, Spokane and Tacoma, and perhaps other cities.

The Central's bill this week comprises: Geo. Jones, blackface entertainer; Symo and Symo, contortionists and globe rollers; Spencer and company, black art; Birdie Long, in popular picture song, and The Century Girl, afterpiece, with Chas. Lyndon, Fred Lancaster, Jean Howard, Henrietta Lambert, Dave Lerner, Al Watson and Margie Long, under the direction of Clark Wilson, which is achieving a great hit.

NEW.....JUST OUT.....NEW

MADISON'S BUDGET

.... No. 12 ....

Greatest book of comedy material ever written. Contents include 10 new monologues, 46 up-to-date parodies, 21 original acts and sketches for two males and male and female, 2 jolly farces, a complete minstrel first part with finale, besides hundreds of brand-new jokes, stories, get-backs, etc.

Price One Dollar

And money back if not absolutely satisfactory. For sale in San Francisco by L. PARENT, 818 Van Ness Ave., or direct of the publisher, JAMES MADISON, 1404 Third Ave., New York.

Ed Redmond, Mrs. Redmond and Alta Phipps will open in vaudeville shortly, using one of Mr. Redmond's successful vehicles, cut down from his comedy, A Crazy Idea.

NAT FIELDS

CENTRAL THEATRE . . . . . San Francisco, Cal.
Comedian and Producer

Terkelsen & Henry, Foto.

Wm. P. Reese

Mr. Reese is the capable, hard-working, courteous representative of the Sullivan & Considine circuit in San Francisco. Mr. Reese is very popular with performers and is very high in the estimation of his employers. He has made a notable success in extending the power of the S. & C. circuit in this State, and the constantly increasing additions to the circuit bookings are a tribute to his energetic proficiency.

Idora Has New Fun-makers

The famous fun-making trio, Clayton, Jenkins and Jasper, that has circled the globe with the big traveling circuses, is to come to Idora tomorrow for a limited engagement. Jasper is the mule portion of the trio and has the reputation of being the most cleverly educated animal in the show world. The other members of the troupe assume the roles of bareback rider and ringmaster, and their attempts to subdue and ride Jasper furnish many ludicrous situations. Another new act to be put on at the Oakland amusement resort tomorrow will be a burlesque bull fight. When the Barnum-Bailey Circus toured Mexico several years ago, Toto Ducro, now principal clown at Idora, was featured as the toreador in a bull fight in which clowns were the sole participants. Complete costumes and setting have been procured for a reproduction of the act at Idora. Ten sawdust comedians and a "bull" will take part in the sport. Still another feature on Sunday's free program will be the exhibitions of the Hanafourde family of aerialists. They have been brought out from the East and are said to be performers of the first rank. The Gilmore Band, under the direction of Patrick Conway, will be the chief musical attraction, giving concerts afternoon and evening. The sextet from Lucia, scenes from Madame Butterfly and airs from Samson and Delilah will be the featured numbers. The solos will be by Florence Drake Le Roy, soprano; John Dolan, cornet, and Gardelle Simons, trombone.

New Acts for the Chutes

After two Sundays of fistic display pugilists have been temporarily dismissed from the New Chutes amusement fare and tomorrow's patrons will find that the brass band, the high divers, the fiery riders, the comedy acrobats and the omnipresent "joy rides" have again come into their own. Two attractions of the headliner variety should be of particular interest for the reason that this will be their first Sunday at the Fillmore Street resort. They are the California State Band and the Smiletta Trio of triple bar performers. The lately arrived musical feature makes a specialty of popular offerings, and twenty up-to-date selections will be given this Sunday afternoon and night under the direction of George W. Bennett. The band's feature number will be a medley composed of favorite songs. Among the selections introduced will be The Booker T.'s on Parade, When 'Tis Moonlight, Mary Darling, Won't You Please Let Me Come Home, I'm Trying So Hard to Leave, My Fluff-a-de-Ruff and Tipperary. Besides there will be played favorite marches and groups of Scotch and Southern melodies. Herman Miller, xylophone, and Fred Rau, trombone, will be the soloists. The Smiletta Troupe will perform on the bandstand during the concert intermission. Comedy plays an acceptable part in their act, and several of their feats, such as a triple giant swing, are of the extraordinary kind.

Morris Vaudeville Firm Files Articles

Articles of incorporation of the William Morris Company, Western, formed to conduct theatrical enterprises, were filed with the County Clerk last week. It is capitalized at $1,000,000, divided into 100,000 shares. The directors have subscribed for $500 of the stock. Following are the names of the directors: Otto K. Grau, E. C. Graham, J. W. Cook, J. B. White and F. M. McAuliffe. The attorneys for the corporation are Heller, Powers & Ehrman.

Vaudeville Notes

Edwin T. Emery will open at the American Theatre, September 26th, for a long engagement as producer of tabloid comedies.

James Pilling, who is well known as the manager of Idora Park in Oakland last season, and as an experienced hustler and showman of the first rank, has been secured by Manager Abe Cohn as business manager of the American Theatre. Mr. Pilling will assume his new duties a week from tomorrow.

The proposition to open Fischer's Theatre under the name of The Folies seems to have fallen through. Jack Raynes, who was to have gone into the thing with Charley Sinclair, has signed with the Princess company to act as musical director, and Messrs. Brackett and Sinclair seem to have

AVAILABLE FOR STOCK

Greatest Book Play of the Decade

Dramatization of
Mrs. Augusta Evans' Book

St. Elmo

By Grace Hayward

Author of "Graustark"

This play has been produced in the East and has demonstrated itself to be a big business puller.

George M. Gatts, the manager of Miss Hayward, has given this agency the exclusive right to handle this play in this territory.

Cast is six men and four women. For terms, etc., address

Great Western Play Agency
Van Ness Theatre Building
San Francisco, Cal.

some difficulty in arriving at a decision.

SAN JOSE, Sept. 8.—At the Victory the stock company are presenting Under Two Flags. On Thursday the company makes way for Dustin Farnum in Cameo Kirby. On Friday, Saturday and Sunday, as an extra attraction, Jack Johnson, the bruiser, will appear in an exhibition. At the Jose the show comprises: Girard and Gardner, Gruet and Gruet, Tom McGuire, the Tora Troupe, Prof. Roberts, and Protzken and Blanchard.

CECIL FITZGERALD left for Salt Lake last Wednesday night to accept a six weeks' engagement in stock.

Budd Ross, late of the Prince Theatre company, has designs on a vaudeville engagement.

NEW CHUTES

FILLMORE, TURK, EDDY AND WEBSTER

Open Morning, Afternoon and Night

TODAY - SUNDAY
And All Next Week

GREAT SMILETTAS
Premier Comedy Acrobats and Triple Bar Artists

CALIFORNIA STATE BAND
Concerts every afternoon and evening.

Other great attractions and special features for the children.

TAKE THE JOLLY JOY JAUNT

IDORA

"The Park Beautiful"

B. P. MILLER, General Manager
Oakland, Calif.

20 Acres of High Grade
Amusement--20

The Handsomest
Park in America

Playing Only the World's Greatest Bands
and
Big Feature Acts

Performers desiring time, address
J. H. B. Fitzpatrick

Huntress

IMPERSONATOR AND DRAPERY DANCER.

Carrying full set. The season's hit in vaudeville. First act to play three weeks of first-class time in San Francisco.

3 times a day

Chicago-Kansas City

AND POINTS EAST

EASTERN EXPRESS

Leave San Francisco, 7:15 a. m. Leave Oakland, 7:40 a. m.

OVERLAND EXPRESS

Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 8:00 p. m.

CALIFORNIA LIMITED

Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 10:00 p. m.

Courteous employes—Unique scenery—Harvey meals—Equipment built by Pullman—One management all the way to Chicago. Our descriptive folders give reliable information.

JAS. B. DUFFY, GENERAL AGENT, 673 Market Street, S. F.
T. LOVE, T. A., Market St. Ferry Depot, San Francisco.
J. J. WARNER, G. A., 1112 Broadway, Oakland.

What Friar Agents Are Doing for a Living This Season

Valentine Kennedy remains with Henry B. Harris. * * * Ollie Alger goes with one of The Third Degree companies. * * * Frank Abbott will be back with The Parisian Widows. * * * Louis Nethersole will manage the tour of Margaret Anglin. * * * Wallace Munro will assume the management of Olga Nethersole this season. * * * Harry Doel Parker has engaged Joseph McKeever and Charles Mark Thail for Under Southern Skies. * * * P. S. Mattox will again be ahead of Cohan & Harris' Minstrels. * * * Henry Pennypacker will do the advance work for one of the many companies of The Climax. * * * Joseph Conoly will take one of The Climax companies to the Pacific Coast. * * * Edward McDowell will be identified with Cohan & Harris' production of Brewster's Millions. * * * Frank Lee will travel in advance of one of the Shubert attractions. * * * Percy Heath has joined the Frederic Thompson list of agents, and Harry Kline has assigned him to Polly of the Circus. * * * Harry Davidson will again pilot one of the Liebler Company's attractions. * * * Arthur Lotto will once more direct the advance work for The Gay Musician. * * * Harry Reichenbach has been engaged by Henry B. Harris to go in advance of one of The Third Degree companies. * * * Whitaker Ray will go in advance of Company A, of The Traveling Salesman. * * * E. K. Martin is in advance of Fifty Miles from Boston, and Arthur L. Barney is the man behind. * * * Oscar Hodge will be in advance of Lew Dockstader this season. * * * Kenneth McGaffey will again be in advance of one of the attractions flying the Shubert banner. * * * Stanley Sharpe has taken charge of the Western company of The Blue Mouse. * * * Victor E. de Kiraly has been made business manager of Billie Burke's tour. * * * George Murray and Orme Butler will direct the tour of The Top o' the World. * * * Louis Robie will give his personal attention to the tour of his own burlesque company, known as Robie's Knickerbockers. * * * Richard Little will be back with the Cecil Spooner company. * * * George H. Harris will manage one of The Man of the Hour companies this season. * * * John Hogarty will be associated with the management of The Sins of Society companies. * * * Harry Sweatman has been engaged by William A. Brady to do the advance work for Tim Murphy. * * * Howard Herrick will join Fred Niblo's business staff this season. * * * J. Sheldon Landon will go in advance of one of David Belasco's attractions. * * * Walter Floyd will pave the way for one of The Merry Widow companies. * * * Sam Maurice has signed with one of Harry Miller's attractions. * * * Bert Gilckauf will again manage The Land of Nod, and Lee Riley will be seven days ahead. * * * Lawrence Anhalt will again be in advance of David Warfield. * * * George Nolan has been engaged by Cohan & Harris to go in advance of Raymond Hitchcock. * * * Harry Middleton will be back with the Grace Van Studdiford Opera Co., offering

The Golden Butterfly. * * * Fred Block will look after the interests of The Right of Way, and George Hunt will also devote his energies to this attraction. * * * D. Morris Jones will remain in New York and do the press work for Jesse Lasky's vaudeville acts. * * * Edward Lyons will be prominent in the management of the New Theatre, on Central Park West. * * * Edward Weil will be connected with the enterprises of Walter N. Lawrence. * * * Charles Diamond Connolly will go ahead of Frederic Thompson's production Via Wireless. * * * John B. Doris is out blazing the trail for May Robson in The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary. * * * John R. Rogers (Yours merily) has signed with the Shuberts, and will do the advance work for Eddie Foy in Mr. Hamlet of Broadway. * * * Myles Murphy will be in advance of one of William A. Brady's attractions this season. * * * Paul Benjamin will announce the coming of The Builders, for Wagenhals & Kemper. * * * David Sasseeen will again do the press work for the Montauk Theatre, in Brooklyn, N. Y., and the Hyde & Behman theatres. * * * John Campbell will tell the theatre-goers of the Pacific Coast of The Girl from Rector's. * * * George Gill has recovered from his recent illness and will go in advance of The Talk of New York. * * * Van Ness Harwood has resigned from the New York World to become press representative for the New Theatre. * * * Gillman Haskell will be back with company B of The Thief. * * * Harry Doel Parker has engaged E. J. Bulkley to do the advance work for one of his companies presenting Wildfire. * * * Albert Hoogs goes in advance of The Soul Kiss. * * * Albert Dorris will continue to be the pathfinder for Joseph and Wm. W. Jefferson. * * * A. A. Duchemin will be the man in front of the Company B, of The Traveling Salesman, which goes to the Coast. * * * Charles L. Hertzman will tell theatre-goers of the excellent performance Henrietta Crossman gives in Sham. * * * Laurence Craddock will pass his receipts for salary received over to Al. Cross this season. * * * James H. Shesgreen will do the advance work for Nell, who will star in Springtime this season. * * * "Mike" Coyne will be ahead of Frederic Thompson's production of Brewster's Millions this season. * * * Charley Buckley will manage Via Wireless. * * * E. B. Jack will go in advance of the Polly of the Circus Company B, this season. * * * Charles T. K. Miller will manage Robert Hilliard, in A Fool There Was. * * * George F. Hopper will be in advance of Morrison's Faust. * * * Jean Havez will be in advance of Little Nemo. * * * Brightly Dayton is ahead of one of The Man of the Hour companies. * * * Lip Keene will again be business manager of Forty-five Minutes from Broadway. * * * Nelson Van Houten Gurnee has been engaged by Hurtig & Seamon to do the press work at the Lyric Theatre, Dayton, O. * * * Charles Denison is ahead with one of The Gentleman from Mississippi companies. * * * John Montague will go in advance of The Girl from Rector's. * * * Leon Mayer will be back with The Great Divide. * * * Frederic Donaghey will again sing the praises of William A. Brady and Joseph Grismer's attractions. * * * John Pollock will go in advance of one of The Climax companies. * * * Louis Francis Brown will continue his management of the Travlogue Twins, Burton Holmes and Wright Kramer. * * * Branch O'Brien will manage Louis James this season. * * * W. M. Randell goes with Going Some. * * * Al. Lohman will again manage Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch. * * * Wade Morton will be connected with The Heart of Alaska this season. * * * Harry Bailey will be back with Broadway After Dark. * * * Richardson Webster will do the press work for the Majestic Theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y. * * * R. H. Dewey goes ahead of Paul Gilmore and Friar Roland G. Pray will manage the company. * * * Max Fichandler has signed as musical director of the Aborn Opera Co. * * * Robert Campbell and Gus Bothner will put out Just Out of College this season. * * * Emil Ankermiller will be back with Eddie Foy in Mr. Hamlet of Broadway. * * * Arthur J. Sheldon will be connected this season with automobile races. * * * S. W. Donalds will begin his season with Joseph and Wm. W. Jefferson. * * * Edward Kendall will again tell of the coming of The Wolf for the Shuberts. * * * A. C. Robinson will be ahead of Mme. Nazimova. * * * Joseph Glick will manage The Climax, southern company. * * * J. Frank Gibbons will pave the way for one of The Climax companies. * * * George E. Brown will be back with The Final Settlement. * * * John H. Washburn will be ahead of Uncle Dave Holcomb. * * * Gus Pitou, Jr., will be manager of Robert Edeson's company. * * * Will Page will be with Liebler & Co. * * * Charles F. Brown will be back with Raymond Hitchcock. * * * Matt Smith goes with one of the Henry B. Harris attractions. * * * Al. White will manage Mildred Holland. * * * John Moore will be with Paid In Full.

Garrick Theatre

The second and last week of The Girl from Rector's starts at the Garrick tomorrow afternoon, and during the week special matinees will be

Wanted Leading Man

For STRONG DRAMATIC LEADS—No Juveniles.

THE GIRTON STOCK COMPANY

One bill a week. Send full particulars first letter; state lowest salary. Long Engagement. Write,

PERRY GIRTON, Long Beach, Cal.

FOR SALE

All Scenery
Drops, Set Pieces
Border Lights
Dimmers
Switch Boards
Chairs
Good Gas Heater, etc.

USED IN THE OLD COLONIAL THEATRE

Everything in First-Class Shape
McAllister Street, Near Market
Enquire—H. H. WHITING,
Office Leavenworth St., Near McAllister
San Francisco

given on Thursday and Saturday. This show has proven to be one of the funniest farce comedies that has ever been seen in San Francisco, and despite all the criticism to the contrary, has served to keep the Garrick crowded at every performance. The Garrick's following attraction is one that will interest all classes of theatre-goers. Seldom do we have the opportunity to judge new stars in this western metropolis of ours, and therefore the announcement that Harold Nelson is to play here awakens quite a bit of interest. Nelson is an English actor, known on King Edward's isle as the most careful Shakespearean exponent of the time. His initial appearance here will be made in Prince Otto, Otis Skinner's dramatization of Robert Louis Stevenson's book. This is one of the most elaborate and interesting plays in the Nelson repertoire and therefore has been chosen for his introduction. Should the Harold Nelson week prove to be all that is anticipated for it, the Garrick management intend to bring him back later in the season for a lengthy summer engagement. Seats will be ready Wednesday.

Dates Ahead

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (Eastern), (H. H. Frazer, prop.)—Detroit, Sept. 12-18; Toledo, 19-25; Louisville, 26-Oct. 2.

THE CLIMAX.—Bakersfield, Sept. 12; Fresno, 13-14; Stockton, 15-16; San Jose, 17-18; Oakland, 19-25; Sacramento, 26-27; Chico, 28; Red Bluff, 29; Medford, 30; Eugene, Oct. 1; Salem, 2; Portland, 3, and week; Seattle, 10, and week; Aberdeen, 17; Olympia, 18; Tacoma, 19-21; Victoria, 22-23; Vancouver, 25-27; Westminster, 28; Bellingham, 29; Everett, 30; South Bend, Nov. 1; Chehalis, 2; Ellensburg, 3; North Yakima, 4; Pendleton, 5; Walla Walla, 6.

Imperial Amusement Co.

Star Theatre, Portland, Oregon
S. MORTON COHN, Pres.; MELVIN G. WINSTOCK, Genl. Mgr.
Acts of every kind are requested to write in, quoting lowest salary in first letter. Satisfactory booking for right acts at right figures.

Andrews Opera Chairs

General Seating
School—Church—Bank
Office and Steel Rod
Furniture
Purchase direct from
manufacturer
THE A. H. ANDREWS CO.
Pacific Bldg., San Francisco
Chicago, New York, Tacoma

J. B. REIGHLEY

Theatrical Hauling

Promptly Attended To
Telephone Market 1601
660 Guerrero Street, Bet. 18th and 19th

Opera, Folding and Assembly Chairs

Full Line
See Samples at 770-776
Mission St.
Bet. 3d and 4th Sts.
SAN FRANCISCO
Whitaker & Ray-
Wiggin Co.

Dates Ahead

A GIRL AT THE HELM (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Peoria, Sept. 12-15; Springfield, 16-18; Chicago, 19-25; St. Louis, 26-Oct. 2.

A GIRL AT THE HELM (H. H. Frazee, mgr.)—Walla Walla, Sept. 7; North Yakima, 8; Seattle, 12-18; Portland, 19-25.

A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI (W. A. Brady, mgr.)—Portland, Sept. 13-18; San Francisco, 20-25.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Tacoma, Sept. 12; Victoria, 13; Vancouver, 14-15; Westminster, 16; Bellingham, 17; Everett, 18; Portland, 19-21; Eugene, 22; Red Bluff, 24; Marysville, 25; San Francisco, 26-Oct. 1.

ALCAZAR STOCK.—San Francisco.

AS THE SUN WENT DOWN (Arthur C. Aiston.)—Akron, Sept. 13-15; Youngstown, 16-18; Salem, 20; New Philadelphia, 21; Dayton, 22-25; Cleveland, 27, week.

BLANCHE BATES (David Belasco)—San Francisco, Sept. 6, two weeks; Los Angeles, Sept. 20 and week; San Diego, 27; Santa Barbara, 28; Bakersfield, 29; Stockton, 30; Sacramento, Oct. 1; San Jose, 2; Oakland, 4 and week; Portland, 11 and week; Seattle, 18 and week; Tacoma, 25-26; Victoria, 27; Vancouver, 28-29; Bellingham, 30; Spokane, Nov. 1-3.

BELASCO STOCK CO.—Los Angeles.

BILLIE BURKE (Chas. Frohman, mgr.)—Omaha, Sept. 7-8; Kansas City, 9-11; Denver, 12-18; Colorado Springs, 20; Cheyenne, 21; Salt Lake, 23-25; Los Angeles, 26-30.

BISHOP'S PLAYERS.—In stock, Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland.

CHIC PERKINS.—(Frank G. King, mgr.)—Buxton, Sept. 13; Hartman, 14; Milton, 15; Mystic, 16; Wayland, 17-18.

CHAUNCEY OLCOTT (Augustus Pitou, mgr.)—St. Paul, Sept. 5-12; Stillwater, 13; Eau Claire, 14; Superior, 15; Duluth, 16-18; Winnipeg, 20-25; Grand Forks, N. Dak., 27; Fargo, 28; Jamestown, 29.

CLIMAX (J. J. Rosenthal, mgr.)—Bakersfield, Sept. 12; Fresno, 13-14; Stockton, 15-16; San Jose, 17-18; Oakland, 19-25; Sacramento, 26-27; Chico, 28; Red Bluff, 29; Medford, 30.

COMMENCEMENT DAYS (John Cort, mgr.)—Ottawa, Sept. 8-9; North Bay, 10; Sudbury, 11; Winnipeg, 13-15; Calgary, 17-18; Vancouver, 20-21; Victoria, 22; New Westminster, 23; Bellingham, 24; Everett, 25; Seattle, 26-Oct. 2.

DARE DEVIL DAN (W. F. Mann, owner; Robt. J. Riddell, mgr.)—Des Moines, Sept. 9-11; Marshalltown, 12; Waterloo, 13; Rockford, 14; Aurora, 15; So. Chicago, 16-18; Chicago, 19-25; Detroit, 26-30.

DUSTIN FARNUM (Liebler & Co., mgrs.)—San Jose, Sept. 9; Stockton, 10; Fresno, 11; Los Angeles, 13-18; San Diego, 19-20; San Bernardino, 21; Redlands, 22; Santa Barbara, 23; Bakersfield, 24-25; Portland, 27-30.

EMMET DEVOY (W. G. Smyth, mgr.)—Hannibal, Mo., Sept. 10; Moberly, 11; Kansas City, 12-18; Des Moines, 20-22; Omaha, 23-24; Denver, 26-30.

FIFTY MILES FROM BOSTON (Cohan & Harris, mgrs.)—Pendleton, Sept. 10; The Dalles, 11; Portland, 12-18; Seattle, 19-25; Everett, 26; Tacoma, 27; Eugene, 28; Red Bluff, 29.

GIRL FROM RECTOR'S (Al H. Woods, mgr.)—San Francisco, Sept. 5-18; Sacramento, 19-20; San Jose, 21-22; Stockton, 23; Fresno, 24; Bakersfield, 25; Los Angeles, 26-30.

HONEYMOON TRAIL (Mort H. Singer, mgr.)—Kansas City, Sept. 5-11; Omaha, 12-14; Lincoln, 15-16; Cheyenne, 18; Denver, 19-25; Victor, 26; Pueblo, 27; Leadville, 28; Grand Junction, 29; Salt Lake City, 30.

GUY SMITH STOCK.—Oakland, Cal.

HAROLD NELSON IN PRINCE OTTO.—San Francisco, Sept. 13 and week.

IN THE BISHOP'S CARRIAGE (Baker & Castle, mgrs.)—La Crosse, Sept. 11; St. Paul, 12-18; Minneapolis, 19-25; Des Moines, 26-29; Omaha, 30.

IN OLD KENTUCKY (A. W. Dingwall, mgr.)—Superior, Wis., Sept. 22; Hibbing, Minn., 23; Duluth, 24-25; St. Cloud, 26; Winnipeg, 27-29; Grand Forks, N. Dak., 30.

KING DODO (John Cort, mgr.)—Montreal, Sept. 6-11; Toronto, 13-15; Hamilton, 16; London, 17-18; Saginaw, Mich., 19; Bay City, 20; Lansing, 21; Jackson, 22; Battle Creek, 23; Kalamazoo, 24; South Bend, Ind., 25; Kenosha, Wis., 26; Oshkosh, 27; Fond du Lac, 28; Madison, 29; La Crosse, 30.

LITTLE JOHNNY JONES (Chas. L. Crane.)—Cambridge, Ohio, Sept. 13; Zanesville, 14; Coshocton, 15; Newark, 16; Lancaster, 17; Circleville, 18; Columbus, 20-22; Delaware, 23; Marysville, 24; Bellefontaine, 25; Piqua, 28; Wapakoneta, 29; St. Mary's, 30.

McKENZIE'S MERRY-MAKERS.—Marshfield, Sept. 23, 4 weeks.

MOROSCO'S BURBANK STOCK.—Los Angeles.

McFADDEN'S FLATS (Barton & Wiswell, mgrs.)—New Orleans, Sept. 5-11; New Iberia, 12; Jennings, 13; Lake Charles, 14; Beaumont, 15; Galveston, 16; Houston, 17; San Antonio, 18; New Braunfels, 19; Waco, 20; Fort Worth, 21; Dallas, 22; Dennison, 23; Sherman, 24; Gainesville, 25; Wichita Falls, 27; Amarillo, 28; Dalhart, 29; Trinidad, 30.

MRS. LESLIE CARTER (Mrs. Leslie Carter, mgr.)—St. Paul, Sept. 13-15; Minneapolis, 16-18; La Crosse, 20; Dubuque, 21; Madison, 22; Milwaukee, 23-25; Kansas City, 27-30.

MAX FIGMAN (John Cort, mgr.)—Birmingham, Sept. 10; Meridian, 11; New Orleans, 12-18; Baton Rouge, 19; Natchez, 20; Jackson, 21; Vicksburg, 22; Greenville, 23; Memphis, 24-25; Hot Springs, 26; Little Rock, 27; Pine Bluff, 28; Shreveport, 29; Beaumont, 30.

PAID IN FULL.—Eugene, Sept. 13; Salem, 14; Astoria, 15; Portland, 16-18; Seattle, 20 and week; Tacoma, 26-27; Victoria, 28; Vancouver, 29-30; Bellingham, Oct. 1; Everett, 2; Ellensburg, 4; Spokane, 5-6; Missoula, 7; Butte, 8-9; Great Falls, 10; Helena, 11; Bozeman, 12; Livingston, 13; Billings, 14; Dickinson, 15; Bismarck or Jamestown, 17; Fargo, 18.

POLLY OF THE CIRCUS.—Spokane, Sept. 12-15; Missoula, 16; Helena, 17; Great Falls, 18; Butte, 19-20; Anaconda, 21; Bozeman, 22; Livingston, 23; Billings, 24-25; Denver, 27-Oct. 3.

RICHARD CARLE (Carle & Marks, mgrs.)—Madison, Sept. 10; Eau Claire, 11; Minneapolis, 12-15; St. Paul, 16-18; Winona, 21; La Crosse, 23; Madison, 24; Dubuque, 25; Davenport, 26; Clinton, 27; Cedar Rapids, 28; Iowa City, 30.

RICHARDS & PRINGLE'S FAMOUS MINSTRELS (Holland & Filkins)—San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 12; Floresville, 13; Beeville, 14; Goliad, 15; Victoria, 16; Cuero, 17; Yoakum, 18; Houston, 19; Galveston, 20; Beaumont, 21; Port Arthur, 22; De Ridder, La., 23; Leesville, 24; De Quincey, 25; Lake Charles, 26; Orange, Tex., 27; Conroe, 28; Huntsville, 29; Crockett, 30.

RAYMOND TEAL.—Phoenix till Aug. 16; then Tucson for four weeks.

SOUL KISS (Mittenthal Bros., mgrs.)—Jacksonville, Sept. 10; Macon, 11; Chattanooga, 13; Birmingham, 14; Atlanta, 15-16; Montgomery, 17; Mobile, 18; New Orleans, 19-25; Baton Rouge, 26; Natchez, 27.

SANFORD DODGE.—Buffalo, Sept. 13-15; Sheridan, 16-18; Crawford, 20; Lander, 22-23; Caspar, 24-25; Douglas, 27 and week.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Eastern), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Springfield, Sept. 12-15; Peoria, 16-18; Milwaukee, 19-25; St. Paul, 26-Oct. 2.

RINGLING'S CIRCUS.—San Francisco, Sept. 9-13; San Jose, 14; Stockton, 15; Fresno, 16; Visalia, 17; Bakersfield, 18; Santa Barbara, 20; Los Angeles, 21-22; Santa Ana, 24; San Bernardino, 25; Phoenix, 27; Tucson, 28.

THE CAT AND THE FIDDLE (Chas. A. Sellon, mgr.)—Butte, Sept. 11-12; Great Falls, 13; Helena, 14; Missoula, 15; Wallace, 16; Colfax, 17; Spokane, 18-19; Sprague, 20; Walla Walla, 21; North Yakima, 22; Ellensburg, 23; Tacoma, 24-25; Seattle, 26-Oct. 2.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Seattle, Sept. 12-18; Portland, 19-25; Astoria, 26; Salem, 27; Albany, 28; Eugene, 29; Roseburg, 30.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR (Western).—(Brady and Grismer).—Newark, Ohio, Sept. 13; Springfield, 14; Richmond, Ind., 15; Terre Haute, 16; Springfield, Ill., 17; Decatur, 18; St. Louis, 19-25; Alton, 26; Mexico, 27; Moberly, 28; Hannibal, 29; Keokuk, 30; Brookfield, Oct. 1; Sedalia, 2; Kansas City, 3-9; Fremont, 11; Norfolk, 12; Columbus, 13; Grand Island, 14; Kearney, 15; North Platte, 16; Denver, 17-23.

THE MISSOURI GIRL (Merle H. Norton, lessee; Joseph Rith, mgr.)—Kennett, Sept. 13; Campbell, 14; Rector, Ark., 15; Jonesboro, 16.

THE SOUL KISS (Albert Hoogs, bus, mgr.)—Chattanooga, Sept. 13; Birmingham, 14; Atlanta, 15-16; Montgomery, 17; Mobile, 18; New Orleans, Tulane Theatre, week of Sept. 19; Baton Rouge, 26; Jackson, 27; Memphis, 28-30; Little Rock, Oct. 1; Hot Springs, 2; Dallas, 4-5; Fort Worth, 6-7; Waco, 8; San Antonio, 9-10.

THE GOLDEN GIRL (Mort H. Singer, mgr.)—St. Louis, Sept. 5-11; Alton, 12; Jacksonville, 13; Quincy, 14; Hannibal, 15; Moberly, 16; Columbia, 17; Springfield, 18; Kansas City, 19-25; Atchison, 26; St. Joseph, 27; Lincoln, 28-29; Omaha, 30.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (Western) (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Seattle, Sept. 5-11; Aberdeen, Sept. 12; Tacoma, 13-14; Victoria, 15; Vancouver, 16-17; Westminster, 18; Bellingham, 19; Everett, 20; Chehalis, 22; Portland, 23-25; Corvallis, 27; Chico, 29; Sacramento, 30.

GOLDSTEIN & CO.
COSTUMERS for all Pacific Coast Theatres.
Goldstein's Hair and Wig Store.
Make-Up, Play Books. Established 1876.
Lincoln Building, Market and Fifth Sts.

THE SUNNY SIDE OF BROADWAY (Boyle Woolfolk, mgr.)—Miles City, Sept. 13; Billings, 14; Bozeman, 15; Anaconda, 16; Butte, 17-18; Great Falls, 19; Helena, 20; Missoula, 21; Wallace, 22; Colfax, 23; Lewiston, 24; Pullman, 25; Spokane, 26-30.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Chehalis, Sept. 11; Seattle, 12-18; Portland, 19-25; Astoria, 26; Salem, 27; Albany, 28; Eugene, 29; Roseburg, 30.

THREE TWINS (Joseph M. Cartes, mgr.)—Minneapolis, Sept. 6-11; Billings, 13; Butte, 14-15; Helena, 16; Missoula, 17; Wallace, 18; Spokane, 20-23; Butte, 24-25; Helena, 27-30.

TRAVELING SALESMAN (H. B. Harris, mgr.)—Augusta, Sept. 11; Charleston, 13; Savannah, 14; Jacksonville, 15; Macon, 16; Atlanta, 17-18; Birmingham, 20-21; Montgomery, 22; Pensacola, 23; Mobile, 24-25; New Orleans, 27-30.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE (H. B. Harris, mgr.)—Staunton, Sept. 11; Bluefield, 13; Roanoke, 14; Bristol, 15; Knoxville, 16; Chattanooga, 17; Dalton, 18; Rome, 20; Anniston, 21; Atlanta, 22-23; Biloxi, 24; Gulfport, 25; New Orleans, 27-30.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Eastern), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—St. Louis, Sept. 5-11; Springfield, 12-15; Peoria, 16-18; Milwaukee, 19-25; St. Paul, 26-30.

WRIGHT LORIMER (W. A. Brady, mgr.)—Winnipeg, Sept. 6-11; Grand Forks, 13-15; Fargo, 16-18; Billings, 20-22; Helena, 23-25; Great Falls, 27-28; Butte, 29-30.

YANKEE DOODLE STOCK COMPANY.—(Geo. V. Haliday.)—Chippewa Falls, Sept. 6-12.

Elsa Ryan will leave the cast of The Blue Mouse, in which company she has been playing the title part for fourteen months, to become a member of Frank Daniels' company. Blanche Deyo will succeed Miss Ryan as the Mouse.

All Kinds of
SCENERY
Painted, built and installed. The only real Scene Studio on the Coast. Get our prices. For Road or House productions.
Front and Sheridan Sts.
Portland, Oregon

C. F. Weber & Co.
Opera Chairs
All Styles of
THEATRE AND HALL SEATS
365-7 Market Street
San Francisco
210-212 N. Main St.
Los Angeles

FRED O. OSBORNE, Manager
Theatrical Code, "Santapolo"
Home Phone F 5037
New York Dramatic Agency
Booking
Dramatic and Vaudeville Acts
Organizing and Routing Companies, Supplying "Scripts," Etc.
Belasco Theatre Building, Los Angeles
Entire Third Floor

CHARLES E. ROYAL AND ELLIOTT EDYTHER

IN VAUDEVILLE
Presenting Charles E. Royal's wonderful Burglar Playlet, "STRAIGHTENING A CROOK," and six other excellent playlets.
"Best sketch ever presented at the Empire."—Eureka Times. "Full enough of dramatic and comedy situations to warrant a four-act play."—Eureka Herald. Chas. Royal and Edythe Elliott are finished artists in every sense and present a wonderfully clever act."—Watsonville Pajaronian.
"Working All the Time." "Featured Everywhere."

BERT LEVEY, AGENT.

Spotlights

Because he preceded the Ringling Circus, now coming down the State, and disposed of bogus tickets of admission, George Raymond was arrested at Chico and is now in jail there awaiting the arrival of the circus, when he will be formally charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. Raymond, it is alleged, has been selling bogus tickets from the Oregon line south. At Vina he disposed of about twenty, and in Chico Saturday had disposed of a large number before he was caught. The tickets are of paste-board, but the lettering is done with a typewriter and Raymond's name is attached in his own handwriting as a guarantee of good faith. He had a big bunch of the tickets in his hand when arrested.

As the Sun Went Down, the new play by George D. Baker, of which much was expected, received its initial performances yesterday afternoon and night at the Lyceum Theatre, and was welcomed by two of the best satisfied audiences that have ever left that playhouse. With a company absolutely without one weak member, one of the prettiest and most artistic scenic productions ever seen here, and the play brimming over with heart interest and bright comedy, this new venture has been surely launched on a season of great promise. Estha Williams, who heads the most excellent cast, is seen as "Colonel Billy," a role unlike any other she has ever before been seen in, but which gives her a splendid opportunity for the display of her undoubted talents. Miss Williams is well remembered here for her splendid work in other plays, and she is extremely well liked in Paterson, as she is elsewhere. Possessed of an unusual voice, both in strength and feeling, and a splendid stage appearance, she wins her audiences from the start.—Paterson Call, N. J.

Mrs. Lola Radcliff, an actress traveling with a company that showed a few nights ago at Colton, was today arrested on a charge of passing worthless checks. She issued a check on a Pomona bank in payment for the theatrical license at Colton and also for her hotel bill at the Anderson Hotel in that city. These papers were afterwards declared to be worthless. She has with her a little daughter, who was taken to the detention home in San Bernardino for the time being.—Mrs. Radcliff says she will be able to prove her innocence as soon as she can obtain an audience with the officials of the Pomona bank.

The Strand Improvement Company has just disposed of the Hyde-a-Wyle Theatre and several lots connected thereto, in Long Beach, for $27,500. The purchasers are E. B. Campbell, A. Berheim and S. L. Mack. As to what disposition they will make of their purchase it is not known. It is reported that they intend erecting a larger and more commodious theatrical house.

STEVE I. SIMMONS

MAXWELL ALEXANDER

Columbia Scenic Studio Co.

Estimates on all Classes of Theatrical Work

Office, 117 Fell St., S. F.

George P. Webster

Stage Director

Ye Liberty Playhouse Stock, Oakland, Cal.

Evelyn Selbie-Virginia Thornton

Alternating Leads

Frawley Co., Alaska

Carlton Chase

Leading Man

Fischer's Theatre, San Francisco

Lillian Hayward

Leading Business, Stock or Road.

Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

Arthur E. Witting-Mattie Davis

Character Actor

Character Actress

Joint or Single

AT LIBERTY

Address San Diego, Calif., Boundary and Howard Streets.

Doris Wilson

Prima Donna, Kolb and Dill Company

Augustus Phillips

Leading Man

Alcazar Stock—San Francisco

OLGA GRAY

Leads

At Liberty.

Care Dramatic Review

COL. D. P. STONER

Business Manager Newman Foltz Co.

Care Dramatic Review

THURLOW WHITE

Leads, Heavies

Address, Dramatic Review

HERBERT MILTON

Characters and Heavies

At Liberty Care of Dramatic Review

CHARLES E. GUNN

Leads

Care Dramatic Review

BERT PORTER

Juveniles

Newman-Foltz Co.

MAX WAIZMAN

Newman-Foltz Co.

GEORGE VON BLIX

Stage Manager

Newman-Foltz Co.

MINNIE MAYFIELD

Heavies and Characters

Late of Richard Jose Co. At Liberty. Care

Dramatic Review

HERMAN HELLER

Musical Director

Valencia Theatre Social engagements filled

DAN KELLY

Comedian

Care Dramatic Review

FLORENCE DAVENPORT

Ingenue or Soubrette

At Liberty. Care of Dramatic Review

GEORGIE WOODTHORPE

Characters

Broadway Theatre, Oakland

ALBERT ROWLAND

Late of Chas. Frohman and Chas.

Dillingham

At Liberty for Characters or Heavies

Care Dramatic Review

LAURA LUCILE HEIMLICH

Leads

Everett, Wash.

FRED S. CUTLER

Late Manager for Richard Jose

Advance or with company

At Liberty

Address care Dramatic Review

EDWARD B. LADA

General Music Director

for Belasco & Mayer

A. BURT WESNER

Alcazar Theatre, San Francisco

TEDDY WEBB

Comedian, San Francisco Opera Co.

Direction John Cort

HARRY J. LASK

Representative New York Clipper

N. E. Cor. Sansome and Pine Sts.

HARRY MARSHALL

Scenic Artist

At Liberty. 3748 Vermont Ave., Los Angeles

MINOR REED

Scenic Artist

At Liberty Address Dramatic Review

CARRIE CLARKE WARDE

Characters

Dick Ferris Stock, Minneapolis

GILMORE WALKER

Stage Manager

Valencia Theatre, San Francisco

EDDIE

Mitchell

Juveniles

CHESTER STEVENS

Heavies

Grand Opera House Stock, Los Angeles

MARY HARVEY-BARBOR

Leads (Versatile)

3d Ave. Theatre, Seattle

FREDERICK GILBERT

Burbank Stock, Los Angeles

ARTHUR SHEPPARD

Scenic Artist

Care Dramatic Review

Howard Foster

Light Comedy and Characters

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

IRENE OUTTRIM

Leads

Willard Mack Co.—Salt Lake City.

ROBERT LAWLER

Leading Man

SUSIE HOWARD

Engaged for Lyric Stock

Portland, Ore.

PIETRO SOSSO

Leading Man—Elleford Co.

Address, 179 De Long Ave., S. F.

FRED. C. CHARMAN

Juveniles and Light Comedy

General Delivery, Tucson, Arizona

WARDA HOWARD

Leads

Vancouver, B. C.

CHARLES MARRIOTT

Gardiner Stock Co.

Victoria, B. C.

Walter H. Newman AND Bertha Foltz

Starring Jointly

High-Class Repertoire

Season 1909 and 1910

Alf. T. Layne    Daisy D'Avra

Del Lawrence Stock, Victoria

Edith Lyle

Ye Liberty Stock, Oakland

Donald Bowles

Dramatic Director Geo. L. Baker's Attractions.
Address Bungalow Theatre, Portland, Oregon.
Loaned by Mr. Baker to direct Mr. James Neill's Company for him in St. Paul, Minn.

Neva West

Care Dramatic Review

Permanent Address, 2110 Post Street

Johnny Williams, Jr.

"FRISCO"

"The Man in Front." Can Book or Wild Cat

Louise Kent

In Vaudeville

Her Own Company

Pantages Circuit

Claire Sinclair

Second Business

Stock

Seattle Theatre, Seattle

E. P. Foot

GENERAL MUSICAL DIRECTOR

At Liberty

Care Grand Opera House

Mina Crolus Gleason

Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland

Louis Morrison

Belasco Stock Co.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Seibert & Lindley

Presenting the headline act, "HER OWN MOTHER," in vaudeville.

Sidney B. Payne

Lyric Stock, Portland, Or.

Sydney Ayres

Leading Man

Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, Cal.

Budd Ross

Comedian

Princess Theatre, San Francisco

Al Hallett

Stage Director

Broadway Theatre, Oakland

F. F. Munier

Characters

Broadway Theatre Stock, Oakland

Priscilla Knowles

Leads

Bennett Jack

Characters

Lyric Theatre, Portland

Whit Brandon    Ethel Tucker

Leading Man and Director

Leading Woman

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Paul McAllister

Leading Man

Valencia Theatre, S. F.

George B. Baldwin, Jr.

Alcazar Stock, San Francisco

Monroe Salisbury

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

James Austin Gleason—Webster Lucile

Playing Title Role in Checkers

Juveniles in Checkers

Godfrey Matthews

Second Business

Broadway Stock—Oakland, Cal.

Leslie King

Season with E. H. Sothern
Closed June 17th

Immediately Engaged by
Frederic Thompson for Polly of the Circus
To open June 29th

VAN NESS THEATRE, Two Weeks, Beginning Monday, Sept. 6

MATINEES SATURDAY AND ADMISSION DAY

DAVID BELASCO Presents

BLANCHE BATES

IN HER GREATEST SUCCESS

... The Fighting Hope ...

BY W. J. HURLBUT

One Year at the Belasco-Stuyvesant Theatre, New York

PACIFIC COAST TOUR WILL EMBRACE THE FOLLOWING CITIES AND THEATRES:

Los Angeles (Mason Opera House), Sept. 20 and week. San Diego (Garrick Theatre), Sept. 27. Santa Barbara (Potter Theatre), Sept. 28. Bakersfield (Bakersfield Opera House), Sept. 29. Stockton (Yosemite Theatre), Sept. 30. Sacramento (Clunie Opera House), Oct. 1. San Jose (Victory Theatre), Oct. 2. Oakland (Macdonough Theatre), Oct. 4 and week. Portland (Bungalow Theatre), Oct. 11 and week. Seattle (Moore Theatre), Oct. 18 and week. Tacoma (Tacoma Theatre), Oct. 25-26. Victoria (Victoria Theatre), Oct. 27. Vancouver (Opera House), Oct. 28-29. Bellingham (Beck's Theatre), Oct. 30. Spokane (Auditorium), Nov. 1-3.

Ye Liberty Playhouse in Oakland is Attracting Large Business

With a company of the merit of the Liberty stock company, presenting plays such as this week's production, The Lion and the Mouse, the public are certainly realizing a good return for their money. The cast is strengthened by the addition of E. L. Bennison, who is brought over from the Alcazar, to play the leading role of John Ryder, the Lion. His work is par excellence. As the Mouse, Florence Oakley has a clear conception of role and gives a very pleasing performance. Sidney Ayres, as Jeff Ryder, is as usual good and he shows cleverness in a light comedy vein. George Webster, George Friend, Henry Shumer and Walter Whipple had important roles and sustained them well. Mina Gleason, Edith Lyle and Laura Hudson are excellent in their respective roles. Ye Liberty is once more enjoying an era of prosperity and the attendance shows a remarkable increase. Pierre of the Plains will be the next attraction and then Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall. Dustin Farnum is drawing fair houses at the Macdonough and his latest offering, Cameo Kirby, is proving a success. His support is excellent. The Climax will follow. In the Bishop's Carriage, the current attraction at the Broadway, is one of the best productions that the Broadway players have presented.

Landers Stevens plays a strong Dorgan, and Georgie Cooper does clever work as Nance Olden. Godfrey Matthews and Wilton Dale make their appearance with the company and both show up well. Mr. Matthews plays the straight lead and shows up as a magnetic, forceful actor. The house is packed at every performance and the class of productions offered by Manager Smith seems to have struck the popular chord. The Man from Mexico will be the next attraction, with The Lightning Conductor and Zaza in preparation. Conway's Band is still proving a big feature at Idora and large crowds are in daily attendance. There is nothing very startling in this week's bill at the Orpheum, although every number is above the ordinary. A sketch entitled Jack the Giant Killer, is probably the most interesting and shares the honors with Joseph Hart's Bathing Girls. The balance of the program is good and every number is well received. Herr. J. Rubens, the Thalia Quartet, Wilbur Mack and Nella Walker, George Carson and Jake Willard, Curzon Sisters, John World and Mindell Kingston. The local lodge B. P. O. E. will have A Night in Bohemia at the Macdonough, 10-12. Some of the best talent on this side of the bay will take part and an interesting program is assured.

LOUIS SCHEELINE.

Spotlights

McKean's Players ended the first season last week with a three-night engagement in Sonoma. The company, under the management of Terry McKean, has made a host of friends during the past season and played return dates in almost every town visited. Plans for the coming season have not been arranged as yet, but when the company takes to the road again Manager McKean announces that it will be "bigger and better than ever."

Disgusted at the failure of others to construct a new up-to-date playhouse in San Diego, also their failure to get a lease on the beautiful Isis Theatre, now held by Mrs. Tingley, John D. Spreckels is said to have told some of his closest friends that he will this fall start the construction of a large playhouse on the site now occupied by the Diamond Stables, Second and D Streets. Mr. Spreckels is said to have been holding off to give others a chance, but will, his friends say, go ahead early in the fall and put up the handsomest opera house on the Pacific Coast.

For once the cable dispatches failed to give "all of the news." From Marienbad comes the report that King Edward "smiled on" Miss Maxine Elliott. His interest in the American actress is avowedly deep—so deep, in fact, that it would call for an expression more intimate than "smile on." Miss Elliott, in writing to Mr. Lee Shubert, gives the most delightful account of her acquaintance with royalty, among other things, saying: "That the King inquired anxiously over my venture as a manageress and implied that he should like to 'drop in' at my new English villa in Hertfordshire, where, by the way, my sister, Gertrude, and her husband, Forbes-Robertson, are making their home."

The trustees of the city of Jackson have passed an ordinance charging $3.50 per day for all classes of theatrical moving picture shows where an admission is charged.

The Greatest Cast of Singers Headed by THOS. H. PERSSE Tenor EDITH MASON Soprano	Now Booking Season 1909 &amp; 10		Everything Complete  New Scenery  Excellent Music  Quartette of Comedians
	The Persse-Mason Co. In the New Operatic Comedy
	The Singing Bandits Book and Music by HERMAN PERLET
	THOS. H. PERSSE.....Sole Proprietor JAMES FILLING.....Manager Permanent Address: Dramatic Review, Van Ness Theatre Building, San Francisco

Playing to Capacity Business in Every City

Coast Tour
Early
in 1910

AS THE SUN WENT DOWN

By Geo. D. Baker

Address
ARTHUR C. AISTON
Sole Owner
Room 304
1505 Broadway
N. Y. City
Tel. 941 Bryant

Season

William Stoermer Presents

09-10

Millidge Sherwood

In a Sumptuous Scenic Revival of

... King Lear ...

Car of Scenery

25 People

Beautifully Costumed

Two "Ahead"

THE SAN FRANCISCO DRAMATIC REVIEW

• MUSIC AND DRAMA •

Published Continuously Since 1880. The Only Theatrical Publication in the Great West

Ten Cents a Copy—$4.00 a Year

San Francisco, Saturday, September 18, 1909

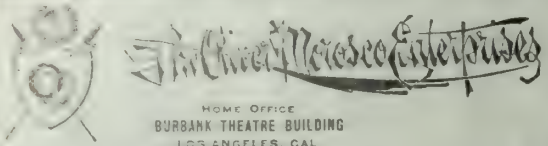

No. 4—Vol. XXI—New Series

Millidge
Sherwood

Terkelsen & Henry, Foto.

Oliver Morosco's Plays
Ready for Stock

The Judge and the Jury
The Empress and the Soldier
In South Car'liney

Is the New Majestic a winner? Well, we guess yes

MOROSCO'S
BURBANK THEATRE
Los Angeles, Cal.
"The Best in the West"
The Leading Stock House.

Hamburger's MAJESTIC Theatre
The Handsomest in the West
Cost $300,000.00
Oliver Morosco, Lessee & Mgr
For time address JOHN CORT

The Garrick Theatre
San Diego, Cal.
MOROSCO & WYATT,
Lessees and Mgrs.

Theatre Going in Europe

The erudite editor of the Los Angeles Graphic, writing foreign theatricals, recently got hold of a live observer in the person of Dr. Walter Lindley, who had just returned from Europe, and discussed with him how the London and Paris theatres and actors compared with our own. Laughingly, he quoted what May Robson said, that the only good actors she had seen on the Paris stage were two monkeys, which he admitted was worse than his experience in London. Said Dr. Lindley: "I went there expecting to see the best there was in acting, but while I was in the British metropolis not a great actor appeared on the London stage, although it was the height of the season. In that same time the theatres of Los Angeles had Nazimova, Otis Skinner, Mrs. Fiske, John Drew, Ethel Barrymore and others of equal note. This made me realize what advantages we have right at home.

"One afternoon," said he, "I went to His Majesty's Theatre, Haymarket, and saw Beerbohm Tree in Ibsen's An Enemy of the People. The hero, a theatrical, altruistic physician, brought out more graphically the sordidness of the average man. The play was intense. Marie Tempest, at the Comedy Theatre, was giving, delightfully, to crowded houses, Penelope. In this play also a doctor and his wife hold the center of the stage, and Marie is the doctor's chic and charming wife. I enjoyed Bernstein's Samson, as portrayed by Arthur Bouchier at Garrick's. This play had been on for one hundred nights. At the New Theatre, St. Martin's lane, owned by the comedian, Sir Charles Wyndham, Fred Terry was giving an enjoyable Henry of Navarre, with beautiful Julia Neilson as Marguerite de Valois. Beerbohm Tree's regular play at His Majesty's Theatre, Haymarket, was The School for Scandal. I saw it in its two hundred and tenth performance. Whatever may be said of Beerbohm Tree as an actor, he is without doubt a great manager. Sheridan's play was costumed and staged with historical accuracy and without regard for expense. The stately minuet was magnificent.

"As to London Vaudeville, as a rule it was nothing like so good as can be seen any evening at the Los Angeles Orpheum. At the Tivoli, on The Strand, Harry Lauder was the whole show. He gets $1,200 a week, and there are in London only six theatre nights in the week. Rounds of 'Hear! Hear!' and encore after encore greeted this humorous Scot. Rose Stahl, the bright American, was drawing great houses in The Chorus Lady. She had the Britisher crying and laughing. Caught him coming and going. They translated her slang on the instant and got right in the swing of her whole performance. I searched in vain for the London 'pit' of history. It has given way to the orchestra of American theatres, and while seats in the first balcony are usually considered the choicest, prices are about the same as in the orchestra. In both London and Paris the ushers are women. The theatres are none of them large, and the prices are as high again as in the United States. A good seat, either in orchestra or first balcony, in the leading London theatres, is twelve shillings ($3).

"Another thing that surprises the American is that all programmes are sold at from sixpence (12 cents) to a shilling. On the other hand, speaking of expenses, it is remarkable how cheaply one can travel in taxicabs. For instance, my wife and I took a friend with us to Rejane's Theatre in Paris, and after the performance I called a taxicab. We left our guest at her hotel and then went to our own. Taxicab charges, one franc five centimes, or twenty-one cents. Here is a further example in London: We called a taxicab that took my wife and me from the Victoria Hotel, Northumberland avenue, to the grand opera, Covent Garden Theatre. Taxicab charge, eight pence (sixteen cents). In all cases a ten cent tip is expected. The opera was Madam Butterfly, with Mlle. Destinn in the leading role. I know nothing of music—just enough to enjoy it—but the place to see grand opera is Paris. 'L'Opera' is the center of Paris. I heard Gounod's Faust. The orchestra, ballet, chorus and leading roles were doubtless perfection. In the grand foyer, between acts, were the occupants of all the boxes joined in a grand promenade and made a panorama never to be forgotten. I also saw Maeterlinck's Pelleas et Melisande, to the music of Debussy, at the Opera Comique. It is said that the music of Debussy is epoch-making, but it must take an artist to understand it. Nevertheless, the acting and singing were thrilling and impressive."

Klaw & Erlanger's massive production, The Round-Up, will be seen here this season.

Willard Mack is employing quite a large company in his stock endeavors in Salt Lake City. The company includes Willard Mack, Blanche Douglas, Lee Millar, Anna McNaughton, Bessie Dainty, John Alden, Elmer Booth, John C. Davis, Joe Kennedy, Frederick Allen, Harry Blanchard, John Wright, Arthur Busch, Arline Alaine, Irene Outtrim, M. Earle, William Donovan, Norman Ribadou, Ivan Chirsty, Earl Pingree and Frank Nelson.

The Orpheum

Rosario Guerrero, pantomimic artist, will appear next week. Guerrero will, with the assistance of Signor

Pagliari, present that masterpiece little story without words, The Rose and the Dagger, with musical accompaniment and varied emotions. An entertaining feature of the new bill will be Tom Waters, one of the best of American comedians. He is favorably known as a comic opera star in Comin' Thro' the Rye. His engagement on the Orpheum Circuit must of necessity be brief, for he shortly departs for London, where he is under contract to appear in the leading music halls. Mr. Waters' performance includes his original piano pastime, songs, dances, story and mimicry. Murray and Mack, the Irish comedians, will contribute A Harlem Argument. An entirely novel and somewhat sensational act will be presented by Spaulding and Riego, comedy trapeze performers, who go through all sorts of daring feats as well as a series of difficult somersaults on a specially contrived springboard. Next week will conclude the engagements of Ed Wynn and Al Lee, Charles Montrell, the juggler, and Rosa Crouch and George Welch. It will also be the last of Harrison Armstrong's drama, Circumstantial Evidence. According to custom, the performance will terminate with a new series of imported motion pictures.

Alcazar Theatre

The Great Divide will run a second week, commencing next Monday evening, and there is no lack of reasons for believing that the play's magnetism will tax the theatre's seating capacity until the final performance. Every person who has witnessed it is serving to advertise its excellence. Evelyn Vaughan's versatile artistry is given new demonstration in her portrayal of Ruth Jordan. It is difficult to identify in the repentant soul-racked New England girl the same actress who made of Sweet Kitty Bellairs such a picture of piquancy. Augustus Phillips, too, is nicely fitted in The Great Divide, his Stephen Ghent being as striking an example of histrionism as was Jim Carston in The Squaw Man. Bessie Barriscale, Adele Belgarde, Will R. Walling, Louis Benison, Charles Dow Clark—in brief, the cream of the Alcazar company, are well bestowed in William Vaughn Moody's play. It is announced by the Alcazar management that there is no possibility of The Great Divide being retained a third week, as a contract calling for the presentation of Sweet Kitty Bellairs Monday after next cannot profitably be ignored.

Valencia Theatre

This Sunday night will begin the second and final week of Going Some, that interesting comedy of college men and cowboys, and it is altogether within the bounds of reason to say that Going Some has made one of the most substantial comedy hits ever scored in San Francisco. There is good, wholesome fun in Going Some, and the play goes with an uproar of laughter from start to finish. Eugene O'Rourke, as the typical athletic coach, has scored an immense hit in the role. Frank Wunderlee, as Berkeley-Fresno, the Stanford tenor and college villain, and James Spottswood as the four-flushing, head yelling impostor, who makes a neat impression upon the girls by posing as Yale's champion footracer, are close seconds for laugh winning honors. Nothing like Going Some has ever been seen before in this city and it provides entertainment more than worth while. Corinne in Mlle. Mischief, a Viennese operetta, and with eighty-five people in the company, will follow Going Some.

GOING SOME

As presented by Sam S. and Lee Shubert, (Inc.)

Takes Frisco by Storm

Duplicates Its New York Success !!

"'Going Some' is fast, furious and funny—rich in characters, situations and dialogue—quaint and novel—and it's a laugh all the way through, don't overlook that."—Al. C. Joy, in The S. F. Examiner.

"'Going Some' is one long laugh—without a let-up for four acts—really refreshing—something you can laugh at without blushing."—Waldemar Young, in The S. F. Chronicle.

"'Going Some' gets away quickly and keeps a rapid gait from start to finish. As a production it is a worthy successor to 'The Witching Hour.' Its mission is to create laughs and it succeeds—situations funny to the limit of your capacity to laugh."—Walter Anthony, in The S. F. Call.

"'Going Some'—with originality as the big feature—sends house into spasms of merriment—general opinion crystallized into the one word 'Immense'—fun at a tempo that comes near breaking all theatrical records."—Ralph E. Renaud, in The S. F. Bulletin.

September 12-25
San Francisco

WILLIAM MOXON, Manager
ROLLIN BOND, Business Mgr.

Sept. 27-Oct. 9
Seattle

Hotel St. James

Cor. Van Ness Ave. and Fulton St.
San Francisco, California

Headquarters for Agents and Managers

Half Block from Van Ness Theatre.
Friars meet at the St. James every
Friday night.

F. P. SHANLEY, Manager, formerly of New York

Correspondence

PORTLAND, Sept. 13.—The season of 1909-10 is now in full swing in this city. All the different attractions offered to date have done good business.

BUNGALOW (Calvin Heilig, mgr.; Wm. Pangle, act. mgr.)—After the close of the grand opera season given by the International Grand Opera Company, and which was satisfactory from a financial and artistic standpoint, Brady and Grismer offered A Gentleman from Mississippi at this house. The play was advertised like a circus, thanks to Sam Thall, their hustling agent. And be it said to his credit that all the good things he told us about the play were true. The play deals with Washington politics, and enough heart interest is intermingled to satisfy anyone. James Lackaye is playing the leading part and is well qualified in every way to appear therein. He is surrounded with good support, Osborne Searle, Hal De Forrest, Olive Harper and Minette Barrett. Paid In Full follows. The Time, the Place and the Girl, and A Knight for a Day are early bookings.

STAR (Arthur A. Greene, mgr.)—This house opened yesterday as the temporary home of the Shubert attractions until the completion of the repairs at the old Heilig Theatre, hereafter to be known as the Portland Theatre. The Shubert house in this city will be under the management of Arthur A. Greene, who was formerly connected with the Oregonian, the morning newspaper of this city. Mr. Greene is a man well able to look after the destinies of the opposition to the syndicate shows, being a competent business man, and a press agent par excellence. The Shuberts could not have chosen a better man for the position. Last night Girls was the bill, and it was greeted by a good house. In fact, when it is considered that the play was at the Heilig several months since, the management cannot register any kick as to the opening night's attendance. The three girls in last night's company met all requirements. They were represented by Eleanor Burrell, Elvia Bates and Ethel Strickland. The male lead was well taken care of by William Claire. The company remains for the entire week.

BAKER (Geo. L. Baker, mgr.; Milton Seaman, bus. mgr.)—For the first musical play of the season Manager Baker has Cohan and Harris' company in Fifty Miles from Boston. It opened yesterday and at both performances was witnessed by big houses. This play comes nearer being along the lines of a legitimate one than anything Cohan has given us. Grace King is the bright spot of the present production. Edward O'Connor plays Harrigan and the audiences yesterday could not get enough of his song Harrigan. Laura Bennett is well cast as the village gossip, as is Dan Bruce in the heavy role. Next week—The Girl Question.

ORPHEUM (Jas. H. Errickson, mgr.)—Senora Rosario Guerrero and company were given the headline position the past week at this theatre, in their pantomime play, The Rose and the Dagger, and while it must be admitted that their pantomimic acting was immense, Tom Waters made the biggest hit, and it looked like he was entitled to the place. Waters was here last season with Coming Thro the Rye, and at that time proved himself to be a comedian of no mean standing, but if there was ever any doubt as to his ability to jollify, those who saw him this week will vote unanimously for him that he is there with the goods. Murray and Mack are also on the bill and seemed to please. This week's bill is as follows: Edna Aug; Jessie Shirley and company; Big City Quartette; Walthour Trio; Henry Olive; Davey and Moore; and Les Myosotis.

LYRIC (Keating & Flood, mgrs.)—The Wages of Sin is this week's offering by the Athon stock company at this house. It drew well at yesterday's performances. Priscilla Knowles gave a first-class rendition of the leading role, and Robert Athon was a good foil for her in the leading man's part. The comedy was well taken care of by Alice Condon and Susie Howard. The play is well produced by the management.

GRAND (Frank Coffinberry, mgr.)—For this week the acts announced are: Dolan and Lenharr; Four Stagpooles; Three Vagabonds; Blanche Sloan; Johan and Matt; Caswell and Arnold; and Fred Bauer.

PANTAGES (John Johnson, mgr.)—This week's bill is as follows: Menetekel; Montague's Cockatoos; Miskel, Hunt and Miller; Arthur Deeming; Rivell and Deery; Jones and Walton; and Leo White.

A. W. W.

ASTORIA, Sept. 11.—Astoria Theatre (F. M. Hamlin, mgr.)—The opening of the season occurs 15th, when Paid In Full will be the attraction, following on the 16th with A Gentleman from Mississippi. The following are the bookings for the near future: 26—The Girl Question. Oct. 3—Dustin Farnum. 16—Emma Bunting. 17—Sunny Side of Broadway. 24—Three Twins. SELIG.

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 11.—Clinton P. Ferry, who is interested in several stock companies in Illinois and other central States, has been in Tacoma on business connected with the estate of his father, and incidentally looking over the field with an eye to establishing a stock house here. Before he left for the East he announced that he would return in six weeks and arrange for a theatre building, the location of which he does not care to announce at this time, and that he would install a first-class stock company, playing a high grade of plays, with prices ranging from twenty-five to seventy-five cents. Beginning September 14th, the Grand and Pantages theatres announce a change in their schedule of prices, made necessary by the addition of more expensive attractions. At the evening performances, prices range from twenty-five to fifty cents, and matinees fifteen cents, except on Sundays and holidays, when night prices will prevail. Lena Rivers was the attraction at the Tacoma, Sunday, September 5th, with Emma Bunting in the title role. Miss Bunting displayed much ability and seems to be deserving of a far better play.

ANNUAL
TOUR OF

THE ELLEFORD COMPANY

IN LATEST DRAMATIC ROYALTY SUCCESSES
Pacific Coast Representative for Brady and Grismer's
MAN OF THE HOUSE and WAY DOWN EAST
"A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI"

W. J. ELLEFORD, Sole Proprietor and Director

FRANK WYMAN, Manager

Permanent Address, Francis-Valentine Co., 285-287 13th St., S. F.

The supporting company was only fair. September 9th, The Girl Question faced us again, the second time in six months. The present company did not make the hit the previous one did. 10-11, A Gentleman from Mississippi charmed every one who had the privilege of seeing him, and it was a privilege to witness such a clean, delightful comedy. Too much praise cannot be given Mr. James Lackaye and Osborn Searle for their all-round excellence. Dainty Minnette Barrett was all that could be desired as the Senator's lovable young daughter, and sharing honors with her were Olive Harper and Virginia Pearson. The large supporting company was a splendid one in every way, and to name one for excellence would be to name all. Sept. 12th, A Knight for a Day; 13-14, The Time, the Place and the Girl. At the Grand Theatre the Three Italian Street Singers made a big hit, and the Four Stagpooles proved to be expert acrobats. Much comedy was furnished by Johann and Matt in an eccentric musical sketch, and Dolan and Lenharr, with their comedy sketch, A High-toned Burglar's Christmas Tree. Headliners next week: Hall and Stark Minstrel Novelty Company of fourteen. Montagne's trained cockatoos were a decidedly interesting attraction at the Pantages. Arthur Denning proved to be an amusing monologist, and Miskel, Hunt and Mixler had a good musical specialty. Menetekel in a mystery act involving handwriting on a screen created much interest. Headliner for next week: The Three Demons, aerial cyclists. A. H.

The summer home of Raymond Hitchcock, the comedian, at Great Neck, L. I., was destroyed by fire on August 31. The loss is estimated at $35,000.

Letter List

Letters remaining in The Dramatic Review post office:

Beggs, Lemis (2)	Richardson, Frank
Bass, Willis	Riddell, Robert J.
Brandon, Whit	Selig & Co.
Bell, R. W.	Stanley, Geo. W.
Benham, Harry	Sosso, Pietro (2)
Charman, Fred C. (2)	Stuart, Harry
Chase, Carlton	Sheppard, Arthur (2)
Curtis, M. B.	Salisbury, Monroe (3)
Cooper, Leo	Swift, Lionel
Clarke, Thos. H.	Spofford, Eugene
Daintre, Carl	Tannehill, E. D.
Diemer, Joseph A.	Terrell, Cliff
Douglas, W. A.	Thorn, Wm. L.
Delamater, A. G.	Usher, James G.
Dunand, Eddie	Vance, Harry
Duprey, Harrington	Willard, Lee
Ealand, T. H. (2)	Walker, F. Lawrence
Everett, Elmer J.	Ward, James
Eckhart, Oliver J.
Elyon, Edmund	LADIES' LIST
Fitch, Geo. W.	Burch, Miss Dorothy
Gillford, L. V. (4)	Barlier, Miss Alice
Golding, Alfred	Bull, Miss Lillie
Healy, Frank	Chandler, Juliette (5)
Howard, Frank B.	Darel, Miss Bertha
Howe, O. W.	Desmond, Paula
Harcourt, Gerald	Dalton, Miss Marjorie
Hall, Edwin	Drew, Miss Georgia
Hall, Norman W.	Fillum, Miss Lelia
Johnson, Chas. M.	Fisher, Miss Bessie
Kennett, George	Galvin, Mrs. James
Kohl, A. Bull	Havens, Miss Georgia
Leon, Rudolph (2)	Hillard, Miss Mahel
Lewis, Eugene	Kent, Miss Louise (2)
Lowe, Chas.	Knap, Miss Adeline
LaRosa, A. J.	Luce, Mattie Loyd
LeMoynes, Chas. J.	Lewes, Miss Ada
Love, Eugene	Miller, Miss Marion
Moore, D. R.	Mullally, Miss Pinkie
Montgomery, Frank E. (2)	Outtrim, Miss Irene
Milton, Herbert	Pitt, Miss Margaret (2)
Majestic Theatre Co.	Platt, Mrs. S.
Mock, Allen	Selbie, Miss Evelyn
Mitchell, Eddie	Vane, Miss Myrtle
Nugent, Howard	Williamson, Francis
Newman, Walter	Wakeman, Miss K.
Parker, E. D.	Williams, Miss Lillian
Quillinan, E. J.	Willingham, Florence J. (2)
	Zimmer, Miss H.

New Oxnard Opera House

OXNARD, CAL.

Best stage between Frisco and Los Angeles. Playing all of the best shows that come to the Coast. Doing good business. Write for open time.

GONZALES OPERA HOUSE

GONZALES, CAL.

New, well appointed theatre, electric lighted, full stock of new scenery. C. H. WIDEMAN, Mgr.

WOODLAND Opera House

WOODLAND, CAL.

Greatest show town for good shows in the West. A few good dates open in September and October. Stage big enough for any production. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

Hill Opera House

PETALUMA, CAL.

JOHN R. ROCHE, Lessee and Manager

The finest theatrical town outside of the big cities in the West. Magnificent new theatre, with stage large enough for any attraction, playing regularly from $500 to $700 a night. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

287 Thirteenth St., S. F.

BARCROFT Opera House, Merced

Entirely remodeled. New stage, big enough for any production. Stage equipped with new scenery. Merced has 4,000 population. For time write F. R. BARCROFT, Manager.

Santa Cruz OPERA HOUSE

Santa Cruz, Cal.

L. A. KNIGHT, Manager

Rental or will play first-class companies on percentage

H. Lewin

H. Oppenheim

GORDAN TAILORING CO.

928 Market St., Bet. Powell and Mason
FINE CLOTHES MODERATE PRICES
No Branch Stores

NEW AUDITORIUM

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CAL.

Seating capacity, 1,000; new stage; new scenery; stage thirty feet deep, sixty feet wide; large enough for any production; a population of 5,000 to draw from; now booking for 1909-10.

Address WALTER A. CLARK, Mountain View, Cal.

Chas. B. Hanford's Plans

CHARLES B. HANFORD will again go out under the able direction of F. Lawrence Walker, using The American Lord and The Taming of the Shrew, which will be preceded by The Old Guard. The complete roster of the company is as follows: Charles B. Hanford, Conrad Cantzen, (stage manager), John E. MacGregor, John G. Burke, Edward F. Finley, Harrison Crofford, Chester Wallace, A. H. Cooper-Prichard, Joseph W. Kendall, Thayer E. Jackson, M. C. Stone, Richard Garth, Robert H. Bontz (carpenter), T. C. Coughlin (properties), Marie Drofna, Louise B. White, Nellie M. Hoffman, Iza Barnes, Helen Raymond, F. Lawrence Walker (manager), Alfred G. Buck (treasurer), William Sheffer (advance representative).

JIM SAYRE, Seattle's ablest dramatic writer, has transferred his allegiance from the Argus to the Seattle Daily Star.

Madison's Budget No. 12, Just Out
Parent's Stationery Co., 818 Van Ness Avenue, S.F.

Critic Johnson of Los Angeles Tempts Fate with a Problem Play

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—It is the Syndicate versus Shuberts this week. It is Cameo Kirby against The Witching Hour, and it is hard to say which will win. These are two great plays and beside that they are both new here. A local favorite is appearing in the cast of The Witching Hour at the Auditorium, Amelia Gardner was at one time leading woman of the Belasco company and she has a host of loyal friends who are giving her a royal welcome this week. John Burton has returned from his vacation and is in the cast of Before and After at the Burbank. Doris Wilson and Boyd Marshall of the Kolb and Dill company, leave that organization Saturday night. In all probability Miss Wilson will next be seen on the Orpheum circuit. Margo Duffet will soon move into her new home at Glendale. She drew the plans for her house herself and it is a very complete and artistic bungalow. Mr. Barnes has returned from his vacation spent in San Francisco. Week after next the People's Theatre re-opens under the management of Geo. H. Wilson. Master Peter Clancy will appear in the cast at the Burbank next week. Lillian Burkhart has been engaged by Mr. Morosco for a season of five weeks, at the Burbank, during the time that Blanche Hall is taking her vacation. Oliver Morosco will produce within a few weeks a new four-act play by Julian Johnson, dramatic critic of the Times, dealing with a subject of vital Southwestern interest. The title of the play is Invasion. The cast is small but the manager promises the largest production ever made in his theatre, and work upon this will be begun immediately. Lewis Morrison will terminate his Belasco engagement next Sunday night and will go to New York to join the Liebler forces. The Girl from Rector's will be produced, after all, at the Majestic. The interior of the Los Angeles Theatre is being re-decorated.

AUDITORIUM—Augustus Thomas's latest and best work is the play, The Witching Hour, that is having its first production in our city. It is one of the finest plays yet produced by an American author. It deals with mental suggestion and telepathy. John Mason, who plays the lead is well known through his fine work in Leah Kleschna. Miss Gardner is not a stranger to local theatregoers, having been leading woman of the Belasco company for some time. Miss Gardner's work has improved to a marked degree since she was here. As Helen Whipple, the mother of the boy on trial for murder, her work is fine. Her emotional intensity is felt most powerfully, though hardly seen. There are also other good parts that are well acted. Notably, Edward See, in the role of the old gambler, Lew E. Ellinger; also E. L. Walton, as the matter-of-fact Justice Henderson.

BELASCO—The Belasco is playing The Squaw Man for the second week. How long this piece will run is something which we cannot tell, but from present indications, it will be another run like The Dollar Mark, etc. Last week the crowds were so great that the management had to do away with the orchestra in order to accommodate people.

BURBANK—Before and After, a farce comedy in three acts, by Leo Dietrichstein, is the offering of the Burbank company this week. While the plot of the play is not very complicated, the action is at the same time brisk, the situations amusing, and the whole a very pleasant evening's entertainment. The complications which arise in the story are due to a funny powder, which, when taken, fills one with hearty, humorous spirits to an alarming extent. Dr. Page, a quiet, sober sort of a chap, is given one of these powders by his friend Dr. Latham and several things happen. Mr. Beasley plays Dr. Page and Mr. Hartford plays Dr. Latham. These two make a fine pair and they work well together. John Burton is cast as James Jeffreys and William Yerance as the Frenchman, Col. Larivette. Lovell Alice Taylor plays Mrs. Page. Louise Royce and Margo Duffet are very well cast as Cora and Odette. The balance of the roles are well taken care of.

MAJESTIC—Kolb and Dill are playing to packed houses for this is their second week of Dream City. These two clever comedians are great favorites here. Next week's bill will be their best piece, The Politicians.

MASON—Dustin Farnum is at the Mason this week in Cameo Kirby. The play is about people and doings of Louisiana in the early thirties. No pains have been spared on the part of the author to insure historic correctness in every detail. Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson are the authors. There are really three stars in this production, instead of one as is usual, they are Dustin Farnum, McKee Rankin and May Buckley. Farnum gives us his characteristic, thoroughly lovable American. His work is delightful and he gives us a finished performance. McKee Rankin, as Larkin Bunce, gives a better piece of portraiture than he has produced in many years. May Buckley has her soft Southern dialect mastered to a reality quite uncommon, and she is thoroughly delightful in the role of Adele Randall. The rest of the cast is good, the costuming superb in its reality and the scenic equipment is correct and sufficient.

ORPHEUM—With one exception, all the "new" acts at the Orpheum have been here before. The newcomer, Herr J. Rubens, the lightning painter, is the novelty. Herr Rubens contends that he is a Munich academician, and he certainly handles a brush as if he knew his business. The Curzon girls are still legitimately headliners, in their teeth-swinging stunt. John World and Mindell Kingston have picked up a number of new kinks in the last year or two. Mindell, in a daring costume, does the latest New York song, with the vociferous aid of the audience, and World appears as an old actor, instead of the familiar tramp. Wilbur Mack and Nella Walker find many friends awaiting them, and the former, in some new songs, such as Just Suppose, and I've Been Told, is the recipient of marked attention. Their little skit is called The Girl and the Pearl. Eleanor Gordon in a poor sketch is seen for a second week,

Col. Bill Stoermer

Col. Bill Stoermer, who is a hustler par excellence and a splendid judge of dramatic material, was christened something more elegant than "Col. Bill" by fond parents, but in the show business he is plain "Col. Bill." And with the Five Avolos, on their xylophones, Lena Pantzer and the odd "La Petite Revue," making up the score.

LOS ANGELES—This theatre offers a sprightly vaudeville bill this week, including a series of motion pictures photographed in this city. The Toro Troupe of Japanese performers combines acrobatics, juggling and magic in an entertaining way. Harry Taylor is successful as a monologist. He has a full, sonorous baritone, which he uses expressively. He also yodels. Gruet and Gruet would do well to shun vocal work and confine their musical atrocities to the blaring of wind instruments. The Princess Waldemaroff pleases moderately in Russian dances, a guitar solo and a song in her native tongue. Frank Bacon, Jane Jeffery and Bessie Bacon enact An Easy Liar. The little comedy is good, and Bacon's manipulation of it better. The Ernesto Sisters dance on the bounding wire, and one of them pretends to be on the brink of falling so many times that our stock of sympathetic fears is exhausted. The physical elasticity of the larger of the trio is noteworthy.

FISCHER'S—The School Girl is the bill at the little First Street house. Dialogue, lyrics and music are fully up to the standard of entertainment already provided by the company.

UNIQUE—One vaudeville act and a double bill by the Unique Stock Company comprises the program at that house for this week. Kelly and Violette are great favorites here. Their act shows the same degree of worth. The songs are well selected, and capably rendered. Miss Violette displays several new creahe can stand the intimately careless appellation, for as the reader may see by a glance at the above picture, "Col. Bill" is a pretty healthy, good looking young fellow. He is indefatigable and has planned some surprises this season in connection with the exploitation of his star, Millidge Sherwood.

tions in gowns. The double bill as presented by the Unique players allows them an excellent chance to prove their versatility. The first offering is a vaudeville version of The Devil, and was written by Mr. Emery. The little playlet is cast with Mr. Emory, Denton Vane, Miss Douvee and Miss Salmon. The other half of the double bill is also by Mr. Emery, and is entitled Mistakes Will Happen. The situations are well worked up, and the piece very well presented by the company. Mr. Emery, Al Franks, Herbert Cramer, Miss Douvee and Miss Hayden have the principal parts. Denton Vane and Hazel Salmon contribute several catchy songs.

GRAND—Ten Nights in a Bar Room is furnishing excitement for the patrons of the Grand for the week. This play is so old that it is moss-covered, but nevertheless it still pleases a large number of theatre going people. Mr. Webb does well in the part of the drunkard, Morgan. Mayne Charleston, a new member of the company, is seen in the role of Morgan's daughter and she is proving herself a valuable addition to the company. Ed Vivian is cast as Green, the gambler. Miss Rauworth, Miss Claire, Robert Leonard, Jack McDonald and William Brunton are all seen in good parts which they play carefully and well.

At the Empire Billy Onslow's and Charley Justi's musical comedy company, are playing to extremely well-pleased audiences. The show this week is The Prince of Budweiser, and such clever comedians as Max Steinle, Billy Onslow, Ben Sellar and such sparkling comediennes as Devona May, Annie Bauman, Nellie Hyde and Clara Merch, gives a hilariously good performance.

FLORENCE EMERY.

Oakland Complains of Hot Weather and Theatres Suffer

Gee, but we all sat up and took notice of the weather and who wants to take in a house show when the mercury hovers about the 90 mark. Not for us Oaklanders. It is a great week for Idora Park. Immense throngs gather out there every evening, and Conway and his Gilmore's band are very much in evidence. The music lovers are certainly having big times out here and every selection is encoored to the echo. In addition to this, some good knockabout comedy is introduced by an acrobatic team, Clayton, Jenkins and Jasper. The Hanafourdes also do some good stunts on a trapeze. The Macdonough is closed, but will reopen September 19, with The Climax for a week. The Liberty management are presenting here for the first time a Canadian border sketch, entitled Pierre of the Plains. It deals strictly with the rough border life, and reminds one very much of The Great Divide and Cameo Kirby. Sidney Ayres had the principal role, Pierre, and his physique had simulation of manner and rough and ready ways made him just suitable to the part. William Wolbert had the comedy part and gave a good performance. George Friend, George Webster and George Rand of the Royal Mounted Police, made capital frontiersmen. Florence Oakley was a winsome lass, and Gladys Webster in the other female part, was seen to advantage in an Indian role. The attendance has been fair. Next week Charley's Aunt. At the Broadway, this week's offering, is The Man From Mexico. Landers Stevens is taking a rest and the principal role, Fitzhew, is in the hands of Maurice Stewart. His conception of the character is excellent. He has the faculty of bringing out every bright line to its fullest extent, and his facial expressions are great. The fun comes fast and furious and every ludicrous situation causes an uproar. The cast is strong and contains the well known faces of Charles Place, Wilton Dale, Godfrey Matthews, Francis Prosser, Lee Willard, Anna Rogers, Anita Murray, Georgie Woodthorpe and Georgie Cooper. The latter as Fitzhew's wife, shared the honors with Stewart. Owing to the hot weather business has been rather quiet. Zaza next. Jack the Giant Killer, is in the second week at the Orpheum and still continues to be a big feature. Of the new comers, Hyams and McIntyre, probably get the lion's share of applause, although some very clever specialties are introduced by Rose Royal and her posing horse. Chesterfield, Cunningham and Marrion, Hayes and Johnson, Joseph Hart's Bathing Girls, Thalia Quartette and Carson and Willard. At the conclusion of this week's performance at the Liberty, Florence Oakley, the leading lady, will be given a three weeks' vacation. She will make her reappearance in the title role in Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall. The Orpheum Club will give their annual concert at the Liberty on September 24. Senor de Grassi will give a concert. Prince Chap will follow Charley's Aunt at the Liberty. This will be the first time that this play has ever been presented at popular prices. Guy C. Smith, the Broadway's popular manager, leaves for New York the 21st inst. He will endeavor to secure some new plays for his stock company.

LOUIS SCHEELINE.

SAN DEGO, Sept. 15.—Pickwick Theatre (S. A. Palmer, mgr.)—James Post and his Buty Korus are presenting for their ninth week the funny farce, How Bradley Butted In, and is achieving great success. The vehicle is a good one for Mr. Post to display his inimitable Irish wit. Mr. Post in the character of Bradley hands the audience one of the biggest laughs of the season. The scene of the comedy is laid at the home of David Carson, a friend of Bradley's, who has sent his wife to the country and takes this opportunity to invite an actress to his house for lunch. He has Bradley bring the actress to his home so that in case his wife should return and find him entertaining he can lay the blame on Bradley. Bradley, after escorting her to the home doesn't get a look in and with trying to butt in to the conversation and his bad table etiquette keeps his audience in roars of laughter. Juliet Mahr sings Be Sweet to Me, Kid, with good effect, and a new song not yet published, Just a Tiny Little Smile, words and music by Scott Palmer, rendered by Lotus Moore scored a big hit. Susie Lehman and Master Teddy, two local artists, contribute to the olio with their clever singing act. Following his present engagement which terminates Sunday, Sept. 26th, Mr. Post will jump to Vallejo with his entire company where he will open at the Farragut Theatre October 3rd. Garrick (J. M. Dodge, mgr.)—The Garrick will remain dark until Sept. 19-20 when Dustin Farnum appears in Cameo Kirby. A special matinee will be given on Monday. Blanche Bates in The Fighting Hope plays here Sept. 27th. The Girl from Rector's follows. Queen (John Donnelan, mgr.)—The bill as presented this week is a good one and composed of the following acts: Ross and Shaw have a fair musical act. Their act would be more effective if they cut some of the horse-play. Gaynell Everett, change artist, pleased with her act. She dances a great deal better than she sings. Zamloch, the man of mystery, had the audience guessing with his act. The act is very well dressed. Jack Symonds has an excellent monologue act and scored one of the hits of the bill. Glendower and Manion have a pretty little sketch, Christmas on the Comstock. Moving pictures conclude. Excellent business. Grand (Fred Ballien, mgr.)—The Grand has a good bill as is composed of the following acts: La Tosca, comedy cyclist; Del Costa Duo, singing act; James Derwin, ventriloquist; Hill Sisters, illustrated songs. Motion pictures. Good business. Empire, Bijou and Union, with motion pictures and illustrated songs, report good business.

LUNDQUIST.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 13.—The Colonial (R. A. Grant, mgr.): The Arlington players opened their season here in The Love Route, and played to very good houses. This

WE CARRY IN STOCK ready for immediate shipment, the only line of special
Musical Comedy and Dramatic Lithograph Paper
We can equip your show with Special Cross-lined Lithograph Paper on 24 hours' notice, and sell you small quantities at 5 cents per sheet.

Our Special Cross-Lined Lithograph Paper Looks Like Special Paper
Send for samples of Cross-lining and New 112 Page Illustrated Catalogue.
Lowest Prices on Block Work, Type Work, Dates, Heralds and Small Stuff
All your Printing and Lithographing in one shipment, and the lowest price on everything.

60 Styles Stock Circus Lithograph Paper. Send for Special Catalogue.
ACKERMANN-QUIGLEY LITHOGRAPHING CO.

KANSAS CITY
New York Sales and Sample Office: Chicago Sales and Sample Office:
201-202 Knickerbocker Theatre Building, 1402 B'way. 61-65 Grand Opera House Bldg.

week Texas will be presented. It is a play of Western life. The Bungalow: This week the Bungalow Stock Company will present Raffles, the society drama, by E. W. Hornung and Eugene Presbrey. John Ince will take the leading role. The Grand (A. B. Jensen, mgr.): The Willard Mack Stock Company presented The Squaw Man last week to exceptionally crowded houses; the seating capacity was sold out at every performance. Mr. Mack did fine in the role of the Squaw Man, and Blanche Douglas, as Countess Kerhill, known as Diana, was also very good. The stock company has seemed to make quite a hit with Salt Lake theatregoers. This week they will present Richard Harding Davis' story, Soldiers of Fortune. The Orpheum (H. Sonnenberg): The bill last week was again good. This week: Sam Watson's Farnyard Circus; Walter Schrode and Lizzie Mulvey in their comedy skit, A Theatrical Agency; Griff, styled the juggling, jesting Johnnie; Herbert and Willing; the Musical Johnsons, players on the xylophone; Harry H. Richards in Love a la Mode; Beth Stone, the toe dancer, and the motion pictures.

R. HARBACH.

Pantages Gets Injunction Against the Wigwam

Judge Van Fleet in the United States circuit court last Monday granted a temporary injunction restraining the Wigwam Theatre from producing a certain act offered by Taylor and Carter. The petitioner is Alex. Pantages, the owner of the Pantages circuit, who claims to have a contract with Taylor and Carter for the exclusive production of the act in this city. The court will hear the application to make the order permanent on Monday. Following this, W. Z. Tiffany, Mr. Pantages' partner and manager of the Pantages Theatre in this city, started last Wednesday an injunction and damage suit for $3,000 against the Sullivan & Considine vaudeville circuit in the United States circuit court. It is asserted by the plaintiff that the Sullivan & Considine people have taken certain attractions away from their vaudeville circuit, which fact has resulted in damages to the amount prayed for. This action was forecasted some weeks ago by a growing and bitter contest between the Sullivan & Considine circuit and the Pantages circuit.

William A. Brady has booked some of his most notable attractions for a tour of the Coast this season. Among them are A Gentleman from Mississippi; Grace George in her new play; Wright Lorimer in The Shepherd King, and the new production, The Dollar Mark.

The Traveling Salesman, the comedy by the author of Rose Stahl's The Chorus Lady, will be sent here by Manager Henry B. Harris. It has been one of the most striking hits of the past season in the East.

Wanted

Capable actress of experience to play with me in "The Race Tout's Dream," over the vaudeville circuits. Blonde, five feet three to five. Refined looking, with very clear enunciation. Name lowest salary in first letter, with full description and experience, enclosing photograph.

MYLES McCARTHY

Grand Theatre, Victoria, week Sept. 13th.

Grand Theatre, Tacoma, week Sept. 20th.

The Hotel Dale

ON THE RIALTO—HOME OF THE PROFESSION—SPECIAL RATES
Only First-Class European Hotel close to The Garrick, Princess, Novelty, National, Alcazar, or Pantages—SAN FRANCISCO
SPECIAL—We make a feature of Breakfasts Served in Rooms
COR. GOLDEN GATE AVE. AND FILLMORE ST.
Take McAllister Street and Turk and Eddy Street Cars at the Ferry

Menzel's Dramatic Agency

Moved to 915 Van Ness Avenue, Third Floor
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers Wanting Reliable People in Dramatic Lines, Write.

Honest Dealing. No Misrepresentation

NOTICE—We invite people in all lines of the theatrical profession that wish first-class engagements to call or write.

WM. MENZEL, Manager

Correspondence

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Walker Whiteside, who played Hamlet in this city about fifteen years ago and has been out West nearly ever since, has come to town again and made good in Zangwill's Melting Pot, with which the Shuberts last Monday evening opened their new Comedy Theatre on West Forty-first street. The Melting Pot is a Jewish play produced under the management of Liebler & Co.. Regardless of Mr. Zangwill's expressed lack or regard for plot, the first act is especially a remarkable bit of artistic suggestion. Even the tributes to the Stars and Stripes and America were handled without the mawkishness one usually expects at such times, which is an achievement that is unusual as we all know. Mr. Whiteside carried off the honors of the evening. His voice quality almost all by itself would win him attention and he uses it with an intelligent reserve that won him much praise. Miss Chrystal Herne as the young Americanized Russian girl went through her lighter scenes delightfully and won merited applause. The best she did throughout the evening was the scene in which she tells her father of her love for the young Jew. Nellie Butler was an Irish servant girl. The Herr Pappelmeister, eminent leader of orchestras, as played by Henry Vogel was a good bit of character acting. The cast also includes Sheridan Block, John Blair and Grant Stewart among the men. Leonora von Ottinger played the Baroness and Louise Muldener as an aged orthodox Jewess was very well cast. Hugh Ford staged the production artistically. * * * At the Hudson Theatre last Monday night An American Widow, by Kelllett Chambers was performed for the first time. The incidents began with a marriage between a wealthy young widow and a man she had just met. From that point there was no device too remote from probability to serve the dramatist's purpose. An American Widow should be called a farce. On the firm foundation of a will, this structure of impossibilities was deftly built. In love with the title of an English Earl the widow found herself condemned to lose her fortune if her second husband were any but an American. So she took a composer to get over that technicality, keeping the Earl in view as the third possibility. It would have been outside the realm of theatrical possibility for her to have done otherwise than fall in love with her husband and learn to hate the Earl and his coronet. Miss Grace Filkins was the widow. Frederick Perry stepped out of his usual character roles—as if a good actor was not expected to make a character out of every part—and acted a rather absurd composer with ease and undeniable distinction. John Flood deserved as much praise for his less important responsibilities and Harriet Davis exhibited all the temperament to be expected from a prima donna of Irish birth and Italian training. The actors were all capable and Mr. Chamber's entertaining play lost none of its possibilities from the manner of its performance. * * * The Dollar Princess, which Charles Frohman produced at the Knickerbocker Theatre last Monday night, included Donald Brian of the Merry Widow company. It is by Willner and Greenbaum; the music is by Leo Fall. It was adapted for the American stage by George Grossmith Jr. There's plot in plenty in The Dollar Princess. There's an American, John W. Cowder, head of a coal trust, and with so many millions that his daughter Alice (Valli Valli), is a dollar princess and his niece Daisy (Miss Angarde), a sort of half dollar step-princess. Cowder's pet hobby is hiring broken down members of the European aristocracy to work for him in the hope that they may learn the dignity of labor. Enter then Freddy Smythe of England (Mr. Brian), as secretary of his daughter and Marquis de Johfontaine (Mr. Stamper) as chief groom, and the four cornered romance is ready. Mr. Cowder decides to engage as housekeeper some other needy aristocrat, and his scheming brother and nephew pick out for him Olga, really a lion tamer, but willing to be a Russian countess for the sake of a rich husband. How Freddy and the Marquis succeed and how Olga fails need not be told. It is inevitable that these things should happen, and happen they do with the help of a number of songs. Will West furnished most of the fun, and in one or two small scenes Percival Knight aroused hopes that he might have more to do. Louis Pounds, who is better known to London in shows of this kind than in New York, was the Olga, and Albert Hart and Frank Tierney the scheming brother and nephew. The Cowder was E. J. Connolly, whose skill as a character actor has been gained in far more serious parts. A large and gorgeously dressed chorus joined in the songs. * * * The second performance of the Italian Grand Opera Company at the Academy of Music last Monday night was as creditable in most respects as the first, which took place on Saturday evening. The second opera was Puccini's La Boheme, which has been made tolerably familiar to this public. Ester Ferrabini made a pleasing impression as Mimi. Amelia Sedelmayer was Musetta. Giuseppe Armanini made his first appearance as Rodolfo and disclosed a very pretty lyric tenor voice. Ernesto Caronna as Marcello, Verri-Secci as Schaunard and Giovanni Gravina as Colline, sang acceptably. On the whole it was a commendable performance within its sphere. * * * Such a Little Queen, a comedy in four acts, by Channing Pollock, is doing well at the Hackett Theatre. The quality in Mr. Pollock's play which will make it most appealing—is the fragrance of a love story—a story about the little exiled Queen, who fell into a fairy book and then fell out again. For she had not yet learned that fairy tales and Harlem flats do not exactly mix, or if they do, not until something of the sordidness of life has gone out with the daily sweepings. So the little Queen, for all her wisdom and courage, had to learn first of all how the great sacrifice is made before she could come into her own. An attractive theme, charmingly handled on its sentimental side, Such a Little Queen, though it is not without passages that may be made smoother in the playing, has many touches of gentle humor, with sly little ironical twists that point a moral and an undercurrent of gentle pathos that is most appealing. * * * In the prospectus of the forthcoming season at the Manhattan Opera House which is to follow the present educa-

...First Pacific Coast Tour...

Wm. A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer's Production

A Gentleman From Mississippi

A Comedy of Washington Life by Harrison Rhodes and Thos. A. Wise

"Is a corker."—Colonel Roosevelt

ONE ENTIRE YEAR NEW YORK CITY

SIX MONTHS CHICAGO

Van Ness Theatre, San Francisco.....	Sept. 20 to Oct. 3
Santa Cruz .....	Oct. 4
San Jose .....	Oct. 5-6
Fresno .....	Oct. 7
Stockton .....	Oct. 8-9
Marysville .....	Oct. 11
Sacramento .....	Oct. 12-13
Oakland .....	Oct. 14-15-16
Los Angeles .....	Oct. 18, week
Salt Lake .....	Oct. 25, week

tional performances, Oscar Hammerstein has kept his promise to regard the Metropolitan Opera Company as his bitter rival so far as relates to the future conduct of his opera house. The regular season—the fourth of the house—will open with Massenet's Herodiade, to be sung for the first time in this country on November 15 by a cast which includes Maurice Renaud, Charles Dalmores, Lina Cavalieri and Jeanne Gerville-Reaché. "Mr. Hammerstein," the prospectus reads, "considers himself justified in asserting that under his direction he possesses an ensemble of artists far superior to those existing in another institution in this city, and also that in the matter of exclusive rights of operas he stands unique among impresarios and directors of opera houses in the world. * * * The Sins of Society at the New York Theatre, is a melodrama in fourteen scenes and innumerable gowns. These two features are more important in the make up of this piece than the drama itself. The scenery, however, is extraordinary. There are no "front" scenes. Every scene has breadth and depth, and uses a great deal of the vast New York Theatre stage. Many of the actors who were engaged in the presentation of this play doubtless spent more time getting in and out of gowns than they did in playing, but the piece could not have had a better presentation. Melodrama only carries over the footlights when the actors believe in it, and those concerned with the piece last night put as much life into the situations as the situations would warrant. Louise Closser Hale gave a charming characterization of Lady Goldbury. Laura Nelson Hall was beautiful as the chief sinner. Lucy Sibley, imported from London, played the Dowager Duchess of Danebury in a wonderful make-up. Dodson Mitchell did good acting in the scene, in which the false tiara is stolen after the pawnbroker has been drugged. Leslie Kenyon as Hogg, W. L. Abingdon as Ferrers, and Conway Tearle as Sir Dorian, were all excellent in their parts. The heavy settings of the play made the final curtain fall on the opening night only a little before midnight, but no one had left before then. * * * The Hippodrome's annual productions are called this season A Trip to Japan, the Ballet of the Jewels and the scenic and musical spectacles of Inside the Earth. This brand new show that Messrs. Shubert and Anderson presented last week as their attraction of the Hippodrome for the season of 1909-1910, is the most magnificent performance of its kind New York has seen. The old Hippodrome favorites, W. H. Clark, E. A. Clark, Nanette Flack, the prima donna; J. Parker Coombs, the uproarious Marceline and the others are in the new cast. Harry Griffith, a young man whose fresh voice reaches the gallery gods even in the Hippodrome without straining, is a pleasing addition to the long cast. It is impossible to give all the wonderful details of all the things that happen in the new production. You must see them—from the time the curtain rises upon the bright colored first scene, through the beautiful Japan that Mr. Voegtlin not only has painted but also suggested and invented, and then on through the mazes of the bejewelled ballet and on again to the end, where waterfalls tower and fountains splash higher than ever, and silver clad soldier girls march singing into the sea down a great flight of steps that lead them, still singing, into the lake, never to come up again. One wondered then how the Hippodrome ever again will surpass this season's performance. It certainly never even was equalled before. * * * An almost perfect little scheme for the assimilation of much wealth by the marital route, is enacted at the Gaiety Theatre in The Fortune Hunter, by Winchell Smith, with Jack Barrymore in the title part. The mercenary person who hated work stumbled into circumstances that proved his undoing, and was provocative of much mirth. The scheme was the idea of Henry Kellogg, a Wall street banker, who had fostered it for years and was only saved from put-

Continued on Page 12.

THE SAN FRANCISCO Dramatic Review

Music and Drama

CHAS. H. PARRELL, Publisher

Issued Every Saturday

Address all
letters and
money orders to San Francisco
Dramatic
Review, Van

Ness Theatre Bldg.,
Van Ness
Avenue.
Telephone
Park
1773

Entered at San Francisco as Second-class
Mail Matter. Established 1880.

Millidge Sherwood

One of the innovations this season will come to us when William Stoermer presents his new "star," Millidge Sherwood, in a sumptuous scenic revival of King Lear. Mr. Sherwood will be surrounded with the best and most thoroughly equipped organizations ever opened on the Pacific Coast. Mr. Stoermer has been fortunate in securing as his leading support for Mr. Sherwood, little Marian Meredith, a child "phenom.," but eleven years of age, for the difficult part of Cordelia in this production, and Ophelia, Juliet and Julie, in the repertoire, he will place his star in while touring this Western territory the coming season. Mr. Sherwood's student-like nature, qualifies him for a high place in the world of dramatic art. He possesses a magnetic personality, gripping with strong impulse and a keen sense of light and shade, that make his creations stand out boldly and brilliantly. Being singularly fortunate in his natural equipment for the stage, Mr. Sherwood has a remarkably rich voice and a temperament pregnant with emotional possibility. Mr. Sherwood is a young actor of great ability. Lear being his principal character this season, will give this artist ample opportunity for a delineation that cannot fail to test the qualifications that have been claimed for him. It would be difficult to improve in the minute detail on his characterization of this insane old king, a man "more sinned against than sinning." His is not the perfunctory manner of a trained actor, but he lives, breathes and above all else is Lear while before his audience. Those who will have the opportunity to witness this production will have the good fortune of seeing one of the best all-round supporting companies touring the country today.

The New Theatre Will Start Its Career of Theory in November

The New Theatre of New York, which as an abstract proposition to those who look upon the theatrical business as one fraught with artistic possibilities, will open on November 8 under the direction of Winthrop Ames, who secured the aid of several New York millionaires, and they have erected the theatre and secured for it a suitable endowment to prospect along hitherto untried channels, which it is hoped will develop the artistic side of theatricals, and not necessarily fail on the financial side. The theatre opens on November 8, with Antony and Cleopatra, E. H. Sothorn and Julia Marlowe having the title parts.

On November 11 will be given a new play, called The Cottage in the Air, written by Edward Knobloch, the author of The Shulanite. In the schedule for the first six weeks is included a new play by Edward Sheldon, who wrote Salvation Nell. It is called The Nigger, and deals with the race question in the South. John Galsworthy's Strife, dealing with the capital and labor question, was a success in London last year and has been rewritten for early production at the New Theatre, with the scene transferred to Western Ohio. Sheridan's The School for Scandal, is also to be produced in November in a version approaching the early presentations under the author's own management. After the first week the theatre will be given over one evening and one afternoon each week to the lighter standard operas, sung by artists from the Metropolitan company. The directors say that there are to be no stars in the company so far as distinctions in the cast go. It is to be a stock company with the personalities subordinated to general effect. Albert Bruning, whose latest success has been as the old music master in the original cast of The Climax. Charles Cartwright, who played in the companies of Irving and Booth, and is best known here as Kleschna in Mrs. Fiske's production of Leah Kleschna. Rowland Buckstone, associated with Mr. Sothorn for a long time in low comedy parts. A. E. Anson, a young Englishman, at one time Viola Allen's leading man. Rose Coghlan, one of the most popular of the famous leading women in Lester Wallack's company. Henry Stanford, who last season was Eleanor Robson's leading man in The Dawn of Tomorrow. Ferdinand Gottschalk, famous for his "silly ass" impersonations in the old Lyceum company. Mrs. Sol Smith, perhaps the best known "old woman" on the American stage. Jacob Wendell, who becomes a professional after a long experience as an amateur at Harvard and in the exclusive New York Comedy Club. Beverly Sitgreaves, who started in Mr. Mansfield's company and has been seen in important parts in every city in the United States. Master John Tansey, well known in child part. Vida Sutton, a California college girl, for the last two years a member of the Donald Robertson company in Chicago. The youngest among the women in the company will be Leah Bateman-Hunter, who is only seventeen, but who may make up by heredity what she lacks in years, as she comes of a famous theatrical family, being a granddaughter of the celebrated Kate Bateman. Ben Johnson, whose Jimsey in Paid in Full was a delight to the thousands who saw that play during its long run with the original company. Jessie Busley, familiar in slavery and other eccentric parts. Among those less well known are Harry Melick, Charles Balsar, William McVay, Olive Wyndham and Thais Lawton, who gained her first artistic growth in San Francisco stock under Fred Belasco's management. The classic productions will be staged by Louis Calvert, an English actor and stage manager of wide experience. Modern dramas will be produced by George Foster Platt, assisted by Wilfrid North. The musical director will be Elliott Schenck, an American, educated in Germany and associated in this country with Walter Damrosch and Henry W. Savage. The enterprise has in its favor, for the first season at least, its novelty and the attraction of one of the most splendid theatrical buildings in America. Through its sincerity of purpose it will attract a class of theatre-goers who have always demanded a more serious artistic consideration than the commercial managers have seen fit to give. The theatrical profession will resent the preponderance of English actors in the company listed above. It does seem a bit un-American that what is intended to be our leading dramatic institution should incline so strongly to foreign artists, but there are reasons. The American actor is very insistent on never cutting a salary which he has once received and which oftentimes is entirely out of proportion to his general ability. He is also inclined to be a trifle bumptious and not so ready to merge his individuality in the common good as is his British confrere. Therefore, in the experimental stage of The New Theatre it is perhaps well that there should be a good proportion of tractable material.

Imperial Amusement Co.

Star Theatre, Portland, Oregon
S. MORTON COHN, Pres.; MELVIN G. WINSTOCK, Gen. Mgr.

Acts of every kind are requested to write in, quoting lowest salary in first letter. Satisfactory booking for right acts at right figures.

WILLIAM MAXWELL

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW

Lick Building, 35 Montgomery Street.
Telephone Kearny 724.

Valencia Theatre

Valencia Street, near Thirteenth
Phone Market 17

This Saturday Matinee and All Next Week,
Including Wednesday Matinee
The Biggest Laugh in Years
Sam S. and Lee Shubert, Inc., Present

Going Some

A Comedy of College Men and Cowboys

Reserved Seats from $1.50 to 50c. on sale at the Box Office and Emporium

Commencing Sunday Night, Sept. 26
CORINNE, in "Mlle. Mischief."

Garrick Theatre

Ellis Street, near Fillmore
Phone West 1194

First Appearance in the West of the Noted
British Star

Harold Nelson

Tomorrow (Sunday) Matinee and Every Night Next Week

Prince Otto

Otis Skinner's Dramatization of Robert
Louis Stevenson's Novel

Thursday and Saturday Matinees Only SPECIAL

Harold Nelson in CANDIDA

Geo. Bernard Shaw's Psychological Drama

Prices—25c to $1.00. Seats on Sale.
Sept. 26—"A KNIGHT FOR A DAY."

New Alcazar Theatre

Tel. West 1400

Cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts.
Belasco & Mayer, Owners and Managers
Absolutely "Class A" Building

Monday Evening, September 20
Starts the Second and Last Week of Henry Miller's Recent Successful Vehicle

The Great Divide

By William Vaughn Moody

Prices—Night, 25c to $1.00. Matinee, 25c
to 50c.

MATINEE SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

New Orpheum

O'Farrell Street, Bet. Stockton and Powell
Safest and Most Magnificent Theatre in
America

Week Beginning This Sunday Afternoon
Matinee Every Day

ARTISTIC VAUDEVILLE

ROSARIO GUERRERO, Assisted by Sig.
L. Paglieri in the Musical Fantomime,
"THE ROSE AND THE DAGGER"; TOM
WATERS (One Week Only), in His Original
Piano Fastime, Song, Dance, and Mimicry;
MURRAY and MACK; SPAULDING and
RIGGO; WYNN and LEE; CHARLES MON-
TREL; CROUCH and WELCH; NEW OR-
PHEUM MOTION PICTURES. Last Week
—Great Sensation, "CIRCUMSTANTIAL
EVIDENCE," with a company of twelve.

EVENING PRICES—10c, 25c, 50c, 75c,
Box Seats, $1.

MATINEE PRICES (Except Sundays and
Holidays), 10c, 25c, 50c
Phone Douglas 70

Princess Theatre

Absolutely "Class A" Theatre Building

Phone West 663

Ellis Street, near Fillmore
Samuel Loverich, Manager

Tonight and All This Week

Ferris Hartman

And His New Company, in
James T. Powers' Greatest Success

THE BLUE MOON
An Oriental Musical Play

MATINEES SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

Popular prices: Evenings, 25c, 50c, 75c.
Saturday and Sunday Matinees, 25c and 50c.

Next Monday

The Mayor of Tokio

AMERICAN THEATRE

Market St., near Seventh

Abe S. Cohn, Manager

Phone Market 381 for Good Seats
The Playhouse of Comfort and Safety

AMERICAN VAUDEVILLE

Will be Inaugurated Next Sunday, by a
Ten-Act

Vaudeville Show

This theatre will now book the best
vaudeville acts obtainable under the book-
ing direction of Edward Homan.

No Acts too big. No Price too big.

GILLE PRINTING CO.

SAN FRANCISCO

THEATRICAL PRINTING OF ALL KINDS

POSTERS
2257 MISSION ST. Phone MARKET 1865

THE FRANCIS- VALENTINE CO.

Thirteenth St., near Mission, S. F. Cal.

Spacious Headquarters
for Theatrical Agents

PHONE—MARKET 2114

Send Bills of Lading to us. We will take care of your paper

Show Printers

Van Ness Theatre

The two week's engagement of Blanche Bates and The Fighting Hope will give away Saturday night to A Gentleman From Mississippi, which comes next Monday. It has been a genuine treat to have Miss Bates once more in her old home, and to realize how tremendously she has advanced in her acting since we saw her last. The Fighting Hope does not give her adequate opportunities, and we will welcome her return in a play that will be commensurate with her abilities.

American Theatre

Manager Abe Cohen has provided an expensive and well-selected offering this week that is a foretaste of what may be expected at the hands of this up-to-date management. Murphy and Whitman present the comedy sketch, The Prodigal Girl. This gets an enthusiastic reception. Eddie Girard and Jessie Gardiner present their good, ripe old Dooley and the Diamond. We all know it by heart. Alva York, a clever singing soubrette, is a handsome woman and her work is appreciated. La Maze Brothers have a very entertaining comedy acrobatic act, and Alfred K. Hall, the dancer, does some fine shuffling. Carter, the magician, presents some new feats of mystery and moving pictures have their share in the pleasing scheme of entertainment.

Alcazar Theatre

Everyone who has seen Augustus Phillips this week is willing to give him credit for doing the best that he has done since coming to San Francisco. Were it not that the Alcazar's leading man has to stand comparison with Henry Miller after the latter had played the leading male part for two seasons, everybody would declare that the Alcazar's new leading man had risen to something that at times suggests greatness. No one can cavil at the way Phillips acts the part of Stephen Ghent, the cow-puncher, who through his crude love for a woman, beginning first with caring for her physically, discovers himself, and that he is capable of loving her with all that is best and noblest in his strong, though in some respects, simple nature. Miss Vaughn, who is Ruth Jordan, is excellent as the New England girl who sells herself to the least objectionable of the three bad men who gamble for the possession of her body, in the lonely cabin in the mountains. Much of Miss Vaughn's good work is lost, however, by poor enunciation. At times this week she was positively distressing in this regard. She has enough ability to make the overcoming of this defect well worth while. Will Walling, as Philip Jordan, the brother of Ruth, to express it frankly, was disappointingly bad. Either he was poorly cast, or else he did not care. George Baldwin had a minor part in which he was very good, but the part did not permit of much. Charley Clark was excellent as Lon Anderson. Roy Neill overacted the part of the small boy. Bessie Barriscale, who plays many roles very well, but all after a certain way, was good in that certain way. Others who had small parts were Adele Belgarde, Andrew Bennison, Charles Trowbridge, Walter Belasco, Herbert Farjeon, whose make-up as a Greaser was excellent, and E. L. Bennison. Of the play, little need be said. It easily ranks among the best of contemporary dramas of American life. It was first produced under the name of The Sabine Wife, a more poetic title, but less descriptive of the play than the one by which it is now known. It undoubtedly is a piece that will have a permanent place in the American drama, being not only a good piece of stagecraft, but good literature as well. With their usual regard for fine mounting, the play was put on with great effect.

Princess Theatre

The Blue Moon, seen in San Francisco two or three years ago, as a vehicle for the droll humor of James T. Powers, has been revived at the Princess this week by Ferris Hartman and his associates. To the credit of Hartman, let it be said, that he in no way imitates Powers in his methods. It might be an entirely different opera, so dissimilar is the quality of the comedy of the two actors. The musical comedy was written for English audiences, and for that reason, at times it is a little hard to get the average American spectator to understand its subtleties as thoroughly as is necessary for a full appreciation of a piece such as this. Be that as it may, the comedians at the Princess have worked wonders with the book, and it is but paying them a just tribute to say that the bill is much more interesting to San Francisco people than it was when given by Powers and his company. Hartman, as the British soldier, whose adventures and misadventures form one of the most interesting elements of the piece, was very good. If an American musical comedy could be written about a similar character taken from the United States' army, Hartman would have an opportunity of doing some big things. Next to Hartman, "Muggins" Davies and Walter De Leon, are the most popular members of the company. Miss Davies has a catchy little song, That's All, that takes five or six encores, and would go for more, if she permitted it. Walter De Leon's interpolated number, If He'd Leave Me His Office to Run, was also a big hit. It gets from eight to twelve encores a night. Musically, and in the dancing numbers, the chorus deserves much praise. But as we said last week, someone should see to it that the girls get the grease paint on properly. Amateur theatricals could not be worse. Among the principals who assist Ferris Hartman to twinkle, are Joseph Fogarty, Oscar Walsh, Walter Catlett, Elvia Rand, Colin Clinch, Jack Martin, E. L. Epperly, F. W. Hanrahan, Don H. Seaton, Leonard Bowes, Josie Hart, Anna Little, Lillian Leighton, "Billie" Richardson, Flora Norris, Ethel Haines and Dixie Blair.

Valencia Theatre

When Paul Armstrong and Rex Beach conceived the idea of Going Some, they certainly got hold of a new idea for the dramatist to toy with. The bare idea of Going Some is one of its chiefest charms, and there are many moments during the performance when insistent laughter tells of the comedy that has been developed for the audience. And there are quite a few moments when the authors have failed to keep up the interest. This is the weak feature of the play. The idea is funny; the situations are funny, but there are a few blowholes on the surface of the play's texture that could be stopped up with amusing lines and business. The production is a complete and striking one, and the men in the play are capable, and their work is most satisfactory. Eugene O'Rourke, as the trainer and masseur, is the hit of the farce. He never has to force a point. His quiet get there methods are the result of experience and ability. Next comes Willis Brown in the guise of Willie, the quick-on-the-trigger cowboy, who is the most tense, absorbed character presented on the stage in years. Mr. Brown uses an excellent make-up and wears big silver-bowed eye glasses. This is funny in itself, for whoever saw a cowboy with eye glasses. Then the straight, serious manner he adopts, affords most excellent comedy. James Spottswood, as the champion bluffer and fake record sprinter, gives an enjoyable light comedy performance that demonstrates him to be a resourceful actor. Frank Wunderlee, who portrays "Fat," the glee club swain, makes a hit of large proportions. A fat man always gets a good start in the affections of an audience, and if he is an actor, he increases his standing right along. Mr. Wunderlee is an actor. These complete the chief parts given to the men. The women are greatly subordinated, and other than to look charming and to exhibit a fine proficiency in kissing, they were not called upon to do much. The trio who were equal to all demands were Jane Salisbury, Genevieve Cliffe and Bertha Kriehoff.

Garrick Theatre

The novelty of The Girl From Rector's was fast and furious while the newspapers lambasted it, and in consequence the theatre did a record-breaking business. Now that the first fury is over things have settled down to an even, easy state of affairs, and the play is not found to be really so red as it was painted. It is really only an ordinary French play, a little more freely adapted than usual, and very humorously produced. Next week, Harold Nelson, the Canadian actor, will be seen in Prince Otto.

Spotlights

CHARLES GUNN expected to leave for Denver last Thursday to take the position of leading man at the Curtis Theatre, but some hitch has occurred and for the present the deal is off.

E. NICHOLS, who has been acting as second man with John Campbell, ahead of The Girl from Rector's, was stricken with appendicitis last Wednesday and operated upon at Trinity Hospital. He is progressing nicely.

CHARLES OSGOOD is once more back at his desk in Klaw & Erlanger's office in New York. Whatever the trouble was that caused Mr. Osgood to leave some weeks ago, has been adjusted, and the booking is now directed by Mr. Osgood, with Ed Thurnear and Harry Lee as assistants.

The Hallett-Clements Stock opened the season at the Empire Theatre in Fresno, last Monday. The company gave great satisfaction, and as soon as the prevailing hot weather is over, a big season is looked for.

Personals

GRIFFITH WRAY is contemplating going out with his own company in four weeks.

LESLIE and GARRA VIRDEN, late of the Ed Redmond company, have joined Perry Girton's stock in Long Beach.

AFTER nearly a year spent in European travel, among the various spas and health resorts, Joseph Gottlob has returned to San Francisco in splendid physical condition. This will be good news to a host of friends in this city and many others in the profession scattered all over the United States, for Joe has always been most popular. Always kindly, never too busy to be interested, and with a feeling of acute sympathy for his less fortunate brethren, Joe Gottlob has always carried with him the best wishes of everybody who knew him.

LOUIS LISSNER will retire from the position of business manager of the American Theatre in this city today, to accept a similar position with the Persse-Mason Opera Company. Theatre patrons of this city will miss Mr. Lissner's presence in their midst. He has made an enviable reputation in this city for continuous courtesy and ability. It is generally acknowledged that Mr. Lissner is one of the finest box office men in the State and his general knowledge of the business is thorough and extensive. Good luck to you on the road, Louis.

WILLIAM STOERMER has engaged Everett Sackett as agent ahead of Millidge Sherwood in King Lear. Mr. Stoermer will introduce the most thorough work in advance of this attraction and has signed Mrs. Daye, who will be two weeks ahead of Mr. Sackett and will devote her time to schools, clubs and societies. No attraction opening out of San Francisco will be as massive, beautiful and thoroughly equipped as this production, and it is safe to say from the success Mr. Stoermer met with while managing Joseph DeGrasse last season, in Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice, that this season's return will more than compensate his ambitious efforts in giving to the people the very best form of dramatic offerings.

W. S. GILBERT, although over 70 years of age, is at work on a new comic opera, which will shortly be produced at the Savoy Theatre in London. The hopes of a generation which first witnessed the production of the series of pieces by Gilbert and Sullivan and has since mourned that golden age of the stage will be raised by the news. It was in 1875 that W. S. Gilbert and Arthur Sullivan began to work together. In the next ten years were produced Pinafore, The Pirates of Penzance, Patience, Iolanthe and The Mikado. The partnership acquired the kind of fame that is the best patent of success, both popular and well-merited. Their comic operas were clean, wholesome, clever and really comic in more than name. They were grateful to the eye, ear and mind of persons of all ages. Sullivan's tunes were sung and whistled everywhere, and Gilbert's songs and dialogues became household words.

Stockwell's Benefit

AS the DRAMATIC REVIEW comes off the presses, the Blanche Bates benefit to L. R. Stockwell is taking place at the Van Ness Theatre.

Vaudeville

The Orpheum

Dick Gardner and Anne Revere start the ball arolling this week with "real variety." You will note the quotation marks. They are ours. The term is the press agent's, and is used advisedly to differentiate between the old-time, interesting variety stunt and the sometime up-to-date advanced vaudeville which too often nowadays means much beautiful scenery and a lot of ambitious stuff of no particular interest. Gardner and Revere do their turn to a nicety and are good. Sig. Luciano Lucca holds over with his double-barreled voice, and he, too, is good—and unusual. Rosa Crouch and George Welch are two exceedingly clever dancers. They make a hit with this style of work, which they do not altogether do when they sing. The Arlington Four are one of the most successful comedy singing and dancing quartets ever seen on the local stage. They have worked up their act until it goes with a swing, and they have tried out their comedy stunts until they know just what will produce the desired effect. At the Country Club is another one of Jesse Laskey's big, ambitious musical affairs. The setting is good, and the idea also. The girls are strikingly gowned, and the boys are very good for chorus men. As a rule chorus men are strange fish. One of them has a fine baritone voice, which he uses with splendid effect. Jarvis Jocelyn is a good actor and piano player and something of a singer. Eulalie Jensen is a strikingly handsome woman, and she is very effective in her tightly fitting gowns. The laughing hit of the program is furnished by Ed Wynn and Al Lee in a scream called The Billiken Freshman. Mr. Wynn is a tremendously good low comedian, and he has a hat that should be featured. The dramatic offering is that which is sponsored by Harrison Hunter. It is called Circumstantial Evidence and is a distinct departure from the usual models of vaudeville plays. It depicts the slow times in a jury room, in trying to arrive at a decision, and the final dramatic ending that brings the differing members into an unanimous feeling and closer brotherhood. It is well worth seeing. Charles Montrell, the juggler, was in bad form. His misses were of such frequent occurrence as to be annoying. He has worked up an act that will be all right when he is more certain of himself. Interesting moving pictures concluded the performance.

Pantages-Empire

A decided diversity exists in the offering this week, and as a whole the various acts are of superior calibre. Doranto in suitable garb presents a picturesque and entertaining, though by no means new, musical act, keeping in mind the chief characteristics of Chinese harmony, or rather lack of harmony. Lewitt and Ashmere have the playlet of the evening. They are assisted by Alf Hoffman, and while individually the three are clever people, the act rather drags. John Buckley, the eccentric dancer, is all right as a dancer, and then some, but he is monkeying with the buzz saw when he attempts to sing. Cut out your vocalisms, John, and work up a novelty dancing act. As a dancer you're great. The Sandow Trio, three strong men, do a gymnastic turn in a fine special act. Though they do wonderful things, their act is not particularly appealing. They should revise it. Devine and Williams have a screamingly funny skit in The Traveling Salesman. Will Bradley and company conclude the performance by a pleasing musical novelty, entitled The Gypsy Wayfarers. They have the aid of a pretty set and some good lighting effects, and their singing is enjoyable.

The National

Amusement with plenty of class to it characterizes the offerings at this popular play house this week. Manager Zeke Abrams has done himself proud with the offerings he has served up for the vaudeville palate at the National during the past six days. The program starts off with the two Ahlbergs. They introduce some clever clowning with their acrobatic stunts. It is a good turn with which to open a bill, having plenty of ginger in it. Their act is done in one. Billy Court, a Scotch comedian, who admits that he is not much for size, but somewhat long on comedy, follows, and makes good both his assertions. He is a scream, and the house is always sorry to let him go. Speaking of class, Morton Sharp and Vivian Montgomery, with the Dancing Belles, have a right to the use of that adjective. This is a blackface turn, done on a full stage, with a complete set. The music, humor and dancing are all good. Then, too, all the ladies have their portion of good looks, which helps out in its way. Grace Darnley has a good act. She is an acrobatic dancer and contortionist. Grace has a fair share of avoirdupois, and her turn does not suggest the antics of a skeleton in costume. Whatever her salary is, she earns it. Tom Moore and Stacia Moore, in what they call the act beautiful, win many plaudits for themselves. A turn as good as theirs deserves a more distinctive name. There have been so many "acts beautiful" at the different vaudeville houses during the past three years, that such a term hardly conveys what its originators no doubt intend that it shall. Anyhow, it is good and the Moores may be credited with delivering the merchandise. They sing, pose and dance in a very pleasing way. Stacia Moore, too, has her quota of pleasing fairness. A little one-act sketch, Pals, by Edmund Day, has the ability of gripping the attention from the moment the very first word is spoken on the stage. The principal work falls to Edwin Carewe, as Jack Wayne, and George Redmund, as his pal, done by Campbell Stratton. Higgins, the stable boy, is done by Wm. "Slivers" Singer. Madge Towle plays Grace Wayne, Jack's wife, and Byron Allen, is cast as Mr. Densmore. The company is as satisfactory as the tabloid drama. Actors as good as these have no place in vaudeville, with all respect to vaudeville.

The Wigwam

Sam Harris and his associates offer this week: The Clarence Sisters; Wood Brothers; Vera de Bossini; Mitchell and Caine; and the Three

Theatrical Tights

ALL COLORS, WEIGHTS AND QUALITIES—Cotton, 75c to $1.50; Wool, $2.50 to $3.50; Lisle or Silkline, $3.00 to $4.50; Silk, $5.00 to $12.50.

SYMMETRICALS BEST LINE MADE IN THE U. S. Calif. $5.00; Calif. and Thigh, $10.00; Calif. Thigh and Hip, $12.50.

We also Make Padded Shirts, SWEATERS, JERSEYS, GYM, ATHLETIC and BATH SUITS, SUPPORTERS, ACROBATIC SHOES, GOOD UNDERWEAR Knit to Fit in All Materials.

We operate our own mills, carry a large stock and make goods to measure at reasonable prices. We suit the professional as if he were buying in Europe. Write us for prices and samples.

Gantner & Mattern Co.

Phone Kearny 3603

Corner Post and Grant Ave.

Sullivan & Considine

::: New Circuit :::

Of the smaller popular-priced theatres to be operated in conjunction with their regular circuit houses, comprising time in

California Colorado
Utah Kansas
and Eastern Connections

Good Acts Can Always
Secure Immediate Bookings

BOOKING DEPARTMENT

1117 Market Street

W. P. REESE, Manager

New York Office, Knickerbocker Theater Bldg., Lancaster, Pa., Family Theater.
Booking the Longest Chain of Vaudeville Theaters West of Chicago.
Playing the best acts in vaudeville.

BERT LEVEY CIRCUIT

2053 SUTTER ST.

INDEPENDENT VAUDEVILLE
Phone West 9098.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

PANTAGES Western States Vaudeville Association

Controlling the longest, largest and best chain of vaudeville theatres in the United States.

Mr. Manager: No matter where your house is, how large or how small, we can supply you promptly with first-class

vaudeville acts at reasonable prices, also lodges, clubs and entertainments furnished on short notice.

See O. S. BURNS, Representative.
Phone West 7140. Offices: Pantages Theatre, cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts., San Francisco, Cal.

Archie Levy's Amusement Ass'n

THE VAUDEVILLE EXCHANGE OF THE PACIFIC COAST
1643 FILLMORE STREET, SUITE 1-2-3, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers desiring talent Write. Artists send in your open time now.

Roehrs. The Carter-Taylor company went on Sunday, but were restrained by the Pantages circuit from appearing further until the trial next Monday.

Bookings

At the Sullivan & Considine, San Francisco Office, through Wm. P. Reese, their sole booking agent, for week of Sept. 19, 1909:

NATIONAL, San Francisco—La Darros, Selbini and Grovini, Will Morrissey, Marion and Rial, Steele Sisters, Bothwell Browne & Co., Buckley's Dogs. BELL, Oakland—Alva York, Ahlberg Bros., Billy Cort, Mort. Sharp and his Dancing Belles, Tom and Stasia Moore, Edwin Carewe & Co., Grace Darnley. WIGWAM, San Francisco—Mondane Phillips, Roltaire, Harvard and Cornelle, Emily and Jessie Dodd & Co., Tom Bateman, Hugh Lloyd, La Maze

Bros. NOVELTY, Vallejo—Do-blado's Sheep, Jere Sanford, Haight and Dean. GARRICK, Stockton—Pritzkow and Blanchard, The Three Olivers, Franette Gilbert, St. Elmo. GRAND, Sacramento—Murphy-Whitman Co., Mitchell and Caine, Vera de Bassini, Wood Bros., Clarence Sisters, The Three Roehrs. JOSE, San Jose—J. Warren Keane & Co., Alfred K. Hall, J. K. Emmett & Co., Les Ploetz Larellas, Maude Rockwell. LOS ANGELES, Los Angeles—Tom McGuire, Girard and Gardner, Roberts' Rats, Stanley-Edwards Co., Defrej, Hildreth and Barbee. AMERICAN, San Francisco—Sunflower Trio, Chas. Mack & Co., Cogan and Bancroft, Goodhue and Burgess, Blossom Seeley, McFarland and Murray. ORPHEUM, San Diego—Gruet and Gruet, Frank Bacon & Co., Princess Wlademaroff, Harry Taylor.

NAT FIELDS

CENTRAL THEATRE . . . . . San Francisco, Cal.
Comedian and Producer

Nat Field's Season of Burlesque

Nat Fields, a brother of Lew Fields of New York, and he himself a clever producer and comedian, inaugurated a season of Weber and Fields' burlesque at the Central Theatre last Sunday. The opening bill was 'Whirl-I-Gig'. A carefully worked up show was offered, and a strong cast played it. Myrtle Vane, who as an emotional leading woman or a prima donna, is a wonder, is playing the latter roles, and her success was instantaneous. Will Vack is playing the short Dutch opposite to Mr. Fields, and is going big. Fred Lancaster is doing the straights and scoring, and Dave Lerner is exceedingly clever as the Jew. This youngster is one of the best Jews the stage has developed in a long time. Mr. Fields has provided a good-looking and energetic chorus, and the shows are well worth seeing. A strong vaudeville program is also offered. The Arnolds present a good gymnastic act, and Frederick, the Great, in feats of magic is clever. Ingalls, Duffield and Ingalls, hard-shoe novelty dancers, have made such a hit that they will be retained for a second week.

New Pantages Houses

Following the acquirement by Alex Pantages of the Colorado Circuit from the Empire Vaudeville Association of this city, comes the announcement from the Pantages headquarters that Pantages will have a new theatre down town within six months. A site has already been secured. A new house will be built in Oakland, and a new theatre is now building in Los Angeles.

The Selman Stock Company are playing three nights weekly in Petaluma and filling in the balance of the week in surrounding towns. In the company are Claude Hutchinson, Albert Edmonson, Sherman Bainbridge, Robert Selman, Nellie Lynn, Lulu Barlow and Caroline Edwards.

Vaudeville Notes

After the villainous apology for grand opera that was given at the Clunie a fortnight ago, it is a pleasure to hear a real operatic voice—one that would have made the fortune of the so-called "International Grand Opera company if it could have secured such a singer. Fay Carranza is the possessor of a rich soprano that has been cultivated according to the best traditions of the operatic masters of song. Her opening song, the well-known Una voce poco fa from Il Barbiere di Siviglia, gives the audience a taste of real art, and last night was received with warm applause. Her second number is a charming English work of the florid school, The Rose Said to Me. Her concluding number is Il Bacio. The enthusiasm with which her work was received last night proves that Sacramento is a city whose people possess real musical taste and appreciation. Sacramento Union.

Violet Holmes has secured a brilliant Oriental playlet, entitled The Captive of the Crescent, from Harry Cottrell, and is negotiating for Orpheum time.

Sullivan and Considine, the great western vaudeville magnates, will erect six new vaudeville theatres in Chicago in the near future. The Chicago commissioners for this enterprising firm have been instructed to secure sites for the new houses. They will be in the outlying districts, and will play the big acts of the Sullivan and Considine time. It is said that the houses will be like the new Wilson avenue theatre, which is playing the William Morris acts. They will be small, with moderate seating capacity, but modern in every way, and will be so situated that they will cater to certain thickly populated districts.

Chutes Has Free Theatre

A free theatre in which the latest motion pictures and vocalists will entertain, will be opened at the New Chutes this Sunday. The theatre will give continuous performances. The seats will be absolutely free. The pictures will be of the latest importation and the illustrated songs number the popular ballads of the day. Among the many new offerings on this Sunday's free bill will be the Arnolds, Australian acrobats of note. The swinging trapeze and bars are used in their act. Ella Lavail, the Parisian aerialist, who has won a host of admirers with her delightful work during the past several days, will enter upon her last week tomorrow. Sunday will be the last appearance of these wizards of the triple bars, the Smiletta trio. The California State Band is proving the most popular musical organization presented since the opening of the Chutes.

California State Fair at Idora Park

A fortnight of exposition and carnival events of which augmented band concerts, a dozen big aerial and acrobatic acts, a spectacular burlesque bull fight, brilliant illuminations and the auxiliary California State Fair will be the prominent features, is to be inaugurated at Idora this afternoon. The end of the two weeks frolic will terminate the Idora season. From that date the popular Oakland amusement park, which has been the playground of tens of thousand each week throughout the summer will remain "dark" until April, 1910. The line of free open-air attractions introduced today will be most pretentious in the history of Idora. The lighting effects, entailing the use of more than 50,000 incandescent lamps, will present a gorgeous spectacle. The decorations have called into play miles of bunting and two carloads of silken banner and gaily colored flags. Myriads of Mission-bell and Japanese lanterns will be festooned through the

AVAILABLE FOR STOCK

Greatest Book Play of the Decade

Dramatization of
Mrs. Augusta Evans' Book

St. Elmo

By Grace Hayward

Author of "Graustark"

This play has been produced in the East and has demonstrated itself to be a big business puller.

George M. Gatts, the manager of Miss Hayward, has given this agency the exclusive right to handle this play in this territory.

Cast is six men and four women. For terms, etc., address

Great Western Play Agency
Van Ness Theatre Building
San Francisco, Cal.

WALTER HOFF SUTLEY and P. McAllister left yesterday for New York.

NEW CHUTES

FILLMORE, TURK, EDDY AND WEBSTER

Open Morning Afternoon and Night

THE PROLOGS OF 1909

Just opened

THE NICKELLESS DEON

First Motion Picture and Illustrated Song Theatre

ARNOLDE FAMILY

Australian Trapeze Wizards

ELLA LAVAIL

The Parisian Aerialist

SMILETTA TRIO

Last Appearance This Sunday

WALLACE

The Largest Lion in Captivity

IDORA

"The Park Beautiful"

B. P. MILLER, General Manager
Oakland, Calif.

20 Acres of High Grade
Amusement=20

The Handsomest
Park in America

Playing Only the World's Greatest Bands
and
Big Feature Acts

Performers desiring time, address
J. H. B. Fitzpatrick

Huntress

IMPERSONATOR AND DRAPERY DANCER.

Carrying full set. The season's hit in vaudeville. First act to play three weeks of first-class time in San Francisco.

3 times a day

Chicago-Kansas City

AND POINTS EAST

EASTERN EXPRESS

Leave San Francisco, 7:15 a. m. Leave Oakland, 7:40 a. m.

OVERLAND EXPRESS

Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 8:00 p. m.

CALIFORNIA LIMITED

Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 10:00 p. m.

Courteous employees—Unique scenery—Harvey meals—Equipment built by Pullman—One management all the way to Chicago.

Our descriptive folders give reliable information.

JAS. B. DUFFY, GENERAL AGENT, 673 Market Street, S. F.

T. LOVE, T. A., Market St. Ferry Depot, San Francisco.

J. J. WARNER, G. A., 1112 Broadway, Oakland.

Correspondence

Continued from Page 4

ting it to practical use by being raised to a partnership in the firm for which he worked. So when Nathaniel Duncan, an old college chum, who had lost more jobs in two years than Kellogg ever held, happened along broke and thinking of the East river or gas, what was more natural than that Kellogg should turn it over to him? Briefly the banker's hypothesis was this: Given a town, of say 2,000, where the population is forty natives to one eligible young woman, and the marriage market is naturally logy; produce one young man from the city who dresses well, does not drink, smoke or swear, and see what happens. Of course the eligible young woman is an heiress. The city man dresses well and goes to church. His attractiveness makes a hit with the heiress and his virtues win her father. Jack Barrymore as Duncan occupied the stage most of the time. It was good, clean cut comedy and brought chuckles from the rise of the curtain. Graham, wrapped up in his inventions while his business went to ruin, but with a sweet, old-fashioned simplicity about him, was played appealingly by Forrest Robinson. Mary Ryan in the part of Betty, was winsome and pleasing. Kellogg was done by Hale Hamilton. ROB ROY.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 13.—Moore Theatre: The International Grand Opera Company sang Rigoletto at the Moore last night to a small audience that was enthusiastic. Mine. Norelli easily bore off the honors. A different production will be given each night of their stay during the week. Last week's offering at the Moore was The Time, the Place and the Girl, whose popularity has not waned in Seattle, for they had a very successful engagement. Alhambra Theatre: After an absence of seven months, Corinne has returned to Seattle in Mlle. Mischief. She invests the part with all the charm of her personality, and her support is very adequate. A large Sunday night audience welcomed her back to Seattle. Grand Theatre: The Girl Question at the Grand is fully up to last season's standard in staging and chorus. John L. Kearny as Con Ryan is excellent. Seattle Theatre: Russell & Drew's new stock company are playing The Factory Girl this week, a harrowing melodrama seen for the first time in Seattle. Good work was done by all of the company. Majestic: The new Majestic Theatre gave the first performance of its new vaudeville program on Sunday. Heading the bill, Gardner Crane presented Mrs. Gardner Crane and company in Pixley's Prodigal Parents, an excellent one-act farce employing the services of five people. There are also Frobel and Ruge, the aerial coniques; Helen Beresford and company in Polly's Surprise, a one-act playlet; Bandy and Fields, vaudeville's dancing peers; William Cahill, the man from Ireland, with a wealth of witticisms, and Colby and Hay, in their diverting novelty, the Ventriloquist and the Dancing Doll. Orpheum: Mary Norman is seen in her monologues. She presents scenes from the lives of several great actresses, both before and behind the scenes. Other attractive features are Ed. F. Reynard, ventriloquist, who carries an entire production for his act, representing an early morning in a little country town. Then there is James Young and company in a funny college farce; the Bison City Four, a comedy quartet; Pili, the mind-reading dog; Eddie G. Ross, known as the dancing banjoist, and the Hughes musical trio in a big musical act. Pantages: At this house is the sensational act, Minerva, the American queen of mystery, in her death-defying water escape. Other acts on the bill are Rogers, Sherman and Luken, in a sketch, A Visit to Uncle; Smith, Evans and Williams in a Hebrew comedy playlet; Capt. Nat Reissler and company in military sharpshooting; Roberts and Downey, the American dancers; Frank O'Brien, "the gentleman of leisure," and Helen Lowe, who sings. E. MORGENSTERN.

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 13.—At the Auditorium, 12-15, Polly of the Circus. It is one of the best attractions seen here in many seasons. Ida St. Leon as Polly scores heavily. Earl Ryder as the Rev. John Douglass and Kate Jepson as Mandy, the colored housekeeper, are splendid. Miss St. Leon was presented at the close of the performance by Baron Shibusawa with a large bouquet of white roses. The Japanese Commercial Delegation visiting Spokane were entertained at the Auditorium by the Chamber of Commerce, the opening night. The San Francisco Opera Company in Florodora—Teddy Webb, James Stevens, Mabel Day, the principals—opened to fair house at the Spokane. The Six Glinserretti's, European gymnasts, are a feature on the bill at the Orpheum. Tuscany's Troubadours sing grand opera selections; Valerie Bergere Company in a one-act playlet entitled Billie's First Love; Laura Buckley in a protean monologue, Studies from Life; Joe Jackson, comedy bicyclist; Carlin-Clark, German comedians; Albertus-Altus, a juggling act, and motion pictures conclude the bill. Anna Eva Fay is the star at the Washington this week. Josephine Ainslie, singing comedienne; The Stellings, comedy hat throwers and jugglers; Maddox-Melvin, The Messenger Boy and the Actress; Elsie Crescy Company presenting Fagan's Pupil, and motion pictures. Milton-Dolly Nobles, presenting Why Walker Reformed, is top-liner at Pantages. Others are, The Naples Trio; Sutton-Sutton; Lester-Shannon; Cordua-Maud; Wm. D. Gilson; motion pictures. The following picture houses report good business: Majestic, Empire, Casino, Arcade, Dreamland, Bijou, Dream, Unique, Star. The Spokane Interstate Fair, 20-25, is expected to be better this year than ever. The Traveling Men's Parade will be a feature on the opening day. SMYTH.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 14.—Alexander Pantages, proprietor of the Pantages Theatre here, failed to make an appearance in court today to answer to a suit for $5,000, and unless some action is taken at once judgment in default for that amount will be entered against him. Some time ago the local agent refused to sell tickets to Ulysses G. Holland, colored, and Holland sued for $5,000 damages. Pantages has made no appearance in the case. Mr. Pantages claims that the verdict amounts to nothing as the suit was against him personally and that a corporation owns the theatre.

JOHN MORRISEY and wife leave next Tuesday for an Eastern visit.

The Great Marshall Show

The above troopers are the members of the Great Marshall Show, which just closed a highly successful tour of the San Joaquin Valley in Hanford last Saturday night. Marshall, with his jail-breaking and high diving stunts, manages to create a great deal of excitement wherever the show goes.

Florence Oakley Marries

Seizing time by the forelock, Florence Oakley, formerly leading lady at the Valencia Theatre in San Francisco and now at Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, and Percival C. Pryor, young son of J. H. Pryor, a capitalist of Pasadena, anticipated their wedding plans and were married at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the palatial home on the Sausalito hills of Chas. E. Church, uncle of the bridegroom. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pryor, father and mother of the groom, were present at the ceremony, but Mrs. M. V. Oakley, the bride's mother, knew nothing of the wedding until the return of the party to the Pryor home, 2703 Forrest avenue, Berkeley, that night. No sooner had the wedding supper been served at the Pryor home in that city than Mrs. Pryor and her husband called for their machine and whizzed away to Ye Liberty Theatre, where the bride was given an ovation on her appearance. "It is not true that I am going to give up the stage," said the bride at the Pryor home. "I shall continue my stage career after my vacation and appear again in three weeks as Dorothy Vernon in the play of that name."

and his handcuff work this summer has been the cause of considerable newspaper comment. Marshall is now booking some Northern California time and has a fine line of paper ahead of his show. The Abbotts, song and dance artists; Snook, the magician; Ethlynde Roberts, the soubrette; Eddie Van, cartoonist, and Jake Ernest, the Hebrew impersonator, are with the Marshall Show for the coming season.

Time May be Booked in San Bernardino

Any companies coming as far south as San Bernardino and wanting to make dates for one night stands or for one week, can do so by writing to J. W. Leonard, manager of the Unique Theatre. Seating capacity 1,000 people, 5-piece orchestra and plenty of scenery. The house will hold about 1,400 people and never failed to have a packed house.

Andrews Opera Chairs

General Seating
School—Church—Bank
Office and Steel Rod
Furniture
Purchase direct from
manufacturer
THE A. H. ANDREWS CO.
Pacific Bldg., San Francisco
Chicago, New York, Tacoma

J. B. REIGHLEY Theatrical Hauling

Promptly Attended To
Telephone Market 1601
860 Guerrero Street, Bet. 18th and 19th

Opera, Folding and Assembly Chairs

Full Line
See Samples at 770-776
Mission St.
Bet. 3d and 4th Sts.
SAN FRANCISCO
Whitaker & Ray-
Wiggin Co.

FOR SALE

All Scenery
Drops, Set Pieces
Border Lights
Dimmers
Switch Boards
Chairs
Good Gas Heater, etc.

USED IN THE OLD COLONIAL THEATRE

Everything in First-Class Shape
McAllister Street, Near Market
Enquire—H. H. WHITING,
Office Leavenworth St., Near McAllister
San Francisco

Dates Ahead

A GIRL AT THE HELM (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—St. Louis, Oct. 1-2; E. St. Louis, 3; Jefferson, 4; Columbia, 5; Topeka, 6; Junction City, 7; Concordia, 8; Norton, 9; Denver, 10-16; Victor, 17; Boulder, 18; Greeley, 19; N. Platte, 20; Grand Island, 21; Lincoln, 22-23; Omaha, 24-25; Creston, 26; Des Moines, 27; Grinnell, 28; Cedar Rapids, 29; Iowa City, 30; Clinton, 31.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—San Francisco, Oct. 1-2; Oakland, 3; Sacramento, 4; Stockton, 5; Fresno, 6; Selma, 7; Bakersfield, 8; Santa Barbara, 9; Los Angeles, 10-16; San Diego, 17-18; Riverside, 19; Redlands, 20; San Bernardino, 21; Ogden, 23; Salt Lake, 24-31.

A GIRL AT THE HELM (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Chicago, Sept. 19-25; St. Louis, 26-Oct. 2.

A GIRL AT THE HELM (H. H. Frazee, mgr.)—Portland, Sept. 19-25.

A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI (W. A. Brady, mgr.)—San Francisco, Sept. 20-25.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Portland, Sept. 19-21; Eugene, 22; Red Bluff, 24; Marysville, 25; San Francisco, 26-Oct. 1.

ALCAZAR STOCK—San Francisco.

AS THE SUN WENT DOWN (Arthur C. Aiston.)—Salem, Sept. 20; New Philadelphia, 21; Dayton, 22-25; Cleveland, 27, week.

BLANCHE BATES (David Belasco.)—Los Angeles, Sept. 20 and week; San Diego, 27; Santa Barbara, 28; Bakersfield, 29; Stockton, 30; Sacramento, Oct. 1; San Jose, 2; Oakland, 4 and week; Portland, 11 and week; Seattle, 18 and week; Tacoma, 25-26; Victoria, 27; Vancouver, 28-29; Bellingham, 30; Spokane, Nov. 1-3.

BELASCO STOCK CO.—Los Angeles.

BILLIE BURKE (Chas. Frohman, mgr.)—Colorado Springs, Sept. 20; Cheyenne, 21; Salt Lake, 23-25; Los Angeles, 26-30.

BISHOP'S PLAYERS—In stock, Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland.

CHAUNCEY OLCOTT (Augustus Pitou, mgr.)—Winnipeg, Sept. 20-25; Grand Forks, N. Dak., 27; Fargo, 28; Jamestown, 29.

CHAS. B. HANFORD (F. Lawrence Walker)—Lynchburg, Oct. 4; Roanoke, 5; Richmond, 6-7; Newport News, 8; Norfolk, 9; Petersburg, 11; Raleigh, 12; Winston-Salem, 13; Charlotte, 14; Spartanburg, 15; Greenville, 16; Atlanta, 18-19; Athens, 20; Augusta, 21; Charleston, 22; Savannah, 23.

CLIMAX (J. J. Rosenthal, mgr.)—Oakland, Sept. 19-25; Sacramento, 26-27; Chico, 28; Red Bluff, 29; Medford, 30.

COMMENCEMENT DAYS (John Cort, mgr.)—Vancouver, Sept. 20-21; Victoria, 22; New Westminster, 23; Bellingham, 24; Everett, 25; Seattle, 26-Oct. 2.

DARE DEVIL DAN (W. F. Mann, owner; Robt. J. Riddell, mgr.)—Chicago, Sept. 19-25; Detroit, 26-30.

DUSTIN FARNUM (Liebler & Co., mgrs.)—San Diego, Sept. 19-20; San Bernardino, 21; Redlands, 22; Santa Barbara, 23; Bakersfield, 24-25; Portland, 27-30.

FIFTY MILES FROM BOSTON

(Cohan & Harris, mgrs.)—Seattle, Sept. 19-25; Everett, 26; Tacoma, 27; Eugene, 28; Red Bluff, 29.

EMMET DEVOY (W. G. Smyth, mgr.)—Des Moines, Sept. 20-22; Omaha, 23-24; Denver, 26-30.

GIRL FROM RECTOR'S (Al H. Woods, mgr.)—Sacramento, Sept. 19-20; San Jose, 21-22; Stockton, 23; Fresno, 24; Bakersfield, 25; Los Angeles, 26-30.

HONEYMOON TRAIL (Mort H. Singer, mgr.)—Denver, Sept. 19-25; Victor, 26; Pueblo, 27; Leadville, 28; Grand Junction, 29; Salt Lake City, 30.

GUY SMITH STOCK—Oakland, Cal.

HAROLD NELSON IN PRINCE OTTO—San Francisco, Sept. 13 and week.

IN THE BISHOP'S CARRIAGE (Baker & Castle, mgrs.)—Minneapolis, Sept. 19-25; Des Moines, 26-29; Omaha, 30.

IN OLD KENTUCKY (A. W. Dingwall, mgr.)—Superior, Wis., Sept. 22; Hibbing, Minn., 23; Duluth, 24-25; St. Cloud, 26; Winnipeg, 27-29; Grand Forks, N. Dak., 30.

KING DODO (John Cort, mgr.)—Saginaw, Sept. 19; Bay City, 20; Lansing, 21; Jackson, 22; Battle Creek, 23; Kalamazoo, 24; South Bend, Ind., 25; Kenosha, Wis., 26; Oshkosh, 27; Fond du Lac, 28; Madison, 29; La Crosse, 30.

LITTLE JOHNNY JONES (Chas. L. Crane.)—Columbus, Sept. 20-22; Delaware, 23; Marysville, 24; Bellefontaine, 25; Piqua, 28; Wapakoneta, 29; St. Mary's, 30.

McKENZIE'S MERRY-MAKERS—Marshfield, Sept. 23, 4 weeks.

MOROSCO'S BURBANK STOCK—Los Angeles.

McFADDEN'S FLATS (Barton & Wiswell, mgrs.)—New Braunfels, Sept. 19; Waco, 20; Fort Worth, 21; Dallas, 22; Dennison, 23; Sherman, 24; Gainesville, 25; Wichita Falls, 27; Amarillo, 28; Dalhart, 29; Trinidad, 30.

MRS. LESLIE CARTER (Mrs. Leslie Carter, mgr.)—La Crosse, Sept. 20; Dubuque, 21; Madison, 22; Milwaukee, 23-25; Kansas City, 27-30.

MAX FIGMAN (John Cort, mgr.)—Baton Rouge, Sept. 19; Natchez, 20; Jackson, 21; Vicksburg, 22; Greenville, 23; Memphis, 24-25; Hot Springs, 26; Little Rock, 27; Pine Bluff, 28; Shreveport, 29; Beaumont, 30.

PAID IN FULL—Seattle, Sept. 20 and week; Tacoma, 26-27; Victoria, 28; Vancouver, 29-30; Bellingham, Oct. 1; Everett, 2; Ellensburg, 4; Spokane, 5-6; Missoula, 7; Butte, 8-9; Great Falls, 10; Helena, 11; Bozeman, 12; Livingston, 13; Billings, 14; Dickinson, 15; Bismarck or Jamestown, 17; Fargo, 18.

POLLY OF THE CIRCUS—Butte, Sept. 19-20; Anaconda, 21; Bozeman, 22; Livingston, 23; Billings, 24-25; Denver, 27-Oct. 3.

RICHARD CARLE (Carle & Marks, mgrs.)—Winona, Sept. 21; La Crosse, 23; Madison, 24; Dubuque, 25; Davenport, 26; Clinton, 27; Cedar Rapids, 28; Iowa City, 30.

RAYMOND TEAL—Phoenix till Aug. 16; then Tucson for four weeks.

SOUL KISS (Mittenthal Bros., mgrs.)—New Orleans, Sept. 19-25; Baton Rouge, 26; Natchez, 27.

RICHARDS & PRINGLE'S FAMOUS MINSTRELS (Holland & Filkins.)—Galveston, Sept. 20; Beaumont, 21; Port Arthur, 22; De Ridder, La., 23; Leesville, 24; De Quincy, 25; Lake Charles, 26; Orange, Tex., 27; Conroe, 28; Huntsville, 29; Crockett, 30.

SIS HOPKINS (J. R. Stirling.)—Ann Arbor, Oct. 1; Jackson, 5; Battle Creek, 6; Kalamazoo, 7; Dowagiac, 8; Benton Harbor, 9; Grand Rapids, 10-13; Cadillac, 14; Saginaw, 15; Port Huron, 16; Detroit, 17, week; Milwaukee, 24, week; Waukegan, 31.

SANFORD DODGE—Crawford, Sept. 20; Lander, 22-23; Caspar, 24-25; Douglas, 27 and week.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Eastern), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Milwaukee, Sept. 19-25; St. Paul, 26-Oct. 2.

RINGLING'S CIRCUS—Santa Barbara, Sept. 20; Los Angeles, 21-22; Santa Ana, 24; San Bernardino, 25; Phoenix, 27; Tucson, 28.

THE CAT AND THE FIDDLE (Chas. A. Sellon, mgr.)—Sprague, Sept. 20; Walla Walla, 21; North Yakima, 22; Ellensburg, 23; Tacoma, 24-25; Seattle, 26-Oct. 2.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Portland, Sept. 19-25; Astoria, 26; Salem, 27; Albany, 28; Eugene, 29; Roseburg, 30.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR (Western).—(Brady and Grismer).—St. Louis, Sept. 19-25; Alton, 26; Mexico, 27; Moberly, 28; Hannibal, 29; Keokuk, 30; Brookfield, Oct. 1; Sedalia, 2; Kansas City, 3-9; Fremont, 11; Norfolk, 12; Columbus, 13; Grand Island, 14; Kearney, 15; North Platte, 16; Denver, 17-23.

THE SOUL KISS (Albert Hoogs, bus. mgr.)—New Orleans, Tulane Theatre, week of Sept. 19; Baton Rouge, 26; Jackson, 27; Memphis, 28-30; Little Rock, Oct. 1; Hot Springs, 2; Dallas, 4-5; Fort Worth, 6-7; Waco, 8; San Antonio, 9-10.

THE GOLDEN GIRL (Mort H. Singer, mgr.)—Kansas City, Sept. 19-25; Atchison, 26; St. Joseph, 27; Lincoln, 28-29; Omaha, 30.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Bellingham, Sept. 19; Everett, 20; Chehalis, 22; Portland, 23-25; Corvallis, 27; Chico, 29; Sacramento, 30.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Medford, Oct. 1; Ashland, 2; Dunsmuir, 3; Red Bluff, 4; Chico, 5; Marysville, 6; Woodland, 7; Vallejo, 8; San Jose, 9; San Francisco, 10-16; Oakland, 17; Sacramento, 18; Stockton, 19; Fresno, 20; Selma, 21; Bakersfield, 22; Santa Barbara, 23; Los Angeles, 24-30; San Diego, 31-Nov. 1.

TIME, PLACE AND GIRL (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Monterey, Oct. 1; Santa Barbara, 2; Los Angeles, 3-9; Redlands, 11; San Bernardino, 12; Riverside, 13; San Diego, 14-15; Santa Ana, 16; Bakersfield, 17; Hanford, 18; Visalia, 19; Stockton, 20; Oakland, 21-23; San Francisco, 24-30; San Jose, 31.

THE SUNNY SIDE OF BROADWAY (Boyle Woolfolk, mgr.)—Great Falls, Sept. 19; Helena, 20; Missoula, 21; Wallace, 22; Colfax, 23; Lewiston, 24; Pullman, 25; Spokane, 26-30.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Portland, Sept. 19-25; Astoria, 26; Salem, 27; Albany, 28; Eugene, 29; Roseburg, 30.

GOLDSTEIN & CO.
COSTUMERS for all Pacific Coast Theatres. Goldstein's Hair and Wig Store. Make-Up Play Books Established 1876. Lincoln Building, Market and Fifth Sts.

THREE TWINS (Joseph M. Gartes, mgr.)—Spokane, Sept. 20-23; Butte, 24-25; Helena, 27-30.

TRAVELING SALESMAN (H. B. Harris, mgr.)—Birmingham, Sept. 20-21; Montgomery, 22; Pensacola, 23; Mobile, 24-25; New Orleans, 27-30.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE (H. B. Harris, mgr.)—Rome, Sept. 20; Anniston, 21; Atlanta, 22-23; Biloxi, 24; Gulfport, 25; New Orleans, 27-30.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Eastern), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Milwaukee, Sept. 19-25; St. Paul, 26-30.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (Eastern), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Toledo, 19-25; Louisville, 26-Oct. 2.

THE CLIMAX—Oakland, Sept. 19-25; Sacramento, 26-27; Chico, 28; Red Bluff, 29; Medford, 30; Eugene, Oct. 1; Salem, 2; Portland, 3, week; Seattle, 10, and week; Aberdeen, 17; Olympia, 18; Tacoma, 19-21; Victoria, 22-23; Vancouver, 25-27; Westminster, 28; Bellingham, 29; Everett, 30; South Bend, Nov. 1; Chehalis, 2; Ellensburg, 3; North Yakima, 4; Pendleton, 5; Walla Walla, 6.

WRIGHT LORIMER (W. A. Brady, mgr.)—Billings, Sept. 20-22; Helena, 23-25; Great Falls, 27-28; Butte, 29-30.

In a suit at law in the circuit court of Illinois, Maud M. Stevens, formerly with M. B. Patten, in The Slow Poke, and who now resides in Palmyra, N. Y., received judgment for $500. for injuries claimed to have been sustained two years ago in a railroad accident.

ARTHUR BYRON, who has recently made his first appearance under the management of the Shuberts, by the courtesy of Henry B. Harris, has severed his relations with Mr. Harris to remain permanently under the Shubert direction. Mr. Byron gave up his role with Hedwig Reicher in the Henry B. Harris production of On the Eve.

All Kinds of SCENERY
Painted, built and installed. The only real scenic studio on the coast. Get our prices. For Road or House productions.
Front and Sheridan Sts.
Portland, Oregon

C. F. Weber & Co.
Opera Chairs
All Styles of THEATRE AND HALL SEATS
365-7 Market Street
San Francisco
210-212 N. Main St.
Los Angeles

FRED O. OSBORNE, Manager
Theatrical Code, "Santapole"
Home Phone F 5037

New York Dramatic Agency
Booking
Dramatic and Vaudeville Acts
Organizing and Routing Companies, Supplying "Scripts," Etc.
Belasco Theatre Building, Los Angeles
Entire Third Floor

CHARLES E. ROYAL AND ELLIOTT EDYTHE

IN VAUDEVILLE
Presenting Charles E. Royal's wonderful Burglar Playlet, "STRAIGHTENING A CROOK," and six other excellent playlets.
"Best sketch ever presented at the Empire."—Eureka Times. "Full enough of dramatic and comedy situations to warrant a four-act play."—Eureka Herald. Chas. Royal and Edythe Elliott are finished artists in every sense and present a wonderfully clever act."—Watsonville Pajaronian.
"Working All the Time." "Featured Everywhere."
BERT LEVEY, AGENT.

Wanrell Will Arrange Real Spanish Singing Festival

A feature of Portola week which will attract attention and be strictly in the spirit of the celebration, is the musical entertainment and dance that Senor Joaquin S. Wanrell is preparing for the night of October 21st at Dreamland Pavilion. A chorus of 100 voices is promised, and music has been received by the well-known operatic basso direct from Madrid, which will be sung here for the first time. Spanish folk melodies, hundreds of years old, will be given and national chorales will be sung by the big chorus over the accompaniment of an orchestra of twenty-five instrumentalists. An auxiliary orchestra of guitars, mandolins and other characteristic instruments of Castile will be on hand to render novel numbers, and Wanrell himself will sing such essentially Spanish music as Los Ojos Negros, by Alvarez, as well as traditional songs of the Spaniard. The event promises much interest as showing the musical and social life of the early settlers of California and as a latter-day reflection of the peaceful, quiet California life lived by the real pioneers of the Golden State. Not alone will the entertainment be a musical even of importance. Spanish dances as seen in the old days and as danced in California then and as danced in Spain then and now, will be executed by young and beautiful Spanish dancers. Following the formal program there will be a dance, the music for which will be provided by the stringed instruments popular in Spain and the orchestra. The entire affair, says Senor Wanrell, will be as Spanish as it will be entertaining and lively.

Boston Makes Record in Opera Selling

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—While Director Henry Russell is busy in Europe engaging some of the greatest talent of the lyric stage for his first season of grand opera at the new Boston Opera House, this magnificent, modern playhouse on Huntington avenue is rapidly nearing completion. The enthusiasm of Bostonians over their own opera is great and the management announced last week the unparalleled record of having sold every seat in the orchestra and first five rows of the balcony for the entire season of sixty subscription performances. The boxes are taken up by the most prominent leaders of New England society for three consecutive seasons. The season will begin on Monday, November 8, 1909. Fifteen weeks of opera will be given, the last performance being on Saturday, March 26, 1910. The season will be divided in halves, the first half ending Saturday, January 1. The second half will commence on Monday, February 7.

Fannie Ward arrived in America last week. She will be seen in a new play, as yet unnamed, by Forrest Halsey and Cosmo Hamilton.

STEVE I. SIMMONS

MAXWELL ALEXANDER

Columbia Scenic Studio Co.

Estimates on all Classes of Theatrical Work

Office, 117 Fell St., S. F.

George P. Webster

Stage Director

Ye Liberty Playhouse Stock, Oakland, Cal.

Arthur E. Witting-Mattie Davis

Character Actor

Joint or Single

Character Actress

AT LIBERTY

Address San Diego, Calif., Boundary and Howard Streets.

Doris Wilson

Prima Donna, Kolb and Dill Company

Augustus Phillips

Leading Man

Alcazar Stock—San Francisco

Spotlights

When the first lot of their big productions is under way, Klaw & Erlanger and Joseph Brooks will bring out a play that is destined to attract more than passing attention. It is the first dramatic utilization of the San Francisco earthquake and fire. Against this background Gertrude Andrews has put forth a powerful story called Through a Window. It is a play of the hour in three acts, and will introduce Miss Mary Bertrand, a Western actress of note, in a role that is a departure in stage characterization. Miss Andrews has adroitly woven the tense tragedy of the stirring happenings during the earthquake and fire into a fabric that covers a phase of the graft prosecutions there which takes up a new angle of this highly interesting economic question. The personages of the story typify men and motives that have been very much in the public eye as related to recent history in San Francisco.

Max Figman is carrying a special production of The Old Curiosity Shop, which has been made into a comedy for him by Harry P. Mawson, from Charles Dickens' story of the same name. This play will probably be his offering for his annual engagement in this city, which occurs shortly.

Following is the complete roster of the Sanford Dodge Company: B. S. Ford, manager; R. A. Johnson, advance; A. C. Godfrey, treasurer; Sidney Carton, stage manager; Al Williams, electrician, and Sanford Dodge, George C. Somnes, C. Harry Sleight, L. Andrew Castle, Ralph D. Ormond, James Wentworth, Sidney Carton, Adelle Nickerson, Marion Stuart, Hazel Haslam, Jennie Cleery.

Geo. M. Cohan and his Royal Family began their tour to the Pacific Coast at the Grand Opera House, New York, last week in The Yankee Prince. After a week in Brooklyn the big show will take to its special train and start for the South, Southwest and West. Mr. Cohan's tour will be a gala affair arranged on a scale of magnitude never before attempted by a musical comedy star. There are 110 persons on the payroll.

FRANK OPPERMAN

Supporting Millidge Sherwood in King Lear

JAMES O'REILLY

Characters

Engaged Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

ANITA MURRAY

Ingenue

Broadway Stock, Oakland.

COL. D. P. STONER

Business Manager Newman Foltz Co. Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

THURLOW WHITE

Leads, Heavies

Address, DRAMATIC REVIEW

HERBERT MILTON

Characters and Heavies

At Liberty Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

CHARLES E. GUNN

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

BERT PORTER

Juveniles

Newman-Foltz Co.

MAX WAIZMAN

Newman-Foltz Co.

EDWARD B. LADA

General Music Director for Belasco & Mayer

A. BURT WESNER

Comedian

At Liberty Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

TEDDY WEBB

Comedian, San Francisco Opera Co. Direction Frank Healey

HARRY J. LASK

Representative New York Clipper N. E. Cor. Sansome and Pine Sts.

HARRY MARSHALL

Scenic Artist

At Liberty. 8748 Vermont Ave., Los Angeles

MINOR REED

Scenic Artist

At Liberty Address DRAMATIC REVIEW

CARRIE CLARKE WARDE

Characters

CHESTER STEVENS

Heavies

Grand Opera House Stock, Los Angeles

MARY HARVEY-BARBOUR

Leads (Versatile)

3d Ave. Theatre, Seattle

FREDERICK GILBERT

Burbank Stock, Los Angeles

ARTHUR SHEPPARD

Scenic Artist

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

HOWARD FOSTER

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

IRENE OUTTRIM

Willard Mack Co.—Salt Lake City.

PIETRO SOSSO

Leading Heavy

Chas. King Company, San Diego

MINNIE MAYFIELD

Heavies and Characters

Late of Richard Jose Co. At Liberty. Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

HERMAN HELLER

Musical Director

Valencia Theatre Social engagements filled

DAN KELLY

Comedian

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

FLORENCE DAVENPORT

Ingenue or Soubrette

At Liberty. Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

GEORGIE WOODTHORPE

Characters

Broadway Theatre, Oakland

ALFRED ROWLAND

Supporting Millidge Sherwood in King Lear, Season 1909-10.

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

LAURA LUCILE HEIMLICH

Leads

Everett, Wash.

FRED S. CUTLER

Late Manager for Richard Jose Advance or with company At Liberty Address care DRAMATIC REVIEW

OLGA GRAY

Leads

At Liberty. Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

GEORGE VON BLIX

Stage Manager

Newman-Foltz Co.

Walter H. Newman AND Bertha Foltz

Starring Jointly

High-Class Repertoire

Season 1909 and 1910

Alf. T. Layne    Daisy D'Avra

Del Lawrence Stock, Victoria

Edith Lyle

Ye Liberty Stock, Oakland

Donald Bowles

Dramatic Director Geo. L. Baker's Attractions.
Address Bungalow Theatre, Portland, Oregon.
Loaned by Mr. Baker to direct Mr. James Neill's Company for him in St. Paul, Minn.

Neva West

Care Dramatic Review

Permanent Address, 2110 Post Street

Johnny Williams, Jr.

"FRISCO"

"The Man in Front." Can Book or Wild Cat

Louise Kent

In Vaudeville

Her Own Company

Pantages Circuit

Claire Sinclair

Second Business

Stock

Seattle Theatre, Seattle

E. P. Foot

GENERAL MUSICAL DIRECTOR

At Liberty

Care Grand Opera House

Mina Crolus Gleason

Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland

Louis Morrison

Belasco Stock Co.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Seibert & Lindley

Presenting the headline act, "HER OWN MOTHER," in vaudeville.

Sidney B. Payne

Lyric Stock, Portland, Or.

Sydney Ayres

Leading Man

Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, Cal.

Budd Ross

Comedian

At Liberty

CARE DRAMATIC REVIEW

Al Hallett

Stage Director

Empire Stock, Fresno

F. F. Munier

Characters

Empire Stock, Fresno

Priscilla Knowles

Leads

Bennett Jack

Characters

Lyric Theatre, Portland

Carlton Chase

Leading Man

Kolb and Dill

Evelyn Selbie-Virginia Thornton

Alternating Leads

Frawley Co., Alaska

George B. Baldwin, Jr.

Alcazar Stock, San Francisco

Monroe Salisbury

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

James Austin Gleason—Webster Lucile

Playing Title Role in Checkers

Juveniles in Checkers

Godfrey Matthews

Second Business

Broadway Stock—Oakland, Cal.

Leslie King

Season with E. H. Sothorn
Closed June 17th

Immediately Engaged by
Frederic Thompson for Polly of the Circus
To open June 29th

Scene in act III, A Gentleman from Mississippi

A Gentleman from Mississippi

A newly-elected United States Senator, arriving in Washington with high ideals of the duty a man of his office owes the country, is formally interviewed by a smart newspaper reporter, whose cynicism in the matter of public officials is such that the older man thinks it best to have an adviser. So he makes an offer to engage the young reporter as private secretary. The latter hesitates until he meets the Senator's two beautiful daughters, whereupon he decides that it would be a very good sort of a job, especially as the young women are to remain in Washington with their father. That is the start of A Gentleman from Mississippi, the highly successful comedy to be made known here next Monday night and every evening, including Sunday, with matinees Saturday, in the Van Ness Theatre, by a special cast organized by William A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer, which include the following well known players: James Lackaye, Virginia Pearson, Osborne Searle, Fletcher Harvey, Hal De Forrest, Fred J. Adams, Olive Harper, Edwin A. Sparks, Minette Barrett, H. Bratton Kennedy, J. P. Winter and Adelaide Wise. A Gentleman from Mississippi comes with its reputation already made; while there can be no question of the manner in which it will be played here, inasmuch as the Brady-Grismer companies are noted wherever American plays are acted for the even make-up, the perfect ensemble, and the all-round high quality of their performances. What happens when the young reporter turns secretary to a United States Senator? A great many things. Thus, he teaches the older man how things are done in Washington. The older man is surprised, but he shows his good class by speedily changing the habit of thought acquired in forty years of residence on a Mississippi plantation for the habit of thought of a man of the world, and lets his opponents see that the supposed "good thing" new to Washington, is, in reality, the most determined of fighters. The promise is made by the management that every man and woman engaged in the cast of this comedy has "made good" in his or her role in the course of the long New York City run.

ALBERT McQUARRIE has joined the Elleford company, as has Lois Boltoy.

JOSEPH DE GRASSE is in the East supporting May Stewart.

Bailey and Austin, Cook or Peary

Arctic weather is in sight for some time to come and that a thaw will never melt the feelings of Peary toward Cook is a safe bet. Every day brings forth spleen of contradictions from the alleged heroes of the Frozen North. "It was I," says Dr. Cook. "You're another; I nailed the flag first," says Peary, and so it goes between cables and wireless from the Danish capital and the frozen north, while the scientific minds of Arctic research are all agog trying to determine who is the actual discoverer of that coveted prize, which has baffled the determination and perseverance of the world's greatest explorers for nigh four centuries. Why all this controversy and publicity over a subject which was made known as late as October 10, 1906, when the stars and stripes were planted at the Top O' Th' World by those intrepid explorers, Bailey and Austin, can only be ascribed to their modesty and retiring manner. Bailey and Austin discovered The Top O' Th' World October 10, 1906, or over two years before either Cook or Peary, and located the axis at parallel 89° 9' north, and who spent the entire year in one of the most unique cities ever dreamed of in fiction—the City of Illusia.

BLANCHE HARRIS, leading woman of the Burbank stock in Los Angeles, left last week for a vacation in Honolulu.

The Greatest

Cast of

Singers

Headed by

THOS. H. PERSSE
Tenor

EDITH MASON
Soprano

Now Booking Season 1909 & 10

The Persse-Mason Co.

In the New Operatic Comedy

The Singing Bandits

Book and Music by HERMAN PERLET

THOS. H. PERSSE.....Sole Proprietor
JAMES PILLING.....Manager

Permanent Address: Dramatic Review, Van Ness Theatre Building, San Francisco

Everything
Complete

New Scenery

Excellent
Music

Quartette of Comedians

A

Real Play

Real Company

Headed by ESTHA WILLIAMS

Complete Production

Requiring a 60 ft. baggage car packed from floor to ceiling.

Address

ARTHUR C. AISTON

Sole Owner

Room 304

1505 Broadway

N. Y. City

Tel. 941 Bryant

Season

William Stoermer Presents

09-10

Millidge Sherwood

In a Sumptuous Scenic Revival of

... King Lear ...

Car of Scenery

25 People
Two "Ahead"

Beautifully Costumed

THE SAN FRANCISCO DRAMATIC REVIEW

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Published Continuously Since 1880. The Only Theatrical Publication in the Great West

Ten Cents a Copy—$4.00 a Year

San Francisco, Saturday, September 25, 1909

No. 5—Vol. XXI—New Series

Mariam Meredith

MOROSCO'S
BURBANK THEATRE
Los Angeles, Cal.
"The Best in the West"
The Leading Stock House.

HOME OFFICE
BURBANK THEATRE BUILDING
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Oliver Morosco's Plays
Ready for Stock

The Judge and the Jury

The Halfbreed

The Empress and the Soldier
In South Car'liney

Is the New Majestic a winner? Well, we guess yes

Hamburger's MAJESTIC Theatre
The Handsomest in the West
Cost $300,000.00
Oliver Morosco, Lessee & Mgr
For time address JOHN CORT

Old Curocity Shop as a Play

The era of Charles Dickens' stories dramatized and illustrated for stage purposes, inspired by the coming centennial celebration in 1912 of the great English author's birth, will be commenced on Friday night, September 17, at the Tulane Theatre, in New Orleans, by the eminent comedian, Max Figman, under John Cort's management, who will present for the first time on any stage a new version of The Old Curiosity Shop, made into a comedy by Harry P. Mawson. The dramatist has selected incidents and characters from the story and woven them into a consecutive consistent dramatic whole of a comedy nature, with Richard (Dick) Swiveller as the central figure. Mr. Mawson used the dramatist's license in certain liberties with the theme, but endeavored to adhere as closely as feasible to the author and to retain as much as possible the distinct Dickens atmosphere. The play is produced and staged under the personal direction of Mr. Figman and is divided into four parts. The first occurs at the Old Curiosity Shop, the second at Sampson Brass' office, the third at the Inn of the Three Jolly Sandboys and the last in Richard Swiveller's apartments. The cast of characters will be as follows: Richard Swiveller, Max Figman; Grandfather Trent, Sydney Price; Mr. Garland, George Centre; Daniel Quilp, Hallet Bosworth; Sampson Brass, Ernest C. Warde; Kit Nubbles, J. H. Stuart; Fred Trent, Herbert Denton; Landlord, James Hardy; Codlin, Arthur C. Davis; Trotters, Thomas H. Krueger; Little Nell, Lolita Robertson; Sally Brass, Gladys Fairbanks Murry; Marchioness, Minnie Barrie; Mrs. Quilp, Vera Townsend.

Fannie Ward will open her season in America in a play by Forrest Halsey and Lee Arthur, entitled Van Allen's Wife. H. Reeves Smith has been engaged as her leading man. Miss Ward's London season was a personal success. Her development in her chosen field of endeavor has been sure and most artistic. Van Allen's Wife is a modern play. Its scenes are laid in New York City and on Long Island. The characters depicted are those of men and women of good breeding into whose circle circumstances force a young woman of the best instincts and sterling worth, but a toy of the fates. Her life falls in pleasant paths and happiness comes to her. In the midst of her contentment she again becomes a plaything of the unforeseen and is forced out of the warmth of her husband's home and her child's heart to take up the life of paying the penalty for the misdeeds of others. The company will be carefully selected and the play staged with taste and discretion.

The Orpheum

Edna Aug, the comedienne, will be the headliner of next week's program. She names her offering Types, and it is a series of characterizations, partly serious and partly humorous. It includes her Stupid Scrubwoman, which first brought her into fame at the New York Theatre a few years ago. The Big City Quartette, whom the Eastern critics consider the sweetest singing four in vaudeville, will afford a distinct musical treat, as they only sing the better sort of solos and concerted numbers. They are all excellent vocalists who have individually won recognition. Les Myosotis are premiere or solo dancers. The beauty and grace of these girls has made them famous. They have chosen a varied program, including a grand pas de deux and a beautiful rendition of the Old Vienna Waltz. Henry Clive, a clever entertainer who has won golden opinions in the East, will with the assistance of Mai Sturgis Walker, present an unique and original offering. Mr. Clive makes no claim to being a great magician, but uses sleight of hand for comedy purposes only. Next week will be the last of Tom Waters in his original piano pastime; Spaulding and Riego, Murray and Mack, and of the beautiful dancer, Rosario Guerrero, in the musical pantomime, The Rose and the Dagger.

Alcazar Theatre

One of the Alcazar's most successful offerings last season was Sweet Kitty Bellairs. It ran three consecutive weeks. David Belasco found his inspiration for Sweet Kitty Bellairs, which he describes as "a comedy of the heart," in Edgerton Castle's book, The Bath Comedy. Its scenes are laid at Bath, the British spa, made famous by Beau Brummel, Beau Nash and other foppish celebrities of the Gainsborough period, during the French republican wars. There the heroine, Mistress Kitty Bellairs, a piquant young Irish widow, adored by the officers of the Inniskillings, of which regiment her husband was a shining light, meets her fate in the person of an English baronet, and the play is largely made up of scenes in which she is flouted by envious women and championed by the red-coated soldiers, every man of whom is eager to fight for her. There is the usual happy ending, of course, but it is brought about in a way that surprises. Music is a feature of the play, and to give full justice to the score, composed by William Furst the Alcazar orchestra will be considerably augmented. The production will tax to the utmost the Alcazar's unequaled artistic and mechanical resources.

All the critics agreed that Miss Vaughan never appeared more winsome than as the merry young widow with the sharp tongue and soft heart. As her noble English admirer, Augustus Phillips, will have opportunity for effective acting, and his handsome face and figure will lose no charm by their sartorial setting.

Valencia Theatre

The last performances of Going Some will take place this Saturday afternoon and evening and on Sunday night. Corinne, with a large company in Mlle. Mischief, will begin a two weeks' engagement. This Viennese operetta by Carl M. Ziehrer, book Englished by Sydney Rosenfeld, is said to be better suited to her talents than anything she has ever had. In addition the Shuberts have surrounded her with a company which, if numerically large, has been selected with an eye to individual excellence. Corinne takes the part of a model who is betrothed of an artist, Andre Claire, and in order to win a fortune she accepts a wager that in the guise of a boy she can remain twenty-four hours in the local barracks without detection. As she is at her wit's end to accomplish this, she chances upon a discarded suit of one of Andre's pupils, Freddie Meline, the callow son of a wealthy manufacturer, and, to add to the good fortune, finds his pocket book and papers. Armed with these she presents herself as a recruit and is immediately put through the rigorous discipline of the garrison, being informed that the special regimen of the colonel is baths, hot and cold, and that he is especially severe to those who have been accustomed to the over-indulgence of millionaire parents. Among the players and singers are Albert S. Howson, Charles F. Meyer, Edward W. Cutler, Alfred Wilder, Harry Linkey, Fred Connell, Frank Farrington, Ford LeDoux, Kittie N. Baldwin, Anna Mortland, Dorothy Lamar, Loretta Healy, Bonnie Farley and Louise Brunelle. Matinees of Mlle. Mischief will be given Wednesdays and Saturdays, with reduced prices on Wednesday. George Fawcett in The Great John Ganton will follow Corinne in Mlle. Mischief at the Valencia Theatre.

On the Road Called Santa Fe

Words by E.C. Potter
Music by Chas. T. Atkinson

Dedicated to
Geo. T. Nicholson
Third Vice-President A.T.S.F.R. System

This is the cover of a new song that will interest you. Tear out this page, write your name and address across it and mail to me. I will send the song by return post. IT IS FREE. If you think of going East mention the fact and several interesting illustrated travel books will be included.

JAS. B. DUFFY, GENERAL AGENT, SANTA FE
673 Market Street, San Francisco

Hotel St. James

Cor. Van Ness Ave. and Fulton St.
San Francisco, California

Headquarters for Agents and Managers

Half Block from Van Ness Theatre.
Friars meet at the St. James every Friday night.

F. P. SHANLEY, Manager, formerly of New York

Correspondence

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 20.—Bungalow Theatre (Calvin Heilig, mgr.; William Pangle, resident mgr.): On the second appearance in this city of Eugene Walter's play, Paid in Full, at this theatre, Thursday night, the same big-sized hit recorded on its previous presentation was again indexed up against the production. Louis Morrell is playing the leading role this visit of the play, and leaves nothing to be desired in the part. The play did a good business, and it was followed by Frazee's A Knight for a Day, which opened last night to a fair house. This play is also a repeater, having been at the Heilig last season. Edward Hume is the chief funster of the show, and comes close to monopolizing the same. The company is shy of singers, but, taken as a whole, it gives a very satisfactory entertainment. The Time, the Place and the Girl follows. Baker Theatre (George L. Baker, mgr.; Milton Seaman, business mgr.): One of the best musical shows that has come this way in a long time is The Girl Question, offered at this theatre this week. It opened to two packed houses Sunday, and deservedly so, because it is full value for the money asked. The play was at the Heilig last season, and this year's company is the equal of last season's. In fact, John Kearney, in the chief comedy role, is a great deal better than the party found in that capacity last year. Kearney is just as good a comedian as one can find in musical comedy. The men of the company taken as a whole are good, and if the company falls down at all in strength, it is with the women. However, as Kearney has a role that calls for his appearance almost continually, any deficiency in other ways in the cast is hardly noticeable. Next week, Texas. Star Theatre (Arthur A. Greene, mgr.): Owing to the smallness of the stage, the Shubert attractions have been discontinued at this house, and no more will appear until the middle of the coming month, which is scheduled as the time when the alterations will be completed on the old Heilig house, known in the future as the Portland. Manager Greene informs me that the opening attraction of that house will be Eddie Foy in Mr. Hamlet on Broadway. Meanwhile the Star is being occupied by the McRae Stock Company. They opened yesterday in Mrs. Temple's Telegram, and had big houses. This play has been done here several times before, and he it said to the credit of the present company that their portrayal of the play is favorable in comparison with their predecessors. Margaret Oswald is the leading woman of the company, her work is of the natural order, and was of that character that strikes home at once to the hearts of her audiences. She promises to become a favorite with Portland playgoers. Allen Holuber is the leading man, and Edward Lawrence is the juvenile, and both proved to be clever actors. Bertha Cordray is the ingenue of the company. She is the niece of John Cordray, a well-known local theatrical manager, and since she left this city has made rapid strides in the profession. William Dills is to join the company the coming week. From present indications it looks like the McRae Company have won a place in Portland theatrical affairs. Lyric Theatre (Keating & Flood, mgrs.): good bill is offered at this house this week by the Athlon Company in the racing drama, The Missourians. The play calls for a large cast, and the management have supplied it well, and also given a fine production of the play, and when the size of the Lyric stage is taken into consideration they have done wonders. Robert Athlon is well cast in the lead, and Priscilla Knowles, as his sweetheart, gets all possible out of her role. Sidney Payne gave a fine presentation of the heavy role, while the comedy roles were assigned to Alice Condon, Elmer Potter and Percy Kilbride, all of whom gave satisfaction. The horse race scene could not be improved upon. Orpheum Theatre (James H. Erickson, mgr.)—Edna Aug and Jessie Shirley carried off honors at this theatre the past week, the former in her act entitled Types and the latter in her little drama, The First Woman Governor. Miss Aug is a charming comedienne and has a way about her that is captivating in the extreme. Miss Shirley in her sketch has a splendid opportunity to enact her well known ability in emotional lines. Other acts that made hits were Henry Clive, the jesting juggler; Bay City Quartet and The Walthour Trio. This week's bill includes Mary Norman, Hughes Musical Trio, Eddie G. Ross, James Young, Pilu, Bison City Four and Ed F. Renard. Grand Theatre (Frank Coffinberry, mgr.)—This week's bill includes Hall and Stark Minstrels, The MacGregors, Florence Modena & Co., George Louder, Sharp and Tuerk and Fred Bauer. Pantages Theatre (John Johnson, mgr.)—The acts announced for the ensuing week are Three Demons, Naida & Co., Doric Trio, Sutherland and Curtis, Leo White, Markee Brothers and Justus and Romain. A. W. W.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 20.—The Broadway—Billie Burke and her excellent company were the big attraction in Denver last week and so great was the vogue which the fair Billie left with us in other years that this time the theatre was not large enough to accommodate the demand for seats. The exclusives on various nights bought gallery seats rather than miss the presentation of Love Watches by the prettiest young woman on the American stage. Billie Burke is ripping no matter from whatever angle you begin to measure her. She is beautiful to view, with the flesh and glide of a child, the coquetry of a duBarry, the voice of a wood nymph and the joyousness of a perfect piece of femininity. Her extreme joy in the role she plays is shown in every tone, look, movement, embrace and kiss, the latter of which are in abundance. She exemplifies the joy of living and loving to the utmost and the play is one boundless ripple of delight from beginning to end. The leading man, Vernon Steel, is imported for the work with Miss Burke, and he does it exceedingly well. He is the counterpart of her bubbling character and makes a delightful and Frenchy husband. Ernest Lawford is an ideal dilettante in the role of Ernest Augarde, the literary character, and Kate Meek as the

ANNUAL TOUR OF
THE ELLEFORD COMPANY
IN LATEST DRAMATIC ROYALTY SUCCESSES
Pacific Coast Representative for Brady and Gussner's
MAN OF THE HOUR and WAY DOWN EAST
"A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI"
W. J. ELLEFORD, Sole Proprietor and Director
FRANK WYMAN, Manager
Permanent Address, Francis-Valentine Co., 285-287 13th St., S. F.

worldly wise marquise was the most natural old profligate in petticoats imaginable. In planning the marriage of her fractious niece, who is "Jackie," or Miss Burke, she counsels the girl's uncle to "Oh, let's stop talking of love, we are talking of marriage!" She emphasizes many times the stupidity of a man being caught, or rather found out, in vice. "Don't be found out!" And to the wife, "If you find your husband untrue, make it as hot for him at home as you like, but be correct, don't let any one know he is bad!" Her repeated advice is: "Don't be too good, good people are so stupid!" The French idea of marriage and all its entanglements are well brought out and the innocence of the girl-wife is so refreshing, when Jackie, after finding out the truth of her husband's many love affairs before marriage, plunges in headlong into the same pace for revenge, and after dispatching a letter off to a former admirer of hers, telling him she is coming to him, a few moments later she walks into his bachelor apartment, and pursing up her rosebud mouth, states: "Ernest, I am yours forever and ever! Here, I am all yours!" The rest of the company are splendid, every one a careful player. The Tabor—The week was filled by that romantic writer for school boys and especially school girls, Mary J. Holmes' Lena Rivers. It was not really the soul thriller and cloudburst to many as the novel, for in the dramatization many characters had to be left out. But the lovable ones are all there, dear old Granny Nichols, Nancy, the spinster, and Carrie as spiteful as ever. Emma Bunting played the martyr role of Lena, Cora Wells was a hit as Granny Nichols and Janet Loudon as Carrie was nicely done. The John Livingston in the play portrayed by Harry Taaffe is as much a figure as in the book. Charles Weiniger as Joel Slocum, the clod-hopper, who aspires to Lena's hand, was a big success, while Bessie Davis as Mrs. Graham and Si Condit as the vacillating Harry Graham were acceptably done. Alice McIntyre's portrayal of the New England spinster was a delicious bit of acting. Curtis—There is good old melodrama at the Curtis and the Van Dyke Stock Company is a very capable organization that can do a lot of high class things. A few "thrillers" will be intermingled with the comedy and drama and this past week's offering, The Girl and the Bandit, is a bunch of genuine thrillers. Orpheum—The show at the Orpheum the past week was on the whole worth while. Charlotte Parry was the headliner in her little play, The Comstock Mystery. It falls to Miss Parry to execute several types, which she did to splendid advantage. She gives all the types imaginable, ranging from the adventuress to the murderess and the wronged girl. C. Cathryn Rowe Palmer sings and dances very well. Rogers, the colored ventriloquist, was a surprise, for the best are tiresome generally, but his time was well filled. The Woods Trio do some remarkable feats on wire and bicycle, and Selma Braatz kept the air and audience well agitated with hats, umbrellas, etc. The Marshall, Freeman and Rogers Trio use

New Oxnard Opera House

OXNARD, CAL.

Best stage between Fresno and Los Angeles. Playing all of the best shows that come to the Coast. Doing good business. Write for open time.

GONZALES OPERA HOUSE

GONZALES, CAL.

New, well appointed theatre, electric lighted. Full stock of new scenery. C. H. WIDEMAN, Mgr.

WOODLAND Opera House

WOODLAND, CAL.

Greatest show town for good shows in the West. A few good dates open in September and October. Stage big enough for any production. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

Hill Opera House

PETALUMA, CAL.

JOHN R. ROCHE, Lessee and Manager

The finest theatrical town outside of the big cities in the West. Magnificent new theatre, with stage large enough for any attraction, playing regularly from $500 to $700 a night. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

287 Thirteenth St., S. F.

BARCROFT Opera House, Merced

Entirely remodeled. New stage, big enough for any production. Stage equipped with new scenery. Merced has 4,000 population. For time write F. R. BARCROFT, Manager.

Santa Cruz OPERA HOUSE

Santa Cruz, Cal.

L. A. KNIGHT, Manager

Rental or will play first-class companies on percentage

H. Lewin

H. Oppenheim

GORDAN TAILORING CO.

928 Market St., Bet. Powell and Mason
FINE CLOTHES MODERATE PRICES
No Branch Stores

NEW AUDITORIUM

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CAL.

Seating capacity, 1,000; new stage; new scenery; stage thirty feet deep, sixty feet wide; large enough for any production; a population of 5,000 to draw from; now booking for 1909-10.
Address: WALTER A. CLARK, Mountain View, Cal.

piano, violin and cello and Miss Marshall also sings well. Three Bounding Gordons proved their right to the name. On the whole, a good bill.

EMMA HEREY MEYER.

EL PASO, Sept. 20.—Majestic (Crawford & Rich, mgrs.)—The Majestic company is giving excellent satisfaction and is packing them in nightly. There are some very clever people in this company and they are giving a first rate show. Nan Halperin, the soubrette, is most pleasing, and has the audience with her every minute she is on the stage. Genevieve De Lacour sings in a most charming manner and dresses her part well. Fritz Fields gets away with his comedy work in great shape. W. B. Friedlander never fails to please and is deserving of extended mention. Benton Hinton is satisfactory in his part. The chorus is well drilled and well dressed. Crawford (Crawford & Rich, mgrs.)—Season opens Oct. 3 with North Bros., Comedians. El Paso (Crawford & Rich, mgrs.)—Raymond Teal, Oct. 16-17. GEO. A. MANSFIELD.

Madison's Budget No. 12, Just Out
Parent's Stationery Co., 818 Van Ness Avenue, S.F.

A Gentleman from Mississippi

This is one of the plays that has a purpose. Readers interested in American government and fond of a good exciting play, are advised to see A Gentleman from Mississippi, now being played at the Van Ness Theatre. Of the play, the New York Journal says, editorially: "This is the kind of play that deserves to succeed, and its success is great. The readers of the Evening Journal know, fortunately, something about their own government, and they are interested in that government. This play that we recommend is a truthful picture of government at Washington—a shameful, but accurate picture of Senatorial dishonesty and American "business methods" injected into politics. This "gentleman from Mississippi" is a strange fish in the Senate, for he not only comes there an honest man, but remains honest. And in his case, as sometimes happens on the stage and in real life, we find that honesty in the end triumphs and shames the dishonest. Langdon, the honest junior Senator from Mississippi, delights the crowds that go to A Gentleman From Mississippi, for he reminds them that, after all, there are honest men in the world—even in politics. The writing of this play and its very fine production by William A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer, reflect credit upon the American stage and the theatregoing public in this country. The play is purely American, the characters are all American, the colored men that appear on the stage are actually genuine negroes, not preposterous imitations. The actor who plays the part of Langdon, gives a most admirable impersonation. He is actually the individual that he represents. Some time ago, when Messrs. Brady and Grismer produced The Man of the Hour, this newspaper praised that production and predicted great success for it, editorially, because it dealt energetically with real problems of American life, making the stage what it should be—a teacher and an uplifter. This play, A Gentleman From Mississippi, should be praised for the same reasons. It is an amusing play, full of laughter and sentiment from beginning to end, but it is, above all, an instructive play. It emphasizes the power of truth and honesty, it makes the big audiences think. It is not like so many unworthy plays that merely amuse, and, too often, actually appeal to base emotions. A stage with a purpose is a sign of civilization. The great period in Greece was the period of the great dramatists. The Greek stage reflected national intellect and character, and one single tragedy by Euripides was a great favorite on the Athenian stage for five hundred years—a run worth talking about. "The play's the thing wherein I'll catch the conscience of the King." That was said truly three hundred years ago, when Shakespeare wrote Hamlet. The play's the thing today to catch the conscience of the people, to awaken the people to a keen realization of national truths, national ideals, and, when necessary, of national dishonor. Plays of this kind, let us hope, will be produced more and more frequently and rewarded with ever-growing success. The day will come when capable managers and actors will be ashamed to use their power aimlessly and purposelessly. Comedy pure and simple we shall always have with us, but it will be a comedy with a purpose, the comedy of a Moliere or a Sophocles. We shall always have love stories on the stage, for young people must have their sentimental provender. But these love stories can be woven into plays of serious purpose, as in the case of A Gentleman From Mississippi.

Puccini's New Opera

Henry W. Savage has just received definite announcement from Giacomo Puccini that the opera based on The Girl of the Golden West will not be ready for production this fall as was expected. The manager had hoped to follow up the success of Madame Butterfly as quickly as possible with another of Puccini's melodious compositions, but although the composer has been working night and day, so far he has only completed two acts. Mr. Savage still holds an option on the opera, however, and will produce it as soon as it is available. Puccini has chosen The Child of the West as the title of the new opera which will be in three acts, and will require a larger cast than any of this author's earlier works. While the theme of the opera in the main follows the story of Mr. Belasco's play, Puccini has introduced a religious element, and in place of the schoolroom scene in the play will be a Bible class in the opera.

EDWARD MURPHY closes with the Selig Polyscope people in Los Angeles and joins the Gorton stock at Long Beach to play second business.

CHAS. F. THOMPSON SCENIC CO.

MAIN OFFICE AND STUDIOS, 460, 462, 464 WITMER STREET, LOS ANGELES

THE FINEST, LARGEST AND MOST MODERN SCENIC STUDIOS IN THE WORLD. SCENERY FOR OPERA HOUSES AND PRODUCTIONS. DROP CURTAINS AND SCENIC ADVERTISING DROP CURTAINS OUR SPECIALTY. IN USE IN 1268 THEATRES IN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA. WHY NOT YOURS?

Personals

ELSIE ESMOND, well remembered on the Pacific for her clever work in ingenue roles, is prominent in the cast presenting The Dollar Mark at Wallack's, New York. She plays the part of Alice Chandler.

THE marriage engagement is announced in London of Auriol Lee, the actress, and Major M. Melloy Kennard, who served with distinction in the South African war. Miss Lee will remain on the stage.

MRS. HENRIETTA CHANFRAU, once a celebrated actress, died at her home in Burlington, N. J., last Wednesday, aged 79. Mrs. Chanfrau played Ophelia to the Hamlet of Edwin Booth during his famous run in New York. She was Portia, wife of Brutus, in the noted production of Julius Caesar, in which the three brothers, Edwin, Junius and John Wilkes Booth, appeared together. For some years she was with Forrest and later with the elder Davenport, Wallack, Fachter and William Warren. While lessee and manager of the old Varieties Theatre

LEVY'S BIG TRUNK STORE

INCORPORATED

COAST AGENTS

FOR THE

Taylor Trunks

687 Market St., S. F. opp. Kearny Phone Douglas 3192 GENERAL REPAIRING

in New Orleans in the early seventies, she "discovered" Mary Anderson, then playing Julia in The Hunchback in an obscure playhouse and introduced her to the public. Frank S. Chanfrau, her husband, died in 1885.

Wanted

Repertoire people at once. Good all around actor to direct stage. Juvenile man, juvenile lady and others. Ghost walks every week and business is good. Season booked solid.

GEO. W. LOWE

Lewiston, Idaho.

The Garrick

San Diego's Leading Playhouse
San Diego, California

D. C. COLLIER, Proprietor
WYATT & DODGE, Managers

Novelty Theatre, San Francisco TO RENT

By the day, week or month. Fine, comfortable theatre, seating 1,200 people.
Large stage.
SPECIALLY ADAPTED TO POLITICAL MEETINGS

Overland Limited

Crosses

High Sierra—Great Salt Lake

By Daylight

CHICAGO IN THREE DAYS

Electric lighted—Fast Flying Cross-country Train—Luxuriously Equipped.
Pullman Drawing Room, Stateroom, Vestibuled Sleeping Cars.

Careful and attentive dining service. Parlor Observation Car with Library and Cafe, Ladies' Reading Room, Gentlemen's Smoking Room.

Daily News Bulletins, Latest Papers and Magazines.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC

Los Angeles is Witnessing Dick Ferris's Advent Into the Real Estate Business

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 23.—We have a new leading woman and a new ingenue in our midst this week and that is about all that is new locally. Lillian Burkhart is making her debut at the Burbank Theatre and she is a decided success. She has been seen here before so is not an entire stranger to us. Florence Rittenhouse, as the ingenue of the Belasco company, is also a success. She makes her first appearance as Phyllis Stafford in Classmates. Both of these young women are valuable additions to their respective companies.

Robert Morris, former stage director of the Burbank Theatre, was on his way to his home in this city for a vacation when he stopped in Minneapolis. While there he decided to engage in a theatrical enterprise with James Neill at one of the theatres in Minneapolis and has deferred his vacation. His wife Elsie Esmond, is playing Alice Chandler in The Dollar Mark at Wallack's in New York. Ernest Van Pelt, a local theatrical man, has rejoined the Kolb and Dill forces and is in the cast of The Politicians. Louis Morrison is on his way to New York, having closed his engagement with the Belasco company Sunday night. Our friend Dick Ferris has gone into the real estate business in real earnest. In a short time he will place on the local market a new sub-division that will be known as the Dick Ferris tract. It is his intention to erect a number of bungalows. Allen Curtis, late of the Fischer company, has leased the Walker Theatre, and the policy of the house will be changed. October 1st it will be opened as a musical comedy house and Mr. Curtis promises us some rare treats in the way of some of the Eastern successes. Manager Morosco has engaged Maude Beatty to play the fashionable English dressmaker in Lady Frederick, which will be produced on the stage of the Burbank Theatre next week. May Boley, late of the Princess company, is singing and dancing at the American Music Hall, Chicago. Joseph Montrose, C. William Kolb, Max Dill, Sydney de Gray and "Bud" Duncan have arranged to settle a long standing dispute this week when they will swim a match race from the Ocean Park pier to the pier at Venice, a distance of one mile. The man who finishes last or who does not finish at all will buy a dinner for the victors. Oliver Morosco is trying his hand at scene creation these days and has just finished the preliminary sketches of the first two acts of Julian Johnson's new play, Invasion, to be produced at the Burbank soon. The Belasco company will be seen next week in a big production of David Belasco's Du Barry. Howard Scott returns from his six weeks' vacation and will be cast as Jean Du Barry. This is the final week of the Kolb and Dill engagement at the Majestic Theatre. After they leave here they go on the road for two weeks. They go to the Princess Theatre, San Francisco, for an extended run, opening Oct. 4. Later they will produce there a musical comedy by the late Judson C. Brusie, called In Cuba. Charlie Clarke, the business manager of the Grand, is spending his vacation at Catalina. He has taken his rod with him and expects to return with the coveted gold button that all good fishermen are after.

BELASCO—Classmates, Robert Edeson's last year's vehicle, is being offered at the Belasco this week. This play has to do with military life at West Point, the training of the American youth for military service and the love of two men for a girl, with the natural consequences. The Edeson role affords Lewis Stone, as Duncan Irving, cadet from North Carolina, excellent opportunities for effective and forceful acting. Mr. Stone is not slow to grasp these opportunities, and he gives a very clever portrayal of the part. Frank Camp is proving himself a sterling actor in the part of Bert Stafford. Mr. Vivian, as Bubby Dumble, and James Guy Usher as Silent Clay both do exceptionally fine work. Florence Rittenhouse makes her first appearance with the company as Phyllis Stafford. She is a very charming young person and plays her role acceptably. Thais Magrane, as Sylvia Randolph, is charmingly sweet and she rises splendidly to the climax of the second act in her scene with Mr. Stone. Ida Lewis is cast as Mrs. Stafford. The scenic artist, Robert Brunton, is to be commended for his work in the jungle scene in the third act. It is certainly a very wonderful piece of work. The Belasco presentation of this play is far ahead of the road production in every way, and each one in the cast does his part as well as it is possible to be done. The make-up of Messrs. Stone, Vivian, Camp and Giblyn in the third act is worthy of special mention.

AUDITORIUM—The Witching Hour and John Mason continue to draw large houses at the Auditorium for the second week.

MAJESTIC—For the final week of their engagement, Kolb and Dill give their best bill, The Politicians. This play has been given so recently that we are all familiar with it. For the most part, the company is the same as when the play was first produced at this theatre. Those prominent in the cast, besides Messrs. Kolb and Dill, are Percy Bronson, Sidney de Grey, Carlton Chase, Albert Duncan, Olga Stech and Maybelle Baker. The songs are tuneful and catchy and the work of the chorus very fine.

GRAND—Across the Dividé, J. R. Sterling's melodrama, is the offering of the company at the Grand for the current week. The plot traces the machinations of a designing partner from New York City across the divide into the Widow Schmidt's cabin, where the victim of his wiles recovers from his experiences and assists in several scenes of a humorous nature. The conclusion, which sets things to rights, is laid in New York. The story is well told and the acting is good all the way through. Grace Rauworth is "Sunshine," a grown-up camp child. Miss Hayward appears in a somewhat mature role and Miss Claire is seen in a comedy part. Harry Oaks, Edward Vivian, Mr. Webb and Mr. Leonard are all well cast. Harry Earl repeats his familiar caricature of a certain English type. The stage effects are good and the whole performance is one of the best seen at this house.

ORPHEUM—This week's bill is headed by Joseph Hart's Bathing Girls, which is well staged; well costumed, and moves briskly. There are a number of well-painted scenes as a background for some very good looking girls. Glenwood White, very much English, has some patter songs. George Auger is a very "large" factor in a skit called Jack the Giant Killer. As Mr. Auger tops eight feet by several inches, he substantiates the statement that he is the tallest actor on earth. Ernest Pommel as Jack is as diminutive as Mr. Auger is huge. There are several other little and big personages in this sketch. George Carson and Jack Willard present a capital sketch, The Dutch in Egypt, somewhat in need of the blue pencil. The Thalia Quartet, typical English group of singers, appear in one of the best musical stunts offered of late. Clever Mendell Kingston and John World, equally clever Wilber Mack and Nella Walker, the talented Herr Rubens and the sensationally picturesque Curzon Sisters are the holdovers, followed by the usual motion pictures.

LOS ANGELES Prof. Roberts' trained dogs, cats and white rats offer a very good number on the bill at the Los Angeles Theatre this week. The act is surely novel, but it is also clever. Another very good number is furnished by Defrey, the Venetian violinist. His rendering of Annie Laurie, the Lucia sextet and The Rosary is excellent. Hildreth and Robertson appear in a sketch called A Four-Leaved Clover. A living statuary act is presented by Stanley, Edwards & Co. The poses are well taken and heroically maintained. Tom McGuire appears on the bill in A Bit of Scotch. Eddie Girard is no stranger here, but he is still a favorite and his reappearance with Jessie Gardner is well received. They are seen in a skit entitled Dooley and the Diamond. One roll of picture films is shown.

FISCHER'S—Allen Curtis is the paternal misogynist at Fischer's this week. Needless to say he is a voracious Hebrew. The sketch is called The Frolics of 1909, and the idea similar to that of an act in which Nat Carr formerly appeared. It wears well and Curtis' handling of the principal role is excellent. The chorus numbers are well done, and the costuming pretty. Miss Baumann is seen as leading woman during the illness of Jean Hathaway.

UNIQUE—The bill at the Unique this week is made up of one new vaudeville act, one holdover and a new comedy by the Unique players. Abdallah and Nichols style themselves Arabian acrobats and their work is excellently done. Kelly and Violette, who are holdovers from last week, are still favorites. The comedy by the Unique players is well given. Al Franks has the title role of The Married Bachelor, and he gets many laughs out of the part. The other members of the company are well cast and assist Mr. Franks in an able manner. The song numbers interpolated during the piece are well received.

FLORENCE EMER

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 23.—The Clunie was filled on the 11th when Paid In Full was given before a pleased audience. The Girl from Rector's drew fair houses, 19-20. Dustin Farnum in Cameo Kirby comes to the Clunie 25. The Climax, 26-27. The Time, the Place and the Girl, 30. Grand Theatre—Week commencing Sept. 19: The Three Rohrs, looping the loop in a revolving globe; George Edward Murphy and Walt Whitman, assisted by Florence Bates Horsfall, in A Prodigal Girl; Vere de Bassina, operatic prima donna and human violin; William Mitchell and John J. Cain, the Frenchman and the Other Fellow; Wood Brothers, those famous Irish athletes in their double flying rings; Clarence Sisters, the Australian nuggets. Pantages, week starting Sunday, Sept. 19. Ed Blondell and company, presenting The Lost Boy; the Spiller Musical Bumpers, original rag-time musical artists; Geo. Yeomans, just a German jester; Irene Lee and the Kandy Kid, singing and dancing; Dorothy Lamb and company, A Night With the Red Men; Ernest Brinckman, character singer; Pantages motograph.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Sept. 20.—At the Opera House (Mrs. M. L. Kiplinger, mgr.): 21, Cameo Kirby was presented to a good house. Dustin Farnum in the title role depicted the old-time polished gambler to a nicety. McKee Rankin as Larkin Bunce evinced to a marked degree that commendable quality of the actor of losing his own identity in the portrayal of the part. May Buckley as Adele Randall makes the most of a part in which suppressed emotion is the chief characteristic. The play is exceptionally well staged and cast throughout. The Time, the Place and the Girl, Oct. 12; in the near future, Honeymoon Trail, The Gentleman from Mississippi and A Knight for a Day. J. E. RICH.

MARYSVILLE, Sept. 19.—Friday evening the Ellefords scored a great hit in The Flag of Truce. The entire cast was fine, the house was filled and to an appreciative audience. The specialties by the Gordon children were the best in the line ever seen here. Saturday afternoon Cinderella was played to a packed house and greatly enjoyed by the young folks. Saturday night Beacon Lights filled the bill, which was highly enjoyed. Sunday night, by request, Flag of Truce was repeated with same success. The Ellefords always have a soft spot in the heart of the Marysville theatregoers.

THOMAS W. HEFRON is understudy to Robert Hilliard in A Fool There Was, and is also intrusted with the stage management.

Charles King

ANNOUNCES

Marjory Rambeau & Company

At the PICKWICK THEATRE, San Diego, for an indefinite season

Producing Only Royalty Plays

Correspondence

SEATTLE, Sept. 20.—Moore Theatre—Paid In Full is back at the Moore Theatre, and drew a large and enthusiastic audience last night. The interest in this much-discussed play has not abated. The company presenting it this season is extremely good. Alhambra Theatre—Corinne in Mlle. Mischief will close her engagement next Thursday night. It is doubtful if a more charming Rosette could be found than Corinne, and the company surrounding her is composed of a number of good singers and dancers. Grand Theatre—The Grand is securing large audiences this week to view Geo. M. Cohan's Fifty Miles from Boston, which is as good as ever. Every member of the cast scored an individual triumph last night. Seattle Theatre—Queen of the White Slaves is the bill at the Seattle and Dick French has given it an exceedingly effective staging. The company has also been enlarged in order to adequately present this sensational play. Lois Theatre—Seattle has at last a first-class stock organization which is capable of big acting. The Lawrence stock company are giving a presentation of The Heart of Maryland at the Lois this week that is up to the standard demanded by this great war play. Special mention must be made of the scenic production. Majestic Theatre—Anna Eva Fay, the White Mahatma, is in the city and opened a special featured engagement of one week at the Majestic Theatre this week. On the bill with her will be the Stellings, European novelty hat throwers; Elsie Crescy, in Fagin's Pupil; Josephine Ainslie, the singing comedienne; Maddox and Melvin in The Messenger Boy and the Actress. The Orpheum presents Valerie Bergere in her little playlet, Billie's First Love; the Tuscany Troubadours, a sextet of singers, who furnish a rare bit of grand and popular opera; the Six Glinserettis, European novelty gymnasts, who come here direct from Vienna. Carlin and Clark are German comedians with a "dialect" that is rich and rare. Joe Jackson is a unique bicyclist. Laura Buckley has an entirely new departure in vaudeville, a Protean monologue. She appears in three character sketches and makes up in full view of the audience. Sam Alburts and James Altos are juggling eccentrics who come direct from Europe with several new tricks and some good laughs. Pantages Theatre—The special feature is Franz's twenty-five Hungarian hussars. Besides, there are such great headline acts as Milton and Dolly Nobles and Cordua and Maud. The Nobles present their famous sketch, Why Walker Reformed. Mr. Nobles is one of the greatest actors and one of the leading playwrights of the country. Cordua and Maud are Europe's most sensational equilibrists.

E. Morgenstern.

TACOMA, Sept. 18.—Tacoma Theatre—A Knight for a Day, Sept. 11, repeated its last season's success. Edward Hume, who scored such a hit in The Flower of the Ranch, furnished the fun in this offering and pleased all. Grace De Mar also contributed to the success of the production. 12-13—That enjoyable musical show, The Time, the Place and the Girl, paid its third visit to Tacoma and was as popular as ever, many of the company having appeared here before in the piece. John E. Young and Elizabeth Goodall are replaced by Robert Pitkin and Elizabeth Thomas, who acquitted themselves creditably in every way. All the song hits were well rendered and the company an altogether satisfactory one. Sept. 24-25—The Cat and the Fiddle. 26—Paid In Full. The International Grand Opera Company will appear at the Tacoma Sept. 28-29. The artists' course of musical attractions opens at this house in October with the appearance of Mme. Jeanne Jomelli, operatic soprano. Other attractions to follow are Mme. Schumann-Heink, Sembrich, Fritz Kreisler, George Hamlin and Teresa Carreno. The Hall and Stark Minstrels made a big hit this week and divided honors with the Five Merry McGregors. Florence Modena and Charles Gardner furnished comedy in an amusing sketch and vocal numbers were furnished by Flo Patterson, likewise Sharp and Turk, who added to their act some clever dancing. An exciting cycling act by the Three Demons at the Pantages possessed the virtue of originality. The Doric Trio, old favorites here, are always well received. Miss Mabel Martin of the Martin and Maher team was a hit here. The scenic production by Naida and company, with brilliant lighting effects, was a pretty one. Some clever toe dancing was introduced. Markel Brothers were good in imitations and the Justin Romain company pleased lovers of melodrama. The managers of the Grand and Pantages last week announced the strengthening of the bills at their houses, and the excellence of the week's offerings confirmed their statements. A. H.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 20, 1909.—The Salt Lake (Geo. D. Pyper, mgr.): Charles Frohman will present Billie Burke here in Love Watches. This is looked forward to with great interest by Salt Lake people. The Colonial (R. A. Grant, mgr.): Texas was presented here last week to fairly large audiences. This week the Arlington players will give the College Widow. John Ince, leading man, will portray the part of Billie Bolton, and Bertha Creighton will take the part of Jane Witherspoon. The Bungalow: Alfred R. Swenson and company will open with the farce-comedy, Hello Bill. Mr. Swenson will be seen in the part of William Fuller. The Grand (A. B. Swenson mgr.): The Willard Mack Stock Co. presented Soldiers of Fortune. The cast was good, but did not play to very large houses. This week there will be a different story, as the company is going to present The Girl of the Golden West, with Mr. Mack as Ramirez, and Miss Douglas as The Girl. This is the second time Mr. Mack has presented this play in this city. It was well received the first time, and judging from the way people are attending the play so far this week, he will make another big hit. The Orpheum (H. Sonnenberg, resident mgr.): Was about as good as ever last week. Beth Stone did fine as a toe dancer; Herbert and Willing were good as burnt cork comedians; Sam Watson's farmyard circus seemed to make quite a hit. Next week the bill will include Margaret Fealey & Co.,

The Hotel Dale

ON THE RIALTO—HOME OF THE PROFESSION—SPECIAL RATES
Only First-Class European Hotel close to The Garrick, Princess, Novelty,
National, Alcazar, or Pantages—SAN FRANCISCO
SPECIAL—We make a feature of Breakfasts Served in Rooms
COR. GOLDEN GATE AVE. AND FILLMORE ST.
Take McAllister Street and Turk and Eddy Street Cars at the Ferry

in a one-act play entitled Witches' Hour and Candle Light; Bob Matthews and Herbert Ashley in their laughing sketch, Held Up; the Six American Dancers; Frank Conroy; Geo. LeMaire & Co. present A King for a Night; the Girl Behind the Veil; Chas. D. Webber, the juggler, and Master Willie Stafford, a Salt Lake boy who is a good mandolin player.

R. HARBACH.

LONG BEACH, Sept. 23.—Bentley Grand (L. H. Bentley, prop.; Perry Girton, mgr.)—The Girton stock last week presented Faust in a very creditable manner. The excellent display surpassed anything yet seen in this city. Richard Scott as Mephisto did excellent work. Some clever acting was done by Corbett Morris as Faust, and Chester Stevens as Valuntine, Iva Shepard as Marguerite gave us a treat with their artistic work. Business good. Bye-a-Wyle (Frank Clark, lessee and mgr.)—Good vaudeville to good business. Lundquist.

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 22.—Garrick (J. M. Dodge, mgr.)—Sept. 19-20 Dustin Farnum in Cameo Kirby played to two large and very appreciative audiences. Farnum in the title part gave a very artistic interpretation, but the bright, particular star of the piece was McKee Rankin as Larkin Bunce. May Buckley in the role of Adele Randall charmed her auditors with her soft, delightful Southern dialect. Sept. 27—Blanche Bates in The Fighting Hope. Oct. 3-4—The Girls from Rector's. The Gentleman from Mississippi follows. Pickwick (Scott A. Palmer, mgr.)—For the farewell week of the Jas. Post musical comedy company, one of the best comedies of the engagement is being given. A Striking Resemblance is the title of the comedy. It is patterned after Johnny and Emma Rays' well known A Hot Old Time. Post in the part of Larry Mooney has the audience laughing from the rise to the fall of the curtain. Millar Bacon in the part of Percy Lovejoy, in love with the farmer's daughter, has a good part and gives an excellent interpretation. May Ashley as the farmer's daughter pleases. Millar Bacon sings I Could Learn to Love You if You Would Only Let Me Try, in an admirable manner. Juliet Mahr scored with Hoodoo Tree. From here Post goes to Vallejo for a lengthy engagement. Next week Manager Palmer will inaugurate a season of high class dramatic stock, with the Charles King stock company. The company will open with Merely Mary Ann. The company is composed of such well known people as Louis Morrison, who will stage the plays, Pietro Soso, Frank Bonner, Louis Lytton, J. F. McDonald, Harry Willard, James Carley, Eleanor Crawford, Auda Due, Lillian Burnett, Elaine Davis, Mr. King and Miss Rambeau, who will play leads. Mr. King will alternate leads with Pietro Soso. Week beginning Oct. 4—The Heir to the Hoorah. Queen (E. J. Donnelan, mgr.)—Manager Donnelan has a well diversified bill this week. Frank Bacon and company open the show with their sketch, An Easy Liar. This sketch is a scream from start to finish and is very well acted. Harry Taylor is down on the program as a song writer, monologist and yodler. If he is all of these his act certainly didn't show it. Princess Waldemaroff sings a little, dances and plays the xylophone all in a very clever way. She is a lively, likable little lady, and her act was one of the most enjoyable on the bill. Gruet and Gruet appear in a blackface act. While their patter is not new by any means, they got away with it, and from the volume of applause they received at the close of their act they more than made good. Motion pictures conclude a good show that is playing to excellent business. Grand (Fred Ballien, mgr.)—The Grand has a good show, which is composed of the following: The Two Joers in The Professor and the Newsgirl head the bill and have a good act. George T. Morey, the man who makes the banjo talk, has the regular banjo act. The Hill Sisters have a new illustrated song. Motion pictures conclude. Empire, Bijou and Union, with motion pictures and illustrated songs, are doing a very good business. Ringling Brothers, under canvas, 23. The managers of the San Diego theatres have formed an association. The object of the association is to promote a general feeling of good fellowship between the managers of the different local theatres. The association is purely a local one, not having any affiliation with a State or interstate organization. J. M. Dodge, manager of the Garrick, was elected president; Scott Palmer, manager of the Pickwick, was elected vice-president; Fred Ballien, of the Grand, secretary; and J. N. Donnelan, of the Queen, treasurer. Len. Behmeyer, of Shubert fame in Los Angeles, was a visitor in the city last week. He stated he didn't think it would be long before the Shuberts were in San Diego.

Archie St. Peter, the well known mining man, real estate owner and devotee of athletics, has embarked in the theatrical business. His many friends will be surprised to learn that he has purchased the Bijou, located on the east side of Fourth street, between D and E streets. Mr. St. Peter bought the house from A. M. Lory. It was opened some years ago by George Rehn, who will be well remembered as a member of the old Pickwick stock company. He disposed of the house to Mr. Lowry. "Montana Kid," the well known prize fighter, is to manage the house. His wife will act as cashier. It is the intention of the management to add to the popularity of the Bijou by adding illustrated songs to be brought here from Los Angeles. At intervals vaudeville acts will be used.

Mme. Wanda, the dog trainer, was operated on early this week for a tumor. She is in a very serious state.

Correspondence

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—G. B. Shaw's Arms and the Man furnished the skeleton for The Chocolate Soldier, which was sung last week at the Lyric Theatre. Oscar Strauss, one of the composers to contribute most to the new vogue of Viennese operetta, supplied the musical illustration to the libretto that Bernauer and Jacobson drew from the satirical comedy of war and heroism. It was Strauss who gave us The Waltz Dream, which fared ill at the hands of the company that introduced it here. The precipitate arrival of the Swiss mercenary in the bed chamber of the Bulgarian general's daughter and the result of his cordial reception provided a sufficiently amusing intrigue. There is abundant entertainment in the operetta. Arms and the Man had its own element of opera bouffe so only its serious phases were available to the librettists. The performers acted better than they sang. Ida Brooks Hunt, who was the Bulgarian heroine, has a good voice for operetta and used it with signs of a musical conscience. Her two assistants, Edith Bradford and Flavia Arcaro, did well with minor roles. J. E. Gardner, who had to act the title role before an audience with memories as to the manner in which this part has been played here, had a difficult task. But he satisfied the audience by his acting much more thoroughly than by his singing. Whereas Miss Brooks did all of the singing for the women. The male solo work was somewhat equally divided among Gardner, George Tallman and William Pruette, while our old Tivoli friend, Henry Norman, had more of an acting than a singing part. The Chocolate Soldier was originally called ironically The Bold Soldier, in Vienna, but in Americanizing it Stanislaus Stange saw fit to change the title as well as some of its dialogue. It remains to be seen to what extent the public takes to a rather new form of operetta. The beauty and charm of Lillian Russell, which seem to be perennial, have been put to some pretty difficult tests in the past and have carried plays without much vitality through more or less successful seasons. The comedienne appeared for the first time in a new play by Edmund Day called The Widow's Might at the Liberty Theatre last week. The play is billed as a comedy. Sentiment and melodrama are about evenly proportioned. Much of the complication of the plot is accomplished by eavesdropping and by taking papers off desks when the owners are out of the room, and the denouement is brought about in a like manner. The wicked uncle comes to the office of the man he has ruined to gloat over his downfall, and the widow, listening behind a half-opened door, hears him betray himself. Whereupon she accuses him. He flourishes the power of attorney in his hands and dares her to do her worst. A young boy friend seizes the power of attorney and hands it on to the widow, who tears it in shreds. Whereupon the uncle is turned from the door. As he leaves he hisses, "Sentimental idiots!" The two situations which seemed to achieve the most success were those at the ends of the last two acts. Every man in the play proposes to the widow in the second act, which bores her, and when the nephew of Wall comes to ask her for the hand of her sister, she pretends to understand that he wishes her own hand, and accepts him in the presence of everybody as the curtain falls. In the last act there is much exciting business with the ticker when stocks are going up, after the widow starts backing her friends. Miss Russell's beauty is as potent an attraction as ever. Susanne Westford had some of the clever lines in the play and scored a great success as Mrs. Puffer. * * * Col. Henry W. Savage made the first production in America at the Lyceum Theatre, Rochester, of Madame X. Dorothy Donnelly acted the title role, with Robert Drouet, William Elliott, R. Patton Gibbs, W. H. Denny, Celia Kern and James E. Wilson had important parts. The costumes and scenery were elaborate. Madame X is an adaptation into English by John Raphael and W. H. Wright of Alexandre Bisson's emotional drama La Femme X, presented in Paris by Jane Hading, and more recently by Lena Ashwell. The English version preserves as closely as possible the original French spirit and "atmosphere," the locale of the scenes and the types of characters being unchanged. Madame X is so called because she completely hides her identity when brought to trial for the killing of her companion in a Bordeaux hotel. She is actually the wife of Louis Floriot, a distinguished jurist, but for twenty years has been a wanderer in the gutters of the world. Though a hopeless victim of the ether habit, she retains one great virtue—love for the son she left when, a score of years before, she ran away from her home with a sweetheart. She kills her rascally male companion, one Laroque, to prevent him from blackmailing her son, Laroque having accidentally discovered her history. At the trial she discovers her husband on the bench, as a guest of the presiding judge, and also finds that her son, Raymond, is the attorney appointed by the court to defend her. Raymond does not know his mother, but he divines that the prisoner has been brought to her present sorrowful position through some man's wrongdoing, and unwittingly hits upon another truth—that had mercy been shown the erring woman in time she would have been saved. Raymond's appeal to the jury brings her acquittal, and there follows the real climax of the play—the reunion of mother and boy. * * * On the Eve, a tragedy of Russian revolutionary strife, was presented in New Haven last Monday evening for the first time in the English language by Henry P. Harris' company. The piece was written in German by Leopold Kampf, and the English revision is by Martha Morton. Traditional military horrors are portrayed in the play. Hedwig Reichner, a German actress, made her first appearance in an English-speaking role, while Harry Davenport, Frederick Lewis and Frank Keenan acted important roles. * * * The roster of the New Theatre company, as announced officially, includes the following players, none of whom, it is expressly stated, is to be known as a star: Edward H. Sothorn, Charles Cartwright, A. E. Anson, Albert Bruning, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Henry Stanford, Ben Johnson, Rowland Buckstone, William McVey, Charles Balsar, Jacob Wendell, Jr., Pedro de Cordoba, Master John Tansey, Julia Marlowe, Rosé Coghlan, Olive Wyndham, Jessie Busley, Mrs. Sol Smith, Beatrice Forbes-Robertson, Beverly Sitgreaves, Thais Lawton, Leah Bateman-Hunter and Vida Sutton. There will also be a cast of singers for opera

Garrick Theatre One Week Commencing SUNDAY Sept. 26

H. H. FRAZEE'S New Musical Furore

A Knight for a Day

Book and Lyrics by ROBERT B. SMITH
Music by RAYMOND HUBBELLAuthors of
"FANTANA"
And
"MEXICANA"

Dainty Music

Effective Grouping

and Charming Features

With Edward Hume
and
Grace De MarFORREST CLEVELAND
FRANK IRESON
EDWARD LYNCH
FRANK CAMERON
FLORENCE LAPEN
AGNES CONSULINE
ISABELLE WINLOCKE

The "Ten English Dancing Mad-Caps"

The Famous American Beauty Chorus

A Score of Song Hits and Choruses

SCENICALLY, MUSICALLY and ELECTRICALLY
: : : : UNEQUALLED : : : :

VALENCIA THEATRE

Two Weeks, starting Sunday, September 26th

SAM S. AND LEE SHUBERT (INC.)

Offer the Effervescent Musical Comedy Star

CORINNE

In the New York Lyric Theatre Success

M'lle Mischief

Music by Carl M. Ziehrer; Book by Kraatz and Von Sterr; American Adaptation by Sydney Rosenfeld

AUDITORIUM THEATRE

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Two Weeks, starting Monday, October 11th to be given. * * * Liebler & Co. have signed a contract to use the time at Wallack's Theatre following the run of The Dollar Mark with These Are My People, the sequel to The Squaw Man, by Edwin Milton Royle. In this play H. B. Warner appears as a star. Mr. Warner is now playing the principal male part in Foreign Exchange and will continue in that comedy until rehearsals for These Are My People are called. Miss Alice Crawford, a leading juvenile of the London stage, has been engaged to play the part opposite Mr. Warner. * * * The Blue Mouse will return to Maxine Elliott's Theatre tomorrow, September 20, for two weeks, preceding the engagement of Forbes-Robertson in The Passing of the Third Floor Back.

Charles Richman, in his own play, The Revellers, will then go to the West End Theatre for a week. * * * The Shuberts announce that the premiere of The Paradise of Mahomet will be postponed until Oct. 4 and that on Sept. 20 The Rose of Algeria will come to the Herald Square for two weeks. * * * Charles Frohman has arranged for Miss Marie Tempest to appear only in one play, W. Somerset Maugham's comedy, Penelope, during her American tour. She has played for eight months in London and is now touring the principal cities of the English provinces. ROB ROY.

NORVAL MACGREGOR has joined the Hortense Nielsen company, now playing the Middle West.

THE SAN FRANCISCO Dramatic Review

Music and Drama
CHAS. H. PARRELL, Publisher

Issued Every Saturday

Address all
letters and
money orders to San Francisco
Dramatic
Review, Van

Ness Theatre Bldg.,
Van Ness
Avenue.
Telephone
Park
1773

Entered at San Francisco as Second-class
Mail Matter. Established 1880.

Mariam Meredith

A distinction worthy of note lies in the fact that little Mariam Meredith, who is supporting Millidge Sherwood in revivals of Shakespeare this season, is the youngest leading woman on the American stage. Miss Meredith is but eleven years of age, of striking appearance, graceful and superior intellectually. Miss Mariam has ideas of her own regarding her chosen profession and modestly speaks of her favorite heroines and their possibilities. To quote this child "phenom": "I'm not fond of prevalent fads and do not believe one serious in her work should resort to such methods to acquire fame. I do like the character I will do this season above all others, because Cordelia represents such a beautiful picture of a child's obligation to her parents. I find there is much scope to her interpretation and like her above all for her girlish simplicity. Later in the season Mr. Stoerner will give me Juliet. It has been my ambition since a" (with a little chuckle and shrug of her shoulders so characteristic of her pleasure) "little child to play this part. I crave the opportunity to display the emotions of this sacrificing maiden. In Hamlet I will do Ophelia to Mr. Sherwood's Hamlet, in which character he is ideal. I will do Ibsen's Doll's House for literary matings, and consider him the only modern author worth while."

Details of the New Theatre

The palatial New Theatre, founded by representative citizens of New York, which is now nearing completion at Central Park West and Sixty-second street, will open its first season Monday night, Nov. 8, with Shakespeare's Antony and Cleopatra. During the first six weeks of a season of about thirty the repertoire will, in addition to Antony and Cleopatra, consist of The Cottage in the Air, by Edward Knobloch; The Nigger, by Edward Sheldon; Strife, by John Galsworthy, and Sheridan's School for Scandal. The presentations will be made by the New Theatre Company, a strictly stock organization, the members of which have been recruited with great care, and in which no player will be "featured" or "starred." While it is fully realized that the leading parts will always require interpreters of special eminence, the particular aim of the theatre will be, by careful attention to minor roles and all details of stage management and presentation, to insure productions of uniform, artistic excellence. The company, when fully organized, will comprise about forty players. Those already assigned to appear in the plays announced include Edward H. Sothorn, Charles Cartwright, A. E. Anson, Albert Bruning, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Henry Stanford, Ben Johnson, Rowland Buckstone, William McVay, Charles Balsar, Jacob Wendell, jr., Pedro de Cordoba, Master John Tansey, Julia Marlowe, Rose Coghlan, Olive Wyndham, Jessie Busley, Mrs. Sol Smith, Beatrice Forbes-Robertson, Beverly Sitgreaves, Thais Lawton, Leah Bateman-Hunter and Vida Sutton. Louis Calvert, who was brought from London to produce the standard dramas, is an actor of ability as well as a stage director of long experience, and will appear in several important roles. Of equal eminence in their respective fields are Gorge Foster Platt, producer of modern dramas; Wilfred North and Frederick Stanhope, assistant producers; Elliott Schenck, musical director, and Edward Hamilton Bell, art director. As is already known, the directorate of the playhouse comprises Winthrop Ames, director; Lee Shubert, manager, and John Corbin, literary manager. The acting manager is Edward E. Lyons; the house treasurer, Jed F. Shaw.

THE THEATRE'S POLICY.

Although the theatre will be devoted to the presentation of dramas—musical comedies, spectacles and the like having no place in its repertoire—light opera will be given twenty evening and twenty matinee performances during the winter. Announcement concerning this departure will be made by Andreas Dippel, of the Metropolitan Opera House, under whose direction the operas will be presented by members of the Metropolitan company. The idea that the New Theatre's repertoire is to consist mainly of standard, or so-called "classical" works, and that the institution is intended primarily for the amusement of a small, social set, or that its plays are to be mainly "advanced," "faddish" and "literary," is not founded upon fact. The theatre will make its appeal, and depend for its success, upon the whole body of intelligent playgoers. In truth, it is hoped to make this institution as distinctly democratic and civic as is the Comedie Francaise. This statement is borne out by the fact that but one-third of the repertoire consists of so-called "standard" or "classic" works while the rest comprises brisk, wholesome comedies and popular plays. In making the selections Director Ames has striven to keep abreast of all worthy dramatic movements at home and abroad, as it is the belief of the directorate that the cardinal function of the drama is to entertain. In other words, the New Theatre is not to be made a school for the select few, wherein a dull or tedious play of merit will be kept upon the stage for the purpose of instructing its patrons, but a playhouse for the public at large. The standard works to be presented have been drawn from a field so extensive that a suitable selection was not difficult and they as well as modern plays will continue in the repertoire only for as long or short periods as their worth and popularity warrant. This is the only system under which the run of a play favored by the patrons can be continued without postponing the production of a drama which may appeal to a smaller number of playgoers.

Leo Bell and company, in The Parish Priest, appeared in Watsonville last night.

Stock To Cease At The Broadway, Oakland

Manager Guy Smith has posted the notice closing the Broadway stock a week from Sunday. There are various reasons hinted at as being the cause of this sudden move. One is that Landers Stevens and Mr. Salinger, the owner of the company, differed as to the interpretation of Mr. Stevens' contract. In the meantime, Guy Smith is in Los Angeles, figuring on something, and the Ferris Hartman Opera Company open at the Broadway a week from Monday for sixteen performances.

The Roberts-Gillard stock company is playing in the province of Alberta, Canada, presenting among other plays Mrs. Temple's Telegram, Raffles, The Idler and The Judge and the Girl. In the company are L. Victor Gillard, William Chapman, Howard Nugent, Wayne Ross, Margaret Nugent, Beatrice Meade and May Roberts.

WILLIAM MAXWELL

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW

Lick Building, 35 Montgomery Street.
Telephone Kearny 724.

Imperial Amusement Co.

Star Theatre, Portland, Oregon
S. MORTON COHN, Pres.; MELVIN G. WINSTOCK, Gen. Mgr.
Acts of every kind are requested to write in, quoting lowest salary in first letter. Satisfactory booking for right acts at right figures.

Valencia Theatre

Valencia Street, near Thirteenth
Phone Market 17

This Saturday Afternoon and Evening
Last Times of
"GOING SOME"

Two Weeks, Starting Sunday Evening, Sept. 26, Matinees Wednesday and Saturday
Sam S. and Lee Shubert, Inc., Offer
America's Own Comedienne.

CORINNE

In the Viennese Operetta in Three Acts
MLLE. MISCHIEF

Eighty-five People, English Pony Ballet,
Bewitching Beauty Chorus, Original Production.

Reserved Seats—Nights and Saturday
Matinee, from $1.50 to 50c. Wednesday Matinee, 50c, 75c and $1.00. On sale at the Box Office and Emporium.
Next—GEORGE FAWCETT, in THE GREAT JOHN CANTON.

The Garrick

ELLIS AT FILLMORE
PHONE - WEST 1194
Week Starting Sunday Afternoon, Sept. 26
Matinees Sunday, Thursday, Saturday
H. H. Frazee Presents the Musical Winner

A Knight For a Day
Superior Cast of Principals, including
EDWARD HUME
GRACE DEMAR
Stunning Chorus of Sixty
The Ten English
Madcaps

Prices—25c to $1.00.
Next—"FIFTY MILES FROM BOSTON"

New Alcazar Theatre

Cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts.
Belasco & Mayer, Owners and Managers
Absolutely "Class A" Building

Monday Evening, Sept. 27, and Throughout
the Week,
A Revival, by Popular Request, of the Delightful Heart Comedy,

Sweet Kitty Bellairs

Founded on Egerton Castle's Book, "The Bath Comedy," by David Belasco.

Prices—Night, 25c to $1.00. Matinee, 25c
to 50c.

MATINEE SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

New Orpheum

O'Farrell Street, Bet. Stockton and Powell
Safest and Most Magnificent Theatre in
America

Week Beginning This Sunday Afternoon
Matinee Every Day

ARTISTIC VAUDEVILLE
EDNA AUG, The Comedienne in "TYPES";
BIG CITY QUARTETTE; LES MYOSOTIS,
Premiere Dancers at the Royal Opera, Munich; HENRY CLIVE, Assisted by MAI
STURGIS WALKER; TOM WATERS;
MURRAY and MACK; SPAULDING and
RIEGO; NEW ORPHEUM MOTION PIC-TURES. Last Week—Great Triumph the Famous Spanish Artist, ROSARIO GUER-
REO, assisted by Sig. L. Paglieri in the Musical Fantomime, "THE ROSE AND THE DAGGER."

EVENING PRICES—10c, 25c, 50c, 75c;
Box Seats, $1.

MATINEE PRICES (Except Sundays and
Holidays), 10c, 25c, 50c
Phone Douglas 70

Princess Theatre

Absolutely "Class A" Theatre Building
Phone West 663
Ellis Street, near Fillmore
Samuel Loverich, Manager

Only three more nights of
Ferris Hartman

And his New Company in Richard Carle's Best Bit
The Mayor of Tokio

MATINEES SATURDAY AND SUNDAY
Popular prices: Evenings, 25c, 50c, 75c.
Saturday and Sunday Matinees, 25c and 50c.

Next Monday—Last week of Ferris Hartman in
The Tenderfoot

AMERICAN THEATRE

Market St., near Seventh
Abe S. Cohn, Manager
Phone Market 381 for Good Seats
The Playhouse of Comfort and Safety

AMERICAN VAUDEVILLE
Will be Inaugurated Next Sunday, by a
Ten-Act

Vaudeville Show

This theatre will now book the best
vaudeville acts obtainable under the book-
ing direction of Edward Homan.
No Acts too big. No Price too big.

GILLE PRINTING CO.
SAN FRANCISCO
THEATRICAL PRINTING OF ALL KINDS

POSTERS
2257 MISSION ST. Phone MISSION
3065

THE FRANCIS-VALENTINE CO.
Show Printers

Thirteenth St., near Mission, S. F. Cal.
Spacious Headquarters
for Theatrical Agents
PHONE-MARKET 2114
Send Bills of Lading to us. We will take care of your paper

Van Ness Theatre

Thomas Wise and Harrison Rhodes have come perilously near to writing the great American comedy in A Gentleman from Mississippi. It is about the best thing we have had in the comedy line for years, and when it is cast alongside of the foreign brand of comedy, in the language of the street it makes the imported article look like thirty cents. A very fine actor heads the cast in Mr. Wise's part of the Junior Senator from Mississippi. His name is Lackaye, and he is a brother of Wilton Lackaye, but there is a decided difference in the two men. He is a better actor and he calls himself just plain "Lackay." Mr. Lackaye plays the part of the Hon. Wm. H. Langdon with a charm that is irresistible. His comedy moments are most pleasing and in developing the underlying pathos of the character, he brings out all of its possibilities with the art of a fine actor. We very much doubt if the author-actor in the part is as good. The men in the cast line up well. The best of them after Mr. Lackaye is Fletcher Harvey, who plays the strong, dominant character of the Senator from Mississippi with force and distinction. Osborne Searle is entrusted with the part of the private secretary to the Senator from Mississippi. This is one of the "fat-test" and most appealing juvenile parts ever written, and Mr. Searle scores plentifully, although his personality is not particularly well suited to the role. Olive Harper, a fine-looking woman, played Mrs. Spangler with a full appreciation of the value of the part, and Virginia Pearson, a pronounced beauty, was most pleasing in the character of Caroline Langdon. Minnette Barrett, who got her first training here with the Frawley Company, has returned after years in the East, and discloses herself as a most attractive and finished ingenue. Her Hope Langdon was girlishly simple and pleasingly effective. Adelaide Wise played the part of Senator Stevens' Secretary and gave a clean-cut portrayal of the part. The balance of the cast were generally effective, and the play is worth more than one visit.

Alcazar Theatre

The honors of The Great Divide still fall to Augustus Phillips, as Stephen Ghent. William Vaughn Moody's stirring drama of contemporaneous life in America has developed a wonderful drawing power, and could, without any difficulty, continue into a third week, with the same interest for the theatregoers of San Francisco. Sweet Kitty Bellairs is to succeed next Monday night, however. A good performance has been promised.

American Theatre

Manager Abe Cohn's fine vaudeville theatre continues to grow in popularity, and, thanks to Business Manager Pilling's system, the different acts follow each other with clock-like precision. The headliner on this week's bill is Charles Mack, who with clever support is presenting as a playlet a portions of his comedy, Come Back to Erin. Mr. Mack is a fine comedian, and in depicting a young Irish-American he scores heavily. W. P. Kitts, as Kerrigan, and Mrs. Chas. Peters, as an Irish mother, and Etta Bastedo, as a colleen, were pleasing. The next big hit was achieved by Flora Gilbert, the whistler. Miss Gilbert has about the purest whistling tones we have heard, and her work was easy and really enjoyable. Blossom Seeley, the coon shouter, did her stunt well, although at times her remarks fell flat. The Honolulu Quartet seemed to please with their Hawaiian songs, and Cogan and Bancroft did all right with their skating act, except when one of the team tried to sing. MacFarland and Murray, the millionaire and the policeman, had a pleasing talking act. The horse, Kidnapper, was not much of a success. His work was slow and did not seem particularly novel. Good moving pictures completed the varied program.

Princess Theatre

Ferris Hartman, in this next to last week, has revived Richard Carle's one-time success, The Mayor of Tokio. The part of irrepressible impresario, Marcus Orlando Kidder, is one that fits Mr. Hartman's personality to a nicety, and he does what is probably his best work of the present engagement. Joe Fogarty as the Mayor of Tokio does good work, and Oscar Walsh is an agreeable tenor. Walter de Leon as the song-book boy, and Walter Catlett as a Russian spy, give Hartman able assistance in the fun-making. Muggins Davis is a charming soubrette, and Octavia Broska is seen to advantage as the daughter of the Mayor of Tokio. Josie Hart is a stunning and effective American heiress. The business of the week has been very gratifying. The next bill, which will be the last, will be The Tenderfoot.

Garrick Theatre

Harold Nelson, an actor well known and popular in the Canadian country, has been the stellar attraction at the Garrick this week in Prince Otto. While Mr. Nelson has been recognized as an actor of unusual merit, with a fine personality and pleasing voice, the play itself has never been popular in San Francisco, and his support, having been gathered hastily for this week, has not been all that could have been desired. Chief among the company who claimed attention for good work were Hope Mosher, Antoinette Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Lytton and Stanley de Wolfe. On Thursday, Mr. Nelson offered Candida, he and Mrs. Lytton playing the leading roles. The performance called forth much favorable comment.

Valencia Theatre

The second week of Going Some will conclude with tonight's performance, when Corinne in Mlle. Mischief, another Schubert attraction, will be seen, with a fine company of singers and comedians and a large chorus.

Here Is a New One

The Central Theatre furnishes a novelty in Musical Director Joe Valle, who leads with an accordion.

The Newman Foltz company had a fair week in Hollister, Sept. 11, where Eddie Hall is now managing the theatre. Last week the show is doing nicely in Santa Cruz. This week the company appear in San Jose at the Victory for four nights, commencing Thursday.

Theatres Arrange For Portola Benefit

Besides arranging for a monster benefit in aid of the Portola fund, the associate theatrical managers have made a donation of $1,000. The San Francisco theatrical managers have hit upon this means of furthering the success of Portola week by arranging this great benefit, the proceeds of which will go to increase the Portola fund. This event will take place in the Garrick Theatre on the afternoon of Oct. 8, and judging from the number of popular attractions which will be there represented the Portola committee anticipates a crowded house and consequently a great financial success. Every feature of the afternoon will in itself be one of the best attractions then in the city. Billie Burke will be there, in one of her most popular roles in Love Watches. Then Evelyn Vaughan will appear as the piquant Irish widow in Sweet Kitty Bellairs. George Cohan's Fifty Miles from Boston will come in for its share toward the afternoon's entertainment, and the Orpheum will be represented by several of its best features. Kolb and Dill will appear to fetch a hearty laugh and other splendid features will be in evidence.

Society Vaudeville

Plans for society vaudeville, to be given at the Novelty Theatre, are going along merrily, with every promise of duplicating the success attained at the Menlo Country Club. The revenue derived is for the fund for the equipment of the reading room and library for the blind. It is a splendid idea, this giving of the society vaudeville to bring cheer and entertainment into the lives of the sightless unfortunates of the city. The appeal to one's sympathies touches a responsive chord, for the plight of the blind always seems such a pathetic one. They are shut off from so many of the free delights—the sight of the shimmering blue bay, the trees, flowers, glad faces of children and familiar faces of good friends. The room was started years ago by Mrs. Andrew Rowan, wife of Major Rowan of "The Message to Garcia" fame, who had a brother who was similarly afflicted. The performance will be under the management of Will Greenbaum.

Personals

BURT WESNER left Sunday with The Girl from Rector's company.

CARRIE GODFREY is playing with the Willard Mack company in Salt Lake and her singing is considered a feature.

L. N. THOMPSON, who has been press agent at Idora Park the past season, has been signed to go ahead of Harold Nelson.

ROD WAGGONER passed through San Francisco last Tuesday on his way to Los Angeles ahead of The Time, the Place and the Girl.

EVELYN MAXWELL has been signed by Carter, the magician, to make the tour of the world. She will assist in the illusions and do the mind-reading stunt.

JIMMY DE WOLFF, who started West to do the press work for the Ringling circus, has been shifted to El Paso, where he will spend some time in an attempt to recover his health, which is in a pretty bad state.

JOHN R. RODGERS, "Yours Merri-ly," will soon be in town, ahead of Eddie Foy. It was quite a shock to learn of his having wandered away from the K. & E. fold.

JAMES SPOTTISWOOD, comedian of Going Some, after a hurried courtship begun in Los Angeles two weeks ago, was married to a charming widow from that city last Wednesday.

NICK TURNER left New York, September 1st, ahead of Commencement Days, and made only seven towns between there and the Coast; so this is another case of "going some." The show will be in this city around New Year's.

RUSSELL C. DURANT, of the Belasco stock of Los Angeles, and Miss Lena P. McFarland were married Wednesday, September 15, at St. Mathews' Church, Los Angeles. Mr. Durant is a son of W. C. Durant, manufacturer of Buick autos.

WALTER KOLL is making his first trip to San Francisco since 1889. He is ahead of Harry Frazee's show, A Knight for a Day. In '89 Mr. Koll was here with Pattie Rosa, under the management of Wm. Calder who is now an orange grower near Folsom in this State.

MME. CARO ROMA was the honored guest at an elaborate and enjoyable breakfast given last Saturday by the members of the Papyrus Club in the red room of the St. Francis the affair terminating with a program of clever toasts and delightful music. Mme. Roma is making her first visit home in several years.

THE marriage last April is now announced in New York of Rita Fornia one of the grand opera stars who has entertained America for the last three seasons, and Frank Labey, a New York business man. The singer would not say why the marriage was kept a secret, excepting that she thought it would be uninteresting.

FRANCIS REED, who was here not long ago ahead of John Drew, is in town ahead of Billie Burke. Mr. Reid and J. Clarence Hyde, who was here recently ahead of Ethel Barrymore and is now doing the advance for Blanche Bates, think seriously of linking the name of San Francisco to New York as headquarters. They may soon be making the transcontinental jump every two or three months.

GERTRUDE PERRIE, the actress, died August 29 after a lingering illness at the home of her mother, 171 West Forty-third street, Los Angeles, Calif. She was 27 years old and made her stage debut at the Third Avenue Theatre in Seattle, Wash., in 1900, and since that time has filled continuous engagements in stock and repertoire in California and the Middle Western States, playing the leads until three years ago, when she was taken ill in Salt Lake City.

AN OPERATION for appendicitis was performed upon Charlotte Walter September 14 in New York at the private hospital of Dr. John F. Erdmann. Dr. Erdmann, who had charge of the operation, said that no complications were found and that Miss Walker should be out in about four days. The actress, who is the wife of Eugene Walter, the playwright, had suffered a mild attack of appendicitis before, but no operation was deemed necessary until this week, when she had a sudden seizure at her country home at Greenport, L. I.

Vaudeville

The Orpheum

The best number on the Orpheum bill this week is the pantomime of Senora Rosario Guerrero, the Spanish actress, who, with the assistance of Signor L. Paglieri, presents The Rose and the Dagger, a fantastic representation by gesture of the adventures of a dancer in the power of a bandit. The little play without words runs for about eighteen minutes, but it seems less, so absorbing is the art of the two actors. A dancer is stormbound without a chaperon in the dead of night in the cabin of a cutthroat in the Pyrennees. The freebooter, after refusing the girl a drink of water, demands that she continue her journey, until she casts aside her wraps and reveals the diamonds on her fingers, arms and at her throat. Then his greetings change to those of assumed pleasantness, and he offers her a glass of wine. He resolves upon murder. The dancer sees that she is to be killed, and by flirting with the man attempts to save herself. All is for nothing until she dances, when he succumbs to her wiles. She asks him to exchange his dagger for a rose she wears, and she gains her point. No sooner done than the woman becomes a tiger. A struggle ensues, and in the contest the bandit is killed. The girl, horror stricken, flees into the night without even taking her mackintosh or rubbers. As an artist, Guerrero is, in her way, little short of marvelous. We are used, here in America, of assuming that intelligence in acting means repression. No one can gainsay that this Spanish woman is not the soul of intelligence, and her work is as far removed from the style of Mrs. Fiske as it is possible to imagine. Added to that dramatic fire and ebullition of temperament which is characteristic of the Latin races, she possesses much personal charm and magnetism. Every professional man and woman in San Francisco should see Senora Guerrero and Signor Paglieri. To make their work more striking, Murray and Mack have been placed immediately before Guerrero and her companion. These two alleged comedians do not work in dumb show. More is the pity. They perpetrate the same old prize fighting burlesque that they did over the Orpheum circuit fifteen years ago. Their patter and gags suggest that they were used three thousand years since. Circumstantial Evidence, Harrison Armstrong's little play, is as good of its kind as is the pantomime. Spalding and Riego, two Scandinavian gymnasts, do some very clever acrobatic work and some very stupid comedy. Tom Waters is entertaining with his singing, impersonations and piano playing. Crouch and Welch execute some gymnastic dancing that is original, and which goes with unusual vim. Charles Montrell, a juggler, proves himself to be more than usually dexterous. He is fortunate in having an assistant who is an excellent comedian, in a broad way. Ed Wynn and Al Lee present the Billicken Freshman, a bit of comedy that is without plot, comedy or much of anything else, but it goes well, for a large part of the audience seems to enjoy it.

Pantages-Empire

Shelvey Brothers open the bill with some exceedingly interesting and novel acrobatic work. Nada Moret follows, in dancing impersonations that mark her as an artist of more than ordinary merit. Hamilton and Ronca give a musical act that goes big, and which secures several encores. Tegge and Daniel, two German comedy artists, are very funny, their dialect is natural and their jokes funny. Hansen and Jenne, two novelty manipulators, roll a huge ball down an inclined plane, maneuvering it with their feet. The orchestra is as good as usual and the moving pictures hold the audiences until the last moment.

The National

Buckley's famous dogs, who begin the program at the National this week, certainly have college educations. They do everything but talk. Selbini and Grovini do a novelty turn that is popular with the National spectators. The singing of the Steele Sisters is unusual for its merit. The Mafia, a one-act sketch, is a little melodrama that holds the house from beginning to end. Will S. Marion and Vira Rial, in the Witch's o' Power, are the two actors who shine in this turn. The Three LaDarros have a ladder act that is quite unusual. As balancers they are decidedly out of the usual. Will Morrissey has some good jokes and songs. Bothwell Browne, who once taught the young idea of San Francisco how to dance, returns with a side-splitting sketch, entitled Cleopatra. It is an excellent bit of burlesque. A live snake dance concludes his turn. Ernest Young, Paul Stanhope and Myrtle Guild assist in the presentation of the sketch.

The Wigwam

The Mission theatre is playing to the regulation big business this week and offering Mondane Phillips, Roltaire, Harvard and Cornelle, Emily and Jessie Dodd & Co., Tom Bateman, Hugh Lloyd and La Maze Brothers.

Bookings

At the Sullivan & Considine, San Francisco Office, through Wm. P. Reese, their sole booking agent, for week of Sept. 26, 1909:

NATIONAL, San Francisco—Jere Sanford, Johan and Matt, Caswell and Arnold, The Three Vagrants, Dolan and Lenharr, The Four Stagpooles, Blanche Sloane. BELL, Oakland—La Darros, Selbini and Grovini, Will Morrissey, Marion and Rial, Steele Sisters, Bothwell Browne & Co, Buckley's Dogs. WIGWAM, San Francisco—McFarland and Murray, Ahlberg Bros., Billy Cort, Mort. Sharp and His Dancing Belles, Tom and Stasia Moore, Edwin Carewe & Co., Virginia Moore. NOVELTY, Vallejo—Elizabeth Houston & Co., Harvard and Cornelle, Alva York, Grace Darnley. GRAND, Sacramento—Mondane Phillips, Emily and Jessie Dodd & Co., Tom Bateman, Hugh Lloyd, La-Maze Bros., Pritzkow and Blanchard. GARRICK, Stockton—Gavin Gilmaine, Geo. Jones, Portola Trio, Lynden and Wren, Olivia Quintet. THEATRE JOSE, San Jose—Clarence Sisters, Vera de Bassini, Mitchell and Caine, The Three Roehrs, Murphy-Whitman Co. LOS ANGELES, Los Angeles—Alfred K. Hall, Wood Bros., J. Warren Keane & Co., Cogan and Bancroft, J. K. Emmet & Co., Chas. Mack & Co. AMER-

Theatrical Tights

ALL COLORS, WEIGHTS AND QUALITIES—Cotton, 75c to $1.50; Wool, $2.50 to $3.50; Lisle or Silkline, $3.00 to $4.50; Silk, $5.00 to $12.50.

SYMMETRICALS BEST LINE MADE IN THE U. S. Calf, $5.00; Calf and Thigh, $10.00; Calf, Thigh and Hip, $12.50.

We also Make Padded Shirts, SWEATERS, JERSEYS, GYM. ATHLETIC and BATH SUITS, SUPPORTERS, ACROBATIC SHOES, GOOD UNDERWEAR Knit to Fit in All Materials.

We operate our own mills, carry a large stock and make goods to measure at reasonable prices. We suit the professional as if he were buying in Europe. Write us for prices and samples.

Gantner & Mattern Co.

KNITTERS

Phone Kearny 3603

Corner Post and Grant Ave.

Sullivan & Considine

::: New Circuit :::

Of the smaller popular-priced theatres to be operated in conjunction with their regular circuit houses, comprising time in

California Colorado
Utah Kansas
and Eastern Connections

Good Acts Can Always
Secure Immediate Bookings

BOOKING DEPARTMENT

1117 Market Street

W. P. REESE, Manager

Removal Notice

Bert Levey Circuit

Will Remove on or about Oct. 1, '09, to

144-150 Powell Street
San Francisco, Cal.

PANTAGES Western States Vaudeville Association

Controlling the longest, largest and best chain of vaudeville theatres in the United States.

Mr. Manager: No matter where your house is, how large or how small, we can supply you promptly with first-class vaudeville acts at reasonable prices, also lodges, clubs and entertainments furnished on short notice.

See O. S. BURNS, Representative. Phone West 7140. Offices: Pantages Theatre, cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts., San Francisco, Cal.

Archie Levy's Amusement Ass'n

THE VAUDEVILLE EXCHANGE OF THE PACIFIC COAST

1643 FILLMORE STREET, SUITE 1-2-3, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers desiring talent Write. Artists send in your open time now.

ICAN, San Francisco—Les Ploetz Lorrillas, Edwin T. Emery, Corrigan and Elliott, Armada, Goodhue and Burgess. ORPHEUM, San Diego—Girard and Gardner, Tom McGuire, DeFrej, Stanley-Edwards Co.

Edwin T. Emery's company in the afterpieces at the American will consist of Denton Vane, Al Franks, Reba Raymond, Cliff Thompson, Jean Howard, Ella Crane and J. P. Denton.

The capture of N. C. Goodwin for American vaudeville, at the enormous salary of $3,500 a week, is proof that American managers have faith in the drawing qualities of this actor.

NEW.....JUST OUT.....NEW

MADISON'S BUDGET

.....No. 12.....

Greatest book of comedy material ever written. Contents include 10 new monologues, 45 up-to-date parodies, 21 original acts and sketches for two males and male and female, 2 jolly farces, a complete minstrel first part with finale, besides hundreds of brand-new jokes, stories, get-backs, etc.

Price One Dollar

And money back if not absolutely satisfactory. For sale in San Francisco by L. PARENT, 818 Van Ness Ave., or direct of the publisher, JAMES MADISON, 1404 Third Ave., New York.

NAT FIELDS

CENTRAL THEATRE . . . . . San Francisco, Cal.
Comedian and Producer

THE GREAT MARSHALL SHOW

Playing to Packed Houses Everywhere
8 VARIETY ACTS 8
Featuring
MARSHALL, THE JAIL BREAKER
Elegant Photos Classy Pictorial Paper A Sure Winner
BERT LEVEY, 2053 Sutter St., S. F., Representative

Vaudeville Notes

J. Bernard Dyllin and Lottie O'Mally are playing La Petite in Watsonville this week.

The American offers next week Edwin T. Emery and his associate players in The Millionaire; Three Los Plotz Lorillas, European equilibrists; James Corrigan and Lillian Elliott and company in a comedy sketch, and the return engagement of the celebrated whistler and yodler, Jere Sanford.

Charley Cole, general manager for the Pantages interests, returned from Colorado last Thursday, where he had been closing up the transfer of the Crystal circuit to the Pantages circuit.

Wm. Tompkins is the new business manager of the National Theatre.

Robert Hildreth and wife, in a clever sketch, are big hits at the Los Angeles Theatre in Los Angeles this week.

Archie Levey and Ed Foley have arranged the acts for the Smart Fair, which runs from Sept. 27 to Oct. 2. The attractions will consist of Mme. Wanda's dog, worked by Miss Varna, her daughter; Leon and Leon, trapeze experts; the Smiletta Trio, on the horizontal bars; Kawana, the Jap juggler; Tony Ryder and his monkeys, and ten free shows.

Fiddle Dee Dee is Big Hit

Nat Fields and his company score heavily this week in Fiddle Dee Dee at the Central. The performance is a great laughing success. Nat Fields as Krausmyer; Frank Vack as Hockmeyer; Dave Lerner as Lechansky; Myrtle Vane as Miss Meadowbrook; Al Watson as McCann; Fred Lancaster as Con Bluffer, and Hazel Wilson as Countess de Vanderbilt, do splendid work, and the good-looking chorus are a great attraction. Next week, On Board Ship.

Stockwell's Benefit

The Blanche Bates' benefit to L. R. Stockwell last Friday week at the Van Ness Theatre cleared about $1,500, which will be held for the benefit of the blind comedian. Among the checks sent were one for $15.00, from Andy Lawrence, and one for $25.00, from Frank Worthing. An excellent bill, as follows, was rendered: Pendleton Sisters in Dance, by courtesy of Garrick Theatre and Al. H. Woods; John W. Cope, Bessie Barriscale and William Garwood in the one-act farce, A Horse on Father, by courtesy of Van Ness and Alcazar Theatre managements; The Arlington Four (Leever, Lee, Manny, Roberts), The Singing and Dancing Messenger Boys, by courtesy of the Orpheum Theatre; Flora Harrington, in a medley of songs; from the Alcazar Theatre, by courtesy of Messrs. Belasco & Mayer, the third act climax of The Lion and the Mouse, by Will R. Walling, Augustus Phillips, E. L. Bennison, Charles Trobridge, Evelyn Vaughn, of the Alcazar Company; Budd Ross and Burt Wesner, in the skit entitled The Original Two-in-One; Mackenzie Gordon, in selections (Fred Maurer, accompanist; Blanche Bates and Richard M. Hotaling, in a scene from the fourth act of Richelieu, assisted by Robert Harrison, Goerge Friend, George Rand, Harry Shumer, E. L. Bennison, Walter Catlet; Vera De Bassini, the Human Violin, by courtesy of the Wigwam Theatre; Ferris Hartman (Paul Steindorff, director), by courtesy of the Princess Theatre; Eugene O'Rourke, assisted by Genevieve Cliffe and Willis Browne, presenting Parlor A, a one-act comedy; Alfred K. Hall, eccentric dancer, by courtesy of the American Theatre; Blanche Bates and Milton Sills, presenting the one-act farce entitled The Unhappy Pair, by courtesy of David Belasco and Gottlob, Marx & Co. Stage under the direction of Wedgwood Nowell and Fred J. Butler.

Correspondence

PETALUMA, Sept. 23.—The Persse-Mason company opened the season at the Hill Opera House with the romantic opera comedy, The Singing Bandits. This was the first performance of the company, and of course many parts could be improved upon. On the whole, the piece was very well given and it took well with the audience. Tonight Lorraine Buchannan and company open a ten days' engagement, playing repertoire with Three Weeks for the opening bill.

theatre has been closed during summer months and opened tonight with the Ellefords for a three nights run. The play tonight was the American Girl, which opened to a full house, and the performance was highly appreciated. The cast, which included some new faces, was up to its standard and the company always can expect a royal welcome from the Marysville theatregoers. The specialties were far better than before.

NEW CHUTES

FILLMORE, TURK, EDDY AND WEBSTER

Open Morning, Afternoon and Night
SUNDAY AND ALL NEXT WEEK

FREE NICKELODEON

The Latest Motion Pictures and Illustrated Songs Featuring a Moving Picture of the Opening Day Crowds at the Chutes.

IS YOUR FACE THERE?

Many Added Attractions, including the
3—OLIVERS—3

Athletes of Prodigious Strength
PROMENADE CONCERTS

By the California State Band
SPECIAL FEATURES FOR THE CHILDREN

Corinne, who will appear at the Valencia Theatre next week

IDORA

"The Park
Beautiful"

B. P. MILLER, General Manager
Oakland, Calif.

20 Acres of High Grade
Amusement—20

The Handsomest
Park in America

Playing Only the World's Greatest Bands
and
Big Feature Acts

Performers desiring time, address
J. H. B. Fitzpatrick

MARYSVILLE, Sept. 18.—Our

3 times a day

Chicago-Kansas City

AND POINTS EAST

EASTERN EXPRESS

Leave San Francisco, 7:15 a. m. Leave Oakland, 7:40 a. m.

OVERLAND EXPRESS

Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 8:00 p. m.

CALIFORNIA LIMITED

Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 10:00 p. m.

Courteous employes—Unique scenery—Harvey meals—Equipment
by Pullman—One management all the way to Chicago.
Our descriptive folders give reliable information.

JAS. B. DUFFY, GENERAL AGENT, 673 Market Street, S. F.
T. LOVE, T. A., Market St. Ferry Depot, San Francisco.
J. J. WARNER, G. A., 1112 Broadway, Oakland.

SCENERY

WILLIAM H. FUNK
Pantages Theatre Sacramento, Calif.
ADVERTISING CURTAINS A SPECIALTY

YOUR CREDIT
.... IS GOOD....

Correspondence

OAKLAND, Sept. 23.—After a short period of darkness the Macdonough re-opened, 20, with Joseph M. Weber's great play, The Climax. The management would have been better off if it had kept the house closed for another week; as the attendance has been decidedly disappointing and this notwithstanding that The Climax is really a good show and well worth seeing. There are but four characters in the entire cast, but each one is handled by an artist. Ruby Bridges, who did such excellent work in The Man of the Hour, is leading woman and her work is characterized by charm and ability. A Knight for a Day is booked Oct. 3d, and then the much-looked-for engagement of Blanche Bates, Oct. 4, for a week. At the Liberty, Charley's Aunt once again. We have seen George Friend in this role so often that we have almost come to look upon the character as a part of his personality. He makes up the female to perfection and his every act and move denotes femininity. Not a point escapes him and the succession of humorous situations and bright lines are brought out by him to the greatest advantage, much to the delight of the audience. The company was exceptionally well cast, Henry Shumer, as Stephen Spettigue, created many a laugh by his droll acting, and George Webster in the role of the College Scout, Brassett, was equally good. As the undergraduate of Oxford, Robert Lawlor was good and acted the role with clear conception. Mina Gleason outdid herself as the Aunt from Brazil. Hers was a nice little piece of character work. Edith Lyle is seen to advantage as Kitty. Her work shows improvement with every performance. Laura Hudson was charming as the other fair conspirator. The attendance is very satisfactory, good houses prevailing at every performance. George Webster is fulfilling all expectations as stage director and everything is carried through with the very best of regulation. Next week Manager Bishop announces a very elaborate production of The Prince Chap. The Lightning Conductor, an automobile story, is drawing pretty fair crowds to the Broadway, and is the medium of much favorable comment. The play is well presented by the Landers Stevens players and all the prominent members are recipients of much applause. Landers Stevens and Georgie Cooper receive the lion's share and the high class of their work certainly entitled them to it. Others in the cast who perform well are Godfrey Matthews, Wilton Dale, Francis Prosser, Charles Place, Lee Willard, Georgie Woodthorpe and Anita Murray. Zaza will follow. The California State Fair is in evidence at Idora Park and is drawing immense crowds. There are many fine exhibits from all parts of the State, and this in conjunction with the fine orchestral concerts of Conway's band made a doubly strong attraction. At the Orpheum, John Hyams and Leila McIntyre are scoring one of the biggest hits of the year with their quaint little comedy skit, The Quakeress. Their acting and singing take immensely. Others who share with the entertainment are Cunningham and Marion, Hayes and Johnson, Signor Luciano Lucca, Gardner and Revere, Rose Royal and her posing horse, Chesterfield; The Arlington Four, and At the Country Club. Business continues good, and according to Manager Ebey, the future bills will include some extra fine attractions. May Clement, who for the past season has been the leading lady with James O'Neil, has accepted an engagement with Bishop's players and will leave New York immediately. For Portola week, Manager Bishop is to present for the first time on any stage a new play by Richard Walton Tully, entitled Cupid, The Cow Puncher. There is to be a sudden and unlooked-for change at the Broadway. Next week is to be the final for Landers Stevens' players, and Ferris Hartman and his company will commence an indefinite engagement, opening in The Yankee Consul and following with The Blue Moon, The Sultan of Sulu, and other light operas in their repertoire. As yet Landers Stevens has made no future plans for his company but expects to announce something definite in a few days. The Signor De Grassi concert will take place at the Liberty, 24, and already Manager Jackson announces a good sized advance sale. All On Account of Eliza, and The Half Breed, will be early attractions at the Liberty. Louis Scheeline.

OGDEN, Sept. 18.—The work upon the Utahna Theatre which is being remodeled at a cost of $50,000 by the Peery Estate of Ogden, is progressing very rapidly and will undoubtedly be opened November 15. According to the plans drawn by Architect E. W. Houghton of Seattle for John Cort of the Northwestern Theatrical Association, who have leased the new house, it will be one of the most beautiful theatres between Omaha and San Francisco. The new theatre will be known as the Ogden, and will be under the management of R. A. Grant, State manager for the Northwestern Theatrical Association. The local manager will be named later.

Garrick Theatre

Harold Nelson closes his successful week at the Garrick with a matinee of Candida this afternoon, and a final appearance as Prince Otto in the Robert Louis Stevenson play tonight. Nelson's week has been an artistic success, and the versatile Englishman has proven his worth in two exacting parts. The musical comedy season starts at the Garrick tomorrow afternoon with Harry Frazee's production of A Knight for a Day. The presenting company this season is a large one and includes among its prominent members Edward Hume, an energetic comedian of original methods; Grace Demar, an engaging comedienne, who has scored quite heavily in the "Slavey" part. There are but two acts in A Knight for a Day, but they are declared to be of unusual brilliancy and beauty. The electrical effects introduced have attracted wide-spread attention, and were devised by Gus Sohlke, who staged the production. Last season the comedy was given at the American Theatre here, and scored the most decided hit of their combination season, and this year's company looks to be even better than the one Mr. Frazee had last year. There will be the usual matinees, Sunday, Thursday and Saturday.

Baseball Reception at the Chutes

This Saturday evening is to be "baseball night" at the New Chutes, and from 7:30 until the last light goes glimmering, the "fans" will have possession of the grounds. The San Francisco team will be the guest of honor and all patrons who come dressed in the costume of the day will be admitted free. As the patrons pass through the turnstiles they will be given a coupon. This they will be asked to cast for their favorite and the player receiving the majority of ballots will be presented with a loving cup. Sunday's program promises to be one of the best of the season. It has lately become the policy of the Chutes management to present new attractions every week holding over those entertainers who have proven most popular during the week just passed. Tomorrow the biggest of the added attractions will be the three Olivers, athletes of prodigious strength. The free motion picture theatre is the most popular feature introduced since the opening of the Fillmore street resort. Other features will be the concerts of the California State Band, a continuation of high diving by Towers and numerous other open-air attractions.

Idora Park

Enormous crowds have been entertained during this week's exposition and carnival, and it is expected that the next eight days will constitute the banner period of the season. One week from tomorrow night the popular Oakland resort will close its gates until next April. The Spanish bull fight continues to be the favorite attraction with all who go the joy route at Idora. A burlesque aspect will be added in the form of a trick mule ensconced behind a papier mache bull's head. Matador Jose Fernando and his train of fighters will "slaughter" the quarry afternoon and evening and the fun promises to be fast if not furious. The mule used will be the one that has been entertaining audiences with his capers in the humorous circus act put on by Clayton, Jenkins and Jasper. This skit will be continued as usual as a part of the open-air program. All of the aerialists and acrobats, including the Six Fondulacs, the Peerless Potters, the La Salle Trio and the Hanafourde Family of flying trapeze artists, will be on the closing week's bill. The Gilmore Band, conducted by Patrick Conway, will give daily concerts from the Idora music shell, and the Callaghan Military Band play promenade programs in the agricultural pavilion. The entire exposition will be open to the public on Sunday and twenty-minute Key Route ferry excursions will be operated for the accommodation of San Francisco patrons.

Time May be Booked in San Bernardino

Any companies coming as far south as San Bernardino and wanting to make dates for one night stands or for one week, can do so by writing to J. W. Leonard, manager of the Unique Theatre. Seating capacity 1,000 people, 5-piece orchestra and plenty of scenery. The house will hold about 1,400 people and never failed to have a packed house.

Andrews Opera Chairs

General Seating
School—Church—Bank
Office and Steel Rod
Furniture
Purchase direct from
manufacturer
THE A. H. ANDREWS CO.
Pacific Bldg., San Francisco
Chicago, New York, Tacoma

J. B. REIGHLEY Theatrical Hauling

Promptly Attended To
Telephone Market 1601
880 Guerrero Street, Bet. 18th and 19th

Opera, Folding and Assembly Chairs

Full Line
See Samples at 770-776
Mission St.
Bet. 3d and 4th Sts.
SAN FRANCISCO
Whitaker & Ray-
Wiggin Co.

FOR SALE

All Scenery
Drops, Set Pieces
Border Lights
Dimmers
Switch Boards
Chairs
Good Gas Heater, etc.
USED IN THE OLD COLONIAL THEATRE
Everything in First-Class Shape
McAllister Street, Near Market
Enquire—H. H. WHITING,
Office Leavenworth St., Near McAllister
San Francisco

Dates Ahead

A GIRL AT THE HELM (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—St. Louis, Oct. 1-2; E. St. Louis, 3; Jefferson, 4; Columbia, 5; Topeka, 6; Junction City, 7; Concordia, 8; Norton, 9; Denver, 10-16; Victor, 17; Boulder, 18; Greeley, 19; N. Platte, 20; Grand Island, 21; Lincoln, 22-23; Omaha, 24-25; Creston, 26; Des Moines, 27; Grinnell, 28; Cedar Rapids, 29; Iowa City, 30; Clinton, 31.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—San Francisco, Oct. 1-2; Oakland, 3; Sacramento, 4; Stockton, 5; Fresno, 6; Selma, 7; Bakersfield, 8; Santa Barbara, 9; Los Angeles, 10-16; San Diego, 17-18; Riverside, 19; Redlands, 20; San Bernardino, 21; Ogden, 23; Salt Lake, 24-31.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—San Francisco, Sept. 26-Oct. 1.

ALCAZAR STOCK.—San Francisco.

AS THE SUN WENT DOWN (Arthur C. Aiston.)—Cleveland, Sept. 27, week.

BLANCHE BATES (David Belasco.)—San Diego, Sept. 27; Santa Barbara, 28; Bakersfield, 29; Stockton, 30; Sacramento, Oct. 1; San Jose, 2; Oakland, 4, and week; Portland, 11 and week; Seattle, 18 and week; Tacoma, 25-26; Victoria, 27; Vancouver, 28-29; Bellingham, 30; Spokane, Nov. 1-3.

BELASCO STOCK CO.—Los Angeles.

BILLIE BURKE (Chas. Frohman, mgr.)—Los Angeles, Sept. 26-30.

BISHOP'S PLAYERS.—In stock, Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland.

CHAUNCEY OLCOTT (Augustus Pitou, mgr.)—Grand Forks, Sept. 27; Fargo, 28; Jamestown, 29.

CHIC PERKINS (Frank G. King, mgr.)—Grundy Center, Oct. 1-2; Story City, 4-5; Open, 6-7; Gladbrook, 8-9; Strawberry Point, 11-12; Fredericksburg, 13-14; Riceville, 15-16; Stacyville, 18; Mason City, 19-20; Open, 21-22; Goodell, 23; Pocahontas, 25-26; Webster City, 27-28; Ames, 29-30.

CHAS. B. HANFORD (F. Lawrence Walker)—Lynchburg, Oct. 4; Roanoke, 5; Richmond, 6-7; Newport News, 8; Norfolk, 9; Petersburg, 11; Raleigh, 12; Winston-Salem, 13; Charlotte, 14; Spartanburg, 15; Greenville, 16; Atlanta, 18-19; Athens, 20; Augusta, 21; Charleston, 22; Savannah, 23.

COMMENCEMENT DAYS (John Cort, mgr.)—Seattle, Sept. 26-Oct. 2.

DARE DEVIL DAN (W. F. Mann, owner; Robt. J. Riddell, mgr.)—Detroit, Sept. 26-30.

DUSTIN FARNUM (Liebler & Co., mgrs.)—Portland, Sept. 27-30.

FIFTY MILES FROM BOSTON (Cohan & Harris, mgrs.)—Everett, Sept. 26; Tacoma, 27; Eugene, 28; Red Bluff, 29.

EMMET DEVOY (W. G. Smyth, mgr.)—Denver, Sept. 26-30.

GUY SMITH STOCK.—Oakland, Cal.

GIRL FROM RECTOR'S (Al H. Woods, mgr.)—Los Angeles, Sept. 26-30.

HONEYMOON TRAIL (Mort H. Singer, mgr.)—Victor, Sept. 26; Pueblo, 27; Leadville, 28; Grand Junction, 29; Salt Lake City, 30.

IN THE BISHOP'S CARRIAGE (Baker & Castle, mgrs.)—Des Moines, Sept. 26-29; Omaha, 30.

HAROLD NELSON.—(G. G. Garrette, mgr.)—Gilroy, Sept. 27; Hollister, 29; Watsonville, 30; Salinas, Oct. 1-2; Gonzales, 3; Paso Robles, 4; San Luis Obispo, 5-6; Santa Maria, 7; Ventura, 8; Oxnard, 9; Santa Barbara, 11-12.

IN OLD KENTUCKY (A. W. Dingwall, mgr.)—St. Cloud, Sept. 26; Winnipeg, 27-29; Grand Forks, 30.

KING DODO (John Cort, mgr.)—Kenosha, Sept. 26; Oshkosh, 27; Fond du Lac, 28; Madison, 29; La Crosse, 30.

LITTLE JOHNNY JONES (Chas. L. Crane)—Indianapolis, Sept. 23-25; Urbana, 27; Piqua, 28; Wapakoneta, 29; St. Mary's, 30; Van Wert, Oct. 1; Decatur, 2; Dayton, National The., 4-6; Logansport, 7; Frankford, 8; Lafayette, 9; Crawfordsville, 11; Robinson, 13; So. Chicago, Calumet The., 14-16; Burlington, 18; Kenosha, 19.

MCKENZIE'S MERRY-MAKERS.—Marshfield, Sept. 23, 4 weeks.

MOROSCO'S BURBANK STOCK.—Los Angeles.

McFADDEN'S FLATS (Barton & Wiswell, mgrs.)—Wichita Falls, Sept. 27; Amarillo, 28; Dalhart, 29; Trinidad, 30.

MRS. LESLIE CARTER (Mrs. Leslie Carter, mgr.)—Kansas City, Sept. 27-30.

MAX FIGMAN (John Cort, mgr.)—Hot Springs, Sept. 26; Little Rock, 27; Pine Bluff, 28; Shreveport, 29; Beaumont, 30.

PERSSE-MASON OPERA CO.—Richmond, Sept. 25; Fairfield, 26; Vacaville, 27; Winters, 28; Woodland, 29; Oroville, 30.

PAID IN FULL.—Tacoma, Sept. 26-27; Victoria, 28; Vancouver, 29-30; Bellingham, Oct. 1; Everett, 2; Ellensburg, 4; Spokane, 5-6; Missoula, 7; Butte, 8-9; Great Falls, 10; Helena, 11; Bozeman, 12; Livingston, 13; Billings, 14; Dickinson, 15; Bismarck or Jamestown, 17; Fargo, 18.

POLLY OF THE CIRCUS.—Denver, Sept. 27-Oct. 3.

RICHARD CARLE (Carle & Marks, mgrs.)—Davenport, Sept. 26; Clinton, 27; Cedar Rapids, 28; Iowa City, 30.

RINGLING'S CIRCUS.—Phoenix, Sept. 27; Tucson, 28.

RAYMOND TEAL.—Phoenix till Aug. 16; then Tucson for four weeks.

SOUL KISS (Mittenthal Bros., mgrs.)—Baton Rouge, Sept. 26; Natchez, 27.

RICHARDS & PRINGLE'S FAMOUS MINSTRELS (Holland & Filkins.)—Lake Charles, Sept. 26; Orange, 27; Monroe, 28; Huntsville, 29; Crockett, 30.

SIS HOPKINS (J. R. Stirling.)—Ann Arbor, Oct. 4; Jackson, 5; Battle Creek, 6; Kalamazoo, 7; Dowagiac, 8; Benton Harbor, 9; Grand Rapids, 10-12; Cadillac, 14; Saginaw, 15; Port Huron, 16; Detroit, 17, week; Milwaukee, 24, week; Waukegan, 31.

SANFORD DODGE.—Douglas, Sept. 27 and week.

THREE TWINS (Joseph M. Gartes, mgr.)—Helena, Sept. 27-30.

TRAVELING SALESMAN (H. B. Harris, mgr.)—New Orleans, Sept. 27-30.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Eastern), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—St. Paul, Sept. 26-Oct. 2.

THE CAT AND THE FIDDLE (Chas. A. Sellon, mgr.)—Seattle, Sept. 26-Oct. 2.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Medford, Oct. 1; Ashland, 2; Dunsmuir, 3; Red Bluff, 4; Chico, 5; Marysville, 6; Woodland, 7; Vallejo, 8; San Jose, 9; San Francisco, 10-16; Oakland, 17; Sacramento, 18; Stockton, 19; Fresno, 20; Selma, 21; Bakersfield, 22; Santa Barbara, 23; Los Angeles, 24-30; San Diego, 31-Nov. 1.

TIME, PLACE AND GIRL (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Monterey, Oct. 1; Santa Barbara, 2; Los Angeles, 3-9; Redlands, 11; San Bernardino, 12; Riverside, 13; San Diego, 14-15; Santa Ana, 16; Bakersfield, 17; Hanford, 18; Visalia, 19; Stockton, 20; Oakland, 21-23; San Francisco, 24-30; San Jose, 31.

THE SUNNY SIDE OF BROADWAY (Boyle Woolfolk, mgr.)—Spokane, Sept. 26-30.

THE GOLDEN GIRL (Mort H. Singer, mgr.)—Atchison, Sept. 26; St. Joseph, 27; Lincoln, 28-29; Omaha, 30.

THE THIRD DEGREE (Henry B. Harris, prop.; Harry E. Allen, act. mgr.; R. W. Priest, bus. mgr.)—Denver, Sept. 20-26; Colo. Springs, 27; Victor, 28; Pueblo, 29; Boulder, 30; Greeley, Oct. 1; Cheyenne, 2; Salt Lake, 4-9; Los Angeles, 16; San Francisco, 18-31.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (Western) (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Corvallis, Sept. 27; Chico, 29; Sacramento, 30.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR (Western).—(Brady and Grismer). Alton, Sep. 26; Mexico, 27; Moberly, 28; Hannibal, 29; Keokuk, 30; Brookfield, Oct. 1; Sedalia, 2; Kansas City, 3-9; Fremont, 11; Norfolk, 12; Columbus, 13; Grand Island, 14; Kearney, 15; North Platte, 16; Denver, 17-23.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Astoria, Sept. 26; Salem, 27; Albany, 28; Eugene, 29; Roseburg, 30.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Astoria, Sept. 26; Salem, 27; Albany, 28; Eugene, 29; Roseburg, 30.

THE SOUL KISS (Albert Hoogs, bus. mgr.)—Baton Rouge, Sept. 26; Jackson, 27; Memphis, 28-30; Little Rock, Oct. 1; Hot Springs, 2; Dallas, 4-5; Fort Worth, 6-7; Waco, 8; San Antonio, 9-10.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE (H. B. Harris, mgr.)—New Orleans, Sept. 27-30.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Eastern), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—St. Paul, Sept. 26-30.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL (Eastern), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Louisville, Sept. 26-Oct. 2.

THE CLIMAX.—Sacramento, Sept. 26-27; Chico, 28; Red Bluff, 29; Medford, 30; Eugene, Oct. 1; Salem, 2; Portland, 3, week; Seattle, 10, and week; Aberdeen, 17; Olympia, 18; Tacoma, 19-21; Victoria, 22-23; Vancouver, 25-27; Westminster, 28; Bellingham, 29; Everett, 30; South Bend, Nov. 1; Chehalis, 2; Ellensburg, 3; North Yakima, 4; Pendleton, 5; Walla Walla, 6.

WRIGHT LORIMER (W. A. Brady, mgr.)—Great Falls, Sept. 27-28; Butte, 29-30.

BETTY HARTE, now that she has regained her composure after the celebrated diamond trial in Los Angeles, has joined the Selig Polyscope company in that city.

GOLDSTEIN & CO.
COSTUMERS
for all Pacific Coast Theatres.
Goldstein's Hair and Wig Store, Established 1876.
Make-Up, Play Books. Lincoln Building, Market and Fifth Sts.

Jim Post

Every man, woman or child in the city of San Diego and outside of it who have witnessed the change of bill weekly at the Pickwick during the last ten weeks will regret the departure of Jim Post and his famous Buty Korus. They have certainly endeared themselves to the theatre-going people of San Diego. Their stay has been of a most pleasant character. Not one thing has happened to mar the pleasure of it all. Jim (as everybody calls him) has caused many people to split their sides with laughter with his quaint, honest and inimitable portrayal of the Irish character. As for the girls, they have by their most excellent work and splendid deportment both on and off the stage set an example that will be most difficult to follow. The engagement has been exceedingly pleasant and a profitable one, and the best wishes of the people of San Diego go with them wherever they are called. The company goes direct from here to Phoenix, Arizona, where they will play the Grand Theatre.

ROBERT HOMANS and wife left yesterday for Mr. Homans' home in Lexington, Mass.

All Kinds of SCENERY
Painted, built and installed. The only real Scenic Studio on the Coast. Get our prices. For Road or House productions.
Front and Sheridan Sts. Portland, Oregon

C. F. Weber & Co. Opera Chairs
All Styles of THEATRE AND HALL SEATS
365-7 Market Street San Francisco
210-212 N. Main St. Los Angeles

FRED O. OSBORNE, Manager
Theatrical Code, "Santapole"
Home Phone F5037
New York Dramatic Agency
Booking
Dramatic and Vaudeville Acts
Organizing and Routing Companies, Supplying "Scripts," Etc.
Belasco Theatre Building, Los Angeles
Entire Third Floor

CHARLES E. ROYAL AND ELLIOTT EDYTHE

Presenting Charles E. Royal's wonderful Burglar Playlet, "STRAIGHTENING A CROOK," and six other excellent playlets. "Best sketch ever presented at the Empire."—Eureka Times. "Full enough of dramatic and comedy situations to warrant a four-act play."—Eureka Herald. Chas. Royal and Edythe Elliott are finished artists in every sense and present a wonderfully clever act."—Watsonville Pajaronian. "Working All the Time." "Featured Everywhere."

BERT LEVEY, AGENT.

Message from Mabel Taliaferro

To My Friends: Please in the future know me as Nell. Explaining this, Frederick Thompson, her husband, has written us: "'Taliaferro' is pronounced correctly in two totally different ways and incorrectly in half a dozen others. The name is so foreign and so confusing to playgoers generally that in many theatrical centres it is unfamiliar to the lips of men and women of whose every-day conversation, plays and players form a part. It does not suggest to friend or stranger any of the daintiness and girlish charm of the little star. Instead, by its spelling and verbal weight it has too often indicated the massive spread of a grand opera soprano rather than the slender delicacy of a young American girl. Nell happens to be the erstwhile Miss Taliaferro's middle name, and as it is hers by right and as through its very simplicity and sweetness, it eliminates in a moment all the difficulties and unfortunate misconceptions of the larger surname it has been chosen by the winsome actress herself as the title by which she wishes to be known in the future.

The American Idea

Trixie Friganza and her fellow-players of Cohan and Harris Comedians, are rehearsing Geo. M. Cohan's The American Idea for its second tour of the nation. This huge musical play, which won unstinted praise in New York, Chicago and Boston last season, will visit new territory this year and introduce to playgoers who love piquancy, melody, dancing and effervescent humor one of the brightest things that Cohan has done. The American Idea was written and composed by Mr. Cohan as a musical presentation of the speed with which America lives; it all moves at a break-neck pace, and the laughs are so frequent that they come at machine gun velocity. Miss Friganza heads the cast. She is a sterling comedienne with a tremendous personal following. Her support is uniformly strong, the Cohan and Harris Comedians being a permanent organization. New costumes have been imported from Paris to give the proper local color to the piece, whose locale is the French capital.

Personals

HENRY AUERBACH has joined the company at Fischer's Theatre, Los Angeles.

COLGATE BAKER, formerly dramatic critic on the Chronicle here, is now special writer on the New York Review, the new theatrical daily there.

FRANK CHAPMAN, one of the best advance men in the business, has been engaged by Liebler & Co. to go in advance of Madge Carr Cooke in The Cabbage Patch.

JUSTICE DOWLING in New York last Thursday passed upon the findings in the judgment rendered in the Howard Gould case and decided that Dustin Farnum is not guilty of the charges made against him.

HELEN BERTRAM has been engaged for the prima donna role in Havana, in the special company which will play the George Edwards musical piece to the Pacific Coast. The opening takes place in Atlantic City, Labor Day.

MME. EMMA EAMES has announced that she has quit the stage and will establish a home and enjoy life for the first time in many years. Mme. Eames is living in an old-fashioned, but attractive house in Paris, and avers that it is to be her home in the future. She says she has cancelled all her American engagements.

IN ACCEPTING for production The Lottery, a three-act comedy, by Rida Johnson, the Shuberts learn that Miss Johnson will no longer make use of her married name, which is Young. Miss Johnson, or rather Mrs. Young, wrote Brown of Harvard. Her husband, James Young, for several seasons with Viola Allen, last year starred in the college play. This season he is playing vaudeville dates.

WOMEN WHO have been toying over billiard tables will be amazed to learn that a woman has developed into a real amateur champion both at billiards and at pool. She is Mrs. Richard Harding Davis, wife of the playwright and novelist, and it is said that she can defeat every society man in the country and that only real champions of international skill can cope successfully with her at balk line billiards and "running in" the whole 15 balls at pool after a break. Mrs. Davis is noted for doing whatever she undertakes, and she excels in golf, tennis, horseback riding and painting. In pool none of her sex can compare with her. She is expert in straight and reverse english, in follow and half follow, while double shots are easy.

STEVE I. SIMMONS

MAXWELL ALEXANDER.

Columbia Scenic Studio Co.

Estimates on all Classes of Theatrical Work

Office, 117 Fell St., S. F.

George P. Webster

Stage Director

Ye Liberty Playhouse Stock, Oakland, Cal.

Arthur E. Witting-Mattie Davis

Character Actor

Joint or Single

Character Actress

AT LIBERTY

Address San Diego, Calif., Boundary and Howard Streets.

Doris Wilson

Prima Donna, Kolb and Dill Company

Augustus Phillips

Leading Man

Alcazar Stock—San Francisco

ORRIN SHEAR

Eccentric Characters

Engaged

FRANK OPPERMAN

Supporting Millidge Sherwood
in King Lear

JAMES O'REILLY

Characters

Engaged Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

DAVE LERNER

Playing the David Warfield Roles
With Nat Field at Central Theatre

ANITA MURRAY

Ingenue
Broadway Stock, Oakland.

COL. D. P. STONER

Business Manager Newman Foltz Co.
Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

THURLOW WHITE

Leads, Heavies
Address, DRAMATIC REVIEW

HERBERT MILTON

Characters and Heavies
At Liberty Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

CHARLES E. GUNN

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

BERT PORTER

Juveniles
Newman-Foltz Co.

MAX WAIZMAN

Newman-Foltz Co.

EDWARD B. LADA

General Music Director
for Belasco & Mayer

A. BURT WESNER

Comedian
At Liberty Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

TEDDY WEBB

Comedian, San Francisco Opera Co.
Direction Frank Healey

HARRY J. LASK

Representative New York Clipper
N. E. Cor. Sansome and Pine Sts.

HARRY MARSHALL

Scenic Artist
At Liberty. 2748 Vermont Ave., Los Angeles

MINOR REED

Scenic Artist
At Liberty Address DRAMATIC REVIEW

CARRIE CLARKE WARDE

Characters

CHESTER STEVENS

Heavies
Grand Opera House Stock, Los Angeles

MARY HARVEY-BARBOUR

Leads (Versatile)
3d Ave. Theatre, Seattle

FREDERICK GILBERT

Burbank Stock, Los Angeles

ARTHUR SHEPPARD

Scenic Artist Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

HOWARD FOSTER

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

IRENE OUTTRIM

Willard Mack Co.—Salt Lake City.

PIETRO SOSSO

Leading Heavy
Chas. King Company, San Diego

MINNIE MAYFIELD

Heavies and Characters
Late of Richard Jose Co. At Liberty. Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

HERMAN HELLER

Musical Director
Valencia Theatre Social engagements filled

DAN KELLY

Comedian
Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

FLORENCE DAVENPORT

Ingenue or Soubrette
At Liberty. Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

GEORGIE WOODTHORPE

Characters
Broadway Theatre, Oakland

ALFRED ROWLAND

Supporting Millidge Sherwood in King
Lear, Season 1909-10. Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

LAURA LUCILE HEIMLICH

Leads
Everett, Wash.

FRED S. CUTLER

Late Manager for Richard Jose
Advance or with company At Liberty
Address care DRAMATIC REVIEW

OLGA GRAY

Leads
At Liberty. Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

GEORGE VON BLIX

Stage Manager
Newman-Foltz Co.

Walter H. Newman

AND

Bertha Foltz

KLE

Starring Jointly

High-Class Repertoire

Season 1909 and 1910

Alf. T. Layne

Daisy D'Avra

Del Lawrence Stock, Victoria

Edith Lyle

Ye Liberty Stock, Oakland

Donald Bowles

Dramatic Director Geo. L. Baker's Attractions.
Address Bungalow Theatre, Portland, Oregon.
Loaned by Mr. Baker to direct Mr. James Neill's Company for him in St. Paul, Minn.

Neva West

Care Dramatic Review

Permanent Address, 2110 Post Street

Johnny Williams, Jr.

"FRISCO"

"The Man in Front." Can Book or Wild Cat

Louise Kent

In Vaudeville

Her Own Company

Pantages Circuit

Claire Sinclair

Second Business

Stock

Seattle Theatre, Seattle

E. P. Foot

GENERAL MUSICAL DIRECTOR

At Liberty

Care Grand Opera House

Mina Crolius Gleason

Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland

Louis Morrison

Belasco Stock Co.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Seibert & Lindley

Presenting the headline act, "HER OWN MOTHER," in vaudeville.

Sidney B. Payne

Lyric Stock, Portland, Or.

Sydney Ayres

Leading Man

Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, Cal.

Budd Ross

Comedian

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Al Hallett

Stage Director

Empire Stock, Fresno

F. F. Munier

Characters

Empire Stock, Fresno

Priscilla Knowles

Leads

Bennett Jack

Characters

Lyric Theatre, Portland

Carlton Chase

Leading Man

Kolb and Dill

Evelyn Selbie-Virginia Thornton

Alternating Leads

Frawley Co., Alaska

George B. Baldwin, Jr.

Alcazar Stock, San Francisco

Monroe Salisbury

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

James Austin Gleason—Webster

Lucile

Playing Title Role in Checkers

Juveniles in Checkers

Godfrey Matthews

Second Business

Broadway Stock—Oakland, Cal.

Leslie King

Season with E. H. Sothern

Closed June 17th

Immediately Engaged by

Frederic Thompson for Polly of the Circus

To open June 29th.

Edward Hume, who plays Jonathan Joy in A Knight For a Day, at the Garrick Theatre next week.

A Knight for a Day

First of the big musical plays to visit San Francisco this season is A Knight for a Day, which comes to the Garrick tomorrow. Boasting a new production, and a cast of principals that appears to be even better than that which interpreted the work on the occasion of its former visit, A Knight for a Day will return to the Garrick for a week. Edward Hume will be seen as Jonathan Joy, the diminutive waiter who, failing to get a tip from a customer, appropriates a package of papers left behind by the latter, and proceeds to impersonate the gentleman. This is one of the best eccentric comedy parts ever written, and in it Mr. Hume's work is splendid. Hume is declared to be one of the best eccentric dancers upon the American stage, and to have an exceptionally good singing voice. The role of Tilly Day, the slavey, a decidedly humorous character, will be impersonated by Grace DeMar, who scored heavily in the part in the Eastern cities last season. Ruth Florence will be seen as Muriel, to whom falls the delightfully haunting song; Life is a See-Saw. Miss Florence is said to possess a voice of unusual sweetness and power, and an engaging personality. Alice Considine is a dainty and unusually handsome young woman who will play Elaine. Rennold Cameron will be the Marcelaine; Forrest Cleveland the Emile, and the other principal roles are said to be in especially capable hands. Manager Frazee is said to have taken great pains with the chorus, which includes a number of those who were with the organization last season. Of the dozen song numbers in the show, those best remembered are Life is a See-Saw, The Little Girl in Blue, Whistle When You Walk-Out, and I'd Like Another Situation Just Like That.

Bob Priest Ahead of Third Degree and Assures Us It Is Great

I am proud to advise you that the cast of The Third Degree is one of the best ever sent west of the River, including as it does Paul Everton, Fernanda Eliscu, Margaret Drew, E. A. Eberle, Alfred Moore, Ralph Ramsey (who, by the way, is an own cousin of Andrew Carnegie, and even at that very clever), Harry Forseman, A. H. Simmons, Francis Bonn, and others. I expect to be in San Francisco on or before Oct. 7th, for a two weeks' sojourn in the big western metropolis, as The Third Degree plays the Van Ness there Oct. 18th to 31st, inclusive, which I understand takes in the great celebration date.

Charles Frohman Pacific Coast Tours

Charles Frohman has arranged for the following stars to visit the Pacific Coast this season, each tour to begin in Kansas and to end in Seattle: Maude Adams, in What Every Woman Knows; John Drew, in Instant George; Ethel Barrymore, in

Sir A. W. Pinero's Mid-Channel; Wm. H. Crane, in Father and the Boys; Hattie Williams, in Detective Sparkes; William Collier, in The Patriot; Otis Skinner in Your Humble Servant; Marie Doro, in a new play to be announced later; Kyrle Bellew, in The Builder of Bridges; Francis Wilson, in his own comedy, The Bachelor's Baby; Sir Charles Wyndham and Mary Moore, in The Mollusc. Mr. Frohman has chartered two private cars which will be used in succession by these companies traveling to the Pacific Coast.

New Home for Lambs

Negotiations have been begun by the real estate committee of the Lambs Club for the purchase of the Berkeley Lyceum in Forty-fourth street, New York City, to be used as the club's new home. The club has outgrown its present quarters on Forty-fourth street, between Broadway and Sixth avenue, and the members wish to obtain a new clubhouse as soon as possible. The Berkeley Lyceum property is a five-story building and is large enough to accommodate the needs of the club.

With two theatres in the Columbus Circle district (the Majestic and the Lincoln Square) the Shuberts have acquired a building site on West Sixty-third street, near Broadway, New York, upon which they will erect a theatre. This house, when completed, will make the eighteenth New York theatre under their and associates' management.

...First Pacific Coast Tour...

Wm. A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer's Production

A Gentleman From Mississippi

A Comedy of Washington Life by Harrison Rhodes and Thos. A. Wise
"Is a corker."—Colonel Roosevelt

One Entire Year New York City. Six Months Chicago

Commencing Monday, Sept. 27, Second and Last Week Van Vess
—AT THE—

The Greatest

Cast of

Singers

Headed by

THOS. H. PERSSE

Tenor

EDITH MASON

Soprano

Now Booking Season 1909 & 10

The Persse-Mason Co.

In the New Operatic Comedy

The Singing Bandits

Book and Music by HERMAN PERLET

THOS. H. PERSSE.....Sole Proprietor

JAMES PILLING.....Manager

Permanent Address: Dramatic Review, Van Ness Theatre Building, San Francisco

Everything Complete

New Scenery

Excellent Music

Quartette of Comedians

Booked Nearly Solid to June 1, 1910

Estha Williams

and a great

Supporting Company

in

AS THE SUN WENT DOWN

By Geo. D. Baker

Coast Tour Early in 1910

Address

ARTHUR C. AISTON

Sole Owner

Room 304

1505 Broadway

N. Y. City

Tel. 941 Bryant

Season

William Stoermer Presents

09-10

Millidge Sherwood

In a Sumptuous Scenic Revival of

... King Lear ...

Car of Scenery

25 People

Beautifully Costumed

Two "Ahead"

THE SAN FRANCISCO DRAMATIC REVIEW

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Published Continuously Since 1880. The Only Theatrical Publication in the Great West

Ten Cents a Copy—$4.00 a Year

San Francisco, Saturday, October 2, 1909

No. 6—Vol. XXI—New Series

W. Robert
Hildreth

MOROSCO'S
BURBANK THEATRE
Los Angeles, Cal.
"The Best in the West"
The Leading Stock House.

Oliver Morosco's Plays
Ready for Stock

The Judge and the Jury      The Halfbreed
The Empress and the Soldier
In South Car'liney

Is the New Majestic a winner? Well, we guess yes

Hamburger's MAJESTIC Theatre
The Handsomest in the West
Cost $300,000.00
Oliver Morosco, Lessee & Mgr
For time address JOHN CORT

Menzel's Dramatic Agency

These are busy times: I want 50 good actors. Orders are pouring in every day. A record of my recent activity: Supplied Ed. Redmond's company for Santa Cruz; Edwin Emery for the American Theatre, this city; Chas. King's company for the Pickwick, San Diego; Del Lawrence company, Seattle; Hallett and Clement stock, Fresno; Lorraine Buchanan company, for road; Millidge Sherwood company in King Lear, for road; and a host of single orders. Notwithstanding some pessimists, I do do business.

WM. MENZEL, 915 Van Ness Avenue
San Francisco, Cal.

Fifty Miles From Boston

With all the tunefulness, snap and mirth that characterizes the work of Geo. M. Cohan, Messrs. Cohan and Harris will present the former's successful musical play, Fifty Miles from Boston, at the Garrick Theatre, week commencing Sunday, October 3d. Produced originally in Chicago, the play at once met with the usual favor that has been accorded all the plays of this popular young American author. With its scenes laid in the little village of Brookfield, Mass., the action of the story has been written around the doings of a typical small town, with a uniquely realistic portrayal of the characters that live in such places. There is the general storekeeper, whose son is in love with the pretty postmistress; and the hotelkeeper, whose son, a Harvard baseball player, also loves the postmistress. Then there is her weak brother, who robs the postoffice and gets everybody into trouble. Town gossip and neighborly quarrels keep all those concerned in hot water, and as the story moves forward a picture with photographic minuteness is given of small town life in its every phase. Messrs. Cohan and Harris have provided an unusually strong company to fill the different parts, and likewise a large and well-drilled singing and dancing chorus. The production is ample to the extent of lavishness. Among the song hits are Waltz with Me, Jack and Jill, Harrigan, The Boys Who Fight the Flames, Ain't It Awful, and My Small Town Gal. Included among the cast are: Richard Bartlett, Grace King, Edward O'Connor, Frank Buoman, Daniel Bruce, Flossie Martin, Laura Bennett, Edwin Belden, May Maurice, Helen Young and Bobby Wagner.

Portola Benefit

Yesterday the theatrical managers of this city held a meeting to make their final arrangements for the Portola benefit to be given on the afternoon of October 8th in the Garrick Theatre. Each theatre has decided upon just what features it will bill for that afternoon, but there are a few minor arrangements to be made. The tickets which are now on sale are not seat tickets, but they may be exchanged for reserved seats without extra charge at the Garrick box office after Tuesday, October 5th. The hour of the benefit has been changed from 2 o'clock to 1:30, and the prices are to be $2 in the orchestra and $1 in the balcony, all of them reserved. The offerings will include Evelyn Vaughan as Sweet Kitty Bellairs, a scene from Mlle. Mischief, Kolb and Dill, another scene from Fifty Miles from Boston, and a number of Orpheum headliners, among them Edna Aug, Mary Norman, the Myosotis Sisters, the Big City Four, and Ed Reynard. At the meeting held Wednesday, our managers decided that after the Portola benefit, they would shut down on all future benefits, except the annual benefit for the theatrical charity fund.

Spotlights

The Play Readers' Committee of the Actors' Society of America resumed work Friday, September 24th, under the chairmanship of Harold R. Woolf. The committee will receive and read all plays submitted, with a view to production or to placing them with suitable managers. Some few plays are still on hand, from which one will be selected for early presentation. The Play Readers' Committee consists of the following men and women: Thomas A. Wise, president of the society, Fanny Cannon, vice-president; George Arliss, Mary Shaw, Richard F. Carroll, Edith Ellis Baker, Robert Owen Meech, George S. Christie, H. Nelson Morey, Mrs. Felix Morris, Nellie Callahan, W. D. Stone, Frank Jamison, David Landau, Edwin Brandt, Edith Campbell, Edward Ellis, George Farren, Charles Fleming, John Gorman, Lillian Kingsbury E. W. Morrison, Edward McWade, Harry O. Stubbs, Robert McWade, Jr., George H. Trader and Harold R. Woolf, chairman.

Appropos of a recent article that appeared in a little press agent's sheet called Playgoers, issued in Chicago, to the effect that "Harry La Mack will not go ahead of our Western company (A Pair of Country Kids). We have declined to engage handsome agents in advance of any of our attractions—Mr. La Mack writes to THE DRAMATIC REVIEW and states that he will be on hand to see his friends this season ahead of Uncle Josh Spruceby.

The Orpheum

The Orpheum announces for next week one of the best bills in the history of vaudeville. All the new acts have been headliners wherever they have appeared and their association in one program will be not only a remarkable but unprecedented event. James Young, assisted by Lorayne Osborne and Robert Strauss, will present a one-act college play called When Love is Young, which is a condensed version of Rita Johnson Young's comedy, Brown of Harvard. Mr. Young has been starring in Brown of Harvard, and the vaudeville sketch he is to appear in here is said to contain most of the important and fascinating moments of that comedy of college life. The career of Mr. Young has been a most interesting one. Some years ago he was the youngest prominent Shakespearean actor in this country, and of late he has been the principal male support of Viola Allen and other distinguished exponents of the classic drama. Mary Norman will introduce her refined and clever monologue, Some Types of Woman. It presents incidents from the lives of several actresses before the public and behind the scenes. Ed. F. Reynard, who is included in the new attractions, is styled "The Ventriloquist with a Production, for he performs an entire play with the assistance of his automatons, which totally eclipses anything of its kind previously witnessed on a stage. All the characters are automatons, to whom Mr. Reynard's marvelous ventriloquial powers appear to impart the gift of language. Pilu is the quaint name of an extraordinary dog brought to this country by Signor D. Ancillotti, an European animal trainer. Pilu will give his so-called demonstration of mind-reading next week at the Orpheum. While Ancillotti is in the auditorium receiving questions from those about him, this remarkable canine answers from the stage without any perceptible exchange of code or signal from his master. The Big City Quartette, the Myosotis Sisters, Henry Clive and that inimitable comedienne and character actress, Edna Aug, will conclude their engagements with next week. A series of novel motion pictures will be the finale to a most delightful entertainment.

Alcazar Theatre

Sweet Kitty Bellairs will be started on its second and positively last week in the Alcazar next Monday evening. That it would exceed the customary seven days' run was assured by its initial presentation, for everyone who then witnessed it went forth to announce that it eclipsed its previous production, last season, in both acting and staging. While the wonderfully effective work of Evelyn Vaughan in the title role is more largely responsible than anything else for the rendition of Sweet Kitty Bellairs a second week, the acting of the other principal people, the elaborate scenic effects, the luxurious costumery and the cleverly drawn situations and bright lines of the play itself must be taken into consideration as important factors in the whole magnetism. That the play could profitably be retained a third week, probably longer, is unquestioned, but it must be withdrawn after next Sunday evening to make room for The Rose of the Rancho, which, with Bessie Barriscale in her former role of Juanita, will be the Alcazar's appropriate offering while the Portola festival is on. This attraction will be given a complete new scenic equipment, and there is good reason for believing that it will equal, if not excel, its three weeks' run when it was first presented in the Alcazar.

Hotel St. James

Cor. Van Ness Ave. and Fulton St.
San Francisco, California

Headquarters for Agents and Managers

Half Block from Van Ness Theatre.
Friars meet at the St. James every
Friday night.

F. P. SHANLEY, Manager, formerly of New York

Theatres and Opera Houses, National and Municipal, in Latin America

Cuts and data furnished through the courtesy of The International Bureau of the American Republics.
SIXTH ARTICLE.

NATIONAL THEATRE, SAN SALVADOR, CENTRAL AMERICA

The National Theatre, in the city of San Salvador, is liberally patronized and is visited every season by an opera company from Italy or France.

It is astonishing when the number of state theatres is enumerated in these Latin American states. There seems to be no end of beautiful art edifices that have been erected as monuments to a public desire and architectural taste. Two most beautiful structures are depicted this week.

FRONT OF JUAREZ THEATRE, GUANAJUATO, MEXICO

The magnificently decorated interior of the Juarez Theatre is a dream of color. The proscenium arch is of the horseshoe form, in red, gold, and blue stucco relief, while the walls of the boxes and of the whole interior are stenciled in the Catalan style with dull reds and golds. The cost of the edifice, which has a seating capacity of 1,300 persons, was $1,000,000.

Chas. Hanford Will Use Modern Play

This season Charles B. Hanford will concentrate his efforts on two plays, both comedies—The Taming of the Shrew and The American Lord, the latter a modern comedy by George H. Broadhurst and Charles T. Dazey, two representative American dramatists. Mr. Hanford's Petruchio is recognized as a standard performance, so completely has he identified the role with his own personality that thousands upon thousands of playgoers have accorded him unqualified acceptance as its representative living interpreter. In continuing this vivacious Shakespearean creation in his repertory, Mr. Hanford responds to the definitely expressed wishes of numerous theatre managers who have taken occasion to voice the wishes of their patrons. A strong element of the popularity of this production lies in the portrayal of the leading feminine role by Marie Drofna. Her presentation of Katherine is universally admired as a worthy accompaniment of the Hanford realization of Petruchio. Great as has been the interest in the continuation of Mr. Hanford's appearances in The Taming of the Shrew, it has not ex-

ANNUAL
TOUR OF

THE ELLEFORD COMPANY

IN LATEST DRAMATIC ROYALTY SUCCESSES
Pacific Coast Representative for Brady and Grismer's
MAN OF THE HOUR and WAY DOWN EAST
"A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI"

W. J. ELLEFORD, Sole Proprietor and Director

FRANK WYMAN, Manager

WILLIS BASS, Business Manager

Permanent Address, Francis-Valentine Co., 285-287 13th St., S. F.

celled the manifestations of eager expectancy concerning his production of a drama of the present day. The American Lord gives opportunity for character delineation of the kind in which this actor peculiarly excels. The subject of the picture is a man who has grown up amid rugged surroundings to be big—morally, temperamentally and intellectually. He meets emergencies with the same fortitude as that displayed by the heroes of classic distinction who have hitherto engaged Mr. Hanford's talents. Mr. Hanford has long held the belief that the responsibilities and perplexities of our own day are no less worthy of an artist's study than those of ancient or mediaeval Italy.

Gets Fortune if She Avoid Actors and Divorced Men

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The will of Ellen M. Hennessey, widow of former Fire Commissioner James S. Hennessey, leaves one-third interest in her $500,000 estate to her 12-year-old granddaughter, Catherine Bradley Bigelow, provided that at no time shall she marry a divorced man or an actor. If the girl does marry a divorced man or an actor she shall forfeit her interest in the estate, according to the will, and her portion shall revert to Hennessey's son, J. Forbes Hennessey, and a daughter, Ellen Mary Parker. Evidently Mrs. Hennessey belonged to the old school of narrow vision. The present-day actor is proving to be a very domestic person and he makes in as great a proportion as good a husband as the average.

The Next of Kin

Charles Klein, the author of The Lion and the Mouse, and The Third Degree, is to have his latest work, The Next of Kin, produced by Henry B. Harris in November. Mr. Klein, following his usual custom, has taken for his theme a subject of great interest to the American public. In his new play he deals with the enactment by legislatures of loosely constructed laws capable of many interpretations. He also attacks our modern methods of legal procedure which culminate in the courts, becoming clogged, and as a result delaying the proper adjudication of the rights of litigants and the tying up of large estates, thereby withholding from widows and orphans their just inheritances, causing great suffering as a consequence. Mr. Klein also takes occasion in his new play to inveigh against the connection of politics with the Bench and the Bar, for the purpose of extorting blackmail.

The Invasion

Oliver Morosco has accepted and will soon produce at his Burbank Theatre in Los Angeles, Invasion, a new play by Julian Johnson, a well-known

New Oxnard Opera House

OXNARD, CAL.

Best stage between Frisco and Los Angeles. Playing all of the best shows that come to the Coast. Doing good business. Write for open time.

GONZALES OPERA HOUSE

GONZALES, CAL.

New, well appointed theatre, electric lighted. full stock of new scenery. C. H. WIDEMAN, Mgr.

WOODLAND Opera House

WOODLAND, CAL.

Greatest show town for good shows in the West. A few good dates open in September and October. Stage big enough for any production. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

Hill Opera House

PETALUMA, CAL.

JOHN R. ROCHE, Lessee and Manager

The finest theatrical town outside of the big cities in the West. Magnificent new theatre, with stage large enough for any attraction, playing regularly from $500 to $700 a night. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

287 Thirteenth St., S. F.

BARCROFT Opera House, Merced

Entirely remodeled. New stage, big enough for any production. Stage equipped with new scenery. Merced has 4,000 population. For time write F. R. BARCROFT, Manager.

Santa Cruz OPERA HOUSE

Santa Cruz, Cal.

L. A. KNIGHT, Manager

Rental or will play first-class companies on percentage

H. Lewin

H. Oppenheim

GORDAN TAILORING CO.

928 Market St., Bet. Powell and Mason
FINE CLOTHES MODERATE PRICES
No Branch Stores

NEW AUDITOR

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CAL.

Seating capacity, 1,000; new stage; new scenery; stage thirty feet deep, sixty feet wide; large enough for any production; a population of 5,000 to draw from; now booking for 1909-10.
Address WALTER A. CLARK, Mountain View, Cal.

Los Angeles dramatic critic. The play deals with the descent of an avalanche of Asiatics upon the Pacific Coast. The action is local. Illuminating their path with giant searchlights, the invaders land below Long Beach in the night, after annexing the Hawaiian Islands with their powerful fleet. The aim is to take Los Angeles and its three great railway arteries, and thus to establish an impregnable base far up in the Rockies, "setting a new Gibraltar on the Great Divide." The invaders are not Japanese. The only native Nippon in the plot dies a martyr in the defense of his adopted country. There is but one rifle shot in the piece, and that off stage. The silent gun, the wireless telegraph, the high explosive, the submarine mine and the aeroplane are the weapons chosen by the author for his distinctly modern play. The final scene shows the possibilities of the deadly warfare. The cast is small, but the production will be elaborate, and work upon it already has begun.

Madison's Budget No. 12, Just Out
818 Van Ness
Parent's Stationery Co., Avenue, S.F.

Billie Burke at the Van Ness

When Billie Burke visited San Francisco season before last with John Drew in My Wife, she turned everybody's head and won everybody's heart. She returns to the Van Ness next Monday night as a full fledged star and the indications are that everybody is eager and anxious to undergo the pleasing operation of having his head turned and his heart won once more. No actress of recent years has gained a vogue so quickly as Miss Burke and it looks very much as if it was a vogue that was going to last indefinitely, too. She has youth and beauty and ability and temperament love with a young man, thinks it the most natural thing in the world to tell him that she has. The young man marries her, of course, and then she learns that he has a past—several pasts in fact. She taxes him with it and he admits that he has flirted a little, but he'll do so no more. And he doesn't, but appearances are against him and his little wife thinks that he has. How shall she be revenged? Why, she'll flirt, too. And she tries, but she can't and, above all—wonderful charm. And it is charm that counts most, after all, when the points in an actress' favor are summed up. But Miss Burke can act, too, and she will prove it in Love Watches, the comedy in which she is to appear at the Van Ness. This piece, by the way, is by Mm. de Flers and de Caillavet, the same clever Frenchmen who wrote My Wife and who have just given John Drew another big success in New York—Inconstant George. Love Watches was adapted into English for Miss Burke by Miss Gladys Unger, a former San Franciscan, and for that reason the play ought to be especially interesting to theatregoers of this city. It tells a delightful story of a pretty little French girl, just out of a convent and entirely unversed in the ways of the world, who, when she falls in and it is this unsuccessful attempt that furnishes the plot for the play. The part of the little French girl might have been created especially for Miss Burke, so perfectly in every way does it fit her. She is supported by an excellent company, too, including Vernon Steel, a young English actor who is on his first visit to America; Ernest Lawford, who was seen here with Maude Adams; Maude Odell, Kate Meek, Stanley Dark and Frank Martin, all of them prominent in the profession. Miss Burke will remain at the Van Ness for two weeks and will give matinees on Wednesdays as well as Saturdays. There will be no Sunday performances.

Billie Burke in Love Watches

A Gentleman from Mississippi will close its engagement at the Van Ness Theatre on Sunday night.

surroundings with all the charm and feminine graces that have long combined to make her an institution on the American stage.

On account of the death of Clyde Fitch, the production of The City, his latest play, will be brought out much earlier than originally planned by the

Spotlights

In the parlance of the first-nighters who gathered to receive Lillian Russell in her new comedy, The Widow's Might, in New York, week before last, the consensus of opinion was that the fair Lillian wins again. Edmund Day's comedy of Wall Street, which is her stellar vehicle for the present, turns out the play that permits Miss Russell to shine in new

LEVY'S BIG TRUNK STORE

INCORPORATED

COAST AGENTS

FOR THE

Taylor Trunks

687 Market St., S. F. ODD. Kearny GENERAL REPAIRING Phone Douglas 3192

Shuberts. This firm has another Fitch play, The Manicure Girl, which was written for Zella Sears, which will probably be soon launched.

C. W. Blagg and C. J. Stevens have arranged to give Pasadena theatre-goers a full week of attractions at the Lowe Grand Opera House. These gentlemen have secured an option on the opera house and the services of the Wright Stock Company, which will present a number of recent successes, the prices of admission being placed at 15, 25, 35 and 50 cents. The engagement opens Monday evening, September 27th. On that night The Devil will be offered. On Tuesday evening will be presented My Country Sweetheart. On Wednesday evening comes In Old Virginia. On Thursday evening the play will be The Young Rivals, on Friday evening The Belles, and for Saturday matinee, The Young Rivals. Marian Melville will play leads.

Sarah Bernhardt, the French actress, who is suing the Press Publishing Company, publishers of the New York World, for $100,000 damages, applied last week for permission to have her testimony taken in France by an open commission. Judge Lacombe in the United States Circuit Court granted the application. In private life Sarah Bernhardt is Mme. Dalmala. She asks damages for an article in the World entitled "Fakes Don't Do, Sarah," which she says hurt the sale of her memoirs and libeled her character. Frenchmen of letters who are said to know just how much of her own memoirs Mme. Bernhardt wrote will testify before the commission.

The progress made upon the construction of the new Columbia Theatre has been so great during the past few weeks that Gottlob & Marx have every reason to expect that the December date set for the opening will find the theatre in readiness for occupancy.

The Traveling Salesman, James Forbes' successor to his other hit, The Chorus Lady, is underlined for early presentation at the Van Ness Theatre. Complete in laugh lines, displaying a large assortment of plain and fancy laughs, Mr. Forbes' latest effort should attract much attention here.

The Garrick

San Diego's Leading Playhouse
San Diego, California

D. C. COLLIER, Proprietor
WYATT & DODGE, Managers

Novelty Theatre, San Francisco TO RENT

By the day, week or month. Fine, comfortable theatre, seating 1,200 people.
Large stage.
SPECIALLY ADAPTED TO POLITICAL MEETINGS

Thais Magrane Is Immense as Du Barry and Billie Burke Takes Her Audience By Storm. All This Happens in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 30.—The biggest thing that is taking the attention of people theatrical this week is the production of Du Barry by the Belasco Company. It surely is a big undertaking, but it is being done and well done at that. This is the last week of the Allen Curtis Company at Fischer's. Next week the company goes to the Walker Theatre. They will be succeeded by Charles Alphin and his company, playing musical productions from Mr. Alphin's pen. The company is now rehearsing for the opening bill, The King of Patagonia. We are told that A. Byron Beasley has received a letter from "Our Bill" Desmond from New Orleans, in which he says there has been a tornado down there, but that he still has the watch presented to him by the members of the Burbank Company. He is quoted as saying that a tree fell on him, and still the watch was unharmed. Blanche Hall has sailed from Honolulu for Los Angeles. She will return to the Burbank as leading woman, October 17th. Beth Tate, who is playing the maid in The Girl from Rector's this week, has received a signed contract to create the soubrette role in a big musical comedy called Slumming, which will be produced in New York in January. Miss Tate is to be "featured," which means that she will become a star if she makes good. The comedy will be under the management of Al H. Woods. John Philip Sousa will give his longest engagement in Southern California at the Auditorium next month. Under the local direction of the Fitzgerald Music Company he and his band will give twelve concerts. The Bank Clerks' Show has been announced for November 4, 5, 6, at the Mason Opera House. Instead of the usual minstrel show, the entertainment will consist of a light opera. The libretto is written by Charles Saxby, and set to music by Philip Kaufman. There are several women's parts this year, which is a new departure for this organization.

AUDITORIUM—The Great John Ganton, dramatized by J. Hartley Manners from Arthur J. Eddy's story of Chicago packingtown, Ganton & Co., is being presented at the Auditorium this week by a large percentage of the original company, including the one really important figure, George Fawcett, who plays Ganton himself. The play itself is not a very strong one, but it serves to introduce to us George Fawcett, who is really a great actor. His characterization of Ganton is ideal, and one that will not soon be forgotten by any who see the production. An admirable piece of work is done by Allen Fawcett as the packer's confidential clerk. John Webster is manly as Allan Borlan leader of a hopeless fight against the packing trust. Mr. Gray is a typical stage clergyman. Miss Campbell as May Keating shows that she has ability and that she is capable of more than she is called upon to do in this play. Thurston Hall and Lucius Henderson also do well in the roles assigned to them. The geographical atmosphere is well instilled. It is the minor note in the harmony of realism which makes the play worth so much.

BELASCO.—The company at the Belasco has undertaken a big thing this week in the production of Du Barry. The whole performance does credit to the company. It is most too much for a stock company to do when there is so little time for rehearsals, and the present offering is a surprise to many who did think that the company was unequal to the task. Thais Magrane in the Carter role does wonderfully well. She gives us a consistent forceful and convincing picture of Mr. Belasco's heroine. She works her scenes up well and shows us that she can handle an emotional part better than most stock actresses. The rest of the characters seem small and insignificant beside Du Barry herself and yet they all have their place in the whole scheme and each one is in capable hands. Lewis S. Stone, as Cosse, is forceful, dignified and impressive. Mr. Vivian gives an appealing picture of Denys, the faithful servant. Mr. Camp does very excellent work as the King. Mr. Giblyn as Comte Jean Du Barry, does the best piece of work he has done since he joined the Belasco forces. There is only one thing which mars his work a little, and that is his propensity for playing to his audience all of the time. The stage settings are beautiful and complete. The elegance and richness of furniture and costumes is truly wonderful and entirely beyond anything yet attempted by a stock organization.

BURBANK—Mr. Morosco's company is this week giving us the best performance of Somerset Maugham's Lady Frederick that has been given in Los Angeles. Lady Frederick is not a great play in any sense of the word, and there are times when it is not even interesting, and this is the very reason that it requires good players to make the performance go and keep the attention of the audience. Miss Burkhart plays the lead as if she had played no other part all of her life and her easy, graceful stage presence makes her a very charming Lady Frederick. Her gowns captivate the women, and she is a real Lady Frederick. Mr. Beasley gives a smooth and finished performance of Paradine Fouldes. Harry Mestayer is very good as Lord Meresto. Mr. Hartford and Margo Duffet both have small parts, which they handle well. Mr. Stockbridge is amusing in the part of Gerald O'Mara. Mr. Burton returns to the company after his vacation and has a good part in this week's play. Scenically the play is all that could be desired.

MASON—Billie Burke, with her airs and graces, her spontaneity and youth, is once more at the Mason, after two seasons of London and New York successes. On her previous visit to Los Angeles, she was John Drew's support in My Wife. Love Watches is an adaptation from the French, and is a light and extremely frothy comedy, of the sort that the French pen so well. Miss Burke, as Jacqueline, is all that her looks belie, and brings her fascinating voice into good play, as the playful, jealous, whimsical wife of one Count Andre De Juvigny, who is well portrayed by Vernon Steele. Ernest Lawford, as the book-worm, Augarde, was most convincing. Maude Odell gave a splendid picture of Lucie de Morfontaine, also Kate Meek as the worldly-wise Marquise de Juvigny.

The rest of the characters were equally well cast.

MAJESTIC—Mr. Morosco is playing The Girl from Rector's. The seat sale is one of those record-breakers. The plot deals with the wife of an American diplomat, stationed in China. The action takes my lady from Battle Creek, Michigan, to the wicked and fascinating "Great White Way" in New York, where she finds solace and entertainment at "Rector's." "The Girl," Carrie Weber, makes the most of all opportunities, and is the center of all the fun. The music is tuneful the chorus all that could be desired, and the entire cast is all that it should be.

GRAND—Adrift in the World is the melodramatic offering at the Grand for the week. This is a really interesting play which is more than can be said of many of the thrilling things that are put before us nowadays. There is both good action and bright comedy in the piece and the members of the company are all well cast. George Webb appears this week as the hero, while Robert Leonard plays the villain. Lillian Hayward is playing one of her familiar "heavy" roles in a genuine manner. Arthur Witting supplies most of the comedy of the piece with his excellent characterization of the Jew Abraham Jacobson. Margaret Davis a new member of the company, does good work as Martha Pickings. Grace Rauworth is convincing in the leading feminine role of Mary Elliott. Harry Oaks and Mayme Charlson both do good work in character parts. The performance is most satisfactory.

ORPHEUM—The bill this week is much better than the average both as to new turns and the hold-overs. Leila McIntyre and John Hymans have a well-written sketch dealing with the often-used situation of the stage manager and the aspiring one who desires to be initiated into the tricks and wiles of the land beyond the curtain. Catharine Hayes and Sabel Johnson are well fitted in a merry skit, The Dream of Baby Days. George W. Cunningham and Herman Marion get away with a good many laughs in their mixture of comedy and some very good acrobatic stunts. Rose Royal brings many rounds of applause with her posing horse, Chesterfield. Jack the Giant Killer is still appealing to the youngsters, and Joseph Hart and his Bathing Girls to the grown-ups. Carson and Willard, and The Thalia Quartette complete the list of holdovers. The moving pictures are, as always, a finishing touch to a very good bill.

LOS ANGELES—Come Back to Erin, a sketch act, heads the bill at the Los Angeles Theatre this week. It is a well conceived and ably acted sketch, being put on by Charles Mack and a company of three. The rest of the bill is made up of good acts. The Wood Brothers are seen in a double-ring act. J. K. Emmett and his company appear in a comedy entitled Artie's Dream.

Alfred K. Hall does some eccentric dancing. J. Warren Keane is one of the younger masters of sleight-of-hand tricks; his work is very clever. Cogan and Bancroft can skate, and dance on skates. New motion pictures complete the bill.

FISCHER'S—The attraction for the week at Fischer's is An American Princess—a one-act musical satire on foreign noblemen, German professors and suffragettes. Annie Bauman plays the Princess. Charles Figg, who has been passing his vacation in a mountain retreat, is cast as Mr. Wise, a shrewd and polished adventurer. Mayme Praeger is the woman suffragette, and Estelle Praeger is the Mimi, the maid. Henry Auerbach is an English doctor. Arthur Clamage a German professor. The chorus is attractive in new costumes and the dances are pretty. Among the song numbers are Move On, Mr. Moon, When Women Get Their Right, My Word, and Oh! Miss Malinda.

Owing to the illness of Hobart Bosworth, Mr. Morosco has been conducting the Morosco Dramatic School, pending the arrival of a new director from New York. Mr. Morosco has seen fit to select two pupils from the school for important roles in the forthcoming production of When We Were Twenty-One at the Burbank.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 29.—The Girl from Rector's had poor houses at the Clunie, 19-20. Dustin Farnum in Cameo Kirby drew a full house, 25. The Clmax, to fair business, 26-27. Coming to the Clunie: The Time, the Place and the Girl, 30; Blanche Bates in The Fighting Hope, Oct. 1; Kolb and Dill in Dream City, 3; A Knight for a Day, 4. After the performance of Cameo Kirby, Dustin Farnum was entertained by the Camellians, a local dramatic society. At the Grand, week commencing Sept. 19th: The Three Rohrs, looping the loop in a revolving globe; George Edward Murphy and Walt Whitman, assisted by Florence Bates Norsfall, in the sketch, A Prodigal Girl; Vera De Bassini, operatic prima donna, and wonderful human violin; William Mitchell and John J. Cain, The Frenchman and the Other Fellow; Wood Brothers, athletes, in their double flying rings; Clarence Sisters, the Australian Nuggets. At Pantages, week Sunday, Sept. 26th: Menetekel, the mystery of Babylon, phenomenal illusion; Montague's cockatoos; Arthur Deming, the minstrel man; Jones and Walton, Our Country Cousin; Rivell and Deery, Roman ring artists.

Negotiations are afoot for a presentation of King Lear, under the direction of Wm. Stoermer, at the Greek Theatre, Berkeley. This will probably be one of the best attractions ever launched from a bay city. The company will play a limited number of guaranteed engagements about California before embarking for Eastern territory.

Charles King

ANNOUNCES

Marjory Rambeau & Company

At the PICKWICK THEATRE, San Diego, for an indefinite season

Producing Only Royalty Plays

Correspondence

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 27.—Matters are moving along at a good pace in theatredom in this city. All the houses are now in full blast, and two are being made ready to house their respective bookings—the New Heilig and the Portland, formerly the Heilig. The work on the former house has been held back on account of the architects being slow with their plans, but I am now informed by Mr. Heilig that they are about completed and that work will start with a vim shortly, and that he expects to have the new theatre finished by the middle of January. At the Portland, men are engaged day and night altering and repairing the house. It is said that when the work is finished that the house will be in better shape than ever. Dad Russell was in town this week looking over matters, and stated that he would return from Seattle the latter part of this week and remain here until the completion of the work on the Portland. Arthur A. Greene, who was installed as manager of the Shubert house, has resigned, and his place has been filled by Frank Hood. Mr. Hood is now in this city, and no doubt will remain permanently as the manager, although there are reports that he is here only temporarily, until a Shubert representative arrives from the East. Another change made by Mr. Russell on his arrival was that the McRae Stock Company, who are now at the Star, will close their engagement this week, and that the comedy Going Some will be the offering next week; also that from now on until the completion of the Portland, the Shubert shows will be housed at the Star. Bungalow Theatre (Calvin Heilig, mgr.): William Pangle, resident mgr.): Following A Knight for a Day, another of the Frazee musical comedies came to this house—The Time, the Place and the Girl. This is the third visit to this city of this play, and he it said to the credit of Mr. Frazee that he has kept the company and production pretty well up since he took possession of the piece. The cast was good, and the chorus was young and sprightly. Robert Pitkin is found playing Johnny Hicks this year, and while not the equal of Young in the role, no complaint can be laid up against him for his portrayal of the role. May Bouton and Elizabeth Thomas are the bright spots of the lady folks. Tonight and for this week, Dustin Farnum in Cameo Kirby. Next week, The Climax. Star Theatre (Frank Hood, mgr.): Last night the McRae Stock Company offered Fitch's The Cowboy and the Lady and gave a fine presentation of the play, and left nothing to be desired from a scenic standpoint. The company was well cast, and each member seemed to be perfectly at home in the role assigned to each of them. Allen Holuber played the part of Teddy North in just the manner one would want to see it, and the reappearance of William Dills, a Portland favorite as a tender-hearted cow-puncher, was alone enough of an event to almost crowd the house. Margaret Oswald in the leading part was equal to all demands made upon her. This company closes next Saturday night. Baker Theatre (George L. Baker, mgr.; Milton Seaman, business mgr.): The Girl Question closed a good week's business at this house Saturday night, and Texas opened yesterday to big houses. Texas was here last season at the Heilig, and those of us who saw the play at that time well remembered that it was one which sustained the heart interest to the very end, and a lot of repeaters could be seen in yesterday's audiences. As the name implies, the play deals with Western life, and the company interpreting it could not be improved upon. It is hard to single out any particular member of this company as the best. All are well cast and sustain their roles admirably, particularly Emily Clifton as Texas; Harlan Fox in the hero's role; John Hazeltone as Oklahomey, and Jack Marvin as a half breed. Next week: Alburtus, the hypnotist. Orpheum Theatre (James H. Erickson, mgr.): No complaint could be registered by any one relative to the class of the show Manager Erickson dished up at the Orpheum the past week. It was just as good an all-round bill as one could ask for. Mary Norman was billed as the headline act in her impersonations of women of different types, and they were a delight. Ed Renard, in his ventriloquist act, was the biggest favorite on the bill. His work was clean-cut and different from the ordinary run of acts of that kind. Another high-class vaudeville act was the dog, Pilu, whose work was a revelation. This week's bill: Valerie Bergere, Tuscany Troubadours, Six Glinserettis, Joe Jackson, Carlin and Clark, Laura Buckley, and Alburtus and Saltus. Lyric Theatre (Keating & Flood, mgrs.): A play out of the beaten path, entitled The Octopus, is this week's offering by the Athon Company at this house. There is enough pathos and comedy intermingled to keep an audience in a good frame of mind throughout. The work of Priscilla Knowles as the persecuted heroine was one of the best pieces of work she has done since her coming to this city. Mr. Athon was also in his element in the lead. Alice Condon lived up to her reputation as one of the best ingenues that has appeared on the lyric stage. Grand Theatre (Frank Coffinberry, mgr.): Butler and Bassett are the headliners for this week, and the balance of the bill includes Fagen and Byron, Wolcott & Co., Flo Patterson, Bissonette and Newman, and Fred Bauer. Pantages Theatre (John Johnson, mgr.): Barlow's Dog and Pony Circus lead off for this week, and the other acts are The Glocklers, Kauffman Brothers, Lipman and Lewis, Casey and LeClair, Meyer Brothers and Leo White. A. W. W.

SEATTLE, Sept. 27.—Moore Theatre—A college play set to music is Commencement Days, which opened a week's engagement at the Moore last night, and, as the girls are pretty, the staging effective and the songs bright and tuneful, it is no doubt in for a successful run. Grand Theatre—The Cat and the Fiddle, with a better company than last year, is again here at the Grand. The chorus is not very strong in singing, but it makes up in looks, while there are scenic effects by the bushel. Alhambra Theatre—Going Some comes to the Alhambra Tuesday night. Seattle Theatre—For those who like the real old-fashioned

The Hotel Dale

ON THE RIALTO—HOME OF THE PROFESSION—SPECIAL RATES
Only First-Class European Hotel close to The Garrick, Princess, Novelty,
National, Alcazar, or Pantages—SAN FRANCISCO
SPECIAL—We make a feature of Breakfasts Served in Rooms
COR. GOLDEN GATE AVE. AND FILLMORE ST.
Take McAllister Street and Turk and Eddy Street Cars at the Ferry

Clancy's

Phone Franklin 1506

Stage Hardware

Williams Hardware & Stove Co.
Incorporated

974 Market Street
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

melodrama, The Convict's Sweetheart is all that could be desired. Its complicated plot is well handled by the stock company at the Seattle. Lois Theatre—The Lawrence company are presenting The Spoilers, which will always be a play of interest to Seattle audiences. The production is a good one. At the Majestic Will Rossiter presents a big happy kid act, with nine youngsters in songs, dances and games down on Uncle Hiram's farm. Ernest Pantzer and company are sensational acrobats; Howard Missimer and company offer the sketch, Mr. Stranger, a fantastic comedy by Oliver White; Edna Davenport is a favorite singing comedienne; Spaulding and Loeonare are comedians; and Killian and Moore are singing and talking comedians. At Pantages this week—Bert Swan and his trained alligators are seen. In his act he wrestles with a huge 300-pound monster both on the mat and under the water. The water act is given in a glass tank. The alligators are put through a series of stunts that cause genuine astonishment. Orpheum—George Bloomquist comes back this season at the head of his own company in a one-act comedy entitled Nerve. Howard and Howard are a perpetual source of delight to all lovers of vaudeville. Their skit, The Messenger Boy and the Thespian, is a roar from start to finish. Martinetti and Sylvester, the boys with the chairs, are a revelation to those who think they have seen rough knockabout acts.

E. Morgenstern.

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 26.—The Three Twins, at the Auditorium, 20-26, is one of the best musical comedies seen here. It has a good plot and many novel features. The music is fascinating, the chorus excellent, and electrical effects beautiful. The company is headed by Victor Morley, and includes Bessie Clifford, Ida Poetz, W. H. Woodside, Florence Kolb, Frank Smith, Eddie Bowers and a chorus of 60 people. Oct. 1-2, The International Grand Opera Company. The San Francisco Opera Company has closed a three weeks' engagement at the Spokane Theatre. This week The Sunny Side of Broadway, the bill at the Orpheum, week of 20, was an exceptionally good one. George Bloomquist Company headed the bill. Howard-Howard; Martinette-Sylvester; Ballerini's Canine Tumblers; Barry-Halvers; DeSanctis Quartette; John Weil, and Orpheum pictures. Week of 26th: Mile. Bianchi; Keno; Walsh-Melrose; Hal Godfrey Co.; Maxim's Models; "General" Edward La Vine; Patsy Doyle; Nerius-Erwood. High-class vaudeville at the Washington includes Will Rossiter's A Bunch of Kids; Ernest Pantzer Co.; Howard Missimer; Edna Davenport; Spaulding-Dupre; Killeen-Moore. Week of 26th: The Naval Travesty,

In the Battle of Bay Rum; The Labakans and their trained dog, Folly; Steeley-Edwards; La Velle-Grant; Dick-Alice McAvoy; Dorothy Dahl. Swans alligators was the feature of the bill at Pantages. Other good ones were Luigi Picaro Troupe; Yale-Simpson; Wm. B. Ramsdell-Ramsdell Sisters; Still City Quartette; Canaris, and Wm. D. Gilson; Week of 26th: Consul, the educated chimpanzee; Wilson Franklin Co.; Newhold-Annie Carroll; The Varsity Quartette; Warren-Brockway. The sixteenth annual Interstate Fair, held here last week, was a big success. Monday was traveling men's day, when the attendance was 23,700. Tuesday, Derby Day; Wednesday, Canadian Day; Thursday, Bolster Day; Friday, Spokane Day; Saturday, Automobile Day. SMYTH.

EUGENE, Ore., Sept. 25.—It looks like Shuberts were going to break in here soon. However, more anon. At Eugene Theatre, 28, Fifty Miles from Boston; 29, The Girl Question; Oct. 1, The Climax. (Saw Jessie Shirley's playlet, The Governor, at the Orpheum last week. It is a talky sketch, poorly constructed and devoid of action. Its finale leaves an audience in a most uncertain frame of mind, as the problem of deciding twixt love and duty is left up to the auditor. Ordinarily such complications are unraveled.) OTTO GILSTRAP.

TUCSON, Ariz., Sept. 21.—September 18, the Raymond Teal Musical Comedy Company completed a five weeks' engagement at the Elysian Grove Airdome. The company was well received. This is Chautauqua week in Tucson. Sunshine Hawks opened the session on Monday evening to a large and appreciative audience. Nicola, the magician, will close the session on September 27th. This is the first Chautauqua for Tucson. Ringling Bros. Circus will show afternoon and evening on the 28th.

MARY NEAL CHEYNEY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—It was California night at the Belasco theatre tonight, when a large audience enjoyed the program given for the benefit of the Golden Gate professional club. The proceeds, which are to be devoted to a building fund for a home in New York for California professional folk, were swelled by other means than the collection of admission fees. Fair Californians sold programs, flowers and even chewing gum. Mrs. Beaumont Packard, the president of the club, opened the program with an address. Homer Davenport, the cartoonist, was the first entertainer. Helen Byron, in songs, followed, and then came Anna Boyd in character songs. Adeline Dunlap and Lyster Chambers in The Operator were next on the program. From 14 the membership roll has grown to 400.

Correspondence

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—Imagine an average American home, where peace and happiness and prosperity dwell, imagine a man who is blessed with a devoted wife, a pretty child, and with health and brains and unlimited opportunity. Imagine that into this home there steals a vampire, an evil, beautiful woman, who sinks her clutches into the moral fibre of the man and corrodes his character as some biting acid eats into iron. This is the theme and story of A Fool There Was, enacted at the Garrick Theatre Monday evening for the first time by Robert Hilliard and a splendid company. It is a play of great, raw passion. It is a play of great, raw passion. It is more than mere melodrama. Robert Hilliard has undoubtedly reached the greatest achievement of his career in this play. William Courtleigh was dry in humor and strong when strength was demanded. Katharine Kailred was an alluring, seductive vampire, a very incarnation of passion. Nanette Comstock gave valuable aid and Boots Hurster was a delightful child. Adelphia Theatre—Many kinds of money kings have appeared before the footlights since the initial production of The Lion and the Mouse. A new variety of this popular genus was revealed at the Adelphia in the person of John Le Baron, an American financial magnate, whose ideals are high and whose conduct is strictly in accord with these admirable principles. Olive Porter is the author of the piece, which depicts in frequently striving fashion the battle between Le Baron and a group of unscrupulous millionaires, who are endeavoring to buy up a copper mine and railroad in the West. Melodramatic situations, often containing a real thrill, are the abiding merit of The Ringmaster. An efficient company interpreted these many climatic moments to capital advantage, and the big scenes in the piece received from a pleased audience their meed of appreciation. Prominent in the cast were A. H. Van Buren, George Howell, Frederick Burton, Eduard Emery, Alfred Hickman, Addison Pitt, Vernon Wallace, Leurette Taylor, Oza Waldrop and Francis Ballou. Chestnut Street Opera House—An innovation florist shop, in which lingerie and hosiery are substituted for gardenias and orchids, starts the fun moving and adroitly sustains it to the end in The Florist Shop, a new farce from the German, presented this week at the Chestnut Street Opera House. Conspicuous in the well-chosen cast is Lionel Walsh, whose portrait of the ingenuous and wholly innocuous bridegroom, endeavoring to act the part of a gay libertine, is surely one of the most admirably conceived, carefully executed and continuously laugh-compelling footlight characters seen here in several seasons. Valuable assistance was accorded Mr. Walsh by Richard Sterling as the other young husband—his antithesis in moral character. Richard F. Freeman, as a country uncle, later infected with the late supper bacillus of Broadway; Nina Morris, as the proprietor of the innovation florist shop; John Thomas, as the unfortunate minister; and Adelaide Overton and Louise Drew as the pair of brides. Chestnut Street Theatre—Henry Arthur Jones' powerful play was played in a superior manner by the Orpheum stock company. The performance was a decided interest on general grounds. Marion Barney did Mrs. Lane and gave a thoroughly good, artistic impersonation. Helen Reimer, a favorite member of the organization, made her first appearance of the season and received a warm reception. Sir Daniel Carteret was in the very competent hands of William Engersoll, and Leah Winslow did ample justice to the character of Lady Eastney. Walnut Street Theatre—The Man of the Hour began the fourth season of its remarkable career at the Walnut. In the excellent company entrusted with the interpretation of the work, John Robertson contributed a strong and convincing young Mayor. John Sparks was Phelan, the boss; J. A. Marcus was the Horrigan; Alma Powell had the leading feminine role, and Julia D. Hanchett was the mother. Broad Street Theatre—The simple story which is unfolded in Eduard Lick's play, The Climax, continues at the Broad. This play has appealed to Philadelphia as it did to New York—as one of the most undramatic dramas imaginable, that is, it is entirely in the outworn artifices of the stage and hence becomes a transcript of life itself. This will be readily realized when it is known that only four characters are in the action, and that there is no change of the scene. If you like noise and dramatic high lights, if violence and the tremendous thrills of great theatrical events alone appeal to you, The Climax is not for you; but if you care for a rare work of art and for a delicate, sweet story upon the stage, by all means visit The Climax. Keith's Vaudeville House—George Beban, a player who has done excellent work in other fields, made his vaudeville debut as a headliner at Keith's in a little drama called The Sign of the Rose. It gave the player a fine opportunity for some good character acting, and as in its incidents the story had just the right admixture of smiles and tears to best appeal to the heart, artist and playlet won a marked success. Fred Lindsay was also a conspicuous item on the program in his curious and novel work with the thirty-foot whip used in the Australian backwoods. A Night in El Paso is a picturesque, scenic costume and dancing sketch, in which the Beeson Trio furnished some pleasant musical and song moments. The Majestic Trio of colored entertainers provided another agreeable triad in their songs, dances and fun. Byron and Langdon had a laughable act entitled The Dude Detective. Alf Grant also proved a capable disseminator of happy feelings with his comicalities. Girls from Melody Lane in a quartet were taking to eye and ear, and the juggling comedy of Redford and Winchester was amusing. The Dixie Quartet opens in Philadelphia Monday evening. They have an entire new score and are sure to please with their harmony. This is the third year the Dixie Boys have been harmonizing. Calvin M. Franklin, who sings basso for this quartette, will continue as manager and states he has been fortunate to retain the same combination as last year. After a few months' rest the boys find their

Garrick Theatre One Week, Commencing Sunday, October 3

COHAN &amp; HARRIS PRESENT

GEO. W. COHAN'S Rural Musical Play

50 MILES FROM BOSTON

Supported by the Most Expensive Cast Ever Seen in a Musical Play

—AND—

50—A PERFECT COHAN CHORUS OF—50

Songs that set one's mouth a-pucker and one's feet a-tapping.

"My Small Town Girl," "Harrigan," "Boys Who Fight the Flames," "Waltz with Me," "Jack and Jill," "Ain't It Awful?"

voices gone, in advance, and with Dave Bristow's sweet tenor, Lyn Castor's baritone and Pete Zisgen doing the leading, the Dixie Quartet find themselves in a class of their own. Calvin M. Franklin.

EL PASO, Tex., Sept. 27.—Majestic (Crawford & Rich, mgrs.): The Majestic Co. is playing to good business and giving the best of satisfaction. Fritz Fields and Wm. B. Friedlander are deserving of much praise for their good work. Genevieve De Lacour has made quite a hit, and deservedly so, as her singing is a treat. Nan Halperin is a soubrette who is on the job all the time, and never fails to please. The chorus is well drilled and dressed. The Crawford (Crawford & Rich, mgrs.): Opens Oct. 3d, with North Brothers, comedians, and their lady orchestra. El Paso Theatre (Crawford & Rich, mgrs.): Raymond Teal, Oct. 15-17. Frank Morton has closed with the Raymond Teal Co., and joined the Majestic Co.

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 27.—Salt Lake (Geo. D. Pyper, mgr.)—Billie Burke played to record-breaking houses. The seating capacity was sold out at every performance. Beginning Sept. 30 and running until Saturday, The Honeymoon Trail. Colonial, (R. A. Grant, mgr.)—The Arlington Players presented The College Widow, to pretty good houses. Mr. Ince was pretty good as Billy Bolton, the half-back. Beginning Sunday evening Emma Bunting will be seen in the title role of Mary J. Holmes' novel, Lena Rivers. Grand (A. B. Jensen, res. mgr.)—The Willard Mack stock company drew big houses last week. Mr. Mack played the part of Ramirez, Miss Douglas was also good in the role of the girl. This week they will play The Other Girl. Mr. Mack has presented this before, and there is no doubt but that he will make good as Kid Garvey this time. Bungalow (R. A. Grant, mgr.)—Alfred Swenson and company in Hello Bill played to pretty good audiences. This week the Arlington Players will return to the Bungalow and

J. B. REIGHLEY Theatrical Hauling

Promptly Attended To
Telephone Market 1601
660 Guerrero Street, Bet. 18th and 19th

present Quo Vadis. It will no doubt be welcomed by the public. Nearly all of the cast have played parts in this play before and therefore should handle the piece well. Mr. Ince, leading man, will take the part of Vinicus, and Miss Creighton that of Lygia. Orpheum (H. Sonnenberg, res. mgr.)—The bill last week was up to the standard. Each number received its share of applause. This week there will be Eleanor Gordon and company in a comedy playlet, Tips on Tap; La Petite Revue, booked as a real novelty, which includes nine people; the Walthour Trio, acrobatic cyclists; the Five Avolos, xylophone players; Lena Pantzer, who dances on the floor, on a wire, and in the air; Davey and Poney Moore, in The Dancing Tenderfoot; and Millie Williams, a little Salt Lake girl, in an act called The Aerial Vocalist, and the motion pictures.

R. Harbach.

Claribel Becker will join James Young in vaudeville at the Orpheum next week.

John Morrissey, resident manager of the San Francisco Orpheum, is visiting his old home in St. Louis. After a short stay there he will go to New York. He is accompanied on his vacation by Mrs. Morrissey and will be gone about one month.

Ed Redmond opens a season of stock at the Swain Theatre in Santa Cruz this evening. Among the new members of his company are Gerald Harcourt, Charles Franklin and Howard Foster.

GEORGE BEEBE, a former well-known actor, known as George Emmett, who is now in business in Lakeport, was a DRAMATIC REVIEW caller this week.

THE SAN FRANCISCO Dramatic Review

Music and Drama
CHAS. H. PARRELL, Publisher

Issued Every Saturday

Address all
letters and
money orders to San Francisco
Dramatic
Review, Van

Ness Theatre Bldg.,
Van Ness
Avenue.
Telephone
Park
1773

Entered at San Francisco as Second-class
Mail Matter, Established 1880.

W. Robert Hildreth

Among the substantial and artistic successes secured this year in vaudeville, that to the credit of Robert Hildreth in his protean rural comedy, Four-Leaved Clover, is worthy of note. Mr. Hildreth has long been recognized as a fine character man in dramatic work, and it was a foregone conclusion that he would be a hit in vaudeville. His act takes twenty-two minutes and in that time he makes four complete changes of character and costumes, and has been getting some great newspaper notices. He is now playing Sullivan & Considine time and is this week in San Jose. Mr. Hildreth carries a complete scenic production and has equipped himself with a first-class outfit in every way. He is ably supported by Hilda Robertson, who is very clever in the part of the farmer's wife.

Maud Fealey is Divorced

Secretly as she was married, Maude Fealey, known here as Denver's own actress, has been divorced. July 15, 1907, she was married to Lewis Hugo Sherwin, a dramatic critic and newspaper man, well known on the Coast. When her mother, Margaret Fealey Cavallo was told of the marriage she went into hysterics, and when she saw her son-in-law, she called him a scoundrel and ordered him from the house. His stepfather was equally indignant. He said that Sherwin could not keep her in gloves. The result was that Maude is said to have promised not to live with him for a year. Sherwin went to New York and has never been seen since with his wife. The actress kept the wedding secret, for a short time having been married under her real name Maude Hawk. After her marriage she kept up her stage career. She was under a five years' contract with John Cort. A year ago she and her manager became involved in a controversy. Cort sues for an alleged broken contract. Cort also sued Raffaelo Cavallo her stepfather, for $19,000 he says he lost while making a star of Maude. She has appeared in leading parts with Henry Irving, Richard Mansfield, William Gillette and others. Sherwin's stepfather is Hugo Gorlitz one time manager of Paderewski and his mother is Amy Sherwin, a celebrated prima donna. The divorce was granted Saturday last in Denver.

Correspondence

PETALUMA, Sept. 29.—Lorraine Buchanan and company opened a ten days' engagement at the Hill Opera House last week. The opening bill was Three Weeks, followed in turn by Dora Thorne, Zaza, Leah the Jewess, and The Comedy of Tragedies. All the members of the cast play their parts to good advantage, and large audiences have been the rule thus far. The engagement will end Saturday night, when Salome will be played.

OAKLAND, Sept. 30.—Pleasant weather, increasing business activities and a good list of attractions has resulted in another prosperous week at the local playhouses. At the Liberty, Bishop's players are putting on a very fine show and are drawing unusually good houses. This week's attraction, The Prince Chap, is being played for the first time at popular prices and is receiving a fascinating and artistic production at the hands of the stock company. As William Peyton, the artist, Sidney Ayres scores another triumph. He is natural and easy-going and at the same time his performance is clear and convincing. George Friend was well cast as Rodney, the Earl of Huntington; his conception of the character being excellent. As Marcus Runyon, Henry Shumer was intensely comical and created many a laugh with his droll acting. The Three Claudias, aged 5, 8 and 18, were respectively played by Little Myriam Gleason, Ethel Tole and Edith Lyle. May Clement, Bishop's latest acquisition, made her first appearance and created a most favorable impression. The stage settings were superb, and the faultless manner in which the production was presented adds another laurel to the already well filled wreath of Bishop's efficient director, George Webster. All on Account of Eliza follows. The Macdonough bookings are A Knight for a Day, Oct. 3; Blanche Bates, 4-10; A Gentleman from Mississippi, 14-16. This week's offering at the Broadway, Zaza, is showing up Georgie Cooper in an entirely new light. A clever emotional actress, her work in this line is a revelation to her many friends, and her performance of the difficult role far exceeded all expectations. Her acting is sensational, and her interpretation showed rare judgment indeed. Landers Stevens made an excellent lover and proved a great helpmate to Miss Cooper in many ways. As Zaza's Aunt Rose, Georgie Woodthorpe gave an extraordinarily fine piece of character work and received round upon round of applause. The company is well cast, the principal roles falling to the lot of Godfrey Matthews, Charles Place, Wilton Dale, Lee Willard, Maurice Page, Annie Rogers, Anita Murray and Violet Wilson. The house is packed at every performance, undoubtedly due to the fact that this is the last week of The Landers Stevens players. Monday, 4th, Ferris Hartman opens in The Yankee Consul. At the Orpheum, a sensational one-act drama entitled Circumstantial Evidence is alone worth the price of admission. It is certainly one of the best things seen here for some time and is proving a big hit. At the Country Club still continues in popularity, as also does the Arlington Four. Of the newcomers, the best are Grouch and Welch, Ed Wynn and Al Lee, Charles Montrell. Bothwell Brown is back again at the Bell, which means increased attendance for that popular house of vaudeville. The La Dorrs and Fay Caranza are also strong features of this week's program. The Orpheus Club gave their annual concert at The Liberty, 28. The entire house was sold out, and general satisfaction given. Estelle Warfield has returned from Seattle and will be seen at The Liberty. After a two weeks' engagement of the Ferris Hartman company, the Broadway will be conducted as a continuous performance house, giving living motion pictures from 12 m. until 12 midnight. Vocal selections will also be a feature of the performance. LOUIS SCHEELINE.

Wanted

A Young
Good Looking Leading Woman

Send Photo

Lowest Salary

and full particulars first letter

Geo. B. Howard

LYRIC THEATRE

Vancouver, B. C.

WILLIAM MAXWELL

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW

Lick Building, 35 Montgomery Street.
Telephone Kearny 724.

Imperial Amusement Co.

Star Theatre, Portland, Oregon
S. MORTON COHN, Pres.; MELVIN G.
WINSTOCK, Gen. Mgr.
Acts of every kind are requested to write
in, quoting lowest salary in first letter.
Satisfactory booking for right acts at
right figures.

The Garriek
FORMER ORPHEUM
ELLIS AT FILLMORE
PHONE - WEST 1194

THIS WEEK
MATINEE TOMORROW
The Tuneful Musical Hit

A Knight for a Day

Seats now 25c to $1

NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON
Geo. M. Cohan's

50 MILES
FROM BOSTON

New Alcazar Theatre

Tel. West 1400

Cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts.
Belasco & Mayer, Owners and Managers
Absolutely "Class A" Building

Monday Evening, October 4th, Starts the Second and Last Week of David Bel-asco's Delightful Heart Comedy

Sweet Kitty Bellairs

Founded on Egerton Castle's Book
The Bath Comedy

Prices—Night, 25c to $1.00. Matinee, 25c
to 50c.
MATINEE SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

New Orpheum

O'Farrell Street, Bet. Stockton and Powell
Safest and Most Magnificent Theatre in
America
Week Beginning This Sunday Afternoon
Matinee Every Day

ARTISTIC VAUDEVILLE

JAMES YOUNG & CO., in the One-Act College Yell, When Love is Young; MARY
NORMAN in Some Types of Woman; ED
F. REYNARD, the Ventriloquist; PILU, the Mind-Reading Dog, Introduced by Sig.
D. Ancillotti; BIG CITY QUARTETTE;
LES MYOSOTIS; HENRY CLIVE; NEW
ORPHEUM MOTION PICTURES. Last Week, EDNA AUG, the Comedienne, in Types.

EVENING PRICES—10c, 25c, 50c, 75c;
Box Seats, $1.
MATINEE PRICES (Except Sundays and
Holidays), 10c, 25c, 50c
Phone Douglas 70

Princess Theatre

Absolutely "Class A" Theatre Building
Phone West 663
Ellis Street, near Fillmore
Samuel Loverich, Manager

ONLY FOUR TIMES MORE

Ferris Hartman

And His Big Singing Company
Presenting THAT GLEEFUL AFFAIR

The Tenderfoot

MATINEES SATURDAY AND SUNDAY
Popular Prices—25c, 50c, 75c
Matinee, 25c and 50c

Next Monday KOLE & DILL in DREAM CITY
Seats Now Ready

AMERICAN THEATRE

Market St., near Seventh

Abe S. Cohn, Manager

Phone Market 381 for Good Seats
The Playhouse of Comfort and Safety

AMERICAN VAUDEVILLE

Will be Inaugurated Next Sunday, by a
- Ten-Act

Vaudeville Show

This theatre will now book the best
vaudeville acts obtainable under the book-
ing direction of Edward Homan.
No Acts too big. No Price too big.

GILLE PRINTING CO.
SAN FRANCISCO
THEATRICAL PRINTING OF ALL KINDS

POSTERS
2257 MISSION ST. Phone MISSION
3065

THE FRANCIS-
VALENTINE
CO.

Show
Printers

Thirteenth St., near Mission, S. F. Cal.

Spacious Headquarters
for Theatrical Agents

PHONE—MARKET 2114

Send Bills of Lading to us. We will take care of your paper

Van Ness Theatre

The second and last week of A Gentleman from Mississippi will end to-night. This delightful comedy has made a strong impression on those who have seen it. The men, particularly, with one or two exceptions, are extremely good, and while the women's parts are not filled to overflowing with opportunity, still they are well handled. Next week, Billie Burke.

Alcazar Theatre

Sweet Kitty Bellairs, piquant, saucy, and yet, withal, so winningly attractive with her big heartedness, Irish wit and coquetry that the most captious could hardly find fault with her conduct, is providing Evelyn Vaughn ample opportunities for excellently shaded work at the Sutter street stock house this week. This is not to say that the other members of the Alcazar company fall short in the doing of their share for the general success of the piece, but the vehicle was written by David Belasco from Edgerton Castle's novel, A Bath Comedy, to the end that the title role might shine undimmed by too much brilliancy on the part of other characters, and hence the balance of the cast has been forced largely into the positions of feeders for the star. Miss Vaughn fits the part of the flirtatious Bath beauty as though the part were written for her, and throughout the acts easily dominates the stage. Augustus Phillips as the English Lord Verney portrays a somewhat difficult character acceptably. His assumption of diffidence in the first act, however, seems a bit overdone when contrasted with the forceful earnestness during the rest of the play. Will R. Walling as Col. Villiers has a character to his liking, and does much with it, while the Capt. O'Hara of Harrison Ford is a well-tuned presentation of a heroic light comedy role. E. L. Bennison makes his Sir Jasper Standish sufficiently despicable, while Charles Dow Clark as an Irish colonel and William Garwood in a bit as the Bishop, supply real life for the characters, written as but little more than fillers. There is a long cast of male characters of minor importance, and enough pretty women to amply justify the program announcement that "Bath was the foregrounding spot of pretty women." However, aside from "Sweet Kitty" herself, Lady Julia Standish and Lady Bab Filyte, their parts amount to little or nothing. Bessie Barriscale is a winsome little Lady Standish, while the buxom charms of Grace Travers fit admirably the requirements of the deposed Bath belle, Lady Bab. An entirely adequate mounting has been provided for the play, the ball room setting of the third act being particularly effective, while the costuming is for the most part beyond reproach.

Princess Theatre

The last week of the Hartman season is closing in a manner that must be very gratifying to the head of the company. The attendance has been unusually good, and the musical comedy, The Tenderfoot, has gone with all the dash and swing that even the most exacting audiences could ask. Hartman, in another Richard Carle role, was, of course, the center of the piece, which, while not very involved as to plot, is sufficiently so to keep his audiences amused for three hours. The part of the melodramatic actor suits him in every way. To the character as developed by Carle, Hartman has added his own ideas, and the combination is very satisfactory. Outside of the principal part, there is very little for the remainder of the cast to do. The chorus, however, is kept busy all the time. The ensemble numbers were well, even better done, than has been the case in some of the preceding bills. The numbers by the girls in the chorus were, in fact, one of the big features of the performance. The young women appeared to be better drilled in their work in The Tenderfoot than in any of the other pieces that the Hartman company has put on during its season in San Francisco. The orchestral work was in keeping with the rest of the performance.

Garrick Theatre

The bustling, successful Chicago manager, H. H. Frazee, who is becoming an important factor in the Western game, has his first offering of the season here with us this week in A Knight for a Day. The piece was seen here last season at the American and left a distinctly good impression. This time the cast, while it is very much changed from last season's, is quite up to the mark, and gives a most enjoyable performance. Grace De Mar plays Tillie, the eccentric soubrette part, with a keen relish for its amusing points, and Edward Hume is a whirlwind of comedy joy in the role of Jonathan Joy. Isabelle Winlocke is satisfactory as the seminary principal, and Agnes Thorndyke is a pretty and appealing Elaine. The rest of the principals are generally quite satisfactory. A most pleasing feature of the show is the chorus. It is one of the prettiest, best drilled and fastest bunch of girls we have had here in a long time. Next week, Fifty Miles from Boston.

Valencia Theatre

In Mlle. Mischief, the Shuberts and Corinne have a splendid vehicle to secure popular approval. The operetta is one of the best of the modern pieces and in the chief part Corinne is immense. She rollicks and frolics and is delightfully entertaining. In the part of the girl masquerading as a man in the barracks, she exhibits a most unexpected low comedy ability. The support is quite satisfactory, although there is no singing voice of any exceptional merit. Of the chief actors, the best work is contributed by Alfred Wilder as the Colonel, and Frank Farrington as the Sergeant. The chorus is beautifully costumed and is composed of a lot of shapely, attractive girls who have been well drilled. It may be safely said that the performance of Mlle. Mischief is most interesting and worthy from start to finish.

CHARLES GUNN, the extremely talented and good-looking young leading man, who has been identified with the best stocks on the Coast, will be starred this season in a new comedy, The Governor of El Dorado. He will play the best time and will carry a strong company and a great production.

Augustus Phillips Closes at the Alcazar

Augustus Phillips will close his season at the Alcazar October 10. This is unexpected news, and the cause is the continued bad health of Mr. Phillips. He has been unable to get thoroughly acclimated. He has been suffering keenly from throat and eye troubles ever since he has been here, and reluctantly Fred Belasco has consented to release him. The Alcazar clientele will be sorry to have Mr. Phillips go. His work has been characterized by intelligence, sincerity and individuality, and he has become popular for his personal qualities. We wish him every good luck and a complete restoration to health.

Dick Jose Will Play Shubert Time

Rishard Jose has written his business manager, Fred Cutler, from New York that he has just completed arrangements to play the Shubert time under his own management. Consequently Mr. Cutler will leave for the East next week to handle the tour, which will be confined to the large Eastern cities. Mr. Jose will use as a starring vehicle a new play, Silver Threads, written by Martin Merle.

Burns-Vane

Felicitations are in order. The news is out. Handsome and talented Myrtle Vane, singer and actress, is engaged to "Bobby" Burns, the booking agent of the Pantages' Circuit. The wedding will occur in the near future—and we extend our very, very best wishes.

E. G. L. Hoeber a Silver Benedict

The ceremony which twenty-five years ago united Eugene G. L. Hoeber and Laura Hubbell in matrimony was celebrated last Saturday night in the home of the couple at 1115 Lafayette street, Alameda. And aside from its anniversary features, the affair was one of the society events of the season. At the table, J. M. Gamble of San Francisco, a life-long friend of the family, and Mr. Hoeber's partner in the big show printing firm of Francis-Valentine Co., did honors as the toastmaster, and merry was the raillery and wit that passed between host, hostess and guests. Preceding the anniversary supper the guests enjoyed a musical and elocutionary program. The employees of the Francis-Valentine Company presented Mr. and Mrs. Hoeber with a valuable and handsomely filled chest of silver, and friendly messages and gifts were sent from innumerable friends all over the State.

CHARLOTTE TITTELL has been engaged as leading woman for Olga Nethersole, who announces that during her Baltimore engagement she will give the premier performance of Locke of Wall Street, by Asa Steele. This play deals with the labor question and is said to give a feasibly tangible solution to this perplexing problem.

James Young

James Young, playing next week at the Orpheum, is the only American player that the late Sir Henry Irving ever had in his support. The famous English actor during one of his tours of this country, saw Mr. Young's performances of Hamlet and Shylock, and immediately entered into negotiations for his services. Mr. Young made a tour of the Provinces with Sir Henry and his company of English players, and also played important roles during the London season. Although James Young has a substantial reputation as an actor of Shakespearean and classic roles, his comedy talent is strongly pronounced. One of the peculiar features of dramatic talent is in the fact that a tragedian may play comedy successfully, but a comedian is of one line alone and has never achieved distinction in the more serious work. James Young comes by his dramatic talent naturally. His maternal grandfather was at one time manager of the old Baltimore Museum, his father is a well-known orator, member of the Legislature and State senator of Maryland, and his mother is a newspaper woman with literary qualities that have made her an authority on music and the drama. Mr. Young's favorite character is Hamlet, which he plays with much sentiment, poetry and art.

Personals

E. K. MARTIN, who was out on the Coast some seven years ago, is in town ahead of Fifty Miles from Boston. Arthur L. Barney is back with the show.

EDWARD MARTINDEL has decided for a time at least to desert comic opera and enter the legitimate drama through the medium of The Commanding Officer, which Daniel Frohman now has in rehearsal for an early debut.

ART WITTING and Mattie Davis are putting in a few weeks in stock at the Grand Opera House in Los Angeles.

BURT K. WILBUR is in town, doing the counting up for H. H. Frazee's show, A Knight for a Day.

Mlle. SIMONE BERNHARDT, the grand-daughter of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, was married, Sept. 26th, in Versailles, France, to Edward S. Gross, eldest son of Henry B. Gross, formerly of Philadelphia. The ceremony was private, owing to the ill health of the bride's mother.

MAUD FAY, the San Francisco singer, who has been signally successful in grand opera in Berlin, is home on a visit to her family.

Vaudeville

The Orpheum

To our mind this week's bill, with its varied assortment of acts, is one that is particularly appealing. Edna Aug, who has played many engagements here from the old Chutes to Fischer's, returns a finished and compelling comedienne. She is the headline of the week and wins the position by her fine work. The Big City Quartet are pleasing—what quartet isn't when they can sing? And Henry Clive, the comedy magician, who does a fake magical stunt, is in a class by himself. He has a fine personality and is a born "comic." He could succeed admirably as a straight monologist. His work is like James Morton's, with the added virtue of being more refined. Tom Waters holds over and continues to make good. Murray and Mack holdover—but. Spaulding and Riego, a couple of comedy bar performers, are interesting and so are Les Myosotis, two ballet dancers. Rosario Guerrero repeats her triumphal pantomime. The Rose and the Dagger, and colored moving pictures complete the bill.

American Theatre

Manager Abe Cohn continues to offer some very entertaining vaudeville to his ever-increasing patronage. Goodhue and Bergus open with a singing and dancing turn that has been seen here before. As dancers they are superior. Amande, a young and good-looking violiniste, who has appeared here under another name, is a clever performer. James Corrigan and Lillian Elliott have been provided with a fine vehicle for fun by Harry Cottrell. It is called The Fire Escape. An unusually good acrobatic performance is given by Three Les Ploetz Larelle. These girls are fine twisters and tumblers. Gus Bruno is a clever monologist, although some of his stuff, like the "strong" goat is so old as to have whiskers. The writer remembers hearing it from Sam Jack's Creoles over twenty years ago. The Steel Sisters are billed as coster singers. They are enjoyable singers, but their coster work is not much. When the two come back in their quick-change garb they are pleasing, for they are shapely, particularly the tall one, who displays two fine handsome legs. They are also fine dancers. Edwin T. Emery and company are this week producing the little play, The Millionaire. Mr. Emery's good direction is in evidence, and he himself, Clifford Thompson, Denton Vane, Ella Crane, Nesbie Howard and Reva Raymond do some spirited and splendid acting. A very superior reel of moving pictures completes an enjoyable program.

Pantages-Empire

The bills at this cosy theatre are of a very attractive nature, and there is evidently a desire in the booking office to supply the Pantages' patrons with the best the market affords. Irene Lee and her Kandy Kid are the opening turn. They do a good song and dance. Dorothy Lamb & Co. present a sparkling little comedy, called A Night with the Red Men. It is a clever takeoff on the old club idea. Ernest Brinckman, character singer, is first-class, and Edward Blondell and company give us The Lost Boy with fine results. Mr. Blondell is a very capable actor, and his support—Clara Everett and Marie Harrington—are most satisfactory. The five Spiller Musical Bumpers give a pleasing saxophone and xylophone exposition. The moving pictures that conclude the show are pleasing.

The National

Manager Zeke Abrams is in a particularly happy mood this week with one of the strongest vaudeville bills ever offered in this city. Jere Sanford, the whistler and yodler, who is one of the big hits here, is a repeat offering and is enthusiastically received. Caswell and Arnold, two great acrobats, famous all over the world, are tremendous hits. Dolan and Lenharr, who are extremely popular here with their own peculiar style of entertainment, are going big. Blanche Sloan, the trapeze artist, is back after a long absence and makes good. Other clever acts are Johann and Mott; The Three Vagrants, street singers; and the Four Stagpooles.

The Wigwam

This popular Missionites' theatre is offering a bill well up to the standard this week in McFarland and Murray, Ahlberg Bros., Billy Cort, Mort Sharp and his dancing Belles, Tom and Stasia Moore, Edwin Carewe & Co., and Virginia Moore. A forthcoming booking is Landers Stevens, who has been playing stock in Oakland for a number of years.

Bookings

At the Sullivan & Considine, San Francisco Office, through Wm. P. Reese, their sole booking agent, for week of Oct. 3, 1909:

NATIONAL, San Francisco—George Lauder, Sharp and Turek, Florence Modena & Co., Dorothy Vaughan, Five Merry McGregors, Earle Sisters, Hall and Starke's Minstrels. BELL, Oakland—Blanche Sloan, Johan and Matt, The Three Vagrants, Dolan and Lenharr, The Four Stagpooles, Football Trio. WIGWAM, San Francisco—Selbini and Grovini, Buckley's Dogs, Will Morrisey, Marion and Rial, Steele Sisters, Bothwell Browne & Co., La Darros. AMERICAN, San Francisco—Emily and Jessie Dodd & Co., Mondane Phillips, Mitchell and Caine, Caswell and Arnold, Vera de Bassini. GRAND, Sacramento—Virginia Moore, Mort Sharp and His Dancing Belles, Tom and Stasia Moore, Haight, Dean & Co., Ahlberg Brothers, Grace Darnley, McFarland and Murray. GARRICK, Stockton—The Three Roehrs, Tom Bateman, Loretta Lorena, Harding and Clough. JOSE, San Jose—Alva York, Russian Troupe, La Maze Brothers, St. Elmo, Hildreth and Robertson, Tony Ryder's monkeys. LOS ANGELES, Los Angeles—Edwin Carewe & Co., Clarence Sisters, Harvard and Cornelle, Les Ploetz Larellas, Jere Sanford, Murphy-Whitman Co. QUEEN, San Diego—J. K. Emmet & Co., J. Warren Keane & Co., Cogan and Bancroft, Alfred K. Hall.

Vaudeville Notes

Minstrelsy, after this season, will no longer claim Al Jolson, "the man from the West," who was found

Theatrical Tights

ALL COLORS, WEIGHTS AND QUALITIES—Cotton, 15c to $1.50; Wool, $2.50 to $3.50; Lisle or Silkline, $3.00 to $4.50; Silk, $5.00 to $12.50.

SYMMETRICALS BEST LINE MADE IN THE U. S. Calf, $5.00; Calf and Thigh, $10.00; Calf, Thigh and Hip, $12.50.

We also Make Padded Shirts, SWEATERS, JERSEYS, GYM, ATHLETIC and BATH SUITS, SUPPORTERS, ACROBATIC SHOES, GOOD UNDERWEAR Knit to Fit in All Materials.

We operate our own mills, carry a large stock and make goods to measure at reasonable prices. We suit the professional as if he were buying in Europe. Write us for prices and samples.

Gantner & Mattern Co.

KNITTERS

Phone Kearny 3603

Corner Post and Grant Ave.

Sullivan & Considine

::: New Circuit :::

Of the smaller popular-priced theatres to be operated in conjunction with their regular circuit houses, comprising time in

California Utah and Eastern Connections Colorado Kansas

Good Acts Can Always Secure Immediate Bookings

BOOKING DEPARTMENT

1117 Market Street

W. P. REESE, Manager

New York Office
Knickerbocker Theatre Bldg.

Lancaster, Pa.—
FAMILY THEATRE

Bert Levey Circuit

INDEPENDENT VAUDEVILLE

144-150 POWELL STREET SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
Booking the Longest Chain of Vaudeville Theatres West of Chicago

PANTAGES Western States Vaudeville Association

Controlling the longest, largest and best chain of vaudeville theatres in the United States.

Mr. Manager: No matter where your house is, how large or how small, we can supply you promptly with first-class

vaudeville acts at reasonable prices, also lodges, clubs and entertainments furnished on short notice.

See O. S. BURNS, Representative.
Phone West 7140. Offices: Pantages Theatre, cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts., San Francisco, Cal.

Archie Levy's Amusement Ass'n

THE VAUDEVILLE EXCHANGE OF THE PACIFIC COAST

1643 FILLMORE STREET, SUITE 1-2-3, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
Managers desiring talent Write. Artists send in your open time now.

and developed in San Francisco. He will be a feature of the Lew Fields' Review in New York next summer. Efforts were made to capture Jolson for the production of The Jolly Bachelors, which is to succeed The Midnight Sons, but Lew Dockstader, who is offering the blackface monologist as the "wool and a yard wide" standard of joke-smiths would not consent to a release. Jolson, by the way, is said to have tucked away in his trunk a musical skit which he wants produced. The Shuberts, as a compromise issue, agreed to place him in the coming summer review and, it is understood that Jolson finds no fault with the solution. Meantime vaudeville will furnish much of the new talent for The Jolly Bachelors.

Joe Eagan, identified with various vaudeville propositions in the West, dropped into San Francisco the other day with the observation that the moving picture business was surely seeing the end of its rage. In nearly every town in the Northwest where pictures were formerly played straight, vaudeville acts have been introduced to retain the patronage that was gradually slipping away.

Nat Field and his merry-makers are giving us at the Central this week a Weber & Field piece, new to San Francisco. It is called On Board Ship and has plenty of good material. A severe handicap to the piece is the inability of Myrtle Vane to sing, owing to a severe cold. The rest of the company are in fine fettle, and the chorus good. Dave Lerner is surprising people with his cleverness. He is another Barney Bernard—every bit as good as Barney was when he struck this city first. Dave has a bright future. The next bill is The Girl Who Wrecked Us.

Orpheum Shows Will Not Play Night Stands

THE DRAMATIC REVIEW, after an interview with Morris Meyerfeld, Jr., is able to announce that the contemplated move to play Orpheum shows four or five nights in various one night stands in Southern California will not materialize. Mr. Meyerfeld said that after due consideration he had decided to stick to the circuit's own houses. The expense to be incurred by taking the road would be too great for the receipts and even if the road was found to be profitable, he was not in favor of it and consequently the idea had been abandoned. Mr. Meyerfeld had a splendid trip to Europe and returned in fine health and spirits.

Bert Levey Has Fine New Offices

Owing to the tremendous growth of his booking business, Bert Levey, the independent agent, has moved to large and luxurious offices at 144-150 Powell street. Fine. May the prosperity continue to increase.

Lion Taming at the Chutes

Taming the presumably untamable lion, Wallace, will be the feature on this Sunday's free bill at the New Chutes. Wallace, the erstwhile monarch of the old Chutes zoo, has been on exhibition at the Fillmore Street park for the past several weeks. He was brought there at the time his keeper, Frank Hall, was injured while giving a performance inside the big fellow's cage. Hall has now recovered sufficiently to go on with his work, and tomorrow he will enter the den and, with one arm in a sling, attempt to put the lion through his paces. Taking "A Trip to the North Pole" is one of the latest fads with patrons of the New Chutes. The timeliness of the show makes it doubly attractive. The Arnold troupe of Australian gymnasts will head this week's open-air entertainment. They are said to be the original kangaroo acrobats, and their act introduces many novel strength feats and much comedy. The De Valle Trio will be another offering new to Chutes patrons. Those who have admired the high and fancy diving of Towers, who has been a favorite for weeks with his sensational plunges into flames, will have a last opportunity to see his act this Saturday evening. The concerts of the California State Band, under the direction of George W. Bennett, will be made a feature of Sunday's program. The free theatre will have an entire change of program, including the latest songs and imported motion pictures.

Last of the Season for Idora

To morrow is the last day of the Idora season. When the last light of the thousands of incandescents that have given added brilliancy to the present period of carnival and exposition goes glimmering, the gates of the popular Oakland amusement resort will be closed, and the park will remain "dark" until 1910. The closing program will call into play every act, every band of music, the entire array of exhibits, all the remaining fireworks, and two tons of confetti. Extra ferry excursions will be operated from San Francisco, and a special car service inaugurated between the big playground and the cities of Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda. The crowds of merry-makers have been gradually increasing each day during the week, and it is to be expected that this evening's and tomorrow's throngs will be the largest of the summer. The fireworks display will be given tonight and Sunday will be brilliant spectacles. All the remaining bombs, rockets and set-pieces will be released. The State Fair will have a "distribution day," and loads of fruit and other perishables will be given away. The military bands will join in one mammoth organization and give a series of farewell programmes that promise to be among the finest ever heard in the West. Patrick Conway, conductor of the Gilmore Band, will be director-in-chief. The Spanish bull fight will go on this evening and Sunday afternoon and night. All of the aerial and acrobatic acts will be in full swing. For the benefit of closing day crowds the admission to Idora, which has been raised during the State Fair, will be brought back to the original price, and a special combination ferry rate made for the accommodation of San Franciscans.

Correspondence

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 29.—Garwick (J. M. Dodge, mgr.): Sept. 27, Blanche Bates in The Fighting Hope played to large audience. Miss Bates amply sustains the reputation she has earned as the greatest emotional actress on the American stage. Her supporting company is adequate in every respect. Oct. 3-4, The Girl from Rector's; 10-11, The Honeymoon Trail. The Gentleman from Mississippi follows. Pickwick (Scott A. Palmer, mgr.): The Charles King Company opened their engagement at the Pickwick, Sept. 27, in Merely Mary Ann to a packed house. The company without a doubt is the best stock that has ever appeared here. Miss Rambeau, in the title part is good to look upon, reads her lines exceptionally well and is a conscientious worker. She will become a great favorite here. Chas. King, who plays opposite her handles the part of Launcelott in an admirable manner. Louis Morrison as the brute also did very good work. Pietro Soso and Auda Due are also worthy of mention. The other members of the company handled his or her part in first-class fashion. The scenery, costumes, etc., were very good. Next week, The Heir to the Hoorah. Queen (Sullivan & Considine, owners; J. Donnelan, mgr.): Manager Donnelan has an excellent bill at his cozy little theatre this week. Francis Preston and Vera McLean open the show with a neat singing specialty. They have a good line of songs, and the act is well dressed. Tom McGuire pleased with several Scotch-American songs. Stanley-Edwards and company, presenting visions of living statuary in marble, have an artistic act that was appreciated. Defrey, the Venetian violinist, has an excellent act. His selections are well chosen, and his touch is beautiful. His playing of The Rosary brought tremendous applause. Prof. Roberts and his troupe of educated rats close the show. Good comedy pictures round out a well-balanced bill. Grand (Fred Ballien, mgr.): Doblado and his trained sheep head the bill at the Grand this week. Parts of his act are excruciatingly funny. The act went big. Brewer and Bell scored with dramatic sketch, Ned Baxter's Dream. The Hill Sisters have a new illustrated song. Motion pictures conclude. Empire, Bijou and Union offer moving pictures and illustrated songs to good business. An incident toward the close of the first act of Merely Mary Ann at the Pickwick brought down the house. A fresh first-nighter occupying a front seat interrupted an emotional scene between Mr. King and Miss Rambeau with a mocking remark. Mr. King immediately stepped to the footlights and said, "You will leave this house if I have to put you out myself." The disturber sheepishly left escorted by two ushers. After the applause subsided the play resumed.

NAT FIELDS

CENTRAL THEATRE . . . . . San Francisco, Cal.
Comedian and Producer

LUNDQUIST.

Last night at the Masonic Theatre McKenzie's Merry-makers made another big hit. This is one of the best companies that ever played in Marshfield. Last night they played Mary Jane's Pa, a comedy drama in four acts, and positively one of the best plays ever seen here. Eva Heazlit, leading lady of the company, as Mary Jane, is one of the most clever soubrettes we have ever had here. She kept the audience in a roar of laughter all the time she was on the stage. The entire cast deserves special mention, as each one is an artist. Too much cannot be said of the plays they have given us during the past two weeks. They are with us one more week, then they go to the surrounding towns three nights each, then back here again for two weeks. Tonight they play The Circus Girl. If you have not seen them you have missed a real show. Last night they played to 817 people. If you want to see them, go early or you will not get a seat.—Daily Coast Mail (Coos Bay).

NEW CHUTES

FILLMORE, TURK, EDDY AND WEBSTER

Open Morning, Afternoon and Night

SUNDAY AND ALL NEXT WEEK

TAMING THE UNTAMABLE
WALLACE

FRANK HALL, the Noted Lion Tamer,
Will Attempt to Subdue the King of the Old Chutes Zoo

Added Attraction

ARNOLDE TROUPE

Wonderful Australian Gymnasts

12—OTHER FREE ATTRACTIONS—12
Band Concerts Every Afternoon and Night

IDORA

"The Park
Beautiful"

B. P. MILLER, General Manager
Oakland, Calif.

20 Acres of High Grade
Amusement—20

The Handsomest
Park in America

Playing Only the World's Greatest Bands
and
Big Feature Acts

Performers desiring time, address
J. H. B. Fitzpatrick

3 times a day Chicago-Kansas City

AND POINTS EAST

EASTERN EXPRESS

Leave San Francisco, 7:15 a. m. Leave Oakland, 7:40 a. m.

OVERLAND EXPRESS

Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 8:00 p. m.

CALIFORNIA LIMITED

Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 10:00 p. m.

Courteous employees—Unique scenery—Harvey meals—Equipment built by Pullman—One management all the way to Chicago. Our descriptive folders give reliable information.

JAS. B. DUFFY, GENERAL AGENT, 673 Market Street, S. F.
T. LOVE, T. A., Market St. Ferry Depot, San Francisco.
J. J. WARNER, G. A., 1112 Broadway, Oakland.

Correspondence

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Robert Edeson opened at the Criterion Theatre last Monday night in The Noble Spaniard, a play by W. Somerset Maugham, which was very amusing. It is also charming, and Mr. Edeson in the delightful curtain speech, which he delivered in the language of the noble Spaniard, said: "I cannot bring the author present, for which I am grateful." The audience screamed with laughter. It was a first night, at which the author's presence would have been very welcome. It is a delicious farce. In it Robert Edeson is playing a part very different from those he has acted in the past, a part which demands good looks, assurance, and dash, qualities which Mr. Edeson has in plenty, to say nothing of a Spanish accent. To Rose Coghlan fell one of the most amusing parts in the play, that of Lady Proudfoot, who for a time believes herself to be the adored one of the noble Spaniard. Verner Clarges played the role of Justice Proudfoot, and these two players did some brilliant comedy work. Gertrude Coghlan was the Marion Nairne. Cyril Chadwick made the most of several comedy scenes, and Macey Harlan was excellent in the part of a French Count. Ann Murdock sang a mid-Victorian ditty. * * * All Californians will be glad to know that Charlotte Thompson has arrived. In making a four-act drama out of Margaret Deland's novel, The Awakening of Helen Richie, which was produced at the Savoy Theatre last week as a vehicle for the return of Margaret Anglin, Miss Thompson has taken the dramatic liberty of eliminating a number of characters which were not essential to staging the novel. Of course, Dr. Lavendar is there. Four acts, passing in the home and garden of Mrs. Richie, are taken to tell the story, which begins when Helena Richie has deserted her drunken husband and gone to live in Old Chester as the sister of Lloyd Pryor, in whose love she expects to find the happiness that eluded her in her first affair of the heart. She is regarded as a widow by the village people, whom, so far as possible, she keeps at a distance, and only at the request of Dr. Lavendar does she consent to take into her home a boy, David, whom he brings to her. The news of her husband's death, followed by the revelation of her lover's loss of affection for her, her confession, and the awakening that comes in her atonement by parting with the adopted child whom she had learned to love—all these dramatic episodes of the novel are retained in the play. The quaint dress of the early '60s and the attractive pastoral scenes in which the action passes had the effect in preventing the play from being too emotional. Miss Anglin has not appeared in a new role here for several seasons, and she was cordially welcomed by the initial audience at the Savoy Theatre, which opened its doors for the first time this season. The actress' greatest success came after the interview with Dr. Lavendar, in which he makes her consent to relinquish the beloved David. John Findlay embodied enough of Dr. Lavendar's lovable qualities to make them plausible even on the stage, and Robert Cummings made of the poet's stern grandfather a character which it took no knowledge of the book to appreciate. Eugene Ormonde imparted a saving distinction to the odious role of the faithless lover. Charles Wyngate and Gertrude Swiggert seemed to be Old Chester folk to the life, and George Probert added the necessary touch of romantic ecstasy to his performance of the love-stricken village poet. Raymond Hackett was a stage child who could talk without becoming tiresome. * * * The Rose of Algeria, the musical play by Glen MacDonough and Victor Herbert, which had a short run on Broadway a year ago under the name of Algeria, began a second life at the Herald Square Theatre last week, this time under the management of Lew Fields. When the play was seen here for the first time a libretto which lacked humor and dragged badly in spots, comedians who were not funny and a prima donna with a voice in bad condition combined to make a failure of it in spite of the beauty of Victor Herbert's score. Since then the comedy has been elaborated, most of the drag has been eliminated and a better company has been secured. The score is one of Mr. Herbert's good efforts. It is full of color, rhythm and melody. There are catchy marches and waltzes, fascinating bits of incidental music, and through it all a beauty of orchestration which contributes much to the charm of the work. Some of the numbers possess more than usual comic opera body and weight. A new prima donna, Lillian Herlein, sang well and looked the part of the Sultana. Eugene Cowles was another whose songs were thoroughly acceptable. Mr. Herbert directed the orchestra, thereby adding much to that end of the program. An ocean of scenic effect as the finale of the first act was effective. Every musical number was appreciated and encored several times. * * * Clyde Fitch's farce from the German, The Blue Mouse, began a short engagement at Maxine Elliott's Theatre last Monday night. It was played by the same company, including Harry Conroy and Mabel Barrison, that was seen at the Lyric Theatre last season, and proved to be as amusing as ever. * * * Judging from the cable received at the Frohman offices from Alfred Sutro, the author of The Builder of Bridges, the prospects are that the playwright will come to America when the play is brought out by Charles Frohman, with Kyrle Bellew in the star part. The date of the production has been rearranged for September 30th at the Majestic Theatre, Utica. This will be the first Sutro play produced in America since The Walls of Jericho and will be Mr. Sutro's first visit to this country in five years.

ROB ROY.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 25.—The opening of the theatrical season at Klaw & Erlanger's popular play houses finds practically all the old guard on hand to greet friends and managers. T. C. Campbell, the general manager, looks improved from his usual summer vacation. Homer George is on hand to attend to the press work. Clarence Bennett and Mike Cohn are the treasurer and assistant treasurer at the Tulane and Abe Seligman and Nic Smith are filling the same positions at the Crescent. New Orleans has been considerably stirred by this week's production of the Soul Kiss at the Tulane. It is a musical entertainment, carrying a large cast and embracing some good music and dancing and gorgeous scenic effects. It turned people away for the first half of the week, its chief magnet being a dance that shocked the delicate sensibilities of the critics. One should not take the Soul Kiss too seriously, as it is constructed along the most gossamer lines and adapted for pleasing entertainment only. Adeline Genée made the piece famous in Gotham through her clever dancing. Mlle. Pertena, her successor, does some expert dancing of the toe variety, which is somewhat out of vogue. Ben Grinnell as Mephisto was most capable. He rendered his lines and song numbers to good effect. Robert Adams, a 'Frisco boy, as the sculptor, was also highly creditable. It is he who has all of the fun looking for the Soul Kiss. Arthur I. Hull also deserves special mention. Miss Annis and Miss Aubrey were the best of the female support. In viewing the Soul Kiss one unconsciously thinks of Faust and The Devil. Next week—The Traveling Salesman. At the Crescent—Lena Rivers with Beulah Poynter as the star has done a good business. Next week—The Lion and the Mouse.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 27.—Broadway Theatre: Charles Klein's play, The Third Degree, at the Broadway, was the much-patronized bill for the past week. It is a strong play and splendidly staged. Klein has had big successes before the Third Degree was produced, yet this seems to be his greatest play. It is so human and so intense. It is dramatically constructed, so that the selfish is played up against the noble, the cowardly against the brave, the false against the true, and, in fact, the whole gamut of emotions is called into use by a rather fair company, excepting, of course, Paul Everton, as the great lawyer, and Miss Eliscu, as the girl of the people. These two parts were tremendously well done by the above actors, but the remainder of the company is the average, and Margaret Drew is bad. The work of Alfred Moore as police captain is not natural, and that of the juvenile role in the hands of Ralph Ramsey, as Howard, the husband and accused, is all right while he is drunk in the first act, but so colorless in the last, that one is inclined to wish he had not sobered up. There is the experienced hand of the playwright to be seen all through the play, for the heart-interest is big and the work of the big-hearted lawyer and the girl of the boarding-house ancestry in the second act is a scene of "diamonds in the rough." The most consistent type of the whole play is that of Richard Brewster, the lawyer. In my humble judgment, The Third Degree surpasses Klein's other plays. There is not the flabbiness of the Auctioneer, the strained situations and coincidences of The Music Master, nor the impudent impossibility of The Lion and the Mouse, neither the paleness of his The Daughter of Man. The Tabor: Honeymoon Trail, a piece composed of the worn-out jokes on conjugal life and divorce squibs, held the boards at the Tabor and played to big houses, thanks to its indecent yet bright lines. It is a play, where the divorcees who have jush snipped the fourth and fifth lasso of married life, bloom and rant around with generous license. Bert Baker, who is featured in the comedy, is the saving grace, and since the divorcees were so many and so prettily gowned, I fail utterly to make comparisons with them or to give you their numerous names. The Orpheum: The Musical Johnstons, though much featured as headliners, were a mediocre crowd. Their place should have been filled by The Tempest and Sunshine Trio, whose songs are diverting and antics most amusing. Marseilles is an impressive contortionist, and Ruby Raymond and her urchins sing fairly well and do some good dancing. Mary Marble and her Little Chip is a very entertaining pair, while the diminutive Bobby and his brother as strong men are out of their class. Their carrying a 180-pound man up a flight of stairs was remarkable. The McGradys were so shaky that they might have been amateurs with only a month between them and home. On the whole the bill was a poor one all through. The Majestic: Signor Vecchio made more than good his greatly advertised advent to Denver. His players, known as The Royal Italian Band, are right up to the mark. The leader is a nervous acrobatic director with grimaces enough to spare some to the other leaders in the profession. The Ernesto Sisters with their wire-bounding act were a real novelty, and Gaynell Everett, the dancer, made a hit with his audience. Ross and Shaw had a feature in their musical absurdity, and Barry and Johnson in a sketch, Held for Ransom, almost pleased. Symonds, the monologist, was above the usual, and a playlet, Christmas on the Comstock, was given with individuality.

Time May be Booked in San Bernardino

Any companies coming as far south as San Bernardino and wanting to make dates for one night stands or for one week, can do so by writing to J. W. Leonard, manager of the Unique Theatre. Seating capacity 1,000 people, 5-piece orchestra and plenty of scenery. The house will hold about 1,400 people and never failed to have a packed house.

Andrews Opera Chairs

General Seating
School—Church—Bank
Office and Steel Rod
Furniture
Purchase direct from
manufacturer
THE A. H. ANDREWS CO.
Pacific Bldg., San Francisco
Chicago, New York, Tacoma

Opera, Folding and Assembly Chairs

Full Line
See Samples at 770-776
Mission St.
Bet. 3d and 4th Sts.
SAN FRANCISCO
Whitaker & Ray-
Wiggin Co.

Dates Ahead

A GIRL AT THE HELM (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—E. St. Louis, Oct. 3; Jefferson, 4; Columbia, 5; Topeka, 6; Junction City, 7; Concordia, 8; Norton, 9; Denver, 10-16; Victor, 17; Boulder, 18; Greeley, 19; N. Platte, 20; Grand Island, 21; Lincoln, 22-23; Omaha, 24-25; Creston, 26; Des Moines, 27; Grinnell, 28; Cedar Rapids, 29; Iowa City, 30; Clinton, 31.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Oakland, Oct. 3; Sacramento, 4; Stockton, 5; Fresno, 6; Selma, 7; Bakersfield, 8; Santa Barbara, 9; Los Angeles, 10-16; San Diego, 17-18; Riverside, 19; Redlands, 20; San Bernardino, 21; Ogden, 23; Salt Lake, 24-31.

ALCAZAR STOCK.—San Francisco.

BLANCHE BATES (David Belasco).—San Diego, Sept. 27; Santa 2; Oakland, 4, and week; Portland, 11 and week; Seattle, 18 and week; Tacoma, 25-26; Victoria, 27; Vancouver, 28-29; Bellingham, 30; Spokane, Nov. 1-3.

BELASCO STOCK CO.—Los Angeles.

BISHOP'S PLAYERS.—In stock, Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland.

CHIC PERKINS (Frank G. King, mgr.)—Story City, Oct. 4-5; Gladbrook, 8-9; Strawberry Point, 11-12; Fredericksburg, 13-14; Riceville, 15-16; Stacyville, 18; Mason City, 19-20; Open, 21-22; Goodell, 23; Pocahontas, 25-26; Webster City, 27-28; Ames, 29-30.

CHAS. B. HANFORD (F. Lawrence Walker).—Lynchburg, Oct. 4; Roanoke, 5; Richmond, 6-7; Newport News, 8; Norfolk, 9; Petersburg, 11; Raleigh, 12; Winston-Salem, 13; Charlotte, 14; Spartanburg, 15; Greenville, 16; Atlanta, 18-19; Athens, 20; Augusta, 21; Charleston, 22; Savannah, 23.

GUY SMITH STOCK.—Oakland, Cal.

HAROLD NELSON.—(G. G. Garrette, mgr.)—Gonzales, Oct. 3; Paso Robles, 4; San Luis Obispo, 5-6; Santa Maria, 7; Ventura, 8; Oxnard, 9; Santa Barbara, 11-12.

LITTLE JOHNNY JONES (Chas. L. Crane).—Dayton, National The., Oct. 4-6; Logansport, 7; Frankford, 8; Lafayette, 9; Crawfordsville, 11; Robinson, 13; So. Chicago, Calumet The., 14-16; Burlington, 18; Kenosha, 19.

McKENZIE'S MERRY-MAKERS.—Marshfield, Sept. 23, 4 weeks.

MURRAY & MACK'S VAUDEVILLE DATES—Oakland, Orpheum, Oct. 3, two weeks; Los Angeles, Orpheum, 18, two weeks; Salt Lake City, Orpheum, Nov. 7, week; Ogden, Orpheum, 14, week; Denver, Orpheum, 21, week; Lincoln, Orpheum, 28, week; Sioux City, Orpheum, Dec. 5, week; St. Paul, Orpheum, 12, week; Minneapolis, Orpheum, 19, week; Omaha, Orpheum, 26, week; Kansas City, Orpheum, Jan. 2, week; Chicago, Majestic, 9, week; St. Louis, American, 16, week; Chicago, Olympic, 23, week; Chicago, Haymarket, 30, week; Indianapolis, Grand, Feb. 7, week; Cincinnati, Columbia, 13, week; Louisville, Mary Anderson, 20, week; Memphis, Orpheum, March 6, week; New Orleans, Orpheum, 13, week; Mobile, Majestic, 20, week.

MOROSCO'S BURBANK STOCK.—Los Angeles.

PAID IN FULL.—Ellensburg, Oct. 4; Spokane, 5-6; Missoula, 7; Butte, 8-9; Great Falls, 10; Helena, 11; Bozeman, 12; Livingston, 13; Billings, 14; Dickinson, 15; Bismarck or Jamestown, 17; Fargo, 18.

RICHARDS & PRINGLE'S MINSTRELS (Holland & Filkins.)—Palestine, Oct. 1; Tyler, 2; Mineola, 4; Wills Point, 5; Weatherford, 6; Mineral Wells, 7; Thurber, 8; Cisco, 9; Abilene, 11; Stamford, 12; Haskell, 13; Seymour, 14; Wichita Falls, 15; Quanah, 16; Childress, 18; Clarendon, 19; Amarillo, 20; Plainview, 21; Tulia, 22; Canyon City, 23; Hereford, 25; Clovis, 26; Roswell, 27; Carlsbad, 28; Pecos, 29; Midland, 30.

RAYMOND, THE GREAT.—(Maurice F. Raymond, mgr.)—Cadiz, Spain, Oct. 1-5; Lisbon, Portugal, 9-17; Oporto, 19-20; Bordeaux, France, 25-30; Liverpool, England, Nov. 3-10; Dublin, Ireland, 14-20; Glasgow, Scotland, 23-30.

SIS HOPKINS (J. R. Stirling).—Ann Arbor, Oct. 4; Jackson, 5; Battle Creek, 6; Kalamazoo, 7; Dowagiac, 8; Benton Harbor, 9; Grand Rapids, 10-13; Cadillac, 14; Saginaw, 15; Port Huron, 16; Detroit, 17, week; Milwaukee, 24, week; Waukegan, 31.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Dunsmuir, Oct. 3; Red Bluff, 4; Chico, 5; Marysville, 6; Woodland, 7; Vallejo, 8; San Jose, 9; San Francisco, 10-16; Oakland, 17; Sacramento, 18; Stockton, 19; Fresno, 20; Selma, 21; Bakersfield, 22; Santa Barbara, 23; Los Angeles, 24-30; San Diego, 31-Nov. 1.

TIME, PLACE AND GIRL (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Los Angeles, Oct. 3-9; Redlands, 11; San Bernardino, 12; Riverside, 13; San Diego, 14-15; Santa Ana, 16; Bakersfield, 17; Hanford, 18; Visalia, 19; Stockton, 20; Oakland, 21-23; San Francisco, 24-30; San Jose, 31.

THE THIRD DEGREE (Henry B. Harris, prop.; Harry E. Allen, act. mgr.; R. W. Priest, bus. mgr.)—Salt Lake, Oct. 4-9; Los Angeles, 16; San Francisco, 18-31.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR CO.—(Western).—(Brady & Grismer).—Brookfield, Oct. 1; Boonville, 2; Kansas City, 3-9; Fremont, 11; Norfolk, 12; Columbus, 13; Grand Island, 14; Kearney, 15; North Platte, 16; Denver, 17-25; Boulder, 25; Ft. Collins, 26; Greeley, 27; Victor, 28; Colorado Springs, 29; Leadville, 30; Salt Lake City, Nov. 1-3; Ogden, 4; San Bernardino, 6.

THE SOUL KISS (Albert Hoogs, bus. mgr.)—Dallas, Oct. 4-5; Fort Worth, 6-7; Waco, 8; San Antonio, 9-10.

THE CLIMAX.—Portland, Oct. 3, week; Seattle, 10, week; Aberdeen, 17; Olympia, 18; Tacoma, 19-21; Victoria, 22-23; Vancouver, 25-27; Westminster, 28; Bellingham, 29; Everett, 30; South Bend, Nov. 1; Chehalis, 2; Ellensburg, 3; North Yakima, 4; Pendleton, 5; Walla Walla, 6.

YANKEE DOODLE STOCK COMPANY.—(George V. Haliday, mgr.)—Durand Wis., Sept. 27, week; Fairbault, Minn., Oct. 4, week. Brainard, 11, week; St. Cloud, 24, week.

Spotlights

Madame Nazimova's plans for the coming season, which has been definitely announced by the Shuberts, include the presentation of one or more new plays and an engagement in New York. The first new play will be that of The Passion Flower. The star's entire summer has been a busy one. Instead of the rest she had planned at her country home near Portchester, she has done strenuous work reading and discussing new plays. Out of a hundred Nazimova has found two which have so impressed her that one has been selected for her road tour and the other will be given a production within a short time. Both are by new authors. When Nazimova opens the new Shubert theatre in New York one of these will be her medium. While Madame Nazimova has temporarily laid aside Ibsen, she has by no means given up his plays. It is her intention during her New York engagement to make productions of new plays for special performances and perhaps one by Ibsen will be among this list. Rehearsals have begun and a notably fine company has been engaged. It is also among the possibilities that later in the coming year she will appear in a play which Eugene Walter is under contract to write for her.

The Round Up, with Rapley Homes in the role of "Slim" Hoover, had a remarkable engagement in Boston, playing to as big receipts as it did on its two previous visits. Klaw & Erlanger have made a big production of the drama of the Arizona desert for its first long road tour and engaged a splendid acting cast. The play will remain in New England for a month or more and then start on its journey through the South and to the Pacific Coast.

Detectives have been retained to break up an organization of men who are said to have netted a considerable income in New York from grand opera singers who prefer applause to hisses. Rumors several seasons old that certain opera singers employed persons in the audience to applaud them were given credence by the managements of the Metropolitan and Manhattan opera houses when they declared that such singers had been the victims of blackmail and that whatever money they had given was more to prevent being hissed than to obtain applause. According to several well known singers they had been approached by members of this band who had plainly informed them that unless they paid for applause their singing would be hissed. Experience shows that those who did not pay were hissed. The managers declare that they will break up the practice.

Manager E. Drachman of the Tucson Opera House in Tucson is at loggerheads with the entire booking offices and will not play combinations this season. He announces a season of stock instead.

As the Sun Went Down is a new play by Geo. D. Baker, which Arthur C. Aiston will present here this season. This play has so far been received with universal acclaim in every city so far visited, and the notices given it have been unanimous in praise for play, company and production. The play is one which, while laid in the Western country,

GOLDSTEIN & CO.
COSTUMERS for all Pacific Coast Theatres.
Goldstein's Hair and Wig Store,
Make-Up, Play Books. Established 1876.
Lincoln Building, Market and Fifth Sts.

is not sensational, but tells a heart story of genuine interest and is filled with bright comedy. The company is headed by Estha Williams, well known here for her splendid work in other of Mr. Aiston's former companies. The production is an elaborate one, requiring the services of a special baggage car for its transportation.

During the Billie Burke engagement at the Van Ness Theatre matinees will be given on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

An Electric Flyman

Two Seattle men have invented a mechanical device which will do away with the work of many men now employed on the stages of theatres. This new device is called the electric flyman, and will be to the theatrical men what the linotype is to the newspaper offices. One machine will do the work of five men, do it thoroughly and at a cost of about one-hundredth of what the man could do it for. W. W. Ladd and William Pyncheon, two well-known stage employes, have invented the machine and have applied for a patent. The device is constructed of iron, is 5 inches wide, 24 inches long and 30 inches high. Within the frame are several levers, a large wheel, balance weights, and it is operated by a small dynamo. This machine will lower drops, automatically stopping when the drop has been raised or when it has been lowered to the stage. Several of these machines placed on any stage, and controlled by one man, can handle any number of drops in a theatre. All that is needed to be done is for the lever to be pulled and the drop ascends or descends. Self-adjusting appliances do the rest. The local theatrical men, after a thorough inspection of the electric flyman, have pronounced it a great invention, labor and money saver. A five-horsepower dynamo will operate fifty machines.

All Kinds of SCENERY

Painted, built and installed. The only real Scenic Studio on the Coast. Get our prices. For Road or House productions.

Front and Sheridan Sts.
Portland, Oregon

C. F. Weber & Co. Opera Chairs

All Styles of THEATRE AND HALL SEATS

365-7 Market Street
San Francisco

210-212 N. Main St.
Los Angeles

FRED O. OSBORNE, Manager
Theatrical Code, "Santapole"
Home Phone F 5037

New York Dramatic Agency

Booking
Dramatic and Vaudeville Acts
Organizing and Routing Companies, Supplying "Scripts," Etc.
Belasco Theatre Building, Los Angeles
Entire Third Floor

CHARLES E. ROYAL AND ELLIOTT EDYTHE

Presenting Charles E. Royal's wonderful Burglar Playlet, "STRAIGHTENING A CROOK," and six other excellent playlets. "Best sketch ever presented at the Empire."—Eureka Times. "Full enough of dramatic and comedy situations to warrant a four-act play."—Eureka Herald. Chas. Royal and Edythe Elliott are finished artists in every sense and present a wonderfully clever act."—Watsonville Pajaronian. "Working All the Time." "Featured Everywhere."

BERT LEVEY, AGENT.

Correspondence

Billie Burke intended to become a grand opera singer when she first went on the stage and she studied music for several years with that end in view. She still takes singing lessons, but the success she has made on the dramatic stage has driven all thought of trying for operatic honors out of her head. Miss Burke will be seen in Love Watches at the Van Ness Theatre a week from Monday.

It is said that The Yankee Prince, George M. Cohan's much talked about play, is presented by the largest musical comedy organization that has ever made a complete tour of the United States. Computing cast, chorus, extra orchestra, business staff, etc., the star is accompanied by over 100 people.

James Forbes' comedy success, The Traveling Salesman, will shortly be staged at the Van Ness Theatre. There are many bright sayings in the piece contributed by Bob Blake, the leading character. One of them is: "If some men could buy themselves for what they were really worth and sell themselves for what they think they are worth, there would be more millionaires in the world."

A musical attraction of more than ordinary merit will be found in Three Twins, which will be seen here under the management of Gottlob and Marx. A very large company will appear in the piece.

Wright Lorimer will be seen here during the holiday weeks in his massive production of the biblical drama, The Shepherd King. It is one of the greatest plays of the age and has been a big attraction for the past two seasons in the east.

With Fred C. Whitney as the principal stockholder, the Whitney Opera Company of New York has been incorporated with a capital of $25,000. The first production is to be The Chocolate Soldier.

Fannie M. Cox, wife of a Chicago actor, living in Valencia street between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth, met with a serious accident at the corner of Mission and Twenty-fifth streets last Monday evening as she was about to board outbound Mission street car No. 158.

A good old heart-warming drama, in which girls and gold, heroism, plotting and preaching, gambling and other mining camp ingredients are delightfully mixed up until one wonders how they can ever be straightened out—but they are, in the end—is the five-act As the Sun Went Down, which opened at the Lyric last night. It is California of the Bret Harte brand, and that means color and movement from start to finish. Estha Williams as Col. Billy earned a lot of applause, and so did other members of the cast, including W. A. Whitecar, "The Tarantula," main provider of villainy; Flora Byam as Sale Sue, Edwin Walter as Faro Bill, and Arthur E. Chatendon as the Rev. Albert Atherton. The scene at Dead Man's Rock was the most striking of a number of excellent stage specialties. The plot revolves about the unscrupulous efforts of a villainous gambler and confidence

STEVE I. SIMMONS

MAXWELL ALEXANDER

Columbia Scenic Studio Co.

Estimates on all Classes of Theatrical Work

Office, 117 Fell St., S. F.

George P. Webster

Stage Director

Ye Liberty Playhouse Stock, Oakland, Cal.

Arthur E. Witting-Mattie Davis

Character Actor

Joint or Single AT LIBERTY

Character Actress

Address San Diego, Calif., Boundary and Howard Streets.

Doris Wilson

Prima Donna, Kolb and Dill Company

Augustus Phillips

Leading Man

Alcazar Stock—San Francisco

ORRIN SHEAR

Eccentric Characters

Engaged

FRANK OPPERMAN

Supporting Millidge Sherwood in King Lear

JAMES O'REILLY

Characters

Engaged

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

DAVE LERNER

Playing the David Warfield Roles

With Nat Field at Central Theatre

ANITA MURRAY

Ingenue

Broadway Stock, Oakland.

COL. D. P. STONER

Business Manager Newman Foltz Co.

Care Dramatic Review

THURLOW WHITE

Leads, Heavies

Address, Dramatic Review

HERBERT MILTON

Characters and Heavies

At Liberty

Care of Dramatic Review

CHARLES E. GUNN

Leads

Care Dramatic Review

BERT PORTER

Juveniles

Newman-Foltz Co.

MAX WAIZMAN

Newman-Foltz Co.

EDWARD B. LADA

General Music Director

for Belasco & Mayer

A. BURT WESNER

Comedian

At Liberty

Care Dramatic Review

TEDDY WEBB

Comedian, San Francisco Opera Co.

Direction Frank Healey

HARRY J. LASK

Representative New York Clipper

N. E. Cor. Sansome and Pine Sts.

HARRY MARSHALL

Scenic Artist

At Liberty.

3748 Vermont Ave., Los Angeles

MINOR REED

Scenic Artist

At Liberty

Address Dramatic Review

CARRIE CLARKE WARDE

Characters

CHESTER STEVENS

Heavies

Grand Opera House Stock, Los Angeles

MARY HARVEY-BARBOUR

Leads (Versatile)

3d Ave. Theatre, Seattle

FREDERICK GILBERT

Burbank Stock, Los Angeles

ARTHUR SHEPPARD

Scenic Artist

Care Dramatic Review

HOWARD FOSTER

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

IRENE OUTTRIM

Willard Mack Co.—Salt Lake City.

PIETRO SOSSO

Chas. King Stock Co.

Pickwick Theatre, San Diego

MINNIE MAYFIELD

Heavies and Characters

Late of Richard Jose Co. At Liberty.

Care Dramatic Review

HERMAN HELLER

Musical Director

Valencia Theatre

Social engagements filled

DAN KELLY

Comedian

Care Dramatic Review

FLORENCE DAVENPORT

Ingenue or Soubrette

At Liberty.

Care of Dramatic Review

GEORGIE WOODTHORPE

Characters

Broadway Theatre, Oakland

ALFRED ROWLAND

Supporting Millidge Sherwood in King Lear, Season 1909-10.

Care Dramatic Review

LAURA LUCILE HEIMLICH

Leads

Everett, Wash.

FRED S. CUTLER

Manager Richard Jose

In "SILVER THREADS"

Address care Dramatic Review

OLGA GRAY

Leads

At Liberty.

Care Dramatic Review

GEORGE VON BLIX

Stage Manager

Newman-Foltz Co.

Walter H. Newman AND Bertha Foltz

KLE

Starring Jointly

High-Class Repertoire

Season 1909 and 1910

Alf. T. Layne    Daisy D'Avra

Del Lawrence Stock, Victoria

Edith Lyle

Ye Liberty Stock, Oakland

Donald Bowles

Dramatic Director Geo. L. Baker's Attractions.
Address Bungalow Theatre, Portland, Oregon.
Loaned by Mr. Baker to direct Mr. James Neill's Company for him in St. Paul, Minn.

Neva West

Care Dramatic Review

Permanent Address, 2110 Post Street

Johnny Williams, Jr.

"FRISCO"

"The Man in Front." Can Book or Wild Cat

Louise Kent

In Vaudeville

Her Own Company

Pantages Circuit

Claire Sinclair

Second Business

Stock.

Seattle Theatre, Seattle

E. P. Foot

GENERAL MUSICAL DIRECTOR

At Liberty

Care Grand Opera House

Mina Crolus Gleason

Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland

Louis Morrison

Belasco Stock Co.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Seibert & Lindley

Presenting the headline act, "HER OWN MOTHER," in vaudeville.

Sidney B. Payne

Lyric Stock, Portland, Or.

Sydney Ayres

Leading Man

Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, Cal.

Budd Ross

Comedian

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Al Hallett

Stage Director

Empire Stock, Fresno

F. F. Munier

Characters

Empire Stock, Fresno

Priscilla Knowles

Leads

Bennett Jack

Characters

Lyric Theatre, Portland

Carlton Chase

Leading Man

Kolb and Dill

Evelyn Selbie-Virginia Thornton

Alternating Leads

Frawley Co., Alaska

George B. Baldwin, Jr.

Alcazar Stock, San Francisco

Monroe Salisbury

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

James Austin Gleason—Webster Lucile

Playing Title Role in Checkers    Juveniles in Checkers

Godfrey Matthews

Second Business

Broadway Stock—Oakland, Cal.

Le slie King

Season with E. H. Sothern
Closed June 17th

Immediately Engaged by
Frederic Thompson for Folly of the Circus
To open June 29th

Will be on our Coast Tour early in 1910

Western Managers
Who Want
Dates
Better Write
Quick

AS THE SUN
WENT DOWN

By Geo. D. Baker

With ESTHA WILLIAMS

Address
ARTHUR C. AISTON
Tel. 941 Bryant

Room 304
1505 Broadway
New York City

6th Week
Lyceum Theatre
Cleveland
Ohio
Sept. 27th, Oct. 2nd

Only a Few Open Nights
ON Entire Season

Newman-Foltz Company
Experiencing Prosperity

Walter Newman, in writing to THE DRAMATIC REVIEW, tells of splendid success this season and in a number of places they played return dates very successfully. This week they divided between San Jose, with splendid results, and San Mateo, where they have packed the theatre nightly.

Immense Production of
New Passion Play

Work upon America's first great Passion Play along the line of the Oberammergau production is being rapidly pushed to a conclusion, as the first four nights' performance will be given on October 11th, 12th, 14th and 15th. The scenery out at the Columbia Scenic Studios looks like a great forest. Six sixty-foot cars would be required for its transportation. Eight thousand yards of canvas will be used upon the stage which is two hundred and thirty-four feet in width. The big drops are one hundred and twenty feet in width, and thirty stage hands are required to operate them. This is the most pretentious production of the greatest drama the world has ever known. To it Father Josephat Kraus has given his life study, reading, translating, compiling from Hebrew, Greek, Latin, Polish and German, striving to bring before the world reality of the immense love that lightens, glorifies the otherwise too awful Christ tragedy. It will be given in the Coliseum near Golden Gate Park. There are eighty-four platform and sixty hanging pieces, which require two miles of rope for rigging. A switchboard seven feet high and eighteen feet long has been placed for the stage, to regulate the 3,000 incandescent lamps, 12 olivets, 12 spot lights, 6 stereopticon, and 10 bunch lights, used in producing the various effects. The total length of the border and footlights is 580 feet, wired for four colors. Over the entire ceiling a vast harp of finest piano wire has been spread to perfect acoustics. With this and the elevated platforms the large audience is insured satisfaction to ear and eye. The cast of actors comprising six hundred people, has been coached by the old-time grand opera man, Frank de Witt, a favorite of the old Tivoli. The play consists of twenty-one acts, divided into four nights of three hours each. The music plot embraces thirty-seven vocal numbers, augmented by classic selections from Handel, Gounod, Rossini, Mendelssohn, and Palestrina. It is under the directorship of that musical genius, Father Peter Hueges, with a chorus of two hundred trained voices and an orchestra of forty picked musicians. Father Josaphat and Manager Freddy have had numerous elaborate offers from theatrical managers but so far they have positively agreed to but two performances. The second will be given October 17th, 18th, 20th and 21st.

FRANCES WILLIAMSON writes: The company I am with opened here in Everett, the 20th of June. We are doing a record-breaking business—have been playing to S. R. O. business from the start. In the company are Tom Sullivan, Laura Heimlich, S. M. Griffith, Lillian Griffith, Lee Tyrell, Margaret Marion, and Don Mullally. Frank Fanning is putting in a stock at the Scenic and opens on the 27th in The Parish Priest.

Billie Burke's
First Coast Tour
AS A STAR

Charles Frohman

PRESENTS

Billie ::
:: Burke

IN THE EXQUISITE COMEDY

Love Watches

VAN NESS THEATRE.....San Francisco
Two Weeks, Beginning Monday, October 4th

MACDONOUGH THEATRE .....Oakland, Cal.
Three Nights, Beginning Monday, October 18th

VICTORY THEATRE.....San Jose, Cal.
One Night, Thursday, October 21st

YOSEMITE THEATRE .....Stockton, Cal.
One Night, Friday, October 22d

CLUNIE THEATRE .....Sacramento, Cal.
One Night, Saturday, October 23d

MOORE THEATRE .....Seattle, Wash.
One Week, Beginning Monday, October 25th

VICTORIA THEATRE .....Victoria, B. C.
One Night, Monday, November 1st

VANCOUVER OPERA HOUSE.....Vancouver, B. C.
One Night, Tuesday, November 2d

TACOMA THEATRE .....Tacoma, Wash.
One Night, Wednesday, November 3d

BUNGALOW THEATRE .....Portland, Ore.
Three Nights, Beginning Thursday, November 4th

The Greatest
Cast of Singers

Headed by
THOS. H. PERSSE
Tenor
EDITH MASON
Soprano

Now Booking Season 1909 & 10

The Persse-Mason Co.

In the New Operatic Comedy

The Singing Bandits

Book and Music by HERMAN PERLET

THOS. H. PERSSE.....Sole Proprietor
LOUIS LISSNER.....Manager

Permanent Address: Dramatic Review, Van Ness
Theatre Building, San Francisco

Everything
Complete

New Scenery

Excellent
Music

Quartette of Comedians

Season

William Stoermer Presents

09-10

Millidge Sherwood

In a Sumptuous Scenic Revival of

... King Lear ...

Car of Scenery

25 People

Beautifully Costumed

Two "Ahead"

THE SAN FRANCISCO DRAMATIC REVIEW

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Published Continuously Since 1880. The Only Theatrical Publication in the Great West

Ten Cents a Copy—$4.00 a Year

San Francisco, Saturday, October 9, 1909

No. 7—Vol. XXI—New Series

Neva Raymond

MOROSCO'S
BURBANK THEATRE
Los Angeles, Cal.
"The Best in the West"
The Leading Stock House.

HOME OFFICE
BURBANK THEATRE BUILDING
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Oliver Morosco's Plays

Ready for Stock

The Judge and the Jury

The Halfbreed

The Empress and the Soldier
In South Car'liney

Is the New Majestic a winner? Well, we guess yes

Hamburger's MAJESTIC Theatre
The Handsomest in the West
Cost $300,000.00
Oliver Morosco, Lessee & Mgr
For time address JOHN COAT

Menzel's Dramatic Agency

These are busy times. I want 50 good actors. Orders are pouring in every day. A record of my recent activity: Supplied Ed. Redmond's company for Santa Cruz; Edwin Emery for the American Theatre, this city; Chas. King's company for the Pickwick, San Diego; Del Lawrence company, Seattle; Hallett and Clement stock, Fresno; Lorraine Buchanan company, for road; Millidge Sherwood company in King Lear, for road; and a host of single orders. Notwithstanding some pessimists, I do do business.

WM. MENZEL, 915 Van Ness Avenue
San Francisco, Cal.

Marguerita Sylva Says Woman Needs One Hour and a Half to Dress In

"A correctly gowned woman cannot dress herself in less than one hour and a half." Mme. Marguerite Sylva, the prima donna, thus sets the feminine sartorial time limits with finality. "A well-groomed woman allows: 'Fifteen minutes to go over the face with light massage and powder. Fifteen minutes for a bath. Ten minutes to adjust corsets and underwear. Fifteen minutes at least to arrange the hair. Ten minutes to adjust the hat. Twenty-five minutes being all that is left in which to arrange the outer costume. Of course,'" added Madame Sylva, "these are the mere necessities of a woman's toilet. She must allow at least every other morning: Thirty minutes for a manicure; forty-five minutes for waving the hair; an hour for a thorough massage. For myself, I am never late. However, I am afraid that the time I consider necessary for dressing would cause the learned Chicago judge to bless a fate that had never led him to my drawing-room to cool his heels." The Chicago judge to whom Madame Sylva referred is Justice Crowe, who, in connection with a fine which he imposed upon the chauffeur of Mrs. George W. Lederer, wife of the theatrical manager, exclaimed: "A woman has no regard for time; she will take half an hour to adjust three hairpins. Women take too much time in dressing and primping. They have no idea of the inconvenience it causes their husbands, friends and admirers. Even married women frequently force their husbands to eat cold meals by keeping the repast waiting while they primp up. Women should be made to dress by the clock, the same as a man works. They should run on schedule time." "I agree with Judge Crowe that it is aggravating to be kept waiting," admitted Madame Sylva, "but a man simply cannot understand the intricacies of a woman's dress. With a man there is a button for everything and—everything on its button. There is a certain number of pins that go to complete a woman's toilet, no matter how neat and fastidious she may be. A woman with a heavy head of hair, even if she is the plainest and severest of women in her taste, cannot comb the tangles out of it in less than eight or ten minutes in the morning. To properly arrange the intricate coiffures of the past season one-half to three-quarters of an hour was required.

MEN ARE JUST AS SLOW.

"It has become a time-honored custom to make jokes that are hoary with age upon the amount of time that it takes a woman to dress. Yet," continued, the prima donna whimsically, "it takes no longer for a woman to arrange her hair than it does for a man to shave. Many of us spend hours in beauty parlors, but few of us stay in them all night, as do many men in Turkish baths. Only a married woman whose husband cannot afford a valet knows how much of her own dressing time is actually consumed by her husband," went on Madame Sylva. "It takes time to put studs into dress shirts, tie neckties and hunt up lost socks and suspenders. It is rather surprising, then, isn't it, after a woman has practically arrested her own adornment to dress her 'liege lord,' to have him go stamping into the hall and exclaim: 'Good heavens, Mary Jane, aren't you ever on time?' Certainly there is one thing that no man can understand, and I doubt if I can explain it. The less a woman puts on the longer it takes her to do it. It always takes a woman longer to get into a décollete frock than it does to dress herself in a morning gown. Never have women worn fewer clothes than with the present fashions, and never has it taken them longer to dress. Many of us have practically abandoned all but the absolute necessities in undergarments, yet it takes us even longer to dress. Possibly it is because the rigid simplicity of line that is now correct demands that every article of wearing apparel should be adjusted without a crease or wrinkle. It is seldom, too, that a woman's gown fastens in a manner that is easy for her to manipulate herself. For this, men are directly responsible, so it seems but fair that their sex should suffer some of the consequences. The men who design our clothes—and practically all style evolution emanates from the Paris fashion kings—do not stop to consider either comfort or practicality in their efforts. You notice that man's own clothes are easy enough to put on and fasten. For much of woman's necessary delay in dressing, men are responsible.

WORTH WAITING FOR.

"But, after all, the question simmers down to this," concluded Mme. Sylva. "Would a man prefer to wait for an attractive woman, or to have an unattractive woman waiting for him? To make oneself perfect in every detail a woman cannot always be on time. Her escort will have to wait occasionally. It is far more important for a woman to be adorable than for her to be punctual. Men will wait for a beautiful woman, but if she is punctual without beauty she is only burdened with an undesired asset. It will do her no good to be punctual, for there will be nobody for her to meet. If a man complained because I took too long to dress, I would suggest that he choose between waiting for me, or accompanying a woman who could dress on schedule time. Whatever is worth having is worth waiting for. As a rule, in this world, you have to wait longest for that which is most desirable. Possibly this idea explains to us mankind."

J. C. Williamson Has Some Strong Opinions

J. C. Williamson, formerly of San Francisco, but now the theatrical magnate of Australia, who was recently in this country securing plays and players for the coming Australian season, made the startling declaration that affluence is demoralizing the American playwright. "Just as soon as a man writes a successful play in this country he thinks he must have a country home, an automobile and belong to a fashionable club. He decides that he will not write any more except when he feels like it, as he has enough money, and the result is that what he writes after his first success is mostly trash, not fit to produce." That is what the eminent Melbourne manager and impresario had to say in summing up our playwrights after he had been to see everything at the theatres in New York and in London that was worth while. "The chief trouble with your modern dramatic authors is carelessness," said Mr. Williamson, with impressive emphasis; "they write too hastily and carelessly, after they have once been successful, and this is the result of their affluence. The initial success brings such a large pecuniary reward, the necessity of earning daily bread no longer exists, and the result is the playwright does not put forth his best effort any longer. Where will you find the dramatist nowadays who is able to duplicate his first success? But it used to be different in the old days." "Don't you think that the American dramatists of today are superior to those of twenty years ago?" "No, I do not think that the men writing for the American stage now are as talented as the playwrights of the last generation were. I do not consider any of the present writers as able a playwright as Bronson Howard. We have no dramatists in Australia yet, the country is too young. It takes a century or more to develop a school of national drama, but we have an army of actors, actresses and singers, especially singers. Since Melba became the world's greatest prima donna every fond parent of a girl with a good singing voice in Australia has endeavored to make the girl a prima donna of grand opera, and while some of them have been mistaken in the estimate of the girl's voice, we have a host of splendid singers." Mr. Williamson said that he gave Melba her first professional engagement. "Her salary for concert work was only twenty pounds a week and she was glad to get it," said the Australian manager, "but this was over thirty years ago. I am much disappointed in the quality of the dramatic offerings, both in New York and London, this season. The genuine successes are few, and good plays are very scarce. I have secured almost everything that I thought would have a chance of pleasing the Australian public. American plays as a rule do not meet with favor there. The tastes of theatregoers are about the same as in London. American actresses, however, invariably meet with success. Both Margaret Anglin and Minnie Tittel Brune were received enthusiastically. It is talent, not nationality, that counts with the Australian audience. They do not care where you come from as long as you 'show the goods,' as you Americans say." Mr. Williamson's ideas are interesting and as they refer to the quality of late London and New York plays, we agree with him. Much of the light-waisted, vapid plays that have been boomed into success will not survive and are hardly worth while. It is becoming more and more evident that the school of playwrighting of the future must come from the West, where we are unconventional enough to dig down to concrete facts and still moral enough to avoid vicious flippancy. There is a breadth and scope about the intellect West that nearly always commands attention and will eventually unconsciously claim respect.

Barcroft Is Fine Manager

W. J. Elleford, writing from Merced, says: "Manager Frank Barcroft has the opera house fixed up fine and everything is in a first-class condition. It is a pleasure to play in such a comfortable theatre. He has plenty of provision made for the comfort of the actor."

Hotel St. James

Cor. Van Ness Ave. and Fulton St.
San Francisco, California

Headquarters for Agents and Managers

Half Block from Van Ness Theatre.
Friars meet at the St. James every Friday night.

F. P. SHANLEY, Manager, formerly of New York

Leading Woman Strikes

Revolt of the leading woman, May Parker, contributed a sensational feature to the closing of the Unique Theatre, Los Angeles, last Sunday, previous to the tearing down of the structure. The trouble had a small beginning. Miss Parker owed a board bill amounting to about $9. As this was not paid, her salary as leading woman was attached. The costs swelled the claim against her to $16.10. Just before the curtain rose, Miss Parker demanded her entire salary for the week. This was refused. Miss Parker then went before the curtain, declaring that she was being robbed of her earnings. After that she went away, and the band of players did the best they could to present A Married Bachelor without a leading woman.

Maoris Give Their Yell

The Maoris from New Zealand who were detained here for some weeks by the immigration officials on the suspicion that they had trachoma, have arrived safely in New York, where they joined some of their fellows on exhibition at the Hippodrome. They reached San Francisco on the steamer Mariposa, from Wellington, New Zealand, in charge of Robert W. MacBride, who is well and favorably known here. Their release from quarantine was due to Mr. MacBride's strenuous efforts. He never for a moment forgot that Shubert & Anderson were depending upon him to land their star attraction in New York. Any time that he tires of the theatrical business Mac can make a career for himself in the diplomatic service if he follows the same lines that he pursued during the three weeks he stayed in San Francisco. His success in landing the Maoris after they had been ordered deported marks an epoch in government affairs. His efforts caused two departments of the government to reverse their decisions, which event is almost without a precedent. When they got to Gotham there was such a demonstration as has never before been seen in this country, according to a New York correspondent who witnessed their arrival. They were met at the Grand Central Station by a lot of sophisticated Maoris who have been in New York for some time. The reception party arrived in a rubberneck wagon, and impatiently awaited the appearance of the visitors. It was when the latter emerged from the station that the fun commenced—although it was not fun for the Maoris, but part of their regular ceremony. When the newcomers hove in sight, the others stood up in the rubberneck wagon, and there issued from their throats a noise like this:

Ka Mate Ka Mate
Kaora Kaora
Ka Mati Ka Mati
Kaora Kaora
Tini Te Tangata Po Hura Hura
Nana Tiki Nini Faka
Whiti Te Ra
Hupani Hupani
Kupani Kupani
Whiti Te Ra

The Maoris on the sidewalk listened in solemn delight until the cry ended, and then answered in kind, their big voices bellowing out sonorously, and drawing the attention of people a block distant. Not only did they give the yell, but they accompanied it by a weird dance, the while brandishing spears and battleaxes in a most terrifying manner. Then they climbed into the wagon, where a further ceremony took place—the rubbing of noses. Men and women alike performed the nasal salute, after which the wagon chugged away, full of happy Maoris, and leaving behind it several hundred astounded spectators.

Margaret Anglin, Actress Manager

Margaret Anglin, following in the wake of her partner and long time associate, Henry Miller, is her own backer and manager this season. Miss Anglin made quite a tidy sum of money out of her Australian tour and concluded that she would undertake the experiment of becoming her own employer, with the immediate result that she has engaged a company all by herself and is embarking upon the uncertain sea of theatrical management. Her season begins immediately at the Savoy Theatre and ends only in the dim and hazy future, as circumstances may dictate.

Henry Miller Wins Success in London

London, Sept. 20.—Henry Miller made a great personal hit in The Great Divide, notwithstanding some of the critics did not take kindly to the play. It generally is conceded that Mr. Miller gives a fine performance of a most difficult role. Mr. Miller has received columns of praise from the newspaper writers, and has become a great social favorite.

H. H. Frazee

Among the important young producing managers of America is H. H. Frazee, of Chicago, who is at present one of the busiest workers in the managerial field, having six big musical comedies on the road, The Time, the Place and the Girl, eastern and western; The Girl Question, eastern and western; A Girl at the Helm, and A Knight for a Day. He is also interested in the new Cort Theatre, on Dearborn street, Chicago, which opens November 1st with a new musical comedy entitled The Kissing Girl, book by Stanislaus Stange, lyrics by Vincent Bryan, music by Harry Von Tilzer. The road company of The Kissing Girl will open about January 1st. Mr. Frazee is now at work preparing for the production of a new play by Alfred G. Robyn and Thos. T. Railey, entitled The Western Girl, and has secured the rights of a new American play by H. R. Durant, author of A Man and his Mate. The new play has been christened The Ruling Power, and will be produced early in December. James J. Corbett, who is now playing with great success the music halls of London, is still under contract with Mr. Frazee, and will return in January, 1910, to appear in a new play, the nature of which has not yet been

ANNUAL
TOUR OF

THE ELLEFORD COMPANY

IN LATEST DRAMATIC ROYALTY SUCCESSES
Pacific Coast Representative for Brady and Grismer's
MAN OF THE HOUR and WAY DOWN EAST
"A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI"

W. J. ELLEFORD, Sole Proprietor and Director
WILLIS BASS, Business Manager
FRANK WYMAN, Manager
Permanent Address, Francis-Valentine Co., 285-287 13th St., S. F.

made known. Having found that his present offices in the Rector Building are inadequate for his rapidly increasing business, Mr. Frazee is having a new suite of offices prepared on the second floor of the new Cort Theatre Building, where he will be installed early in October.

Spotlights

The Third Degree, by Charles Klein, the author of The Lion and the Mouse, will be seen at the Van Ness Theatre following Billie Burke. The last named play dealt with characters high in politics and speculative commerce while the story of The Third Degree deals with men and women in society and the methods of the police in wringing out confessions of guilt through the sweating process of the so-called third degree.

An audience that crowded the Pickwick Theatre to its capacity was present last night to view the initial performance of the Charles King Stock Company. And when the curtain fell on the last act it appeared to be the unanimous opinion that it was an excellent play that was given, handled in a most effective manner by one of the most capable stock companies that has ever appeared on a San Diego stage. Mr. King has surrounded Marjorie Rambeau with an unusually good company, there not appearing to be a weak member in the organization. The play itself, Merely Mary Ann, was put on in an excellent manner, and if the bills which are to come are handled anywhere near as effectively, patrons of the theatre are assured some first-class attractions. Chief interest, probably, centered in the appearance of Miss Rambeau. So much had been printed in advance of her talents that the expectations of the audience were keyed to a high pitch. There is no doubt but that Miss Rambeau came up to all expectations and that she scored a big hit, if one may judge by the large amount of applause which she received. Miss Rambeau demonstrated that she is an actress of far more than ordinary ability and there is every reason for believing that she will prove a favorite with Pickwick patrons. She handled the role of Mary Ann in a most accomplished manner. In the first act she was rather quiet, but as the play progressed she became stronger and in the two final acts did some excellent work. Charles King, as Launcelot, made a good impression and gives ground for believing that some fine things may be expected of him in the future. Louis Morrison, as the music publisher, has not a great deal to do, but nevertheless acquits himself in the manner expected of an actor of his known ability. Pietro Sosso, as Mr. Peters, does some good work and when he made his first appearance last night was accorded a welcome that he is not likely soon to forget.—San Diego Tribune, Sept. 28.

Since Charles J. Ross's striking demonstration of ability to enact serious roles—evidenced in his portrayal of Torelli, the principal figure in The

New Oxnard Opera House

OXNARD, CAL.

Best stage between Frisco and Los Angeles. Playing all of the best shows that come to the Coast. Doing good business. Write for open time.

GONZALES OPERA HOUSE

GONZALES, CAL.

New, well appointed theatre, electric lighted. Full stock of new scenery. C. H. WIDEMAN, Mgr.

WOODLAND Opera House

WOODLAND, CAL.

Greatest show town for good shows in the West. A few good dates open in September and October. Stage big enough for any production. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

Hill Opera House

PETALUMA, CAL.

JOHN R. ROCHE, Lessee and Manager

The finest theatrical town outside of the big cities in the West. Magnificent new theatre, with stage large enough for any attraction, playing regularly from $500 to $700 a night. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

287 Thirteenth St., S. F.

BARCROFT Opera House, Merced

Entirely remodeled. New stage, big enough for any production. Stage equipped with new scenery. Merced has 4,000 population. For time write F. R. BARCROFT, Manager.

Santa Cruz OPERA HOUSE

Santa Cruz, Cal.

L. A. KNIGHT, Manager

Rental or will play first-class companies on percentage

H. Lewin

H. Oppenheim

GORDAN TAILORING CO.

928 Market St., Bet. Powell and Mason
FINE CLOTHES MODERATE PRICES
No Branch Stores

NEW AUDITORIUM

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CAL.

Seating capacity, 1,000; new stage; new scenery; stage thirty feet deep, sixty feet wide; large enough for any production; a population of 5,000 to draw from; now booking for 1909-10. Address WALTER A. CLARK, Mountain View, Cal.

Love Cure, he has twice been approached by authors who wish to have him star in the legitimate in their efforts. It is by no means impossible that Henry W. Savage will next season make a dramatic star of Mr. Ross. If this should happen, the experiment will be watched with keen interest, for it is very rare indeed that a player who has spent many years in the pure fun-making field even attempts serious work, David Warfield being the only one within memory to accomplish this difficult task with genuine success.

That the Shuberts intend presenting their attractions to the people of Stockton leaked out this week. For several days a large force of workmen have been putting the Forrest Theatre, which hereafter will be known as the Garrick, in the best possible shape for use. Theodore Rothschild holds a lease on the playhouse, which is comparatively a new structure, with a seating capacity of about 1,200.

The leading roles in The Third Degree will be played by Paul Everton and Fernanda Elisou.

Madison's Budget No. 12, Just Out
Parent's Stationery Co., 818 Van Ness Avenue, S.F.

Billie Burke at the Van Ness

Billie Burke has made the biggest kind of a success at the Van Ness Theatre where she made her bow as a star last Monday evening in Love Watches.

On Monday Evening the house was filled with a fashionable audience which evinced its approval of the charming star by round after round of applause and curtain calls innumerable after every act. Nothing daintier or more fascinating in the shape of a theatrical star has ever visited San Francisco, and everyone who has seen her—man, woman or child—is in love with her. The little play itself is a trifle, light as air—a thing only a Frenchman could have conceived and written. The story it tells is delightful and the cast that supports Miss Burke is excellent from beginning to end. Miss Burke will continue to present Love Watches at the Van Ness all next week with matinees on Wednesday and on Saturday.

Clyde Fitch at Final Rest

Boston, Oct. 1.—The body of Clyde Fitch, the playwright, was buried today in Woodlawn cemetery. Funeral services at the Church of the Ascension were attended by one of the largest gatherings of actors and literary and theatrical people that ever met in this city.

SOME FITCH ANECDOTES.

The father of the late Clyde Fitch wanted him to become an architect. The son preferred tampering with literature to bungling bungalows. At last they compromised. Fitch, jr., was to try writing for three years. If at the end of that time his debts bulked heavier than his bank account the practical minded parent was to have his way. The young man had begun to look with some approximate interest on the advertisements for draughtsmen when his chance came. Richard Mansfield had an idea for a play founded on the story of Beau Brummel. He had not the time to write it and asked William Winter to do it for him. That distinguished critic passed along the opportunity to Clyde Fitch and Fitch embraced it. Mansfield held the play for several months, then gave it a Chicago tryout. On the night of the premiere Fitch's three years of probation had almost expired. The story runs that he did not even have car fare to Chicago for the opening. Word of its transcendent success came to him by wire. The reluctant parent was convinced and architecture lost a shining light.

And Clyde Fitch's stage struggles really only began with his first success. It piqued him in soul and purse to find that he could not gain the ubiquitous ear of Charles Frohman. Whenever Fitch called the ear was out—of hearing. One day Fitch bribed an office boy to lay a manuscript on Frohman's desk. The boy was a good boy, with an eye to the future of the American drama, and he put it in a conspicuous place. The day the busy Charles discovered the manuscript, a blizzard struck the town and he decided to leave his office early. He took the play with him in a mood of sheer desperation, abetted by the fact that the current drama at his Empire Theatre apparently had caused the blizzard. Before nightfall the manager had called a rehearsal of the Empire Stock Company for the following morning, according to the New York Telegraph. He couldn't find Fitch. Three days latter that gentleman walked timidly into the Frohman offices. The office boy thought he might wait till Mr. Frohman came. When that august event took place, Fitch stammered out a request that Frohman read his play. "It's in rehearsal," said the manager, crisply, still according to the New York Telegraph. "I've been waiting to see you to make the necessary contract." That piece was Bohemia. It ran for 150 nights at the Empire, with Henry Miller, Viola Allen, W. H. Thompson, William Faversham, Orrin Johnson and Ida Conquest in the cast.

Clyde Fitch made his first demand to have absolute direction of all his plays as soon as he felt himself sufficiently powerful with the managers. Thereafter, whoever may have been announced as the stage manager of one of his pieces, it was really Fitch who was responsible for the final result. "There was nothing that Fitch would not do," an actor in several of his plays was recalling, "to make the actors understand what he wanted.

Continued on Page 13.

CHAS. F. THOMPSON SCENIC CO.

MAIN OFFICE AND STUDIOS, 460, 462, 464 WITMER STREET, LOS ANGELES

THE FINEST, LARGEST AND MOST MODERN SCENIC STUDIOS IN THE WORLD. SCENERY FOR OPERA HOUSES AND PRODUCTIONS. DROP CURTAINS AND SCENIC ADVERTISING DROP CURTAINS OUR SPECIALTY. IN USE IN 1268 THEATRES IN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA. WHY NOT YOURS?

LEVY'S BIG TRUNK STORE

INCORPORATED

COAST AGENTS FOR THE

Taylor Trunks

687 Market St., S. F. opp. Kearny GENERAL REPAIRING Phone Douglas 3192

Occasionally members of a company not familiar with his methods kept their faces straight only with difficulty. He imitated exactly just what he expected every character to be. He would strut about like a Wall street corporation president, chatter like a toothless old woman, parade around with the icy serenity of a Gibson beauty, or coquette with the abandon of a show girl in the early morning hours at a fast restaurant. All these types he would illustrate with fidelity to the original. It was part of his skill as a stage manager and enabled him to accomplish wonders with his actors. But it was mighty hard on the players who had never seen it before. I have watched old stagers in the business who came for the first time to a Fitch rehearsal nearly double up when the author went bounding across the stage with the gait and swing of a 10-year-old girl, and then imitate

Garrick Theatre, S. F., ALL NEXT WEEK

Under the Direction of

H. H. FRAZEE, (Inc.)

An Exceptional Clever Musical Comedy

...The... Girl Question

Touring the Coast with

John L. Kearney
Dorothy Maynard

And Other Capable Artists

ASSISTED BY A

50 all
Told

Large Chorus, Mostly Girls

50 all
Told

The Garrick

San Diego's Leading Playhouse
San Diego, California

D. C. COLLIER, Proprietor
WYATT & DODGE, Managers

Novelty Theatre, San Francisco TO RENT

By the day, week or month. Fine, comfortable theatre, seating 1,200 people. Large stage.
SPECIALLY ADAPTED TO POLITICAL MEETINGS

Oliver Morosco Will Revive Another of His Plays in Los Angeles Next Week

mystery which has surrounded the origin of the story that Mrs. Leslie Carter would play a stock engagement in Los Angeles next summer, has at last been cleared up by a letter written by John Blackwood to Richard Bennett. The substance of the letter is that Blackwood told the story to Bennett in confidence just to find out if Bennett would give the information to a certain local dramatic critic. In the letter, Blackwood says: "To gain my point I simply lied to you, with the result that you did exactly what I prophesied to Capt. Jones and Ben Johnson you would do,—that is, hurry to the aforesaid young dramatic critic and tell him what I told you in strict confidence." It is a queer situation, to say the least, and not quite understandable. We have been told that the Shuberts will star Florence Reed, late leading woman of the Belasco Company, in Clyde Fitch's latest and uncompleted drama, The City. Word has been received locally that Al Woods has accepted Linton Tedford's play, The Greater Claim, for presentation in New York in three months. The local children's theatre project is really going to amount to something. It is designed as a memorial to Madame Helena Modjeska. The Orpheum is this week showing us a new drop curtain, and it certainly is a relief after seeing that advertising curtain for so long. Next week, in A Society Pilot, Lillian Burkhart will close her engagement at the Burbank. Harry Girard and his wife have been entertaining R. W. Priest, manager of The Third Degree. Mr. Priest was the principal publicist for Mr. Girard's opera, The Alaskan, when it opened at the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York. Fred Getzler, property man at the Burbank Theatre, is studying the new science of aeronautics. He has sent to Washington for such patent office records as bear upon the subject. He has secured designs of the Wright aeroplane and the Bleriot machine, and has started work upon a heavier than air flying machine of his own, a war aeroplane for use in the Burbank production of Julian Johnson's war drama, Invasion. David Silverman, who sometime ago made his first appearance on the stage as the Old Clothes Man in the Belasco production of The College Widow, is again attracted to the stage and is appearing in the cast of The Day of Judgment at the Grand. Harry Girard's Alaskan plays at the Grand, San Antonio, this week. Louis Morrison, recently a member of the Belasco Company, is with the Charles King stock company, now playing the Pickwick Theatre in San Diego. Blanche Hall, who is returning from Honolulu, makes her reappearance at the Burbank in My Wife. Olga Stech has signed a year's contract with Kolb and Dill. Christine Nielson, who will be remembered for her excellent work with the Ferris Hartman company at the Grand last year, has been signed for metropolitan leading roles by Henry W. Savage. She will make her Savage debut in Chicago next week in the Hungarian military operetta, The Gay Hussars. The Shuberts have their own representative as treasurer of the Auditorium. Louis Judah takes the place of Leo Wells, the former treasurer. Leo Wells will go on the road as manager of the melodrama, King of Tramps. The annual benefit of the Theatrical Managers' Association will be given at the Auditorium in about three weeks. It will be a long program and will include acts from all of the local houses. Howard Scott has returned from his vacation and will make his first appearance in the Belasco production of Old Heidelberg.

AUDITORIUM—The Great John Ganton is being played for the second week at the Auditorium, with George Fawcett in the title role. Mr. Fawcett is surely doing some wonderfully fine work in this part. The business is good.

BELASCO—Du Barry continues to pack the house at every performance. Is this to be another of the Belasco's long runs? The performance goes much more smoothly than last week. Miss Magrane is excellent in the Carter role.

BURBANK—When We Were Twenty-One is the offering of the Burbank Company this week. This fine play by Henry V. Esmonde is as popular as ever with Los Angeles theatre-goers. It has been played here by a stock company and also by a road company, but it is safe to say it has never been given any better than by Mr. Morosco's players. The story of the play is too well known to need repeating at this time. It is an entertaining comedy and is drawing capacity houses at every performance. Miss Burkhart as Phyllis is wonderfully good. We have seen no work of hers that is better. Mr. Beasley as Dick Carewe gives us a very excellent picture. Mr. Mestayer scores a triumph in the part of "the Imp." John W. Burton, David M. Hartford and H. S. Duffield are cast as the "Trinity" boys. Margo Duffet is the "Firefly." The minor roles are all well taken, and the staging is good. Also we must not fail to notice the beautiful gowns worn by the women of the company. Next week the company will put on A Society Pilot.

MASON—Honeymoon Trail, a musical comedy by Hough and Adams, with music by Joseph Howard, opened Monday night. Thin as to plot, but tuneful as to music, it is one of those things that leaves a memory of catchy songs and pretty faces. In the hands of a mediocre company, Honeymoon Trail would not amount to much, but such is not the case, for Bert Baker, as Dennis Mason, manufacturer of canned beans, is a capital comedian and brings many laughs. Louis Kelso as the rival "bean manufacturer" does some good brisk comedy work, and Carl George ably assists at the funmaking. The chorus is undeniably a very pretty one and well dressed. The song hits are: You Can't Be a Friend to Everybody, Nothing to Do But Nothing, and One Little Boy Had Money, which last was accompanied by the clever dancing of Mabel Melvine.

MAJESTIC—The Time, the Place and the Girl is paying its second visit to Los Angeles, and is as popular as ever. While this is another of the Hough-Adams-Howard's plotless musical comedies, it is breezy, brisk and melodious and is well presented. Robert Pitkin, in the part of the happy-go-lucky gambler, is all that could be desired. Elizabeth Goodall as the nurse at the sanitarium is as handsome as ever. Jessie Huston is as pretty and dainty as The Girl should be, while May Bouton does some clever dancing. The chorus is most satisfying as to looks and dressing.

GRAND—The play that is being put on by Mr. Blackwood's company at the Grand this week is not as good as those we are accustomed to seeing at this house. The Day of Judgment is supposed to tell the story of the Thaw case, but it is not particularly interesting, and the company is worthy of a better vehicle. In the play Harry Thaw's part of the life story is placed in the form of the Rev. Wilburn, and played by George Webb. Fordham Jamison corresponds to Stanford White, played by Robert Leonard. The Lucille Perkins of Miss Hayward resembles Evelyn Nesbit. Arthur Witting plays the comedy character part of Dennis Malony. Others who have good roles are Dave Silverman, J. C. Bates, Chas. Yorba, Fred Morgan and a host of extra people. The play draws good houses at every performance. Next week, What Women Will Do.

ORPHEUM—At the Country Club is the headliner this week and well deserves to be called so. Ben Mulvey, Eulalie Jensen and Jarvis Jocelyn, assisted by a double quartette of girls and men, sing the clever songs and bring out the wit of the sketch in an able manner. Dick Gardner and Anna Revere, in A Real Variety Act, are both well received. Signor Luciano Lucca, a small man with a big name and a pliable voice, ranging from deepest baritone to high soprano, does some clever work. The Arlington Four, a messenger quartette, have some good comedy and dancing. John Hymans and dainty Leila McIntyre, with their capital sketch, head the holdovers, and are still prime favorites. Mayes and Johnson, and Cunningham and Marion, together with Rose Royal and her posing horse, complete the bill. The new curtain drops on this week's performance and it is a delight to the eye.

LOS ANGELES—The bill at the Los Angeles Theatre for the week is a very good one, and there are three numbers of which more might be said. Pals, the play recently used by James J. Corbett, has been cut to a twenty-minute sketch, and furnishes the headline attraction. The sketch is being given by Edwin Carewe, supported by Campbell Stratton, Madge Towle and "Slivers" Singer. Each one is a good actor, and the piece has plenty of comedy and action. Jere Sanford is a fine whistler, a real yodeler and a good comedian. His work pleases everyone. The acrobatic stunts of the Three Las Ploetz Lorellas Sisters is another feature of the bill. The Prodigal Girl, a comedy sketch, is well presented by the Murphy Whitman Company. Harvard and Cornelle sing several taking duets in their skit, The Actress and the Dude. The Clarence Sisters present some quick changes and do a neat singing specialty. Motion pictures complete a very excellent program.

FISCHER'S—Charles Alphin is once more at Fischer's, and he is being warmly received by his many friends here. The offering for the week is from the pen of Mr. Alphin, and the title of the piece is The King of Patagonia. This is a tuneful piece and is well given by the producing company. Maude Rockwell plays the leading feminine role, and Blossom Seeley is the soubrette of the company. Others prominent in the cast are Harry Oakes, Richard Kipling, James Mendel, Dave Morris and Flo Sherlock. The musical numbers are numerous and pleasing.

UNIQUE—Friends and patrons of the Unique are happy in the fact that Hentz and Zalle have not given up the theatrical game, even for a while, but are dispensing fun and music at the old Empire Theatre building on Third Street. The vaudeville act is furnished by the Three Olivers on the tight wire, and the act is concluded with a Scotch dialect impersonation. The act is very clever. The Derby, a one-act comedy by Al Franks, is given by the stock company. There are two new members of the company, who are valuable additions. Miss Janicki is sweet and dainty, and her song, Pony Boy, is well received. Miss Rose sings, What the Rose Said to Me, and she sings it well. The other members of the company are well cast, and the performance is very good.

WALKER—For the opening of the Walker Theatre, the Allen Curtis Musical Comedy Company is presenting Jakey, Mikey and Ikey. The play is one act and has to do with three tourists who try to evade the payment of a board bill and get into all kinds of trouble as the result. Miss Bauman is clever in the part of an adventuress. She sings Glow Worm well. Mr. Curtis is very good in a Jew part. Arthur Clamage and Henry Auerbach are good as German tourists. The chorus is not the smallest part of the show. It is made up of girls with good voices and they are also good dancers. The costumes are attractive, and the performance all that we could ask. Among the musical numbers are: Bonnie Jean, led by Albert Hugo; Hugo, led by Mayme Praeger; Don't Take Me Home, led by Charles Figg. Albert Leonard also does a specialty dancing act.

FLORENCE EMERY.

WANDA HOWARD is the new leading woman in Bush Temple Theatre in Chicago.

Charles King

ANNOUNCES

Marjory Rambeau & Company

At the PICKWICK THEATRE, San Diego, for an indefinite season

Producing Only Royalty Plays

Correspondence

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 3.—Viola Allen returned to New York last week after a long absence for a popular actress and appeared at Daly's Theatre in The White Sister, made from a novel by the late Marion Crawford. Miss Allen has found success before in other dramatized works by Mr. Crawford, and the propriety of the union has not diminished since her first efforts in interpreting the plays made from the novels of this prolific author. There were the same reasons last night for regarding with satisfaction such sympathy between the material of the dramatist and the artistic means which presented it to the public. They are unquestionably of the same style of dramatic authorship and theatric skill. Miss Allen acted with her usual certainty of method and gave every situation its utmost value. Minna Gale, who made the audience grateful for her clearness of speech, James O'Neill and William Farnum kept to the icy artificiality that every line of the play demanded. Miss Allen had not failed in generosity toward her faithful public in supplying the best actors and the most appropriate equipment for a Marion Crawford drama. So there remains only the record of another theatrical success. * * * Miss Innocence is back to the New York Theatre for a two-weeks' run but little changed from the original production except a few new songs and a diamond besprinkled dress. The management thought that it might prove a good Hudson-Fulton celebration bill, and apparently there were enough old admirers or new people in town to make their guess good, for the performance was given a lively reception. The principal changes in the cast were in the parts of the proprietor of the School for Innocence, in Helen and in Claire. These were played by Alice Hegeman, Gene Luneska and Frances Farr respectively, and were quite as acceptable as their predecessors. Charles Bigelow goes on making most of the fun, and Lawrence D'Orsay, John Reinhard and William Powers continue members of the company in the characters that they formerly played. If any girls have disappeared from the chorus their places have been fittingly filled and they were not missed. Miss Held had a new dance or two and a new song. * * * Sam Bernard appears to be getting away gradually from the old stereotyped style of musical comedy in which the plot takes up two minutes of the time and specialties, songs and horseplay the rest. In The Girl from Kay's and The Rich Mr. Hoggenheimer he had productions which deserved to be called musical plays. They contained a definite story and the characters were more than automatons. Both were successful, and the comedian has tried again along the same line. His newest play, The Girl and the Wizard, which had its first hearing here at the Casino last Monday, is the work of J. Hartley Manners and is the first try at entertainment with music which this playwright has attempted. It contains a clean cut little love story and holds interest without the use of horseplay or vaudeville specialties. Mr. Bernard's part gives him a chance to portray a real flesh and blood German who can win and hold sympathy, and he does it with the same ability which made his Hoggenheimer vital. There were two or three occasions, too, last night when he proved again that he can be serious successfully. The play has moments when it becomes a bit sentimental—when the action calls for sympathy with the character—and in every one of them Mr. Bernard made his point and made it skillfully. One cannot imagine crying over Sam Bernard's acting, but he can and does approach the point when a choky feeling is not far off. Sprinkled through the piece are a dozen or more musical numbers by Julian Edwards and others. All were pleasant to hear as incidents to the entertainment. Those which bid fair to be most popular are a march song called Military Mary Ann, a number called True Blue Love, whose title gives an idea of its style, and best of all, The Blue Lagoon, which has an attractive melody. Most of the singing fell to Flora Parker and Kitty Gordon. Both did the music full justice. Both also acted their parts acceptably and Miss Gordon's back bids fair to rival those of Lotta Faust and Mary Garden. The usual dozen show girls were good to look upon and wore stunning gowns. An innovation at the beginning deserves a separate mention. No opening chorus accompanies the rising of the curtain. A dark stage is shown, and a daybreak effect disclosing a pretty scene with a background of snow capped mountains. * * * William Faversham's cast for his production of Stephen Phillip's Herod will include Julie Opp, Olive Oliver, Mabelle Crawley, Florence Gerold, Hilda Stowe, Claire McDonald, Dorothy Edmed, H. Cooper Cliffe, Morton Selten, Lionel Belmore, Burton Churchill, Harry Redding, Pickering Brown, Charles H. Cline, Melville Rosenow, Warren Conlon, John Beck and Leon Brown. There will be nearly one hundred and fifty supernumeraries. * * * The Barrier, a dramatization of Rex Beach's novel by Eugene Presbrey, was produced for the first time last week by Klaw & Erlanger and Joseph Broks, with a strong cast headed by Theodore Roberts. Mr. Presbrey tells the story in four acts. In the first, he has Mr. Beech's "two virile men," John Sale, the trader (Theodore Roberts), and Dan Stark, the gambler (W. S. Hart), meet at the end of the frontier after eighteen years of flight and pursuit. The curtain falls with the young Kentucky soldier aghast at the idea of having proposed marriage to a half-breed. Full realization of the situation is developed in the second act. In the third, primal emotions are permitted to sweep away the barrier of law and social conventionality. The play is pronounced the best bit of writing of Mr. Presbrey's career. The playing of Mr. Roberts, Florence Rockwell and W. S. Hart was powerful, and curtain calls were plentiful. Alphonse Ethier, Richard Thornton and Guinie Socola were also effective in their roles. In staging and costuming strict attention has been paid to realistic detail. * * * The Ballet Master, a one-act play by Frederick F. Schrader, which Henry E. Dixey was to have produced in vaudeville before he began starring in Mary Jane's Pa, will shortly be presented under the management of Joseph Hart, with a well-known actor in the title role. The scene is New York and the characters are an old French dancing teacher, a young actress and an artist. * * * William H. Crane will begin his third season in Father and the Boys at the Montauk Theatre next Monday night in the presence of

The Hotel Dale

ON THE RIALTO—HOME OF THE PROFESSION—SPECIAL RATES
Only First-Class European Hotel close to The Garrick, Princess, Novelty,
National, Alcazar, or Pantages—SAN FRANCISCO
SPECIAL—We make a feature of Breakfasts Served in Rooms
COR. GOLDEN GATE AVE. AND FILLMORE ST.
Take McAllister Street and Turk and Eddy Street Cars at the Ferry

Clancy's

Phone Franklin 1506

Stage Hardware

Williams Hardware & Stove Co.

974 Market Street
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

George Ade and Charles Frohman. It will be the first time that the author and the owner of the comedy have ever witnessed the performance together. * * * Albert Chevalier, the English character singer, who has not appeared here for several years, returned last Monday to the Colonial Theatre. His latest impersonation, The Workhouse Man, is given partly with the hope of remedying the hardship which the inmates of the English workhouses are compelled to endure. Chevalier got a rousing reception. * * * For the foreign rights of her production, The Awakening of Helena Richie, now playing at the Savoy Theatre, Margaret Anglin has received three offers by cable for permission to produce the play immediately in London and one from Australia. As Miss Anglin owns all the rights she will retain the play for her own personal use in the British metropolis. * * * William Gillette left his houseboat, the Aunt Polly, last week for the first time this season and came to New York to register a complaint with Charles Frohman. "I am now so beastly well," said the actor, "that I am sorry you ever cancelled my tour for this season." That ended the interview. Mr. Gillette again sailed away on his houseboat. * * * Miss Barrymore's company in Mid-Channel will comprise players from England and America, and Miss Barrymore will play a very late season, again revisiting San Francisco. It will be the first time a Frohman star has ever made a Pacific Coast tour in successive years. As a matter of curiosity the books for the last six seasons for Ethel Barrymore have been gone over and it was discovered that her tours averaged nearly $1,700 a day. Eventually Miss Barrymore will come to the Empire Theatre to share that house with John Drew and Maude Adams in the repertoire theatre plan.

ROB ROY.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 2.—John Cort's King Dodo came to the Metropolitan on October 3, for four nights. Eleanor Kent is being featured. The show was good and played to satisfactory business. Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway opened on the 7th to big business. George Cohan and his royal family, who are now en tour to the Pacific Coast in his new musical comedy, The Yankee Prince, will appear here shortly. Henry E. Dixie in Mary Jane's Pa, is due to amuse us in November. The Chicago record breaker, A Gentleman from Mississippi, which ran for six months at the Grand in the Windy City, comes on the 10th for a week. Burr McIntosh and Will Deming head the cast. Geo. D. Baker's romantic drama, Graustark, opened at Theo. Hay's popular Grand, Oct. 3rd, for week. Good houses prevailed and the new leading woman, Eva Von Luke, was exceptionally good. Atkin Lawrance and Francis

J. Gillen in leading support. The colored population is eagerly awaiting the coming of Cole & Johnson, billed as The Premier Exponents of Ethiopian Wit and Humor, in their latest musical comedy, The Red Moon. They open on the 10th, for a week. The Orpheum enjoyed its usual good patronage this week with a bill headed by that distinguished actor, Wm. H. Thompson, in the playlet, Pride of Regiment. Whole bill good. Majestic: Vaudeville, good show to good houses, while the burlesque house, the Star, played to big stag audiences, presenting Morning, Noon and Night. The Gem and other picture houses are doing well.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 2.—The Lyric (Shuberts) presented Girls, a new musical comedy, to good business. The Bijou packed 'em in with The Girl Question. A good show, with strong chorus. Jim Neil and Company continue to do good business at the Princess. David Harum is the attraction this week. A novelty in advertising was sprung by the management, in having all their paper put on bill boards and fences up-side-down. It certainly attracted lots of attention. The Unique and Mills, both S. & C. vaudeville, are enjoying great business and putting on fine bills. The Metropolitan, the leading dramatic house, is in the strong grasp of musical comedies. Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway opened on the 3rd, and King Dodo on the 7th. Here comes the Merry Maidens.

AL. G. FLOURNOY.

SALT LAKE, Oct. 4.—Salt Lake (Geo. D. Pyper, mgr.): The Honey-moon Trail drew good houses. It was a good little musical comedy and well received by the people. This week, The Third Degree, with Paul Everton in the principal role, will be presented. This is looked forward to with much interest. Colonial (R. A. Grant, mgr.): Emma Bunting, as Lena Rivers, in the play of that name, pleased her large audiences. Beginning to-night and running for one week, Emmet Devoy's latest effort, In Dreamland, will be seen here. It is well advertised and ought to draw large houses. Following this, Mr. Potter's The Girl from Rector's will play here to a limited engagement of four nights. It is needless to say that the management expects the seating capacity to be sold out at every performance. Grand (A. B. Jensen, mgr.): The Wildard Mack Stock Company played to pretty good houses last week in The Other Girl. This week they will present Lovers' Lane. Bungalow (R. A. Grant, mgr.): The Arlington Players, in Quo Vadis, were good as a whole, and played to fairly good houses. But with the effort they put in the piece it seems as though they should have been rewarded with larger audiences. This week they will appear in the breezy western comedy, The Cowboy and the

Correspondence

Lady. The part of Teddy North will be taken by Mr. Ince, leading man, and Bertha Creighton will take the part of Mrs. Weston. Orpheum (H. Sonnenberg, res. mgr.): The bill last week was pretty well balanced, and pleased Orpheum patrons. Those who are on the bill this week include the Curzon Sisters, who have a sensational performance; John World and Mindell Kingdon, singing and dancing comedians; Wilbur Mack and Nella Walker in their little skit, The Girl and the Pearl; Vic. Milo, Frank Girard, Richard Hale and Eddie Roscoe compose a singing quartette; Hughes Musical Trio, in instrumental solos and duets; Herr J. Rubens, the Munich Academician, does some transparent painting; Eddie G. Ross, the Dancing Banjoist, and the motion pictures.

R. HARBACH.

LARAMIE, Wyo., Sept. 24.—Opera House (H. E. Root, mgr.): Hollingsworth Twins, Sept. 21-24; good show, change bill nightly; attendance good. Company left for Rock Springs. Sanford Dodge, Oct. 4-5.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Oct. 2.—Oct. 12, Honeymoon Trail; 13, The Time, the Place and the Girl; 14, In Dreamland; 16, A Gentleman from Mississippi; 19, A Knight for a Day; 22-23, local talent; 28, Fifty Miles from Boston; 29, local. Opera House has been remodelled, and outlook for a good season.

SAN MATEO, Cal., Oct. 6.—Mil-lidge Sherwood comes here October 8 for a night with King Lear. The Persse-Mason Musical Comedy Company are booked for October 26.

CHAS. E. HEATH.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 4.—The past week has been an entertaining one in many respects from a theatrical standpoint. One could enjoy as many different kinds of theatrical productions as are usually found only on a metropolitan stage, and I might add, productions of class. At the Bungalow, Cameo Kirby was the bill for the entire week, featuring Dustin Farnum. All of us were agreeably surprised to see Farnum in a role so different from the kind we are accustomed to expect at his hands. In the role of the Louisiana gambler he gave us a very enjoyable portrayal of that role. McKee Rankin and May Buckley were the chief support of the star, and none of us were disappointed in their work. Last night, at the Bungalow, Joe Weber's Climax opened for a week to a fairly good house. The play is an interesting one, and although the cast is small, the author has kept the interest therein well in hand. Quite a great deal of attention is drawn towards the Bungalow for its next week's offering. Blanche Bates. Star Theatre (Russell & Drew, mgrs., Frank Hood, res. mgr.): The Shuberts offer Going Some this week at this theatre; it opened last night to a sold out house, and proved to be a first class comedy. James Spottswood and Genevieve Cliffe are cast in the leads, and they, together with Eugene O'Rourke, are the bright, illuminating spots of the comedy. The latter, in fact, is pretty near a whole show in himself. Another member of the company, Willis Brown, in the role of a cowpuncher, comes pretty near being the best we have had along those lines. Next week, The Ringmaster. The Portland Theatre is about finished, the house has been entirely re-frescoed and tinted, and opens about the 16th. Baker Theatre (George L. Baker, mgr., Milton Seaman, bus. mgr.): There was no booking at this house for this week, so, rather than have the house dark, Alburtus and Arzuella are giving a so-called hypnotic entertainment. Next week, The Sunny Side of Broadway. Lyric Theatre (Keating & Flood mgrs.): A dramatization of the novel, St. Elmo, is this week's bill at this theatre. Enough tears were shed by the audience yesterday to float a battleship. Priscilla Knowles, in the role of Edna Earl, gave a faithful presentation of the child that knew only the good side of life, and Sidney Earl, in the name part, was equal to all demands made upon him. There is not much comedy in the play, but the little that there is was well taken care of by Robert Athon. The management has given the play a fine setting. Orpheum Theatre (James H. Erickson, mgr.): Two bright spots were plainly visible to patrons of this house the past week in Valerie Bergere and her company, and the Tuscany Troubadors. In the play, Billie's First Love, Miss Bergere sustained her high reputation as one of America's most versatile actresses, and her supporting company was better than is usually found in vaudeville. The Tuscany Troubadors play selections from the old masters in a manner that no music lover can find fault with. Other acts making more than the usual hit were Altus and Alburtus, and The Glinser-ettis. This week's bill includes George Bloomquest & Co., Howard & Howard, Martinette & Sylvester, Ballerini's Canine Tumblers, Barry & Hulvers, John Weil, and the De Sanctus Quartette. Grand Theatre (Frank Coffinberry, mgr.): The following acts are announced for this week: Mrs. Gardner Crane & Co., William Cahill, Wil-liston & Stonaler, McLellan & Carson, Frank Parker & Co., and Fred Bauer. Pantages Theatre (John Johnson, mgr.): The following acts include this week's bill: Minerva, Nat Ressler & Co.; Smith, Evans & Williams; Roberts & Downey, Sutton & Sutton, Leo White, and Frank O'Brien.

A. W. W.

SEATTLE, Oct. 4.—Moore: A musical comedy of the best sort is The Three Twins, which is in for a week's engagement at the Moore. This is nothing but our old friend, Incog, dressed up in new trappings, and set to music, but the making over is all to the good. The music is catchy, especially The Yama-Yama Man, and, with gorgeous scenery and pretty show girls, makes up a strong attraction. Alhambra: A vigorous drama of frenzied finance was presented at the Alhambra last night in The Ringmaster, which, although it has a strong story, is filled with a profusion of words and not sufficient action. Miss Alice Weeks makes the character of the Ringmaster's daughter one of strength and womanliness. Grand: Texas is again back at the Grand and is giving as much pleasure as on its first appearance. The comedy parts are well handled, some good work being done by minor characters, while the tense situations appeal to the feelings of the audience. The part of Texas West is faithfully portrayed by Emily Clifford. Texas will be the bill until Wednesday, when The Sunny Side of Broadway will be seen for the rest of the week. Seattle: Lovers of melodrama are reveling in A Fighting Chance at the Seattle, which is beating all previous records of the new Russell & Drew Stock Company. The play has no connection with Robert Chambers' story of the same name, but is a story of a reformed girl thief, with an environment of shop-lifters, thieves and yeggmen. Lois: The Rose of the Rancho is proving popular at the Lois, being excellently played by the Lawrence Stock Company. The scenic artist has provided a number of artistic scenes. Orpheum: Mlle. Bianci is a fine disciple of the operatic ballet. Keno. Walsh and Melrose are comedy gymnasts. Hal Godfrey and Company have a character skit, A Very Bad Boy. Maxim's Living Models provide an artistic feature in living reproductions of famous paintings. Gen. Ed. La Vine is one of the cleverest and most entertaining of eccentric jugglers and comedians ever seen here. Patsy Doyle has monologue, and Nevins and Erwood furnish dancing. Majestic: The new vaudeville will open at this house and is headed by Edward Gallagher and Company in the amusing nautical and scenic travesty, The Battle of Bay Rum. Among the other new acts are Dorothy Dahl, versatile comedienne; Steeley and Edwards, in a musical comedy; La Velle and Grant, strong men; Dick and Alice McAvoy, in Herald Square Jimmy; the Labakans, sensational acrobats, and the new French motion pictures. Pantages: Consul, Jr., is the star this week and does everything but talk. Among the other acts are the Wilson Franklyn Company, who have a funny sketch called My Wife Won't Let Me.

The new Third Avenue Theatre is about to follow the old Third Avenue Theatre into innocuous desuetude. The transfer of the property at Third and Pine, announced last week, means that the old church building will be torn down at once to make room for modern improvements. As a playhouse the church building had a short and rather inglorious history. Only once was its tiny stage illumined by the flame of real, imported, $2 art, and that was when Mrs. Fiske broke in there for a few nights of The New York Idea, in 1907. The theatre was formally opened on December 1, 1906, as Taylor's Castle Garden and Miniature Hippodrome, it being Charley Taylor's idea to have elephants and other livestock browsing around on the big lower floor while the big show was going on upstairs. The hippodrome idea died quickly, and the vaudeville show above ran for but a short time, giving way to Claude Amsden and his opera company. The house closed for lack of business the month after it opened. In March, 1907, it reopened as Holden's Third Avenue Theatre, but after a two weeks' struggle closed again. In May of that year, Taylor again took personal charge of the house, opening it with his stock company in Stolen by the Gypsies. During this run, which lasted until March, 1908, the house enjoyed a fairly good business at times. The closing show bore the significant title, To Die at Dawn. In April, S. H. Friedlander tried out two weeks of burlesque at the new house, and was followed by Frank Fanning with a fortnight of melodrama, both losing heavily. The Third Avenue remained dark until Russell & Drew took hold of it in September, 1908, and presented the R. E. French Stock Company in Convict 999. The old melodramatic patrons could not be rallied to the new show shop in paying number, and Manager Russell said when the finish came in December that they had lost $3,000 on the venture. The Allen Curtis Company for three weeks and the Lambert Stock Company for two weeks brought the history of the house to a close in January of this year. Manager Russell remarked at that time that the Third Avenue would never again be used as a playhouse, and his prediction has come true.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 6.—Although the Opera House (Mrs. Kiplinger, mgr.) has been dark for the past two weeks, the coming week promises ample recompense: Oct. 11, Emmet Devoy in his comedy-fantasy, In Dreamland; 12, H. H. Frazee's production, The Time, the Place and the Girl; 14, Mort H. Singer's Honeymoon Trail. The Unique still continues to draw crowds nightly with films and vaudeville, including Norris' Dog Show. That veteran actor, M. B. Curtis (Sam'l of Posen) has located here, and is conducting a school of dramatic art. The ground floor of the Roberts Building is being transformed into a theatre, and will shortly open up with film and vaudeville attractions; the identity of those back of the enterprise has not yet been announced. The announcement that Southern California towns, this among the number, would not be allotted a week of the Orpheum circuit has been received with manifest disappointment, and the hope is freely expressed that next season will see the proposed arrangement carried into effect. For four nights, commencing Oct. 6, we will have under canvas, Leo LaSalle and cast in melodrama, opening with The Scout's Revenge.

J. E. RICH.

REDLANDS.—The Wyatt (H. C. Wyatt, mgr.; E. J. Underwood, bus-mgr.): 22, Dustin Farnum in Cameo Kirby drew a large house. The production is absolutely to the good. Farnum was given an enthusiastic reception, as was also McKee Rankin in the comedy role. Miss Buckley was most acceptable as Adele Randall.

The Eckhardt Company, with Col. Caven in advance, is playing this week in Le Grande, Oregon.

Wanted

Ingenue and Woman for Fourth Business; prefer People with Specialties.

Newman-Foltz Co.

Stockton, Yosemite Theatre. Full particulars and photo with letter.

WALTER NEWMAN, Modesto

THE SAN FRANCISCO Dramatic Review

Music and Drama
CHAS. H. FARRELL, Publisher

Issued Every Saturday

Address all
letters and
money orders to San Francisco
Dramatic
Review, Van

Ness Theatre Bldg.,
Van Ness
Avenue.
Telephone
Park
1773

Entered at San Francisco as Second-class
Mail Matter. Established 1880.

Reva Raymond

Prominent among the clever company that Edwin T. Emery is presenting at the American, is Reva Raymond, the leading woman of the organization. Miss Raymond has a most likable personality and unusual ability, especially in serious roles. She has had several years' experience in various road and stock companies and has demonstrated that she is to be highly regarded in the future.

Death of Mrs. Charles David

ONE OF THE saddest occurrences of the San Francisco theatrical year occurred last Sunday morning, when Mrs. Charles David, wife of the treasurer of the Van Ness Theatre, passed away, leaving behind her a young husband and a baby three weeks old. A little more than a year ago, Charles David and Carolyn Olinsky were married, and the future seemed to hold forth to them a bounteous happiness, for they were ideally mated and both were exceedingly popular and greatly beloved by their intimate friends. In this great and sudden loss, Mr. David has the sincerest sympathy of all who have come in contact with his kindly and unselfish attentions in the Columbia and Van Ness box offices, during the last ten years.

Manager Pete Wilson of Sacramento Calls Down a Society Pet

Why did pretty Jessie Huston make a face at Ned Greenway? Who told May Bouton, the dashing widow, "Mrs. Talcott," in The Time, the Place and the Girl, at the Clunie Theatre, in Sacramento, the other night, to lift her skirts a little higher? Also, will Ned Greenway make good his threat to compel Manager Wilson to "make amends" for telling him to cease addressing the ladies on the stage? There is no one who figures in the social set of San Francisco, who occupies a more commanding place than Greenway. For years he has been to San Francisco society what the late Ward McAllister was to the "400" of New York. He is the arbiter of social standing. Greenway went to Sacramento last week on business, and in the evening attended the theatre with two young men of social prominence locally. During the progress of the second act, it was noticeable that something funny was happening in the bald-head row. After the curtain fell Miss Bouton went to Ned Weyburn, the stage manager, with flaming cheeks and fire in her eyes. She declared that a man in the front row had insulted her, and demanded that he be expelled from the house. Weyburn asked her to point out the person, and peeking around the side of the curtain, she indicated a man who proved to be Ned Greenway, San Francisco's social pet. Weyburn went immediately to Manager Pete Wilson without knowing who Greenway was, and told his story. Wilson did not know Greenway; but that made no difference. So Manager Wilson asked the privilege of a few words with Mr. Greenway. The interview took place in the lobby. Keyes and Thieriot, with one or two others, were the only ones present when it began, but it became so animated in the course of a few minutes that a large crowd gathered, and a fistic encounter seemed inevitable several times. "Miss Bouton complains that you insulted her by telling her to raise her skirts higher," said Wilson. "You'll have to conduct yourself properly or stay out of the theatre." Greenway was indignant. He declared that someone else was the guilty person. His two companions supported the statement. "You have the wrong man," they said. "Then who was it?" demanded Wilson. "It was among you three. You were laughing and bending your heads down trying to peek up. Some one told Miss Bouton to lift her skirts higher." Still the trio insisted that it was not Mr. Greenway; but Manager Wilson responded that while he didn't know that it was Mr. Greenway, Miss Bouton had pointed him out as the man. The HICKS—FRIDAY ocwt weyK crowd had gathered by this time. Greenway loudly demanded that Wilson "make amends." He wouldn't come to a country town like Sacramento to do that sort of thing, anyhow. That made Wilson wroth, and he told Greenway most fiercely that he COULDN'T do that sort of thing in a CITY like Sacramento.

The Rapid Rise of H. H. Frazee

There are not many instances on record in the theatrical profession of the rapid rise from an unknown to that of an owner-manager. The latest one attaining such prominence is H. H. Frazee, of Chicago, who eight years ago astonished his parents one evening while at the supper table by breaking into a lively conversation with the announcement, "I leave tonight in advance of a show." Consternation and silence reigned supreme for a moment, followed by expostulations and protestations, but of no avail. "You leave the table and go to bed," said his father sternly. The crestfallen young man left the table, but did not go to bed. He packed his grip and silently went to the depot and jumped on the train and vowed that he would never return until he came back a full-fledged manager. The next season he bought a small show; prosperity smiled on him to such an extent that "with money in every pocket" he returned to Chicago, where he branched out gradually and successfully each year, so that today he is sole owner of The Girl Question, The Time, the Place and the Girl, and A Knight for a Day, The Royal Chef and others, having eleven attractions all told on the road this season. He is also building a theatre named The Cort, at a cost of $500,000 on Dearborn Street, Chicago, which, when completed, will be the coziest and handsomest theatre in that city. Mr. Frazee is only 26 years of age, and proudly stands foremost among theatrical managers of the day, a place attained solely by pluck and ability, and gained from his own resources, too. Not having the aid financially of anyone, he has invested his money judiciously, with that acumen and foresight seldom seen in one so young. Today he is not only the youngest, but is the owner of more first-class attractions than any other manager in America. "Some day I will have a theatre in Boston and New York, as well as the one in Chicago; see if I don't," and he will, too.

GEO. M. COHAN himself will appear in the leading role of his musical comedy, The Yankee Prince, at the Van Ness Theatre next month. Supporting him will be his father, mother and sister and nearly a hundred others. It will be the first appearance here of the famous young American in over six years.

WILLIAM MAXWELL
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Lick Building, 35 Montgomery Street.
Telephone Kearny 724.

Imperial Amusement Co.
Star Theatre, Portland, Oregon
S. MORTON COHN, Pres.; MELVIN G. WINSTOCK, Gen. Mgr.
Acts of every kind are requested to write in, quoting lowest salary in first letter. Satisfactory booking for right acts at right figures.

The Garrick
FORMER ORPHEUM
ELLIS AT FILLMORE
PHONE - WEST 1194

TONIGHT AND ALL THIS WEEK
MATINEE SATURDAY

Geo. M. Cohan's Rural Melodramatic Musical Comedy
50 MILES FROM BOSTON

MATINEE SUNDAY

The Girl Question
With JOHN L. KEARNEY and 60 Others.

SEATS READY, 25c to $1.00.

Valencia Theatre

Valencia Street, near Thirteenth
Phone Market 17

This Saturday Afternoon and Evening
Last Times of
CORINNE in MILE MISCHIEF

Starting Sunday Night—for One Week Only
Sam S. and Lee Shubert (Inc.) Offer

GEORGE FAWCETT

In the Powerful Drama of American Finance

The Great John Ganton

Written by J. Hartley Manners from Arthur J. Eddy's Stirring Novel,
Ganton & Co.

DIRECT AND INSTANT FROM A LONG
NEW YORK RUN

Prices, 50c-$1.50—Seats Now Selling
Matinees Wednesday and Saturday

New Alcazar Theatre

Tel. West 1400

Cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts.
Belasco & Mayer, Owners and Managers
Absolutely "Class A" Building

Monday Evening, October 11th, and throughout the Week—David Belasco and Richard Walton Tully's Beautiful Play of Life in California During the Mission Days

The Rose of the Rancho

Splendidly Acted and Superbly Staged

Prices—Night, 25c to $1.00. Matinee, 25c
to 50c.

MATINEE SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

New Orpheum

O'Farrell Street, Bet. Stockton and Powell
Safest and Most Magnificent Theatre in
America

Week Beginning This Sunday Afternoon
Matinee Every Day

ARTISTIC VAUDEVILLE

VALERIE BERGERE & CO., in The Sultan's Favorite; TUSCANY TROUBA-
DOURS; ED F. REYNARD, Ventriloquist;
SIX GLINSEBETTS; CARLIN AND
CLARK; MARY NORMAN, the Society
Caricaturist; PILU, the Mind-Reading Dog, Introduced by Sig. Ancillotti; NEW OR-
PHEUM MOTION PICTURES. Last Week
JAMES YOUNG & CO., in Wanted, a Sister.

EVENING PRICES—10c, 25c, 50c, 75c;
Box Seats, $1.

MATINEE PRICES (Except Sundays and
Holidays), 10c, 25c, 50c
Phone Douglas 70

Princess Theatre

Absolutely "Class A" Theatre Building

Phone West 663

Ellis Street, near Fillmore
Samuel Loverich, Manager

Tonight and all this week

Kolb & Dill

Present Themselves in

Dream City

Evening Prices and Sunday Matinees.
50c to $1. Saturday Matinees, 25c, 50c and 75c.

AMERICAN THEATRE

Market St., near Seventh

Abe S. Cohn, Manager

Phone Market 381 for Good Seats
The Playhouse of Comfort and Safety

AMERICAN VAUDEVILLE

Will be Inaugurated Next Sunday, by a
Ten-Act

Vaudeville Show

This theatre will now book the best
vaudeville acts obtainable under the book-
ing direction of Edward Homan.
No Acts too big. No Price too big.

GILLE PRINTING CO.

SAN FRANCISCO

THEATRICAL PRINTING OF ALL KINDS

POSTERS
2257 MISSION ST. Phone MISSION
3065

THE FRANCIS-VALENTINE CO. Show Printers

Thirteenth St., near Mission, S. F. Cal.

Spacious Headquarters
for Theatrical Agents

PHONE—MARKET 2114

Send Bills of Lading to us. We will take care of your paper

Van Ness Theatre

Beautiful, fascinating Billie Burke is here and is doing what very few stars have succeeded in doing—filling the Van Ness, almost, the first week, and has an advance sale sufficiently large to insure full houses all of her second week. Miss Burke, seen here first with John Drew in My Wife, has completed her conquest of the city, particularly of the feminine portion, and in writing of the engagement now on, there is every reason for confining oneself almost completely to the star, for the play is but a bubble of froth, and while it is constructed most deftly, there are but few situations. So once more to the vivacious, magnetic, charming little star. She is the very impersonation of grace and ingenuousness and here and there where she is given an opportunity, she shows more than a promise of emotional power. But the feminine portion of the audience is lost in rapture and admiration of her charms of person, her gowns and her hats. She brings with her a new and welcome vision of new and alluring styles, together with an ability to show them to full advantage. Of the support, Kate Meek, as the Aunt; Stanley Dark, as the Uncle, and Ernest Lawford, as the unfortunate suitor, are the best, each being a finished actor. Yet with all their individual cleverness, they seem to panybe unable to suggest the desired French atmosphere of the play. An American accent is more conducive to this result than a broad English one, and with the exception of Mrs. Meek, the general run of the company accentuate this. Vernon Steel, the leading man, is a disappointment. He is lacking in both poise and authority. The staging of the play is on the most elaborate scale and every detail of production is presented with the usual Frohman carefulness. Some time in the near future, probably in November, Miss Burke will be presented with a new play in Chicago by Mr. Frohman, and after a few weeks in that city, the company will be moved to New York for the balance of the season.

Alcazar Theatre

This is the last week of Sweet Kitty Bellairs, one of the most satisfactory plays ever seen at the popular stock theatre of San Francisco. The wealth of scenic splendor and the beautiful romantic sentiment of the piece has been greatly augmented by the superb acting of the company. Evelyn Vaughan, as the fascinating Kitty, is one of the most charming actresses on our stage, and a more satisfying portrayal is not to be found in the length and breadth of the country. The other principals in the cast are living up to the best standards of the Alcazar and we shall regret to see the lively Kitty relegated to oblivion, even for a time. She will be succeeded by The Rose of the Rancho, a most suitable offering for the Portola celebration.

Princess Theatre

Dream City does not observe the demands of the Greek philosopher, Aristotle, in the matters of time, place and action. It has, however, a unity of its own that Aristotle did not exact —that of sustained interest, due to the fact and furious fun that pervades the musical comedy that the two German comedians have used for their opening piece at the Princess. There is no plot to the bill, real estate, politics, hack driving, truck gardening, catchy songs, and music of the kind that never flags, all these go to make up the piece. C. William Dill, as his name appears on the program, has the part of Heine Hofbrau, the village hackman and oracle of Malaria Center. August Dinglebender, a Long Island truck farmer, with a dreamy disposition, is assigned to Max M. Dill. It is said that in the original production in which Lew Fields starred after he had been divorced, so to speak, from Weber, there was but one German comedian. If so, the second German has been grafted into the book so deftly that no one can tell where the joining lines are. Percy Bronson as a real estate boomer was good in his part of J. Bilkington Holmes. Carleton Chase, well known to lovers of musical comedy in San Francisco, was very good as Henry, an artist in search of atmosphere. His voice was pleasing, and he received several encores. In the ensemble numbers he sang with good effect, also. Sidney de Gray was amusing as Henry Peck, a widower. A. E. Duncan, who played the part of his son, Willie Peck, was also clever, and a chip off the old block. Harris McGuire, in a small role, that of Old Man Platt, was as effective as the part demanded. Big Bill Hawkins was safe in the hands of Richard Stanton. Olga Stech was gracefully pleasing in the character of Nancy Dinglebender, the belle of Malaria Center. Maria Dinglebender, with energy enough for two, was capitally portrayed, according to musical comedy standards, by Victory Gale. Adelaide Harland was very amusing as Armanda Boggs, the help at the Dinglebender farm. She dances well and her impersonations are extremely clever. Fay Meadowbrook, a widow, was the part assigned to Anna Simkins, she has a good voice, and is very pretty. Lydia Crane, Rubie Leslie and Jennie Metzler, in small roles, were above adverse criticism, in fact, very competent. The music was good from beginning to the end of the bill. Need You, Honey, in which Anna Simkins had a chance to shine vocally, was a favorite number. You Have Got Me Going, Kid, by Olga Stech and C. William Dill, was better as regards the dancing than the singing, although no one made violent objections on the latter score. A Gypsy dance in the second act went well, and received a number of encores. Dill's song, Foolish Questions, came in for a number of recalls. Take Me Up With You, Dearie, gave Olga Stech, Carleton Chase, and the chorus made one of the big impressions of the evening in a song, Take Me Up With You, Dearie, in which an airship, which did not sing, contributed largely to the popularity of the number. Taken as a whole, Dream City may be said to make good unqualifiedly. So much so, that it is safe to say that it will run for a month. The houses have been excellent since the opening night.

Garrick Theatre

George Cohan's bustling and powerful play with music, Fifty Miles from Boston, is doing a great business this week, following a very large opening last Sunday. With its scenes laid in the little village of Brookfield, Mass., the action of the story has been written around the doings of a typical small town, with a uniquely realistic portrayal of the characters that live in such places. There is the general storekeeper, whose son is in love with the pretty postmistress; and the hotelkeeper, whose son, a Harvard baseball player, also loves the postmistress. Then there is her weak brother, who robs the postoffice and gets everybody into trouble. Town gossip and neighborly quarrels keep all those concerned in hot water, and as the story moves forward a picture with photographic minuteness is given of small town life. Among the song hits are Waltz With Me, Jack and Jill, Harrigan, The Boys Who Fight the Flames, Ain't It Awful, and My Small Town Girl. The chief actors in the cast are Richard Bartlett, Grace King, Edward O'Connor, Frank Buoman, Daniel Bruce, Flossie Martin, Laura Bennett, Edwin Belden, May Maurice, Helen Young and Bobby Wagner. While there is nothing of startling brilliancy shown, there is a general and satisfying evenness in the performance.

Valencia Theatre

The volatile Corinne and her company of merry-makers are in their second week at the Valencia. The capable little artist has made many new friends during her stay, and renewed the acquaintance of many old ones. The music to Mlle. Mischief is not the kind, perhaps that will go down the ages, but it serves its purpose in being light, tuneful and catchy, the kind that one whistles with pleasure after the performance is over. The opera itself bears unmistakable evidence of being of the old school, and it is not, in places, too over-refined, but for all that it is a pleasing vehicle for Corinne's humor. The chorus is fresh and young, sings well on the whole and dances with vim and even abandon. Charles Myer, as Meline, was very good, and was one of the most popular members of the company with the audiences at the Valencia during the week. Edward Cutler also deserves special mention. Bonnie Farley and Louise Brunell, in very small roles, attracted attention by some very clever acting. Corinne, of course, had the center of the stage and nearly all the laughs whenever she was on, but there were others, besides those mentioned who did excellently.

Personals

MANAGER R. K. TRUITT, of Healdsburg, was in San Francisco last Wednesday on business.

CALVIN HEILIG, the Portland manager, who is associated with John Cort in the new Colonial Theatre of this city, was in town a few days last week, en route to Los Angeles.

Max Bloom, who will be remembered for his character work at Fischer's and later with Murray and Mack, is billed in Omaha this week in The Sunnyside of Broadway. Caroline Ryan, his assistant, is also well known in Los Angeles.

JAMES P. LEE and Company, including Marie Barbier and Ethel Thornton, opened at the Majestic, Globe, Arizona, October 7th, for ten weeks. This is Mr. Lee's second engagement

Mrs. Saunders is Dead

Mrs. Elizabeth Saunders, the old American actress, who played with Jefferson, Booth and Powers in the '30's, was worshiped in the palmy days of the old California Theatre stock company and delighted many an audience in a hundred captivating roles, died at her home, 3523 Twentieth Street, Thursday night, over 90 years of age. She passed away gently, her life having run its course. She had been failing gradually for some weeks. A cousin of Joseph Jefferson, the actor, and born bearing that illustrious name herself, Mrs. Saunders achieved fame upon the stage while yet a young girl with her sister, Mrs. Jane German, who died but a few weeks past at the age of 87. Fame came to the young girl in those days of few companies of worth, when an actress of genius and magnetism made her influence felt throughout a whole nation and every role of prominence, including the most difficult ones of Shakespeare, and the most hoydenish boys that ever romped over the boards, was portrayed by the winsome actress. Her daintiness and charm were such that the public held her as their idol. Then came the really great days of the old California Theatre stock company, when Mrs. Saunders enacted the leading roles before that brilliant company of the early times. Here she first drew to her the group of friends that gathered around and protected her to the last. Up until her fatal sickness came upon her, each day of the week was taken by some friend, who came to chat or listen. With Mrs. Saunders when she passed away was Mrs. Mortimer, Dr. Thomas G. Inman, her physician, and a trained nurse. For several years past Mrs. Saunders had been in receipt of a weekly remembrance from the great American theatrical benefaction—the Actor's Fund.

there this season. Al. G. Flournoy, his old partner and leading man, who left the company last July, is now manager of a big lumber firm, with headquarters in Minneapolis. From all reports, "Al. is making a hit."

CHARLES P. SALISBURY has been appointed the press agent of the new Cort Theatre, which will open about October 20th. A new musical comedy, which is in rehearsal, called The Kissing Girl, will be the inaugural entertainment. It is being rehearsed here now, and among the principals are Amelia Stone, John Parks and Joseph Miron. The new theatre is situated on Dearborn Street, between Randolph and Washington, and has a seating capacity of 1,080. "Sport" Herman, who used to be the advertising agent at McVicker's Theatre, will be the local manager.

MRS. W. E. COREY, wife of the head of the United States Steel Corporation, denies the report that while abroad she had become an active suffragette. When the former Mabelle Gilman arrived in New York last week from abroad, she was met by her husband, and after denying the suffragette story, she was asked concerning the reports that she had been studying for grand opera and was contemplating the construction of her own theatre, but before she could answer, Corey said: "I have just been telling the reporters that the plans for the opera have been shut off for a while." Mrs. Corey smiled and acquiesced.

Vaudeville

The Orpheum

James Young and company furnish the only dramatic sketch and the headline sketch of the week. Mr. Young is assisted by Lorayne Osborn, a strikingly pretty girl, and Robert Strouss, a smiling, happy juvenile. The playlet is a college farce, entitled Wanted, a Sister. The story is that of a student who is discovered by his fiancée entertaining a chorus girl at dinner in a swell cafe. In order to get out of the scrape, he induces his chum to don female garb, impersonating the girl and introduces him as his sister. The complications arising from this attempted deception creates no end of amusement. The most unique act on the bill and one seldom seen is furnished by the dog Pilu, as his master, Sig. D. Ancillott, calls him. In our language this would probably be plain "Billy." Pilu is truly a most wonderful dog. He does an Anna Eva Fay stunt of mind-reading and does it in a way that precludes any idea of mechanicalism. For such a sleepy, fuzzy, woe-begone brute he is a genuine eye-opener, and his master is a most amusing little foreigner, with a great command of broken English volubility. Owing to a death in the family of Ed F. Reynard, Mr. Reynard was unable to appear, and the Brahm Ladies' Quartette, of Los Angeles, was substituted. They received several curtain calls for their very artistic and pleasing work. Mary Norman, in some clever imitations. Her impersonation of a young lady taking her first auto-added greatly to a very strong bill.

American Theatre

The headline act at this popular playhouse is Caswell and Arnold, the acrobats and barrel jumpers. They are clever and refined in their work and wonderfully expert. They have performed all over Europe and this country and have an accuracy and dash to their work that is hardly ever seen. Jeanette Larrelle, La Ceil dancer, has a pleasing act, and the Edwin Emery company are seen in The Mysterious Mr. Smyth, a comedy which is full of laughs and interest. Mr. Emery as a Dutch comedian, exhibits one of his surprisingly good bits of versatility. Reva Raymond, in the leading feminine part, is charming, as is Jean Howard. Denton Vane is a handsome young juvenile. Other good acts are Vera de Bassini, the human violin; Madelaine Phillips, the girl with the many voices; Emily and Jessie Dodd in the sketch, Dutton's Claim, and Wm. Mitchell and John Caine in a rapid-fire talk. Also two reels of moving pictures.

The National

Hall and Starke have a number this week that makes good; it is entitled Miniature Minstrel Mimics. It is full of go from start to finish. The Five Merry McGregors, in a gorgeous production, depicting life in Scotland in the days when a man's sword was his best friend, do an original turn. It is filled with good acting and good singing. Florence Modena and Company have a laughable one-act comedy, A Lesson in Reform. The leading lady does well, and shows herself to be able to shine in more demanding things than vaudeville. Sharp and Turek, a pair of nimble comedians, are very popular with the front of the house. Dorothy Vaughan, a comedian of quality, is also a big hit. The Sisters Earle, in American characterizations, make good. George Lauder, with his life size figures, does a very original bit of work, which is marked by unusual finish, besides. The motion pictures depict our friend, William Taft, of Washington, D. C., on his way to the land of sunshine, fruit and flowers. The management is to be congratulated on the splendid bill of this week.

The Wigwam

Bothwell Browne, who is a familiar figure here, does a Cleopatra travesty this week. Selbie and Grovini, in their acrobatic act, made a good impression. Marion and Rial; in The Witches' Power, have a strong playlet. Will Morrissey, the comedian, has a good act, as have the Three La Dorras, who do a ladder balancing turn. Buckley's acrobatic dogs perform a series of unusual tricks. The Steel Sisters have a pleasing act. Landers Stevens and Georgie Cooper, in a condensed version of Sapho, open next Sunday, in addition to the regular vaudeville bill.

Pantages-Empire

Quit in keeping with the excellent bills offered at this theatre, is this week's selection by Manager Tiffany. Rizell and Deery have a real novelty acrobatic and Roman ring turn, that shows the team to be unusually clever. Hank Jones and Lillian Walton offer an entertaining sketch, entitled Our Country Cousins. It has a decided go to it. Miskell, Hunt and Miller are heard in popular songs, featuring the girl with the tenor voice. And the girl is all right. Montague's cockatoos have some decided comedy in their act, and Arthur Deming, the old-time minstrel star, demonstrated that there is decided amusement in an act of this kind when the entertainer is of real class. The moving pictures are well selected and the show is above the average.

Bookings

At the Sullivan & Considine, San Francisco Office, through Wm. P. Reese, their sole booking agent, for week of Oct. 10, 1909:

NATIONAL, San Francisco—Bisonette & Newman, Aida Woolcott & Co., Flo Patterson, Fagan & Byron, Butler & Bassett, Kelly & Violette, Irma Orbasany's Cockatoos. BELL, Oakland—Sharp & Turek, Florence Modena & Co., Dorothy Vaughan, George Lauder, Earle Sisters, Hall & Starke's Minstrels. WIGWAM, San Francisco—Johan & Matt, Five Merry McGregors, The Three Vagrants, Dolan & Lenharr, The Four Stag-poles. NOVELTY, Vallejo—Dillon & King, musical comedy. GRAND, Sacramento—Selbini & Grovini, Will Morrissey, Marion & Rial, Bothwell Browne & Co., La Darros, Fay Caranza. GARRICK, Stockton—Buckley's Dogs, Virginia Moore; Ingalls, Duffield & Ingalls; Bob Miller. JOSE, San Jose—Tom and Stasia Moore, Grace Darnley, Alva York, McFarland & Murray, The Potters, Clayton, Jenkins & Jasper. LOS ANGELES, Los Angeles—The Three Roehrs, La Maze

Theatrical Tights

ALL COLORS, WEIGHTS AND QUALITIES—Cotton, 75c to $1.50; Wool, $2.50 to $3.50; Lisle or Silkline, $3.00 to $4.50; Silk, $5.00 to $12.50.

SYMMETRICALS BEST LINE MADE IN THE U. S. Calf, $5.00; Calf and Thigh, $10.00; Calf, Thigh and Hip, $12.50.

We also Make Padded Shirts, SWEATERS, JERSEYS, GYM, ATHLETIC and BATH SUITS, SUPPORTERS, AEROBATIC SHOES, GOOD UNDERWEAR Knit to Fit in All Materials.

We operate our own mills, carry a large stock and make goods to measure at reasonable prices. We suit the professional as if he were buying in Europe. Write us for prices and samples.

Gantner & Mattern Co.

Phone Kearny 3603

Corner Post and Grant Ave.

Sullivan & Considine

::: New Circuit :::

Of the smaller popular-priced theatres to be operated in conjunction with their regular circuit houses, comprising time in

California Colorado
Utah Kansas
and Eastern Connections

Good Acts Can Always
Secure Immediate Bookings

BOOKING DEPARTMENT

1117 Market Street

W. P. REESE, Manager

New York Office
Knickerbocker Theatre Bldg.

Lancaster, Pa.—
FAMILY THEATRE

Bert Levey Circuit

INDEPENDENT VAUDEVILLE

144-150 POWELL STREET SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
Booking the Longest Chain of Vaudeville Theatres West of Chicago

PANTAGES Western States Vaudeville Association

Controlling the longest, largest and best chain of vaudeville theatres in the United States.

Mr. Manager: No matter where your house is, how large or how small, we can supply you promptly with first-class

vaudeville acts at reasonable prices, also lodges, clubs and entertainments furnished on short notice.

See O. S. BURNS, Representative.
Phone West 7140. Offices: Pantages Theatre, cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts., San Francisco, Cal.

Archie Levy's Amusement Ass'n

THE VAUDEVILLE EXCHANGE OF THE PACIFIC COAST

1643 FILLMORE STREET, SUITE 1-2-3, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers desiring talent Write. Artists send in your open time now.

Brothers, Verra de Bassini, Mitchell & Caine, Emily & Jessie Dodd & Co., Tom Bateman. AMERICAN, San Francisco—Blanche Sloan, The Sedons, Pritzkow & Blanchard, Martinetti & Grossi, Emery & Co., Abrams & Johns, Miriam Marr. QUEEN, San Diego—Les Ploetz Larellas, Jere Sanford, Clarence Sisters, Murphy-Whitman Co.

Robert Hildreth's Success

W. Robert Hildreth continues to win unqualified approval in his vaudeville protean sketch, A Four-Leaf Clover. This week in San Jose, at the Theatre Jose, he is the hit of the bill. This is an exceptional offering that appeals to people who think.

Los Angeles contributed another act to the Orpheum circuit this week. Four young women of that city, con-

NEW.....JUST OUT.....NEW

MADISON'S BUDGET

....No. 12....

Greatest book of comedy material ever written. Contents include 10 new monologues, 46 up-to-date parodies, 21 original acts and sketches for two males and male and female, 2 jolly farces, a complete minstrel first part with finale, besides hundreds of brand-new jokes, stories, get-backs, etc.

Price One Dollar

And money back if not absolutely satisfactory. For sale in San Francisco by L. PARENT, 818 Van Ness Ave., or direct of the publisher, JAMES MADISON, 1404 Third Ave., New York.

stituting the Brahms quartette, went to San Francisco on the Owl Saturday night, and opened here at the Orpheum Sunday, their first stop of a forty-weeks' tour, covering the entire United States.

Vaudeville Notes

The Washington Square Theatre was reopened Sunday as a vaudeville house, with La Toska, juggler; Elsie and Viola, singers and dancers; Frederick the Great, magician.

The adult Pollards, to the number of twelve, are to make a try for the Orpheum Circuit in a pretentious musical comedy act that will run for fully thirty minutes, with special scenery and costumes. The act had a rehearsal on the Seattle Orpheum stage last week.

This is the last week of musical comedy at the Central. A return will be made to straight vaudeville next Sunday.

Rigo, the gypsy violinist, of international renown as a heart-breaker, opens at the American on October 17th.

In making his last high dive, last Saturday night, at the conclusion of an eight weeks' contract at the Chutes, John Mangles, known professionally as John Towers, struck the boarding of the tank as he made his perilous drop, paralyzing one side of his body completely. He was taken to the hospital in a serious condition. Mangles' feat was to dive from a 97-foot ladder into a tank containing four feet of water, on top of which was floating lighted oil and gasoline. Such was the speed with which he dropped, however, that he was able to shoot through the flames without damage to himself. In making his last dive, he swerved a trifle in the descent and struck the side of the tank. His assistant, not seeing him reappear, extinguished the flames and dived after him, finding him huddled up and unconscious in one corner of the tank. Mangles' home is in Elmhurst. He was one of the first men to dive off the Brooklyn bridge. After lingering until Thursday morning, Mangles died.

Opera House, Watsonville, week Oct. 4.—Ella La Veil Co., gymnasts; Doris de Fides, toe dancer; Joe and Ola Hayden.

Ballard and Alberta, two clever vaudevillians, made their first appearance in a very charming little playlet entitled Dick's Return. It is a clear and artistic piece of work, dealing with the return home of a young husband, inebriated, in the "wee small" hours, to be confronted by an indignant and outraged young wife. Mr. Ballard presents a dignified jag (if such a term is permissible; makes his points easily and gracefully, and is ably assisted in the fun making by his handsome wife, who presents a charming picture of outraged womanhood. The playlet is well constructed and the interest is sustained to the close. The team received two and three curtain calls each evening.—Watsonville Pajorian.

Mrs. E. F. Reynard, wife of Ed. F. Reynard the ventriliquist who was to have opened his engagement at the Orpheum Sunday afternoon, died shortly before 8 o'clock Friday morning previous after having suffered several months from a severe attack of heart trouble. Mrs. Reynard was first taken ill about a year and a half ago. Her husband persuaded her to go to a sanatorium and after a few months of rest the improvement in her health was very noticeable. When Reynard arrived at Seattle last week his wife was again afflicted but she nevertheless insisted upon accompanying her husband to this city. The train was delayed and forced to make a detour around by Sacramento on account of the breaking down of the ferry boat Solano at Benicia, Tuesday evening, and as a result Mrs. Reynard became much worse and passed away at the Orpheum annex hotel. Reynard was so grieved that his opening was postponed until tomorrow afternoon. The body will be interred in a vault at Cypress Lawn temporarily and later shipped to Toledo, the Reynard home. Mrs. Reynard, while always with her husband on the road, never appeared before the public.

Novelty Theatre, Vallejo, week October 3.—Ben Dillon and Will King in the musical comedy, The High Flyers, supported by Fred Lancaster and Georgie White. Rosie O'Neil, last week.

Washington Square Theatre, week commencing Sunday matinee, Oct. 3d: De Vaull and Lotta, Martin Howard, Flo Morrison, Ellis and Hughes, Walton Bros.

While Willie Raymond, a vaudeville actor, was spending all the time he could steal from rehearsals and performances in writing missives to Miss May Bell, the daughter of "Billy" Bell, the Republican politician, 30 Laskie Street, vowing in them that "the white feather in your hat is a dagger in my heart," and that "your image is a cage wherein my soul is closed," her friends were plotting for the undoing of the young suitor. The girl became so annoyed, not only by the letters that came daily from the actor, and sometimes twice a day, but from his continual efforts to engage her in conversation over the telephone, that she told A. J. Knopf, superintendent of the Pacific Humane Society, for whom she is stenographer, of the annoyance. Knopf at once laid plans to bring Raymond's attentions to a full stop. He had Miss Bell address a letter to the performer, making an engagement for Tuesday afternoon in front of the post office. As Miss Bell had never seen Raymond, he was instructed in the letter to wear a large red rose in the lapel of his coat so he could be recognized. The actor was right on time, as was Miss Bell—with Knopf. The latter did not give the young people much of a chance to exchange greetings, as he is said not only to have used his pedal extremities with force on the person of Raymond, but also to have snatched the enormous rose and thrust it down the throat of the wriggling performer. When Knopf was through, the young thespian was turned over to a patrolman and Wednesday morning was found guilty of disturbing the peace.

Malan & McGrath Have a Complaint

Just a line. We worked on the bill at the Jose Theatre, San Jose, with the so-called "Chicago Newsboys' Trio," and they stole our act and came here and did it for three nights; also, Modesto, three nights. You know you change at the end of the week. They are amateurs and know nothing else. I fixed up the act myself, and I would like my brother performers to know about this. At present they are new in the business, but they should stick to their own stuff. We have a copyright on the way of the act. Best regards. JIM MAGRATH, Of Malan, Howard and Magrath, in The Tar Box Family, Lyceum Theatre, Bakersfield, Cal.

NAT FIELDS

CENTRAL THEATRE . . . . . San Francisco, Cal.
Comedian and Producer

Startling Attraction at the Chutes

Taming the presumably untamable lion, Wallace, is an act which is attracting much attention at the New Chutes this week and the exhibitions given every afternoon and night by Frank Hall, the noted English animal trainer, will be continued Sunday and all next week. Twice each day the daring trainer enters the den of the big beast and puts him through paces of a most unusual nature. Wallace is well known to San Franciscans who made his acquaintance in the days when he was monarch of the old Chutes Zoo. He has a reputation of being the largest and handsomest lion in captivity. It has always been the belief of his keepers that he is untamable. Hall scoffs at this assertion and claims that he will eventually subdue him.

A family of twenty trick monkeys have been brought to the Fillmore street park this week and their queer antics are particularly amusing to the children. Other features introduced especially for the juveniles include circus ponies, a new merry-go-round, the free moving picture theatre and the fun of a band of professional clowns. For the older folk there are the matinee and evening concerts by the California State Band, various aerial acts and the many surprises always to be found on the route of the "joy jaunt." The North Pole Expedition continues to be as popular as it is timely and hundreds of local explorers cross the icefields each day.

Stage Hands Strike in Sacramento

time sometimes last Sunday at the
The footlights winked at the wrong

J. B. REIGHLEY

Theatrical Hauling

Promptly Attended To
Telephone Market 1601
660 Guerrero Street, Bet. 18th and 19th

NEW CHUTES

FILLMORE, TURK, EDDY AND WEBSTER
Open Morning, Afternoon and Night

Fun: Fun: Fun: For the Children
20 Trained Monkeys

A Happy Family in a Real House.

CIRCUS PONIES

See the Chutes from Their Backs

MOVING PICTURE THEATRE

300 Seats, Every One of Them Free.

MAN vs. LION

Frank Hall, the Noted English Lion Tamer, Is Making Daily Attempts to Subdue Wallace, the Erstwhile Monarch of the Old Chutes Zoo.

AND THERE ARE OTHER SURPRISES

Grand and Pantages Theatres, in Sacramento. A strike of stage hands was on. The managers are shifting scenes. The theatre men and the Stage Hands' Union have been at outs since the Union demanded the employment of an electrician at the theatres. Heretofore the work of turning the lights on and off has fallen upon the stage managers. The Union gave the bosses until last Sunday night to come to terms. When they did not, they quit their jobs. Managers Goddard, of the Grand, and Ely, of the Pantages, were thus forced to act as scene shifters and electricians. The managers did not expect the stage hands to act until the Labor Council finally passed on the matter Tuesday night. The trouble will probably be adjusted in a day or two.

New Theatre for Berkeley

A new theatre will soon be built in Berkeley. It will be a first-class, fire-proof structure, and will seat about 1,000 people. It is expected that the opening will occur early in March.

New Theatre for Los Angeles

Los Angeles architects are completing plans for the William Garland Theatre building, to be erected at 532-538 South Broadway, in that city, at a cost of $150,000.

3 times a day

Chicago-Kansas City

AND POINTS EAST

EASTERN EXPRESS

Leave San Francisco, 7:15 a. m. Leave Oakland, 7:40 a. m.

OVERLAND EXPRESS

Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 8:00 p. m.

CALIFORNIA LIMITED

Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 10:00 p. m.

Courteous employes—Unique scenery—Harvey meals—Equipment built by Pullman—One management all the way to Chicago. Our descriptive folders give reliable information.

JAS. B. DUFFY, GENERAL AGENT, 673 Market Street, S. F.
T. LOVE, T. A., Market St. Ferry Depot, San Francisco.
J. J. WARNER, G. A., 1112 Broadway, Oakland.

Correspondence

OAKLAND, Oct. 6.—Blanche Bates will certainly have good cause to remember this city. Not only has she been greeted with packed houses and enthusiastic receptions at the Macdonough, but the popular California actress is being showered with all kinds of attention. Every day she can be seen riding around in automobiles or on horse-back, and not a day has gone by but what some elaborate dinner or luncheon has been given in her honor. The opening night, Miss Bates was the recipient of many beautiful floral offerings, tokens from her many friends. The Fighting Hope is well worth witnessing, and is an excellent vehicle for the display of Miss Bates' well-known talents. The supporting company is excellent and handles the play in a commendable manner. The play will continue for the balance of the week and will be followed by The Gentleman from Mississippi. All on Account of Eliza is the current attraction at the Liberty and the entire performance reflects credit on the company. There is plenty of action and an overabundance of good wholesome comedy that is enjoyed by all. George Friend, as the President of the School Trustees, Franz Hochstubl, was once more seen in one of his favorite characters, and he proved a great creator of laughs. Sidney Ayres, as his son, gave his customary clever performance; his love scenes with Eliza showing that he is no novice at that part of the game. Walter Whipple and Robert Lawlor had prominent roles and acted well. Henry Shumer, as the druggist, Appleton, created a laugh with every line. Eloise May Clement, as Eliza, was only fair. Mrs. Mina Gleason, who is always a good second hit as Delia, Hochstubl's housekeeper. Edith Lyle made a pretty postmistress, and a nice little piece of acting was executed by Estelle Warfield, who is back again in the cast after a long absence. The attendance has been very satisfactory, and Manager Bishop states that he is more than pleased with the new turn of affairs. The Half-Breed will follow. Ferris Hartman and his comic opera company opened a two weeks' engagement at The Broadway, 4th, and were greeted with a right royal welcome. The house was entirely sold out, and the audience was vociferous with their applause from start to finish. The repertoire for the engagement consists of such popular operas as The Yankee Consul, the opening production, The Sultan of Zulu, The Blue Moon and The Mayor of Tokio. The cast contains all of the old-time favorites, including Walter DeLeon, Walter Catlett, Joe Fogarty, Muggins Davies, Josie Hart and Josephine Isleit. Oscar Walsh, a new tenor, also creates a favorable impression. The music is tuneful, the chorus attractive and the songs well rendered. Capacity houses are assured for the entire engagement. At the Orpheum, business is good, and the new turns and holdovers are well received. Senora Rosario Guerrero, in a one-act pantomime, is the big hit, closely followed in point of interest by last week's hit, Circumstantial Evidence. The balance of the bill includes Murray and Mack, Tom Waters, Spaulding and Riego, Wyse and Lee, Charles Montrell, and Crouch and Welch. The Bell is showing six exceptional novelties this week, with the natural result of packed houses. The program consists of Blanche Sloan, College Boys, Johan and Matt, James F. Dolan and Ida Lenharr, The Three Vagrants and The Four Stagpooles. Next week, The Bell Road Show. The Half-Breed, Shore Acres and Sweet Kitty Belairs are early bookings at The Liberty. The latter piece will open 25th, and will mark the reappearance of Bishop's leading woman, Florence Oakley. Estelle Warfield, who is now a resident of Seattle, is here on a visit to her mother and sister, Mrs. Frank Graham. LOUIS SCHEELINE.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 7.—The Clunie was packed on the 1st by the admirers of Blanche Bates, to see her in The Fighting Hope. Kolb and Dill in Dream City had a crowded house, 3. President Taft was a bigger attraction than a Knight for a Day, so the performance was poorly attended on the 4th. Coming to the Clunie: Princess Bonnie, by amateurs, 7; The Perseus-Mason Company in The Singing Bandits, 9-10; A Gentleman from Mississippi, 12-13; Wilhelm Heinrich, tenor, 14, under auspices of The Saturday Club; Fifty Miles from Boston, 16-17; The Girl Question, 18. The Saturday Club will have Albert Rosenthal, cellist, on the afternoon of 9th, at the Congregational Church. The stage hands of the Grand and Pantages Theatres went on a strike, 3d, on account of the refusal of those houses to engage electricians. The matter is now in the hands of the Federated Trades Councils for settlement. The Grand is presenting the following this week: Grace Darnley, dancer; Virginia Moore, violinist; Norton Sharp and His Dancing Belles; McFarland and Murray, the Millionaire and the Iceman; Ahlberg Brothers, comedy acrobats; Tom and Stasia Moore, comedy artists; Haight and Dean, in a Misfit Meeting. Pantages, week starting Sunday, Oct. 3: Three Demons, aerial cyclists; Naida & Co., spectacular scenic illusion; Doric Trio, harmony and comedy singers; Justis Romane & Co., Russian dramatic playlet; Markee Bros., black-face musical act, and Sutherland and Curtiss, The Belle of Jay Town.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 6.—Garrick (J. M. Dodge, mgr.): Oct. 3-4. The Girl from Rector's played to packed houses, and proved to be one of the liveliest comedies seen here in many a day. It is a continual scream from the rise to the fall of the curtain, and not as naughty as many theatre goers imagined it would be. The Honeymoon Trail plays here, 10-11. A Gentleman from Mississippi, 12-13; The Time, the Place and the Girl follows. Pickwick (Scott A. Palmer, mgr.): The Charles King Stock Company are putting on The Heir to the Hoorah in first-class shape to crowded houses nightly at the Pickwick. Marjorie Rambeau, in the leading part, duplicated her success of last week, although she doesn't have the opportunities to display her talents as she did in Merely Mary Ann. Charles King, as the bluff, hearty miner gives an excellent interpretation. Louis Morrison also comes in for a large share of the credit for the success of the piece. Good work is also done by Pietro Sosso, J. Franklin McDonald and Chas. Marriott. The production is well staged. Queen (John Donnelan, mgr.): Sullivan & Considine vaudeville. The bill as presented this week is a good one and consists of the following acts: J. K. Emmett, assisted by Viola Crane, head the bill in a comedy-pathos sketch entitled Artie's Dream. J. Warren Keane has a good legerdemain act. Cogan and Bancroft have an amusing and entertaining act on roller skates. Alfred K. Hall pleased with some eccentric dancing. This week Manager Donnelan breaks the monotony of one act following another by interjecting a film of good motion pictures between the first and second acts. Motion pictures also conclude the show. LUNDQUIST.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 27.—Victor Moore, in Gen. M. Cohan's musical comedy, The Talk of New York, supported by a clever company of seventy-five, packed the Metropolitan, week 26th, with well-pleased audiences. John Cort's King Dodo opened Oct. 3d, for four nights, followed by Forty-five minutes from Broadway. At the Grand, The Girl Question did fine business, week 26th. Graustark, with Eda Von Luke as Yevie, comes, week Oct. 3d. The Orpheum presents the usual good bill, week 26th, headed by The Devil and Tom Walker, as presented by John B. Hymer. Business always good. The Majestic, the S. & C. vaudeville house, enjoyed its regular patronage. Manager Bondy conducts a very popular resort. The Star, burlesque house, presented The Original Moulin Rouge, to packed houses. The half dozen picture shows are doing nicely. Manager L. N. Scott, of the Metropolitan, and wife are now doing Europe. Geo. Lennon, the well-known St. Paul clothier, wants to get into the theatrical game and is talking "new theatre," to be built near the public library. The Neill Co., including the genial Jim Neill and his talented wife, Edythe Chapman, opened the Princess, Minneapolis, the 20th, to fine business. The Warrens of Virginia was the opening play. This week they are producing The Walls of Jericho. The company surrounding the Neills is exceptionally strong. That prince of clownish comedians, Eddie Foy, packed the Lyric, Minneapolis, all week, 26th. His Mr. Hamlet of Broadway is a scream from curtain to curtain. We are enjoying the usual beautiful Minnesota fall, the weather being perfect. The season has opened with a rush, theatres crowded and everybody happy. So is,

AL. G. FLOURNOY.

Story of the Girl Question

The Girl Question is under the management of H. H. Frazee and the music is by Joseph E. Howard. Ned Wayburn staged the production and his name is synonymous with striking originality, grace and action. The first act is laid in a Chicago restaurant, where 'Con' Ryan, a slangy illiterate, but "on the level" product of the under world, is manager. He is in love with a pretty little girl who acts as cashier, but who is too young and frivolous to appreciate his devotion. The head waitress, 'the best and truest pal a fellow ever had,' is in love with him. The restaurant is frequented by a conglomerate crowd who range in social position from "Skinny" Jones, the president of the Iron Workers' Union, to T. P. G. Sears, a millionaire who owns pretty near all of Chicago and the rest of the United States. Ryan is given an interest in the business, and, to celebrate, determines to propose to the cashier and give a ball, and asks the head waitress to help him do both properly. The second act shows a roof garden in Chicago at night, with the ball in full sway. Baron Von Tosmer, a young German who has come to America in search of the rightful owner of a block of railroad stock which has been left in his trust for a girl named Foster, discovers that the owner is the head waitress, just as a deputy sheriff rushes in, declares that Mr. Sears has foreclosed a mortgage he holds on Ryan's restaurant and that it is to be thrown into the street, and the act ends in a scene of glorious confusion. In the third act the waitress, transformed into Mr. Sear's private secretary, discovers that her block of railroad securities form the balance of power which Sears must acquire to carry out a vast deal. She sells to him on condition that he restore Ryan's old restaurant to its former condition and lease it to him, rent free, for three years; puts Ryan in charge, and makes him acknowledge that his infatuation for the cashier was only a moment's passing fancy and that she was the girl he really and truly loved.

FOR SALE

JAMES YOUNG offers for sale a complete and magnificent production of HAMLET, PAINTED IN ANILINE BY W. CROSSBIE GILL, WALLACK THEATRE, NEW YORK. May be packed in crates or trunks, but when hung gives the effect of massive set scenery. Perspective perfect; artistic in execution; architecture of King Arthur period. Useful for stock theatre.

Address JAMES YOUNG
Care Dramatic Review

Time May be Booked in San Bernardino

Any companies coming as far south as San Bernardino and wanting to make dates for one night stands or for one week, can do so by writing to J. W. Leonard, manager of the Unique Theatre. Seating capacity 1,000 people, 5-piece orchestra and plenty of scenery. The house will hold about 1,400 people and never failed to have a packed house.

Andrews Opera Chairs

General Seating
School—Church—Bank
Office and Steel Rod
Furniture
Purchase direct from
manufacturer
THE A. H. ANDREWS CO.
Pacific Bldg., San Francisco
Chicago, New York, Tacoma

Opera, Folding and Assembly Chairs

Full Line
See Samples at 770-776
Mission St.
Bet. 3d and 4th Sts.
SAN FRANCISCO
Whitaker & Ray-
Wiggin Co.

Dates Ahead

A GIRL AT THE HELM (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Norton, Oct. 9; Denver, 10-16; Victor, 17; Boulder, 18; Greeley, 19; N. Platte, 20; Grand Island, 21; Lincoln, 22-23; Omaha, 24-25; Creston, 26; Des Moines, 27; Grinnell, 28; Cedar Rapids, 29; Iowa City, 30; Clinton, 31.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Santa Barbara, Oct. 9; Los Angeles, 10-16; San Diego, 17-18; Riverside, 19; Redlands, 20; San Bernardino, 21; Ogden, 23; Salt Lake, 24-31.

ALLEN CURTIS MUSICAL COMEDY CO.—Walker Theatre, Los Angeles, indefinite.

ALCAZAR STOCK.—San Francisco.

AS THE SUN WENT DOWN.—(Arthur C. Aiston, prop. and mgr.)—Toledo, 10-13; Grand Rapids, 14-16; Michigan City, 17; Fond du Lac, 18; Sheboygan, 19; Appleton, 20; Antigo, 21; Wausau, 22; Stillwater, Minn., 23; St. Paul, 24-30; Minneapolis, 31-Nov. 6; Milwaukee, 7-13.

BLANCHE BATES (David Belasco.)—Portland, Oct. 11 and week; Seattle, 18 and week; Tacoma, 25-26; Victoria, 27; Vancouver, 28-29; Bellingham, 30; Spokane, Nov. 1-3.

BELASCO STOCK CO.—Los Angeles.

BISHOP'S PLAYERS.—In stock, Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland.

CHIC PERKINS (Frank G. King, mgr.)—Strawberry Point, Oct. 11-12; Fredericksburg, 13-14; Riceville, 15-16; Stacyville, 18; Mason City, 19-20; Open, 21-22; Goodell, 23; Pocahontas, 25-26; Webster City, 27-28; Ames, 29-30.

CHAS. B. HANFORD (F. Lawrence Walker)—Norfolk, Oct. 9; Petersburg, 11; Raleigh, 12; Winston-Salem, 13; Charlotte, 14; Spartanburg, 15; Greenville, 16; Atlanta, 18-19; Athens, 20; Augusta, 21; Charleston, 22; Savannah, 23.

DUSTIN FARNUM IN CAMEO KIRBY.—Victoria, Oct. 3; Aberdeen, 4; Tacoma, 5-6; Victoria, 7; Vancouver, 8; Bellingham, 9; Seattle, 10-13. Company is booked as far east as Butte, but may possibly get a wire at Seattle calling them into New York, where they will open at the Astor Theatre for an all-winter run.

ELLEFORD COMPANY.—Porterville, Oct. 7-9; San Jose, 10 and week.

GUY SMITH STOCK.—Oakland, Cal.

HAROLD NELSON.—(G. G. Garrette, mgr.)—Oxnard, Oct. 9; Santa Barbara, 11-12.

LITTLE JOHNNY JONES (Chas. L. Crane.)—Lafayette, Oct. 9; Crawfordsville, 11; Robinson, 13; So. Chicago, Calumet The., 14-16; Burlington, 18; Kenosha, 19.

McKENZIE'S MERRY-MAKERS.—Marshfield, Sept. 23, 4 weeks.

MILLIDGE SHERWOOD IN KING LEAR.—(William Stoerner, mgr.)—San Mateo, Oct. 8; Redwood, 9; Merced, 11; Fresno, 12-13; Selma, 14; Porterville, 15-16; Tulare, 18.

MURRAY & MACK'S VAUDEVILLE DATES.—Oakland, Orpheum, Oct. 3, two weeks; Los Angeles, Orpheum, 18, two weeks; Salt Lake City, Orpheum, Nov. 7, week; Ogden, Orpheum, 14, week; Denver, Orpheum, 21, week; Lincoln, Orpheum, 28, week; Sioux City, Orpheum, Dec. 5, week; St. Paul, Orpheum, 12, week; Minneapolis, Orpheum, 19, week; Omaha, Orpheum, 26, week; Kansas City, Orpheum, Jan. 2, week; Chicago, Majestic, 9, week; St. Louis, American, 16, week; Chicago, Olympic, 23, week; Chicago, Haymarket, 30, week; Indianapolis, Grand, Feb. 7, week; Cincinnati, Columbia, 13, week; Louisville, Mary Anderson, 20, week; Memphis, Orpheum, March 6, week; New Orleans, Orpheum, 13, week; Mobile, Majestic, 20, week.

MOROSCO'S BURBANK STOCK.—Los Angeles.

NEWMAN FOLTZ.—(D. P. Stoner, ahead.)—Modesto, Oct. 3 and week; Stockton, 10-17; Lodi, 18-20; Turlock, 21-23; Merced, 24 and week.

PAID IN FULL.—Great Falls, Oct. 10; Helena, 11; Bozeman, 12; Livingston, 13; Billings, 14; Dickinson, 15; Bismark or Jamestown, 17; Fargo, 18.

PERSSE-MASON OPERA CO.—Kennet, Oct. 2; Sisson, 3; McCloud, 4; Yreka, 5; Redding, 6; Red Bluff, 7; Sacramento, 7-8; Auburn, 9; Grass Valley, 10; Nevada City, 11.

RICHARDS & PRINGLE'S MINSTRELS (Holland & Filkins.)

—Cisco, Oct. 9; Abilene, 11; Stamford, 12; Haskell, 13; Seymour, 14; Wichita Falls, 15; Quanah, 16; Childress, 18; Clarendon, 19; Amarillo, 20; Plainview, 21; Tuila, 22; Canyon City, 23; Hereford, 25; Clovis, 26; Roswell, 27; Carlsbad, 28; Pesos, 29; Midland, 30.

RAYMOND, THE GREAT.—(Maurice F. Raymond, mgr.)—Lisbon, Portugal, Oct. 9-17; Oporto, 19-20; Bordeaux, France, 25-30; Liverpool, England, Nov. 3-10; Dublin, Ireland, 14-20; Glasgow, Scotland, 23-30.

SANFORD DODGE & COMPANY.—(B. S. Ford, mgr.)—Rexburg, Idaho, Oct. 14-15; Idaho Falls, 18-19; Pocatello, 20-21; Franklin, 22; Preston, 24-25; Malad, Utah, 26-27; Brigham, 28-29.

SIS HOPKINS (J. R. Stirling.)—Benton Harbor, Oct. 9; Grand Rapids, 10-13; Cadillac, 14; Saginaw, 15; Port Huron, 16; Detroit, 17, week; Milwaukee, 24, week; Waukegan, 31.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—San Jose, Oct. 9; San Francisco, 10-16; Oakland, 17; Sacramento, 18; Stockton, 19; Fresno, 20; Selma, 21; Bakersfield, 22; Santa Barbara, 23; Los Angeles, 24-30; San Diego, 31-Nov. 1.

TIME, PLACE AND GIRL (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Redlands, Oct. 11; San Bernardino, 12; Riverside, 13; San Diego, 14-15; Santa Ana, 16; Bakersfield, 17; Hanford, 18; Visalia, 19; Stockton, 20; Oakland, 21-23; San Francisco, 24-30; San Jose, 31.

THE THIRD DEGREE (Henry B. Harris, prop.; Harry E. Allen, act. mgr.; R. W. Priest, bus. mgr.)—Los Angeles, 16; San Francisco, 18-31.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR CO.—(Western.)—(Brady & Grismer.)—Fremont, Oct. 11; Norfolk, 12; Columbus, 13; Grand Island, 14; Kearney, 15; N. Platte, 16; Denver, 17-25; Boulder, 25; Ft. Collins, 26; Greeley, 27; Victor, 28; Colo. Springs, 29; Leadville, 30; Salt Lake City, Nov. 1-3; Ogden, 4; San Bernardino, 6.

THE CLIMAX.—Seattle, Oct. 10 and week; Aberdeen, 17; Olympia, 18; Tacoma, 19-21; Victoria, 22-23; Vancouver, 25-27; Westminster, 28;

Bellingham, 29; Everett, 30; South Bend, Nov. 1; Chehalis, 2; Ellensburg, 3; North Yakima, 4; Pendleton, 5; Walla Walla, 6.

YANKEE DOODLE STOCK COMPANY.—(George V. Haliday, mgr.)—Brainard, Oct. 11 and week; St. Cloud, 24 and week.

Still Purifying the Drama in England

London, Oct. 2.—It is understood that the joint committee of the House of Lords and the House of Commons which was appointed in July to inquire into the censorship of the drama will report in favor of retaining the present censorship of plays and extending the supervision of the censor to music hall sketches.

Children's Theatre

As the result of a meeting of the Long Beach District Federation, held in the local high school Saturday afternoon, that city will have a children's theatre and a municipal playground. A site of five acres has been secured, part of which has been donated.

Spotlights

A charming little company of Thespians is just at present paying a week's visit to San Jose. The company includes Bertha Foltz, Jane Wilson, Alene Johnson, Walter H. Newman, Edward Clisbee, Max Waizman, Bert Porter, George Von Blix, William Ellsworth and Fred Patterson. Last Sunday for the opening of the week's season, the play was Victor Sardou's Divorcons. The audience was a large one, and by their laughter and applause fully testified to their complete enjoyment of the excellent comedy. The piece was staged well, the supper scene in the last act being very cleverly carried out. Miss Bertha Foltz played Cyprienne, the heroine, and gave a charming and chic portrayal of the capricious, whimsical and volatile French wife. She is very natural, not at all stagey and altogether winning and captivating in her methods and moods. Quite a finished little actress is Miss Foltz, personal magnetism being one of her strongest bids for popularity. Last evening she wore a couple of dainty gowns and a cloak and a hat of the "dream" variety. Walter H. Newman made a fine Henri des Prunelles and gave Miss Foltz most excellent support. His enunciation is particularly clear and distinct, a blissful relief after the Esperanto of some would-be actors who might be mentioned. Mr. Newman has good stage presence, looked his part and gave great satisfaction. Max Waizman in the dual roles of Monsieur Clavinac and the waiter Joseph evinced much versatility, his scene in the restaurant being admirable.—San Jose Mercury.

What with the Syndicate vying with the Shuberts, and the other theatres keeping up with the pace set, Los Angeles has awakened to the realization of the brilliant season before her. All theatres are playing to big houses nightly.

Linton Tedford's play, The Greater Claim, which was tried out by Oliver Morosco, with the aid of his Burbank

GOLDSTEIN & CO.
COSTUMERS
for all Pacific Coast Theatres.
Goldstein's Hair and Wig Store.
Make-Up, Play Books. Established 1876.
Lincoln Building, Market and Fifth Sts.

Company, some months ago, has been accepted for production either in Chicago or New York, some time within the next three months.

A former Belasco favorite is billed for a re-appearance here, as Mrs. Florence Oakley Pryor when she will spend a portion of a three weeks' vacation, and then return to Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, where we are told she is living up to her reputation for good work.

Grace Marvin, formerly seen and heard at the Majestic, has accepted a position with Oliver Morosco Musical Company, opening in Salt Lake last week.

Clyde Fitch at Final Rest

Continued from Page 4

with the same truthfulness a London Johnny telling about the charm of his lady love in the Gaiety chorus. These things made an old-timer sit up, and it was often difficult for us to keep from roaring with laughter until the actors saw how serious Mr. Fitch was and that he was stretching his powers of mimicry to the furthest in order to help them and the play."

Illustrating his attitude toward his own work, he once said: "Are my characters puppets? I sometimes wish they were, for then I could do what I wanted with them, when as a matter of fact they often control me. A few years ago I outlined the plot of a comedy to a manager. We selected the comedian who was to play the principal role and I went enthusiastically to work. The comedian saw the completed first act, gushed about it and was eager to get the rest of the comedy and begin rehearsals at once. Then the characters I had created took the play out of my hands. They would talk to me, interrupt my work and persuade me how wrong and illogical was the outcome of the play. And do you know that particular comedy turned out to be a tragedy, or, at least, a serious play."

All Kinds of
SCENERY
Painted, built and installed. The only real Scenic Studio on the Coast. Get our prices. For Road or House productions.
Front and Sheridan Sts.
Portland, Oregon

C. F. Weber & Co.
Opera Chairs
All Styles of
THEATRE AND HALL SEATS
365-7 Market Street
San Francisco
210-212 N. Main St.
Los Angeles

FRED O. OSBORNE, Manager
Theatrical Code, "Santapole"
Home Phone F 5037

New York Dramatic Agency
Booking
Dramatic and Vaudeville Acts
Organizing and Routing Companies, Supplying "Scripts," Etc.
Belasco Theatre Building, Los Angeles
Entire Third Floor

CHARLES E. ROYAL AND ELLIOTT EDYTHE

IN VAUDEVILLE

Presenting Charles E. Royal's wonderful Burglar Playlet, "STRAIGHTENING A CROOK," and six other excellent playlets. "Best sketch ever presented at the Empire."—Eureka Times. "Full enough of dramatic and comedy situations to warrant a four-act play."—Eureka Herald. Chas. Royal and Edythe Elliott are finished artists in every sense and present a wonderfully clever act."—Watsonville Pajaronian. "Working All the Time." "Featured Everywhere."

BERT LEVEY, AGENT.

T. D. Sullivan to Have New York Theatre

Timothy D. Sullivan is to build a new $100,000 theatre on East Fourteenth street, New York. Mr. Sullivan's full plans have not been divulged, but it is probable that the new house will play combination attractions. Congressman Sullivan has an immense following in New York, and his theatre should draw a big patronage from his tremendous political circle. The new house will be called the City Theatre, and will not be opened until next year.

Theatre Sold For Million

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 9.—Thomas F. Cole has sold the Lyceum Theatre building to the Charles A. Marshall Company for $1,000,000. It is said W. J. Fitch, president of the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic, is interested in the purchasing company. The Lyceum building is seven stories high and contains the theatre and offices. Mr. Marshall of the Charles A. Marshall Company is president of the North Theatre Managers' Association.

Charles Frohman to Settle Permanently in London

Authors, managers, actors, stars—hereafter address your letters, Charles Frohman, The Globe Theatre, London—instead of The Empire Theatre, New York. Why? Because the long threatened is about to happen. It is said that the manager regards the outlook for the present season with such a roseate view that the next time he goes to London, he will take up a permanent residence in the British capital. In the two months that have elapsed since his return from London, Mr. Frohman has brought out six productions, of which five are prevailing successes. Besides these he has under way fourteen other pieces, varying in character from musical comedy to straight drama, which will be in full operation by next February. With his American theatres and stars thus amply provided for, Mr. Frohman, like Alexander the Great, is naturally looking for new worlds to conquer. The wiseacres say that behind the next trip that Charles Frohman makes to London will be two ideas—namely, to put into operation in England the American system of booking a company for a long tour, with London regarded no differently than any other city. With The Globe Theatre as his headquarters, Mr. Frohman will establish a booking department, a printing department, and a producing department, which will be duplicates of his present American plant, which, although it is not generally known, is the largest in existence and has resources sufficient to completely equip any dramatic production. The other idea behind Mr. Frohman's forthcoming trip to London will be the complete operation of The Repertoire Theatre plan at The Duke of York's, for which

STEVE I. SIMMONS

MAXWELL ALEXANDER

Columbia Scenic Studio Co.

Estimates on all Classes of Theatrical Work

Office, 117 Fell St., S. F.

George P. Webster

Stage Director

Ye Liberty Playhouse Stock, Oakland, Cal.

Arthur E. Witting-Mattie Davis

Character Actor

Joint or Single
AT LIBERTY

Character Actress

Address San Diego, Calif., Boundary and Howard Streets.

Doris Wilson

Prima Donna, Kolb and Dill Company

Augustus Phillips

Leading Man

Alcazar Stock—San Francisco

J. M. Barrie, W. S. Maugham, Had-don Chambers, Bernard Shaw and Granville Barker are now writing plays. Mr. Frohman says that "with the ocean liners making the trip in four days, America may occasionally see me for week ends, but that will be the most." Those who are close to him say that Charles Frohman has been waiting for the American season that would average him five successes out of six productions—an unprecedented record for any living manager. This season Mr. Frohman has struck and is keeping the gait he has long wished for—hence his flight to other parts. Like a parent gradually teaching a child to walk, the manager has for the past five years been gradually lengthening his stay in London, until now his stars are accustomed to feel his presence as strongly when he is in England as when he is in New York. It will, therefore, be no great hardship on the little army whom Mr. Frohman calls "his people." There will be no marked difference in the operation of the Frohman policy in America. Its scope will be as widespread, its experiments as frequent, and its general character the same. But with Mr. Frohman making London his headquarters, a good part of the Frohman staff will be kept continuously on the water. Scene painters, stage managers, and actors will be summoned by cable and travel to and fro as their services are demanded. Mr. Frohman's affairs in America will be exclusively in the hands of his general manager, Alf Hayman, while he himself devotes his energy to duplicating in England and on the Continent the theatrical policy that so unmistakably bears his imprint throughout America.

ORRIN SHEAR

Eccentric Characters

Engaged

FRANK OPPERMAN

Supporting Millidge Sherwood
in King Lear

JAMES O'REILLY

Characters

Engaged · Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

DAVE LERNER

Playing the David Warfield Roles
With Nat Field at Central Theatre

COL. D. P. STONER

Business Manager Newman Foltz Co.
Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

THURLOW WHITE

Leads, Heavies
Address, DRAMATIC REVIEW

HERBERT MILTON

Characters and Heavies
At Liberty · Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

CHARLES E. GUNN

Leads
Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

BERT PORTER

Juveniles
Newman-Foltz Co.

MAX WAIZMAN

Newman-Foltz Co.

ANNA RODGERS

Ingenuities and Leads
At Liberty · Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

EDWARD B. LADA

General Music Director
for Belasco & Mayer

A. BURT WESNER

Comedian
At Liberty · Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

TEDDY WEBB

Comedian, San Francisco Opera Co.
Direction Frank Healey

HARRY J. LASK

Representative New York Clipper
N. E. Cor. Sansome and Pine Sts.

HARRY MARSHALL

Scenic Artist
At Liberty. 3748 Vermont Ave., Los Angeles

MINOR REED

Scenic Artist
At Liberty · Address DRAMATIC REVIEW

CARRIE CLARKE WARDE

Characters

CHESTER STEVENS

Heavies
Grand Opera House Stock, Los Angeles

MARY HARVEY-BARBOUR

Leads (Versatile)
3d Ave. Theatre, Seattle

FREDERICK GILBERT

Burbank Stock, Los Angeles

ARTHUR SHEPPARD

Scenic Artist · Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

HOWARD FOSTER

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

IRENE OUTTRIM

Willard Mack Co.—Salt Lake City.

PIETRO SOSSO

Chas. King Stock Co.
Pickwick Theatre, San Diego

ANITA MURRAY

Ingenuities
At Liberty · Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

HERMAN HELLER

Musical Director
Valencia Theatre Social engagements filled

DAN KELLY

Comedian
Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

FLORENCE DAVENPORT

Ingenuities or Soubrette
At Liberty. · Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

GEORGIE WOODTHORPE

Characters
Broadway Theatre, Oakland

ALFRED ROWLAND

Supporting Millidge Sherwood in King
Lear, Season 1909-10.
Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

LAURA LUCILE HEIMLICH

Leads
Everett, Wash.

FRED S. CUTLER

Manager Richard Jose
In "SILVER THREADS"
Address care DRAMATIC REVIEW

OLGA GRAY

Leads
At Liberty. · Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

GEORGE VON BLIX

Stage Manager
Newman-Foltz Co.

Walter H. Newman AND Bertha Foltz

KLE

Starring Jointly

High-Class Repertoire

Season 1909 and 1910

Alf. T. Layne    Daisy D'Avra

Del Lawrence Stock, Victoria

Edith Lyle

Ye Liberty Stock, Oakland

Donald Bowles

Dramatic Director Geo. L. Baker's Attractions.
Address Bungalow Theatre, Portland, Oregon.
Loaned by Mr. Baker to direct Mr. James Neill's Company for him in St. Paul, Minn.

Neva West

Care Dramatic Review

Permanent Address, 2110 Post Street

Johnny Williams, Jr.

"FISCO"

"The Man in Front." Can Book or Wild Cat

Louise Kent

In Vaudeville

Her Own Company

Pantages Circuit

Claire Sinclair

Second Business

Stock

Seattle Theatre, Seattle

E. P. Foot

GENERAL MUSICAL DIRECTOR

At Liberty

Care Grand Opera House

Mina Crolus Gleason

Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland

Louis Morrison

Belasco Stock Co.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Seibert & Lindley

Presenting the headline act, "HER OWN MOTHER," in vaudeville.

Sidney B. Payne

Lyric Stock, Portland, Or.

Sydney Ayres

Leading Man

Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, Cal.

Budd Ross

Comedian

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Al Hallett

Stage Director

Empire Stock, Fresno

F. F. Munier

Characters

Empire Stock, Fresno

Priscilla Knowles

Leads

Bennett Jack

Characters

Lyric Theatre, Portland

Carlton Chase

Leading Man

Kolb and Dill

Evelyn Selbie-Virginia Thornton

Alternating Leads

Frawley Co., Alaska

George B. Baldwin, Jr.

Alcazar Stock, San Francisco

Monroe Salisbury

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

James Austin Gleason—Webster Lucile

Playing Title Role in Checkers

Juveniles in Checkers

Godfrey Matthews

Second Business

Broadway Stock—Oakland, Cal.

Leslie King

Season with E. H. Sothern

Closed June 17th

Immediately Engaged by
Frederic Thompson for Folly of the Circus
To open June 29th

Coast Tour early in 1910

The Successful
Success

AS THE SUN WENT DOWN

By Geo. D. Baker

Company headed by ESTHA WILLIAMS

Address

ARTHUR C. AISTON

Sole Owner

Room 304

1505 Broadway

N. Y. City

Tel. 941 Bryant

Watterson Writes of Mid-Channel

Henry Watterson, who is abroad taking in the sights, theatrical and otherwise, writes to his paper a review of Mid-Channel, which Ethel Barrymore is to produce this season. Sir Arthur Pinero's new play is British to its boot-heels. No mawkish sentimentality here; a gloomy play, a deadly serious play, a play in which none of the characters is especially sympathetic, a play which begins with quarrels and ends with a suicide is the first impression which the spectator receives after the four acts of the tragedy have been trolled off before his tired and affronted fancy. The title, Mid-Channel, suggests a breezy, bracing play. The name comes about in this way: Halfway between Folkestone and Boulogne is a shoal, traversing which passengers have a pretty ugly time. They come to loathe their fellow-passengers. Peter Motram, the raisonneur of the piece, draws, for the benefit of the unhappy Mr. and Mrs. Blundell, an analogy between crossing the Channel and married life. All married couples, he says, after a while reach the Ridge, and what they must do is to remember that, the Ridge once passed, the ship will again go steady.

The Talk of New York, which George M. Cohan wrote for Victor Moore, will be seen here shortly with Moore in the leading role. It is said to be one of the best of the many Cohan successes.

The Orpheum

A program almost entirely novel and containing acts which have never been surpassed on the vaudeville stage is announced for next week. The most brilliant of the coming constellation of stars will be the favorite actress, Valerie Bergere. With the assistance of a clever little company, which includes Herbert Warren, Lawrence Morton, Charles Melville and Emma Campbell, she will present a one-act comedy by Edgar Allen Woolf, entitled The Sultan's Favorite. The skit is pronounced novel and entertaining throughout and the role of Morgiana, the Pride of the Harem, exhibits Miss Bergere at her very best and every playgoer knows how good that must be. The Tuscany Troubadors, a sextette of magnificent singers, will furnish a rare bit of popular grand opera. They will sing scenes from Rigoletto, Faust, Carmen, Tannehauser, and other lyric masterpieces. Their production, which is in two scenes, is beautifully staged and costumed. Ed. F. Reynard, who will appear for next week only, is styled The Ventriloquist With a Production, for he introduces an entire play with the assistance of his automatons. The Six Glinserettis, who will contribute to this splendid bill, need no introduction to San Francisco audiences, although several years have elapsed since they were last seen here. Carlin and Clark, two German comedians quite as well known and popular in the East as Weber and Fields or Max Rogers, are sure of success. For years they have been identified with the most successful musical comedies. Next week will be the farwell one of Mary Norman, the Society Caricaturist; Signor Ancillotti and his marvelous dog, Pilu, and James Young and his clever little company in the laughable skit, Wanted a Sister. A new series of recently imported motion pictures

Billie Burke's First Coast Tour as a Star

Charles Frohman
PRESENTS

Billie :: :: Burke

IN THE EXQUISITE COMEDY

Love Watches

will conclude a performance that cannot fail to afford complete enjoyment.

Valencia Theatre

This Saturday afternoon and evening will conclude the engagement of Corinne and company, presenting Mlle. Mischief. On Sunday night The Great John Ganton, a powerful drama of American business life, written by J. Hartley Manners from Arthur J. Eddy's novel, Ganton & Co., will begin a run limited to one week. The stellar role is played by George Fawcett, considered by many critics the foremost character actor of the present day stage. John Ganton is portrayed as a man of tremendous power and initiative. By methods which would hardly meet the approval of modern anti-trust laws, he has forced himself into a position of supremacy in the packing industry. By crushing competitors his lines have extended to all parts of the world and as the play opens he is found in absolute possession of this vast industry. The story of the drama has to do with John Ganton's change of heart which comes to him after his son has made him see the iniquity of his business methods and the great responsibility which they entail. There is a delightful romance woven through the narrative, the principals of which are Ganton's son, Will, and May Keating, the daughter of John Ganton's one-time bitter business rival. The old man's antagonism to the match leads him, in a fit of temper, to disinherit his son and throw him out of the business. One of the big scenes of the play occurs when the young woman forces her way into the private office of Ganton and upbraids him for his unfatherly course. It is during this interview that she learns for the first time that Ganton is the man who sent into bankruptcy and ultimately drove to suicide her father. The situation, as it develops, is one of the most gripping that has been devised. The members of the company are Thurston Hall, John Webster, Lucius Henderson, Allen Fawcett, Louis Breesen, George Caldwell, Charles Gay, Jack Barnes, Frank Smithers, Fanchon Campbell, Elsie Scott, Ruth Tomlinson, Emilie Callaway and Florence Glenn. Matinees will be given on Wednesday and Saturday.

Alcazar Theatre

An appropriate stage offering at this time, when California's early history occupies so much of California's attention, is The Rose of the Rancho, which is to be revived next Monday evening and throughout the week. The play was built by two native Californians, David Belasco and Richard Walton Tully, and it treats of life in California while the missions were on the decline. It fairly reeks of the languorous Spanish atmosphere that was routed by the advent of American progress. If it had been specially written to introduce and accompany the Portola festivities, it could not more fully harmonize with their spirit. This will be the third annual presentation of The Rose of the Rancho by the Alcazar management. Each of its previous productions scored a three weeks' run, and there is warrant for predicting a repetition of those satisfactory results. Bessie Barriscale will again be seen as Junita, her best role, and Will R. Walling will play Kearny, the government agent; Charles Dow Clark is cast for the Padre, Louis Bennison is admirably bestowed as Kincaid, the land-jumper; Harrison Ford will unquestionably shine as Sammy, the bumptious young lieutenant of militia, and Grace Travers will surely be charming as the Rose's girl chum. All the other principal characters will be played by the same people who had them last season. The entire scenic equipment has been renovated. In the cast are thirty-three speaking characters and a small army of silent auxiliaries. It is one of the most expensive productions Belasco & Mayer ever undertook, and that means something in the way of pecuniary outlay.

The Greatest Cast of Singers Headed by THOS. H. PERSSE Tenor EDITH MASON Soprano	Now Booking Season 1909 &amp; 10 The Persse-Mason Co. In the New Operatic Comedy The Singing Bandits Book and Music by HERMAN PERLET THOS. H. PERSSE.....Sole Proprietor LOUIS LISSNER.....Manager Permanent Address: Dramatic Review, Van Ness Theatre Building, San Francisco	Everything Complete — New Scenery — Excellent Music — Quartette of Comedians
---	--	---

Season	William Stoermer Presents	09-10
<h1>Millidge Sherwood</h1>
In a Sumptuous Scenic Revival of
<h2>... King Lear ...</h2>
Car of Scenery	25 People	Beautifully Costumed
Two "Ahead"

THE SAN FRANCISCO DRAMATIC REVIEW

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Published Continuously Since 1880. The Only Theatrical Publication in the Great West

Ten Cents a Copy—$4.00 a Year

San Francisco, Saturday, October 16, 1909

No. 8—Vol. XXI—New Series

Prof. Don Joaquin
S. Wanrell

Oliver Morosco's Plays.
Ready for Stock
 The Judge and the Jury      The Halfbreed
 The Empress and the Soldier
 In South Carliney
 Is the New Majestic a winner? Well, we guess yes

MOROSCO'S
 BURBANK THEATRE
 Los Angeles, Cal.
 "The Best in the West"
 The Leading Stock House.

Hamburger's MAJESTIC Theatre
 The Handsomest in the West
 Cost $300,000.00
 Oliver Morosco, Lessee & Mgr
 For time address JOHN COIT

Menzel's Dramatic Agency

These are busy times. I want 50 good actors. Orders are pouring in every day. A record of my recent activity: Supplied Ed. Redmond's company for Santa Cruz; Edwin Emery for the American Theatre, this city; Chas. King's company for the Pickwick, San Diego; Del Lawrence company, Seattle; Hallett and Clement stock, Fresno; Lorraine Buchanan company, for road; Millidge Sherwood company in King Lear, for road; and a host of single orders. Notwithstanding some pessimists, I do do business.

WM. MENZEL, 915 Van Ness Avenue
 San Francisco, Cal.

The Orpheum

Portola week will be most delightfully celebrated at the Orpheum. George Bloomquest, one of the most popular light comedians that have appeared in this city, and now a full-fledged headliner in vaudeville, will appear in a sketch written expressly for him, called Nerve. Mr. Bloomquest will be supported by a capital little company, which includes Rubyn Thorpe, Earl D. Dwire and Thomas Broom. He has scored a great hit in all the theatres he has appeared in. Eugene Howard and Willie will present their immensely successful act, The Messenger Boy and the Thespian. They are both capital vocalists with a popular selection of songs, and their comedy places them in a class by themselves. The Hebrew Messenger Boy of Willie Howard brims over with fun and there is not a dull moment in their entire act. Martinettie and Sylvester, two exceptionally strenuous and agile comedians who are often called "The Boys with the Chairs," will introduce a novelty in acrobatics entitled An Attempt at Suicide, while Joe Sylvester is a famous clown, Clark Martinettie is a remarkable athlete. Ballerini's canine tumblers will give a most wonderful exhibition of animal sagacity. Not a command is given or a whip used to them. These little dogs are apt pupils and with them is associated a kitten in whom Mr. Ballerini takes a special pride. Their performance is a delightfully interesting one to the children. Next week will terminate the engagements of the Tuscany Troubadours, the six Glinserettis, German comedians, Carlin and Clark, and Valerie Bergere, who in response to a numerous expressed wish will revive for the first time here in several seasons the charming comedietta, Billie's First Love. A new series of motion pictures particularly suited to the occasion will terminate the entertainment.

Alcazar Theatre

With drawing power undiminished, The Rose of the Rancho will be started on its second and final week in the Alcazar next Monday evening. Since its initial presentation this season the Belasco-Tully play has filled the theatre at every performance and given thousands of people a foretaste of the Portola carnival. Of the acting, the scenery, the costumery and the music—of the play itself and the mode of its presentation—so much has been said and written that to again extol them might savor of superfluity. But it may not be amiss to state that the performance waxes in smoothness with each repetition. In the play there is such an abundance of detail—of seeming trifles which are essential to perfection of effect—that the actors are constantly improving their work by adding to its minutiae. Thus does practice make perfect. Among those who witnessed the Alcazar's production of The Rose last season was David Belasco, and he pronounced it the most wonderful achievement ever attained in a stock theatre. And of Miss Barriscale's acting in the title part he was lavish in praise. If he were to see the present production he would marvel still more. As the Alcazar management has the exclusive right to present The Rose of the Rancho in California, and will present it nowhere else than in San Francisco this season, the city's guests during Portola week will undoubtedly take advantage of the opportunity to witness the greatest play of California life that ever was staged.

Valencia Theatre

The last appearance of George Fawcett in The Great John Ganton will take place this Saturday afternoon and evening and on Sunday night The Ringmaster the Shuberts' first dramatic success of the season, will begin a limited engagement, coming direct from the Maxine Elliott Theatre, New York, with a big cast of metropolitan favorites. The story is a most absorbing one of Wall street intrigue. John Le Baron, whose father was a man of sharp business practices, prefers a life of ease rather than following in the footsteps of his parent. Eleanor Hillary, daughter of Richard Hillary, known as "the ringmaster of Wall street," meets Le Baron abroad, where they fall in love.

She endeavors to persuade him to return to New York and take up life as a broker. He comes back to his home and is soon invited to take part in the formation of a copper trust, which plan Richard Hillary is putting through with Senators Craven and MacElroy, president of the Eastern Railroad. The object is to buy all of the stock of the Eastern Railroad, which is the feeder of the company in Colorado, thus crippling the copper organization and forcing it into submission. When Le Baron learns of this he refuses to take part, but wrings from the trio a promise that they will desist. Believing that they will keep their promise, he boards his private yacht and sets sail for Europe and at the same time Hillary engages passage on an Atlantic liner. While at sea, however, two guests of Le Baron intercept a message to Hillary which graphically tells that the scheme has not been dropped. Le Baron returns to New York and how he defeats the "Ringmaster" forms the most interesting part of the story. The cast includes H. S. Northrup, Frederick Montague F. A. Yalvington, Alice Weeks, Harvey D. Crossman, John Watts, Francis Learned, Rosamond Carpentier, Clara Collman and Anna Lee. Matinees will be given on Wednesday and Saturday and during the run of The Ringmaster popular Portola prices will prevail, seats ranging from one dollar down to twenty-five cents. Eddie Foy, the favorite comedian, who has not been seen in San Francisco for years, will follow in Mr. Hamlet of Broadway.

Spotlights

Beginning with the matinee Monday, October 4th, Charles Alphin and his newly organized company took possession of the Fischer Theatre, Los Angeles, for an indefinite engagement. Mr. Alphin is the producer and heads the new company. With him is Maude Rockwell, new to Los Angeles, but well known to San Francisco theatregoers, to do the woman leads. Blossom Seeley is seen in the soubrette parts. Richard Kipling is the leading man. Dave Morris is one of the comedians. Morris is a clever dancer and comedian.

The Flag Lieutenant ceased to be, as far as America is concerned, early in its career in New York. The same sad fate overtook The Sins of Society. The greater fall was that of The Sins of Society, with its Drury Lane prestige and the tremendous heralding which it had from Chicago, where it enjoyed some weeks of prosperity. It was expected to perform wonders in the drawing line in New York, but the public drew the line. Bruce McRea and Isabel Irving, who played the principal parts in The Flag Lieutenant, will step from this naval play into a military drama, having been engaged by Daniel Frohman for leading parts in the Commanding Officer, which was offered this week.

Paul Everton and Fernanda Eliscu will play the leading roles in the Great Hudson Theatre, New York, success, The Third Degree, which was written by Charles Klein, the author of The Lion and the Mouse. The story of the play deals with a certain condition of social life found in any large city, and also with the methods employed by the police in extorting confessions from those accused of crime.

Henry Miller will star Laura Hope Crews in Maggie, Edward Peple's new Irish comedy.

Oscar Dane of the Gayety Theatre, St. Louis, has opened a vaudeville and dramatic exchange on the second floor of the Lyceum Theatre Building on Sixth street in that city. Dane is booking acts for Frank Talbot's Gem Theatre and several other St. Louis theatres, as well as houses in Missouri and Illinois. The office conducts a general booking business for vaudeville acts and books repertoire companies and musical comedy companies in this territory. Dane is also making a specialty of booking talking picture companies. This office is the headquarters for the new Illinois-Missouri Theatrical Managers' Association. Acts desiring time in this locality would do well to communicate with Dane.

The Roberts & Gillard Company close in Calgary, Canada, on October 16th.

There will be Wednesday and Saturday matinees of The Third Degree at the Van Ness Theatre.

O. Henry, one of the best short story writers in America, has budded forth as a playwright. He has just finished a drama entitled, Lo. It is based upon Henry's story, He Also Serves.

Frank M. Eldridge was declared a bankrupt in Salt Lake City, on September 16th.

While the late Dr. William C. Finlaw of Santa Rosa sleeps in an honored soldier's grave at the Presidio, the secret it is claimed he carried within his breast for more than forty years and to the end, is out. The pension department has supplied the missing links in a chain of romance which, if sustained in the United States Circuit Court, where suit has been filed, will divest his supposed widow, Mrs. Anna Love Finlaw, now traveling in southern Italy, of property valued at $60,000 and vest title with a former undivorced wife, Mrs. Jane Bradley Finlaw of Cincinnati, and a granddaughter, Mary B. Finlaw, a young actress known on the New York stage as Marie Baxter. The suit filed with the federal court is a plain ouster action to recover from the supposed widow the fortune left by the former army physician when he died intestate a few years ago. In addition, the supposed widow is asked to pay $6,000 damage for retention of the wealth and $6,000 back rents.

Hotel St. James
 Cor. Van Ness Ave. and Fulton St.
 San Francisco, California
 Headquarters for Agents and Managers
 Half Block from Van Ness Theatre.
 Friars meet at the St. James every Friday night.
F. P. SHANLEY, Manager, formerly of New York

Terkelsen &amp; Henry, Foto.

Fred Dailey

Mr. Dailey, who has returned to the Coast after seven years' absence, ahead of Corinne, has made good. He is one of the Shuberts' best agents. After all the old "Coast defender" blood is of the right sort. Lots of the "big boys" in the show game came from the Coast. It seems to us Al Hayman got some ideas here, and Billy Brady and Joe Grismer did a lot of pioneering in these parts. But why more—the list is long.

Correspondence

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 2.—Tulane Theatre—The Traveling Salesman has done a deservedly big business during the week. It is by the author of The Chorus Lady, James Forbes, and aside from the press notices of its past season, theatregoers were anxious to welcome, if merited, another creation of the popular author. They were not disappointed as Henry B. Harris, its sponsor, sent down a good cast, with all accessories in keeping. The play is strictly American and takes a firm hold on the enthusiasm of its auditors. Mark Smith, as Bob Blake, the happy-go-lucky drummer, fits the part like a glove. He has a fine stage presence and good voice which he is not afraid to use and with his bright lines keeps you in a continuous good humor. When he meets the girl who grips his heart, he refutes the old belief that a drummer, because he is a drummer, must have a sweetheart in every town, by sailing into snug harbor and anchoring there. And what a loving harborage he found in the person of Beth Elliott, as portrayed by Miriam Nesbitt. The little lady was grandly womanly, with a pretty face and most captivating voice. Her intelligent conception of the character was most comforting. Distinction is due Diana Huneker, as Mrs. Babbitt; Jas. O'Neill, Jr., with his father's genius, as Ted Watts, and the servant's role of Julius by Mr. Kehrwald. The Traveling Salesman is on the way to the Coast, piloted by

Geo. E. Lask. Next week—Blanche Walsh. Crescent Theatre—The Lion and the Mouse, another of Henry B. Harris' company is playing to big business. The presenting company is strong and capable. Next week—York and Adams.

The Orpheum has a worthy competitor in this city in the American Music Hall formerly the Greenwall Theatre, which last season was the local burlesque house. William Morris, Inc., have renovated and beautified the place, which is run in conjunction with their chain of vaudeville houses around the country. Walter Brown, formerly assistant manager of the Klaw & Erlanger houses, Tulane and Crescent, is at the helm of the local house and, judging from the large crowds in attendance, he has hit the keynote of success. The bill last week afforded most excellent entertainment. Austing Brothers and company were the openers in a knock-about act that displayed some good acrobatic work spiced with laughter. Cartmell and Harris offer a sketch called Nearly an Actress. The female member of the team was clever, both were capital dancers, and the act was well received. Dog acts are closely related, but Lafayette's dogs are conspicuous for intelligence, besides they were limited in number and showed class rather than mass. Rita Raymond is one of the most pleasing vocalists I have ever heard. She is not only handsome and stylish, but her voice shows cultivation and her numbers were carefully selected. Junie McCree and company offer The Man from Denver. McCree was the dope fiend, easy and natural, and his slang made a hit. His support was strong and above the average of vaudeville sketches. The picture of Vaudeville favorites, by Frank Gardner and Marie Stoddard, is the remarkable character changes made by the latter. One of the changes is baffling from the manner in which a naturally pretty woman can make the grotesque so forceful. Geo. W. Day had some witty remarks. His Adam and Eve allusions were the best. The piece de resistance was the act of the Eight Brangks posing as Parisian models. The studies in porcelain and bronze were the highest types of artistry. This act holds over for another week and it is safe to say that the enthusiasm it creates will not be lessened.

W. L. McConnell.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 15.—With declared purpose of facilitating their plans for the giving of a great benefit November 12th, to start a fund for the aid of sick and stranded actors and actresses, the managers of all the large theatres in Salt Lake City, including the Salt Lake, Orpheum, Colonial, Bungalow and the Grand, met recently in this city and formed the Salt Lake Theatrical Managers' Association. It is intended to give such a benefit every year, and the proceeds will be regularly added to the fund. In this way whenever a stranded or sick actor lands in Salt Lake City he will not have to suffer the usual humiliation of frequent "touches," but will only have to apply to the custod-

ANNUAL TOUR OF THE ELLEFORD COMPANY
IN LATEST DRAMATIC ROYALTY SUCCESSES
Pacific Coast Representative for Brady and Grismer's
MAN OF THE HOUR and WAY DOWN EAST
"A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI"
W. J. ELLEFORD, Sole Proprietor and Director
FRANK WYMAN, Manager
Permanent Address, Francis-Valentine Co., 285-287 13th St., S. F.
WILLIS BASS, Business Manager

ians of the fund for help. If he is sick, he will be sent to the hospital and will be properly cared for; if he is financially embarrassed, he will be given a railroad ticket and enough money to carry him to a place where he can get another position. The officers of the new organization, who were elected, are: George D. Pyper, manager of the Salt Lake Theatre, president, and R. A. Grant, manager of the Colonial, secretary.

PT. RICHMOND, Sept. 24.—The Richmond Opera House has reopened and is now playing all the first-class attractions booked by the Great Western Theatrical Circuit. The new proprietors are well known advertising and theatrical men—Winters & Burner. They have Ray Fitzsimmons for local manager. The Lorraine Buchanan Company opened here, September 20th, for three nights to good business and left a fine name. On the 25th, the Persse-Mason Company, in the comic opera, The Singing Bandits, played to fine house and were voted a great show.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 28.—Jack Mason and the Witching Hour came to Albuquerque last night, several hours late. The train from the west arrived almost four hours late, reaching the city at nine forty-five. A large audience was waiting when Mr. Mason, hurrying from the train, stepped before the curtain at ten o'clock to explain the delay. Then came an hour of waiting while the scenery was set in view of the audience. The curtain rose at eleven o'clock. Then the audience forgot the hour, their weariness and heavy eyes, for the Witching Hour is well worth waiting for. The curtain fell on the last act at two a. m. A local stock company has been playing here in musical comedy for two weeks. It is the Streeter-Bryan Company. All the pieces are written by Mr. Streeter, the comedian. Admission, twenty-five and fifty cents.

CAP AND BELLS.

MARYSVILLE, Cal., Oct. 6.—Oct. 2, Fifty Miles from Boston scored a hit on this evening; the performance went with a vim and snap, and there was not an idle moment throughout the entire show. The theatregoers considered this production a real treat. 6th, the Girl Question appears.

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 4.—Paid in Full, at the Auditorium Theatre, 3-5, opened to a packed house, with Louis Morrell and Sarah Perry in the leading roles. The play is well costumed and well staged. 6-7, The Shepherd King; 8-9, Chauncey Olcott. The McRae Company presents The Spoilers at the Spokane Theatre for one week. Owing to a delay in the train from Portland, the first performance was not given, and more than $500 was refunded from the advance sale. An extra fine bill at the Orpheum this week includes Minnie Seligman in The Drums of Doom; the Bootblack Quartet; the Bounding Gordons; Katchen Loisset; Eva Mudge; the Misses Standish; Lew Wells; Orpheum pictures. The

New Oxnard Opera House

OXNARD, CAL.

Best stage between Frisco and Los Angeles. Playing all of the best shows that come to the Coast. Doing good business. Write for open time.

GONZALES OPERA HOUSE

GONZALES, CAL.

New, well appointed theatre, electric lighted. Full stock of new scenery. C. H. WIDEMAN, Mgr.

WOODLAND Opera House

WOODLAND, CAL.

Greatest show town for good shows in the West. A few good dates open in September and October. Stage big enough for any production. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

Hill Opera House

PETALUMA, CAL.

JOHN R. ROCHE, Lessee and Manager

The finest theatrical town outside of the big cities in the West. Magnificent new theatre, with stage large enough for any attraction, playing regularly from $500 to $700 a night. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

287 Thirteenth St., S. F.

BARCROFT Opera House, Merced

Entirely remodeled. New stage, big enough for any production. Stage equipped with new scenery. Merced has 4,000 population. For time write F. R. BARCROFT, Manager.

Santa Cruz OPERA HOUSE

Santa Cruz, Cal.

L. A. KNIGHT, Manager

Rental or will play first-class companies on percentage

H. Lewin

H. Oppenheim

GORDAN TAILORING CO.

928 Market St., Bet. Powell and Mason
FINE CLOTHES MODERATE PRICES
No Branch Stores

NEW AUDITORIUM

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CAL.

Seating capacity, 1,000; new stage; new scenery; stage thirty feet deep, sixty feet wide; large enough for any production; a population of 5,000 to draw from; now booking for 1909-10.
Address WALTER A. CLARK, Mountain View, Cal.

Washington presents a fine bill. Porter J. White presents John Sturgeon; Adelaide Fairchild in The Markham Divorce Case; Harry-Kate Jackson, in Cupid's Voyage; Jake Malvern Troupe of gymnasts; Harry Thompson, comedian; Mlle. Martha, assisted by Max Aldo; Morris-Morton, singing and dancing. The Great Buckner, in a cycling sensation at Pantages—headliner; Mlle. Florine and troupe of trained leopards; Ned Nye, novelist-comedian; Seymour's Happy Family of Dogs; The Clarks, banjoists; J. C. Mack Co., comedy sketch, My Mother-in-Law; Wm. D. Gilson, song illustrator; motion pictures. SMYTH.

ALLEN ATWELL writes: Spokane, Wash., Oct. 5.—We of the Paid in Full Company had a delightful week in Seattle and thoroughly enjoyed the exposition. It is certainly one big winner—a tremendous success and more than a credit to our great Northwest.

Madison's Budget No. 12, Just Out
Parent's Stationery Co., 818 Van Ness Avenue, S. F.

Honeymoon Trail

Bert Baker, the principal comedian of Honeymoon Trail at the Garrick Theatre for Portola week, has been a vaudeville headliner for years, and it was when appearing at a Chicago vaudeville house that Mort E. Singer picked him out to play one of the leading roles in The Flower of the Ranch, in which he made a big hit. Last season he shone with equal glamor with Henry Woodruff in The Prince of Tonight at the Princess Theatre, Chicago, and this season he is back to his favorite role of the baked bean manufacturer in The Honeymoon Trail.

Bert Baker in The Honeymoon Trail at the Garrick Theatre.

Mark Twain's Daughter Marries Pianist

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Clara L. Clemens, daughter of Mark Twain, will be married tomorrow noon to Ossip Gabrilowitsch, the Russian pianist, in the Twain house near Redding, Conn. A small number of close friends will go up from New York in a special car. The honeymoon is to be spent in Germany. In musical circles both bride and bridegroom have attained fame. Miss Clemens made her debut three years ago as a concert singer. Her voice is a rich contralto. Gabrilowitsch came to America first in 1900 heralded as the successor to Rubinstein. He is 31 years old, the son of a lawyer of St. Petersburg.

William H. Crane is to make a tour of the Pacific Coast with his comedy success Father and the Boys.

Personals

LLOYD BACON, son of Frank Bacon, has replaced Albert MacQuarrie as juvenile in the Elleford Company.

"YOURS MERRILY," John R. Rogers, one of the best known advance men in the business, will soon be in town ahead of Eddie Foy.

MRS. RUTH BRYAN LEAVITT, daughter of William Jennings Bryan, is writing a play. She has abandoned her lecture course for the present.

FORREST LAUGHREY, who has been press agent at the American Theatre for the past year, left last week for Honolulu on a world's tour, ahead of Carter, the magician.

FRANK C. EGAN, who has been conducting a dramatic school in Seattle, for the past nine years, has left to take charge of Ollie Morosco's dramatic school in Los Angeles.

JOSEPHINE CUNNINGHAM, the divorced wife of young George Whittell, the son of a local millionaire, now known as Josephine Whittell, has been engaged by Florenz Whittell to play the chief part in The Follies of 1909.

LAURA NELSON HALL and CHARLES STEVENSON will be in the cast of Through a Window, which Klaw & Erlanger and Joseph Brooks will present next month. Mary Bertrand has been engaged for one of the leading roles.

COLONEL JIM S. HUTTON, who has been the director of publicity at Riverview Park the past summer, has been re-engaged by Manager Henry W. Savage and will go out ahead of the new comedy, The Jolly Peasant, this season. Mr. Hutton is already making plans for the World's Fair to be held in Tokio, Japan, in 1912, which he says will be the last World's Fair for him.

MME. LILLIAN BEAUVELT, the singer, who is under religious instruction for reception into the Catholic church, is a descendant on both sides of her family of the original Trinity church property owner, Ainkee Jans of New York, and was brought up in the belief of the Dutch Reformed church. Father Herbert Vaughan, S. J., is instructing her in London.

LEVY'S BIG TRUNK STORE

INCORPORATED

COAST AGENTS
FOR THE

Taylor Trunks

687 Market St., S. F. opp. Kearny Phone Douglas 3192 GENERAL REPAIRING

She is the only woman in the world who has ever been accorded the coveted order of St. Cecilia. It was bestowed upon her in 1900 by the thousand year old Academy of St. Cecilia, in Rome, after she sang the requiem at Verdi's funeral, and, as a further honor, her name was inscribed on the bronze tablet beneath the St. Cecilia window in the Vatican.

Mort H. Singer Princess Theatre Chicago

MAURICE J. EVANS, REPRESENTATIVE

The following attractions are appearing only under the management of Mr. Singer:

The Prince of Tonight

With Henry Woodruff.

A Stubborn Cinderella

With Homer B. Mason (Western)

A Stubborn Cinderella

With Harry Stone (Eastern)

The Golden Girl

With Jimmie Lucas

Honeymoon Trail

With Bert Baker, at the GARRICK THEATRE, week commencing Sunday, Oct. 17

Nanyang Industrial Exposition Nanking, China

MAY TO NOVEMBER, 1910

China's First National Exposition

One Hundred Million Population within Radius of One Hundred Miles

ONLY TEN SHOWS ON THE MIDWAY

Thirty per cent. You erect buildings.

Can arrange to work the great MANILA CARNIVAL, February 7th to 17th, 1910.

If you cable, prepay answer. Address,

GEORGE MOOSER

Representative

P. O. Box 623, American Consulate, SHANGHAI

Cable Address, MOOSER, SHANGHAI.

Novelty Theatre, San Francisco TO RENT

By the day, week or month. Fine, comfortable theatre, seating 1,200 people. Large stage. SPECIALLY ADAPTED TO POLITICAL MEETINGS

The Third Degree Has Hit Los Angeles With Convincing Force

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—Florence Oakley Pryor has been renewing old acquaintances here and in Pasadena during her visit in Pasadena. She is the same charming young woman that we all knew and loved during her engagement at the Belasco. We understand that she is soon to return to Oakland to continue her stage work. Ferris Hartman and his company will soon be with us again, and we will be glad to see them all. On Sunday, Oct. 17, Mr. Hartman will open his season at the Grand in The Yankee Consul. Following this, Mr. Hartman will give a number of the latest New York musical comedy successes for the first time by a stock organization. George Broadhurst has taken up his residence in our fair city and will remain here for the next ten months. While he is here he will write a play for Lillian Russell and also one for Grace George. Florence Reed will not be featured by the Shuberts, but instead will be starred by Wagenhals & Kember in Avery Hopwood's comedy, Seven Days. Blanche Hall resumes her place as leading woman of the Burbank next Sunday night. Alfred Metzger, of the San Francisco Musical Review, is in Los Angeles for a few days. Howard Scott returns to the Belasco this week and is seen in his old part of Kellerman in the production of Old Heidelberg. Maude Beatty has gone to San Francisco to join the Kolb and Dill forces. She takes the place made vacant by Maybelle Baker. Word has been received by some local theatrical people that the company in which "Bill" Desmond was playing the lead, in New Orleans, has closed, and "Bill" is on his way to Kansas City, to play leading roles with the Woodward Stock Company. His opening bill is The Christian. There is a Los Angeles girl playing with the A Knight for a Day Company at the Majestic this week. This is Lonnie Nelson; she lived in the city for fifteen years and four years ago went on the stage. This is her first experience in musical comedy. George Webb has severed his connection with the company at the Grand and has gone to Fresno to play leads with a new musical comedy company managed by Nat Mager.

AUDITORIUM—Corinne returns to please her many local admirers, and this time she has a very good piece, which is more than can be said of her last vehicle. Mlle. Mischief is a Viennese operetta in three acts. It would be somewhat difficult to tell the story of this piece, but it is entertaining and pleasing from start to finish and it gives Corinne ample opportunity for the display of her own personality. Corinne is Rosette, the sweetheart of one Andre Claire, an artist. Rosette has several exciting experiences, caused from the fact that she goes to the barracks in male attire. There is a rollicking old man, a silly young man and several women in prominent parts. Unusual taste is displayed in the costuming of the chorus, and the stage settings are excellent. The male chorus is particularly strong, and the singing throughout is all that it should be. There is a snap and go to the performance, and the piece is well adapted to the talents of the star.

BELASCO—Once more we have the pleasure of seeing the Belasco Company in that ever-popular piece, Old Heidelberg. Many of the company have their old parts, but there are new faces in familiar roles. It is safe to say that there has never been any better presentation of Old Heidelberg, and it is difficult to imagine one that could be as good. Lewis Stone is seen at his best in the role of Karl Meinz; it is one of the best things he has done. The exuberance of youth and the sadness brought about by grave responsibilities are so well brought out in Mr. Stone's characterization of the part, that his Karl is very real. Miss Magrane is a very lovable, winsome Kathie. She thoroughly understands her part, as shown in the scene where Kathie and Karl say good-bye forever. It might so easily be overdone, but it is not. Mr. Applebee, as Dr. Juttner, has the best opportunity that has yet been given him, and he is making a tremendous success of the part. The Lutz of Frank Camp is very good. Mr. Scott makes his reappearance with the company in his old part of Kellerman. Mr. Vivian is also seen in one of his old roles, that of Von Ansterberg. Ida Lewis does a good bit of character work as Frau Dorfel. Mr. Giglyn, Mr. Hamer and Mr. Cook all do good work in their respective parts. The staging is appropriate.

BURBANK—A Society Pilot, the work of Oliver Morosco and Dr. C. W. Bachman, is the offering of the Burbank Company for the week. The story is that of a bankrupt young man who becomes the secretary of a millionaire from Texas, and the "society pilot" of his daughter. John Burton plays the part of Bill Mason, the millionaire, and Lillian Burkhart is cast as the daughter. Mr. Beasley is Ned Singleton, the "Society Pilot." He does well in the part. Mr. Hartford plays Winstanley, the designing Englishman. Mr. Mestayer has the part of the piece, the Baron. His characterization of the part is, to say the least, clever. The cast is a large one, and the parts are all very well taken. There is ample opportunity for the display of handsome, gowns and the women of the company are not slow to grasp this opportunity. Beside Miss Burkhart there are the following women, who are seen to advantage in good parts: Lovell Alice Taylor, Miss Duffet and Mrs. Florence Oberle. The stage settings are elaborate.

MASON—The Third Degree, a powerful and vital drama, from the pen of Charles Klein, is proving a most interesting performance. The play deals with a system used in the modern police department, about which there has been much argument. The subject has been handled in a clever, masterful style and is splendidly staged. Paul Everton, who recently headed the Western production of The Lion and the Mouse, gives an excellent picture of the far-seeing, calculating lawyer.

Fernanda Eliscu makes the most difficult role of Annie convincingly real. The balance of the cast is capable. With a compelling heart interest, The Third Degree is a strong play artistically presented.

MAJESTIC—A Knight for a Day is one of the best in the line of musical shows that has been here this season. The plot can hardly be discerned with a spy-glass, but it is filled with the laugh-getting stuff, and there is plenty of spice and snap in the whole performance. Edward Hume is a breezy little comedian, as funny as he looks, and Grace De Mar is an able partner to his fun. Edward Lynch, well known in Los Angeles, is the leading man. The chorus is a pretty one, well worth looking at, and the piece as a whole is well produced and entertains.

GRAND—What Women Will Do is the thrilling title of the play being put on by the melodramatic company at the Grand this week. There is a plot to this play and also a lesson taught, and it is not at all a bad play. George Webb, Robert Leonard, Grace Rauworth, Lillian Hayward and the other members of the company are all seen in god parts, and the play is given in an attractive manner. This week marks the close of the season of melodrama at the Grand, and next week will serve to introduce us again to Ferris Hartman and his able company of players in The Yankee Consul.

ORPHEUM—Heading this week's bill is a compact and vivid piece of work showing a jury debating the guilt or innocence of an accused murderer, while they indulge in a little poker-playing and treat the audience to some very good singing. The guilt is finally fastened on the right man in a most sensational manner, and the sketch is splendidly presented. Al Wyn and Ed Lee, in The Billiken Freshman, poke fun at the college youth in an inimitable manner, while they draw much unconstrained laughter from the audience. Chas Montrell is a clever juggler in a clever act. Rosa Crouch and George Welch sing, dance and crack jokes, and keep things moving fast. The holdovers are the Arlington Four, Gardner and Revere, Luca and that excellent musical sketch, At the Country Club. The bill is finished with fine set of moving pictures.

FISCHER'S—Charles Alphin and his company offer for the week, Off for the North Pole. It is a satire dealing with the amusing project of Com. Peary, who has succeeded in getting Abe Erlanger and William Brady to finance a scheme to send a musical company, composed of New York's greatest stars to Cook's Theatre, North Pole, to enlighten the benighted Eskimo in American entertainment. The company is composed of Lillian Russell (Maude Rockwell), Eva Tanguay (Blossom Seeley), and Geo. M. Cohan (Dave Morris), surrounded by a dazzling Yankee chorus. Jules Mendel impersonates Abe Erlanger, while William Brady appears in the person of Harry Oaks. Flo Sherlock is cast as Miss Phitt, wardrobe mistress, almost. The scene is laid upon the deck of the good ship Roosevelt and is under the command of Peary (Richard Kipling).

LOS ANGELES—The bill at the Los Angeles is headed by the Three

Roehrs, in their loop the loop in revolving globe. The performer give a remarkable and daring exhibition of bicycle riding. Mitchell and Cain are a very funny team and appear in the skit called The Frenchman and the Other Fellow. A musical number is furnished by the Italian singer, Vera de Bassini. Miss Bassini has a clear voice, and her selections are well given. The three La Maze Brothers appear in a comedy acrobatic act. Tom Bateman sings character songs and does some eccentric dancing. Emily and Jessie Dodd present a character sketch entitled Dutton's Claim. New motion pictures complete the bill.

UNIQUE—A good bill is being given at the Unique for the current week. Jack Harrington is a very clever cartoonist, and his work shows that he has devoted much time to the study of his art. Frank Jones and Lillian Walton do good work in their playlet, Our Country Cousin. Who Is Who? is the one-act comedy in which the Unique players appear. Al Franks is the young bachelor who goes a-wooing and who is mistaken for the new servant. James Spencer is good as the servant. Herbert Gramor makes much of his part, that of an irascible old man. Misses Rose and Janicki, as the servant and the daughter, respectively, are pleasing. There are several new and catchy songs introduced. An illustrated song and motion pictures conclude a very excellent bill.

WALKER'S—A lively show, presenting a very charming widow is The Jolly Widow, at the Walker Theatre. The lines are full of good comedy, and the singing and dancing clever. The closing number, The Anvil Chorus, in which Charles Figg and Annie Bauman do the vocal work, has an unusually pretty setting with special lighting effects. The plot concerns a widow looking for her seventh. Miss Bauman is charming as the widow. Mayme Praeger works alone in a song number. Clamage, Leonard, Mayme Praeger and Gail Henry comprise a quartette who do a specialty song and dance. Estelle Praeger and Charles Figg sing Just Someone in a very pleasing manner.

FLORENCE EMERY.

Impressive Services At Funeral of Mrs. Saunders

Impressive services were held over the remains of Mrs. Elizabeth Saunders, at the chapel of the I. O. O. F., Wednesday afternoon. Many friends assembled to pay their last respect to the revered player. The services were conducted by Rev. George C. Adams of the First Congregational Church. Among the friends seated about the bier was Frederick Franks, who had played with Mrs. Saunders in many dramatic works at the California Theatre years ago, and who stated that since the death of the famous actress he believed himself to be the only surviving member of that once celebrated company. Mrs. Mortimer and the faithful nurse, Miss Kara Olsen, were present. The pall bearers were J. J. Gottlob, Melville Marx, W. H. Leahy and W. L. Greenbaum.

Correspondence

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Mr. Forbes-Robertson, the English actor whose talent has won wide appreciation both in this and his native country, was seen last week at Maxine Elliott's Theatre in a stage adaptation of Jerome K. Jerome's story, The Passing of the Third Floor Back. Those who read the tale when it first appeared will remember it. It is not a story to be forgotten, nor will last Monday's audience soon forget it in its stage form. Mr. Robertson, in a short curtain speech, referred to it as a symbolic play. Symbolic it is, but not a play in the common meaning of the term. Rather a sermon—a personal appeal—presented by varied stage characters based upon the text Let Your Better Self Prevail. Of dramatic action there is so little in the piece that it is a negligible quantity, but of force and strength there are much. The audience caught the spirit of symbolism and uplift it offered, was held from curtain to curtain and manifested its approbation in so certain a manner that Mr. Robertson said he would cable to the author the news of the favorable reception. It cannot have been much of a surprise to the actor, however, for it had a life of more than 300 performances in London before it was brought here. Of the company which supported him Haidee Wright as the painted lady and Molly Pearson as the slavey stood out through the excellence of their acting. Both succeeded more than usually well in making their characters real, flesh and blood creatures with human weaknesses. The others, all of whom were competent, included Madge Avery, Kate Carlyon, Mary Relph, Evelyn Weedon, Montague Rutherford, Allen Thomas, David Powell, A. G. Poulton and Alexander Cassy. * * * Miss Hedwig Reicher made her New York debut as an English speaking actress last week at the Hudson Theatre in On the Eve, adapted from the German of Leopold Kampf by Miss Martha Morton. She is beautiful in face and figure and possesses that quality that it is hopeless to try to designate by any other word than magnetism. Her acting is emotional, but she does not have to tear up the stage and shed tears all over her make-up to convince you of the fact. She is restrained without being cold and emotional without being noisy. Frank Keenan played the part of Teploff, the chief of police. The part of Vassili, the nobly born young lover of Anna, was superbly played by Frederick Lewis, who looked the part so perfectly that he needed only to be perfectly natural to make a complete success. Next to Miss Reicher he perhaps more than any of the others was able to make the spirit that was driving him a burning human emotion. * * * The founders of the New Theatre, which will inaugurate its first season Monday night, November 8, with a revival of Antony and Cleopatra, have issued invitations to the opening of the playhouse on the afternoon and evening of Saturday, November 6. The guests are invited to inspect the house at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and return at 8:30 o'clock in the evening for the final dress rehearsal of the play. The afternoon event will take the form of a reception at which there will be ceremonies to be announced later. Gov. Hughes has signified his intention of being present. He will, of course, officially represent the State of New York. It is expected that other officials, some representing the nation, will also be present. At the dress rehearsal, Antony and Cleopatra will be given precisely as at the Monday night premiere, the only difference being that the auditors will be invited guests. No seats will be sold for the performance or for the afternoon reception. * * * Waghals & Kemper have engaged Hope Latham, who supported Mrs. Fiske last season in Salvation Nell for an important part in the comedy Seven Days, by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood, which will be seen early next month at Boston. * * * Mabel Hite and her husband, Mike Donlin, have signed contracts with Liebler & Co. for a three years' term with The Head of the House, which is being rewritten, and in all probability will be renamed. Rehearsals will commence in December, the piece to open early in January. Miss Hite will be starred and Mr. Donlin will have a minor role. She is appearing at the Orpheum in Brooklyn this week and after a tour of the Percy Williams houses will retire from vaudeville and commence studying. * * * The Shuberts have engaged the English singer, Winnie O'Connor, to play the title role in The Belle of Brittany, supporting Frank Daniels. It will be Miss O'Connor's first appearance here.

ROB ROY.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—A Gentleman from Mississippi spent last week with us, making his home at the Metropolitan. He was greeted by large and well-pleased houses. Burr McIntosh headed the cast. Paid in Full comes week 17th, with star cast, including Fritz Williams. At the Grand, Cole and Johnson and their merry company packed the house, week 10th, with people, both black and white, to see The Red Moon. Checkers comes week 17th. The Orpheum did its usual big business with a strong bill, headed by Margaret Fealy and her players. The Star, Majestic and Gem all did their share of business. Burton Holmes' Travelogues will fill the big Auditorium, Oct. 15, 22, 29. Minneapolis is slowly but surely being recognized as a great show town. All the theatres are doing capacity business. King Dodo, at Metropolitan, week 10th; Graustark at Bijou; The Wolf at the Lyric, all did immensely. The Unique and Miles packed 'em in with vaudeville, as did the Orpheum. The Neils at the Princess did well with A Contented Woman. This new house is rapidly growing in popularity. AL. G. FLOURNOY.

SAN MATEO, Oct. 13.—Millidge Sherwood showed here Saturday night in King Lear. He carried a great production, far too large for the local stage. Show made a hit, and Mr. Sherwood voted more than a good actor. C.

SANTA CRUZ, Oct. 5.—Opera House: Sept. 19 the Newman Foltz Company opened for four nights to good business. A Gentleman from Mississippi followed and played to excellent business. Standing room was at a premium. The company was one of the best that ever played in Santa Cruz. The Opera House has been completely renovated and at much ex-

The Hotel Dale

ON THE RIALTO—HOME OF THE PROFESSION—SPECIAL RATES
Only First-Class European Hotel close to The Garrick, Princess, Novelty,
National, Alcazar, or Pantages—SAN FRANCISCO
SPECIAL—We make a feature of Breakfasts Served in Rooms
COR. GOLDEN GATE AVE. AND FILLMORE ST.
Take McAllister Street and Turk and Eddy Street Cars at the Ferry

Clancy's

Phone Franklin 1506

Stage Hardware

Williams Hardware & Stove Co.

974 Market Street

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

pense the stage has been enlarged, which made new scenery and new furnishings necessary. A new foundation has been placed under the house and other repairs made. L. K.

MARYSVILLE, Oct. 6.—The Girl Question had a fair house October 11. The Gentleman from Mississippi will be the next attraction and a packed house is assured.

EUREKA, Oct. 12.—The Empire: While Harry Bernard has been here has done a wonderful business and the company is well liked. This is their fourth week and they close here Wednesday night to go back to the city. Manager Vansant will put in regular vaudeville again. This spelled prosperity before Bernard came and will do the same again. The Pastime: Moving pictures and illustrated song is doing fine and Erny Lancaster is making a decided hit singing the illustrated. The Margarita: Has just been open now a little over a week and is doing a great business to one vaudeville act and two illustrated song and moving pictures. Sam Van Allen is doing the illustrated at that place and is well taken. NEAL ANDERSON.

PORTLAND, Oct. 11, 1909.—BUNGALOW THEATRE, Calvin Heilig Manager, William Pangle, Resident Manager—With a cast of four people, The Climax finished out the past week to fair business at this house. Ruby Bridges, the only woman in the cast, gave as good a performance as one could wish for. Tonight Blanche Bates opens for the week. Three Twins is announced to follow.

STAR THEATRE, Russell & Drew Manager, Frank Hood Resident Manager—Following the comedy, Going Some, which filled in the entire week at this house, The Ringmaster opened last night. It remains for five nights, and at the termination of its engagement, the Shuberts will offer their attractions at the Portland, the old Heilig, commencing next Sunday night. The latter house has been entirely repaired and put in first-class shape. As to the present bill at the Star, The Ringmaster, which opened last night to a good house with the original New York company, it proved to be one of the strongest draws we have had dealing with the financial question. H. S. Northrup scored the big hit in last night's production. He is well known here as an actor who is always sure to give a high-class portrayal of any role entrusted to him. Frederick Montague plays the title role as the dominant ruler of the financial world and Alice Weeks is the leading woman. Both were equal to demands made upon them in their respective roles. The balance of the company was good.

BAKER THEATRE, George L. Baker, Manager, Milton Seaman, Business Manager—The Sunny Side of Broadway opened at this house yesterday to S. R. O. It has been a visitor to us for several seasons last past and Murray & Mack have always been featured with it, but this season they are lacking, and the management have made a good change by featuring Max Bloom. Bloom is a good actor and gives a faithful characterization of the Hebrew. His songs were also hits. In place of Murray & Mack, Al Harrison and J. E. Cough are playing the roles of the Hibernians, and they got as many laughs as their predecessors. The chorus is good to look at, and what is more, they can sing, especially is this true of the male members of the company. Marie Montrose and Carolyn Ryan are both acceptable in the principal roles for the feminine contingency. Next week, Donald Bowles in The Prince Chap.

ORPHEUM THEATRE, James H. Erickson, Manager—With one of that class of bills that is always satisfactory, the Orpheum did a business last week that came pretty near being a top notch week. George Bloomquest and company in Nerve were well liked, and Bloomquest, who is an old favorite of Portland playgoers, has a role that fits him well. Although he was billed as the headliner, it is a safe bet to make that Howard & Howard in The Hebrew Messenger Boy and the Thespian were the magnets that drew the most people to this house the past week. This is their return engagement and as before, their sketch went with a scream. Martinette & Sylvester do the same stunt as when here before, and it is just as entertaining as of yore. This week's bill, Mlle. Bianci, Kenos, Welsh & Melrose, Hal Godfrey & Co., Maxim's Models, Gen. Ed. LaVine, Patsy Doyle and Nevans & Erwood.

LYRIC THEATRE, Keating & Flood, Managers—The Flagship is this week's offering at this house. As the name implies, it is along military lines, and as it is quite a while since the Lyric audiences have had a war drama, it drew packed houses yesterday. Will Howard and Robert Athon had the leading roles for the men while Miss Priscilla Knowles was again assigned to play the leading female part. All gave good performances and left nothing to be desired. Miss Alice Condon did well the little assigned to her. The management have provided a good setting for the play especially the scene of the fighting top of the battleship.

GRAND THEATRE, Frank Coffinberry, Manager—For the ensuing week the acts named are Anna Eva Fay, Elsie Cressy & Co., Colby & May, Frobel & Ruge, Bandy & Fields and Fred Bauer.

PANTAGES THEATRE, John Johnson, Manager—This week's bill is as follows: Schilzoni's Hussars, Milton and Dolly Nobles, Cordua & Maud, Naples Trio, Lester & Shannon, Leo White and Jack Oliver.

A. W. W.

Correspondence

TACOMA, Oct. 2.—Nothing in the musical comedy line visiting Tacoma has scored a more complete success than The Three Twins on their first appearance in this city. This clean and sparkling comedy with its clever people, tuneful song hits, gorgeous costumes and scenic effects, played to capacity business last night and tonight, with the result that a return engagement has been arranged for Oct. 15-16. Of the company, Victor Morley easily comes first. His style of fun making is a radical departure from that offered in the general run of musical shows, and Tacomans thoroughly appreciated his cleverness. Bessie Clifford won all hearts. Her dancing is graceful and her Yama Yama song a big hit. Prominent in the cast were the Misses Minnie Allen, Helen Salinger and Ada Gifford and Messrs. Harry Hanlon, Eddie P. Bower and Albert Livingston. The Cat and the Fiddle returned to the Tacoma Sept. 24 for two nights and a matinee. The company, much the same as last season, is headed by Chas. A. Sellon. The Elmore Sisters still continue to be a big factor in the success of this amusing play. Paid in Full, 26, to big business. Sara Perry, who appeared here last November in the play, still continues to play the role of Mrs. Brooks, and has a capable supporting company headed by Louis Morrell. The piece was well played. The International Grand Opera were enthusiastically received by representative audiences, appearing 28 in Carmen and 29 in Lucia. No more consummate actress has been seen here in Carmen than Mme. Therry, who sang the role beautifully. Colombino as Don Jose sang and acted his role in a spirited manner and Miss Diamond Donner was excellent as Michaela. In Lucia Mme. Norelli found favor and shared honors with Signor Bari as Edgardo. Sept. 27 a clever company presented Fifty Miles from Boston. As a whole the company was hardly as satisfactory as the one appearing last season, although two or three characters were never better sustained. Next attractions—Oct. 3-4, Commencement Days; 5-6, Dustin Farnum in Cameo Kirby; 8, Chauncey Olcott. Mme. Norelli and Miss Donner of the International Grand Opera are both residents of Portland, Oregon, and were entertained at a tea by friends during their stay here. Tonight at the close of the Yama Yama number in The Three Twins, Bessie Clifford, who has been suffering all week with an ulcerated tooth, collapsed and had to be assisted to her dressing room. This plucky little dancer has been appearing against the advice of her physician, but will probably be entirely recovered in a few days. Grand: Mrs. Gardner Crane, with a company of four, secured many laughs with an amusing character sketch. Jack McLellan and May Carson had an entertaining novelty with roller skates. Frank Parker and a company of two, in a strong-man act, proved interesting. William Cahill, telling funny stories, and Williston and Stonaker in Irish songs furnished the comedy part of the bill. Pantages: Minerva, in feats of mystery, and Capt. Nat Ressler and company in a display of marksmanship had acts sufficiently novel to interest everybody. Sutton and Sutton are unusually clever acrobats. Frank O'Brien offered some unique dances, and Roberts and Downey are first-class in their patter dancing. Smith, Evans and Williams get the laughs with an amusing skit, All's Fair in Love. A. H.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 9.—The first offering of the week at the Tacoma Theatre was Commencement Days, which opened, 3d, for two nights. The piece was lively and full of college spirit. Some enjoyable song numbers were rendered by Frederick Bowers and a male chorus and Olive Haynes, who was such a hit a few seasons ago in Peggy from Paris. Jane Corcoran, who is a favorite here, was in a prominent role. 5-6, Dustin Farnum, in Cameo Kirby, appeared in a type of play and character differing materially from his previous appearances in the Northwest, and won, if possible, more favor than ever. No finer character sketch has ever been seen here than the Larkin Bunce of that sterling old favorite, McKee Rankin. May Buckley was a charming Southern girl, and Donald Gallagher, the child actor, was wonderfully clever. The entire supporting company was a good one, the stage settings harmonious and the entire production a treat. Oct. 10, Texas; 11, Uncle Josh Perkins; 15-16, The Three Twins (return engagement); 17-18, John E. Young in Lo. At the Athletic Club Grounds, the stagehands of the Tacoma Theatre defeated the Commencement Days baseball nine in a well-played game. Four of Tacoma's well-known and prominent young women are well placed this season with Eastern companies: Desmond Kelly is with the John Drew Company in Inconstant George; Maud Turner Gordon, with Cyril Scott in The Intruder; Dawn Aubrey, with The Soul Kiss, and Ceta Bennett, with The Dollar Princess. At the Pantages, N. Schilzoni's Hungarian Band of twenty-five pieces was a big drawing card. Those old favorites, Milton and Dolly Nobles never fail to please. Lester and Shannan's act was written by a former Tacoman, Junie McCree, and was truly laughable. The Naples Trio of singers was all that could be desired. Cordua and Maud, equilibrists, had a good act. Illustrated song and motion pictures kept up the standard maintained at this house. Anna Eva Fay, at the Grand, proved as mystifying as on previous appearances. Charles E. Colby is one of the best ventriloquists that come here. Bandy and Fields are excellent dancers, and much fun was made by Frobel and Ruge in an aerial novelty. Elsie Cressey & Co., in a melodramatic sketch, were rather ordinary. A. H.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 11.—Moore Theatre: A play admirably fitted to the fine talents and physical charms of Dustin Farnum is Cameo Kirby, which is at the Moore for a four nights' engagement. The play is one of interest, with romantic and picturesque surroundings, and the company supporting Mr. Farnum is excellent. The latter part of the week will be filled by Chauncey Olcott in Ragged Robin. Alhambra Theatre: Eddie Foy in Mr. Hamlet of Broadway drew forth a large audience at the Alhambra last night. This is the first appearance of Eddie Foy here for many years, but the Eddie Foy mannerisms are familiar to all from the numerous imitators who have appeared on our local stages. However, there is only one real Eddie Foy, and we are glad he is here. Mr. Hamlet of Broadway is a riot of fun, with a number of good songs and attractive staging. Grand Theatre: Through a mixup in dates, The Climax, which was to appear at the Moore, opened last night for a week's engagement at the Grand. This is a play that will not be soon forgotten by Seattle audiences, for it is a wonderfully appealing story and handled in a way that develops its qualities to the highest degree. Ruby Bridges, who was seen here two seasons in The Man of the Hour, plays the part of Adelina Von Hagen and her characterization is a revelation. Seattle Theatre: A Midnight Marriage is the attraction at the Seattle, and drew two big Sunday audiences. Lois Theatre: The Lois Theatre should be crowded this week, for the Lawrence Stock Co. is putting on a splendid production of William Vaughn Moody's great play, The Great Divide. Pantages Theatre: What is expected to be one of the best bills seen at this house will open this afternoon, with Mlle. Florine and her trained leopards; Seymour's happy family; the Clarkes, and the great Buckner, Ned Nye, J. C. Mack & Co., included on the bill.

E. MORGENSTERN.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 11.—Salt Lake (Geo. D. Pyper, mgr.): The Third Degree, which closed its engagement Saturday night, played to capacity houses. It was well received by the public and made a big hit. This week we will have an opportunity to see Mrs. Leslie Carter in Vesta Herne. This is looked forward to with great interest. Colonial (R. A. Grant, mgr.): In Dreamland, as presented by Emmet Devoy, drew good houses. The people liked the play, as it was something out of the ordinary. The first part of this week The Girl from Rector's will be presented, and, judging from the crowds going there, it is making a big hit. The last half of the week the International Grand Opera Co. will begin their engagement. Thursday they will give Fedore, Friday Lucia, Saturday matinee Carmen, and Saturday night La Traviata. Bungalow (R. A. Grant, mgr.): The Cowboy and the Lady played to good business. For the coming week, Dora Thorne will be given by the Bungalow Stock Co. Grand (A. B. Jensen): Lover's Lane, as given by the Willard Mack Stock Co., drew good houses. This week they will give A Social Highway Man, with Mr. Mack in the leading role. Orpheum (Henry Sonnenberg, res. mgr.): The bill last week was well balanced and very good. Those on the bill this week are: Geo. Auger, styled the tallest actor in the world, will give a little play entitled Jack the Giant Killer; Joseph Hart's Bathing Girls; Geo. Carson and Jake Willard in The Dutch in Egypt; the Thalia Quartette; Joe Jackson, the European vagabond; Laura Buckley, in Studies from Life; Alburus and Albus, juggling eccentrics, and the motion pictures. R. HARBACH.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 13.—Emmett Devoy and company presented Dreamland, 11, at the Opera House (Mrs. M. L. Kiplinger, mgr.) to a poor house. The play is styled a comedy fantasy, and is built on similar lines to The Man from Mars, with comedy unduly preponderating. The scenic effects and illusions are startling and effective, the cast is good, notably Devoy as Bob Hammond, and L. J. Carleton as Hans Herman, a "possible" German. Some of the dialogue between Hammond and the Daughter of Venus requires a zealous advocate to clear it of the charge of coarseness; 12, The Time, the Place and the Girl, drew a crowded and well-satisfied house. Coming, 14, The Honeymoon Trail, and in the near future The Man of the Hour. J. E. RICH.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 9.—Tulane Theatre: Considering the fact that this is the second appearance of The Test in this city, Blanche Walsh and her capable company have every reason to be satisfied with the week's reception. The play is a problem one, dealing with the past lives of a woman and two men, against whom she is arrayed in the battle for future hope. It is strong and virile and abounds in striking epigrams, which ring true. It is a splendid vehicle for the star, giving her ample scope to display her fine voice, stage presence and gifted elocutionary powers. There are moments of sublimity when she rises to match her wits against her enemies. Her leading man, Geo. W. Howard, measured up to all requirements. He was easy and natural, without having to strain for effort to gain distinction. Equally clever was the work of Nicholas Judel, who fought to overcome the heritage of a lowly birth in his efforts to merit the love of Minna, which part was successfully essayed by Katherine Bell. Will D. Corbett as Tretman gave a splendid rendition of the man who has determined to live down the past. His makeup was excellent. The Test will be on the Coast in spring. It is well worth seeing. Next week, The Yankee Prince; 17, The Gentleman from Mississippi. Crescent Theatre: Yorke and Adams, in their new play, In Africa, have packed the theatre all week. There is a lot of good music, catchy scenery and pretty girls in the chorus. What else need be said? Next week, Pierre of the Plains.

W. L. McCONNELL.

Musical Stock for Fresno

Nat Wagner, the manager of Kolb and Dill, will open the refurbished Novelty Theatre in Fresno a week from tomorrow, with a strong musical comedy show, headed by Budd Ross. The company will be in charge of Bob Hughes, the musical director, and will consist of Bud Ross, George Vack, George Webb, Oliver Le Noir, Maude Beatty, Rovia Banks, Birdie Hope, Mabel Goger and a chorus of fifteen.

Dates Ahead

HAROLD NELSON in PRINCE OTTO.—Sacramento, Oct. 24; Chico, 25; Ashland, 27; Medford, 28; Grant's Pass, 29; Eugene, 30; Corvallis, Nov. 1; Albany, 2; Silverton, 3; Vancouver, 4; Portland, 5-6; Astoria, 7; The Dalles, 8; Pendleton, 9; Walla Walla, 10; Pomeroy, 11; Pullman, 12; Lewiston, 13; Spokane, 14, week.

MILLIDGE SHERWOOD.—(Wm. Stoermer, mgr.): Porterville, Oct. 15-16; Tulare, 18; Placerville, 20; Woodland, 22; Petaluma, 25.

THE SAN FRANCISCO Dramatic Review

Music and Drama

CHAS. H. PARRELL, Publisher

Issued Every Saturday

Address all
letters and
money orders to San Francisco
Dramatic
Review, Van

Ness Theatre Bldg.,
Van Ness
Avenue.
Telephone
Park
1773

Entered at San Francisco as Second-class
Mail Matter. Established 1880.

Spanish Musical Festival for the Portola

The music of Spain is so little known in this country that Prof. Joaquin S. Wanrell has started an enterprise of his own that he hopes to develop into a great music society some day. What he has already been able to accomplish will be understood when he gives his first concert in Dreamland Rink on October 21, during the Portola Festival. Most of the Spanish music, so-called, in America is imitation Spanish, written by composers who know nothing of the Iberian spirit, relying for their color on certain tricks of rhythm and tone intervals. There is of course the ever-popular La Paloma and the arias from Carmen. Beyond this the real music of Spain is an unknown idiom. Professor Wanrell intends to make the night of the 21st a real Spanish night. His choruses, led by professional chorus singers, include the intensely patriotic Gloria a Espana, the gay Ay que Risa, Honora a los Bravos, given with military spirit, the joyous Las Galas del Cinca, and the sentimental El Primer Amer. The Spanish color of the evening will be further heightened by Spanish national dances and ballads. The choruses named have excited great enthusiasm not only in Spain, but through France and other parts of Europe. It is Professor Wanrell's purpose to show that they are worthy of study here as well. From their inspiring character he has no doubt of their success. Professor Wanrell's singing has elicited the greatest applause wherever he has appeared and some two years ago he brought an immense audience of thousands to its feet when he sang La Paloma in the Greek Theatre in the University of California. Professor Wanrell will sing at the coming concert and his pupil, Miss Fay Carranza, a charming and well known singer of this city, will render The Star Spangled Banner. "This will be the first chorus of its kind in America," said Professor Wanrell when talking about the coming concert, "and I expect to make the affair a great success and interest the people of this city in the real Spanish music. The chorus that I have gathered is perhaps one of the best ever brought together, and I am sure that the people here will take to the music, some of which, I believe, has never been heard in this country." The director received the first prize in song from the Royal Conservatory of Music in Madrid and other honors from the Spanish government, where he was a star of the royal opera. The complete program is as follows: 1—Royal Spanish March, Cassara's Orchestra. 2—The Star Spangled Banner (M. Vogrich), Miss Fay Carranza, the popular California lyric soprano, full chorus and orchestra. 3—Address, Hon. George H. Cabaniss. 4—Gloria a Espana (T. A. Clave), full chorus and orchestra. 5—Address in Spanish, remarks about the Discovery of San Francisco Bay, by Professor Joseph Hidalgo of the State University of California. 6—Solo, La Partida, the Farewell (Alvarez), Senor Don Joaquin Sastre Wanrell, Cassara's Orchestra. 7—Ay Que Risa (T. A. Clave), full chorus and orchestra. 8—Spanish Dance in Aragon, Senorita A. Dulce and E. Ortiz. 9—Military Chorus Honra a los Bravos (Clave), full chorus and orchestra. 10—Solo, Los Ojos Negros (Alvarez), Senor Don Joaquin S. Wanrell and Cassara's Orchestra. 11—El Primer Amor (T. A. Clave), full chorus and orchestra. 12—Las Galas de Cinca (T. A. Clave), Wall Jota Chorea, full chorus and orchestra. At the piano, Mr. E. M. Schmitz. The concert will be followed by a grand ball.

Correspondence

There is nothing much stirring in theatricals this week. The houses all have pretty fair attractions and business seems to be in a normal condition. Fifty Miles from Boston, George Cohan's catchy composition, drew two moderate houses at the Macdonough, 12-13, and sent everybody away in apparently good humor. The music has the real Cohan flavor and the songs were mostly well rendered. The costumes were novel and pretty and the chorus young and attractive. The Gentleman from Mississippi, 14-16. At the Liberty, a comedy drama by Harry Cottrell and Oliver Morosco, entitled The Halfbreed, is being presented for the first time in this city. The scenes are laid in Indian Territory and the characters and situations are those incident to border life. There is considerable merit to the play and it is a money maker. The company of Bishop's players were exceptionally well cast and the production was presented in a manner that could hardly be improved upon. Sidney Ayres and Edith Lyle took good care of the leading roles and were accorded the best of support by all the prominent members of the company, including George Friend, Henry Shumer, Walter Whipple, Robert Harrison, Robert Lawlor, George Webster, William Wolbert, Mina Gleason and Laura Hudson. Next week the initial performance of Cupid, the Cow Punch, by Richard Walton Tully. This is the last week of Ferris Hartman at the Broadway, and the house has been packed at every performance. This week's bill included The Mayor of Tokio and The Blue Moon, and both operas proved fine attractions. Hits were made by Ferris Hartman, Walter DeLeon, Walter Catlett, Joe Fogarty and Muggins Davies. Commencing Monday, Manager Smith will conduct the theatre as a motion picture house, giving the very latest Eastern and European features at popular prices. Business at the Orpheum continues good and the quality of the show fully up to the Orpheum standard. The moving pictures showing the aviation races at Rheims, and Peary on the Roosevelt are proving a very interesting feature. The bill consists of Edna Aug, Big City Quartet; Henry Clive; Les Myosotis; Murray and Mack; Tom Waters; Spaulding and Riego; and Rosario Guerrero. The Road Show is at the Bell this week and is playing to capacity houses. Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Prior (Florence Oakley) have returned from their wedding tour. Mrs. Pryor returns to the Liberty next week playing the leading feminine role in Cupid the Cow Punch. Billie Burke opens in Love Watches at the Macdonough 18. The advance sale is exceedingly heavy. Walter Catlett, one of the prominent members of the Ferris Hartman company, and Ruth Venice, of the same aggregation, were married on the 11th inst. Eloise May Clement will close at Ye Liberty Sunday and Maude Odell has been added to the company in her place. Shore Acres is in preparation by the Liberty stock.

LOUIS SCHEELINE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—There was a report on Broadway this evening that David Belasco, the distinguished playwright and theatrical manager, was dying in his apartments in the Marie Antoinette. A telephone call direct to Mr. Belasco's apartments tonight was answered by a nurse in charge, who said Mr. Belasco was very low. Dr. H. L. Constable, his family physician, said late tonight: "Mr. Belasco has been in a serious condition from pneumonia but he has rallied, and if he has good fortune, will not have any further trouble."

J. B. REIGHLEY

Theatrical Hauling

Promptly Attended To
Telephone Market 1601

660 Guerrero Street, Bet. 18th and 19th

WILLIAM MAXWELL

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW

Lick Building, 35 Montgomery Street.
Telephone Kearny 734.

Imperial Amusement Co.

Star Theatre, Portland, Oregon
S. MORTON COHN, Pres.; MELVIN G. WINSTOCK, Gen. Mgr.
Acts of every kind are requested to write in, quoting lowest salary in first letter. Satisfactory booking for right acts at right figures.

Valencia Theatre

Valencia Street, near Thirteenth
Phone Market 17

This Saturday Afternoon and Evening
Last Times of
GEORGE FAWCETT in
"THE GREAT JOHN GANTON"

Starting Sunday Evening, Oct. 17
Sam S. and Lee Shubert (Inc.), Present

The Ringmaster

A Powerful Drama of Wall Street Intrigue
by Olive Porter.
Direct from the Maxine Elliott Theatre,
New York.
Metropolitan Cast. Elaborate Scenery.

Special Portola Prices—25c to $1.00.
Seats on sale at the Box Office and Emporium.
Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Next—EDDIE FOY in "MR. HAMLET OF BROADWAY."

THE

FRANCIS-

VALENTINE

CO.

Thirteenth St., near Mission, S. F. Cal.

Spacious Headquarters
for Theatrical Agents

Send Bills of Lading to us. We will take care of your paper

New Alcazar Theatre

Tel. West 1400

Cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts.

Belasco & Mayer, Owners and Managers
Absolutely "Class A" Building

Monday Evening, October 18, Starts the Second and Last Week of David Belasco and Richard Walton Tully's Beautiful Play of Life in California During the Mission Days

The Rose of the Rancho

Splendidly Acted and Superbly Staged

Prices—Night, 25c to $1.00. Matinee, 25c
to 50c.

MATINEE SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

New Orpheum

O'Farrell Street, Bet. Stockton and Powell
Safest and Most Magnificent Theatre in
America

PORTOLA WEEK

Week Beginning This Sunday Afternoon
Matinee Every Day

ARTISTIC VAUDEVILLE

GEORGE BLOOMQUEST and CO. in
"Nerve"; HOWARD and HOWARD, "The Messenger Boy and the Thespian"; MARTI-NETTIE and SYLVESTER, "The Boys with the Chairs"; BALLERIN'S CANINE
TUMBLERS; TUSCANY TROUBADOURS;
6—GLINSETTIS—6; CARLIN and
CLARK; NEW ORPHEUM MOTION PIC-TURES. Last Week VALERIE BERGERE, who will present by Special Request,
"BILLIE'S FIRST LOVE."

EVENING PRICES—10c, 25c, 50c, 75c.
Box Seats, $1.

MATINEE PRICES (Except Sundays and
Holidays), 10c, 25c, 50c
Phone Douglas 70

Princess Theatre

Absolutely "Class A" Theatre Building

Phone West 663

Ellis Street, near Fillmore
Samuel Loverich, Manager

Tonight and all this week

Kolb & Dill

Present Themselves in

Dream City

Evening Prices and Sunday Matinees,
50c to $1. Saturday Matinees, 25c, 50c and 75c.

AMERICAN THEATRE

Market St., near Seventh

Abe S. Cohn, Manager

Phone Market 381 for Good Seats
The Playhouse of Comfort and Safety

AMERICAN VAUDEVILLE

Will be Inaugurated Next Sunday, by a
Ten-Act

Vaudeville Show

This theatre will now book the best
vaudeville acts obtainable under the book-
ing direction of Edward Homan.
No Acts too big. No Price too big.

GILLE PRINTING CO.

SAN FRANCISCO

THEATRICAL PRINTING OF ALL KINDS

POSTERS

2257 MISSION ST.

Phone MISSION
3085

Van Ness Theatre

Billie Burke in Love Watches, the excuse that offers her an opportunity to demonstrate the fact that she is a beautiful woman, and a thoroughly refined one as well, is closing her second week at the Van Ness. During the two weeks she has been here as a star Miss Burke has made a firm position for herself in the hearts of a great number of theatre-goers in San Francisco. She is the possessor of a personality that impresses itself deeply upon her auditors. Lillian Russell and Anna Held appeal to the eye, but Billie Burke has an additional charm that neither of the celebrated stage beauties possess. The rather thinly concocted translation from the French of R. De Piers and G. De Caillavat, made by Gladys Unger, while it is a thing that will hardly live in the memory, is painless and at times pleasant. It leaves a good taste in the mouth, and one leaves the theatre conscious of having seen a very beautiful woman, a fair supporting company, a drama that fills all the conventional demands of good taste, and having had a very pleasant evening. It is to be hoped that Billie Burke will apply herself to her art seriously, and not allow herself to drift into the shallowness and shoals of the professional stage beauty. She is standing at the parting of the ways now, and a few years, one way or the other, will decide her professional status for all time.

Alcazar Theatre

That reliable Alcazar success, The Rose of the Rancho, is on at the Sutter Street playhouse again, to run through the week commemorating the founding of San Francisco by the Spanish explorer. It is very fitting that a bill such as this should be put on, giving, as it does, the proper atmosphere for the occasion, besides, it is a money-maker, which is also a good reason. The plot of Richard Walton Tully's California play is too well known to need even so much as a review here. Of the play, scenically, and of the way in which it is acted, much may be written that is praiseworthy. The big hit, of course, falls to Bessie Barriscale, who as Juanita repeats her splendid success of last spring. She has improved, if anything, over her acting at that time. She unquestionably has plenty of temperament and intellectual insight, and uses both to good advantage in playing the role of the young Spanish girl, who expresses almost every passion that the human heart is capable of having in the three hours given to the performance of the drama. Opposite the leading woman is Will R. Walling, who, of course, had to bear comparison with Bertram Lytell in the same character. With all due respect to the departed, Will Walling's portrayal will bear comparison, although, as was to be expected on Monday night, in some of the earlier scenes, he was a little nervous, and the prompter's voice came over the footlights. A little part, well done, was that of a water carrier, by Claribel Becker. Herbert Farjeon was cast as a muleteer. His makeup was realistically true. Also his acting. Charles Clark as the Padre Antonio was excellent in his delineation of the brave old priest. E. L. Bennison has never been seen in anything better here than his acting of the part of Kinkaid, the land-jumper. Others who contributed to the success of the piece were: Margaret Clayton, Helen Yarborough, Christie McLean, Codie Ordean, Dorothy Merritt, Grace Travers, Adele Belgarde, Annie Lockhardt, John Graham, Ancy McNulty, George Coleman, Glenn Jones, Alden Wheeler, Andrew Bennison, Clyde Lovett, William Garwood, Charles Wilson, Anton Ferrarez, Glenn Jones, Walter Belasco, Charles Trowbridge, George Baldwin, Harrison Ford, and Howard Hickman. Those unseen, but effective persons, the stage mechanics, deserve much praise for the success and beauty of the present production. The music given by the orchestra was all in keeping with the transitional period, when California was passing out of the hands of the Spaniards into the possession of the gringos.

Princess Theatre

Dream City, by this time quite builded into the familiar K. & D. architecture, is a rip-roaring funny show and is doing a large business. One of the funniest pieces of business is the burlesque wrestling match between Kolb and Dill. It is tremendously absurd and amusing. The two comedians are now at work on a new piece—of a most up-to-date subject. It will be called At the North Pole, and is being written by Frank Blair and Charlie Royal, who have conceived a very funny plot. Kolb has drifted up to the North Pole with a party of excursionists, and he has a hard time trying to keep warm. He finds Dill already there, and his great trouble is to keep cool. The second act finds the party floating to a torrid principality in the south seas, and a very funny story is wound around their adventures.

Valencia Theatre

The Great John Ganton is a strong and absorbing play. Plays such as this one come nearer to showing the actual life and ambitions of our successful people than any others, and for that reason approach nearer to the class of plays that will be eventually hailed as the "great American play." Dramatized from a successful serial story, the play is really one of the best stage products we have had this season. Like many of the latter-day plays, there is no injection of special comedy to enliven the serious and tenseful moments. What ever of lighter effect there is comes from the consistent working out of the individual characters and is but incidental to the story itself. In depicting the masterful John Ganton, the autocrat of the stockyards, who all his life has bent men and their possibilities to his own purposes, George Fawcett has, by his admirable work, shown with fine effect the contrasts in the character of Ganton, and these are always logical and clearly conveyed. Mr. Fawcett is a finished actor, who, at the first view, conveys the idea of complete mastery of character demands. He realizes with vivid completeness the mind's conception of the part he plays. And his support is, in general, fully adequate. Lucus Henderson plays the character of Delaney, the gentlemanly adventurer, with consummate skill, and Jack Webster, once of the old Grand Opera House stock, is a fine, earnest young business man of high ideals. Ganton's son, in the hands of Thurston Hall, is well conceived and developed with pleasing fidelity. Charles Gay, who plays the Rev. Chas. Clavering, gives quite a skillful touch to the part, but the character itself is an intrusion and quite foreign to the necessities of the story. Jack Barnes is splendid as the breezy young clerk, and Allen Fawcett, in the role of confidential clerk, shows up as an unusually good and sympathetic actor. The ladies are good looking and know how to dress. Elsie Scott is most successful as Mrs. Wilton, and Ruth Tomlinson, as the rich man's daughter, is thoroughly charming, appealing strongly by an evidently genuine refinement and modesty, quite essential to the part. Fanchon Campbell gives a consistent portrayal of May Keating, fiancée of young Ganton, but shows a tendency to stilted and old-fashioned elocution in her reading. The scenery is most satisfactory, especially the golf club scene. This play deserves the finest kind of a business.

Garrick Theatre

Manager H. H. Frazee has gotten together a splendid company to interpret The Girl Question, which has an interesting story and is original in its up-to-date expressions. The first act is laid in a Chicago restaurant, where Con Ryan, a slangy illiterate, but "on the level" product of the under-world, is manager. He is in love with a pretty girl who acts as cashier, but who is too young and frivolous to appreciate his devotion. The head waitress, "the best and truest pal a fellow ever had," is in love with him. The restaurant is frequented by a conglomerate crowd who range in social position from "Skinny" Jones, the president of the Iron Workers' Union, to T. P. G. Sears, a millionaire who owns pretty near all of Chicago and the rest of the United States. Ryan is given an interest in the business, and, to celebrate, determines to propose to the cashier and give a ball, and asks the head waitress to help him do both properly. The second act shows a roof garden in Chicago at night, with the ball in full sway. Baron Von Tosmer, a young German who has come to America in search of the rightful owner of a block of railroad stock which has been left in his trust for a girl named Foster, discovers that the owner is the head waitress, just as a deputy sheriff rushes in, declares that Mr. Sears has foreclosed a mortgage he holds on Ryan's restaurant and that it is to be thrown into the street, and the act ends in a scene of glorious confusion. In the third act the waitress, transformed into Mr. Sear's private secretary discovers that her block of railroad securities form the balance of power which Sears must acquire to carry out a vast deal. She sells to him on condition that he restore Ryan's old restaurant to its former condition and lease it to him, rent free, for three years; puts Ryan in charge, and makes him acknowledge that his infatuation for the cashier was only a moment's passing fancy and that she was the girl he really and truly loved. Miss Kearney, who is well remembered here for his fine comedy work in A Chinese Honeymoon and in The Mayor of Tokio, has the part of Ryan. He enters happily and understandingly into the character and is immensely successful. Dorothy Maynard, who has been playing the part of the head waitress, is in a local hospital recovering from an operation, and her part is taken most creditably by Mrs. Kearney. The balance of the cast is very satisfactory and the choruses well sung.

Charles Klein's Latest Play, The Third Degree

One of the most notable productions of the current season is undoubtedly Charles Klein's latest play, The Third Degree, which Henry B. Harris will present fresh from an engagement of seven months at the Hudson Theatre, New York, at the Van Ness Theatre next week, Mr. Klein, it will be remembered, is the author of The Lion and the Mouse, a play of such dramatic strength that it attracted the attention of every theatre-going in America, by reason of its attack on the financial and political methods employed by those high in the councils of state and speculative commerce. In The Third Degree, Mr. Klein has taken for the subject of his play certain abuses of power by the police, together with conditions that exist among the elect of the highest social circles in New York City. The story deals with a young man, who, by reason of his marriage to a girl of the people, is disowned by his father, a member of the old Knickerbocker set. Through the death, under peculiar circumstances, of a man, suspicion is laid upon the boy, by the police, who, challenged for their inefficiency and groping wildly for a possible suspect, use every effort in their power to fasten the chains of guilt upon him. His own father refuses to come to his aid. The girl, by force of character, woman's ingenuity and fearless courage, fights single-handed against the powers that have sworn to make her husband a victim of misplaced justice. So virile and at the same time striking, are the methods employed by Mr. Klein in dealing with the situations, that the intensity of The Third Degree has seldom been equaled in the annals of the stage. The faithfulness and fidelity with which a woman cleaves unto her husband, is so convincingly illustrated, that this play must invite the attention and indorsement of all classes of theatre-goers. The cast engaged by Mr. Harris to present this absorbing drama includes Paul Everton, Fernanda Eliscu, T. L. Coleman, A. H. Symmons, Francis Bonn, E. A. Eberle, Alfred Moore, H. H. Foreseman, Ralph Ramsay and Margaret Drew.

Passion Play

The interesting event of the week has been the presentation of The Passion Play at the Coliseum by the Franciscan Fathers. The large building has been crowded nightly, and the production has been of a most massive character, quite the most pretentious ever seen in San Francisco.

Vaudeville

The Orpheum

The Orpheum offers an exceptionally strong bill this week and one in which every act is worthy of special mention. Valerie Bergere, who is well known to the old theatre-goers here, has returned with a sketch that can easily gain the title of "Something different from the rest." Her little playlet is called The Sultan's Favorite, and gives Miss Bergere an opportunity to display her talent to good advantage. The piece is mounted with beautiful scenery and the costuming is quite elaborate. The other members of the cast give her splendid support, making The Sultan's Favorite a strong act. Another number that seems to share equally with any number on the bill is Reynard's act, which he styles A Morning in Hickville. He gives us a genuine treat not only as a ventriloquist but with a complete production. The scenery and settings are the best ever seen here in an act of this kind, making the audience forget that the little dummies are not real live characters. The six Glinserettis give a pleasing singing act in which they receive a good round of applause after each number. Another response to an encore would be greatly appreciated. Bob Carlin and George Clark open the bill in a neat Dutch singing and talking act. Mary Norman continues to be a favorite and of the holdovers, her clever imitations of American Girl Types is making an unusual hit. James Young and company continue in their sketch, Wanted, A Sister, and furnish many a good honest laugh by their spirited acting. The mind reading dog, Pilu, introduced by Sig. Ancillotti, amuses the audience for a few minutes and the audience seems sorry to see their act come to a close. The regulation good moving pictures are enjoyable.

The Wigwam

Landers Stevens and Georgie Cooper in their condensed version of Sapho are the leading attraction at the Wigwam this week. Stevens and Miss Cooper are assisted by others, and the act runs for forty minutes. The Five Merry McGregors have a picturesque singing act called A Breath of Scotland. Another act which goes big is the Three Vagrants, Italian street singers and musicians. The Four Stagpoles offer a new diversion called The Crazy Caddie. Dolan and Lenharr have a laugh-provoker in The High Toned Burglars' Christmas Tree, and Johan and Mack, known as the Liepsic Chappies, present a high-class musical act.

The National

This week's bill at the National includes a number of new acts which are indeed novelties and which have been receiving excellent mention by press and public. Skating on Real Ice, presented by Isabel Butler and Edward Bassett, a pastime seldom indulged in here, is one of the feature acts on the bill. Flo Patterson, billed the Kentucky Maid, singer of Southern melodies, is the greatest coon-shouters ever heard here. She puts life and ginger in her act and it goes with a bang. Bissonette and Newman, the athletes, give an act called West Point Pastimes which serves to introduce their specialties to good advantage. Aida Woolcott and company present a laughable playlet called A Fisherman's Luck. Irma Orbasany's cockatoos are another novel act and give a vaudeville performance which wins applause. Others on the bill are Barney Fagan and Henrietta Byron in Bits of Musical Comedy, and Kelly and Violette, the Fashion Plate Duo, who have a large and enthusiastic following, make up the remainder of the excellent bill.

Pantages-Empire

The Pantages bill this week is up to the usual high standard set by this popular house. Two excellent playlets are on the bill and merit applause. Naida and company present their $5,000 spectacular act called, The Nymph of the Sea, which gives rise to many elaborate and spectacular scenic effects. John Justus and Ethel Romain are seen in a Russian playlet called The Pledge of Coronova, including a cast of four people. The Three Demons, aerial cyclists, present many new and difficult feats. The remainder of the program is composed of the Doric Trio, real singers of real songs; Markee Brothers in their musical comedy act, and Gus Bruno, dialect comedian.

American Theatre

Very, very satisfying is the brand of vaudeville offered here this week. There is a long lineup of fine acts. Blanche Sloan, who is almost a stranger here, since she has been away for a long time, takes well with her well-known act. Abrams and Johns are clever actors in a good sketch, and The Seddons, Pretzkow and Blanchard, Martinetti and Grossi and Miriam Mar contribute the vaudeville turns. Edwin T. Emery's company is seen in a new tabloid play and sustain their reputation as entertainers. An unusually good selection of moving pictures is also shown.

O. S. Burns Independent Agent

Like a bombshell on Monday came the news that "Bobby" Burns, supposed to be a fixture at Pantages, had entered the independent field. At present he is located at 1838 Steiner street, and will soon be down town. Already Mr. Burns has a string of houses and by a glance at his list published in these columns, it will be seen that he has lost no time and has a fine showing.

Farce Comedy Stock at the Central

Dick Cummings, Katherine Merley, Myrtle Vane Al Watson, Kernan Cripps, Rosie Roberts and Anna Clarke are in the stock at the Central, opening Sunday in Fun in a Hammock, under the direction of Dick

Theatrical Tights

ALL COLORS, WEIGHTS AND QUALITIES—Cotton, 75c to $1.50; Wool, $2.50 to $3.50; Lisle or Silkline, $3.00 to $4.50; Silk, $5.00 to $12.50.

SYMMETRICALS BEST LINE MADE IN THE U. S. Calf, $5.00; Calf and Thigh, $10.00; Calf, Thigh and Hip, $12.50.

We also Make Padded Shirts. SWEATERS, JERSEYS, GYM, ATHLETIC and BATH SUITS, SUPPORTERS, ACROBATIC SHOES, GOOD UNDERWEAR Knit to Fit in All Materials.

We operate our own mills, carry a large stock and make goods to measure at reasonable prices. We suit the professional as if he were buying in Europe. Write us for prices and samples.

Gantner & Mattern Co.

Phone Kearny 3603

Corner Post and Grant Ave.

Sullivan & Considine

::: New Circuit :::

Of the smaller popular-priced theatres to be operated in conjunction with their regular circuit houses, comprising time in

California Utah and Eastern Connections
Colorado Kansas

Good Acts Can Always Secure Immediate Bookings

BOOKING DEPARTMENT

1117 Market Street

W. P. REESE, Manager

New York Office
Knickerbocker Theatre Bldg.

Lancaster, Pa.—
FAMILY THEATRE

Bert Levey Circuit

INDEPENDENT VAUDEVILLE
144-150 POWELL STREET Phone Douglas 5702 SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
Booking the Longest Chain of Vaudeville Theatres West of Chicago

PANTAGES Western States Vaudeville Association

Controlling the longest, largest and best chain of vaudeville theatres in the United States.

Mr. Manager: No matter where your house is, how large or how small, we can supply you promptly with first-class vaudeville acts at reasonable prices, also lodges, clubs and entertainments furnished on short notice.

See W. Z. TIFFANY, Representative. Phone West 7140. Offices: Pantages Theatre, cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts., San Francisco, Cal.

Archie Levy's Amusement Ass'n

THE VAUDEVILLE EXCHANGE OF THE PACIFIC COAST
1643 FILLMORE STREET, SUITE 1-2-3, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
Managers desiring talent Write. Artists send in your open time now.

WATCH THIS SPACE NEXT WEEK
Read my list of bookings in another column.

Bob Burns Vaudeville Circuit

Temporary Office—1838 Steiner St., near Sutter.

EUGENE

WILLIE

Howard & Howard

"THE HEBREW MESSENGER BOY AND THE THESPIAN."

Orpheum Circuit

Valerie Bergere

AND HER COMPANY

Presenting a Repertoire of Playlets—Orpheum Circuit.

Cummings, who will put on his series of short cast farces. The company looks particularly good and should establish itself as strong favorites.

Vaudeville Notes

Eighteen-year-old Elsie Branton is sure that Alexander Frederick, who does a turn in magic every night as well as managing the Washington Square Theatre, has Herrmann and all the other wonder workers beaten when it comes to a disappearing scene. The little actress told Police Judge Weller last week that after performing at Frederick's theatre for nine months without the ghost walking she decided to leave. Search, high and low failed to bring forth her wardrobe. So the kind-hearted judge issued a search warrant for the following articles: A farmer's suit, a boy's outfit, a Japanese kimono, a brown cap, a blue satin dress, a white embroidered dress, an Indian costume, two pairs of slippers, school books and a wig—worth in all $100.

A New York theatrical manager announces that he has contracted with Matt Hanson, the negro who was with Peary in his search for the north pole, for lectures to be delivered in the next two years.

LA PETITE, Watsonville, week of Oct. 11.—Mondane Phillips, the girl with many voices, and Johnnie Hughes, in his original creations.

Max Steinle and Mattie Hyde have joined the Majestic Theatre musical comedy in Phoenix, Arizona.

Mrs. C. Percival King in private life, but Nellie V. Montgomery on the play bills in Los Angeles last week, was granted a divorce from C. Percival King, who at the time of the marriage, June 23, 1906, was chauffeur to a wealthy Pasadena family, on the complaint of extreme cruelty. King deserted her in March, 1908, and during the entire married life the wife supported the family, according to her testimony. The course of true love after the wedding was apparently as tumultuous as King was able to make it. He lost his job as chauffeur, and, so far as the family records go, he has not deigned to work any since. While the couple were at the Hotel Astoria, at Third and Hill streets, Mrs. King says King knocked her down and treated her shamefully. "Isn't it a fact, Mrs. King, that you supported your husband during the time that you lived together?" asked the plaintiff's attorney. "I certainly did," she replied, with a flash of her dark eyes. "Take your decree," said the court. Mrs. King was restored to her maiden name of Nellie V. Montgomery. There is a decided opinion that a marriage with Al Fischer, the son of E. A. Fischer, is in prospect.

It now seems certain that the Orpheum Theatre will soon be a thing of the past, says a Seattle paper. The commissioners of King County have about decided that the time is ripe for the construction of a new court house on the site now occupied by the Orpheum. Sullivan & Considine will not suffer by this move, however. When they purchased the corner of Third and Madison it was with the intention of building a new Orpheum at that point. Their plans are already prepared, and long before it will be necessary to dismantle the old building, a new structure, and one of the most beautiful houses in the West at that, will be ready to receive the Orpheum shows.

Mabel Bardine will soon be seen over the Orpheum time in a Chinese tragedy.

Lester Mitchell, who has been playing vaudeville dates with Beatrice Mowry in the Northwest, has returned to San Francisco.

Donald Bowles opens on the Orpheum time in Butte in a sketch on Nov. 28.

The Three Demons, who have a revolving bicycle act, met with a bad break down at Pantages last Sunday. No one was hurt but the escape was marvelous.

Bookings

At the Sullivan & Considine, San Francisco Office, through Wm. P. Reese, their sole booking agent, for week of Oct. 17, 1909:

NATIONAL San Francisco—Frank Parker and company; Wm. Cahill; Williston and Stonaker; McLellan and Carson; Mrs. Gardner Crane and company; Celeste and Walsh; Jack Bowen. BELL, Oakland—Martinetti and Grossi; Aida Woolcott and company; Flo Patterson; Nada Moret; Butler and Bassett; Irma Orbasany's Cockatoos. WIGWAM San Francisco—Sharp and Turek; Florence Modena and company; Dorothy Vaughan; Bissonette and Newman; Hall and Starke's Minstrels; Landers Stevens. NOVELTY, Vallejo—Musical Comedy. GRAND, Sacramento—Johan and Matt; Fagan and Byron; The Three Vagrants; The Four Stagpools; Blanche Sloan; Johnnie Hughes. GARRICK, Stockton—Tom and Stasia Moore; Grace Darnley; Frederick the Great and Elsie and Violette. JOSE, San Jose—Buckley's Dogs; Five Merry McGregors; Selbini and Grovini; Will Morrissey; George Lauder. LOS ANGELES, Los Angeles—Steele Sisters; Dolan and Lenharr; Mort Sharp and His Dancing Belles; Ahlberg Brothers; McFarland and Murray; Armada. AMERICAN, San Francisco—La Darros; Earle Sisters; Bothwell Browne and company; Eddie Dolan; Rigo. QUEEN, San Diego—Vera de Bassini; Emily and Jessie Dodd and company; La Maze Bros.; Tom Bateman.

BOB BURNS VAUDEVILLE CIRCUIT
Temporary office—1838 Steiner St., S. F.

CENTRAL, San Francisco—Cummings Stock; Seymour Twins; Emily Geraldine; Deglow Clarke; Woodson. THALIA, San Francisco—Krako. ORIENTAL, San Francisco—Evelyn Wells; Lazar; Mlle. Hartman. ELITE, San Mateo—Phil LaToska; Curline and Winter. STAR, San Francisco—Nelson Troupe; OPERA HOUSE, Watsonville—Sisters Dale; Ralph Gordon; Bob Miller. WORK, Monterey—Chicago Newsboys Quartet; Gus Bruno; Alfredo. GARRICK, Stockton—Bird and Sprague; Frederick. GEM, Marysville—Geo. Jones. NOVELTY, Visalia—Louie and Aldo; Frank Clarke. PARRA, Bakersfield—The Barnadotts; Kradwell.

Changes in Vaudeville Situation

Some of the changes predicted in the local vaudeville field are gradually coming to pass. Last Monday O. S. (Bobbie) Burns, who has been Pantages' booking agent for several years, retired to enter the independent zone and he was succeeded by W. Z. Tiffany, who has long been a partner of Mr. Pantages and manager of the local theatre. Mr. Tiffany announces that the new down town theatre is assured and that with the arrival of Mr. Pantages here next week, he will tell DRAMATIC REVIEW readers just where the theatre will be built.

Bert Levey's New Offices

Bert Levey is justly proud of his remarkable success in the independent field. And just to show that everything is lovely, he has moved to fine new offices on Powell Street, just around from the Orpheum. Bert has also established a Los Angeles office, with his able lieutenant, Jacobs, in charge. Nothing succeeds like success.

Mardi Gras at the Chutes

The biggest bill of the Chutes season will open at the Fillmore street amusement park this Sunday and continue through Portola week. A continuous Mardi Gras with all the features that contribute to a carnival of fun will be inaugurated Monday evening and barrels of free confetti and brilliant illuminations will each night convert the big playground into a veritable fairyland of fun and light. A series of special events and acts will begin this Saturday evening when a "mysterious Mr. Raffles" will invade the park and defy the merry-makers to effect his capture. Tomorrow the French Sisters, aerialists, will begin a limited engagement. The skirt and fire dances which they perform while

NEW CHUTES

FILLMORE, TURK, EDDY AND WEBSTER

PORTOLA WEEK

At San Francisco's Mammoth Playground

MARDI GRAS EVERY NIGHT
Confetti, Wonderful Illuminations, Continuous Concerts.

FRENCH SISTERS

Fire and Skirt Dances in Mid-air

ITO-KIMURA TROUPE

Japan's Best Acrobats and Jugglers

PRINCE ALBERT

A Horse who Does Everything from

Mind Reading to Sums in Arithmetic

MAN Versus LION

Daily Attempts to Subdue the Un-tamable Wallace

20-TRICK MONKEYS—20

FREE THEATRE—SONG AND DANCE

ARTISTS

suspended high in the air are extremely beautiful. Supplementing the French sisters will be the juggling and acrobatic work of the Ito-Kimura troupe of Japanese. Another new feature will be Prince Albert, a horse who performs mind-reading feats, spells words, designates flags and letters and does problems in arithmetic. Frank Hall, the lion tamer, will attempt to put Wallace through interesting paces and the free theatre will offer the best programme yet seen at the Chutes. An augmented band under the direction of George W. Bennett will render concerts afternoon and evening. The children will find many things to amuse them, including a troupe of twenty trick monkeys, the circus ponies, clowns and numerous riding devices.

Los Angeles Office

Bert Levey Circuit

... NOW OPEN ...

Plenty of Time for Good Acts

Fischer's Theatre Building

Phone FI168

LOUIS B. JACOBS, Manager

Main Office—144-150 Powell St., San Francisco

3 times a day

Chicago-Kansas City

AND POINTS EAST

EASTERN EXPRESS

Leave San Francisco, 7:15 a. m. Leave Oakland, 7:40 a. m.

OVERLAND EXPRESS

Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 8:00 p. m.

CALIFORNIA LIMITED

Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 10:00 p. m.

Courteous employees—Unique scenery—Harvey meals—Equipment built by Pullman—One management all the way to Chicago. Our descriptive folders give reliable information.

JAS. B. DUFFY, GENERAL AGENT, 673 Market Street, S. F.

T. LOVE, T. A., Market St. Ferry Depot, San Francisco.

J. J. WARNER, G. A., 1112 Broadway, Oakland.

Correspondence

LAKEPORT, Oct. 8.—The new opera house here was opened Oct. 1st by Manager R. D. Winters, with a vocal concert. Mr. Winters deserves a great deal of credit for providing Lakeport with so commodious, convenient and handsome an amusement place, excelling anything of its kind ever had before here, at any other town in the county, or indeed, in many towns of larger size in the State. The building is 50x100 feet in size, covered with corrugated iron exteriorly, and pressed steel on the inside, making it practically fire-proof. There is a steel bulkhead between the auditorium and stage, which would prevent any fire spreading from the stage to the auditorium. The auditorium is 50x75 feet in size, with a 17-foot ceiling and a perfectly clear space uninterrupted by posts or other obstructions, and equipped with a fine dancing floor. The interior is painted in pleasing and harmonious colors. The seating capacity is 700, though Mr. Winters has at present but 660 comfortable folding chairs, which will probably seat any crowd ever assembling in Lakeport for some time to come. The stage and dressing rooms occupy the balance of the house. The stage space has 25 feet depth by 34 in width, though the proscenium arch is but 24 feet in width, and about 14 feet high. The stage has a clear space of 34 feet to the roof. There are eight convenient dressing rooms, 8x12 feet, each, with an outside window. The scenery is complete to the extent of seven sets.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—A new star that came into the theatrical firmament Monday evening, at the Garrick Theatre, when Mabel Taliaferro, remembered as Polly, in Polly of the Circus, appeared under the name which she will hereafter bear, Nell, in a play by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, called Springtime. The Springtime of the play is that time in the life of a Southern girl of tender years when love awakens, and it is the story of her awakened love and of the blight that almost comes upon her through her yielding to the call of her heart that is the playwright's theme. With a slender plot to furnish incidents for the play, the collaborators have succeeded in giving the touch of romance to their effort, while, in the general effect that is produced in the enactment of the piece, the incidental music by Harry Rowe Shelley must be accounted as of great value. Atmospheric is this music to an extent that is most surprising, for the composer seems to have caught the spirit of the play with true artistic perception. Nell made a great personal success, of that there was no doubt. The production is rather elaborate and the costuming shows careful attention to detail. The company gave Nell capable support, and the part of Steel was particularly well played by Earle Browne. William B. Mack was a sufficiently proud and stern father. Walnut Street Theatre: Polly of the Circus, Margaret Mayo's charming little drama of the sawdust ring, began a two weeks' engagement at the Walnut Monday night, with Edith Taliaferro in the title role. The play has been seen here twice before, but has lost none of its popularity. In Polly, Miss Taliaferro finds a congenial medium for the display of her artistic equipment, which is a pleasant mixture of youthful winsomeness and sincerity. Frank Gheen made a dignified minister, and among others in the supporting cast, Clint G. Ford, Edward Poland and Francis McGinn did admirable work. Broad: The Climax began the fifth week of its local engagement. Mary Quive has the principal role. The Golden Butterfly began the concluding week of the engagement at the Forrest Theatre. Grace Van Staddiford, the sister of Mary Quive, also has the leading part. In an effort to get away from the rollicking class of comedies in which he has been the principal for a couple of decades, Louis Mann has constructed a four-act play by Jules Eckert Goodman, bearing the illuminative title, The Man Who Stood Still. He has opportunity to display his old-time ingenuity in using broken German, and his comedy work is as scintillant and naive and as entrancing as ever. Mann has some excellent assistance. Emily Ann Wellman is effective as Marie Krauss. Louis Hendricks does well as Edward Spiegel. The drama has many good points, has enough humor to balance the heavy lines. Lyric Theatre: The Yankee Girl, a musical comedy by George V. Hobart, with music by Silvia Hein, which opened at the Lyric Theatre with Blanche Ring as the chief attraction, would be quite good enough as a farce-comedy without any music at all. This is not because the music is not acceptable, but because the piece has real plot and lots of it, and is cleverly worked out. Miss Ring is a host in herself, and the audience was happiest when she was on the stage. Horace Wolstenholm, the wonderful child actress, is in town. His sketch entitled Tomatoes La De Tablecloth is very interesting, and he is ably assisted by Pop Williams, the celebrated characted actor.

CALVIN M. FRANKLIN.

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 10.—Paid in Full and a commendable production of this Eugene Walter's play, with Louis Morrell and Sara Perry in the leading roles, played to packed houses at the Auditorium, 3-5. The Shepherd King with Wright Lorimer, 6-7, fair business. Wright Lorimer, as David, was excellent and his costumes were rich. He was well received. Chauncey Olcott, 15-16, and Saturday matinees in the Ragged Robin, Rose Curry as Margaret and Mark Price as Andrew Grattan, supported Olcott admirably and the work of Andrew O'Neill as Lanty Lanigan in the comedy parts were pleasing. Olcott's voice is as sweet as ever, encore after encore was given the Irish actor, and not until he stepped before the curtain and sang My Wild Irish Rose did the

PICKWICK THEATRE—SAN DIEGO

Charles King Stock Company

Supporting

Marjorie Rambeau

Presenting all high-class novelty productions.

The Garrick

San Diego's Leading Playhouse
San Diego, California

D. C. COLLIER, Proprietor
WYATT & DODGE, Managers

tumult subside. Commencement Days, with Frederick V. Bowers, opened an engagement Sunday evening to a large audience. Coming, 13-14, Texas, 15, John E. Young in Lo. The McRae Company in The Spoilers at the Spokane closed a successful week's engagement. In Old Kentucky is the bill for this week and opened to a packed house. At the Orpheum, Our Boys in Blue, 18 soldiers, is the biggest vaudeville act brought to Spokane. Lulu McConnell-Grant Simpson offer a bright little comedy, A Stormy Hour. The Tempest and Sunshine Trio, Bobby Pandur, Brother in The Modern Hercules, James F. Kelly, Annie M. Kent are good entertainers. Ray Montgomery, Healey Sisters, novelty singers and dancers, Sansone-Delila, novelty gymnasts and Orpheum pictures conclude the bill. The Washington offers a good bill this week. Kitabanzai Japs head the bill, Rosedale Four, a quartette of sweet voices, Bradlee Martin Co. in a sketch entitled Jessie-Jack-Jerry, Crimmins-Gore in their eccentric comic oddity, Like Mother Used to Make, Minstrel Billy Clarke, Bell-Caron, acrobatic surprises and Biograph, a pleasing bill at Pantages include the following: La Belle Italia Troupe of four musicians, vocalists, George Winfried Co., comedy sketch artists, Shayne-King, Hebrew comedians, Bunchu-Alger, refined singing and dancing, Edythe H. Stanley, The Piano Girl, The Levoles, sensational wire artists, Wm. D. Gilson, song illustrator, and Motion Pictures.

Portola Theatre Benefit

The Associated Theatrical Managers of San Francisco presented an enjoyable program Friday afternoon of last week at the Garrick Theatre for the Portola Festival fund. About $700 was realized toward the expenses of the carnival of this month and the Portola committee was profuse in its thanks to the actors and musicians who appeared. Benefits have been coming in too often of late and that accounted for the small amount realized.

Comparisons Are Odious—Only to Those Who Suffer by Them
WRAY & EDNER Welcome Comparison with

Laura Hudson & Co.

Opening in California, November 1st with Laura Hudson, Kernan Cripps, Louis Lytton, Ione Bright, Charles Yule, Tyler Kent, Griffith Wray, Raymond Reed, Argyle Tully, Vincent Payne, Frank Gates.

FOR SALE

JAMES YOUNG offers for sale a complete and magnificent production of HAMLET, PAINTED IN ANILINE BY W. CROSBIE GILL, WALLACK THEATRE, NEW YORK. May be packed in crates or trunks, but when hung gives the effect of massive set scenery. Perspective perfect; artistic in execution; architecture of King Arthur period. Useful for stock theatre.

Address JAMES YOUNG
Care Dramatic Review

Time May be Booked in San Bernardino

Any companies coming as far south as San Bernardino and wanting to make dates for one night stands or for one week, can do so by writing to J. W. Leonard, manager of the Unique Theatre. Seating capacity 1,000 people, 5-piece orchestra and plenty of scenery. The house will hold about 1,400 people and never failed to have a packed house.

Andrews Opera Chairs

General Seating
School—Church—Bank
Office and Steel Rod
Furniture
Purchase direct from
manufacturer
THE A. H. ANDREWS CO.
Pacific Bldg., San Francisco
Chicago, New York, Tacoma

Opera, Folding and Assembly Chairs

Full Line
See Samples at 770-776
Mission St.
Bet. 3d and 4th Sts.
SAN FRANCISCO
Whitaker & Ray-
Wiggin Co.

Dates Ahead

A GIRL AT THE HELM (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Victor, Oct. 17; Boulder, 18; Greeley, 19; N. Platte, 20; Grand Island, 21; Lincoln, 22-23; Omaha, 24-25; Creston, 26; Des Moines, 27; Grinnell, 28; Cedar Rapids, 29; Iowa City, 30; Clinton, 31; Waterloo, Nov. 1; Iowa Falls, 2; Mason City, 3; Albert Lea, 4; Rochester, 5; La Crosse, 6; St. Cloud, 7; Valley City, 8; Dickinson, 9; Miles City, 10; Billings, 11; Livingston, 12; Bozeman, 13; Butte, 14-15; Anaconda, 17; Grand Falls, 17; Helena, 18; Missoula, 19; Wallace, 20; Spokane, 21-28; Lewiston, 29; Pullman, 30.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—San Diego, Oct. 17-18; Riverside, 19; Redlands, 20; San Bernardino, 21; Ogden, 23; Salt Lake, 24-31; Grand Junction, Nov. 1; Leadville, 2; Colorado Springs, 3; Boulder, 4; Ft. Collins, 5; Cheyenne, 6; Denver, 7-13; Victor, 14; Pueblo, 15; La Junta, 16; Trinidad, 17; Amarillo, 18; Wichita Falls, 19; Ft. Worth, 20; Dallas, 22; Waco, 23; San Antonio, 24; Houston, 25; Galveston, 26; Beaumont, 27; New Orleans, 28-Dec. 4.

ALLEN CURTIS MUSICAL COMEDY CO.—Walker Theatre, Los Angeles, indefinite.

ALCAZAR STOCK.—San Francisco.

AS THE SUN WENT DOWN.—(Arthur C. Aiston, prop. and mgr.)—Michigan City, Oct. 17; Fon du Lac, 18; Sheboygan, 19; Appleton, 20; Antigo, 21; Wausau, 22; Stillwater, 23; St. Paul, 24-30; Minneapolis, 31-Nov. 6; Milwaukee, 7-13.

BELASCO STOCK CO.—Los Angeles.

BILLIE BURKE.—(Chas. Frohman, mgr.)—San Francisco, 4-16; Oakland, 18-20; San Jose, 21; Stockton, 22; Sacramento, 23; Seattle, 25-30.

BISHOP'S PLAYERS.—In stock, Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland.

BLACK PATTI.—(R. Voelckel, mgr.)—Brownwood, Oct. 16; Waco, 18; Austin, 19; San Antonio, 20; Victoria, 21; Galveston, 23; Houston, 24-25; Beaumont, 27; Morgan City, La., 30-31; New Orleans, Nov. 7.

BLANCHE BATES (David Belasco.)—Seattle, Oct. 18 and week; Tacoma, 25-26; Victoria, 27; Vancouver, 28-29; Bellingham, 30; Spokane, Nov. 1-3.

BLANCHE WALSH.—(A. H. Woods, mgr.)—Dallas, Oct. 16; Hot Springs, 18; Little Rock, 19; Memphis, 20-21; Jackson, 22; Nashville, 23; Lexington, 25; Evansville, 26; Vincennes, 27; Louisville, 28-30.

CHARLES B. HANFORD (F. Lawrence Walker, mgr.)—Greenville, Oct. 16; Atlanta, 18-19; Athens, 20; Augusta, 21; Charleston, 22; Savannah, 23; Albany, 25; Americus, 26; Macon, 27; Columbus, 28; Troy, 29; Montgomery, 30; Selma, Nov. 1; Demopolis, 2; Meridian, 3; Tuscaloosa, 4; Birmingham, 5; Anniston, 6.

CHIC PERKINS (Frank G. King, mgr.)—Stacyville, Oct. 18; Mason City, 19-20; Open, 21-22; Goodell, 23; Pocahontas, 25-26; Webster City, 27-28; Ames, 29-30.

DAVID WARFIELD.—(David Belasco, mgr.)—Atlanta, Oct. 13-16; Augusta, 18; Charleston, 19; Savannah, 20; Macon, 21; Montgomery, 22; Mobile, 23; New Orleans, 25-30.

DUSTIN FARNUM IN CAMEO KIRBY.—Company is booked as far east as Butte, but may possibly get a wire at Seattle calling them into New York, where they will open at the Astor Theatre for an all-winter run.

EMMET DEVOY.—(W. G. Smyth, mgr.)—San Diego, Oct. 16; Los Angeles, 17-23; Bakersfield, 25; Fresno, 26; San Jose, 27; Stockton, 28; Oakland, 29-30.

FORTY-FIVE MINUTES FROM BROADWAY.—(Cohan & Harris, mgrs.)—St. Cloud, Oct. 16; Winnipeg, 18-20; Grand Forks, 21; Fargo, 22; Jamestown, 23; Bismarck, 25; Dickinson, 26; Miles City, 27; Billings, 28; Bozeman, 29; Helena, 30; Great Falls, 31.

FIFTY MILES FROM BOSTON.—(Cohan & Harris, mgrs.)—Sacramento, Oct. 16-17; Stockton, 18; San Jose, 19; Napa, 20; Fresno, 21; Visalia, 22; Hanford, 23; Bakersfield, 24; Ventura, 25; Santa Barbara, 26; Redlands, 27; Riverside, 28; San Diego, 29-30; Los Angeles, 31.

GIRL QUESTION.—Denver, Oct. 10-16; Victor, 17-23; Omaha, 24-25; Sioux City, 31.

GUY SMITH STOCK.—Oakland, Cal.

HENRIETTA CROSMAN.—(Maurice Campbell, mgr.)—Denver, Oct. 11-16; Colorado Springs, 18; Pueblo, 19; Kansas City, 24-27; Omaha, 28.

HONEYMOON TRAIL.—(Harry Chappell, mgr.)—Santa Barbara, Oct. 16; San Francisco, 17-23; San Jose, 24-25; Stockton, 26; Fresno, 27-28; Visalia, 29; Bakersfield, 30; Oakland, 31.

HUMAN HEARTS CO. (Western, Wm. Franklin Riley, mgr.)—Big Timber, Oct. 18; Livingstone, 19; Bozeman, 20; Great Falls, 21; Helena, 22; Boulder, 23; Butte, 24; Hamilton, 26; Stevensville, 27; Victor, 28; Missoula, 29; Wallace, 30.

IN WYOMING.—(H. E. Pierce & Co., mgrs.)—Wenatchee, Oct. 16; Leavenworth, 17; Everett, 18; Hoquiam, 19; Aberdeen, 20; Montesand, 21; Elma, 22; South Bend, 23; Tacoma, 24; Cle-Ulm, 25; Roslyn, 26; Ellensburg, 27; Sprague, 28; Colfax, 29; Pullman, 30; Spokane, 31, week.

IN OLD KENTUCKY.—(A. W. Dingwall, mgr.)—Spokane, Oct. 11-16; Seattle, 17-23; Portland, 24-27; Chico, 29; Sacramento, 30; San Francisco, 31.

ITALIAN OPERA CO.—Cheyenne, Oct. 16; Denver, 18-24; Colorado Springs, 25; Pueblo, 26; Wichita, 28.

JUST OUT OF COLLEGE.—(Campbell & Bothner, mgrs.)—Butte, Oct. 15-16; Great Falls, 17; Helena, 18; Anaconda, 19; Missoula, 20; Wallace, 21; Colfax, 22-23; Spokane, 24-31.

LENA RIVERS.—(Barton & Wiswell, mgrs.)—Astoria, Oct. 16; Portland, 17-23; South Bend, 25; Chehalis, 26; Aberdeen, 27; Elma, 28; Cheney, 30; Spokane, 31.

LITTLE JOHNNY JONES (Chas. L. Crane.)—Burlington, Oct. 18; Kenosha, 19.

McFADDEN'S FLATS.—(Barton & Wiswell, mgrs.)—Lincoln, Oct. 16; St. Joseph, 17-20; Des Moines, 21-23; Omaha, 24-27; Leavenworth, 28; Topeka, 29; Lawrence, 30; Kansas City, 31.

MILLIDGE SHERWOOD IN KING LEAR.—(William Stoerner, mgr.)—Porterville, Oct. 15-16; Tulare, 18.

MOROSCO'S BURBANK STOCK.—Los Angeles.

MURRAY & MACK'S VAUDEVILLE DATES.—Los Angeles, Orpheum, Oct. 18, two weeks; Salt Lake City, Orpheum, Nov. 7, week; Ogden, Orpheum, 14, week; Denver, Orpheum, 21, week; Lincoln, Orpheum, 28, week; Sioux City, Orpheum, Dec. 5, week; St. Paul, Orpheum, 12, week; Minneapolis, Orpheum, 19, week; Omaha, Orpheum, 26, week; Kansas City, Orpheum, Jan. 2, week; Chicago, Majestic, 9, week; St. Louis, American, 16, week; Chicago, Olympic, 23, week; Indianapolis, Grand, Feb. 7, week; Cincinnati, Columbia, 13, week; Louisville, Mary Anderson, 20, week; Memphis, Orpheum, March 6, week; New Orleans, Orpheum, 13, week; Mobile, Majestic, 20, week.

NEWMAN FOLTZ.—(D. P. Stoner, ahead.)—Lodi, Oct. 18-20.

ON TRIAL FOR HIS LIFE.—(A. H. Woods, mgr.)—Indianapolis, Oct. 14-16; St. Louis, 17-23; Kansas City, 24-30.

PAID IN FULL.—(Wagenhals & Kemper Co., mgrs.)—Jamestown, Oct. 16; Valley City, 18; Fargo, 19; Grand Forks, 20; Winnipeg, 21-23; Fergus Falls, 25; Wahpeton, 26; Aberdeen, 27; Watertown, 28; Sioux Falls, 29; Mitchell, 30.

POLLY OF THE CIRCUS.—(Frederic Thompson, mgr.)—Atchison, Oct. 16; Kansas City, 17-23; Tulsa, 25; Oklahoma City, 26-27; Fort Worth, 28-30.

RAYMOND, THE GREAT.—(Maurice F. Raymond, mgr.)—Lisbon, Portugal, Oct. 9-17; Oporto, 19-20; Bordeaux, France, 25-30; Liverpool, England, Nov. 3-10; Dublin, Ireland, 14-20; Glasgow, Scotland, 23-30.

RICHARDS & PRINGLE'S MINSTRELS (Holland & Filkins.)—Quannah, Oct. 16; Childress, 18; Clarendon, 19; Amarillo, 20; Plainview, 21; Tuila, 22; Canyon City, 23; Hereford, 25; Clovis, 26; Roswell, 27; Carlsbad, 28; Pesos, 29; Midland, 30.

SANFORD DODGE & COMPANY.—(B. S. Ford, mgr.)—Idaho Falls, Oct. 18-19; Pocatello, 20-21; Franklin, 22; Preston, 24-25; Malad, Utah, 26-27; Brigham, 28-29.

SIS HOPKINS (J. R. Stirling.)—Port Huron, Oct. 16; Detroit, 17, week; Milwaukee, 24, week; Waukegan, 31.

SOUL KISS.—Shreveport, Oct. 15-16; Fort Smith, 18; McAllister, 19; Muskogee, 20; Tulsa, 21; Okla., 22-23; Denver, 25-31.

STUBBORN CINDERELLA.—St. Louis, Oct. 10-16; Atchison, 17; Omaha, 18-19; Beatrice, 21; Junction City, 22.

THE CAT AND THE FIDDLE.—Ogden, Oct. 16; Salt Lake, 17-23.

THE CLIMAX.—Aberdeen, Oct. 17; Olympia, 18; Tacoma, 19-21; Victoria, 22-23; Vancouver, 25-27; Westminster, 28; Bellingham, 29; Everett, 30; South Bend, Nov. 1; Chehalis, 2; Ellensburg, 3; North Yakima, 4; Pendleton, 5; Walla Walla, 6.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Western, H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Oakland, Oct. 17; Sacramento, 18; Stockton, 19-20; San Diego, 31-Nov. 1; Santa Ana, 2; Pomona, 3; Riverside, 4; San Bernardino, 5; Redlands, 6; Phoenix, 8-9; Bisbee, 10; Douglas, 11; El Paso, 12-14; Albuquerque, 15; Santa Fe, 16; Las Vegas, 17; Rocky Ford, 18; Leadville, 19; Grand Junction, 20; Salt Lake, 21-27; Ogden, 28; Park City, 29; Rock Springs, 30.

THE THIRD DEGREE (B.)—

GOLDSTEIN & CO.
COSTUMERS for all Pacific Coast Theatres.
Goldstein's Hair and Wig Store.
Make-Up, Play Books. Established 1876.
Lincoln Building, Market and Fifth Sts.

(H. B. Harris, mgr.)—Los Angeles, Oct. 11-16; San Francisco, 18-31.

THE WORKINGMAN'S WIFE.—(A. H. Woods, mgr.)—Omaha, 14-16; Kansas City, 17-23; St. Louis, 24-30.

THE TRAVELING SALESMAN (B.)—Fort Worth, Oct. 16; Galveston, 18; Houston, 19; Austin, 20; San Antonio, 21; Tucson, 23; Los Angeles, 25.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR CO.—(Western.)—(Brady & Grismer.)—N. Platte, Oct. 16; Denver, 17-25; Boulder, 25; Ft. Collins, 26; Greeley, 27; Victor, 28; Colo. Springs, 29; Leadville, 30; Salt Lake City, Nov. 1-3; Ogden, 4; San Bernardino, 6.

TIME, PLACE AND GIRL (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Santa Ana, Oct. 16; Bakersfield, 17; Hanford, 18; Visalia, 19; Stockton, 20; Oakland, 21-23; San Francisco, 24-30; San Jose, 31; Marysville, Nov. 1; Woodland, 2; Reno, 3-4; Minnuecca, 5; Elko, 6; Salt Lake, 7-13; Ogden, 14; Provo, 15; Grand Junction, 16; Glenwood, 17; Leadville, 18; Salida, 19; Colorado Springs, 20; Trinidad, 21; Goodland, 22; Norton, 23; Beatrice, 24; Omaha, 25-27; St. Joe, 28-29; Junction City, 30.

TEXAS.—Colfax, Oct. 16; Wallace, 18; Missoula, 19; Anaconda, 20; Helena, 21; Butte, 22-23; Great Falls, 24; Bozeman, 25; Livingston, 26; Billings, 27.

THRE TWINS.—(J. M. Gaites, mgr.)—Tacoma, Oct. 15-16; Portland, 17-23; Astoria, 24; Salem, 25; Eugene, 26; Red Bluff, 27; Chico, 28; Marysville, 29; Woodland, 30.

WRIGHT LORIMER.—(W. A. Brady, mgr.)—Lewiston, Oct. 14-16; Pendleton, 18-19; Walla Walla, 20-21; Yakima, 22-23; Everett, 25-26; Whatcom, 27-28; Victoria, 29-30.

YANKEE DOODLE STOCK COMPANY.—(George V. Haliday, mgr.)—St. Cloud, 24 and week.

All Kinds of SCENERY

Painted, built and installed. The only real Scenic Studio on the Coast. Get our prices. For Road or House productions.

Front and Sheridan Sts. Portland, Oregon

C. F. Weber & Co. Opera Chairs

All Styles of THEATRE AND HALL SEATS

365-7 Market Street San Francisco

210-212 N. Main St. Los Angeles

FRED O. OSBORNE, Manager
Theatrical Code, "Santapole"
Home Phone F 5037

New York Dramatic Agency

Booking
Dramatic and Vaudeville Acts
Organizing and Routing Companies, Supplying "Scripts," Etc.
Belasco Theatre Building, Los Angeles
Entire Third Floor

CHARLES E. ROYAL AND ELLIOTT EDYTHE

Presenting Charles E. Royal's wonderful Burglar Playlet, "STRAIGHTENING A CROOK," and six other excellent playlets. "Best sketch ever presented at the Empire."—Eureka Times. "Full enough of dramatic and comedy situations to warrant a four-act play."—Eureka Herald. Chas. Royal and Edythe Elliott are finished artists in every sense and present a wonderfully clever act."—Watsonville Pajaronian. "Working All the Time." "Featured Everywhere."

BERT LEVEY, AGENT.

New York Customs Unnecessarily Severe on Actresses

New York, Sept. 28.—Since Wm. Loeb, Jr., became collector of the port of New York, a number of small smuggling attempts have been detected, and the would-be smugglers have been severely punished. Incidentally, and as a mere side issue of this law enforcement, hundreds of honest and reputable persons have been and are being annoyed, humiliated and insulted by Loeb's sleuths. Take the case of Fannie Ward, for instance. She is an American actress who married an Englishman, has a home in England, and is now, under the law, an Englishwoman. She came over recently to begin rehearsals for a new play in which she will soon appear. Miss Ward arrived on the Lusitania, bringing thirteen trunks. She made her declaration. She was asked if she had any theatrical costumes, and replied that she had two, both of which she had worn in this country last year, till they were threadbare. She was told that she might leave her keys with her maid and go to her hotel. She had been standing two hours waiting on the customs officials, and was very glad of this permission.

Two hours later the maid arrived at the hotel, empty-handed, and bearing a receipt for the luggage, which had been sent to the customs storehouse. Miss Ward was to go on down there in the morning. Meantime, she and the maid had not a nightgown, a toothbrush nor anything except the clothes they stood in. Friday morning Miss Ward and the maid went to the customs storehouse. From there they were sent to the collector's office. At the collector's office they were referred to a deputy, who told them an invoice would have to be prepared and sent back to the customs storehouse. Miss Ward got a customs broker, again swore to what she had sworn to the day before, and received at the collector's office the necessary papers to be taken back to the customs storehouse. There they were referred to the appraiser's office, and when they found it the appraiser was gone to lunch, which was no wonder, as it was past noon. Returning at 2:30 to the appraiser's office they learned for the first time that the baggage had not been brought up from the Cunard docks. The two women were tired out with running around, and were sweltering in heavy shipboard clothing. They were told that the stores closed at 4:30, and worried greatly until the trunks arrived, shortly after 3:30. The inspector in charge offered to let them take away two trunks, putting in them such clothing as they needed for immediate use. Unfortunately, the maid with Miss Ward was not the one who had packed the trunks in London, and all the trunks had to be opened to find the things desired. When the inspector saw all the trunks being lifted out of all the trunks, he decided to make his inspection then, and did so, by running a little over office hours. He found that the declaration had been correct, and examined for himself the two worn stage gowns. At 5 o'clock the trunks were closed up, and Miss Ward arranged for the transfer to her hotel. She had hardly gotten out of the door when she was called back and informed that the law department of the customs had just called up on the telephone and advised that the baggage must be held, as it contained theatrical costumes. This move was based on the fact that a couple of trunks were marked "theatre." Then ensued a long telephone wrangle. Collector Loeb was finally appealed to in person over the long distance telephone, the trunks were released, and reached the hotel at 7 in the evening. Miss Ward went to bed as soon as she got to the hotel after her strenuous day. She had spent about $20 in taxicab fares and other expenses. She offered no complaint against any official with whom she had come in contact. She said she had been most courteously treated, but it did seem to her that there was something wrong in the system.

Morris and Shubert Rumors

With several visits of Shubert representatives to the Central Theatre this week, Walter Hoff Seeley's continued absence and silence in New York, and the departure of Abe Cohn and Ed Homan to the North, last week, the rumor factory, using all these incidents as a basis, has started to get busy again. Just what it all means The Dramatic Review has an idea it will be able to announce next week.

HILDA GRAHAM

Leads

Care Dramatic Review.

STEVE I. SIMMONS

MAXWELL ALEXANDER

Columbia Scenic Studio Co.

Estimates on all Classes of Theatrical Work

Office, 117 Fell St., S. F.

George P. Webster

Stage Director

Ye Liberty Playhouse Stock, Oakland, Cal.

Arthur E. Witting-Mattie Davis

Character Actor

Joint or Single

AT LIBERTY

Character Actress

Address San Diego, Calif., Boundary and Howard Streets.

Reva Raymond

Leading Woman

Edwin T. Emery Stock—American Theatre

Augustus Phillips

Leading Man

Alcazar Stock—San Francisco

ORRIN SHEAR

Eccentric Characters

Engaged

FRANK OPPERMAN

Supporting Millidge Sherwood
in King Lear

JAMES O'REILLY

Characters

Engaged Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

DAVE LERNER

Playing the David Warfield Roles
With Nat Field at Central Theatre

COL. D. P. STONER

Business Manager Newman Foltz Co.
Care Dramatic Review

THURLOW WHITE

Leads, Heavies

Address, Dramatic Review

HERBERT MILTON

Characters and Heavies

At Liberty Care of Dramatic Review

CHARLES E. GUNN

Leads

Care Dramatic Review

BERT PORTER

Juveniles

Newman-Foltz Co.

MAX WAIZMAN

Newman-Foltz Co.

ANNA RODGERS

Ingenues and Leads

At Liberty Care of Dramatic Review

EDWARD B. LADA

General Music Director
for Belasco & Mayer

A. BURT WESNER

Comedian

At Liberty Care Dramatic Review

TEDDY WEBB

Comedian, San Francisco Opera Co.
Direction Frank Healey

HARRY J. LASK

Representative New York Clipper
N. E. Cor. Sansome and Pine Sts.

HARRY MARSHALL

Scenic Artist

At Liberty. 3748 Vermont Ave., Los Angeles

MINOR REED

Scenic Artist

At Liberty Address Dramatic Review

CARRIE CLARKE WARDE

Characters

CHESTER STEVENS

Heavies

Grand Opera House Stock, Los Angeles

MARY HARVEY-BARBOUR

Leads (Versatile)

3d Ave. Theatre, Seattle

FREDERICK GILBERT

Burbank Stock, Los Angeles

ARTHUR SHEPPARD

Scenic Artist

Care Dramatic Review

HOWARD FOSTER

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

IRENE OUTTRIM

Willard Mack Co.—Salt Lake City.

PIETRO SOSSO

Chas. King Stock Co.

Pickwick Theatre, San Diego

ANITA MURRAY

Ingenue

At Liberty Care of Dramatic Review

HERMAN HELLER

Musical Director

Valencia Theatre Social engagements filled

DAN KELLY

Comedian

Care Dramatic Review

FLORENCE DAVENPORT

Ingenue or Soubrette

At Liberty. Care of Dramatic Review

GEORGIE WOODTHORPE

Characters

Broadway Theatre, Oakland

ALFRED ROWLAND

Supporting Millidge Sherwood in King
Lear, Season 1909-10.

Care Dramatic Review

LAURA LUCILE HEIMLICH

Leads

Everett, Wash.

FRED S. CUTLER

Manager Richard Jose

In "SILVER THREADS"

Address care Dramatic Review

OLGA GRAY

Leading Woman

Empire Stock Co., Fresno, Cal.

GEORGE VON BLIX

Stage Manager

Newman-Foltz Co.

Walter H. Newman AND Bertha Foltz

Starring Jointly

High-Class Repertoire

Season 1909 and 1910

Alf. T. Layne    Daisy D'Avra

Del Lawrence Stock, Victoria

Edith Lyle

Ye Liberty Stock, Oakland

Donald Bowles

Dramatic Director Geo. L. Baker's Attractions.
Address Bungalow Theatre, Portland, Oregon.
Loaned by Mr. Baker to direct Mr. James Neill's Company for him in St. Paul, Minn.

Neva West

Care Dramatic Review

Permanent Address, 2110 Post Street

Johnny Williams, Jr.

"FEISCO"

"The Man in Front." Can Book or Wild Cat

Louise Kent

In Vaudeville

Her Own Company

Pantages Circuit

Claire Sinclair

Second Business

Stock

Seattle Theatre, Seattle

E. P. Foot

GENERAL MUSICAL DIRECTOR

At Liberty

Care Grand Opera House

Mina Crolus Gleason

Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland

Louis Morrison

Belasco Stock Co.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Seibert & Lindley

Presenting the headline act, "HER OWN MOTHER," in vaudeville.

Sidney B. Payne

Lyric Stock, Portland, Or.

Sydney Ayres

Leading Man

Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, Cal.

Budd Ross

Comedian

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Al Hallett

Stage Director

Empire Stock, Fresno

F. F. Munier

Characters

Empire Stock, Fresno

Priscilla Knowles

Leads

Bennett Jack

Characters

Lyric Theatre, Portland

Carlton Chase

Leading Man

Kolb and Dill

Evelyn Selbie-Virginia Thornton

Alternating Leads

Frawley Co., Alaska

George B. Baldwin, Jr.

Alcazar Stock, San Francisco

Monroe Salisbury

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

James Austin Gleason—Webster Lucile

Playing Title Role in Checkers

Juveniles in Checkers

Godfrey Matthews

Second Business

Broadway Stock—Oakland, Cal.

Leslie King

Season with E. H. Sothorn

Closed June 17th

Immediately Engaged by
Frederic Thompson for Polly of the Circus
To open June 29th

Initial Western Tour of the Reigning Dramatic Success !!

HENRY B. HARRIS PRESENTS

The Third Degree

By Charles Klein, author of "The Lion and the Mouse." Direct from a seven months' run at Hudson Theatre, New York. Watch the San Francisco, Portland and Seattle daily papers.

The following Coast time will be played:

Oct. 11 and week—Los Angeles.....MASON OPERA HOUSE
Oct. 18, 2 weeks—San Francisco, Cal.....VAN NESS THEATRE
Nov. 1—Monterey, Cal.....T. A. WORK'S THEATRE
Nov. 2—San Jose, Cal.....THE VICTORY THEATRE
Nov. 3—Fresno, Cal.....BARTON OPERA HOUSE
Nov. 4—Stockton, Cal.....YOSEMITE THEATRE
Nov. 5—Sacramento, Cal.....CLUNIE THEATRE
Nov. 6—Marysville, Cal.....MARYSVILLE THEATRE
Nov. 8—Chico, Cal.....MAJESTIC THEATRE
Nov. 9—Red Bluff, Cal.....RED BLUFF OPERA HOUSE
Nov. 11—Eugene, Oregon.....EUGENE THEATRE
Nov. 12—Salem, Oregon.....NEW GRAND OPERA HOUSE
Nov. 13—Astoria, Oregon.....ASTORIA THEATRE
Nov. 14—Portland, Oregon.....HEILIG THEATRE
Nov. 21—Seattle, Wash.....MOORE THEATRE
Nov. 29—Victoria, B. C.....VICTORIA THEATRE

Nov. 30-Dec. 1—Vancouver, B. C.....VANCOUVER OP. HOUSE
Dec. 2—Bellingham, Wash.....BECK'S THEATRE
Dec. 3—Everett, Wash.....EVERETT THEATRE
Dec. 4-5—Tacoma, Wash.....TACOMA THEATRE
Dec. 6—Aberdeen, Wash.....GRAND THEATRE
Dec. 7—South Bend, Wash.....OPERA HOUSE
Dec. 8—Chehalis, Wash.....NEW THEATRE
Dec. 9—Ellensburg, Wash.....ELLENSBURG THEATRE
Dec. 10—North Yakima, Wash.....YAKIMA THEATRE
Dec. 11—Walla Walla, Wash.....KEYLOR GRAND THEATRE
Dec. 12-14—Spokane, Wash.....AUDITORIUM
Dec. 15—Colfax, Wash.....NEW RIDGEWAY THEATRE
Dec. 16—Wallace, Idaho.....MASONIC TEMPLE
Dec. 17—Missoula, Mont.....CORT'S THEATRE
Dec. 18—Anaconda, Mont.....MARGARET THEATRE
Dec. 19-21—Butte, Mont.....BROADWAY

Spotlights

George M. Cohan in person surrounded by his father, mother and sister together with a hundred other players, will be seen in The Yankee Prince, one of Mr. Cohan's greatest success at the Van Ness Theatre late next month. Tom Lewis, the well-known character actor, is with the company and plays the role of Steve Daly, the manager of prize fights.

Victor Morley, the well-known musical comedy star, is at the head of the big company to come here with the production of Three Twins. Bessie Clifford, one of the most popular young women on the stage, is also in the cast.

The Barrier, a dramatization of Rex Beach's novel by Eugene Presbrey, is one of the big successes of Klaw & Erlanger and Joseph Brooks. The play made an emphatic hit at its premiere in Rochester. Mr. Presbrey tells the story in four acts. In the first he has Mr. Beach's two virile men, John Gale, the trader (Theodore Roberts) and Dan Stark, the gambler (W. S. Hart), meet at the end of the frontier after eighteen years of flight and pursuit. The curtain falls with the young Kentucky soldier aghast at the idea of having proposed marriage to a half-breed. Full realization by his characters of the situation develops in the second act. In the third primal emotions are permitted to sweep away the barriers of law and social conventionality. The two armed men fight in the dark. With the light comes the girl. The meeting of the two young people, a line of confession and forgiveness ends the play. Florence Rockwell, as the girl Necia, the supposed half-breed, has the best opportunity of her career. She reveals unexpected ability along emotional lines and deserves the approbation she has received. Alphonz Ethier gives a capital piece of character work as Poleon Doret, the devoted Frenchman, and Guinio Solola cleverly provides the relieving strain of humor as "No Creek" Lee.

The Climax continues at Joe Weber's Theatre, New York, to audiences which show no signs of decreasing either in numbers or enthusiasm. The ambition, struggles, disappointments and ultimate triumph of Adelina, the girl with the prima donna voice, cause The Climax to be the greatest hit since The Music Master. The secret of this drama's success lies in its deep appeal to the heart. Each audience laughs and cries with Adelina. The Climax is now in its seventh month at Weber's Theatre, and will no doubt continue there for some time to come.

Joseph Weber and his company in the travesty of The Merry Widow and the Devil, are now playing at the Broadway Theatre, Brooklyn, New York, for a short engagement prior to a tour of the country. Mr. Weber is booked as far West as San Francisco and will not return to New York until May, when he comes to the Academy of Music. The Merry Widow and The Devil played for over a year is the travesty of the Merry Widow. at Weber's Theatre on Broadway.

An Englishman who found a picture in a magazine of Elsie Ferguson on the coast of Malay, wrote to the London favorite, who is now playing in New York, for her photograph, and got it, with her autograph. Pretty good press agent dope that, for Miss Ferguson, eh?

The Greatest Cast of Singers Headed by THOS. H. PERSSE Tenor EDITH MASON Soprano	Now Booking Season 1909 &amp; 10 The Persse-Mason Co. In the New Operatic Comedy The Singing Bandits Book and Music by HERMAN PERLET THOS. H. PERSSE.....Sole Proprietor LOUIS LISSNER.....Manager Permanent Address: Dramatic Review, Van Ness Theatre Building, San Francisco	Everything Complete — New Scenery — Excellent Music — Quartette of Comedians
---	---	---

Season	William Stoermer Presents	09-10
Millidge Sherwood In a Sumptuous Scenic Revival of ... King Lear ... Car of Scenery      25 People      Beautifully Costumed Two "Ahead"

Pacific Coast Tour early in 1910
Company headed by Estha Williams	AS THE SUN WENT DOWN By Geo. D. Baker	Address ARTHUR C. AISTON Sole Owner Room 304 1505 Broadway N. Y. City Tel. 941 Bryant

THE SAN FRANCISCO DRAMATIC REVIEW

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Published Continuously Since 1880. The Only Theatrical Publication in the Great West

Ten Cents a Copy—$4.00 a Year

San Francisco, Saturday, October 23, 1909

No. 9—Vol. XXI—New Series

Florence
Oakley

The Fortune Hunter Tells of a Young Man Who Found That Goodness Pays

A young man once rich finds himself poor. He tries work and fails. His employers discharge him. He is proficient at cocktails and cigarettes; a failure apparently at everything else.

He is ashamed to ask further help from friends, and reluctantly makes up his mind to turn fortune hunter and marry a rich girl.

His wise friend says to him:

"Move to a little dull town.

"Dress very plainly and very elegantly. Don't drink, don't smoke, don't swear.

"Go to church. Board with an old widow, if you can find one.

"Have serious books and a large Bible where everybody can see them on your table.

"Don't laugh, don't smile. Don't pay any attention to young women, get a job and work hard.

"In every little town there's at least one girl worth a million.

"You'll marry her.

"I don't ask you to propose to her for her money. That would be dishonorable.

"She'll propose to you; then you accept her and marry her and give me back the five hundred dollars that I'm going to lend you and pay me a thousand dollars more."

That is the beginning of the play, The Fortune Hunter, now running at the Gaiety Theatre on the corner of Broadway and Forty-Sixth street, says the New York Journal. We occasionally advise our readers to go and see a good play—we advise them to see The Fortune Hunter, and find out what happens to the young man who starts out to marry the richest girl in the small town.

The advice of the friend who lends the five hundred dollars works perfectly. The richest girl in the town asks the young fortune hunter to marry her. But the play has no such sordid end.

The young man finds that hard work alone can make life worth while, and he finds that a simple, earnest girl, with no money, is a great deal better than money or anything else.

This is a wholesome play, amusing, pleasing in its sentiment, thoroughly moral.

It is admirably acted by a good company.

And the principal actor, John Barrymore, can be, and will be, if he chooses, the most popular young man on the stage in this country or in England.

He is a man born to act; he obtains results and delights his audience by the most simple, natural methods. His grandmother, the mother of John Drew, was a famous actress. His father, Maurice Barrymore, was an actor of great power. His sister is Ethel Barrymore, and more important, he himself is a young man destined to make a great success and a large fortune on the stage, if he makes up his mind that it is worth while to work hard to earn public approval.

Men and women and boys and girls of all ages will like the play that we recommend today, and ought to see it.

Young Mr. Barrymore is a most pleasing individual, in looks and in real ability. Later we shall probably request our distinguished collaborators, Nell Brinkley and Beatrice Fairfax, to analyze his personal charms, in pictures and in words.

It is heartbreaking to think how many fluffy-haired young women are destined to dream and moon about this young man. But he can't help that, and perhaps, after all, it does the fluffy-haired young people no real harm. They must dream of something.

Some playwrights, some actors and some managers have an idea that New York wants plays vulgar or worse than vulgar.

We predict for this excellent, moral

The Oliver Morosco Enterprises

HOME OFFICE
BURBANK THEATRE BUILDING
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Oliver Morosco's Plays

Ready for Stock

The Judge and the Jury      The Halfbreed
The Empress and the Soldier
In South Carolina

Is the New Majestic a winner? Well, we guess yes

MOROSCO'S
BURBANK THEATRE
Los Angeles, Cal.
"The Best in the West"
The Leading Stock House.

Hamburger's MAJESTIC Theatre
The Handsomest in the West
Cost $300,000.00
Oliver Morosco, Lessee & Mgr
For time address JOHN CORT

play a success so overwhelming as to prove that the good play is the thing that good citizens want, and that a majority of the citizens are good.

The Art of Making Up

James Young, the well known Shakespearean actor, who is the Orpheum headliner in Oakland this week, is the author of this book of one hundred and eighty pages. Many months of painstaking effort and expense were involved in securing the data necessary to form the material comprising the volume. The book is educational in its purpose, being practical in every detail of the art of portraying character by means of paint, powder and wigs. Much of the material is given to the public in printed form for the first time. It is a book every actor, whether he be a professional or whether he be an amateur, should have in his library.

Locke of Wall Street

Locke of Wall Street is an American play dealing with the manipulation of mining stocks by one George Locke of Butte, Montana, who by speculation has amassed a fortune. Edith Locke (Miss Nethersole), a refined Southern woman, while teaching school in Montana, marries Locke, who was then actively engaged as an operative miner. Their change in fortune locates them in New York, where the action of the play occurs. Locke, to further a bearish action of the market in his favor, excites the miners to strike and succeeds by graft in having the militia fire upon the disgruntled ones. The strike leader, an old friend of Locke and his wife, and once a suitor of the latter, comes to New York to settle the misunderstanding. From him, Mrs. Locke learns of her husband's business trickery. This discovery and a forgery committed by her degenerate brother, while speculating as Locke is, causes her to realize that her husband is little better than a thief. A separation is narrowly averted, partly through the influence of Locke's daughter and partly by the miner. Then Mrs. Locke destroys the business distinction between her husband and the strike leader, makes them meet on an equality, man to man, and reconciles them in a daring, highly dramatic and tangible feasible solution of the labor problem, that of practical co-operation.

Kyrle Bellew is Near to Death From Sneeze

BUFFALO, Oct. 14.—That Kyrle Bellew did not bleed to death early today in his room at the Hotel Statler is one of the mysteries of the medical profession. Mr. Bellew ruptured a blood vessel of the nose while sneezing as the result of a cold and bled so much that he became alarmed and summoned his companion actor, Charles O'Connor, who had an adjoining room. Two physicians were sent for and with some difficulty stopped the bleeding. Mr. Bellew was in such a weakened condition that he was unable to leave his bed all day.

Blanche Bates to Spade

PORTLAND, Oct. 16.—Blanche Bates, protegee of David Belasco and heroine of several of his plays, last week placed a daintily shod foot against a spade blade and turned the first sod in the construction of the new Heilig Theatre. The mayor, the council, the bondholders of the theatre corporation and a few hundred followers of the drama and admirers of the actress were the audience. Eight blocks away from the place where Miss Bates performed manual labor is a small ramshackle cottage. This was the birthplace of the actress not very much more than a quarter of a century ago. Miss Bates herself asked for permission to break ground for the new playhouse. The digging was done with no ordinary spade. Portland wood formed the handle. Oregon gold plated the blade. Excavation for the theatre's foundations began immediately after the ceremony. The Heilig is situated at Seventh and Taylor streets, and will cost $150,000.

Helen Redmond, leading woman with Joe Weber in his travesty, The Merry Widow and The Devil, is a great beauty and one of the most popular women who has ever sung in musical productions. Two years ago Miss Redmond married a wealthy physician and decided to retire from the stage. Like so many actresses who have formed similar decisions, she found the call of the footlights too strong to resist and as the "widow" in the Weber production she is adding to her past successes.

Would You

If You Had

THE THE AND THE Time-Place-Girl

Go to Garrick Theatre

Week Starting October 24th

—VISIT WITH—

Robert Pitkin

—AND—

Elizabeth Goodall

.. .. AND THE SIXTY REAL ARTISTS .. ..

Hotel St. James

Cor. Van Ness Ave. and Fulton St.
San Francisco, California

Headquarters for Agents and Managers

Half Block from Van Ness Theatre.
Friars meet at the St. James every Friday night.

F. P. SHANLEY, Manager, formerly of New York

Billie Burke

Here is a picture of piquant Billie Burke—one of the so-different kind. It was snapped at Cheyenne, and inspired by the beautiful scenery in the railroad yards. Miss Burke is engaging her manager, Victor de Kiraly, in an animated discussion as to the chances of leaving Cheyenne on time.

Paul Taylor Killed

Paul Taylor, a widely-known actor, was hit by a large dray, Monday evening, October 4th, in New York City, and died twenty minutes later in a hospital. Paul Taylor was born in Philadelphia and went with his parents to Missouri to live. He entered the theatrical profession at an early age and made his first large appearance with Tom Keene, playing with him four years. He created the original role of the Bashful Boy in the Dairy Farm. Mr. Taylor was a member of the Ben Greet Company for two years, and was associated with the Carrie Radcliffe Stock Company, and Forepaugh's Stock of Philadelphia, and the Baker Stock of Wildwood, N. J. He became a favorite among theatregoers during his five years' association with the Stanford and Western Stock Company of Frankford. He was 39 years of age and just in the prime of his theatrical career. Mr. Taylor had many friends and was known from coast to coast, and his misfortune means a great loss to the theatre world, as he was one of the ablest comedians in the East. His relatives could not be located, and through the kindness of Messrs. Maurice Stanford and Earle Western, managers of the Empire Theatre and with whom Mr. Taylor was associated for five years, had his body brought to Philadelphia on Wednesday morning and given a decent burial. Many friends were present, and Maurice Stanford, Earle Western, Walter D. Mahnard and Carson Davenport officiated as pallbearers.

Grand Theatre of Reno Closed

RENO, Oct. 13.—The Grand Theatre on Virginia street in this city, a vaudeville house which has been running for several years, has closed its doors and will probably never open again as a theatre. The house was closed by S. W. Upson, who held two mortgages on it, having had them assigned to him by the Washoe County Bank. The full amount due on the mortgages is only $3,700.

Opera Directors Offer Music Scholarships

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—It was announced that to encourage the development of operatic talent, certain directors of the Metropolitan Opera House had offered four free scholarships at the Institute of Musical Art. These scholarships, which are open to young American singers possessing good voices and talent, are to be obtained only through competitive examinations. From those competing a number will be selected for a final test before Madame Milka Ternina, who will choose the four most promising for the scholarships.

First Trouble in New Theatre

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Rumors of strife among the members of the New Theatre organization continue to be heard along the Rialto. Ever since the clash of authority between E. H. Sothern, the Shakespearean actor, and Louis Calvert, general stage manager who was brought here from London, there has been persistent rumors that Mr. Calvert was to resign. Whether this be true or not, Mr. Sothern seems to have won his point in the manner in which the rehearsals of Antony and Cleopatra, in which he is to star with Julia Marlowe, are to be conducted. Mr. Sothern was in absolute command of the rehearsals yesterday, and will continue to whip the production into shape until it is presented next month at the opening performances. It was reported today that there is keen rivalry between Miss Marlowe and Rose Coghlan for certain roles in the various plays which are to be produced during the winter. Miss Marlowe, it is said, has made known her wishes as to which roles she would like to appear in. She denied, however, that there was any feeling between herself and Miss Coghlan or any other member of the New Theatre cast.

Sisters of Roland Reed Destitute

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—Louise and Florence Reed, the sisters of the late Roland Reed, the comedian, were found wandering in the streets of Philadelphia in abject poverty yesterday. They have lost their home, they are wholly without income, and they will not ask for assistance. Both of them are past 60, and one is an invalid. In the summer they occupy benches in the park at night, but now they find shelter in a rookery on Randolph street. It is reported that the police have often taken them to the station house to feed them, having found them famishing in the streets.

Madison's Budget No. 12, Just Out
Parent's Stationery Co., 818 Van Ness Avenue, S. F.

ANNUAL
TOUR OF

THE ELLEFORD COMPANY

IN LATEST DRAMATIC ROYALTY SUCCESSES
Pacific Coast Representative for Brady and Gishner's
MAN OF THE HOUSE and WAY DOWN EAST
"A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI"

W. J. ELLEFORD, Sole Proprietor and Director
FRANK WYMAN, Manager
WILLIS BASS, Business Manager
Permanent Address, Francis-Valentine Co., 285-287 13th St., S. F.

They owe their misfortune to having been good to every one except themselves. Their brother kept up a home in which the family was reared. It is on Darien street, in a good residential section in former years. They had money when he died, but were careless of it and impoverished themselves giving to others. Then they had to sell their home and gradually sank in poverty until left with nothing. They cling to the old neighborhood, although it is now in ill repute, not knowing elsewhere to go.

Light on the Accent

Regarding the much discussed pronunciation of "Portola," Gertrude Atherton, the novelist and an authority on Spanish, has contributed the following:

"If Portola had been a Castilian his name would have been pronounced PORTola or PorTOla; but being a Catalan it was pronounced PortoLA. It will be noticed that the correspondent of Mr. Briggs (Mr. Briggs is secretary of the Board of Trade), in the Royal Spanish Academy assumed that Portola was a Castilian, whereas it is well known that he was a native of Catalonia."

Henry Miller Pleases London Critics

Apropos of Henry Miller's appearance in London with The Great Divide, a couple of opinions will be interesting. The reviewers have praised his acting in the most lavish terms. The Daily Telegraph says of him: "One of the greatest factors in the indubitable success of The Great Divide was an exceedingly fine piece of acting by the hero of the drama Henry Miller. Mr. Miller is a kind of American Guitry—we know of no better way of explaining his method and style. Mr. Miller has power, a bluff and masterful bearing, and when he is on the stage he usually stands absolutely still." The Pall Mall Gazette said: "There is no performance before London playgoers at the present moment stronger, more human or rounded off with a finer art than the Stephen Ghent of Mr. Henry Miller, and his popularity with last night's audience was unbounded."

New Theatre for Sacramento

Last week the contract was let by Jacob Zemansky to the firm of Turner & Campbell for the building of an up-to-date vaudeville playhouse on the property owned by Zemansky on K street, near Third on the south side of the street, in the city of Sacramento. The cost of the building will be about $20,000. Zemansky intends to run the place as a Class A vaudeville theatre. It will seat about 1,100 people. It is not to be a remodeled structure. It will have a handsome front, and an entrance finished in marble and tiling. The whole building will occupy a

New Oxnard Opera House

OXNARD, CAL.

Best stage between Frisco and Los Angeles. Playing all of the best shows that come to the Coast. Doing good business. Write for open time.

GONZALES OPERA HOUSE

GONZALES, CAL.

New, well appointed theatre, electric lighted. Full stock of new scenery. C. H. WIDEMAN, Mgr.

WOODLAND Opera House

WOODLAND, -CAL.

Greatest show town for good shows in the West. A few good dates open in September and October. Stage big enough for any production. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

Hill Opera House

PETALUMA, CAL.

JOHN R. ROCHE, Lessee and Manager

The finest theatrical town outside of the big cities in the West. Magnificent new theatre, with stage large enough for any attraction, playing regularly from $500 to $100 a night. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

287 Thirteenth St., S. F.

BARCROFT Opera House, Merced

Entirely remodeled. New stage, big enough for any production. Stage equipped with new scenery. Merced has 1,000 population. For time write F. R. BARCROFT, Manager.

Santa Cruz OPERA HOUSE

Santa Cruz, Cal

L. A. KNIGHT, Manager

Rental or will play first-class companies on percentage

H. Lewin

H. Oppenheim

GORDAN TAILORING CO.

928 Market St., Bet. Powell and Mason
FINE CLOTHES MODERATE PRICES
No Branch Stores

NEW AUDITORIUM

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CAL.

Seating capacity, 1,000; new stage; new scenery; stage thirty feet deep, sixty feet wide; large enough for any production; a population of 5,000 to draw from; now booking for 1909-10.
Address WALTER A. CLARK, Mountain View, Cal.

space 40x160. It will be completed in four months.

Trouble in Vancouver

Charged with producing an immoral and obscene play, the Armstrong Musical Comedy Company is meeting with plenty of trouble at Vancouver, British Columbia. According to reports from Vancouver, Armstrong put on a show week before last which did not meet with the approval of the authorities. The play is said to have been obscene and to have aroused a large amount of unfavorable criticism as a result of which the chief of police viewed a performance and then ordered the house closed. As a result of allowing the show it is stated that the management of the theatre is likely to lose its license and that the Armstrong company may not again be allowed to play in Canada.

WM. DESMOND is now playing leads with the Woodward stock in Kansas City.

Fernanda Eliscu in Charles Klein's latest play, The Third Degree, now playing at the Van Ness Theatre

Margaret Illington Applies for Her Divorce

RENO, Oct. 18.—Margaret Illington, wife of Daniel Frohman, today filed a complaint for divorce in the Reno District Court. She alleges failure to provide. Mrs. Daniel Frohman surprised the theatrical world last February by declaring that she hated the stage, intended to retire to a life of domesticity, and would get a divorce from her manager-husband. Soon after she took up her residence in this city. At the time of the announcement of the impending divorce action, E. J. Bowes, a wealthy young real estate operator and San Francisco clubman, was prominently mentioned as Daniel Frohman's ultimate successor, and Miss Illington did not deny the accuracy of the report. Daniel Frohman, in an interview telegraphed from New York, said that he knew all about his wife's intentions, that they had conferred together and reached an amicable agreement, and that Bowes was a nice young man. Mrs. Frohman in her declared preference for a life of domesticity, went so far as to assert that she would rather darn her husband's socks than score the biggest possible success on the stage. At the time of abandoning the footlights she was starring profitably in The Thief and had won recognition as a player of decided force and ability.

The Orpheum

The Orpheum's program for next week maintains the highest standard of vaudeville and includes several acts that have recently created a furore in the old world. Mlle. Bianci who with her company of terpsichorean artists heads the bill, is the leading exponent of the classic dance in Europe. For her engagement in this city she has designed four numbers which exhibit her grace, skill and versatility to the greatest advantage. She has named them the Dresden China Dance, Egyptian, La Dance En Volant, and Satanella. Hal Godfrey and his company will present the diverting skit, A Very Bad Boy. Mr. Godfrey is an able dramatist and an exceptionally clever character comedian. Keno, Walsh and Melrose, famous comedy gymnasts, can always be depended upon to provide something novel. This season they are appearing in what they term The Revolving Arch. General Edward La Vine, who will be in amusing evidence in his unique comedy juggling act, is styled The Man Who Has Soldiered All His Life. The stage setting for his act is a battlefield and in his burlesque of a soldier, preliminary to his juggling, he is excruciatingly funny. Next week will be the last of Howard and Howard, Martinettie and Sylvester, the Boys with the Chairs; Ballerini's Canine Tumblers, and that clever and enjoyable light comedian, George Bloomquest, in his merry farce, Nerve. A new series of motion pictures will conclude one of the best entertainments of its kind ever offered in this city.

Alcazar Theatre

For the first time by a stock company anywhere, Becky Sharp will be presented next Monday evening and throughout the week in the Alcazar. As its title indicates, the play is founded on Thackeray's Vanity Fair, dealing with the adventures of the woman who is the very life of that famous novel. She is the most irresistible adventure in all the pages of English literature. Langdon Mitchell made the adaptation expressly for Mrs. Fiske, who appeared in it ten years ago at the California Theatre, where it ran three weeks at unusually high prices. In the Alcazar production Evelyn Vaughan will have the title part, which she has been studying a month. In the play there are four acts, thirty-five speaking characters and many supernumeraries. Mr. Mitchell has constructed a work that is sprightly in humor, graphic in illuminative detail, picturesque in action and true to literary ideals of the highest kind. Other portrayals will be that of Rawdon Crawley by Will R. Walling the Marquis of Steyne by Louis Bennison, Sir Pitt Crawley by Charles Dow Clark, Pitt Crawley, Jr., by Howard Hickman, Lieutenant Dobbin by James Corrigan, Major Loder by George Baldwin, Amelia Osborne by Bessie Barriscale, Miss Crawley by Adele Belgarde, the Marchioness of Steyne by Christie MacLean, Lady Jane by Grace Travers and Briggs by Anne Lockhardt. Sumptuous staging is made admissible by the places (London and Brussels), the period (1815-28) and the people (mostly aristocrats) of the play. The first act takes place at Miss Crawley's residence in Park Lane, the second at the Duchess of Richmond's ball in Brussels on the eve of the Battle of Waterloo, the third act at Becky's house in Mayfair, and the fourth at her lodgings in Pumpnickel. The ball-room scene—made famous by Byron's poem—will be the most elaborate and beautiful ever presented in the Alcazar, where some magnificent stage pictures have been witnessed.

Valencia Theatre

The Ringmaster, a drama of intrigue and graft on Wall Street, will begin its second and last week this Sunday evening, with the usual matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. The first work of Olive Porter, a young New Yorker, holds the interest firmly by the force of its appeal to the elementary human love of a contest, to the working out of opposing ideals and to seeing somebody get the better of somebody else. In it there is enough quick action, excitement and love to satisfy the most ardent devotee of melodramatic entertainment, and the third act, particularly, where young LeBaron, played by H. S. Northrup, secures sufficient of the stock of the railroad to defeat the proposed combine, is intensely dramatic with its stock office atmosphere, telephone conversations and surprising situations, the climax leading up to a point where the tension is of the keenest. The second act, which takes place on board the steam yacht, Nomadic, is full of novel effects and in it wireless telegraphy plays a most important part. The same scale of prices, ranging from one dollar to twenty-five cents, will prevail as during Portola week. Eddie Foy, undoubtedly America's greatest musical comedian, with a company of seventy-five, will appear in Mr. Hamlet of Broadway at the Valencia Theatre, commencing Sunday night, October 31. There are many stranger things in Heaven and Earth, Horatio, than are dreamed of in your philosophy," said Hamlet to his friend, and Eddie Foy's Hamlet is one of them. It is the strangest Hamlet that the stage has ever seen and that it is the funniest goes without saying.

LEVY'S BIG TRUNK STORE

INCORPORATED
COAST AGENTS
FOR THE

Taylor Trunks

687 Market St., S. F. opp. GENERAL REPAIRING
Kearny Phone Douglas 3192

Nanyang Industrial Exposition

Nanking, China

MAY TO NOVEMBER, 1910

China's First National Exposition

One Hundred Million Population within Radius of One Hundred Miles

ONLY TEN SHOWS ON THE MIDWAY

Thirty per cent. You erect buildings.

Can arrange to work the great MANILA CARNIVAL, February 7th to 17th, 1910.

If you cable, prepay answer. Address,

GEORGE MOOSER

Representative

P. O. Box 623, American Consulate, SHANGHAI

Cable Address, MOOSER, SHANGHAI.

Novelty Theatre, San Francisco TO RENT

By the day, week or month. Fine, comfortable theatre, seating 1,200 people.
Large stage.

SPECIALLY ADAPTED TO POLITICAL MEETINGS

Ferris Hartman Is Making Real Money in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—Much attention is being given to the benefit being arranged by the members of the Theatrical Mechanics' Association. This benefit will be given at the Auditorium on Friday afternoon, Nov. 5. The program is a very elaborate one and practically every theatre in the city will be represented. Blanche Hall has again resumed her place of leading woman with the Burbank company. Miss Hall says that she is quite in love with Honolulu where she spent her vacation, and she hopes to play there at some future time. Ferris Hartman and his company are back with us once more and it is a joy to welcome them. Julian Johnson's play, Invasion, at the Burbank, has been postponed for three weeks. Anna Little, a member of the Ferris Hartman company, is to marry Al Kauffman, the prize fighter. Miss Little is at present with the company at the Grand, but Dame Rumor says that she will not be there long. Walter DeLeon, the juvenile man of Ferris Hartman's company, has built a specialty around The Rough Rider Man, a song by W. O. MacGeehan of San Francisco. Word comes to us of the success of another Los Angeles favorite. Eugene Nowland, a local musician, is now playing at the Victoria Theatre in Baltimore, but he has just signed a contract with the William Morris vaudeville circuit for 52 weeks. Dorothy Morton, the operatic star, is one of the financial backers of the Ferris Hartman company. Miss Morton and Hartman have taken a lease of the Grand and are going to give us a season of real musical comedy. Occasionally Miss Morton will appear with the company and we will have an opportunity to hear her fine soprano voice. Mr. Morosco has announced that he will try out five new plays by local playwrights within the next few months. Speaking of new plays calls our attention to the fact that Mr. Morosco's genial press agent is also writing a play. This is not the first attempt of Mr. Lawrence in this line and we hope to soon have the pleasure of seeing his work produced by Mr. Morosco's Burbank players. In the near future Mrs. Harry Glazier will become associated with the School of Vocal Philosophy in the Majestic building. There is a rumor about town that Bessie Tannehill is going starring in Hoyt's play, A Stranger in New York. John W. Considine, one of the owners and the active head of the Sullivan & Considine vaudeville circuit, is in town to inspect the improvements that Manager Boyer has been making in the Los Angeles Theatre. Henry Stockbridge, proprietor of the Stockbridge kennels at Glendale, is rejoicing in the arrival of eight thoroughbred bull pups; each of them is, according to the owner, a prospective blue ribboner. Tuesday night the Theatrical Treasurers' Association held a business meeting at the Majestic Theatre. After the meeting was over the members were entertained at the home of the new recording secretary, Ira Joseph, at dinner.

Wednesday night there was a calico festival given at the Grand Army Hall in Glendale by the members of the Belasco and Burbank companies.

AUDITORIUM—This is the second week of Mlle. Mischief at the Auditorium. Corinne is as attractive as ever and the attendance has not diminished in the least. It is a good performance and deserves the patronage it is receiving at the hands of the theatre-goers of Los Angeles.

BELASCO—Old Heidelberg as given by the Belasco company was such a success last week that the management just had to continue it for one more week. Mr. Stone is an ideal Karl Heinrich and each member of the company does well. The bill for next week is The County Chairman.

BURBANK—My Wife, Michael Morton's comedy, is the bill for this week at the Burbank. This play has been given here by practically the same players who are in the cast of the present production and also by John Drew and Billie Burke. There is not much that is new to say of the play. It is well known but always popular and the members of the Burbank company seem perfectly at home in their respective parts. Blanche Hall makes her reappearance with the company and is being given a very cordial welcome by the patrons of the house. She makes an ideal Trixie Dupre-Eversleigh, dainty and roguish; she displays a thorough understanding of the part. Mr. Beasley gives a very good portrait of Gerald Eversleigh. Mr. Mestayer has a good part that he plays well. David M. Hartford is cast as the dueling Frenchman; William Yerance as Trixie's father and Henry Stockbridge is very amusing as the Hon. "Gibby" Gore. The balance of the company is well cast and the whole performance is very pleasing.

MASON—A Gentleman from Mississippi, by Tom Wise and Harrison Rhodes, a political comedy-drama, the scenes of which are all laid in the city of Washington, proves itself to be unusually entertaining. James Lackaye gives a most natural and convincing picture of the big, unsophisticated Senator from Mississippi. Osborne Searle, as Bud Hains, the instructive secretary, does splendid work. Owing to an accident, Olive Harper, who has the part of Mrs. Spangler, is unable to appear, and her place is being most capably filled by Mrs. Florence Oberle of Los Angeles, who assumed this role at an hour's notice. The balance of the cast are satisfactory.

MAJESTIC—In Dreamland carries us back to the days of Superba, with its tricks, illusions, electrical effects, and rapid fire comedy. Emmet Devoy, the author of many vaudeville sketches, has stretched this from a twenty-minute sketch to the length of a three-act play, and assumes the role of the lively Bob Hammond. This same Bob Hammond, through his belief and trust in a couple of fake spiritualists, is the center of what plot there is, and causes much amusement. Harmonie Stone, as the Venus, looks the part.

William Hurst, as Bob's valet, is satisfactory. The balance of the company are capable and help to make this one of those entertaining, improbable absurdities.

ORPHEUM—Heading this week's bill is Rosario Guerrero in a pantomime dance, The Dagger and the Rose. Gracefully and vividly she pictures the tragedy with her very clever dancing. Murray and Mack, well known locally, received a warm welcome from former admirers, in a sketch called A Harlem Argument. Tom Waters with his pianologue is making a large hit, judging by the applause and laughter he brings forth from the audience. Spalding and Riego offer a very good comedy act as gymnasts. Heading the holdovers, and still the popular bits of the whole bill are Lee and Wynn in The Billikin Freshman, and the excellent sketch, Circumstantial Evidence. Also Rosa Crouch and George Welch—filling out a very good bill.

GRAND—If there is any doubt as to the popularity of the Ferris Hartman company, that doubt can be easily dispelled by just standing outside of the Grand Opera House and watching the crowds that are turned away at every performance. Mr. Hartman offers us good clean comedy and the work of the entire company is excellent. The Yankee Consul is the bill for the opening week. There is not much of a plot to the piece but the music is good and there is opportunity for some of the Hartman comedy. Walter Catlett does a good bit of comedy work; Muggins Davies and Walter De Leon are both seen to advantage in their roles. Oscar Walsh's splendid tenor pleases as usual. Josephine Isleib who is not overly pretty, sings and acts well in the role of Bonita. Josie Hart has a character part as does Anna Little. Joseph Fogarty is also seen in a character part. There is a good looking chorus and it is well directed by John A. Raynes.

LOS ANGELES—The bill for the week at the Los Angeles Theatre is a very good one. One of the best acts on the program is furnished by James F. Dolan and his company in a sketch called The High Toned Burglar. It is a clever sketch and is well acted. Mort Sharp and his Dancing Belles also give a very excellent number. This is a musical specialty entitled An Echo from the Plantation. Mr. Sharp does a good bit of dancing during the number. Two of the acts hail from Australia, we are told; one is done by the Steele Sisters, who sing Coster ditties and present a number of quick character changes; the other is an acrobatic stunt by the Ahlberg Brothers. There is a clever comedy skit by McFarland and Murray, called The Millionaire and the Ice Man. Armada, the Spanish violinist, does fine work on that instrument. Motion pictures complete the bill.

FISCHER'S—Chas. Alphin's offering at the little First street house this week is called A Trip to Mexico. The hit of the show is made by Dave Morris in a Hebrew impersonation. The leading woman, Maude Rockwell, has ample opportunity this week to show what she can do and her rendition of La Paloma is fine. Blossom Seeley, the soubrette, does good work as she always does. Jules

Maud Potter

Among the attractive bits of femininity that have taken San Francisco by storm this week is dainty Maud Potter, the soubrette of The Honey-moon Trail. Miss Potter was last year the ingenue of the Bush Temple stock in Chicago, and in this, her second, season in musical comedy, she has made a pronounced hit. Indeed, so clever has her work appeared to a prominent Eastern manager that he has made her a very tempting offer to star in a new musical comedy.

Mendel is seen to advantage in a character comedy role. Flo Sherlock, Richard Kipling and Harry Oakes all do well. The musical numbers are well given and the chorus shows good training.

UNIQUE—The two vaudeville acts at the Unique are both very clever. Reyel and Derry do stunts on the trapeze and Roman rings. Alva York's number is a comedy singing act. The Unique players appear in a one-act melodrama entitled Logan's Luck. Two new members are seen for the first time this week, Miss Comstock and Mr. Peck. Others of the company who are seen in good parts are, Al Franks, Herbert Cramer, James Spencer, Lillian Rose and Minnie Janicki.

WALKER—A Merry Whirl is the title of the bill at the Walker Theatre for this week. It is made up of good comedy, real musical numbers and sprightly dancing. The principal characters in the piece are two Germans, a Jew and an American girl. Arthur Clamage and Henry Auerbach are the two Germans and Allen Curtis is Bizzy Izzy. Annie Baumann is the American heiress and Charles Figg the Easterner. Annie Baumann sings Senora with an accompanying Spanish dance. Estelle Praeger sings Rainbow. The whole program is a very excellent one.

REGAL—The bill for the week at the Regal includes Mallan, Howard and McGraf in a singing and dancing act; Rooney and Rickards in the sketch, The First Quarrel; and Helen Neilson, comedienne.

Florence Emery.

JOHN INCE will be the new leading man at the Alcazar, opening a week from Monday. Mr. Ince has been playing in stock in Salt Lake.

Correspondence

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Lest any one might think that Robert Edeson is only a comedian, he last week presented as a curtain raiser to the farce, The Noble Spaniard, a one-act military play of the Philippines, The Outpost, by James F. J. Archibald, in which tragedy was heaped on tragedy. Mr. Edeson as Jeff and Macey Harlam as Billy, were United States soldiers on picket duty in the jungle. It developed that both loved the same girl at home, but Jeff had held out Billy's letters from her, and only when Billy by a feat of marksmanship saved his life from a native sharpshooter, did his conscience become active enough to cause him to make up his mind to give them to the man for whom they were intended. * * * Klaw & Erlanger presented for the first time on any stage at the Forrest Theatre, in Philadelphia, on Wednesday evening Mlle. Adeline Genée, the famous dancer, in a new musical play by Harry B. Smith, entitled The Silver Star. The music is by Robert Hood Bowers, with interpolations by Jerome and Schwartz and William A. Helen. The special ballet compositions are by C. J. M. Glasser, of Vienna and London. More than one hundred comedians, singers and dancers are employed. The play opens in front of the mansion of Mr. Wiseheimer (Barney Bernard) on Fifth avenue on Christmas eve. Professor Dingelblatz (Geo. Bickel) and Dr. Hornblower (Harry Watson) have been expelled from an itinerant band. They are penniless, and are scheming how to obtain food when they are joined by their adopted daughter, Viola (Elphye Snowden). Mr. Wiseheimer's daughter was stolen eighteen years before the opening of the play. He is giving a children's ball, and from the window spies the musicians and the girl. The resemblance of Viola to his daughter leads him to invite the trio into the house. Ernest Connor (Lee Harrison) schemes with the musicians to pass the girl off as Wiseheimer's daughter. The only clue is a silver star which the child wore the day she was kidnapped. Connor has had copies made of this star. Wiseheimer is deceived and the act closes with the Christmas Fairy played by Mlle. Genée, distributing presents from the tree. Mr. Wiseheimer takes his daughter to Europe. All the characters attend a masquerade ball. Because the musicians have refused to share their allowance with Connor, he schemes to substitute Rosa, a gypsy girl (Clara Dayton), for Viola. She overhears him say she is not the daughter of Wiseheimer, and like Cinderella, she disappears at midnight. The last act is laid on the banks of the Thames, where Viola and her father again meet, and it is proven to the satisfaction of all that she really is his daughter. * * * One of the funniest things in George M. Cohan's new show isn't in the show at all—or, rather, it isn't supposed to be. It comes at the end of the second act, when, in response to the hosts of admirers out front, Mr. Raymond Hitchcock responded with a speech of thanks. As Mr. Peter Dailey used to say, it was not so much the matter of the speech as the manner in which it was rendered. Mr. Hitchcock will undoubtedly be called upon to repeat the speech, as many nights in fact, as The Man Who Owns Broadway continues to justify its title, and from its opening success it will be a long stayer. And so it would be depriving future visitors to the New York of half their fun to tell them what he had to say about the discovery of the north pole. To tell them how he said it might be acted, but it can't be told. However, Mr. Hitchcock DID say that if the New York public has discovered him and Mr. Cohan's new show—well, THAT for the old pole! The Man Who Owns Broadway when first produced in New York as a serious play under the title of Popularity, but it was treated like a burlesque which it suggested. So Mr. Cohan has apparently decided that he would take a hand in the guying, also, and he has succeeded. The result is that the new piece, which might be billed as Popularity with Song, just pretends to be serious once in a while, but apparently doesn't believe in seriousness itself, and certainly fools nobody else. Once in a while, also, Mr. Hitchcock pretends to be serious, but he revenges himself by playing other scenes with an underlining of stage directions which turns the drama into burlesque, where it is not already that. The Man Who Owns Broadway is a popular actor person, beloved by the heroine of the play, whose father would wed her where her heart is not, and who is narrowly saved from this sad fate by the cleverness of the actor and the devotion of her brother. Also, her cruel father is saved from the wiles of a smiling villain and a blonde villainess, who at first succeed in having him turn his son from the door. Eventually learning that one good turn deserves another, they are themselves cast out of the house and plot. Mr. Hitchcock is very amusing in every scene in which he appears, his pantomiming being exceptionally lucid and effective, and the others of the cast, including Flora Zabelle, Mark Sullivan, Lora Lieb and Scott Welsh do useful service. * * * After six weeks devoted to the uncertainties of Italian grand opera, which ended in disaster for the enterprise, the Academy of Music returned to the drama last week. A crowd saw Cleveland Moffett's sociological drama, The Battle, in which Wilton Lackaye appeared again. This timely and sensible drama preaches the gospel of soap, fresh air and optimism. Newcomers in the cast are Thomas McGrane, in the sympathetic role of Gentle, and Harry Hilliard as the hero, Philip. Clara Blandick was Margaret, and Julie Herne portrayed Jennie. * * * Under the personal supervision of Charles Frohman, Theodore Burt Sayres's new American play, The Commanding Officer, had its first production at Ford's Grand Opera House, Baltimore, last week. The scenes are laid at Fort Butler, Nev., and present an interesting picture of social life within the limits of a United States army post. * * * Wagenhals & Kemper have engaged Georgia O'Ramey for the Rinehart-Hopwood play, Seven Days. Miss O'Ramey was a musical comedy star on the Pacific Coast up to a year or so ago. She was brought East by Maxine Elliott. * * * Israel, a new drama in three acts by Henri Bernstein, author of The Thief, received its first performance in English at the Apollo Theatre, Atlantic City, last week. In the audience were Charles Frohman and Augustus Thomas. The company included Constance Collier, the English actress; Graham Browne, Edwin Arden and

The Hotel Dale

ON THE RIALTO—HOME OF THE PROFESSION—SPECIAL RATES
Only First-Class European Hotel close to The Garrick, Princess, Novelty,
National, Alcazar, or Pantages—SAN FRANCISCO
SPECIAL—We make a feature of Breakfasts Served in Rooms
COR. GOLDEN GATE AVE. AND FILLMORE ST.
Take McAllister Street and Turk and Eddy Street Cars at the Ferry

Clancy's

Phone Franklin 1506

Stage Hardware

Williams Hardware & Stave Co.
Incorporated

974 Market Street
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Dallas Anderson. The action first unfolds itself in the lounging room of the Rue Royale Club. A group of young Parisians are banded together out of a common hatred for Jews of all classes. Their leader is Thibault de Croucy. Foremost in his hatred is the Hebrew banker, Gutlieb. Thibault decides to force Gutlieb to resign from the Rue Royale Club, and upon Gutlieb's refusal, insults him. A challenge to a duel follows. Thibault's mother, the Duchess de Croucy, hears of the impending duel and tries to prevent it. She vainly implores her son to prevent the duel, and after his refusal and at the last extremity, sends for Gutlieb. She is in the midst of her appeal to him to decline to fight when her son unexpectedly enters the room. As soon as the banker has left Thibault demands an explanation. The young man finally wrenches from his mother that he himself is a Jew and if he carries out his word and kills his adversary he will kill one of his own kind. The young man's pride is dashed to the ground. He fights, but barely scratches his adversary; he is ashamed to face his friends. He hides himself away in his studio like a hunted animal. There seems no way out but death. The play as acted here has a happy ending. * * * Lina Abarbanell appeared for the first time in the role of Nellie Vaughn in The Love Cure at the New Amsterdam Theatre last week. When the operetta was selected for production Mme. Abarbanell was intended for this part, but illness prevented her taking it at the beginning of the season. Last night she received a hearty welcome. Two new songs have been introduced for her use—Flirtation, sung with male chorus in the first act, and Remembrance, sung in the third. * * * The attraction at the Majestic Theatre beginning on Monday next, following A Citizen's Home, will be a new play entitled Two Women and That Man. The piece is by Henry D. Carey son of the late Judge Henry D. Carey of New York. The story is laid in Forty Mile, Alaska, and deals with an actual incident that happened during the Klondike excitement. Mr. Carey will play an important role himself. * * * The founders of the New Theatre, which opens its first season Monday, November 8, with Antony and Cleopatra, have caused to be constructed in the basement a fireproof vault in which all the records of the playhouse will be kept. Among the things to be preserved are prompt books of the plays produced, photographs of the players, scene models, costume plates, photographs of every bit of scenery and flashlight photographs of dress rehearsals. * * * Charles Richman has been engaged to play the leading male role with Mary Mannering in Kiddie, a new play by Rachel Crothers. Among the members of the company are John Sainpolis, Grant Mitchell, Arthur Berthelot, Teresa Dale, Helen Armsby, Gertrude Short and Irene Kingsley. * * * The Messrs. Shubert announce that rehearsals of The City, the last and most ambitious serious drama by the late Clyde Fitch, have begun under the direction of John Emerson. Walter Hampden will play the leading role. * * * McIntyre and Heath, that funny minstrel pair who have been seen in various kinds of clean amusement, sometimes in vaudeville and sometimes in musical comedy, have just finished a successful engagement at the Circle Theatre in their latest musical farce by John J. McNally entitled In Hayti. The music and the lyrics are by Jerome and Schwartz, two of the cleverest song-smiths in the business. In his plot, McNally has taken the two blackfaced comedians from a hotel at an Indiana watering place down to Hayti to take part in a revolution by serving temporarily as the bogus President and Treasurer of the Republic respectively. Like The Ham Tree in which Messrs. McIntyre and Heath were previously starred by their present managers, Klaw & Erlanger, In Hayti gives them plenty of opportunity in its three acts to introduce their old time vaudeville situations with up-to-date dialogue and mirth provoking nonsense. The two star comedians are ably assisted by Julian Rose who also gets a chance in the course of the performance to introduce the specialty about Levinski's wedding which has made him so well known in vaudeville. One thing personally I like about Messrs. McIntyre and Heath's new musical show is that although full of bright scenes with plenty of girls and all of the accessories which constitute the average musical comedy of the day, there is nothing which could offend; no coarse jokes; no double entendres; no vulgarity of any kind. It is the kind of a play to which a fellow could with propriety take his sister or his best girl and have a laughable time. In these days when some of the New York plays are being condemned on account of their intentional indelicacy, it is a pleasure to record for this Klaw & Erlanger production that it is funny and enjoyable without being in the least offensive. * * * Hattie Williams is also leaving town after a successful run at the Garrick in Michael Morton's comedy drama entitled Detective Sparkes. The scene of interesting play is in and about London, and the whole action is supposed to occur between 5 o'clock in the afternoon and 3 o'clock the following morning (that is the same night). All of the excitement is about the mysterious ascension of a certain lady with a gentleman in a balloon. It is needless to say that the cause of alarm is over the fact that the lady did not go up in the balloon with her own husband. Her sister (Hattie Williams in the play) decides to help her out of the embarrassment by preventing her husband, Lord Axminster (Frank Burbeck) from discovering which gentleman had made such a high-flyer of his wife. To do this she has to plan a bogus robbery of miniatures in which the nobleman was interested, and then bring in the mythical Detective Sparkes to straighten everything out. Interest in this production by Charles Frohman for Miss Williams lies in the fact that it is the first time that star has ever appeared in anything except musical pieces. Like Francis Wilson, Miss Williams has reached the point in ability and reputation where it is no longer necessary to surround the star with a stage full of chorus singers to make the play hold the attention of the audience. Miss Williams is to be congratulated upon the excellent selection of material made for her by Mr. Frohman in her transition from musical work to that of straight drama. Detective Sparkes is well worth a visit if it should reach the Pacific Coast this season.

Correspondence

ROB ROY.

MARYSVILLE, Oct. 14.—October 11th at the Marysville Theatre, A Gentleman from Mississippi was the attraction. James Lackaye as Senator Langdon was excellent. This special company organized by Brady and Grismer was great and the play was well received by the theatre-goers by a large attendance.

REDLANDS, Oct. 18.—The Wyatt (H. C. Wyatt, mgr.; E. J. Underwood, bus. mgr.)—The Time, the Place and the Girl lived up to the reputation of previous years for musical comedy. It was well liked. 12—In Dreamland was well received. It is a dramatic fantasy full of good laughs. 13—Honeymoon Trail delighted a large audience. It is one of the best musical comedies here for a long time. It is worth while. 14—A Gentleman from Mississippi canceled owing to the town being well booked with three other attractions. 20—A Knight for a Day did a big business and was applauded to the limit by its audience. 23—Sousa and his band will be the attraction. H. A. HARGRAVES.

ASTORIA, Oct. 14.—The opening of the theatrical season has not proven to be a great financial success so far, although Manager Hamlin of the Astoria Theatre has been giving the public some first-class shows. Sunday, Oct. 17 The Sunny Side of Broadway will be the attraction and a standing room only house is predicted. The following are booked for October: The Spoilers, 22; Three Twins, 24; Coronation, 27. Manager Hamlin has booked a very large number of first-class attractions for the season and there certainly is no reason why Astoria theatre-goers should not show their appreciation and patronize the Astoria Theatre more liberally.

ASTORIA, Oct. 18.—Astoria Theatre (F. M. Hamlin, mgr.)—Last evening The Sunny Side of Broadway, a musical comedy, with Max Bloom and Marie McIntrose in the stellar roles, drew a very large audience and the rollicking nifty song show with its many new novelties was thoroughly enjoyed. The Spoilers, which was booked for the 22d, has been canceled by Manager Hamlin. Next Sunday, 17th, the greatest musical comedy success in America entitled Three Twins, will be the attraction at prices from 75c to $2.00, and the largest house of the season is certainly looked for, to be followed by The Coronation, 27; Prince Otto, Nov. 7; and The Third Degree, Nov. 13. Business in theatrical circles is certainly on the increase as Manager Hamlin is booking nothing but first-class attractions and deserves nothing but first-class patronage. SELIG.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 13.—Garrick (J. M. Dodge, mgr.): Oct. 10-11, The Honeymoon Trail, with Bert Baker, played to two large houses and gave universal satisfaction. Mort Singer has in this piece an A-1 production, the principals are excellent, the choristers pretty and shapely, the scenery and costumes lavish and effective, the music of the whistling kind. In fact, it has everything that goes to make a successful musical comedy. 14-15, The Time, the Place and the Girl. 16, Emmet Devoy, in Dreamland. 17-18, A Knight for a Day. 24, Sousa's Band. Pickwick (Scott A. Palmer, mgr.): The Charles King Company have an excellent offering this week in The Parish Priest, and that the people here appreciate the excellent productions which he is putting on here is evident from the crowded houses they are drawing every performance. In the role of the kindly priest, Charles King is doing excellent work. Mr. King is physically well fitted to the role, and fairly lives the character throughout the piece. Marjorie Rambeau in the part of Nellie Durkin, the niece of the priest, handles her part in her usual admirable manner. Louis Morrison as big Jim Welch appears to excellent advantage. Pietro Sosso as the young Doctor handles his part acceptably. Audra Due as Kate Corrigan, Elaine Davis as Agnes Cassidy and J. Franklyn McDonald as Dr. Cassidy gave excellent support. The piece is well staged. Next week, Faust. Queen (John Donnellan, mgr.): The Queen has a good bill this week, which consists of the following acts: G. E. Murphy, W. Whitman and Florence Horsfall in the Prodigal Girl have a very pretty human interest sketch, which was thoroughly appreciated. Ploetz-Lorellas Sisters have a sensational acrobatic turn that took well. The act is well dressed. Jere Sanford pleased with his singing and yodling act. The Clarence Sisters, billed as the Australian Nuggets, have a musical singing and dancing act that took fairly well. Motion pictures and the Peerless Orchestra conclude a show that is getting the money. Empire, Bijou and Union, with mo-

WINNING UNPARALLELED ENCOMIUMS ON PACIFIC COAST TOUR

(Sam. S. and Lee Shubert Inc.)
Present Everybody's Favorite Funmaker

EDDIE FOY

In the Greatest New York Casino Success

Mr. Hamlet of Broadway

A Musical Whimsicality

A Company That Can Act—and Does. A Chorus That Can Sing and Dance—and Does.

PRICES—25c, 50c, 75c, $1, $1.50. Popular-Priced Matinees Wednesday and Saturday, 25c, 50c, 75c and $1.

tion pictures and illustrated songs, report big business.

LUNDQUIST.

EL PASO, Oct. 12.—Crawford Theatre (Crawford & Rich, mgrs.)—North Bros. stock company, in The Heir to the Hoorah, pleased good business for week ending Oct. 9th. They open an indefinite engagement at this house and will produce only royalty bills. Majestic (Crawford & Rich mgrs.)—The Majestic company, under the direction of Frank Morton, is producing two new bills a week, and giving good satisfaction. The El Paso Theatre (Crawford & Rich, mgrs.)—Raymond Teal opens this house Oct. 15. All business houses and public buildings are decorated in honor of the meeting of the two Presidents. El Paso will be gay and festive the last of this week. GEO. A. MANSFIELD.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 14.—The Persse-Mason company in the Singing Bandits deserved better business than was done at the Clunie, 9-10. It was a great show. Princess Bonnie was well done by amateurs and drew big audiences 7, and matinee, 9. A Gentleman from Mississippi was received by large audiences when presented at the Clunie, 12-13. Tonight Wilhelm Heinrich, tenor, sings before the Saturday Club at the Clunie. Fifty Miles from Boston, 16-17. The Girl Question, 18. The manager of the Grand also Pantages have refused the demands of the stage hands to employ electricians at the theatres. Mrs. B. Lightner of this city entertained her sister, Adelaide Wise of A Gentleman from Mississippi company after the performance, 12. At the Grand—Three La Darros, ladder act; Marion and Rial sketch, In the Witch's Power; Will Morrissey, comedian; Bothwell Browne in Cleopatra; Fay Carranza, soprano; Selbini and Gravini, novelty surprises. At Pantages, week starting Oct. 11—Barlow's dogs and ponies; Meyer Bros., equilibristic marvels; Casey and Le Claire, "True to Nature"; Kauffman Bros., in burlesque grand opera; The Glocks, Fun in a Physical Culture Studio; Lipman and Lewis, those Southern Boys; Dainty Mayo, singing and dancing; Pantagescope.

SEATTLE, Oct. 10.—Milo Crocker, the young vaudeville actor, who was shot by Patrolman Charles B. Melson last Thursday night, in Seattle, is dead. The patrolman asserts that the shooting was done in self-defense, as he thought that Crocker, who had created a disturbance in a public dance hall, was about to lunge at him with a hunting knife. Crocker was married, his wife, Molly Coghlan, a vaudeville actress, being in the East.

Alcazar Celebrates Portola Closing Night

Fred Belasco has done a very pretty act for the benefit of his employees. He has posted a notice that the Alcazar will be closed tonight, so that all can take in the big evening parade. Is it any wonder an Alcazar job is always in demand?

SAM F. MOULTON has signed as business manager of the Winston Stock Company.

DROP CURTAINS SCENERY
FLAGG
EDWIN H. FLAGG
SCENIC CO. INC.
CAPITAL STOCK
$50,000.00
FULLY PAID
460-2-4 WITMER ST. LOS ANGELES

AT LIBERTY

LEO C. BELL

LEADING BUSINESS—DIRECTOR
(with scripts)

Roso Bell Marston

LEADING BUSINESS—INGENUE

Address all communications

Hotel Belmont, 730 Eddy Street
San Francisco

THE SAN FRANCISCO Dramatic Review

Music and Drama

CHAS. H. FARRELL, Publisher

Issued Every Saturday

Address all
letters and
money orders to San Francisco
Dramatic
Review, Van

Ness Theatre Bldg.,
Van Ness
Avenue.
Telephone
Park
1773

Entered at San Francisco as Second-class
Mail Matter. Established 1880.

Florence Oakley

The latest photograph of this beautiful and talented young leading woman adorns our front page this week. It is a splendid likeness. Miss Oakley, who is the idol of Oakland theatregoers, has duplicated her great success attained in Los Angeles at the Belasco Theatre. She is a sure mascot, and week by week she grows into stronger favor with her audiences. Miss Oakley was to have opened in Sweet Kitty Bellairs next week, after a vacation spent in Los Angeles, but Manager Bishop insisted on her creating the female lead in Dick Tully's new play, Cupid, the Cow Punch, this week, and she appeared Monday night and gave a delightfully ingenuous and sympathetic portrayal of the young ranch girl thrown into the temptations of New York life.

Walter Hoff Seeley Re- signs From Valencia

Walter Hoff Seeley returned from New York last Tuesday and on Wednesday the news was made known that he had resigned from the Valencia management and that there had been a complete severance of all local theatrical interests between him and J. Charles Green. This plan it is said was decided upon last September and was to have been announced around Christmas but Mr. Seeley having decided to devote himself exclusively to the William Morris Western (Inc.), it was decided to announce the new plans at this time. Associated with Mr. Seeley will be William Morris and Francis V. Keesling, the attorney. A new Morris vaudeville house, according to Mr. Seeley, will be built on Ellis street, almost directly back of the Orpheum, and a circuit will be in operation by next May. In Omaha the theatre is now building. In Denver a lease has been taken on a lot on Sixteenth street and Court Place, and the building will be completed there on May 1. The Los Angeles connection is still under cover. In the Northwest, Mr. Seeley informs THE DRAMATIC REVIEW, George Baker will be associated with him and a complete chain of houses will be established in that territory. Wm. Morris is expected out here in ten days and further announcements are to be made then.

Correspondence

PORTLAND, Oct. 18.—BUNGA-LOW THEATRE (Calvin Heilig, mgr.; Wm. Pangle, res. mgr.)—Blanche Bates came, saw and conquered at this house last week, where she remained for that time, at this house, in her very latest success,

The Fighting Hope. Last night The Three Twins came to town, and really it is the best musical show of the season and besides being the largest in number of actors and actresses. It proved to be Charles Dickens' In-cog, which a great many of us remember as being one of the best comedies of years. The house was packed to the doors, and if anything was lacking to make the show a success it could not be seen. It bids fair to do a banner week's business. The cast is headed by Victor Morley, who created the title role, and he was on the job at all times. Bessie Clifford is the hit of the female contingency and she was simply irresistible. Coming—Chauncey Olcott.

PORTLAND THEATRE (Russell & Drew, mgrs.; Frank Hood, res. mgr.)—Tonight is the opening of this house, and the opening bill is The Great John Ganton. The house has been entirely repaired and re-frescoed, and presents a pleasing appearance to the eye. Eddie Foy is announced for next week.

BAKER THEATRE (George L. Baker, mgr.; Milton Seaman, bus. mgr.)—For this week's attraction Manager Baker offers Donald Bowles in The Prince Chap. This is his last week in Portland prior to going on the Orpheum bookings, and yesterday a packed house witnessed the production, and when Donald came on the scene he was simply given an ovation that must have quickly shown him what a favorite he is with Portland play-goers. He appeared to unusually good advantage, and the role suited his personality exactly. Conspicuous in his support was William Dills, another Portland favorite, and Russell Bradbury. Ruth Lechler played the leading role of the ladies acceptably. Next week—Old Kentucky. Tonight Manager Baker gives a benefit for William Gleason who is sick in San Francisco and everything points to a big house.

ORPHEUM THEATRE (James H. Erickson mgr.)—A program full of ginger was dished up at this house the past week and it was an appetizing one to vaudeville lovers. It was headed by Mlle. Bianca and her dancing has never been equalled as far as we are concerned. Keno, Walsh and Melrose proved to be very entertaining gymnasts, while Gen. Ed. LaVine had the audience always on the alert wondering what he would do next. This week's bill—Minnie Seligman and William Bramwell; Bootblack Quartet; Bounding Gordons; Katchen Loisset; the Misses Standish; Eva Mudge; and Lew Wells.

LYRIC THEATRE (Keating & Flood, mgrs.)—This week's bill is entitled When Her Soul Speaks, and it proved to be a very interesting drama—not a melodrama. It is along the lines of Zira and made a good impression upon yesterday's audiences. William Howard and Priscilla Knowles did very acceptable work in the leads. The management have dressed the production in the usual first-class style. A. W. W.

PERCY BRONSON has signed to play the juveniles at the Belasco in Los Angeles, opening in two weeks.

J. B. REIGHLEY

Theatrical Hauling

Promptly Attended To
Telephone Market 1601

680 Guerrero Street, Bet. 18th and 19th

Doris Hill

One of the fairest of our Eastern visitors who has enjoyed Portola week is Doris Hill, who is in San Francisco for the first time and quite carried away with the wonderful material achievements shown on every hand and the enthusiastic spirit of our people. Miss Hill is visiting San Francisco as a member of The Honey-moon Trail Company and of this aggregation of beautiful and attractive women, Miss Hill is one of the fairest. This is only her second season in musical comedy, and after an experience in dramatic work, she finds it extremely pleasing, and is to use some of her experiences in this line of theatrical work as a basis of some literary work she has in view. Before going on the stage she had already become quite a writer, and much of her late work commends itself for an increased cleverness.

ADELAIDE HARLAND will close with the Kolb and Dill Company next week. This clever girl has not been given a very encouraging deal on this Western engagement.

Imperial Amusement Co.

Star Theatre, Portland, Oregon
S. MORTON COHN, Pres.; MELVIN G. WINSTOCK, Gen. Mgr.
Acts of every kind are requested to write in, quoting lowest salary in first letter. Satisfactory booking for right acts at right figures.

Valencia Theatre

Valencia Street, near Thirteenth
Phone Market 17

Starting Sunday Evening, Oct. 24.
Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.
Second and Last Week.

Sam S. and Lee Shubert (Inc.) Present

The Ringmaster

A Powerful Drama of Wall Street Intrigue.
Direct from the Maxine Elliott Theatre,
New York. Metropolitan Cast.

Special Popular Prices—25c to $1.00. Seats on Sale at the Box Office and Emporium.

Commencing Sunday Night, Oct. 31—
EDDIE FOY in "MR. HAMLET OF
BROADWAY."

New Alcazar Theatre

Tel. West 1400

Cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts.

Belasco & Mayer, Owners and Managers
Absolutely "Class A" Building

Monday Evening, October 25, and Throughout the Week, a Magnificent Production of

BECKY SHARP

Adapted from Thackeray's Ever-Popular
Novel, "Vanity Fair," by Langdon
Mitchell.

ITS FIRST PRESENTATION IN STOCK

Prices—Night, 25c to $1.00. Matinee, 25c
to 50c.

MATINEE SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

New Orpheum

O'Farrell Street, Bet. Stockton and Powell
Safest and Most Magnificent Theatre in
America

PORTOLA WEEK

Week Beginning This Sunday Afternoon
Matinee Every Day

ARTISTIC VAUDEVILLE

7021—Dramatic Ads FALL
Mlle. BIANCI in her repertory of Classical and Novelty Dancing; HAL GOD-
FREY & CO.; KENO, WALSH and MEL-
ROSE; "GENERAL" EDWARD LA VINE;
HOWARD and HOWARD; MARTINETTIE and SYLVESTER; BALLEINIS CANINE
TUMBLERS; NEW ORPHEUM MOTION
PICTURES. Last Week—Great Success—
GEORGE BLOOMQUEST & CO., in
"Nerve."

EVENING PRICES—10c, 25c, 50c, 75c;
Box Seats, $1.

MATINEE PRICES (Except Sundays and
Holidays), 10c, 25c, 50c
Phone Douglas 70

Princess Theatre

Absolutely "Class A" Theatre Building

Phone West 663

Ellis Street, near Fillmore

Samuel Loverich, Manager

THIRD BIG WEEK

Kolb & Dill

Present Themselves in

Dream City

PERFORMANCE THIS SATURDAY NIGHT POSITIVELY

Evening Prices and Sunday Matinees,
50c to $1. Saturday Matinees, 25c, 50c and 75c.

AMERICAN THEATRE

Market St., near Seventh

Abe S. Cohn, Manager

Phone Market 381 for Good Seats

The Playhouse of Comfort and Safety

AMERICAN VAUDEVILLE

Will be Inaugurated Next Sunday, by a
Ten-Act

Vaudeville Show

This theatre will now book the best
vaudeville acts obtainable under the book-
ing direction of Edward Homan.

No Acts too big. No Price too big.

GILLE PRINTING CO.

SAN FRANCISCO

THEATRICAL PRINTING OF ALL KINDS

POSTERS

2257 MISSION ST. Phone MISSION 3065

THE FRANCIS- VALENTINE CO.

Thirteenth St., near Mission, S. F. Cal.

Spacious Headquarters
for Theatrical Agents

PHONE—MARKET 2114

Send Bills of Lading to us. We will take care of your paper

Show Printers

Van Ness Theatre

Henry B. Harris has sent us Charles Klein's best play in The Third Degree. It is not as theatrical in its treatment as The Lion and the Mouse, and it pursues its story without making the little side excursions into comedy that is the weakest point of The Lion and the Mouse. The Third Degree is really notable for the particularly good work of two fine actors—Paul Everton, in the character of Richard Brewster, the lawyer, and Fernanda Eliscu, as Annie Jeffries, the young working-girl wife of a millionaire's weak and helpless son. The story of the play is familiar to our readers, so we will not go into that. At the offset, it began to appear very much as though Mr. Everton was going to give us merely a duplicate of his Ryder in The Lion and the Mouse, but, as the play progressed, his characterization took on the fine sympathetic qualities of the great lawyer, and at the first curtain and for the rest of the play the house was ready to acknowledge a masterly performance of the part. And so with the Fernanda Eliscu. From almost the first moment of her appearance, she conquered, and throughout the tense, wonderfully compelling picture she gave of the loyal and suffering young wife, there was developed an admiration for an artist new to San Francisco that was to be evidenced only in long and enthusiastic outbursts of applause. Ralph Ramsey, son of Ralph Stuart, played the weakling son of the rich man, and in the first act, under the terrific fire of the Third Degree procedure, he gave a very strong performance. In the last act, in different mood, he was not so successful. Thomas L. Coleman was especially successful in depicting the hard, selfish millionaire, and in appearance and bearing he was always in the picture. Alfred Moore was sufficiently dominating and imposing as the Police Captain, but just why he should make up the part with a red nose is not apparent. E. L. Eberle contributed a charming, finely drawn bit as Dr. Bernstein, and Margaret Drew, a fine-looking woman, was successful in the part of Mrs. Jeffries, Sr. From beginning to end, the play moves with directness and power and is at all times compelling. It should not be missed.

Alcazar Theatre

The beautiful Portola play, The Rose of the Rancho, which is so triumphantly produced by the Alcazar company, continues to draw large audiences. Probably in nothing this highly trained band of thespians present is their ability so abundantly shown; and, aside from the work of the actors, the wonderful resources of the mechanical staff are displayed. Next week, for the first time in stock, that fine play, Becky Sharp, will be used, and it will serve to bring back after a two weeks' vacation, clever Evelyn Vaughan, in a part that should be particularly suited to her abilities.

Valencia Theatre

Following those fine plays, The Witching Hour and The Great John Ganton, The Ringmaster is a mistake. It is supposed to be a Wall Street dramatic exposition, but it is hardly interesting. The best thing in the play is the scene aboard the yacht in the second act, and this is a triumph of mechanical and electrical ability. The light effects are particularly beautiful. Somebody ought to get after the stage manager. The first act is supposed to show a rich man's house in New York, and yet the walls are hung with a lot of gaudy chromos that look as though they were picked out of the property room of a Bowery theatre. But to the actors. Harry S. Northrup, who is really a good actor, and when seen here last year in Girls achieved a pronounced hit, impersonated the hero—a young dilettante, who finally wakes up and gets busy with his money and his heart. This time the hit was not so emphatic. He had no chance. The opportunity was not in the part, and so it may be said in reference to the work of Anna Lee, Frederick Montague, Harry D. Crosby, Alice Weeks, Rosamond Carpentier, Clare Coleman and Charles Glocker. Our Western playwrights ought to see The Ringmaster and then take new courage, for if this play can take up the time of two companies, then there is imminent danger of the East being flooded by plays from Western authors. Next attraction is Eddie Foy, with a real show.

Princess Theatre

Kolb and Dill's production of Dream City is still on at the Princess Theatre and remains an attraction strong enough to draw packed houses. The addition this week of a pretty Portola dance was a bright idea and much enjoyed. The new show will be At the North Pole.

Garrick Theatre

The Honeymoon Trail, Mort H. Singer's show, is the classiest, snappiest, best costumed and most interesting musical show we've had this season. And as for pretty girls, why, it has more than its share and from the principals down to the smallest broiler there is a very likable quality to the show. Heading the affair are two clever comedians of opposite qualities. Bert Baker is a quiet, unctuous, winning comedian of an all around experience and development, who as a Josh Whitcomb in the Old Homestead or as the Senator in A Gentleman from Mississippi could take command of a play and hold unceasing attention. His personality is so big and wholesome and his work so rich and unforced that it is easy to understand how he could develop a part of nineteen sides into the present one that commands the chief attention during the evening. Mr. Baker has an able colleague in Louis Kelso, who is a most pleasing light comedian, with an ability to do the very best work. His patter work and his songs with the soubrette were very much liked, especially so, I Don't Want a Million Dollars. Miss Potter was a charming little soubrette with a personal appeal not to be resisted, and Arling Boling, a stunning woman of distinct style, contributed some rich and beautiful gowning, and displayed a fine voice. She is the best prima donna we have seen here in a long time. The other ladies doing parts displayed ability and much of the handsome appearance we spoke of in the preceding lines. The male support, too, was competent, and the show a great laugh getter from beginning to end.

Bert Baker

Mr. Baker is one of those rarely unctuous comedians who know the true value of comedy lines. In the science of acting it is not so much what is said as the way it is said. Actors are really born with this what is said as the way it is said, quality, and with many, as in the case with Mr. Baker, it has been developed by a fine all around experience. Mr. Baker's triumph in A Honeymoon Trail this season is a matter of pleasant comment and it has led to all kinds of fine offers for next season, which a two years' contract with Mort H. Singer prevents considering. But the future has a big day for him. Mr. Baker is depicted here as he looks in the character and as he looked when five years old, before the lure of the stage caught him.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 18.—Moore Theatre: Chauncey Olcott, in Ragged Robin, closed last night a successful four nights' engagement, from both an artistic and box-office standpoint. Tonight will see one of the leading attractions of the season, when Blanche Bates begins a week's engagement in The Fighting Hope. Alhambra: Packed houses are in evidence at the Alhambra and will be so until the end of this week, when Eddie Foy's engagement closes. As a mirth-provoker, Mr. Hamlet of Broadway is a success, and there are many other things to commend about it, not the least being the number of shapely girls in the ensemble, who have both good voices and good looks. Grand Theatre: In Old Kentucky is on its annual visit to Seattle. The cast with two exceptions—Burt C. Clark, who plays the part of Col. Sandusky Doolittle, and John Powell, the leader of the band—is entirely different from that seen here last year. Seattle: The Confessions of a Wife inaugurated the week at the Statle Theatre yesterday afternoon before a large audience. Lois Theatre: Winston Churchill's war-time drama, The Crisis, is being played at the Lois by the D. S. Lawrence Company in a capable manner. This is the first stock production of the play in the city, and it is bound to draw forth a goodly number of Lois patrons. Majestic: The Kitabanzai troupe of Japanese jugglers and acrobats; the Bradlee Martin Company, in Jessie, Jack and Jerry; Billy Clark, in his specialties; Bell and Caron, in an acrobatic surprise; the Rosedale Four, singers; Crimmins and Gore, and a lot of new and interesting pictures constitute the bill. At the Orpheum are the Boys in Blue, seventeen of them, with a Red Cross nurse thrown in. It is a magnificent military spectacle. All of the features on the bill this week are big ones. McConnell and Simpson, in A Stormy Hour, offer comedy, and so do Kelly and Kent and Ray Montgomery and the Healey Sisters. Bobby Pandor, strong man, is a muscular sensation, and Sansone and Delila are other muscular sensations. The Tempest and Sunshine Trio round out an excellent bill. At Pantages: Heading the bill is the Bella Italia troupe of four. They sing and play. Other acts seen here for the first time are the Levolos, wire equilibrists; George Winfield, and company in a sketch; Bunchu and Alger, "the Kentucky girls," singers; Shayne and King, "singers of the Ghetto," and Edythe H. Stanley, "the piano girl." These, with Helen Lowe and the new moving pictures, make up the bill. E. MORGENSTERN.

Vaudeville

The Orpheum

I took particular delight in this week's bill; and likewise did my neighbors. It would, indeed, be a pretty grouchy theatregoer who would fail to respond to the brilliant offerings on the program. Just whom to award the first honors it is difficult to decide. There is George Bloomquest, with a little company of two, in a skit-let called Nerve. It is played with a dash and ability that is really great. George Bloomquest for years has developed his peculiar comedy ability out here in the West until he is way up in the theatrical ladder. Rubyn Thorpe is a talented young woman who has a keen idea of comedy. Just see her operate the typewriter or shake up her coiffure. Earl Dwire is all right as the railroad president. Howard and Howard, in a song and dance and patter act in one got the applause of the evening. It seemed as though the audience would never let them go. These boys are wonders and have caught the town. They could play here for weeks. Aside from being comedians, they are unusually good singers. Valerie Bergere, in her old sketch, Billy's First Love, is seen for her second and last week. Miss Bergere is one of our most magnetic and finished emotional women and has an exceedingly warm place in our affections, but Billy is no longer a novelty, and it might be suggested that the good-looking young man who plays Billy could present the character much of the time with less vim. It jars when contrasted with the finely shaded work of Miss Bergere. Carlin and Clarke are unfortunate in having to open the bill but they have the satisfaction of catching their audience almost directly, and their talk and dancing are keenly appreciated. They are a superior team of German impersonators, and a great deal of their talk is immensely funny. Their North Pole reference is the funniest thing heard here in a long time. The Tuscany Troubadours give some enjoyable grand opera singing, and Clarke Martinetti and Joe Sylvester have a good chair jumping turn. Bal-lerini's canine tumblers are dogs of great cleverness, and the Six Glin-serettis are wonderful gymnasts.

Pantages-Empire

This popular priced playhouse is putting on a bill this week that challenges comparison with the best of them. From beginning to end the people appearing at the Pantages this week make the turns go with snap and zip. Lipman and Lewis are two good-looking chaps who get the goods over the footlights. They do some very clever work. They are a pair who deserve watching. Meyer Brothers are two good acrobats. Their work is original and has plenty of class. Dainty Maye is fair. She is not the best singer that has appeared at this house in its entire history, but she will do. Casey and Le Clair have a little drama that drags at times. They should fit themselves with a better vehicle for their humor, and then their work would be better appreciated. When it comes to acting they fall down, partly because of the sketch, which is decidedly bad, in spots. The Kauffmans have a burlesque on grand opera.

Charles and Anna Glocker have one of the best turns on the bill. It is called Fun in a Physical Culture Studio. Their juggling is quite out of the common. Their act is evidently the result of much hard thought and unending practice.

American Theatre

Clever management is seeing a constantly increasing business at this playhouse. This week the bill opens with the Earle Sisters, in song and dance. Then comes a positive novelty and great hit—the Three Doness, in a ladder equilibrium act. They make their ladders do some fancy walking stunts that are great. Harry Newman has a good turn with his own songs, and Edwin T. Emery and his splendid company present The Bachelor's Baby to the accompaniment of much laughter. Mr. Emery, as the young bachelor; Nesbie Howard, the secret bride; Reva Raymond, as Miss Jones from Boston, and Denton Vane, this time as the gardner, do splendid work. Rigo, the erratic and erotic violinist, is supposed to be the big card. Well, he does do well enough and he can play the fiddle. Eddie Dolan, the Irish monologist, is a hit, and Bothwell Browne, the female impersonator, displays some beautiful wardrobe. Good pictures are flashed on the screen, and the performance is a big success.

The National

That tireless worker, Zeke Abrams, has one of the classiest vaudeville presentations this week that has ever been seen within the walls of the National, and that is saying a great deal, as anyone can testify who has been in the habit of seeing the shows from week to week that this popular little house is accustomed to put on. Frank Parker and his company do a good turn. William Cahill is entertaining. He has a way of doing things which is all his own. Williston and Stonaker are a pair who make good with management and audiences. Mrs. Gardner Crane and company are among the bright particular numbers of the best things that Sullivan & Considine have allowed the house to choose from during Portola week. They are clever actors, and always have a good sketch. Celeste and Walsh are very good, and, last but not least, Jack Bowen deserves a good press notice.

The Wigwam

Landers Stevens and Georgie Cooper, in a condensed, but not canned, version of Faust are the top-liners at the Wigwam Theatre during the prevailing festivities. Those who know these two actors need not be told that they do some very clever work in this adaptation. Sharp and Turek are two clever performers who are winning encores nightly, and justly so. The work of Florence Modena and her company is very good, especially so, in fact. Dorothy Vaughn is a favorite, as she has been during her other appearances in this city. Bissonette and Newman are a team that get plenty of applause, and the audiences are always sorry to see them go. Hall and Starke's minstrels is a turn that always leaves them smiling when they say good-bye. It is a very cleverly put on act, and one that is making good night after night.

Theatrical Tights

ALL COLORS, WEIGHTS AND QUALITIES—Cotton, 75c to $1.50; Wool, $2.50 to $3.50; Lisle or Silkline, $3.00 to $4.50; Silk, $5.00 to $12.50.

SYMMETRICALS BEST LINE MADE IN THE U. S. Calf, $5.00; Calf and Thigh, $10.00; Calf, Thigh and Hip, $12.50.

We also Make Padded Shirts, SWEATERS, JERSEYS, GYM, ATHLETIC and BATH SUITS, SUPPORTERS, ACROBATIC SHOES, GOOD UNDERWEAR Knit to Fit in All Materials.

We operate our own mills, carry a large stock and make goods to measure at reasonable prices. We suit the professional as if he were buying in Europe. Write us for prices and samples.

Gantner & Mattern Co.
KNITTERS

Phone Kearny 3603

Corner Post and Grant Ave.

Sullivan & Considine

::: New Circuit :::

Of the smaller popular-priced theatres to be operated in conjunction with their regular circuit houses, comprising time in

California Colorado
Utah Kansas
and Eastern Connections

Good Acts Can Always
Secure Immediate Bookings

BOOKING DEPARTMENT

1117 Market Street

W. P. REESE, Manager

New York Office
Knickerbocker Theatre Bldg.

Lancaster, Pa.—
FAMILY THEATRE

Bert Levey Circuit

INDEPENDENT VAUDEVILLE
144-150 POWELL STREET Phone Douglas 5702 SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
Booking the Longest Chain of Vaudeville Theatres West of Chicago

PANTAGES Western States Vaudeville Association

Controlling the longest, largest and best chain of vaudeville theatres in the United States.

Mr. Manager: No matter where your house is, how large or how small, we can supply you promptly with first-class vaudeville acts at reasonable prices, also lodges, clubs and entertainments furnished on short notice.

See W. Z. TIFFANY, Representative, Phone West 7140. Offices: Pantages Theatre, cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts., San Francisco, Cal.

Archie Levy's Amusement Ass'n

THE VAUDEVILLE EXCHANGE OF THE PACIFIC COAST
1643 FILLMORE STREET, SUITE 1-2-3, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Managers desiring talent Write. Artists send in your open time now.

Bob Burns Vaudeville Circuit

Temporary Offices, 1838 Steiner St., Near Sutter, S. F.
Office hours—11-2, 1-5. Phone West 9479

I want to thank my friends for the many telegrams and letters received wishing me success.
I have added one more house this week to my list of bookings.

EUGENE

WILLIE

Howard & Howard

"THE HEBREW MESSENGER BOY AND THE THESPIAN."

Orpheum Circuit

Valerie Bergere

AND HER COMPANY

Presenting a Repertoire of Playlets—Orpheum Circuit.

At the Opera House, Watsonville, musical German, and Laura Bennett, week Oct. 18.—Leo St. Elmo, the change artist.

Bookings

At the Sullivan & Considine, San Francisco Office, through Wm. P. Reese, their sole booking agent, for week of Oct. 24, 1909:

NATIONAL, San Francisco—Frobel and Ruge, Anna Eva Fay, Bandy and Fields, Elsie Crescy & Co., Colby and May. BELL, Oakland—Frank Parker & Co., Rigo, Willison and Stonaker, McLallen and Carson, Mrs. Gardner Crane & Co. WIGWAM, San Francisco—Eddie Dolan, Flo Patterson, Fagan and Byron, Butler and Bassett, Irma Orbasany's Cockatoos, Landers Stevens. NOVELTY, Vallejo—Dillon and King, musical comedy. GRAND, Sacramento—The Merry McGregors, George Lauder, Dorothy Vaughan, Florence Modena & Co., Caswell and Arnold, Wm. Cahill. GARRICK, Stockton—The Haydens, La Darros, Martinetti and Grossi, Phil La Tosca. JOSE, San Jose—The Four Stagpooles, The Three Vagrants, La Loie Helene, Marion and Rial, Sharp and Turek, Bissonette and Newman. LOS ANGELES, Los Angeles—Bothwell Browne & Co., Hall and Stark's Minstrels, Blanche Sloan, Johan and Matt, Mondane Phillips, Will Morrissey. AMERICAN, San Francisco—Emery & Co., Buckley's Dogs, Celeste, Allen Sisters, Selbini and Grovini, Three Kuhns, Jim Polk. QUEEN, San Diego—Dolan and Lenharr, Ahlberg Brothers, Armada, Steele Sisters.

BOB BURNS VAUDEVILLE CIRCUIT
Temporary Offices—1838 Steiner St., near Sutter, San Francisco, Cal.

Bookings for week of October 24, 1909:

CENTRAL, San Francisco—Harding and Clow, Aldula St. John, Kradwell, Zodo. WORK, Monterey—Jarrett & Co., Emily Geraldine, Warren Woodson. NOVELTY, Visalia—Seymour Twins, Harry Coulter. ELITE, San Mateo—Deglow Clarke, Ralph Gordon. GARRICK, Stockton—Phil LaToska, The Haydens. PARRA, Bakersfield—Preston and McLaine. Foucher. LYRIC, Redwood City—Three Biehls. OPERA HOUSE, Watsonville—Arnold Duo, Frank Clarke, Frederik. GEM, Marysville—Bird and Sprague.

Vaudeville Notes

Dick Cummings and his merry lads and lassies have brought good luck to the Central. The new company, composed of Dick Cummings, Al Watson, Kernan Cripps, Harry Rottenbury, Katherine Merley, Myrtle Vane, Rose Roberts and Anna Clarke, opened Sunday most successfully in Fun in a Hammock, and business has been good all week. The vaudeville section is furnished by: The Seymour Twins, gymnasts; Deglow Clarke, soubrette; Warren Woodson, and Emily Geraldine, the singer and dancer.

Manager John Morrissey, of the Orpheum, has returned from his Eastern trip.

John Considine, the big figure in vaudeville, is flitting between San Francisco and Los Angeles this week.

When the curtain was raised for the afternoon shows at the two vaudeville houses in Sacramento last Sunday, the old stage hands were in their places, after being out since the 3d of this month, when they struck because the managers would not agree to employ an electrician. The stage hands intended to declare the two houses unfair, but in this they were frustrated because the members of the Musicians' union declined to walk out Thursday night.

The latter declined to go on a sympathetic strike. The stage hands gave up their effort, therefore, and were taken back, but without an electrician. The managers of the two houses both say that there is absolutely no need of an electrician, who would be employed only to turn the lights on and off, for which he would have to be paid $25 a week.

La Petite Theatre, Watsonville, week Oct. 18.—Dale Sisters, spectacular dancers; Bob Miller, comedian; Ralph Gordan, Roman ring artist; and Lena Clifton, singer.

Thousands stood with upturned faces at Third and Market streets Tuesday night watching a man toy with fate at the height of an 11-story building above them. He was Baldwin the tight rope walker who kneeled, sat upon the rope, lay down upon it and arose, when the miscalculation of a fraction of an inch would have left him but a blot on the pavement. Baldwin stepped off the top of the Monadnock building at precisely 11 o'clock. From the light of the great incandescent bell below he could be distinctly seen in his green tights and white soled feet in silhouette against the dark sky, though of pigmy size to the mob below. At each end of his long balancing pole, which he was some minutes in adjusting, were torches. Then the white soles began to pick their way across the space below. The step was quick but cautious. Midway he stopped to do his tricks. Horn blowing and merry making stopped below. As he arose, apprehension passed away in cheers. Then the white soles stepped back to the roof of the Monadnock building and Baldwin, the tight rope walker, pulled his fiery balance pole after him and disappeared.

New Vaudeville Theatre For Park District

The northwest corner of Haight and Cole Streets has been leased to D. Hallahan and M. J. Getz, for a term of 25 years at a rental aggregating $250,000. The property has a large frontage of 226 feet on Haight Street by a depth of 120 feet in Cole, and the lessees, who are well known theatrical men, intend to immediately improve the corner, 100x120 feet, with a modern class A theatre, which will be devoted exclusively to high-class vaudeville under their own personal supervision. The building is to be strictly class A in every respect, absolutely fire-proof and having every facility in the number of easy exits for the safety of the patrons. It will be of Morrish design, a story and a half in height. The outlines of the architecture are to be vividly shown at night by numerous electric lights, which will make it exceptionally attractive in appearance. The stage is to be provided with everything of the latest in a mechanical way. The contractor in charge promises that the structure will be completed and ready for business by Christmas of this year.

Frederick Clarke, on October 15th, opened a stock company in Victoria. Mr. Clarke has secured the lease on a ground floor hall in the British Columbia town, owned by the Odd Fellows. He has remodeled this and called it the Garrick Theatre. He intends to put on only high-grade royalty plays. His company will include Verne Leyton, heavies; Grace Frederick, and Mike Hooley, comedian.

Lipman & Lewis

One of the biggest hits made in this town in a long time with a singing and talking act is to the credit of Lipman & Lewis, who are a tremendous hit at the Pantages Theatre. These clever young fellows came to town unheralded and placed in a bad position on the bill. They won out in great style through sheer ability and personal magnetism. This team makes a feature of the Southern dialect, which they have down to a fine point. Their stories and songs are new and interesting, and their work snappy and bright. Both are handsome chaps and this, combined with a decided cleverness and a rare geniality, suggests a most successful future to look forward to.

New Manager for Valencia

D. R. Lissbarger, secretary and treasurer of the Valencia, has succeeded Walter Hoff Seeley to management. Mr. Lissbarger announces nothing new as to the theatre's policy at present, although on the street there is a rumor that after Xmas, melodramatic stock may be seen in the Valencia.

Personals

CARLTON CHASE is ill with a severe eye trouble in a local hospital.

GERTRUDE ATHERTON the California novelist, will write two plays for Mrs. Fiske.

RALPH BELL has changed from the Athon stock of Portland to the McRae stock in Spokane.

J. J. SHUBERT has written that he will be in San Francisco about November 1st.

RUTH ALLEN, once of the Coast, is to be a member of The Return of Eve company in New York.

FERNANDA ELISCU, who has made a big hit in The Third Degree at the Van Ness Theatre, was, like Nazimova, a member of New York's Ghetto players.

NEW.....JUST OUT.....NEW

MADISON'S BUDGET

.....No. 12.....

Greatest book of comedy material ever written. Contents include 10 new monologues, 46 up-to-date parodies, 21 original acts and sketches for two males and male and female, 2 jolly farces, a complete minstrel first part with finale, besides hundreds of brand-new jokes, stories, get-backs, etc.

Price One Dollar

And money back if not absolutely satisfactory. For sale in San Francisco by L. PARENT, 818 Van Ness Ave., or direct of the publisher, JAMES MADISON, 1404 Third Ave., New York.

George Bloomquest

AND HIS COMPANY

Present "NERVE" in Vaudeville

Carlin & Clark

Playing Orpheum Circuit.

3 times a day

Chicago-Kansas City

AND POINTS EAST

EASTERN EXPRESS

Leave San Francisco, 7:15 a. m. Leave Oakland, 7:40 a. m.

OVERLAND EXPRESS

Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 8:00 p. m.

CALIFORNIA LIMITED

Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 10:00 p. m.

Courteous employees—Unique scenery—Harvey meals—Equipment built by Pullman—One management all the way to Chicago. Our descriptive folders give reliable information.

JAS. B. DUFFY, GENERAL AGENT, 673 Market Street, S. F.

T. LOVE, T. A., Market St. Ferry Depot, San Francisco.

J. J. WARNER, G. A., 1112 Broadway, Oakland.

Harry Bishop Offers New Play in Oakland

Richard Walton Tully, co-author of The Rose of the Rancho, had presented a new play, Monday night, when his latest work, a four-act comedy-drama, entitled Cupid, the Cow Punch, was presented for the first time on any stage at The Liberty play-house. The play is a dramatization of the novel of the same name, written by Tully's wife, Eleanor Gates. The first scene is laid at a border ranch at Briggs City, Oklahoma, and the second at Santa Fe R. R. eating-house near the same town. They are typical scenes, the characters being in the main ranch hands, cowboys and trainmen. The last two scenes shift to far-away New York and finds the heroine, the little Oklahoma ranch girl, struggling as best she can in the big city, far from home and amongst entire strangers. Endeavoring to become a great vocal artist, she falls amongst a lot of Bohemians, who take advantage of her innocence and inexperience. Under a pretension of friendship, they induce her to play cards for money until at last her money is gone and she finds herself suffering from even the want of food. At this juncture, her former lover, Cupid, from the plains makes his appearance, and showing her everything in the proper light finally secures her consent to return to her Oklahoma home and her anxiously waiting Dad. The play is replete with many touching situations of intense sympathy, and throughout the entire performance the author has inserted a constant chain of good, wholesome comedy, that frequently takes the audience from a state of pathos to that of laughter. There is considerable merit to the production, but the play needs a careful revision. Bishop's players were exceptionally well cast and give a performance that must in every way conform to the ideas of Mr. Tully. The leading role, the name part, was interpreted by Sidney Ayres, and could not have been in better hands. His big, sturdy frame was very much in keeping with the part, and his conception of the cowboy leader was well night perfect. Florence Oakley, Bishop's leading woman, had the prominent role of Macie Sewell, the ambitious ranch girl, and played the part to perfection. Others of the company who added much to the production's success are Walter Whipple, Henry Shumer, George Friend, George Rand, William Wolbert, Clarence Elmer, George Webster, Robert Lawlor, Master Jesse Mendelson, Edith Lyle, Laura Hudson, Bessie Sankey and Mrs. Mina Gleason. The play was under the direction of the author and the Liberty stage director, George Webster. The scenes were by Grace Wishaar and Charlie Blair was responsible for all property effects. All deserve great credit. Billie Burke, with her fascinating, captivating way, charmed a packed house at the Macdonough, 18th. Her latest offering, Love Watches, does not seem to please as much as did her role with John Drew in My Wife, nevertheless her exquisite personality had full sway throughout the entire performance and was the means of making a success of what would otherwise have been a very mediocre production. The house is sold out for the entire three nights' engagement. Edna Aug, who made an immense hit at the Orpheum last week, is again the headliner at the Orpheum, and is repeating her former success. In addition to her clever act are James Young & Company; Mary Norman; Ed F. Reynolds; Pili; Henry Clive; Les Myosotis; Big City Quartette; Aviation Races at Rheims and Peary on the "Roosevelt." The attendance is up to its normal standard, notwithstanding the large crowds that are in attendance at the Portola festival. At the Broadway, Manager Smith's new innovation of motion pictures is taking well and is drawing crowded houses. Attendance at the Bell shows no decrease. The principal feature of this week's program is a stunt of real ice skating, which is decidedly interesting. Next week, Laura Hudson will close her engagement with Bishop's players. It is the intention of herself and husband (T. Griffith Wray) to go on the road at the head of their own company. Andrew Bennison, of the Alcazar Stock Company, has joined the ranks of Bishop's players and will make his initial appearance Monday night in Sweet Kitty Bellairs. Next Tuesday, 26th, will be Shriners' night at The Liberty. Milton Stallard, former stage director for Bishop's productions, has accepted a position with the New Theatre, New York. Mme. Jean Jomelli, the well-known soprano, will give a concert at The Liberty, Nov. 17. LOUIS SCHEELINE.

Eddie Foy as Hamlet

To flee or not to flee, that is the question.
Whether it is nobler in the "shine" to suffer
The slings and arrows of outrageous scorchings,
Or to fling his claims against a sea of critics
And I suppose, offend them.
To fly, to sneak, to "blow" and by that sneak
To say, I end the headshakes and the thousand Natural wrongs the profesh is heir to
To fly, to sneak, and when that sneak I make
What meals may come? For where's the grub?
Oh! who could bear the trips to one night stands,
The press's wrongs, the crowd's damned contumely,
The train's delay, the pangs of despised hotels,
The insolvency of managers and the spurn of waiting sheriff
When your trunk he takes with a bare suit case?
This makes me rather play the part I have than fly—
What Ho! Some music!
—Parody of Hamlet's soliloquy, recited by Eddie Foy.
Mr. Foy will soon be seen in this city at the Valencia Theatre.

"Billy" Gleason

William Gleason, husband of Mina Gleason and father of Jimmy Gleason, died suddenly at a sanitarium in Fruitvale last Wednesday night, after a year of suffering from stomach trouble. "Billy," who was a fine actor, was immensely popular wherever he played and that was all over the country, and many friends will sincerely mourn his demise. Like many, the editor of THE DRAMATIC REVIEW feels his passing away as a personal loss and the sincerest

PICKWICK THEATRE—SAN DIEGO

Charles King Stock Company

Supporting

Marjorie Rambeau

Presenting all high-class novelty productions.

BONUS AMONG THE BEST!

MELIOR AMONG THE GOOD!

OPTIMUS AMONG THE REST!

Laura Hudson & Co.

Address: WRAY & EDNER,

Care of Francis-Valentine Co., Thirteenth and Mission, San Francisco

sympathy is extended to the afflicted widow. The burial took place in Oakland Friday afternoon.

Wanted Good Stock Co.

Change three times a week; first-class house; large stage; all modern conveniences. Allen and Elleford write. MANAGER MARGARITA THEATRE, Eureka, Cal.

Time May be Booked in San Bernardino

Any companies coming as far south as San Bernardino and wanting to make dates for one night stands or for one week, can do so by writing to J. W. Leonard, manager of the Unique Theatre. Seating capacity 1,000 people, 5-piece orchestra and plenty of scenery. The house will hold about 1,400 people and never failed to have a packed house.

Andrews Opera Chairs

General Seating
School—Church—Bank
Office and Steel Rod
Furniture
Purchase direct from
manufacturer
THE A. H. ANDREWS CO.
Pacific Bldg., San Francisco
Chicago, New York, Tacoma

Opera, Folding and Assembly Chairs

Full Line
See Samples at 770-776
Mission St.
Bet. 3d and 4th Sts.
SAN FRANCISCO
Whitaker & Ray-
Wiggin Co.

Here is a real agent laying down the law to his better half. His name is Rod Waggoner, and he is acknowledged a clever showman. He is ahead of The Time, the Place and the Girl.

Dates Ahead

A GIRL AT THE HELM (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Omaha, Oct. 24-25; Creston, 26; Des Moines, 27; Grinnell, 28; Cedar Rapids, 29; Iowa City, 30; Clinton, 31; Waterloo, Nov. 1; Iowa Falls, 2; Mason City, 3; Albert Lea, 4; Rochester, 5; La Crosse, 6; St. Cloud, 7; Valley City, 8; Dickinson, 9; Miles City, 10; Billings, 11; Livingston, 12; Bozeman, 13; Butte, 14-15; Anaconda, 16; Grand Falls, 17; Helena, 18; Missoula, 19; Wallace, 20; Spokane, 21-28; Lewiston, 29; Pullman, 30.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Salt Lake, Oct. 24-31; Grand Junction, Nov. 1; Leadville, 2; Colorado Springs, 3; Boulder, 4; Ft. Collins, 5; Cheyenne, 6; Denver, 7-13; Victor, 14; Pueblo, 15; La Junta, 16; Trinidad, 17; Amarillo, 18; Wichita Falls, 19; Ft. Worth, 20; Dallas, 22; Waco, 23; San Antonio, 24; Houston, 25; Galveston, 26; Beaumont, 27; New Orleans, 28-Dec. 4.

ALLEN CURTIS MUSICAL COMEDY CO.—Walker Theatre, Los Angeles, Cal.

ALCAZAR STOCK.—San Francisco.

AS THE SUN WENT DOWN.—(Arthur C. Aiston, prop. and mgr.)—Stillwater, Oct. 23; St. Paul, 24-30; Minneapolis, 31-Nov. 6; Milwaukee, 7-13.

BELASCO STOCK CO.—Los Angeles.

BILLIE BURKE.—(Chas. Frohman, mgr.)—Sacramento, Oct. 23; Seattle, 25-30.

BISHOP'S PLAYERS.—In stock, Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland.

BLACK PATTI.—(R. Voelckel, mgr.)—Galveston, Oct. 23; Houston, 24-25; Beaumont, 27; Morgan City, 30-31; New Orleans, Nov. 7.

BLANCHE BATES (David Belasco.)—Tacoma, Oct. 25-26; Victoria, 27; Vancouver, 28-29; Bellingham, 30; Spokane, Nov. 1-3.

BLANCHE WALSH.—(A. H. Woods, mgr.)—Jackson, Oct. 22; Nashville, 23; Lexington, 25; Evansville, 26; Vincennes, 27; Louisville, 28-30.

CHARLES B. HANFORD (F. Lawrence Walker, mgr.)—Charleston, Oct. 22; Savannah, 23; Albany, 25; Americus, 26; Macon, 27; Columbus, 28; Troy, 29; Montgomery, 30; Selma, Nov. 1; Demopolis, 2; Meridian, 3; Tuscaloosa, 4; Birmingham, 5; Anniston, 6.

CHIC PERKINS (Frank G. King, mgr.)—Goodell, Oct. 23; Pocahontas, 25-26; Webster City, 27-28; Ames, 29-30.

DAVID WARFIELD.—(David Belasco, mgr.)—Mobile, Oct. 23; New Orleans, 25-30.

DREAMLAND.—Bakersfield, Oct. 25; Fresno, 26; San Jose, 27; Stockton, 28; Oakland, 29-30; San Francisco, 31, week; Sacramento, 7-8; Chico, 9; Eugene, 11; Albany, 12; Salem, 13; Portland, 14.

DUSTIN FARNUM IN CAMEO KIRBY.—Company is booked as far east as Butte, but may possibly get a wire at Seattle calling them into New York, where they will open at the Astor Theatre for an all-winter run.

EMMET DEVOY.—(W. G. Smyth, mgr.)—Bakersfield, Oct. 25; Fresno, 26; San Jose, 27; Stockton, 28; Oakland, 29-30.

FORTY-FIVE MINUTES FROM BROADWAY.—(Cohan & Harris, mgrs.)—Jamestown, Oct. 23; Bismarck, 25; Dickinson, 26; Miles City, 27; Billings, 28; Bozeman, 29; Helena, 30; Great Falls, 31.

FIFTY MILES FROM BOSTON. (Cohan & Harris, mgrs.)—Hanford, Oct. 23; Bakersfield, 24; Ventura, 25; Santa Barbara, 26; Redlands, 27; Riverside, 28; San Diego, 29-30; Los Angeles, 31.

GIRL QUESTION.—Omaha, Oct. 24-25; Sioux City, 31.

GUY SMITH STOCK.—Oakland, Cal.

HENRIETTA CROSMAN.—(Maurice Campbell, mgr.)—Kansas City, Oct. 24-27; Omaha, 28.

HONEYMOON TRAIL.—(Harry Chappell, mgr.)—San Jose, Oct. 24-25; Stockton, 26; Fresno, 27-28; Visalia, 29; Bakersfield, 30; Oakland, 31-Nov. 2; Sacramento, 3; Chico, 4; Medford, 5; Eugene, 6; Portland, 7.

HUMAN HEARTS CO. (Western, Wm. Franklin Riley, mgr.)—Boulder, Oct. 23; Butte, 24; Hamilton, 26; Stevensville, 27; Victor, 28; Missoula, 29; Wallace, 30.

IN WYOMING.—(H. E. Pierce & Co., mgrs.)—South Bend, Oct. 23; Tacoma, 24; Cle-Ulm, 25; Roslyn, 26; Ellensburg, 27; Sprague, 28; Colfax, 29; Pullman, 30; Spokane, 31, week; Wardner, Nov. 8; Wallace, 9; Missoula, 10; Hamilton, 11; Stephensville, 12; Victor, 13; Great Falls, 15; Helena, 16; Bozeman, 17.

IN OLD KENTUCKY.—(A. W. Dingwall, mgr.)—Portland, Oct. 24-27; Chico, 29; Sacramento, 30; San Francisco, 31.

ITALIAN OPERA CO.—Colorado Springs, Oct. 25; Pueblo, 26; Wichita, 28.

JUST OUT OF COLLEGE.—(Campbell & Bothner, mgrs.)—Colfax, 22-23; Spokane, 24-31.

LENA RIVERS.—(Barton & Wiswell, mgrs.)—South Bend, Oct. 25; Chehalis, 26; Aberdeen, 27; Elma, 28; Cheney, 30; Spokane, 31.

McFADDEN'S FLATS.—(Barton & Wiswell, mgrs.)—Omaha, Oct. 24-27; Leavenworth, 28; Topeka, 29; Lawrence, 30; Kansas City, 31.

McKENZIE'S MERRY MAKERS.—Roseburg, Oct. 21; Medford, 22, two weeks; Ashland, Nov. 5, two weeks.

MOROSCO'S BURBANK STOCK.—Los Angeles.

MURRAY & MACK'S VAUDEVILLE DATES.—Los Angeles, Orpheum, Oct. 18, two weeks; Salt Lake City, Orpheum, Nov. 7, week; Ogden, Orpheum, 14, week; Denver, Orpheum, 21, week; Lincoln, Orpheum, 28, week; Sioux City, Orpheum, Dec. 5, week; St. Paul, Orpheum, 12, week; Minneapolis, Orpheum, 19, week; Omaha, Orpheum, 26, week; Kansas City, Orpheum, Jan. 2, week; Chicago, Majestic, 9, week; St. Louis, American, 16, week; Chicago, Olympic, 23, week; Chicago, Haymarket, 30, week; Indianapolis, Grand, Feb. 7, week; Cincinnati, Columbia, 13, week; Louisville, Mary Anderson, 20, week; Memphis, Orpheum, March 6, week; New Orleans, Orpheum, 13, week; Mobile, Majestic, 20, week.

ON TRIAL FOR HIS LIFE.—(A. H. Woods, mgr.)—St. Louis, Oct. 17-23; Kansas City, 24-30.

PAID IN FULL.—(Wagenhals & Kemper Co., mgrs.)—Fergus Falls, Oct. 25; Wahpeton, 26; Aberdeen, 27; Watertown, 28; Sioux Falls, 29; Mitchell, 30.

POLLY OF THE CIRCUS.—(Frederic Thompson, mgr.)—Tulsa, Oct. 25; Oklahoma City, 26-27;

Fort Worth, 28-30.

RAYMOND, THE GREAT.—(Maurice F. Raymond, mgr.)—Bordeaux, France, Oct. 25-30; Liverpool, England, Nov. 3-10; Dublin, Ireland, 14-20; Glasgow, Scotland, 23-30.

RICHARDS & PRINGLE'S MINSTRELS (Holland & Filkins.)—Canyon City, Oct. 23; Hereford, 25; Clovis, 26; Roswell, 27; Carlsbad, 28; Pesos, 29; Midland, 30.

SANFORD DODGE.—(B. S. Ford, Mgr.)—Brigham, Utah, Nov. 5-6; Nephi, 10-11; Richfield, 15-16; Provo, 22-23; Payson, 24-25; Eureka, 29-30.

SIS HOPKINS (J. R. Stirling.)—Milwaukee, 24, week; Waukegan, 31.

SOUL KISS.—Okla, Oct. 22-23; Denver, 25-31.

THE CLIMAX.—Vancouver, Oct. 25-27; Westminster, 28; Bellingham, 29; Everett, 30; South Bend, Nov. 1; Chehalis, 2; Ellensburg, 3; North Yakima, 4; Pendleton, 5; Walla Walla, 6.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Los Angeles, Oct. 24-30; San Diego, 31-Nov. 1; Santa Ana, 2; Pomona, 3; Riverside, 4; San Bernardino, 5; Redlands, 6; Phoenix, 8-9; Bisbee, 10; Douglas, 11; El Paso, 12-14; Albuquerque, 15; Santa Fe, 16; Las Vegas, 17; Rocky Ford, 18; Leadville, 19; Grand Junction, 20; Salt Lake, 21-27; Ogden, 28; Park City, 29; Rock Springs, 30.

THE THIRD DEGREE (B.)—(H. B. Harris, mgr.)—San Francisco, Oct. 18-31.

THE WORKINGMAN'S WIFE.—(A. H. Woods, mgr.)—Kansas City, Oct. 17-23; St. Louis, 24-30.

THE TRAVELING SALESMAN (B.)—Tucson, Oct. 23; Los Angeles, 25.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR CO.—(Western.)—(Brady & Grismer.)—Boulder, Oct. 25; Ft. Collins, 26; Greeley, 27; Victor, 28; Colorado Springs, 29; Leadville, 30; Salt Lake City, Nov. 1-3; Ogden, 4; San Bernardino, 6.

TIME, PLACE AND GIRL (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Oakland, Oct. 21-23; San Francisco, 24-30; San Jose, 31; Marysville, Nov. 1; Woodland, 2; Reno, 3-4; Minnemukca, 5; Elko, 6; Salt Lake, 7-13; Ogden, 14; Provo, 15; Grand Junction, 16; Glenwood, 17; Leadville, 18; Salida, 19; Colorado Springs, 20; Trinidad, 21; Goodland, 22; Norton, 23; Beatrice, 24; Omaha, 25-27; St. Joe, 28-29; Junction City, 30.

TEXAS.—Butte, Oct. 22-23; Great Falls, 24; Bozeman, 25; Livingston, 26; Billings, 27.

THRE TWINS.—(J. M. Gaites, mgr.)—Astoria, Oct. 24; Salem, 25; Eugene, 26; Red Bluff, 27; Chico, 28; Marysville, 29; Woodland, 30.

WRIGHT LORIMER.—(W. A. Brady, mgr.)—Yakima, Oct. 22-23; Everett, 25-26; Whatcom, 27-28; Victoria, 29-30.

YANKEE DOODLE STOCK COMPANY.—(George V. Haliday, mgr.)—St. Cloud, Oct. 24 and week.

Barrie Gets His Divorce

LONDON, Oct. 13.—James M. Barrie, the novelist and playwright, was today granted a divorce from his wife on the ground of the latter's misconduct with Gilbert Cannan, a young

GOLDSTEIN & CO.
COSTUMERS for all Pacific Coast Theatres.
Goldstein's Hair and Wig Store.
Make-Up, Play Books. Established 1876.
Lincoln Building, Market and Fifth Sts.

author. The suit was not defended. Mrs. Barrie was formerly Mary Ansell, an actress. Barrie took the witness stand. He stated that in 1908 he had permitted the correspondent the use of a cottage which he owned at Farnham. It was at this cottage that the alleged misconduct took place. The plaintiff said the matter first came to his ears from the servants and that when the accusations were made known to his wife she admitted their truth. Barrie said he offered to forgive the offenses on condition that the defendant should break off her acquaintance with Cannan. He also said he would consent to an agreement of separation. Both offers were refused by Mrs. Barrie, who pleaded with her husband to set her free, declaring that Cannan was the only man in the world to her. No damages are asked by the plaintiff, but Cannan must pay the costs.

J. M. Barrie the novelist and playwright, did not enter suit for divorce, it is now asserted by his friends, until Gilbert Cannan, whom he named as co-respondent, took a solemn pledge to marry Mrs. Barrie after the decree should be granted. Moreover, as Cannan is not well provided with money, Barrie made a handsome settlement on his wife before he filed his petition for separation, making her financially independent. Throughout the whole affair, Barrie acted with the greatest generosity, although he was grievously afflicted. Cannan has written a play which will be the next production by Herbert French in his repertoire at the Haymarket Theatre.

The early part of December will see charming Fritz Scheff as the welcome attraction at the Van Ness Theatre, where she will make her appearance in the new musical work, The Prima Donna. Her last engagement here was as Mlle. Modiste, and she played to one of the record engagements of the Van Ness.

All Kinds of SCENERY
Painted, built and installed. The only real Scenic Studio on the Coast. Get our prices. For Road or House productions.
Front and Sheridan Sts. Portland, Oregon

C. F. Weber & Co.
Opera Chairs
All Styles of THEATRE AND HALL SEATS
365-7 Market Street San Francisco
210-212 N. Main St. Los Angeles

FRED O. OSBORNE, Manager
Theatrical Code, "Santapole"
Home Phone F 5037
New York Dramatic Agency
Booking
Dramatic and Vaudeville Acts
Organizing and Routing Companies, Supplying "Scripts," Etc.
Belasco Theatre Building, Los Angeles
Entire Third Floor

George Broadhurst Has a Lot of New Plays in Prospect

"The critics have said that my best plays were man-plays." So spoke George Broadhurst in Los Angeles, early in the week. "I am going to take them at their word. The next play I write I shall write to please myself. It will be a serious drama, and it will be a study of women, or rather, of woman. I have come to live in Los Angeles for that purpose, and I shall take the winter to it." When the Belasco Stock Company in that city puts on its expected series of plays from his pen, as the management already has announced it will do, Mr. Broadhurst will direct the productions. Among these it is likely that several new works will have their initial tryout, and among them very possibly his drama of woman, of which he frankly spoke of in this interview. As he talked, Mr. Broadhurst enacted the theme of his conversation. One listened, and one watched, too. In candid discussion of the conditions prevailing on the American stage, he spoke of the men who are its masters—and servants—managerial, histrionic and play-writing. He illustrated his descriptions with attitude and gesture. It was a sort of long-distance introduction. And one went away feeling that Klaw & Erlanger, the Shuberts, Brady and Brooks, were real men, not prized trademarks, for one had met them—by proxy. "I shall make Los Angeles my home for the winter," said the playwright. "I have work enough ahead to make it something more than a mere holiday, too. A comedy for Grace George and a new play for Lillian Russell—the latter in collaboration with George V. Hobart—are first on the docket. Then I shall write a play to please myself. I shall write it first and talk to the managers afterwards. Except Wildfire, in none of my dramas has the accent been on the woman. In this play I will put it there. The theme will be woman's moods and ways, and I shall treat it from that angle." Asked as to the recent temper of New York to new productions, Mr. Broadhurst called the roll of several plays now running on Broadway. Some of the plays which other parts of the country had crowned with unmistakable approval, such as Israel Zangwill's Melting Pot, were mentioned. "No one can gauge New York, dramatically," he said. "It is as true there as elsewhere in America today that the successful playwrights have conquered every meaningless prejudice and almost every nominal tradition by their recent productions. It used to be said that no play centering around husband and wife could win. Look at Arizona, rejected by one manager because it violated this supposed truism. Look at The Thief, which also did, and in addition deliberately deceived the audience during and up to the end of the first act as to the real criminal. We heard it said that no play dealing bluntly with political life could succeed, and I half believed it when I wrote The Man of the Hour. There was an old prejudice against bringing religion into a play. Now we have The Melting Pot and many others. So it

STEVE I. SIMMONS

MAXWELL ALEXANDER

Columbia Scenic Studio Co.

Estimates on all Classes of Theatrical Work

Office, 117 Fell St., S. F.

George P. Webster

Stage Director

Ye Liberty Playhouse Stock, Oakland, Cal.

Arthur E. Witting-Mattie Davis

Character Actor

Joint or Single
AT LIBERTY

Character Actress

Address San Diego, Calif., Boundary and Howard Streets.

Reva Raymond

Leading Woman

Edwin T. Emery Stock—American Theatre

Augustus Phillips

Leading Man

Alcazar Stock—San Francisco

Charles E. Royal & Elliott Edythe

Presenting Charles E. Royal's wonderful Burglar Playlet,

IN VAUDEVILLE "STRAIGHTENING A CROOK,"

and six other excellent playlets.

BERT LEVEY, AGENT.

goes. I have seen some fine productions in New York recently, and some capable casts, notably the one which has been producing my Dollar Mark there. The New Theatre hopes to give us the same thing on a somewhat larger scale in New York, if it succeeds. I see they have obtained Edward Sheldon's latest drama, which he calls The Nigger. It should succeed, for it has been refused by every New York manager. That is not sarcasm, but literal truth and precedent, and you may quote me to that effect." Mr. Broadhurst spoke a good word for the newer dramatic offerings and voiced a frank and unhesitating condemnation of unclean plays. "They do not live," was the simple dismissal of the subject. "They do not live, except as pulpit and press unconsciously combine to fan the public curiosity about them by frantic condemnation. They pass from sight as quickly as the diatribes of the fanatical traducers of the theatre, of whom few remain today."

Judge Quinn's court in Oakland was the scene of a pretty wedding Thursday afternoon of last week, when two members of the Ferris Hartman company, now playing at the Broadway, were united in marriage. The contracting parties, who were escorted to the very doors of the Justice of the Peace office by merry members of the company, who were not, however, admitted to the ceremony, are L. A. Bowers, an actor playing minor parts, and Hazel Rogers, a chorus girl.

CHAS.—THE GLOCKERS — ANNA
"OH YOU WATER KIDS"—Fully Copyrighted. Pantages Circuit.

ORRIN SHEAR

Eccentric Characters

Engaged

FRANK OPPERMAN

Supporting Millidge Sherwood
in King Lear

JAMES O'REILLY

Characters

Engaged Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

DAVE LERNER

Playing the David Warfield Roles
With Nat Field at Central Theatre

COL. D. P. STONER

Business Manager Newman Foltz Co.
Care Dramatic Review

THURLOW WHITE

Leads, Heavies
Address, Dramatic Review

HERBERT MILTON

Characters and Heavies
At Liberty Care of Dramatic Review

CHARLES E. GUNN

Leads
Care Dramatic Review

BERT PORTER

Juveniles
Newman-Foltz Co.

MAX WAIZMAN

Newman-Foltz Co.

ADA LUCUS

Soubrette and Ingenue
Dramatic offers invited.
Care Dramatic Review

EDWARD B. LADA

General Music Director
for Belasco & Mayer

A. BURT WESNER

Comedian
At Liberty Care Dramatic Review

TEDDY WEBB

Comedian, San Francisco Opera Co.
Direction Frank Healey

HARRY J. LASK

Representative New York Clipper
N. E. Cor. Sansome and Pine Sts.

HARRY MARSHALL

Scenic Artist
At Liberty. 3748 Vermont Ave., Los Angeles

MINOR REED

Scenic Artist
At Liberty Address Dramatic Review

CARRIE CLARKE WARDE

Characters

CHESTER STEVENS

Heavies
Grand Opera House Stock; Los Angeles

MARY HARVEY-BARBOUR

Leads (Versatile)
3d Ave. Theatre, Seattle

FREDERICK GILBERT

Burbank Stock, Los Angeles

ARTHUR SHEPPARD

Scenic Artist Care Dramatic Review

HOWARD FOSTER

Care Dramatic Review

IRENE OUTTRIM

Willard Mack Co.—Salt Lake City.

PIETRO SOSSO

Chas. King Stock Co.
Pickwick Theatre, San Diego

ANITA MURRAY

Ingenue
At Liberty Care of Dramatic Review

HERMAN HELLER

Musical Director
Valencia Theatre Social engagements filled

DAN KELLY

Comedian
Care Dramatic Review

FLORENCE DAVENPORT

Ingenue or Soubrette
At Liberty. Care of Dramatic Review

GEORGIE WOODTHORPE

Characters
Broadway Theatre, Oakland

ALFRED ROWLAND

Supporting Millidge Sherwood in King
Lear, Season 1909-10.
Care Dramatic Review

LAURA LUCILE HEIMLICH

Leads
Everett, Wash.

FRED S. CUTLER

Manager Richard Jose
In "SILVER THREADS"
Address care Dramatic Review

OLGA GRAY

Leading Woman
Empire Stock Co., Fresno, Cal.

ANNA RODGERS

Ingenues and Leads
At Liberty Care of Dramatic Review

HILDA GRAHAM

Leads
Care Dramatic Review.

GEORGE VON BLIX

Stage Manager
Newman-Foltz Co.

Walter H. Newman AND Bertha Foltz

Starring Jointly

High-Class Repertoire

Season 1909 and 1910

Alf. T. Layne    Daisy D'Avra

Del Lawrence Stock, Victoria

Edith Lyle

Ye Liberty Stock, Oakland

Donald Bowles

Dramatic Director Geo. L. Baker's Attractions.
Address Bungalow Theatre, Portland, Oregon.
Loaned by Mr. Baker to direct Mr. James Neill's Company for him in St. Paul, Minn.

Neva West

Care Dramatic Review

Permanent Address, 2110 Post Street

Johnny Williams, Jr.

"FRISCO"

"The Man in Front." Can Book or Wild Cat

Louise Kent

In Vaudeville

Her Own Company

Pantages Circuit

Claire Sinclair

Second Business

Stock

Seattle Theatre, Seattle

E. P. Foot

GENERAL MUSICAL DIRECTOR

At Liberty

Care Grand Opera House

Mina Crolus Gleason

Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland

Louis Morrison

Belasco Stock Co.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Seibert & Lindley

Presenting the headline act, "HER OWN MOTHER," in vaudeville.

Sidney B. Payne

Lyric Stock, Portland, Or.

Sydney Ayres

Leading Man

Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, Cal.

Budd Ross

Comedian

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Al Hallett

Stage Director

Empire Stock, Fresno

F. F. Munier

Characters

Empire Stock, Fresno

Priscilla Knowles

Leads

Bennett Jack

Characters

Lyric Theatre, Portland

Carlton Chase

Leading Man

Kolb and Dill

Evelyn Selbie-Virginia Thornton

Alternating Leads

Frawley Co., Alaska

George B. Baldwin, Jr.

Alcazar Stock, San Francisco

Monroe Salisbury

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

James Austin Gleason—Webster Lucile

Playing Title Role in Checkers

Juveniles in Checkers

Godfrey Matthews

Second Business

Broadway Stock—Oakland, Cal.

Leslie King

Season with E. H. Sothern
Closed June 17th

Immediately Engaged by
Frederic Thompson for Folly of the Circus
To open June 29th

Initial Western Tour of The Reigning Dramatic Success

HENRY B. HARRIS Presents

THE THIRD DEGREE

By Charles Klein, Author of The Lion and The Mouse, Direct from a seven months' run at the Hudson Theatre, New York

Spotlights

The new Columbia Theatre, now in course of construction at the corner of Geary and Mason streets, is rapidly nearing completion and the first of the coming year will see Gottlob and Marx's big attractions housed in the most beautiful temple of amusement ever erected in the West.

Victor Moore, in the musical comedy, The Talk of New York, written especially for him by George M. Cohan, will shortly appear at the Van Ness Theatre, surrounded by the same company that played with him in New York. It is said to be an exceptionally attractive offering.

James Forbes' comedy, The Traveling Salesman, is underlined at the Van Ness Theatre and will follow The Third Degree. It is said to be an especially laughy comedy, which has been as successful as the author's other work, The Chorus Lady, in which Rose Stahl appeared here.

Joseph Weber is a busy man these days. He is the manager of nine companies. Eight of these are presenting The Climax, while the other one is the travesty of The Merry Widow and the Devil, in which Mr. Weber himself is both manager and star. The famous Weber chorus this season surpasses even that of former years.

T. Daniel Frawley and company have arrived in Seattle from Alaska. They will leave almost immediately for Honolulu, where they open an indefinite season on November 10th. Joe Reiley will go along as manager. The cast for Augustus Thomas' new was produced at the Garrick Theatre, in New York, October 18th, includes the following players: George Nash, J. G. Saville, Lionel Adams, Thomas Russell, brother of Annie Russell and who returns to the stage after an absence of some years; Stanley Wright, Jennie Eustace, Adelaide Nowak, Margaret Sayres, and Helena DeKay.

Marie Dressler has returned from her summer home at Windsor, Vermont, to New York, to begin active rehearsals in a musical play, Tillie's Nightmare, in which she is to star this season under the management of Lew Fields. The opening date is not yet announced, but will probably be early in November.

Old Dutch, the play in which Lew Fields will star this season, is the story of a Viennese inventor who, while visiting in the Austrian Tyrol, attempts to hide his identity. The music is by Victor Herbert, book by Edgar Smith, and the lyrics by Geo. V. Hobart. Ned Wayburn will stage the production.

Charles Klein, who wrote The Lion and The Mouse and the Third Degree and makes a specialty of topical plays, has chosen as the subject for his next effort the sensational dismissal of Charles R. Crane as minister to China by Secretary Knox. The play, as he outlines it, will deal with the humors of diplomacy. Such is the news sent out from the Klein press bureau.

Violet Spaulding, Mrs. Eli Cates in real life, show girl with Ferris Hartman's company, last week playing in Oakland, has filed suit to annul her marriage to the Oakland ball player on the ground that Cates is a bigamist.

Ira Joseph, he who hands you out the pasteboards from behind the wicket at the Belasco in Los Angeles, has confessed that he is about to sail upon the sea of matrimony, and is receiving, with a smile, the congratulations and good wishes of all.

J. S. LONDON, for two years sporting editor of the New York Sun, is on the Coast ahead of Emmet Devoy, who is starring this season in In Dreamland.

LEE WILLARD is playing The Man From Missouri and at present is touring in the Northwest. William Sterling is his manager and Grace Fredericks his leading woman.

MAUD FAY, the San Francisco grand opera singer, opens the New Theatre in New York on November 3, and later on, on the 13th, appears before Kaiser Wilhelm at the Royal Opera House in Munich on the opening night.

MAYBELLE BAKER, who fell while leaving the Princess Theatre after the opening night of Kolb and Dill and broke a leg in two places, is getting along nicely and expects to be out in about eight weeks. Octavia Broska is playing the lead in the meantime and acquitting herself with the utmost credit.

J. G. WRAY, of the Wray-Edner company, has just secured the Coast rights from Malcolm Douglas of Nan of the Vandevilles which has been running serially in the N. Y. Telegraph, and which will soon be produced in the East, and also a new farce by the same author called At Santa Cruz.

THE fact that Marguerite Clarke played Peter Pan in stock in St. Louis the past summer is said to have decided Lee Shubert to cast her for a legitimate part. This she will have in Owen Davis's The Wishing Ring. Rehearsals are already under way. Robert Dempster, now leading man with the Shubert stock company, Brooklyn, will serve in a similar capacity with Miss Clarke.

Personals

DUSTIN FARNUM, owing to poor train service going into Victoria, missed his date in that city and turned back $800.

EDWARD CORT will soon be in town to assume the duties of treasurer of the Colonial Theatre. His assistant will be Charlie Newman.

CHARLES BASWITZ, who used to be a Morosco actor on Howard street under the name of Charles Bassett, is in town ahead of The Ringmaster.

The Greatest Cast of Singers Headed by THOS. H. PERSSE Tenor EDITH MASON Soprano	Now Booking Season 1909 &amp; 10 The Persse-Mason Co. In the New Operatic Comedy The Singing Bandits Book and Music by HERMAN PERLET THOS. H. PERSSE.....Sole Proprietor LOUIS LISSNER.....Manager Permanent Address: Dramatic Review, Van Ness Theatre Building, San Francisco	Everything Complete — New Scenery — Excellent Music — Quartette of Comedians
---	--	---

Season	William Stoermer Presents	09-10
<h2>Millidge Sherwood</h2>
In a Sumptuous Scenic Revival of
<h3>... King Lear ...</h3>
Car of Scenery	25 People Two "Ahead"	Beautifully Costumed

<h2>Pacific Coast Tour early in 1910</h2>
Company headed by Estha Williams	AS THE SUN WENT DOWN By Geo. D. Baker	Address ARTHUR C. AISTON Sole Owner Room 304 1505 Broadway N. Y. City Tel. 941 Bryant

THE SAN FRANCISCO DRAMATIC REVIEW

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Published Continuously Since 1880. The Only Theatrical Publication in the Great West

Ten Cents a Copy—$4.00 a Year

San Francisco, Saturday, October 30, 1909

No. 10—Vol. XXI—New Series

Richard Cummings

Catherine Merley

Interesting Details of the New Theatre

The New Theatre at Central Park West and Sixty-second Street, which will inaugurate its first season Monday night, November 1st, with a magnificent revival of Shakespeare's Antony and Cleopatra has been completed, save for a few finishing touches. The seat and box lists prove beyond question that the premiere will be the most notable civic and fashionable event New York has seen in years. As is already well known, this magnificent structure was erected by thirty representative citizens wholly in the interests of dramatic art and is intended to take the place of a National Theatre, such as the Comedie Francaise of Paris and the Hof-burg of Vienna. The institution and its purposes have created favorable comment throughout the civilized world, and as one result the audience on inauguration night will include distinguished personages from many countries abroad, as well as men and women who have achieved distinction in art, literature, science and the professions in America. The entire building is not, as is usually the case, given over to the auditorium and the stage, thereby sacrificing the possibility of architectural effect, but instead, conforms more nearly to the Continental type in which the stage and audience room occupy but a moderate portion of the whole. Thus it has been possible to provide for a commodious foyer, two grand staircases, retiring and smoking rooms, a tea room, restaurant, buffet, offices for the directorate and staff, scores of entrances and exits, numerous circulations and vestibules and a founders' room, green room and library. The structure is both dignified and imposing. It is of clear gray Indiana limestone, occupying an entire block frontage between Sixty-second and Sixty-third Streets, and, architecturally as well as in its location, suggests a civic, even a national institution. Although the theatre is modern, it is somewhat in the spirit of the Italian Renaissance of the late sixteenth century, and reminds one in a degree of the Sansovino Library in the Piazza di San Marco, Venice. From the cornerstone, laid more than a year ago, to the delightful roof garden and terrace with which the structure is capped, it is a playhouse in every sense of the word. The front entrances are on the park side, while the carriage entrances are on Sixty-second and Sixty-third Sts. Once within the effect is simple, majestic and artistic rather than gaudy sumptuous. The ground floor, as in all latter-day playhouses, embodies the orchestra, or main auditorium, but here the similarity ceases. Not only have the sight-lines been studied with the idea of obtaining an exquisite, harmonious effect with out impairing the conditions for seeing and hearing, but the orchestra and balconies have been surrounded with circulations calculated to contribute to the enjoyment and comfort of the playgoer. Standing on the stage, the auditorium stretches away in an ellipse, the long axis of which is parallel to the proscenium arch. Under this arrangement, which follows the precedent of the Wagner Theatre at Bayreuth, the centre box is no further from the stage than the last seat in the orchestra in the usual theatre. In other words, the auditorium is the shape of half an egg, with the proscenium arch in the center of the straight line. Along the curved line rise the founders' boxes, the foyer stalls and first and second balconies in a receding field of driftwood gray and dull Roman gold, the predominating color notes in the decorations. The auditorium is surrounded on each floor by a broad corridor, which forms a circulation to be used between acts as well as in entering and leaving the playhouse. On the ground floor access is obtained to this through many vestibules and entrances, some of which lead directly to the corridor and others to the boxes, stairways and balconies, or to other parts of the house. At the corners are two monumental, spiral staircases of great beauty. Each is double, one flight being directly over the other, and makes the ascent without meeting. As the boxes are raised four feet from the orchestra floor, they are reached from the main corridor by ascending a half flight of stone steps. This brings one to the private hall, which, in turn, leads to the small parlor in the rear of the box. From the top of this half flight of steps the main foyer is reached by ascending another flight of equal length. It is this foyer, by the way, which will contain the majority of the art works to be exhibited from time to time. W. K. Vanderbilt took from the ceiling of his ballroom three famous Baudry paintings and gave them to the theatre, and he then gave the additional money necessary to beautify the room. The foyer is constructed of rich Sienna marble and gold and has at either end an orchestra platform cut off by arches which will be used by the orchestra during intermissions whenever dramatic performances are given. At one end of the circulation on the same floor as the foyer is a tea room daintily done in a Wedgewood effect, the predominant colors being pale green and white. Here tea will be served to those who so desire during the entr'actes. At the other end of the circulation is the women's retiring room, pleasingly decorated in a similar manner. The circulations in the rear of the first and second balconies are commodious and intended to be used as promenades during intermissions. On one floor is the founders' room, splendidly fitted, and on the other the library. The former has been furnished by the founders themselves and is remarkable for its taste and beauty. The library for the players, which adjoins the dressing rooms, is a model of its kind and has oak bookcases rising from the floor to the ceiling. The books will include standard works on the drama, books of reference and volumes devoted to art. Many have been given the institution, while others have been purchased. The top floor of the theatre in the front is devoted to a picturesque roof garden, which at the present time is used for rehearsals. This garden, which will delight the eye of all lovers of the beautiful, sets back a bit from the terrace overlooking Central Park and is partly roofed with glass. The doors, all of glass, lead to the walled terrace, which may be decorated with potted plants and vari-colored lanterns when the garden is opened to the public. In all probability a stage will be erected here for concerts or performances of one kind and another. Back of the garden are smaller rehearsal rooms, two circular in shape comfortably furnished rooms for chorus men and women and model make-up rooms for supernumeraries, etc. They are all airy and illuminated during the

HOME OFFICE
BURBANK THEATRE BUILDING
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Oliver Morosco's Plays

Ready for Stock

The Judge and the Jury      The Halfbreed
The Empress and the Soldier
In South Car'liney

Is the New Majestic a winner? Well, we guess yes

MOROSCO'S
BURBANK THEATRE
Los Angeles, Cal.
"The Best in the West"
The Leading Stock House.

Hamburger's MAJESTIC Theatre
The Handsomest in the West
Cost $300,000.00
Oliver Morosco, Lessee & Mgr
For time address JOHN CORT

daytime by skylights. In reality they have every appearance of modern studios and could be used as such. This floor, like others, is reached by large elevators, so that neither the actors nor the public visiting the garden will be forced to climb lengthy flights of stairs. The green room, in disuse since the days of the late Augustin Daly, has been revived. It is located on the ground floor, just off the stage, on the Sixty-third Street side and is adjacent to two extra dressing-rooms, to be occupied only when quick changes are necessary. The room will be handsomely furnished, hung with pictures in keeping with tradition and, as of old, will be used by the players for social intercourse. It will never be open to the public. The dressing-rooms rise tier upon tier from the stage floor up on this side of the theatre. Each is fitted with a double wardrobe containing interior electric lights, a marble-topped make-up table with vari-colored lights that the effects of paint, powder and wigs may be determined; comfortable lounging and other chairs and hot and cold water. On each floor are tub and shower baths and many other heretofore unheard-of luxuries and conveniences for the use of the players. The officers of the directorate and executive staff are on the third, fourth and fifth floors. Of course, the house is fitted with the latest appliances for quick communication, fire apparatus, etc. The stage is 100 feet wide and has a proscenium opening 42 feet wide by 40 feet high. The height from the stage floor to the gridiron is 112 feet, and the depth from the stage to the bottom of the pit beneath, 42 feet.

boys, in the meanwhile were busy distributing copies of a sheet which had printed across the top in bold headlines, "Regal Theatre Unfair," and below this was a two-column attack to the effect that the five crafts employed by theatres, the stage hands, bill posters, picture-machine operators and the allied printing trades council had declared that the Regal is the only "unfair" theatre in Los Angeles, and that "an active campaign had been inaugurated by organized labor, and no lawful means will be overlooked to bring the Regal to terms." On a screen across the street, various union declarations of independence and denunciation of the Regal were flashed, alternating with moving pictures. The patrolman on the beat, when the crowd began to gather so thickly as to be annoying, tried to clear the sidewalk, but the boycotters simply closed in behind him, and he was compelled to call for reinforcements. A sergeant responded with a squad of about six men, and cleared the sidewalk, compelling the crowd to move to the farther side of the street. The distribution of the sheet was also stopped, but two of the leaders of the movement returned from a visit to the Chief of Police and informed the sergeant that the Chief had told them there was no ordinance to prevent the distribution of "newspapers." The sergeant obeyed and the yelling urchins resumed their work, more vociferous than ever, but the crowd was soon dispersed. It was stated among the crowd that this was but the beginning and that the following night the teamsters would be on hand, and that there would be something doing.

Regal Theatre Suffers Boycott in Los Angeles

A Los Angeles picture show house is just now undergoing a terrific struggle with the labor unions. The picture house, The Regal, decided to operate an "open shop" house. The unions decided otherwise. A visiting showman described the scene enacted in front of The Regal on Oct. 15, as follows: Early in the evening a dozen boys, escorted by several hundred unionists, gathered about the entrance to the theatre, blocking the sidewalk and part of the street, shouting their denunciations of the theatre and everything connected with it. The

King Lear Closes

Millidge Sherwood, in King Lear, under the management of Wm. Stoermer, closed in Livermore Wednesday of last week, after two weeks of bad business. The one-nighters did not want Shakespeare.

OLIVER MOROSCO, the Los Angeles manager, spent a few days in town last week.

WORD IS SENT up from Los Angeles that Oliver Morosco has just been presented with a life honor membership from No. 99, B. P. O. E. This is indeed a compliment, for honor memberships in this order are extremely rare.

Hotel St. James

Cor. Van Ness Ave. and Fulton St.
San Francisco, California

Headquarters for Agents and Managers

Half Block from Van Ness Theatre.
Friars meet at the St. James every Friday night.

F. P. SHANLEY, Manager, formerly of New York

Correspondence

DENVER, Oct. 16.—The Broadway—The past week at the leading theatre of Denver, Henrietta Crossman, one of Denver's old stock stars and a genuine favorite here, scored a brilliant triumph in her play, Sham. The Tabor—The Girl at the Helm at the Tabor was a scream all through. There were pretty girls to burn, good music and dazzling costumes besides. Billy Clifford, who was featured as the bright particular star and the fifty or more broilers had like to have overshadowed him entirely. Were it not for his dancing Billy would not be so much, but he is a wizard with the togs on. The other principals are exceptionally fine in their various roles and the comedy is rolled off like hot cakes. Curtis—Crazy, rip-roaring melodrama is still holding sway at the Curtis and it would seem that Manager Van Dyke of the stock company and Manager Schmutzer of the house would be afraid to meet themselves in the dark after having handed us over the footlights five weeks of rum colored and aerial looking makeshifts in the way of plays. Most of them have had the tag of the insane asylum or the dope-den or the backwoods of Mars. Wow! but the past week was given over to rubbish, which, after witnessing it, you would be ashamed to meet your best friend at breakfast the next morning. But the Van Dyke aggregation of players are getting stronger all the time and with their splendid team work and spirit and beauty, it would seem that the time was ripe for them to attempt something sane and wholesome. Orpheum—There was a splendid bill at the Orpheum this week and Mabel McCane lived up to expectation in the reputation she had sent on ahead for beauty. Her songs are captivating and her manner winsome and pleasing. Lena Pantzer uses a spade for dancing, then she takes a turn with a wire, and part of the time she uses the floor. She made a big hit and will lead anywhere. A Western comedy called The Dancing Tenderheel was presented by Pansy Moore, who impersonates a cowboy, an Indian, and a "right good fellow." She is an adept in removing great quantities of false hair and her audience superintended every turn of her act. She is mighty clever and brisk in hitting off the good spots of her act. The Curzon Sisters, who helped to add to the beauty of the week, gave an acrobatic bout before a beautiful setting, making the whole ensemble a pretty picture full of grace and charm. The next beauty to bedazzle us was Eleanor Gordon, who presented a comedietta called Tips on Taps. The piece is a fairly good one. The Russian dancers, the Hirschhoof Troupe, and the Five Avolos, known as the crack xlyphone artists of the world, were both good acts. Yet I never could appreciate a xlyphone performance, but the audience did, so I bow in humble judgment to the decree of an American audience.

Emma Herey-Meyer.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 16.—Tulane Theatre: Packed houses during the week greeted Geo. M. Cohan and his capable company in his latest creation, The Yankee Prince. The playwright, song writer and actor was supported in chief by Jerry and Helen F. Cohan, his sister, Josephine Cohan, being absent from the cast on account of illness. The play is a typical Cohan product, full of ginger, with rollicking music and chorus effects most alluring. It is a satire on royalty, and carries the thread of an interesting love gambol. Several catchy airs are haunting, principally I'm Awfully Strong for You, The Yankee Prince Waltz and From the Land of Dreams. Geo. M. is, of course, the same incomparable dancer, graceful and energetic, but since his rise to fame, I could not repress the conclusion that he was not singing with the same gusto, nor did any encores carry any great responsive enthusiasm. Of course the work allotted to Jerry and Helen Cohan was faultlessly executed. The greatest interest is centered in the support given by Lila Rhodes and Mildred Elaine. The former is the understudy for Josephine Cohan and was most pleasing. She is graceful and pretty and should have a bright future. Her dancing was bewitching. Mildred Elaine, though cast as the villainess, inspired only adoration. Miss Elaine can rightfully claim a place among the stage beauties. Brimful of soulfulness, her artistry stood out like a cameo, and her charms were heightened by a glorious contralto voice and the ability to wear two fetching gowns. This young woman has magnetism and then some. Tom Lewis, who created the role of The Unknown in Little Johnny Jones, is back at his old tricks and has us all in perpetual good humor with a similar part. The work of P. B. Pratt, Frank Hollias, and Sam J. Ryan is entitled to extended mention. In distributing flowers, let's particularly endow the chorus for the beauty of the girls and general effectiveness. The Yankee Prince will soon be on the Coast to electrify it. Next week, The Gentleman from Mississippi. Crescent Theatre: One of the best melodramas ever played here is the week's offering to good business. Pierre of the Plains, with Severin de Deyn in the title part, is strong, virile and rich in dramatic intensity. The supporting company was capable. Next week, Too Many Wives.

W. L. McCONNELL.

EUREKA, Oct. 18.—The Empire has Marshall, the handcuff king with his company, in here for two weeks and is doing a record breaking business every night. Marshall's work with handcuffs and such is very clever. With Marshall on his vaudeville list are Musical Fletcher, who is doing great with the audiences; Sherlock and Holmes, singing and dancing, are also making good. The Abbotts in popular sketches are taking well and Ethylinde Roberts is as neat a soubrette as Eureka has seen. The entire show is first-class. Marshall made a big dive into Humboldt Bay last Saturday handcuffed before a crowd of several thousand people. The Margarita is doing well and is putting in many people every night. Sam Van Allen is singing the illustrated songs and is making good.

ANNUAL
TOUR OF

THE ELLEFORD COMPANY

IN LATEST DRAMATIC ROYALTY SUCCESSES
Pacific Coast Representative for Brady and Grismer's
MAN OF THE HOUR and WAY DOWN EAST
"A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI"

W. J. ELLEFORD, Sole Proprietor and Director

FRANK WYMAN, Manager

Permanent Address, Francis-Valentine Co., 285-287 13th St., S. F.

The Pastime is packing them every night and are running a great series of pictures. Erny Lancaster is singing the illustrated. Theatrical business here is great and every house is on easy street, although every boat that leaves is taking a great amount of people away to San Francisco for the Portola, and a short lull is liable to happen for a week or so.

Neal Anderson.

TACOMA, Oct. 16.—At the Tacoma Theatre, the early offerings of the week were Texas, on Oct. 10, and Uncle Josh Perkins, 11th, both of which appeared here last season. The Three Twins opened last night to capacity business, duplicating its success of two weeks ago. Not for many seasons has any attraction seen here made such a pronounced hit. At tonight's performance Adele Meeker substituted for Minnie Allen, who is suffering from a severe cold. Oct. 17-18, John E. Young in Lo; 19-21, The Climax; 23, Chauncey Olcott; 25-26, Blanche Bates. At the Grand Theatre A Bunch of Kids composed of nine capable young people had an entertaining act, composed mostly of singing. Henry Beresford and company amused with a ridiculous sketch concerning a "pantaloone gown." George and Belle Stelling were clever in their hat balancing and twirling sketch. Josephine Amsley had a fair singing act. The Grandscope pictures were particularly good. At the Pantages Bert Swan and his alligators were a novel act. Owing to a nervous breakdown the act was finished out after Tuesday by Mr. Swan's sister. The Luigi Pecarro Troupe had an excellent acrobatic act which included some clever balancing features. Canaris, the magician, had a neat little act. The Still City Quartet sang well. The best feature of the act by Wm. Ramsdell and sisters was the dancing. Yule and Simpson had a pleasing act. The usual illustrated songs and motion pictures completed the program.

A. H.

SPOKANE, Oct. 18.—At the Auditorium, 17-19, Cameo Kirby, with Dustin Farnum in the title role. Mr. Farnum's characterization of the Mississippi River gambler of the early 30's has been acclaimed a notable achievement and was witnessed by an eager and enthusiastic audience on the opening night. McKee Rankin and May Buckley were the chief support. The balance of the company gave good support. The Wagner Club presents Mme. Jeanne Jomelli, soprano of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, 20. The Elks' Minstrels (local), 21-22. At the Spokane, 17, week, The Parisian Model opened to a large and appreciative audience. Grace Hazard, who plays the part of the model, is a comedienne of note. Next week—Emma Bunting.

An excellent bill this week at the Orpheum includes the following: Edwin Stevens, assisted by Tina Marshall; the De Haven Sextet with Sydney C. Gibson; the Carmen Troupe; Howard's Musical Shetlands and Comedy Canines; the Fer-

New Oxnard Opera House

OXNARD, CAL.

Best stage between Frisco and Los Angeles. Playing all of the best shows that come to the Coast. Doing good business. Write for open time.

GONZALES OPERA HOUSE

GONZALES, CAL.

New, well appointed theatre, electric lighted. Full stock of new scenery. C. H. WIDEMAN, Mgr.

WOODLAND Opera House

WOODLAND, CAL.

Greatest show town for good shows in the West. A few good dates open in September and October. Stage big enough for any production. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

Hill Opera House

PETALUMA, CAL.

JOHN R. ROCHE, Lessee and Manager

The finest theatrical town outside of the big cities in the West. Magnificent new theatre, with stage large enough for any attraction, playing regularly from $500 to $700 a night. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

287 Thirteenth St., S. F.

BARCROFT Opera House, Merced

Entirely remodeled. New stage, big enough for any production. Stage equipped with new scenery. Merced has 4,000 population. For time write F. R. BARCROFT, Manager.

Santa Cruz OPERA HOUSE

Santa Cruz, Cal.

L. A. KNIGHT, Manager

Rental or will play first-class companies on percentage

H. Lewin

H. Oppenheim

GORDAN
TAILORING CO.

928 Market St., Bet. Powell and Mason
FINE CLOTHES MODERATE PRICES
No Branch Stores

NEW AUDITORIUM

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CAL.

Seating capacity, 1,000; new stage; new scenery; stage thirty feet deep, sixty feet wide; large enough for any production; a population of 5,000 to draw from; now booking for 1909-10.
Address WALTER A. CLARK, Mountain View, Cal.

rell Brothers, comedy cyclists; Milt Wood, the dancer with the chair; Walter Lewis, assisted by Florence Burnsmore; and M. H. Harriman. The Washington presents the Godlewski Troupe of Russian singers and dancers; Alexander Von Mitzel and Isis Maynard in Cupid's Coincidence; Josephine Gassman and her three Pickaninies; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. O'Brien, the comedy pair; the Rusticana Trio, original vocal-instrumental selections; Luza and Lorella, sensational acrobatic comiques. At Pantages, Lasky's Hoboes head the bill. Jacque Greno, comedy sketch artists; Kennedy and Kennedy, singers and dancers. Deas-Read-Deas, colored singers and dancers. Nina Nestor company in a charming little farce entitled A Thief in the Night; William D. Gilson sings Blue Feather; Mr. Loughtin's performing dogs conclude the bill.

Smyth.

HERBERT CARLYLE has succeeded L. N. Thompson ahead of Harold Nelson.

Madison's Budget No. 12, Just Out
Parent's Stationery Co., 818 Van Ness Avenue, S.F.

New Cort Theatre Opens

The new Cort Theatre in Chicago was opened last Monday. It is a very pretty playhouse, advantageously situated on Dearborn Street, near Randolph, erected by the Cort Theatre Company, of which John Cort is president, H. H. Frazee, vice-president, and U. J. Herrman, secretary and treasurer. The opening attraction was The Kissing Girl, a romantic musical play, the book of which has been written by Stanislaus Stange, with lyrics by Vincent Bryan, and music by Harry Von Tilzer. The scenes of the play are laid in Bohemia, a locale which admits of the introduction of the colorful costumes obtaining there at the present day, with admirable scope for the scenic artists to invest the work with picturesque surroundings. The presenting company numbers some seventy people, and is headed by Amelia Stone. Others prominent in the cast are Joseph Miron, John Park, Armand Kalisz, Mart Lorenz and Blanche Morrison, Martha George, Ethel Bell and Marie Vernon. The chorus has been selected from among nearly a thousand applicants, and is declared to be quite comely and most vivacious. The Kissing Girl was presented for the first time on any stage at Madison, Wis., on October 15th, and played brief engagements in other cities prior to opening the new Cort Theatre.

Spotlights

Klaw & Erlanger's latest production, The Silver Star, with Adeline Genée, is a theatrical triumph. The play goes into the firm's New Amsterdam Theatre, New York, November 1st, and will run out the season. It is one of the most brilliantly spectacular stage pictures ever devised. The play, by Harry B. Smith, with music by Jerome and Schwartz and Robert Hood Bowers and William A. Helon, is in three acts with four scenes. The Silver Star is by far the largest and most pretentious stage spectacle of which the American Theatre world may boast. The scenes are of immense dimensions and are artistic in color, design, texture and general effect. The principals in the cast supporting Mlle. Genée and Bickel and Watson are Barney Bernard, Lee Harrison, Mortimer Weldon, Elphye Snowden, Emma Janvier, Marie Dainton, Grace Ormonde and Clara Dayton.

Diana Hunaker, who plays the part of Mrs. Babbitt in The Traveling Salesman Company, was formerly editor of the woman's page of the Philadelphia Enquirer. She made her debut on the stage with Grace George in Clothes, and has since played with Virginia Harned and Robert Edeson.

James O'Neill, Jr., who plays the part of Ted Watts, the necktie drummer in The Traveling Salesman, is a son of James O'Neill, the eminent actor, whose fame as Monte Cristo is world-wide.

Dustin Farnum and Ezra Kendall are the two Liebler & Co. shows playing K. & E. time, showing to bookings made last year. The rest of the Liebler offerings are to be found in the Shubert time.

The Orpheum

Minnie Seligman and William Bramwell will appear in Gerald Villiers Stuart's powerful one-act play, The Drums of Doom, which created quite a sensation when originally produced in London by Mrs. Beerbohm Tree and Lewis Walker. It deals with a most fearful and thrilling event in the life of an American politician, to whom his wife gives a great and abiding love in his darkest hour. Miss Seligman, who plays the wife, is afforded a splendid opportunity for the display of that emotional ability which has caused her to be recognized as one of the greatest actresses in this country, while Mr. Bramwell, who represents Judge Delaney, a Western lawyer, maintains his reputation as a sterling and faithful exponent of leading characters. The Drums of Doom is a play that grips the audience from the very beginning and maintains that grip till the very end. One of the cleverest and agile acrobatic acts in vaudeville is the performance to be given by the Bounding Gordons. The work of this trio is most gracefully executed, and the youngest is a "bounding wonder." With the aid of a flexible mat he throws backward and forward somersaults, alighting on the shoulders of his companions in a pyramid position. Katchen Loisset will appear for the first time in this city. She begins with English and German songs, after which she introduces her trained pigeons and a mimic dog called "Honey," whom she dresses to represent different types of men. The Bootblack Quartette, consisting of Masters Elliot, Adam, Weber and Hayes, will indulge in an ensemble of melody and fun. In characteristic street urchin garb they divert with song, dance and witticism. Their voices are particularly good and blend harmoniously. Next week will be the last of Hal Godfrey, who will be seen in an entirely new comedy of New York life by Edmund Day, entitled The Liar. It will also be the final one of Keno, Walsh and Melrose, "General" Edward La Vine and of that delightful votary of terpsichore, Mlle. Bianchi, whose repertoire of classic dances has scored a great artistic triumph. A series of motion pictures of unusual interest will be a fitting termination to a delightful performance.

Valencia Theatre

The last performances of The Ringmaster will take place at the Valencia Theatre this Saturday afternoon and evening, and on Sunday night the Shuberts announce Eddie Foy, America's foremost funmaker, in his newest musical whimsicality, Mr. Hamlet of Broadway. Last season Mr. Foy was threatened with an attack of "Hamletitis," and he gave the impression that he would essay in all seriousness the role that Forbes Robertson, E. H. Sothern and other distinguished actors had made famous. However, when he looked over his career—one of brilliant achievements in the fun-making world—it was apparent that his province was to create laughter. Consequently, the Messrs. Shubert arranged with Edgar Smith for a book in which the melancholy Dane would be travestied. Mr. Smith was for years the "librettist extraordinary and lyricist plenipotentiary to the Court of Weber-Fields," and travesties were in his line. Briefly, the story of Mr.

Hamlet of Broadway has to do with the efforts of a summer colony in the Adirondacks to present an out-of-door performance of some play, and, strangely, like a great many amateurs, they decide on Hamlet. The guests of the hotel are assigned various roles in the play, and an actor of reputation is engaged to play the title role. His costumes arrive, but he doesn't, and at the crucial moment "Joey Wheeze," a clown from a stranded circus, appears. He is impressed into service to impersonate the "Prince of Denmark," and the resultant fun kept immense audiences laughing at the Casino, New York, for six months.

Alcazar Theatre

No other play of American rural life possesses the double charm that pertains to Shore Acres, which is to be the offering next week. Its atmosphere blends the saline odor of sea kelp with the fragrance of new mown hay, the droning of surf with the lowing of kine, for its scenes are laid on the Maine coast, whose people alternate between farming and fishing and talk no less knowingly of ships than of crops. But the enduring popularity of Shore Acres is due to more than its mingling of tones. The man who wrote it, the late James A. Herne, was a keen student of human nature and a master of stagecraft. He drew the characters true to life and with fine dramatic skill built the vehicle of their introduction. Stage Director Fred J. Butler will appear in the part of Uncle Nat, and Will R. Walling will again be seen as Martin Berry, with Adele Belgarde as his good-hearted wife; Evelyn Vaughan as their daughter, and all the other favorites suitably cast. The entire scenic production will be now, including the wonderful lighthouse effect with a foundering ship in the distance. This scene had much to do with winning for the play the popularity its possessors for admirers of stage realism.

LEVY'S BIG TRUNK STORE

INCORPORATED

COAST AGENTS

FOR THE

Taylor Trunks

687 Market St., S.F. opp. Kearny Phone Douglas 3192

Nanyang Industrial Exposition

Nanking, China

MAY TO NOVEMBER, 1910

China's First National Exposition

One Hundred Million Population within Radius of One Hundred Miles

ONLY TEN SHOWS ON THE MIDWAY

Thirty per cent. You erect buildings.

Can arrange to work the great MANILA CARNIVAL, February 7th to 17th, 1910.

If you cable, prepay answer. Address,

GEORGE MOOSER

Representative

P. O. Box 623, American Consulate, SHANGHAI

Cable Address, MOOSER, SHANGHAI.

Novelty Theatre, San Francisco TO RENT

By the day, week or month. Fine, comfortable theatre, seating 1,200 people.

SPECIALY ADAPTED TO POLITICAL MEETINGS

Strong Plays Claim Attention at the Los Angeles Stock Houses

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28.—Charles Ruggles and two other members of the Belasco company will present a new sketch by a local author at the benefit to be given by the Theatrical Mechanical Association. Mrs. Geo. Bovyer, the wife of a local theatrical manager, posed in San Francisco for the head which appeared on the official Portola buttons. The Bankers' show this year is a much talked of event and it gives promise of being something novel to say the least. Instead of the usual minstrel show it is to be a full comic opera and will be given for three nights on the stage of the Mason Opera House Nov. 4, 5 and 6. Harry Girard is superintending the production and E. C. Kammermeyer is the musical director. There will be a chorus of fifty persons, besides a cast of twenty. The title of the opera is When the Gringo Came, and is written by Charles Saxby and P. H. Kauffman. Strong plays claim attention at the Los Angeles stock houses.

AUDITORIUM—John Philip Sousa and his splendid band hold the stage this week and cause the Auditorium walls to resound with a blare of trumpets that fill the hearts of appreciative audiences with joy and gladness. It is a far cry from Tchaikowsky's Fourth Symphony to a gay and festive variation on My Wife's Gone to the Country, but it serves to show Sousa's sympathy with an audience made up of those who appreciate and those who enjoy. Florence Hardeman is proving herself a prime favorite as violinist, and Misses Frances and Grace Hoyt, with their charming voices, round out the satisfying programs given twice a day.

BELASCO—The County Chairman is the bill for the week at the Belasco Theatre. This rural drama serves to introduce to us the new ingenue of the company, Beth Taylor. As Chick Elzey she is a very lovable country lass and fills her part admirably. She should prove a valuable addition to the company. Mr. Stone is Jim Hackler. Frank Camp plays Elias Rigby, but he is not so convincing in the part as in other roles which he has played. Mr. Usher does well as Tilford Wheeler, the law partner of Jim. The work of Richard Vivian in the role of Jupiter Pettaway is clever. Charles Giblyn does a good character bit. Charles Ruggles is cast as Joseph Whittaker, the windmill agent. Miss Magrane does well in her small part of Lucy Rigby. Howard Scott is a scream from start to finish in his characterization of the negro, Sassafras Livingston. The Regeneration is announced as the bill for next week.

BURBANK—The Silver Girl is the attraction at the Burbank this week. Mr. Beasley does most excellently as Jefferson Hunter; in fact his work is perfect. Lovell Alice Taylor is the wife and Blanche Hall plays the Albertson role, that of the little governess. John Burton is forceful as Chuck Wilson, the partner of Hunter. Mr. Hartford plays the villain. Henry Stockbridge, Harry Messtayer, Willis Marks and Margo Duffet are all well cast and play their respective parts most satisfactorily.

MASON—The Traveling Salesman, with Mark Smith in the old Ross role, is attracting large houses at every performance at the Mason Opera House this week. This clever comedy from the pen of James Forbes is full of bright snappy lines and real comedy. Mark Smith fills the Ross role to a nicety; as a very clever comedian he fulfills the promise made in his characterization of the Mormon bishop in Marie Cahill's production of Marrying Mary. Miriam Nesbitt as Beth Elliott, the ticket agent, is very convincing. Her particular charm is her absolute naturalness. James O'Neill Jr. is fine in the part of Ted Watts, the chum of Blake. Diana Hunecker plays Mrs. Babbitt very well.

MAJESTIC—The Majestic seems to have acquired the musical comedy habit, and once again the chorus maiden flashes her teeth, raises her voice (?) and moves her feet to the catchy tunes in The Girl Question. This is by far the best of the La Salle pieces and is due to remain a favorite for some time. The company is a small but very good one. The hero of this restaurant romance is one Con Ryan, the head waiter, and the part is handled by John Kearney with a quiet humor that is enticing. Dorothy Maynard, as the cashier beloved by Con, is a capable player, as is also the case with Justin Cooper as a German baron. The balance of the cast, including William H. Jenner, Lawrence Williams, Arthur Kaplan, Helen McGowan and Anna Hoffman, is satisfactory. Be Sweet to Me Kid is still the best of the many good song numbers.

GRAND—Ferris Hartman and his company are offering The Sultan of Sulu for the current week. This role is one of the best of Hartman's characterizations and he is no disappointment in the present production. Miss Islieb has a chance this week to show us what she can do and her voice is very pleasing. Her duet with Mr. Walsh, The Message of the Red, Red Rose is very well rendered. Walter Catlett is cast as Hagdi Tantung, the secretary of the Sultan; he creates many laughs. Walter De Leon is particularly well suited to the part of Wakeful M. Jones, the insurance agent. Josie Hart is Pamela Francis Jackson and Muggins Davies is attractive as Chiquita, wife number one. The work of the chorus is excellent and the costumes are pretty.

ORPHEUM—Bright and fascinating Edna Aug is a new attraction this week in an act called Types. Although handicapped by a severe cold, Miss Aug nevertheless proves herself a clever imitator. Les Myosotis, two young and pretty dancers from the Munich grand opera ballet, impress one with the fact that they understand the art of true ballet dancing. The Big City Quartette, Reed, Emerson and Bates, have very good voices, well blended. Henry Clive, assisted by Mai Sturgis Walker, contrive to make everybody happy with a burlesque on the professional magician. Murray and Mack have improved their act and head the holdovers, the balance of whom are Tom Waters, as funny as ever; Guerrero and Spaulding and Riego. Motion pictures dealing with flying machines end a bill that has not a dull moment from start to finish.

LOS ANGELES—The headliner on the bill at the Los Angeles Theatre this week is unusual. It is a minstrel show given by twenty people and cut to thirty minutes. The participants in this number are all clever comedians and they offer good imitations of well known minstrel men. Blanche Sloan, sister of Tod Sloan, does a good bit of entertaining by her act, in which she performs several daring feats in midair. Bothwell Brown and his company present a travesty of Cleopatra. Will Morrissey sings several good songs. Johan and Matt offer a musical comedy act that is clever. Monda Phillips, billed as the girl with the many voices, lives up to her reputation. New motion pictures are shown.

FISCHER'S—The Pride of the Harem is the title of the offering of Mr. Alpin's company at Fischer's this week. Leonard Brisbane makes his first appearance with the company this week in the part of the grand vizier. Dave Morris is cast as the dethroned Abdul Hamid; Jules Mendel is the American trying to escape with the wife of Abdul Hamid. Miss Rockwell plays the title role and Blossom Seeley is the magazine correspondent. Harry Oakes, Richard Kipling and Flo Sherlock have other good parts.

UNIQUE—C. J. Norris and his trained dogs furnish one of the vaudeville numbers on the bill at the Unique. These animals are wonderfully intelligent beasts and they have been well trained. Hesse and Williams furnish entertainment by their singing and banjo playing. A one-act comedy by Al Franks is the offering in the Unique company. It is called A Red Hot Stove. Al Franks and James Spencer have the two principal roles. The new leading woman, Dawn de Lane, plays the wife of one of the Irishmen. Hazel Salmon plays the actress. Herbert Cramer is the tragedian and Minnie Janicki is the servant. Al Franks sings the illustrated song and motion pictures conclude a good bill.

WALKER—Much good comedy is being furnished this week at the Walker Theatre by the Allen Curtis company in My Wife's Family. Annie Baumann plays the mother-in-law with woman suffrage views. This is the character in the piece. Charles Figg is the meek son-in-law. Henry Auerbach is the much seen but quiet father-in-law. Arthur Clamage is a witty Irishman and he keeps things moving at a lively pace most of the time. Mayme Praeger is the dramatic teacher. The songs of particular note are "Patricia Salome," "Finnegan's Irish Band," "Bloomin' Lize" and a quartette selection by Clamage, Figg and the Praeger sisters. The costumes of the chorus for the current offering are very attractive. There is a new arrangement taking effect this week at the Walker. Instead of two shows nightly there is now only one and that one commences at 8:15 and lasts two and one-half hours.

Ollie Mack Trumbull better known before the footlights as Ollie Mack, has been made a party defendant in an action brought to recover $450, said to be due the Alles Printing Company, in the Superior Court, yesterday.

FLORENCE EMERY.

OAKLAND, Oct. 28.—The week is Sweet Kitty Bellairs, which is being played at Ye Liberty. It is the first time that this beautiful little heart play has ever been presented in this city and the attendance at each performance is fully up to the Liberty standard. The production requires the largest cast ever seen at this playhouse almost every member of Bishop's players having a prominent character to portray. The leading roles were interpreted by Sidney Ayres and Florence Oakley, in their customary finished manner and they received the very best of support by such talented artists as Robert Harrison, Henry Shimmer, William Wolbert, Clarence Elmer, George Webster, Robert Lawlor, George Friend, Walter Whipple, George Rand, Edith Lyle, Mina Gleason, Maude Odell, Laura Hudson and Bessie Sankey. Andrew Bennison, late of the Alcazar stock, made his first appearance here and created a most favorable impression. Sweet Kitty Bellairs will continue for the balance of the week and will then give way to Shore Acres. Emmett Devoy will appear in Dreamland, 29, at the Macdonough and then The Honeymoon Trail, 31-Nov. 2. It would be mighty hard to say which number at the Orpheum is the headliner, as there is not a weak number on the entire program, which is the most interesting that we have had for some time. The bill is as follows: Carlin and Clarke; Mr. James Young; Pili; Ed. F. Reynard; Mary Norman; Valerie Bergere; Tuscan Troubadours; and the Six Glinserettis. At the Bell, Rigo the Gypsy is proving a great attraction. His music is thoroughly enjoyed and the house is packed at every performance. Tuesday was Shriners' night at the Liberty and the house was packed from pit to dome. The Fabiola Hospital Association will have a benefit at the Liberty Nov. 2. The Treble Cleff of the University of California will present Erminie at the Macdonough, 27. The Traitor has been secured by Manager Bishop and will be given its first Pacific Coast production at the Liberty early in November. Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall will be another early Liberty production.

LOUIS SCHEELINE.

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 20.—A Knight for a Day, at the Loring last night, proved to be the best of the season so far, and Grace DeMar and Edward Hume as the principal comedians, kept up a continuous flow of sparkling wit. House fair. Oct. 28, Fifty Miles from Boston; Nov. 4, The Girl Question; 12, The Man of the Hour, and 16, The Land of Nod. CHAS. E. HEATH.

VENTURA, Oct. 20.—Lagomarsino Theatre (John Lagomarsino, mgr.)—This season opens up with new management and promises to be a good one. For this month we have booked Dr. Geo. Bancroft, assisted by Madam D. Lillian Lewis, for two night, 22-23, benefit Y. M. C. A. 25th—Geo. M. Cohan's Fifty Miles from Boston. F. J. D.

J. B. REIGHLEY Theatrical Hauling

Promptly Attended To
Telephone Market 1601
660 Guerrero Street, Bet. 18th and 19th

Correspondence

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.—The return of Robert Mantell at the Chestnut Opera House gave dignity and a tone of classic interest to the present week, while on the other hand there is something new of a lighter nature to appeal to the laugh lovers in the appearance of Francis Wilson in his own play, entitled, The Bachelor's Baby at the Broad. At the Garrick McIntyre and Heath in In Hayti, and at the Walnut The Newlyweds with their mischievous offspring, Napoleon, hold merry sway. Staying over from last week at the Forrest is The Silver Star, Klaw & Erlanger's Adeline Genée, the wonderful dancer, appears as the central figure in a bewilderment of spectacular splendors, leading several elaborate ballets. She is supported by an excellent company, including Bickel and Watson, Lee Harrison, Emma Janvier, Elphye Snowden, Marie Dainton and many others with an ensemble of about 100. At the Lyric Blanche Reny has made such a hit in The Yankee Girl that her engagement is to be continued for two more weeks. The Adelphi is closed, owing to the continued indisposition of Lulu Glaser of the Broad-street Theatre. The Bachelor's Baby is a new comedy by Francis Wilson, in which the comedian himself appeared. In his support is little Baby Davis, a tiny miss who is more than precocious, so unaffectedly childish is she in her portrayal of a part that is long and difficult for one of her tender years. Admirable interpretations of the grown-up characters concerned in the plot are given by Clarence Handyside, Robert Conness, Franklin Roberts, E. Soldene Powell, Edna Bruns, Lillian Lawrence and Helen Strickland. When McIntyre and Heath appear in a new production it is not expected nor desired that the two principals shall be anything but their own familiar selves. They are themselves in In Hayti, which is their latest excuse for appearing in their old but still amusing roles. Prominent in the supporting company is Julian Rose, who as Busy Izzy Rosenstein offers his Hebrew specialty. Marion Stanley takes the chief feminine role and makes a markedly favorable impression with her singing and dancing. Carrie Reynolds, a Philadelphia girl, does clever work in a lively soubrette role. Walnut—One of the liveliest shows of the season, intended solely for laughing purposes, and thus considered a hilarious success, received a cordial demonstration of approval at the Walnut when The Newlyweds and Their Baby, a musical farce founded on George McManus' popular series of newspaper cartoons, was given for the first time at this house. The company is considerably changed from that which appeared when the piece was seen here at another theatre last season. James E. Rosen, a clever midget comedian, made a big-sized hit in the dual role of Major Knott Much and the Baby. Chestnut—Alice of Old Vincennes is being presented by the Orpheum stock company at the Chestnut-street Theatre this week. Marion Barney, Peter Lang and William Ingersoll presented their respective parts with convincing effect. With Frank Dishon in the title role, A Knight for a Day proved a winner at the Grand Opera House. Things are once more in the same old swing at the Eleventh-street Opera House, to which Frank Dumont brought back on Saturday his long-time popular minstrel aggregation introducing several old favorites and a number of newcomers who are soon to be in the same class. Mr. Dumont presents with himself as interlocutor a list, including George Wilson, Carroll Johnson, Harry C. Shunk, Alf Gibson, Vic Richards, John E. Murphy, Edwin Goldrich, J. E. Dempsey and a number of others. Owing to the popularity and success the Dixie Quartette have won this season, the Dixie Boys return to Philadelphia on Saturday evening for a week's run. Horace Wolstenholme has been secured to take the tenor role originally sung for the past two years by Dave Bristow, and the public will find him a very capable successor. Mr. Wolstenholme comes with wider experience in quartette work and has been associated for the last five years in the minstrel business. Calvin Franklin, who originated the heavy part in this quartette finds himself leading and is making good. Lyn Castor still retains his baritone place. With these changes the Dixie quartette classes themselves as one of the best singing combinations in the business. Mr. William will act as director, while Mr. Franklin will look after the business end. Harry Hastings' big show was the attraction at the Casino Theatre this week and played to good business. This show is one of the cleanest burlesque shows on the wheel. The work of Harry Hastings and Viola Sheldon is always inviting. Miss Sheldon has a very catch novelty song, Hello, Little Girl, Hello, and although she scored it could be worked up to better advantage if a change was made in Harry Bloom, who assists her with this song. His miserable voice seemed to take the effect away that Miss Sheldon would work up. Even in the olio the Clarion Four fell flat on account of Mr. Bloom leading. Edward Aiker, a Philadelphian, was heard to advantage with his sweet tenor voice, and it seems a pity he hasn't a more prominent part.

CALVIN M. FRANKLIN.

BRAINERD, Minn., Oct. 22.—Yankee Doodle Stock Company, Geo. V. Halliday, manager—St. Cloud, Minn., week of Oct. 25; Mankato, Minn., week of Nov. 1; Superior, Wis., week of Nov. 8.

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 25.—The Traveling Salesman played in Tucson Saturday evening, October 23, to a crowded house. Being the first play of the season it was fully appreciated. The Girl Question will be the next attraction. MARY NEAL CHEYNEY.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 25.—Salt Lake (Geo. D. Pyper, mgr.)—A Gentleman From Mississippi 25-30. Colonial (R. A. Grant, mgr.)—The Cat and the Fiddle played to good houses, making a big hit. A Knight for a Day will be seen here this week. The way tickets are selling so far it ought to be a record breaker. Grand (A. B. Jensen, mgr.)—The Willard Mack Stock Company, including Blanche Douglas, will give Monte Cristo, with Mr. Mack in the title role. There is no doubt but that he will draw his usual good houses. Bungalow (A. B. Jensen, mgr.)—Beginning Thursday, Oct. 29, Alex Pantages will produce his circuit of vaudeville acts in this city. This terminates the appearance here of the Arlington Players, who will leave for Ogden for a

The Hotel Dale

ON THE RIALTO—HOME OF THE PROFESSION—SPECIAL RATES
Only First-Class European Hotel close to The Garrick, Princess, Novelty,
National, Alcazar, or Pantages—SAN FRANCISCO
SPECIAL—We make a feature of Breakfasts Served in Rooms
COR. GOLDEN GATE AVE. AND FILLMORE ST.
Take McAllister Street and Turk and Eddy Street Cars at the Ferry

Clancy's

Phone Franklin 1506

Stage Hardware

Williams Hardware & Stove Co.

974 Market Street

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

few weeks' engagement. The Pantages bill for this week is as follows: Leon Morris & Co., including La Belle Helene and her leaping greyhounds; Don and Thompson, singing and dancing comedians; Sampson and Douglas in a comedy skit; La Loie Helene pantomime dancer; Rival and Deery, gymnasts; John Hedges and his wrestling ponies; illustrated songs and pictures. The program will change every Thursday. Orpheum—The bill last week was about as good as usual. The bill this week includes At the Country Club, by George Spink, the act includes thirteen people; Maxim's Models, living productions of the world's famous paintings; The Arlington Four, a song and dance quartette of messenger boys; Dick Gardner and Anna Revere; Patsy Doyle, the droll monologist; Signor Luciano Luccia, the man with two voices; Paul Nevins and Ruby Erwood and motion pictures.

R. HARBACH.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 23.—Tulane Theatre.—The first presentation here of A Gentleman from Mississippi was a signal success. The action deals with the life and habits of the national capital always an interesting theme. It is a play that stimulates the audiences enthusiasm as it progresses, with its atmosphere clean and wholesome. That is, promoted by Wm. A. Brady, goes without saying that it is adequately staged and cast. The character of Senator Langdon must have been written around Robt. A. Fisher. I can conceive of no part that could be more adaptable. It is a fat part and must give the actor interminable pleasure to play it. Fisher looks the part of the hale, hearty, well-fed and prosperous Mississippi planter called into action to serve his native state and country in legislative matters, with all of its pitfalls, dominating by his rugged honesty all who oppose him. In all of this he is misled by his private secretary, played by Hans Roberts, of Checkers fame. The latter shares honors with the senator, his active, energetic and intelligent characterization being always in evidence. Harry de Forrest was natural as the Yankee colonel. Miss Jane Fearnley and Miss Leach Baird as the senator's daughters were both as pretty and vivacious as they were different temperamentally. Miss Louise de Rigney was stunning as the Washington widow always tuned up to concert pitch. I understand Miss de Rigney was selected for the role because of having graduated with high honors from society's ranks somewhere. She shows an ease and grace of the trained society woman but would be more effective were she to enunciate slower and more distinctly. Next week David Warfield, 31st.—Crescent Theatre. Interest in Too Many Wives centers chiefly around Joseph Morris, who has the Hebrew character letter perfect and also has one of the best singing voices of any of the starring comedians seen here in a long time. A number of his songs were emphatic hits and in all is he assisted by chorus that works overtime. Misses Eleanor Young, Lillian Le Besque and Ray Mayers offered the star liberal and skillful support. The stage settings and costumes were effective and pleasing. Next week—Al Y. Fields Minstrels. The week's bill at the American Music Hall is well balanced and pleasing. The piece de resistance is Miss Maude Odell in a series of poses. Miss Odell appears on the program as the English $10,000 Prize Beauty. She is a beauty all right, but why the distinction as to the amount. Our English cousins have a notorious way of grossly underestimating things 'don't cher know'. Miss Odell should have come south for her appraisal. Her act is thoroughly artistic, each pose is designed to set off the charms of the lady's physical perfections. In viewing Miss Odell, we get the true idea of the possibilities in physical culture. The next best act was that of the Four Mortons in a musical sketch. Here are four clever dancers and fun makers that keep you continuously amused. The acrobatic act of Ishekawa Bros. was great, particularly the stunt of coming down stairs on one hand with the rest of the body in the air. Lizzie Evans and Jefferson Lloyd have a good sketch of western flavor. Miss Evans is a capable actress and both were easy and natural. Miss Virginia Grant has an expressive face and a good mezzo voice. Her best effort was Kathleen Mavourneen. Drakes intelligent dogs, the Xylophone solo of musical Lowe and Holman Bros., trapezists, were the other numbers of a good bill.

W. L. McCONNELL.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 27.—Billie Burke in Love Watches packed the Clunie, 23. Harold Nelson had a small audience to witness Prince Otto 24, In Old Kentucky at the Clunie, 30; The Three Twins, 31 and Nov. 1; The Honeymoon Trail, 3. Tonight at the Congregational Church Herman Genss appears in piano concert. The Grand has the following this week: George S. Lander, ventriloquist; Caswell and Arnold, acrobats and barrel jumpers; Dorothy Vaughn, comedienne; Florence Modena and Charles H. Gardner in a sketch; William Cahill, the man from Ireland; the Merry McGregors in Scotch singing and playlet. At Pantages the bill is: Milton and Dolly Nobles in Why Walker Reformed; Cordua and Maud, equilibrists; the Naples Trio, harpists and singers; Lester and Shannon in Astrology; Jack Oliver sure-fire monologist.

FRANCIS MURRAY and Frances Fields, both well-known players, have recently joined Lee Willard, who is presenting this season The Man from Missouri.

Correspondence

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Oct. 26.—At the Opera House (Mrs. M. L. Kiplinger, mgr.) Oct. 21 A Knight for a Day was presented to a good house and thoroughly appreciated. Grace De Mar as Tillie Day was a particular favorite for her excellent interpretation of the role, aside from the fact that her parents are well-known residents of this city. Ellen Beach Yaw, under the auspices of the Woman's Club, will give a concert here on the 29th. Nov. 5, The Girl Question; 6, The Man of the Hour. A new vaudeville and film house will be opened here Nov. 1. The Unique is still doing good business at the old stand. The Elks will present a musical extravaganza, "1492," with local talent some time next month. M. B. Curtis is doing the training and stage directing, and elaborate preparations are being made for the production.

J. E. RICH.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 28.—Garrick Theatre (J. M. Dodge, mgr.)—Sousa and his band appeared before two large and appreciative audiences on the 24th. Fifty Miles From Boston, 29-30. Pickwick Theatre (Scott A. Palmer, mgr.)—The thrilling melodrama, The Great Temptation, is being produced by the Charles King Stock Company and Marjorie Rambeau, and good houses have been the rule. Charles King portrays the hero, Don Spencer, very cleverly and never fails to please. Miss Rambeau makes an attractive Cecil Willoughby, though the part is a difficult one and receives nightly well earned applause. Lillian Burnett as a Southern "mammy" does extremely well. J. Franklyn MacDonald and Pietro Sosso as the villains, acquit themselves creditably. Frank Bonner, as a negro servant, handles his part satisfactorily. The entire performance is meritorious. When Knighthood Was in Flower will be given next week. Queen Theatre (E. J. Donnellan, mgr.)—The Sullivan-Considine house has an exceptionally good bill. The Ahlberg Brothers have a more than ordinarily good acrobatic specialty. Armanda, the accomplished violinist, played her way into the hearts of her auditors. The Steele Sisters, in a singing and dancing turn of exceptional merit, made many friends. The one-act sketch, The High-Toned Burglar's Christmas Tree, in which James F. Dolan and Ida Lenharr are seen to advantage, was well received. Motion pictures, more particularly a feature film showing bird performers, were well selected. Empire Theatre (H. R. Moore, mgr.)—Marquis Ellis, tenor, with Otto Dobbs, baritone, please the Empire's large houses nightly. Illustrated songs and the latest films complete the program. F. W. Ruhnnow, manager of the Union, and W. C. O'Connor, who directs the destinies of the Bijou, report good houses throughout the week. The Globe Theatre Company, with a capital stock of $150,000, has been incorporated and the company plans to erect a modern theatre at the corner of Third and C streets, San Diego, where a thirty years' lease has been obtained from Alexander Reynolds Sr. The incorporators are Scott A. Palmer, E. W. Palmer, W. H. Palmer, O. F. Palmer and Walter J. Fulkerson, and it is the intention of the promoters to begin construction as quickly as the details can be arranged and plans accepted. The house will book independent, and it may be that some of the dramatic and vaudeville circuits which have desired to include the city in their itineraries will now be able to do so. Scott A. Palmer is now and will remain manager of the Pickwick Theatre, and Walter Fulkerson is well and favorably known as a former manager of the Grand Theatre, San Diego, and the Empire of Los Angeles. The location chosen for the Globe is an admirable one, and the indications are that the venture will prove a success.

CARL E. LUNDQUIST.

PORTLAND, Or., Oct. 25.—Bungalow Theatre (Calvin Heilig, mgr., William Pangle, resident mgr.)—Chauncey Olcott is back with us again, and as usual is again seen in one of his matchless Irish impersonations. He opened last night in his latest play, Ragged Robin, at this theatre and remains until Wednesday night, when John Young comes in his latest musical success, Lo. In the present production Olcott is cast as a lovable wandering Irish minstrel, and of course ample opportunity is allowed for him to sing his Irish songs and the audience was not satisfied until he had warbled My Wild Irish Rose as only Olcott can sing it. Rose Curry is the leading lady and was good in every respect. Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon the management for the elegant scenic production made of the play. Portland Theatre (Russell & Drew, manager, Frank Hood, resident manager)—A packed house was in evidence at this theatre last night when the opening of Eddie Foy in Mr. Hamlet of Broadway, and it looks like he will do a banner week's business. It has been a great many years since this comedian has been here, and the ovation that was tendered him upon his first entrance must have shown him that he had not been forgotten. In the role of the clown of the circus out of a job ample opportunity is given to the star for his peculiar comedy, and of course he was "always on the job," and really it does one good to see the original sing and act after all the impersonations we have had of him of late years. Following closely on the heels of Foy for honors came Belle Gold. Without doubt she is one of the cleverest and most hard working actresses seen here—and how she does make good! The company is a large one, and the chorus is well-trained and good to look at. Baker Theatre (George L. Baker manager, Milton Seaman business manager)—For the 'steenth time Old Kentucky is with us and also the Pickaninny band. It packed them in at this house at both performances yesterday. Mildred Johnson is playing Madge this season, and seems to get all that is possible out of the part. Burt Clarke is again found playing the role of the Colonel and Frank Dayton is the leading man. The racehorse scene is as good as ever, and the band stirred up enthusiasm. The Spoilers come the 31st. Orpheum Theatre (James H. Erickson, mgr.)—William Bramwell and Minnie Seligman are entitled to honors in the past week's bill at this house. In their play, The Drums of Doom, they did some high class dramatic work. The Three Bounding Gordons were just as good as we have had in the athletic line, while Lew Wells gave a capital monologue act. The character songs of Eva Mudge were also

WINNING UNPARALLELED ENCOMIUMS ON PACIFIC COAST TOUR

(Sam. S. and Lee Shubert Inc.)
Present Everybody's Favorite Funmaker

EDDIE FOY

In the Greatest New York Casino Success

Mr. Hamlet of Broadway

A Musical Whimsicality

A Company That Can Act—and Does. A Chorus That Can Sing and Dance—and Does.

PRICES—25c, 50c, 75c, $1, $1.50. Popular-priced Matinees Wednesday and Saturday, 25c, 50c, 75c and $1.

worthy of mention. This week's bill, Our Boys in Blue, are the feature act, and the others include McConnell and Simpson, Pandur Brothers, Tempest and Sunshine Trio, Kelly and Kent, Montgomery and Healey Sisters and Sansone and Delila. Lyric Theatre (Keating & Flood, mgrs.)—That good old rip roaring farce, Hello, Bill, is offered at this house this week by the Athon Stock Company. It is the first farce we have had for quite a while, and the audience enjoyed every minute of it yesterday at its initial production. Robert Athon plays the leading role in great style and got all the laughs possible out of the part. Priscilla Knowles as his wife was again in her element, she seems to be best in the comedy roles. Will Howard and Jack Bennett are also well cast. Grand Theatre (Frank Coffinberry mgr.)—For this week the acts announced are Ernest Pantzer & Co., Missmer & Co., Maddox and Melvin, The Labakans, Killion and Moore, Edna Davenport and Fred Bauer. Pantages Theatre (John Johnson, mgr.)—This week's bill is as follows: Consul Jr., Wilson, Franklyn & Co., Newhold & Carroll, Warren & Brockway, Varsity Four and Jean Wilson.

A. W. W.

ASTORIA, Oct. 25.—Astoria Theatre, F. M. Hanlon, mgr.—Last evening a standing room only audience witnessed Three Twins, an exceedingly fine show. The scenic production was marvelous, the electric swing was a magnificent setting. The stars of the company are Victor Morley and Bessie Clifford who are without doubt the best-comedy and dancing team ever seen this side of the Rockies. The Coronation that was booked for the 27th canceled. November 7, Prince Otto, and November 13, Third Degree.

SPOKANE, Oct. 25.—The Elks Minstrels (local) at the Auditorium was a feature and pleased two packed houses 21-22. Victor Moore in The Talk of New York was given a big reception on the opening night. Moore as Kid Burns is supported by the greatest cast ever seen in musical comedy. He is here 24-26. At The Spokane Lena Rivers is the offering. Emma Bunting in the title role scored a big personal hit. Her leading man Edmonde Forde was well received. Next week In Wyoming. The principal attraction at the Orpheum this week is The Devil and Tom Walker. There is a company of ten people, headed by John B. Hymer. Ben Welch, Hebrew and Italian impersonator, was well received. Vittoria-Giorgetta did balancing parts, also a

DROP CURTAINS SCENERY
FLAGG EDWIN H. FLAGG
SCENIC COMING
CAPITAL STOCK $50,000.00
FULLY PAID
460-2-4 WITMER ST. LOS ANGELES

boxing match standing on their hands with their feet gloved. The famous Duffin Red Lay Troupe introducing a complete triple somersault and looping the loop; Patrice & Co. in a humorous sketch entitled The Lobbyist; Chassinio shadowgraphist; the Hopkins Sisters presenting a new mechanical novelty; Luna Land and Orpheum pictures conclude the bill. Tom Linton and his seven jungle girls are the head liner at the Washington. The act introduces a scenic singing-dancing tropical oddity with five musical numbers and is staged with beautiful scenic and electrical settings for each number. Others are Brothers Damm in their marvelous feats; W. C. Hockler assistant in Cycle Humorism and Sensation; George H. Wood comedian; Johnnie Hoey and Jeannette Mozar presenting Leggette and Walker; Nellie Burt character singing and dancing; motion pictures; Captain Stonewall's performing sea lions late of Al G. Barnes' wild animal circus is the headline attraction; Mr. and Mrs. Frank K. Wallace Jr. in A German comedy playlet, A Night in Old Heidelberg; Jarvis, Mann and Jurenda, singers; Swift and Casey, musical comedians; W. S. Harvey & Co. in this original offering, A Room Upside Down; Glenn Burt, Hebrew comedian; William D. Gilson, singing Molly Lee.

SMYTH.

Oh, That Hat!

Successful firms all over the world prove the value of original and unique advertising, and many and varied are the methods employed. But it is doubtful if any more effective and valuable advertisement has been planted in the west than that hat worn by yours merrily, John R. Rogers, who is advertising the Messrs. Shuberts production of Mr. Hamlet of Broadway and Eddie Foy. The hat is one of 1776 vintage and wherever the wearer appears on the street everybody turns and comments on it. Whenever it shows up in a restaurant where there is an orchestra—the cornet screams: "Where did you get that hat." Then the assistant agent distributes neat little cards explaining the wearer is the agent for Eddie Foy. It is safe to bet that "Yours merrily" receives a separate allowance for the risk he takes in having that hat shot at.

THE SAN FRANCISCO Dramatic Review

Music and Drama
CHAS. H. PARRELL, Publisher

Issued Every Saturday

Address all
letters and
money orders to San Francisco
Dramatic
Review, Van

Ness Theatre Bldg.,
Van Ness
Avenue.
Telephone
Park
1773

Entered at San Francisco as Second-class
Mail Matter. Established 1880.

Dick Cummings and Cath- erine Merley

These two clever actors occupy an unique position on the stage. They are among the cleverest and most experienced of farceurs, and Mr. Cummings is known to fame for his wonderful feat of writing and putting on 104 different plays in stock in Los Angeles in 104 weeks. And he still is husky and in fine spirits. Another man would have taken a vacation about the 20th week and rested in an insane asylum for a time. Mr. Cummings is a very humorous comedian and a born producer. Miss Merley is an able second and has a real gift of comedy, which few women can claim. Such has been the pressure on them for the past year from house managers that they are seriously thinking of organizing a farce-comedy stock to make a tour of the Coast. They should, for they would supply a much-needed want.

Will Shuberts Get Prin- cess Theatre?

That the Shubert attractions which have been playing at the Valencia Theatre for the last two months may shortly move over to the Princess Theatre is the muchly discussed rumor all over town. J. Charles Green, majority stockholder of the Princess, has admitted that negotiations were pending between the managers of the Princess and the Shuberts, which, if completed, would result in the change being made. It has been rumored for several weeks that the Shuberts were contemplating a change, at least pending the construction of a permanent theatre in the downtown section of the city, but the delay in the selection of a site has hurried the search for another theatre. The deal has not yet been concluded, but Harry Campbell, assistant manager of the Princess, is in New York talking over the proposition. The Kolb and Dill season is for twelve weeks. It is presumed that at the end of that time the Shuberts will go to the Princess. Regarding this, however, Manager Sam Loverich refuses to commit himself. If this result is achieved, the Valencia will in all probability go into 10-20-30-cent melodramatic stock. However, this is not admitted at the theatre, but strong rumor rather inclines to that belief.

CHICO, Oct. 26.—Harold Nelson pleased a small house last night in Prince Otto. Tonight Mr. Nelson is repeating the bill. Three Twins come, 28. F.

PHILIP WHITE, Los Angeles actor, agent and box office man, has left for South America on a business trip.

Correspondence

TACOMA Oct. 23.—Tacoma Theatre, Oct. 17 and 18, John E. Young and a capable supporting company appeared in the new musical comedy, Lo. Young is still the same happy go lucky slangy Johnnie Hicks and is wasted on Lo, as it is not nearly so good a vehicle for him as The Time, the Place and the Girl. Miss Juliette Langer sang well and Miss Dorothy Bruner as a slangy stenographer was much applauded. The piece was prettily staged. Oct. 18-21, The Climax proved a genuine dramatic treat. Miss Ruby Bridges appeared to advantage and displayed a good singing voice; Albert Latscha charmed with his playing and Walter Wilson was all that could be desired in the role of the music master. Edwin August was capable as the doctor. Tonight Chauncey Olcott in Ragged Robin pleased a large audience that greatly enjoyed the play and Olcott's singing. Rose Curry and Magda Foy contributed materially to the success of the play. Oct. 24, In Wyoming; 25-26, Blanche Bates in The Fighting Hope; 28, Mme. Jomelli, recital; 29-30, The Talk of New York. With the Howard Missmer company at the Grand this week is William Diehl, who last season was a popular member of the McRae stock company here. Friday evening Manager Nat Darling of the Pantages Theatre celebrated his birthday with a banquet at the Annex cafe tendered to the group of players appearing at his playhouse this week. A feature of the enjoyable evening was the presentation of a silver-handled umbrella to Mr. Darling and a happy impromptu program furnished by the members of the profession. Consul Jr. the trained chimpanzee, was an object of considerable curiosity at the Pantages this week. Wilson, Franklyn & Co. got the laughs with a ridiculous comedy sketch; Warren and Brockway's musical sketch was also amusing; the Varsity quartette was fair, and Newhold and Carroll's parallel bar act had a novel setting. At the Grand the Ernest Pantzer troupe of acrobats did some clever stunts. Another acrobatic act which was a laugh producer was that of the two gabokans and their dog Folly. The bill ran to comedy, Howard Missmer & Co. furnishing a little play, and Maddox and Melvin a burlesque. Killian and Moore pleased with their singing and Edna Davenport danced well. A. H.

SEATTLE, Oct. 25.—Moore Theatre—The engagement of Blanche Bates in The Fighting Hope, which ended Saturday night, was a success from every standpoint. Last night the third season of the Seattle Symphony Orchestra was launched before a large audience. Society is preparing for tonight, when Billie Burke will be seen in Love Watches. Alhambra—A financial problem play is The Great John Ganton that opened last night at the Alhambra for a week's run. George Fawcett as the cattle king is a strong and finished actor and makes a remarkable character study of the elder Ganton. The support is competent. Grand—John E. Young, who was so popular as Johnnie Hicks in The Time, the Place and the Girl, is back in Seattle as a full fledged star, and makes the most of his opportunities in Lo, the new musical comedy at the Grand this week. Seattle is to be congratulated upon seeing this entertaining play in the first blush of its success as it is more than likely that the production will be called back to Chicago for an extended run. Seattle—Own Davis' story of the Boxer uprising, A Marked Woman, is being presented by the Russell & Drew Co. in its usual effective manner. Lois—Yesterday saw the first production in Seattle of Pierre of the Plains, as given by the D. S. Lawrence stock company. It is a melodrama of great power and is in for a good week's run. Majestic—Alexander von Mizel and Isis Maynard in Cupid's Coincidence provide a whole lot of good fun. It is a rattling little comedy playlet. Josephine Gassman, with her pickaninnies, is another big card. Inza and Lorella, acrobatic comiques; the Rusticana trio, Parisian minstrels; the Godelensky troupe, Russian singers and dancers, and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. O'Brien in slap-bang comedy stunts round out an exceptional bill. Orpheum—With Edwin Stevens, assisted by Tina Marshall, leading the bill in An Evening With Dickens; with the De Haven sextet and its pretty girls; with the Carmen troupe, sensational wire artists and casters; Howard's musical Shetland ponies and his dog comedians; the Ferrell brothers in a remarkable comedy cycling act; Milt Wood, the dancer with the chair, and Walter Lewis and his company in their big laugh, A Baby Grand. The bill is great. Pantages—Helen Lowe and her delightful songs; Jesse L. Lasky's hoboes in a tramp satire On the Road; Loughlin's dogs a new and attractive animal act; Nina Nestor and company in a comedy sketch; Kennedy and Kennedy a clever team with a record; Mantell's marionettes and Deas, Reed and Deas give much enjoyment. E. MORGENSTERN.

Imperial Amusement Co.

Star Theatre, Portland, Oregon
S. MORTON COHN, Pres.; MELVIN G. WINSTOCK, Gen. Mgr.
Acts of every kind are requested to write in, quoting lowest salary in first letter. Satisfactory booking for right acts at right figures.

WILLIAM MAXWELL

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Lick Building, 35 Montgomery Street.
Telephone Kearny 724.

Valencia Theatre

Valencia Street, Near Fourteenth
Phone Market 17

This Saturday Afternoon and Evening
Last Times of
THE RINGMASTER

Starting Sunday Night, Oct. 31st, for Two Weeks—Only Matinee Saturday
Sam S. and Lee Shubert (Inc.) Present
America's favorite funmaker

EDDIE FOY

—IN—
MR. HAMLET OF BROADWAY
The Great New York Casino Success
A Company That Can Act—and Does
A Chorus That Can Sing and Dance—and Does

RESERVED SEATS—from 50c to $1.50, on Sale at the Box Office and Emporium
NOTE—Mr. Foy Will Announce Election Returns from the Stage, Tuesday Evening.

New Alcazar Theatre

Cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts.
Belasco & Mayer, Owners and Managers
Absolutely "Class A" Building

Monday Evening, November 1, and Throughout the Week, James A. Herne's Famous Play

SHORE ACRES

with FRED. J. BUTLER as Uncle Nathan'l Berry

Prices—Night, 25c to $1.00. Matinee, 25c to 50c.

MATINEE SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

New Orpheum

O'Farrell Street, Bet. Stockton and Powell
Safest and Most Magnificent Theatre in America

Week Beginning This Sunday Afternoon
Matinee Every Day

ARTISTIC VAUDEVILLE

MINNIE SELIGMAN and WILLIAM BRAMWELL in The Drums of Doom; THE BOUNDING GORDONS; KATCHEN LOISSET; BOOTBLACK QUARTETTE; HAL GODFREY & CO. in The Liar; KENO, WALSH and MELORE; "GENERAL" EDWARD LA VINE; NEW ORPHEUM MOTION PICTURES. LAST WEEK Great Terpsichorean Triumph, Mlle. HIANCI in Her Classical and Novelty Dancing.

EVENING PRICES—10c, 25c, 50c, 75c.
Box Seats, $1.00.
MATINEE PRICES (Except Sundays and Holidays)—10c, 25c, 50c.
Phone Douglas 70

Princess Theatre

Absolutely "Class A" Theatre Building

Phone West 663

Ellis Street, near Fillmore

Samuel Loverich, Manager

Fourth and Last Big Week

Kolb & Dill

Present Themselves in
DREAM CITY

Evening Prices and Sunday Matinees,
50c to $1. Saturday Matinees, 25c, 50c and 75c.

NEXT WEEK—KOLB & DILL in

The Politicians

AMERICAN THEATRE

Market St., near Seventh

Abe S. Cohn, Manager

Phone Market 381 for Good Seats

The Playhouse of Comfort and Safety

AMERICAN VAUDEVILLE

Will be Inaugurated Next Sunday, by a
Ten-Act

Vaudeville Show

This theatre will now book the best vaudeville acts obtainable under the booking direction of Edward Homan.

No Acts too big. No Price too big.

GILLE PRINTING CO.

SAN FRANCISCO

THEATRICAL PRINTING OF ALL KINDS

POSTERS
2257 MISSION ST. Phone MISSION 3065

THE FRANCIS-VALENTINE CO. Show Printers

Thirteenth St., near Mission, S. F. Cal.

Spacious Headquarters
for Theatrical Agents

PHONE—MARKET 2114

Send Bills of Lading to us. We will take care of your paper

Van Ness Theatre

This week will end the two weeks' engagement of The Third Degree, in which play Paul Everton and Fernanda Eliscu do such magnificent work. Next week, The Traveling Salesman.

Alcazar Theatre

Some years ago we had our first glimpse of a stage Becky Sharpe when Mrs. Fiske brought that careless young person to San Francisco at the California Theatre. At that time the novelty of the play, coupled with the rare talent of Mrs. Fiske for just such a character, we rather enjoyed the play. This week the Alcazar is giving a splendid production to the piece, which some way seems to be a little old-fashioned, as the style of playwriting has changed. And then, too, Evelyn Vaughan, charming and wonderful young actress that she is, is hardly suited for the acerbic and utterly irresponsible Becky. Becky, as Thackeray outlined her, was no angel, and Evelyn Vaughan is apt to give a great personal charm to every character she impersonates. Will Walling, too, did not get into the character of Rawdon Crawley. The best acting was furnished by Louis Bennison, who was magnificent as the Marquis of Steyne, and Charles Dow Clarke, who was entertainingly amusing as Sir Pitt Crawley. William Garwood played a small part, William Dobbin, and he demonstrated how great his improvement has been in the last few months. George Baldwin presented a graphic and clever picture of Major Leder and the Duke of Brunswick. Harrison Ford, Howard Hickman, Walter Belasco and Herbert Farjeon were seen in satisfactory portrayals. Adele Belgarde was splendid in the part of Miss Crawley and other parts were well presented by Christie MacLean and Bessie Barriscale. Grace Travers was almost colorless in the part of Lady Jane Crawley. The production as a whole, was carefully and intelligently worked out, and Edward Lada's music contributed much enjoyment. The next bill will be Shore Acres.

Valencia Theatre

Tonight is the last performance of The Ringmaster. On Sunday, Eddie Foy, the newest Hamlet, and probably the most original of all, comes for quite a lengthy stay.

Garrick Theatre

H. H. Frazee has given us a most enjoyable show in The Time, the Place and the Girl. It is resplendent with color, movement and splendid comedy. The cast is one of all-around excellence, and the two principals, Elizabeth Goodall and Robert Pitkin, are especially clever and entertaining. Miss Goodall is a handsome, magnetic comedienne who claims and holds attention as the nurse of the sanitarium. She is one of the few easy, unaffected actresses on our stage, and her work is doubly effective for that reason. Robt. Pitkin is an old favorite, having played here in musical comedy. He makes the slangy, good-natured, loyal gambler a very likable chap, and extracts a great deal of comedy from the part. The little soubrette who played the sophisticated daughter of the old farmer is pretty, and while she has no singing voice, is graceful and altogether charming. Theodore Rork, well known here as a splendid character man, played the country man in artistic style. The rest of the company do their work in a capable and agreeable way, and the chorus, admirably costumed, and under excellent discipline, is one of the most efficient we have had offered here. All in all, Mr. Frazee has every reason to be proud of his show and if people want something really good, his season with this show should be most profitable.

Princess Theatre

Dream City at the Princess, under the management and direction of Kolb and Dill, is in its last nights. At the end of this week it will be withdrawn, and another bill substituted. Dream City has been very popular from the first, and could easily run another thirty days, but the management feel that it is best for themselves, their company and incidentally the public to have a change of menu. The piece has been whipped into such perfect shape that it could easily be put on Broadway, just as it is, and compare with any similar Eastern attraction. The Politicians comes next, with Maude Lillian Berria as the leading woman.

Personals

LONNIE NELSON went away last week with A Knight for a Day company, to play the ingenue part.

LEWIS BISHOP, formerly of the Grand Opera House of this city and now a capitalist of Oakland, was married recently.

EMIL ANKERMILLER will soon blow into town with the Eddie Foy Company. Mr. Ankermiller is one of the important Shubert managers.

TRUE BOARDMAN is a proud father. A ten-pound leading man arrived in Seattle last Monday, and mother and babe are getting along nicely.

For the benefit of those admirers who insist on seeing Charles B. Hanford in Shakespeare, The Taming of the Shrew is retained in his repertoire for this season.

GEORGE WEBB, who went to Fresno with the musical comedy company at the Novelty, will probably retire from the company next week. George is not a musical comedy man.

MONA E. ANSON KENNEDY, wife of Harry J. Kennedy, died very suddenly at the Ashland Hotel, Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 6, 1909. Death was due to a complication of stomach troubles.

MARIE DROFNAH, for the first time in her life, is playing a part with a touch of the brogue. Her role in The American Lord with Chas. B. Hanford is described as one of the most dashing creations since Lady Gay Spanker.

THE report is current that as soon as Mrs. Robert Bien (Robert Warwick) secures her divorce in Chicago the handsome Bob will marry Josephine Cunningham Whittell, a former Florodora girl, who married a local millionaire's son.

ORRIN SHEAR has signed with the Laura Hudson company. Godfrey Matthews will play the leads instead of Kernan Cripps.

FRED URBAN, five years with the business office of the old Tivoli, and well known here as a comedian, has returned to San Francisco to make his permanent home. He has been away 15 years with the Savage and other companies, the larger part of the time in New York.

Eddie Foy in Hamlet of Broadway at the Valencia Theatre

J. SHELDON LANDON, who was out on the Coast ahead of The Sultan of Sulu seven years ago, is in town ahead of Emmet Devoy in In Dreamland.

COLONEL JOHN D. HOPKINS, father of popular priced theatrical performances in the middle west, died Oct. 24 in St. Louis. He was 79 years of age and the founder of a summer garden business there. He drew many actors from the legitimate stage to vaudeville. Nat Goodwin, Francis Wilson and many other stars began their career with him. Two daughters, Emma and Ethel Hopkins, are now in vaudeville.

CHARLES COLEMAN, who plays the part of Jeffries, Sr., in The Third Degree, was supposed to have mysteriously disappeared, and the city police department were called upon to locate him, Sunday. An understudy played his part Sunday night. The mystery was cleared Monday by Mr. Coleman reporting. Not being called upon for Sunday performances, he did not know of the Sunday night show.

Ed. Redmond Goes Back to San Jose

Ed Redmond will reorganize his stock now playing at Santa Cruz and will open at the Garden Theatre, San Jose, on November 8th, with Kernan Cripps and Myrtle Vane in the leads. Charley Gunn, who has been playing leads, will go starring in his new play, The Governor of El Dorado, written by two clever and well-known playwrights.

Mack Swain will open a stock in his Santa Cruz house in two weeks, and after a few weeks there will take them on tour through the Northwest.

Vaudeville

The Orpheum

Everybody looks pleased at the Orpheum performances this week, from the ushers to the huge cupids in the top of the house, and very rightly so, for there is a bill on that is hard to surpass. To begin with, Ballerini, an animal trainer, introduces his canine tumblers. Either Ballerini must be a very good trainer, or else he is the possessor of some most clever animals, for they go through their act without so much as a word of command or a whip to admonish them. George Bloomquist and his company, in Nerve, follow. The little play starts off rather slowly, but before it is ended it has taken hold of everybody. Assisting Mr. Bloomquist are Earl D. Thorpe, who is far from being a Rube, Torpe, who is far from being a Rube, at least as an actress. Keno, Walsh and Melrose, three excellent gymnasts, introduce the revolving arch, an acrobatic novelty, which will find many imitators before long, no doubt. Just why they cannot do their work straight, without straining for a laugh by introducing so-called comedy into it is hard to understand. But there are fashions in all vocations, and comedy is something that every acrobat who can get before the footlights these days feels he is bound to introduce into his turn no matter what the consequences may be. Fortunately, in this case, it does no harm, but it does not add very much, either. General Edward LaVine is another good performer who has gone wrong on the comedy idea, although not so badly so as some. A juggler who can keep a cannon ball, a sledge hammer, and a cigarette paper going, all at the same time, does not have to depend upon the eccentricities of make-up and costume to get a hand. If you doubt this statement try juggling the three aforesaid objects, as La Vine does, and see. Hal Godfrey and his little company, in the quaint character offering, A Very Bad Boy, are excellent, and portray a thoroughly finished study. Howard and Howard in their comedy singing divertissement, The Hebrew Messenger Boy and the Thespian, are clever. They are masters of rapid-fire patter and snappy dialogue. Willie Howard has one nonsensical song Abie and His Ringworm, that is the acme of foolishness, but which is original and unusual in that it is a distinct departure from the prevailing songs of the hour. Mlle. Bianci is the top liner of the bill. She is a thorough artist and dances with that grace that comes to but few, even after having made a life study of the terpsichorean art. Her act is most elaborately dressed, there being four distinct changes of scene during her performance. The first dance is the Dresden china, the second the Egyptian, the third la danse en volant, and the fourth and last Satanelle. Her work in each is distinct. One measure does not suggest itself in another. Except that her dancing is all done on toes each movement might be given by a separate performer. Mlle. Bianci is assisted by a very pretty young woman, Mlle. Marja del Carras. Special music has been written for Mlle. Bianci by Paul Lincke. The turn is a relief from the great majority of vaudeville presentations in that, if for nothing else, the lady is not always bidding for a hand or trying to raise a laugh. If you do not like her turn you are at liberty to let alone, that is her attitude. But he who could not be won by the graceful movements of this exceptional dancer would be hard to suit indeed.

Pantages-Empire

Captain Nat Ressler and company, presenting a marvelous revolver shooting act, which is beautifully set with special scenery, open this week's bill and offer a wonderful and sensational turn, something that has never been seen here in years. It is a great turn. Frank O'Brien offers a comedy stunt, and Sutton and Sutton claim considerable attention with a novelty comedy act. Smith, Evans and Williams offer the playlet, All's Fair in Love. All of the characters are Yiddish, and the three actors show much comedy as well as quiet emotional ability. Robert and Downey bill themselves as America's premier dancers. They certainly can do any foot exercise that is called for. They are the hoofing kids, all right. Especially clever is Roberts, whose equal as an agile and graceful dancer, has not been seen here in years. Minerva, the mystery, has an act that causes all kinds of speculation. It is cleverly and bewilderingly done and makes a great hit. She introduces her latest sensation, The Death Defying Water Escape, from an air-tight barrel locked up with eight (8) massive padlocks. The barrel is filled to the brim with water. To fail in this trick means a drowning death. Also Minerva's record-breaking straight jacket escape is performed in full view of the audience.

The National

Frobel and Ruge, aerial comiques, open the show this week. They are funny and clever. Elsie Crescey and company, which includes our old friend, Earle Gardner, a decidedly good comedian, have not the best playlet in Fagin's Pupil, and the young man who plays the juvenile is miscast. He could do better evidently in a character part. Miss Crescey has plenty of ability, but her vehicle is not exactly the one to show it. Bandy and Fields introduce a novelty dancing act, a chief feature of which are several caricature walks. Anna Eva Fay, the cabinet demonstrator and mind reader, gives her familiar act, and it is as mysterious as ever. Golby and May offer an interesting, if not particularly novel, ventriloquial act, in which Miss May plays the dancing doll.

American Theatre

Manager Abe Cohn continues to offer his patrons an excellently devised program. Buford, Bennett and Buford, dancers, whistler and singers, have a most entertaining sketch. Edwin T. Emery and his little company are in their last week, having signed for the Bell Theatre of Oakland, to open next week. This week Mr. Emery has taken Harry Cottrell's play, In Arkansas, cut it down to the necessities of forty minutes and called it Texas. It is always a strong, compelling play, and in its present form is most interesting. Mr. Emery plays the hero cow-puncher, with sincerity and strong effect, and Denton Vane is immensely amusing as the chore boy. Frank Hooper plays the old rancher, and Alice Douvee makes her reappear-

Theatrical Tights

ALL COLORS, WEIGHTS AND QUALITIES—Cotton, 75c to $1.50; Wool, $2.50 to $3.50; Lisle or Silkline, $3.00 to $4.50; Silk, $5.00 to $12.50.

SYMMETRICALS BEST LINE MADE IN THE U. S. Calf, $5.00; Calf and Thigh, $10.00; Calf, Thigh and Hip, $12.50.

We also Make Padded Shirts, SWEATERS, JERSEYS, GYM, ATHLETIC and BATH SUITS, SUPPORTERS, ACROBATIC SHOES, GOOD UNDERWEAR Knit to Fit in All Materials.

We operate our own mills, carry a large stock and make goods to measure at reasonable prices. We suit the professional as if he were buying in Europe. Write us for prices and samples.

Gantner & Mattern Co.
KNITTERS

Phone Kearny 3603

Corner Post and Grant Ave.

Sullivan & Considine

::: New Circuit :::

Of the smaller popular-priced theatres to be operated in conjunction with their regular circuit houses, comprising time in

California Utah and Colorado Kansas and Eastern Connections

Good Acts Can Always Secure Immediate Bookings

BOOKING DEPARTMENT

1117 Market Street

W. P. REESE, Manager

New York Office
Knickerbocker Theatre Bldg.

Lancaster, Pa.—
FAMILY THEATRE

Bert Levey Circuit

INDEPENDENT VAUDEVILLE
144-150 POWELL STREET Phone Douglas 5702 SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
Booking the Longest Chain of Vaudeville Theatres West of Chicago

PANTAGES Western States Vaudeville Association

Controlling the longest, largest and best chain of vaudeville theatres in the United States.

Mr. Manager: No matter where your house is, how large or how small, we can supply you promptly with first-class vaudeville acts at reasonable prices, also lodges, clubs and entertainments furnished on short notice.

See W. Z. TIFFANY, Representative. Phone West 7140. Offices: Pantages Theatre, cor. Sutter and Steiner Sts., San Francisco, Cal.

Archie Levy's Amusement Ass'n

THE VAUDEVILLE EXCHANGE OF THE PACIFIC COAST
1643 FILLMORE STREET, SUITE 1-2-3, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
Managers desiring talent Write. Artists send in your open time now.

Bob Burns Vaudeville Circuit

Temporary Offices, 1838 Steiner St., Near Sutter, S. F.
Office hours—11-2; 4-6. Phone West 9479

Novelty Acts—Do you want to go to Honolulu? I am booking Doy's Hawaiian Circuit.

ance with the Emerys, in the character of the daughter, and she is a charming daughter. Nesbie Howard is seen as a nearby Sis Hopkins, and she is very funny. Viola Lambert is well cast as the Mexican girl. The Allen Sisters, local dancers, pleased with their Irish jigs and songs. Prof. Buckley's performing dogs were quite clever, and the big musical hit was made by the Three Kuhns (white). These three instrumentalists and singers are the best trio in vaudeville and are always up to date and pleasing in their work. Selbini and Gravini are good equilibrists. The moving pictures were much enjoyed.

Lipman and Fischer, that clever singing team, have been deluged with good offers, including a long engagement in Honolulu.

The condition of Mrs. William H. Short or Evelyn Howard, the show-girl who was shot three times by her husband in Washington, D. C., Oct. 24, is reported to be much improved. The body of her husband, who committed suicide after the shooting, when she refused to leave the stage and return to him, is at the morgue unclaimed.

FRANK MCGLYNN is now general stage director for the Edison Moving Picture Company of New York.

Bookings

At the Sullivan & Considine, San Francisco Office, through Wm. P. Reese, their sole booking agent, for week of Oct. 24, 1909:

NATIONAL, San Francisco—The Stellings, Josephine Ainslie, Helen Beresford & Co., Spaulding and Dupree, Will Rossiter's Bunch of Kids, La Velle and Grant, Spencer and Williams; BELL, Oakland—Frobel and Ruge, Anna Eva Fay, Bandy and Fields, Colby and May; WIGWAM, San Francisco—Frank Parker & Co., William Cahill, Willison and Stonaker, McLallen and Carson, Mrs. Gardner Crane & Co. NOVELTY, Vallejo—Dillon and King, musical comedy. GRAND, Sacramento—Bissonette and Newman, Elsie Crescy & Co., Butler and Bassett, Sharp and Turek, Newman; GARRICK, Stockton—Selbini and Grovini, Burton and De Elmo, Royal and Elliott, Jay Paige; THEATRE JOSE, San Jose—Dorothy Vaughan, Florence Modena & Co., Fagan and Byron, Irma Orbasany's Cockatoos, Eddie Dolan; LOS ANGELES, Los Angeles—The La Darros, Pritzkow and Blanchard, Aida Woolcott & Co., Buckley's Dogs, Five Merry McGregors, Fay Carranza; AMERICAN, San Francisco—Nada Moret, George Lauder, Four Stagpooles, Marion and Rial, Jim Polk, Three Vagrants; QUEEN, San Diego—Mondane Phillips, Bothwell Browne & Co., Will Morrissey, Johan and Matt.

BOB BURNS VAUDEVILLE CIRCUIT
Temporary Offices—1838 Steiner St., near Sutter, San Francisco, Cal.

Bookings for Week of October 31, 1909:

CENTRAL, San Francisco—Cummings Merley Stock, The Haydens, Zino and Zodo, Donna Bogan, Frederik. STAR, San Francisco—Warren Woodson, Nettie Deglow Clarke, Theodore Foucher. ELITE, San Mateo—Frank Clarke, Emily Geraldine. GAIETY, Oakland—Prof. Murray's educated goats, Sam'l Strouse. LYRIC, Redwood City—Texas Cowboy Magician, Esperita. GEM, Marysville, Alfredo, Aldula St. John. OPERA HOUSE, Watsonville—Preston and McLaine, Kradwell, Tim Owsley. WORK, Monterey—Oro and Ott, La Jeunesse, Kaltira. NOVELTY, Visalia—Musical Comedy. PARRA, Bakersfield—Ernest Brinkman, Simmons and Cook; Iris Theatre, Chico, Burd and Sprague.

Vaudeville Notes

William Morris has pulled out of Memphis, where he had a house for a few weeks. This leaves the Orpheum in full control of the vaudeville situation there.

Roberts and Downey—Pantages,

San Francisco, week Oct. 25; Bungalow, Salt Lake, week Oct. 31; Crystal, Denver, Nov. 7; Pantages, Pueblo, Nov. 13, week; Pantages, Kansas City, Nov. 19, week; Pantages, St. Joseph, Nov. 25, week.

Dick Cummings and his merry company have a very hilarious offering this week at the Central in Mr. Cummings' own version of Confusion. Myrtle Vane, Kernan Cripps, Al Watson, Katherine Merley and Mr. Cummings are a clever group of farceurs, and they make things hum. The vaudeville offering comprises: Zodo, musical novelty act; Harding and Clough, sister team; E. Kradwell, unicycle and juggling on slack wire; Phenie Edwards, songs; Aldula St. John, in Sis Hopkins act, and Cyril Seeley in popular ballads.

SAN JOSE, Oct. 28.—Sheepishly pleading guilty to intoxication in the police court this morning and promising further good behavior, John H. Chapman, a singer in the chorus in the Honeymoon Trail company, which closed an engagement here Tuesday evening, was allowed to rejoin the troupe. Chapman slumbered until a late hour yesterday morning and was enraged to find that his company was well on its way to Fresno. He berated the landlord for having failed to call him at the proper time and finally became so abusive that the police were called in and he was locked up for the night.

A better example of what is called the "Melting Pot" of America, where the mingling of races are blended together until there emerges the true live American, cannot be better illustrated than in the case of Smith, Evans and Williams, who are appearing in Mr. Williams' own playlet, All's Fair in Love at the Pantages Theatre this week. Thos. J. Smith is of pure Irish stock and his grandfather was a product of Dublin Ireland. Pearl Evans does not have to trace her ancestry very far back to find her great-grandmother a native of Berlin, Germany. Lew Williams' grandfather is still a leading Hebrew merchant in St. Petersburg, Prussia. The combination of Irish, German and Hebrew has proven one of the most amiable and successful trios in vaudeville.

Jules Kuzell was suddenly stricken with blindness in the middle of his sketch at the Majestic Music Hall in Toronto on October 22. He finished the act without permitting the audience or those on the stage to become aware of his condition. Kuzell who with his wife known as Estelle Werdette was giving a comedy sketch in which he sings several songs, was seen to reel slightly and pass his hand across his eyes just

EUGENE WILLIE
Howard & Howard
"THE HEBREW MESSENGER BOY AND THE THESPIAN."
Orpheum Circuit

Valerie Bergere
AND HER COMPANY
Presenting a Repertoire of Playlets—Orpheum Circuit.

George Bloomquest
AND HIS COMPANY
Present "NERVE" in Vaudeville

Carlin & Clark
Playing Orpheum Circuit.

Capt. Nat Ressler & Co.
THE MILITARY STARS, PRESENTING THE WORLD'S FAMOUS REVOLVER SCENIC ACT

PLAYING TO PACKED HOUSES EVERYWHERE
The Great Marshall Show
ADVANCED VAUDEVILLE Featuring
EDWARD C. MARSHALL
Jail Breaker and Handcuff Expert, Supported by a Capable Company of Clever Comedians. A-No. 1 Paper and Photo Display.
MANAGERS: Write for Open Time.
Permanent Address—144 POWELL STREET, S. F.

Harry—Sutton & Sutton—Kitty
THE RUDE, THE GIRL AND THE PUMPKIN
Pantages' Circuit. Open Time, Dec. 13. Address Care Palace Hotel, Chicago, Ill.

Denton Vane
WITH EDWIN T. EMERY
In Vaudeville

 3 times a day
Chicago-Kansas City
AND POINTS EAST
EASTERN EXPRESS
Leave San Francisco, 7:15 a. m. Leave Oakland, 7:40 a. m.
OVERLAND EXPRESS
Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 8:00 p. m.
CALIFORNIA LIMITED
Leave San Francisco and Oakland, 10:00 p. m.
Courteous employes—Unique scenery—Harvey meals—Equipment built by Pullman—One management all the way to Chicago.
Our descriptive folders give reliable information.
JAS. B. DUFFY, GENERAL AGENT, 673 Market Street, S. F.
T. LOVE, T. A., Market St. Ferry Depot, San Francisco.
J. J. WARNER, G. A., 1112 Broadway, Oakland.

before the climax of the skit. Responding to a burst of applause at the end of the song, he laughingly thanked the audience. Three doctors spent the night administering to Kuzell in the hope of saving his sight. They said there was little hope that he would ever see again.

Pantages Turns Great Deal

The biggest sensation in Western vaudeville has resulted this week from the activity of Alex Pantages, the vaudeville big gun. Through the efforts of W. Z. Tiffany, his local manager and partner, Mr. Pantages and the Graumans have come together, and the magnificent new Grauman theatre now building on Market Street will become a Pantages' circuit house, with Sid Grauman, who is one of the cleverest men in the game today, as manager. Mr. Pantages and the Graumans have likewise pooled issues and secured the Broadway Theatre in Oakland, and will operate it until they build a fine new theatre in that city. In the new Grauman theatre, which will be finished some time in May, W. Z. Tiffany will hold forth in charge of the Pantages' Circuit in elegantly appointed offices. In addition to these new deals, Alex Pantages has just secured the Bungalow Theatre in Salt Lake, and has bought the Majestic Theatre in Kansas City, and is now having built for him by Wm. Garland of Los Angeles a magnificent theatre in that city that will be one of the show places of the West. It is located on Broadway, between Fifth and Sixth Streets. Furthermore, Mr. Pantages has leased a site in Chicago and will erect a fine theatre thereon. And he proposes to go still further into the East. As it stands now, the Pantages' proposition is as follows: Houses in Edmonton and Calgary, Canada, Spokane, Tacoma, Seattle, Vancouver, Victoria, Bellingham, Portland, Sacramento, Oakland, San Francisco, Salt Lake, Denver, Pueblo, St. Joe, Kansas City, and assured houses in Los Angeles and Chicago. Truly a formidable list! In speaking of this remarkable growth of a remarkable man, Mr. Tiffany said that Mr. Pantages had worked all this out by himself, and it was his money alone that was financing the circuit development, and, outside of the local partners, he stood alone. "I consider the rise of Alex Pantages one of the remarkable things in Western, or, as for that, American theatricals," concluded Mr. Tiffany.

Smith, Evans and Williams

Smith, Evans and Williams are presenting a one-act play at Pantages this week that is out of the ordinary. It is the work of Lew Williams and is called All's Fair in Love. It is resplendent with good comedy and funny situations. Thomas Smith, as Davey Rosenbloom, makes all possible out of the part. Pearl Evans, as Marie Goldberg, is dainty and sweet and looks very pretty. She has a very sweet voice and we predict a great future for her. Lew Williams as Abraham Goldberg is exceedingly clever and gives a good imitation of Dave Warfield. The act is clever and has a touch of pathos. Its effect is heightened by the splendid efforts of the actors.

Tacoma Shell Society

Thirty professionals appearing at the Grand Theatre, Pantages and the Tacoma Theatre held a meeting on the stage at the Grand just before midnight last Saturday night and organized shell No. 3 of "The Nut Day Society." The organizers were Al W. Maddox of the team of Maddox and Melville, and Howard Missimer, heading his own company, both appearing at the Grand this week. The "Nut Day Society" was organized October 7th at Vancouver, B. C., by Messrs. Maddox and Missimer. It is in that city that shell No. 1—the parent lodge—is located. Mr. Maddox rejoices in the euphonious title of Big Tough Nut and Mr. Missimer wears the regalia of Big Hard Nut. The society, organized under rather frivolous circumstances, promises to become an institution of serious ambitions. There are already three "shells"—at Vancouver, Seattle and Tacoma—with a membership of more than 100. Shell No. 4 will be organized in Portland next week, and it is proposed to perfect a permanent organization and plan the society along the lines of the White Rats, the Lambs, Green Room and others that have professional entertainers for members. The emblem of the society is a maple leaf and pecan. H. A. Sullivan was elected president of the Tacoma shell last Saturday night, and the organizers left a considerable sum of money here for a "nest egg" for the shell. The members of Tacoma shell No. 3 include William V. Thompson of Brooklyn, E. T. Crawford of Portland, Frank Killian of Philadelphia, R. V. Haddon of Boston, E. J. Richardson, G. F. Keene, L. G. Teale, A. O. Sault and W. H. Davis of Tacoma, Ernest Pantages of New York, Frank Scallion of Brooklyn, Clyde Ellis, Harry Wilburn, George Hayes and George F. Dunn of Tacoma, William Van Dusen of Auburn, N. Y., Frank L. Brockway of New York, Thomas F. Milmer of Brooklyn, Dick Moore of New York, H. A. Sullivan, Dean B. Worley, James Jedlock of Tacoma, William Adams of New York, Carl Ellis and B. B. Vincent of Tacoma.

The Wigwam

The weeks bill consists of Eddie Dolan, Flo Patterson, Fagan and Byron, Butler and Bassett, Irma Orbasany cockatoos, and Landers Stevens, Georgie Cooper and Charles Place in their last week, presenting The Mountebank.

Vaudeville Notes

Watsonville, week of Oct. 25—Rae stock company here. Friday even nasts; Frank M. Clark, comedian; Frederick the Great; Leana Clifton, balladist; La Petite; Lynden and Wren, sketch team.

Capt. Nat Ressler, who is a big feature of Pantages this week, was presented with two medals in Vancouver by a celebrated shooting club there. The captain has a beautiful stage set and his tricks are bright and snappy.

Greatest Hamlets, Past and Present

All real actors have in the past played or aspired to play Hamlet, and it is taken for granted that all living or hereafter to be real actors will aspire to play Hamlet. In the past we had Edwin Forrest, Edwin Booth, Edwin Adams, etc., all acknowledged great Hamlets. But we are assured by that dean of managers "Yours merrily" privately know as John R. Rogers, that Edwin Foy is the great-

PICKWICK THEATRE—SAN DIEGO

Charles King Stock Company

Supporting

Marjorie Rambeau

Presenting all high-class novelty productions.

---

BONUS AMONG THE BEST!

MELIOR AMONG THE GOOD!

OPTIMUS AMONG THE REST!

Laura Hudson & Co.

Address: WRAY & EDNER.

Care of Francis-Valentine Co., Thirteenth and Mission, San Francisco

est living Edwin Hamlet—the other Edwins being dead. Many actors believed they were seriously playing Hamlet yet the audience laughed at them. Edwin (Eddie) Foy purposely makes his audiences laugh and is entitled to the position he claims. Dating with tomorrow, Sunday evening, Oct. 31, at the Valencia Theatre the Messrs Shubert will present Eddie Foy in his latest and positively most successful musical whimsicality, Mr. Hamlet of Broadway, a conceit in two acts by Edgar Smith, with lyrics by Edward Madden and a most jingly score from the pen of Ben Jerome. Mr. Foy last season was the center of a country-wide interest because, he, unquestionably the peer of all farceurs, was going to essay Shakespearean roles. "Others have done it, whose capabilities were along laugh-producing lines," was the argument advanced by Mr. Foy, "and what others have done I, too, may do," and, in all probability, he wound up his discourse with his famous, "Ah, 'tis a pretty thing." But for a time he was taken seriously. His managers, the Messrs. Shubert, had no objection to Hamlet being the role, but acting within their rights they argued that no liberties should be taken with this classic. "Do anything you want with it," Foy told them, and they called in as experts Messrs. Smith, Madden and Jerome, and the result is found in this two-act musical play, Mr. Hamlet of Broadway. The production is mounted in exquisite taste and in every detail is most complete. The management has spared no expense to make Mr. Hamlet of Broadway the greatest of all their musical attractions, and the success attending their efforts is a testimonial to their foresight. There are a score of musical numbers, the greater of these being Everything Depends on Money, Mr. Hamlet of Broadway, When I Was a Kid Like You, as sung by Mr. Foy; Good-bye, Molly Brown, The Dusky Salome, The Hornpipe Rag, Under the Honeymoon, and others. The cast is a large and capable one. The company can act. The chorus can sing, and it will be a pleasure to theatre patrons to note, Mr. Hamlet of Broadway is not a one-part show.

CHARLEY TAYLOR and company are in Seattle from Alaska. While in the frozen north Mr. Taylor completed a new play. "I have written what I consider a well constructed drama of the far north during my absence in Alaska," said Mr. Taylor the other day, and I plan to get it into shape for an immediate production in this section by some stock company. If successful I shall take it East at once to the Shuberts, who commissioned me to write the play before I left."

ALENE Z. JOHNSON
Soubrette and Ingenue
At Liberty . . . . . Care Dramatic Review

Time May be Booked in San Bernardino

Any companies coming as far south as San Bernardino and wanting to make dates for one night stands or for one week, can do so by writing to J. W. Leonard, manager of the Unique Theatre. Seating capacity 1,000 people, 5-piece orchestra and plenty of scenery. The house will hold about 1,400 people and never failed to have a packed house.

Andrews Opera Chairs

General Seating
School—Church—Bank
Office and Steel Rod
Furniture
Purchase direct from
manufacturer
THE A. H. ANDREWS CO.
Pacific Bldg., San Francisco
Chicago, New York, Tacoma

Opera, Folding and Assembly Chairs

Full Line
See Samples at 770-776
Mission St.
Bet. 3d and 4th Sts.
SAN FRANCISCO
Whitaker & Ray-
Wiggin Co.

Correspondence

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The Little Terror made its first appearance at the Lincoln Square Theatre last week, with Cecil Spooner in the title role. Frank Peters as Roswell De Wolf Browley, Jr., rescued the pet of Poverty Gulch from the clutches of Jake (Darrel Vinton), who sold poor whiskey and manufactured worse money, to the satisfaction of a Blaney audience. Lord and Lady Carrington (Richard Purdon and Belle Gaffney) produced laughs in their efforts to allow themselves to be supported financially by Roswell de Wolf Browley, Sr. (August Philips), who seemed to be heartily tired of his burden. Tige, the only true friend the Little Terror really had in the first act, failed even to have his name printed on the program. * * * Love, melodrama, dog teams, the scent of pine, gold strikes, and local color were exhibited in the new Alaskan play, Two Women and That Man, at the Majestic Theatre last Monday. This does not mean that the play was confusing or that it was bad. It was good melodrama, set realistically, and played by a competent company. It had an idea in it. Henry D. Carey, author of the play, appeared in the role of the widower, named Neil McNeill, and proved to have some acting ability and an agreeable personality. Fern Foster had the role of Alaska and made the part very childlike and unsophisticated. The other woman was played by Lucy Miliken, who did not act like a melodramatic villainess, but gave the impression of having a good heart. A French Canadian part was played by Joseph Harris, and Louis Thiel acted a garrulous prospector. A little character bit was performed in a way to win applause by Ford Fenimore as a man from Kentucky, who learns of the death of his wife just as he has struck it rich. The staging was elaborate, and the effects of a blizzard in the third act aroused much applause. An attempt to add to the atmosphere was made by perfuming the theatre with the odor of fresh-cut pine. * * * William Faversham and the members of his company who will appear with him in Stephen Phillips' Herod leave for Albany today. The first performance of Herod in America will be given at Albany tomorrow evening. * * * The Love Cure is the latest production by Col. Henry W. Savage in the musical line. Like the Merry Widow, which ran for a whole season, it made its bow to the New York public at the New Amsterdam Theatre, where it is still on, for an indefinite run. It is called a "musical romance of stageland," and is by Oliver Herford, author of The Florist Shop, adapted from the German of Leo Stein and Karl Lindau. The music is by Edmund Eysler. The production might be briefly described as the play of David Garrick reversed and set to music. It will be recalled that when David Garrick, according to the play of that name, was a star in the early English theatre, he was what would now be called a regular matinee idol, only the matinee hadn't yet been invented by Dion Boucicault. But at any rate he was very popular among the girls, and one of them in high society became desperately in love with him over the footlights. Thus we have the story of the rich merchant going to Garrick and asking him to get intoxicated and do other rude things to disgust the young lady and make her believe the actors in general were much worse than they actually were, especially Garrick himself. The collaborators of The Love Cure have reversed the situation, or, rather, they have changed the sex from that of an actor to a music hall actress. This gives plenty of modern effects and enables the composer to get in his work, show off the twentieth century Johnnies waiting at the stage door for the prima donna and to broaden the scenes a long way from dear old David Garrick's time. It is a very legitimate and interesting expansion of the Garrick idea brought up to date. There is no "star" in the company of players, but the principal singer is Lina Abarbanell, the soprano whom Colonel Savage originally kidnaped from the German company at the Irving Place Theatre. Charlie Ross the handsome Prince in the Weber burlesque on The Merry Widow, has this year the leading male part in The Love Cure. The cast also includes several other players who are favorites on Broadway, such as the corpulent Alice Hosmer and the sawed-off and hammered-down Fred Frear. I like the subject of The Love Cure better than the theme of the Merry Widow, and Colonel Savage seems to have spared no expense in his elaborate production. * * * A new play by Rachel Crothers, author of The Three of Us, served Mary Mannering at the National Theatre, Rochester, last week, as her opening piece for the season. It is called A Man's World, and is in four acts. The production is by the Shuberts, and the cast includes Charles Richman, John Sainpolis, Grant Mitchell, Arthur Berthelet, Therese Dale, Helen Ormsbee and Little Gertrude. Miss Mannering appears as Miss Ware, a writer, who has adopted an orphan child, Little Jenny. She lives in a semi-Bohemian rooming house, where she is brought in contact with other writers, artists and professional people. Here she meets Malcolm Gaskell, a journalist (Mr. Richman), and as no one believed the story of Miss Ware about the child, the tongues of gossip are started wagging, but the scandalmonger fails to connect Miss Ware with any wrongdoing. The play advances the argument "This is a man's world." Man sets the standard for woman. He knows she's better than he is, and he demands that she be—and if she isn't she's got to suffer for it. * * * Idols, a dramatization by Roy Hornihan of William J. Locke's novel of the same name, had its first American presentation at the Hyperion Theatre, New Haven, last Monday, by the Walter N. Lawrence company. The play tells the story of Hugh Colman, who, having been secretly married to Minna Hart, daughter of Jacob Hart, a wealthy Hebrew money lender, is accused of the death of Hart, who is murdered by a servant. In the cast are Orlando Daly, Henry J. Carvill, Sheldon Lewis, Alexander Frank, Samuel Klawans, John Prescott, Harold Mead, Joseph K. Whitmore, Mabel Roebuck, Leonore Harris, Helen Orr Daly, Blanche Weaver, and Imogene Coleman. * * * The Shuberts announce that Frank Daniels in The Belle of Brittany, the English musical comedy in which he is now appearing for his first season under their management, will be the next attraction at Daly's Theatre, beginning on Monday, November 8th, following the termination of Viola Allen's engagement in The White Sister. * * * Springtime, a new romantic comedy, performed for the first time at the Liberty Theatre last week, gives much evidence of the elaborate care that has been observed by its producers to provide picturesque surroundings and a congenial atmosphere for Mabel Taliaferro now known as Nell, its attractive young star. To the eye it is most satisfying. Its scenes are laid in Louisiana, suggesting the languorous life of the South, and its early nineteenth century costuming helps to increase the general picturesque effect. Then, to add to its appeal to the senses, its action has an almost continuous musical accompaniment composed by Harry Rowe Shelley, the organist of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church. The play itself is the work of Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson. It is the love story of a boy and girl in the springtime of youth, and, like all the romances of the stage, sunshine is thickly interspersed with April showers. A sinister downpour is threatened by the lowering clouds of the third act, but at last comes the warmth and glow of clear skies. Nell impersonates a Southern girl, Madeline de Volette, Southern girl, Madeline de Volette, betrothed while still a child to her cousin, whom, as she approaches womanhood, she has not even met. The siege of New Orleans is impending, the spirit of war is in the air. In the midst of this excitement Madeline falls in love with Gilbert Steele, a young American planter, on the day he rides away to join Gen. Andrew Jackson's army. The family of the young girl is not inclined to have its plans for her marriage so easily thwarted. Thus begins the series of trials which promise to wreck her life's happiness but which, in the end are cleared away. Nell acted the role of the lovelorn maid with that wistful sweetness so well remembered from her performances in In a Balcony and Pippa Passes. She had the assistance of a company of good average merit which included W. B. Mack, William Harrigan, Samuel Forrest, Earle Braun, Bijou Fernandez, Helen Lindroth and Emma Dunn. * * * Lulu Glaser has been compelled to discontinue her season in The Girl from the States, which opened recently in Philadelphia. * * * Mr. Sothorn and Miss Marlowe have been unable to cancel certain bookings which exist for them on tour. Therefore they will be absent from the New Theatre for a part of the season during midwinter. They will appear there in the first month of the season, opening with Antony and Cleopatra, as announced. * * * It has been some time since anything so interesting in the shape of a play has been produced here as Mr. Augustus Thomas' The Harvest Moon. Its subject is so unusual and in certain respects so absorbingly and impressively handled that one could find the heart to forgive even a few shortcomings, even if they existed. Mr. Thomas has lightened the play with some humorous lines. The scenes in which Judge Bartlett announces his determination to marry Mrs. Winthrop are worth while if only for the sake of the genial and unctuous performance of John Saville. George Nash's performance of the Frenchman could hardly be excelled. In appearance, action and speech he is superb. His playing has sincerity, charm, humor and sympathy, the role is perfectly characterized and is, in short, as fine a performance of such a type as has been seen here in years. Miss Nowak, too, in a most

GOLDSTEIN & CO.
COSTUMERS for all Pacific Coast Theatres.
Goldstein's Hair and Wig Store,
Make-Up, Play Books. Established 1876.
Lincoln Building, Market and Fifth Sts.

difficult part, succeeds exceptionally well, conveying an impression of exquisite sensibility, and combining sweetness and strength. She reveals an abundant quality of emotion which rings true. In fact, there are few women on the American stage today who could equal her performance of this role. * * * Charles Frohman has arranged to transfer his two companies playing Arsene Lupin by sending the American company to London and bringing the organization headed by Gerald Du Maurier to this country. The exchange will be effected during Easter week, the American company closing here on April 2d and opening in London two weeks later, and the London company arriving here in time to give a first performance on April 4th. During the interval the Duke of York's Theatre in London will be kept open by Mr. Frohman's repertoire theatre company, which he expects to have established by that time. It is said that there is a slight difference in the interpretation of the text of Arsene Lupin by the two companies. * * * Emma Carus will be in the Lew Fields' mid-winter review, The Jolly Bachelors, which is to open in New Haven on October 28th. The cast includes Stella Mayhew, Elsie Fay, Josie Sadler, Topsy Siegrist, Gertrude Vanderbilt, Nellie Lynch, Trixie Jennery, Joe Welch, John T. Kelly, Al Leach, Robert T. Dailey, Walter Perceval, Billie Taylor and Ed Begley. * * * To avoid a conflict of first nights, Charles Frohman has decided that Kyrle Bellow will not appear in The Builder of Bridges at the Hudson Theatre until Tuesday, October 26th. The house will be dark on Monday, when Henri Bernstein's new play, Israel, will have its first New York performance at the Criterion Theatre. * * * Jessie Millward has been engaged as leading woman for Arnold Daly in Know Thyself. This is a play in three acts by Paul Hervieu, and was successful at the Comedie Francaise in Paris. It will be produced within a few weeks.

ROB ROY.

All Kinds of SCENERY

Painted, built and installed. The only real Scenic Studio on the Coast. Get our prices. For Road or House productions.

Front and Sheridan Sts. Portland, Oregon

C. F. Weber & Co. Opera Chairs

All Styles of THEATRE AND HALL SEATS

365-7 Market Street San Francisco

210-212 N. Main St. Los Angeles

FRED O. OSBORNE, Manager
Theatrical Code, "Santapola"
Home Phone F 5037

New York Dramatic Agency

Booking

Dramatic and Vaudeville Acts

Organizing and Routing Companies, Supplying "Scripts," Etc.

Belasco Theatre Building, Los Angeles
Entire Third Floor

Metropolitan Opera Company Goes to Paris

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—An invasion of Europe by an American opera company was announced by the Metropolitan Opera Company in an official statement given out tonight. With the close of the season in New York the principal elements of the Metropolitan Opera Company—its greatest artists, chorus, scenery, costumes, etc.—will be taken to Paris, there to appear during May and June, 1910, in a series of Italian operas at the Chatelet Theatre, the largest in Paris. The statement says: Both the Parisian projectors and the Metropolitan officials feel the season is so certain of success that they are confident of repeating the season in the months of May and June, 1911, when German operas, sung in German and possibly French operas sung in French, will be presented as duplicates of the performance at the Metropolitan Opera House.

McKenzie's Merrymakers Prospering

MARSHFIELD, Oct. 17.—We will have business for you in the near future, as I consider THE DRAMATIC REVIEW the best source of advertising in the Northwest. Kindly send me next issue, Oct. 23, to Medford, Ore. Following is the roster of my company: Richard Lonsdale, leads; Chas. E. Dale, heavies; Frank Howe, characters; Jack W. Delmon, juveniles; Henry Novel, light comedy; Robert McKenzie, comedian; Eva Heazlit, soubrette, featured; Margaret Gilman, leads; Gwinn Sterling, heavies; Audrey Davis, characters; P. G. McLennon, in advance.—Yours, respectfully, R. B. McKenzie.

Personals

GARNA VIRDEN, the beautiful ingenue of the Ed Redmond Company, has been engaged for ingenues by the Belasco Company of Los Angeles and will be known in the future as Beth Taylor.

LILLIAN TUCKER, a Chicago girl, is with the Yankee Prince Co., soon to play the Coast. Last season she essayed general understudy, with a big measure of success, in The Stubborn Cinderella Co. With youth, beauty and strong dramatic temperament, Miss Tucker should have a successful career on the lyric stage.

O. W. KYLE, well known in musical and theatrical circles of California, where he formerly resided, died at Spokane, Wash., Oct. 12. He and his wife taught music in Pasadena for several years and he was one of the organizers and prominent members of the first Bostonians.

"FRISCO" JOHNNY WILLIAMS, that lively agent, was presented with a handsome gold watch adorned with an Elk head and half carat diamond eyes on front case, by Archie Levy, and Ed M. Foley, the well-known promoters, for valuable services, rendered as their representative at Sonora Carnival, September 27th to Oct. 2d.

DAVID M. HARTFORD, of the Burbank Stock Company, of Los Angeles, is considering an offer made him by J. C. Williamson for a year's starring engagement in Australia in The Lion and the Mouse and similar plays,

STEVE I. SIMMONS

MAXWELL ALEXANDER

Columbia Scenic Studio Co.

Estimates on all Classes of Theatrical Work

Office, 117 Fell St., S. F.

George P. Webster

Stage Director

Ye Liberty Playhouse Stock, Oakland, Cal.

Arthur E. Witting-Mattie Davis

Character Actor

Joint or Single

Character Actress

AT LIBERTY

Address San Diego, Calif., Boundary and Howard Streets.

Reva Raymond

Leading Woman

Edwin T. Emery Stock—American Theatre

Augustus Phillips

Leading Man

Alcazar Stock—San Francisco

Charles E. Royal & Elliott Edythe

Presenting Charles E. Royal's wonderful Burglar Playlet,

IN VAUDEVILLE "STRAIGHTENING A CROOK,"

and six other excellent playlets.

BERT LEVEY, AGENT.

which never yet have been seen in the Antipodes. Though Mr. Hartford is under contract to the Burbank, it is possible that he will be given a year's leave of absence, to begin his Australian tour in December.

ALF. T. LAYNE has written the lyrics and Sol Levy the music for A Japanese Courtship, a comic operetta which Frederick Snook and Chas. Browning are to produce over the Orpheum Circuit the coming winter season. Entirely original in theme, it gets away from the stereotyped stuff heretofore seen, and with its catchy music, lyrics, scenery and costumes, will prove a treat to blasé theatregoers. Messrs. Snook and Browning express themselves as highly pleased with their new operetta, and are now rehearsing the company for first production, to take place in two weeks.

THE VERSATILITY and adaptability of Florence Oakley was illustrated on Oct. 21st, when she took the part of Juanita in The Rose of the Rancho, at the Alcazar Theatre. Bessie Barriscale, who has been playing the part, was taken ill with a severe cold, and the management had to get some one to take her place on short notice. Miss Oakley had played the part before, and there being no matinee in Oakland, where she is the leading woman at Ye Liberty Playhouse, she agreed to take Miss Barriscale's place. This she did as a compliment to the management, declining to accept any remuneration, and scored a great hit.

GILMORE WALKER

Stage Director and Juveniles

Past year with Valencia Stock—AT LIBERTY
Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

CHAS.—THE GLOCKERS —ANNA
"OH YOU WATER KIDS"—Fully Copyrighted. Pantages Circuit.

ORRIN SHEAR

Eccentric Characters

Engaged

FRANK OPPERMAN

Supporting Millidge Sherwood
in King Lear

JAMES O'REILLY

Characters

Engaged Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

DAVE LERNER

Playing the David Warfield Roles
With Nat Field at Central Theatre

COL. D. P. STONER

Business Manager Newman Foltz Co.
Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

THURLOW WHITE

Leads, Heavies

Address, DRAMATIC REVIEW

HERBERT MILTON

Characters and Heavies

At Liberty Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

CHARLES E. GUNN

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

BERT PORTER

Juveniles

Newman-Foltz Co.

MAX WAIZMAN

Newman-Foltz Co.

ADA LUCUS

Soubrette and Ingenue

Dramatic offers invited.
Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

EDWARD B. LADA

General Music Director
for Belasco & Mayer

A. BURT WESNER

Comedian

At Liberty Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

TEDDY WEBB

Comedian, San Francisco Opera Co.

Direction Frank Healey

HARRY J. LASK

Representative New York Clipper

N. E. Cor. Sansome and Pine Sts.

HARRY MARSHALL

Scenic Artist

At Liberty. 3748 Vermont Ave., Los Angeles

MINOR REED

Scenic Artist

At Liberty Address DRAMATIC REVIEW

CARRIE CLARKE WARDE

Characters

CHESTER STEVENS

Heavies

Grand Opera House Stock, Los Angeles

MARY HARVEY-BARBOUR

Leads (Versatile)

3d Ave. Theatre, Seattle

FREDERICK GILBERT

Burbank Stock, Los Angeles

ARTHUR SHEPPARD

Scenic Artist

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

HOWARD FOSTER

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

IRENE OUTTRIM

Willard Mack Co.—Salt Lake City.

PIETRO SOSSO

Chas. King Stock Co.

Pickwick Theatre, San Diego

ANITA MURRAY

Ingenue

At Liberty Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

HERMAN HELLER

Musical Director

Valencia Theatre Social engagements filled

DAN KELLY

Comedian

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

FLORENCE DAVENPORT

Ingenue or Soubrette

At Liberty. Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

GEORGIE WOODTHORPE

Characters

Broadway Theatre, Oakland

ALFRED ROWLAND

Harold Nelson Co.

En Route

LAURA LUCILE HEIMLICH

Leads

Everett, Wash.

FRED S. CUTLER

Manager Richard Jose

In "SILVER THREADS"

Address care DRAMATIC REVIEW

OLGA GRAY

Leading Woman

Empire Stock Co., Fresno, Cal.

ANNA RODGERS

Ingenues and Leads

At Liberty Care of DRAMATIC REVIEW

HILDA GRAHAM

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW.

GEORGE VON BLIX

Stage Manager

Newman-Foltz Co.

Walter H. Newman AND Bertha Foltz

Starring Jointly

High-Class Repertoire

Season 1909 and 1910

Alf. T. Layne    Daisy D'Avra

Del Lawrence Stock, Victoria

Edith Lyle

Ye Liberty Stock, Oakland

Donald Bowles

Dramatic Director Geo. L. Baker's Attractions.
Address Bungalow Theatre, Portland, Oregon.
Loaned by Mr. Baker to direct Mr. James Neill's Company for him in St. Paul, Minn.

Neva West

Care Dramatic Review

Permanent Address, 2110 Post Street

Johnny Williams, Jr.

"FRISCO"

"The Man in Front." Can Book or Wild Cat

Louise Kent

In Vaudeville

Her Own Company

Pantages Circuit

Claire Sinclair

Second Business

Stock

Seattle Theatre, Seattle

E. P. Foot

GENERAL MUSICAL DIRECTOR

At Liberty

Care Grand Opera House

Mina Crolus Gleason

Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland

Louis Morrison

Belasco Stock Co.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Seibert & Lindley

Presenting the headline act, "HER OWN MOTHER," in vaudeville.

Sidney B. Payne

Lyric Stock, Portland, Or.

Sydney Ayres

Leading Man

Ye Liberty Theatre, Oakland, Cal.

Budd Ross

Comedian

At Liberty

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

Al Hallett

Stage Director

Empire Stock, Fresno

F. F. Munier

Characters

Empire Stock, Fresno

Priscilla Knowles

Leads

Bennett Jack

Characters

Lyric Theatre, Portland

Carlton Chase

Leading Man

Kolb and Dill

Evelyn Selbie-Virginia Thornton

Alternating Leads

Frawley Co., Alaska

George B. Baldwin, Jr.

Alcazar Stock, San Francisco

Monroe Salisbury

Leads

Care DRAMATIC REVIEW

James Austin Gleason—Webster Lucile

Playing Title Role in Checkers

Juveniles in Checkers

Godfrey Matthews

Second Business

Broadway Stock—Oakland, Cal.

Leslie King

Season with E. H. Sothern
Closed June 17th

Immediately Engaged by
Frederic Thompson for Polly of the Circus
To open June 29th

Dates Ahead

A GIRL AT THE HELM (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Iowa City, Oct. 30; Clinton, 31; Waterloo, Nov. 1; Iowa Falls, 2; Mason City, 3; Albert Lea, 4; Rochester, 5; La Crosse, 6; St. Cloud, 7; Valley City, 8; Dickinson, 9; Miles City, 10; Billings, 11; Livingston, 12; Bozeman, 13; Butte, 14-15; Anaconda, 16; Grand Falls, 17; Helena, 18; Missoula, 19; Wallace, 20; Spokane, 21-28; Lewiston, 29; Pullman, 30.

A KNIGHT FOR A DAY (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—Salt Lake, Oct. 24-31; Grand Junction, Nov. 1; Leadville, 2; Colorado Springs, 3; Boulder, 4; Ft. Collins, 5; Cheyenne, 6; Denver, 7-13; Victor, 14; Pueblo, 15; La Junta, 16; Trinidad, 17; Amarillo, 18; Wichita Falls, 19; Ft. Worth, 20; Dallas, 22; Waco, 23; San Antonio, 24; Houston, 25; Galveston, 26; Beaumont, 27; New Orleans, 28-Dec. 4.

ALLEN CURTIS MUSICAL COMEDY CO.—Walker Theatre, Los Angeles, Cal.

ALCAZAR STOCK.—San Francisco.

AS THE SUN WENT DOWN.—(Arthur C. Aiston, prop. and mgr.)—St. Paul, Oct. 24-30; Minneapolis, 31-Nov. 6; Milwaukee, 7-13.

BELASCO STOCK CO.—Los Angeles.

BILLIE BURKE (Chas. Frohman; Francis Reed in adv.)—Seattle, Oct. 25, and week; Victoria, Nov. 1; Vancouver, 2; Tacoma, 3; Portland, 4-6.

BISHOP'S PLAYERS.—In stock, Ye Liberty Playhouse, Oakland.

BLACK PATTI.—(R. Voelckel, mgr.)—Morgan City, Oct. 30-31; New Orleans, Nov. 7.

BLANCHE BATES (David Belasco.)—Bellingham, Oct. 30; Spokane, Nov. 1-3.

CHARLES B. HANFORD (F. Lawrence Walker, mgr.)—Montgomery, Oct. 30; Selma, Nov. 1; Demopolis, 2; Meridian, 3; Tuscaloosa, 4; Birmingham, 5; Anniston, 6; Gadsden, 8; Rome, Ga., 9; Knoxville, Tenn., 10; Chattanooga, 11; Huntsville, Ala., 12; Decatur, 13; Corinth, Miss., 15; Columbus, 16; Jackson, 17; Shreveport, La., 18; Beaumont, Tex., 19; Galveston, 20; Houston, 22; Victoria, 23; Cuero, 24; San Antonio, 25; San Marcus, 26; Austin, 27; Taylor, 29; Waco, 30; Denton, Dec. 2; Greenville, 3; Fort Worth, 4; Ardmore, Okla., 6; Oklahoma City, 7; Guthrie, 8; Wichita, Kans., 9; Winfield, 10; Independence, 11; Bartlesville, Okla., 13; Sapulpa, 14; Tulsa, 15; Muskogee, 16; McAlester, 17; Fort Smith, Ark., 18.

DREAMLAND.—San Francisco, Oct. 31, week; Sacramento, 7-8; Chico, 9; Eugene, 11; Albany, 12; Salem, 13; Portland, 14.

DUSTIN FARNUM IN CAMEO KIRBY.—Company is booked as far east as Butte, but may possibly get a wire at Seattle calling them into New York, where they will open at the Astor Theatre for an all-winter run.

FORTY-FIVE MINUTES FROM BROADWAY.—(Cohan & Harris, mgrs.)—Helena, Oct. 30; Great Falls, 31.

FIFTY MILES FROM BOSTON.—(Cohan & Harris, mgrs.)—San Diego, Oct. 29-30; Los Angeles, 31.

GIRL QUESTION.—Omaha, Oct. 24-25; Sioux City, 31.

GUY SMITH STOCK.—Oakland, Cal.

HONEYMOON TRAIL.—(Harry Chappell, mgr.)—Bakersfield, Oct. 30; Oakland, 31-Nov. 2; Sacramento, 3; Chico, 4; Medford, 5; Eugene, 6; Portland, 7.

IN WYOMING.—(H. E. Pierce & Co., mgrs.)—Pullman, Oct. 30; Spokane, 31, week; Wardner, Nov. 8; Wallace, 9; Missoula, 10; Hamilton, 11; Stephenville, 12; Victor, 13; Great Falls, 15; Helena, 16; Bozeman, 17.

IN OLD KENTUCKY.—(A. W. Dingwall, mgr.)—Sacramento, Oct. 30; San Francisco, 31.

JUST OUT OF COLLEGE.—(Campbell & Bothner, mgrs.)—Spokane, Oct. 24-31.

LEE WILLARD.—Chehalis, Oct. 28; Elma, 29; Montesano, 30; Aberdeen, 31; Mt. Vernon, Nov. 2; Anacortes, 3; Everett, 7.

LENA RIVERS.—(Barton & Wiswell, mgrs.)—Cheney, Oct. 30; Spokane, 31.

McFADDEN'S FLATS.—(Barton & Wiswell, mgrs.)—Lawrence, Oct. 30; Kansas City, 31.

McKENZIE'S MERRY MAKERS.—Medford, Oct. 22, two weeks; Ashland, Nov. 5, two weeks.

MOROSCO'S BURBANK STOCK.—Los Angeles.

MURRAY & MACK'S VAUDEVILLE DATES.—Salt Lake City, Orpheum, Nov. 7, week; Ogden, Orpheum, 14, week; Denver, Orpheum, 21, week; Lincoln, Orpheum, 28, week; Sioux City, Orpheum, Dec. 5, week; St. Paul, Orpheum, 12, week; Minneapolis, Orpheum, 19, week; Omaha, Orpheum, 26, week; Kansas City, Orpheum, Jan. 2, week; Chicago, Majestic, 9, week; St. Louis, American, 16, week; Chicago, Olympic, 23, week; Chicago, Haymarket, 30, week; Indianapolis, Grand, Feb. 7, week; Cincinnati, Columbia, 13, week; Louisville, Mary Anderson, 20, week; Memphis, Orpheum, March 6, week; New Orleans, Orpheum, 13, week; Mobile, Majestic, 20, week.

NEWMAN FOLTZ COMPANY.—Merced, Oct. 25-30; Medera, Nov. 1-6; Fresno, 7-14; Porterville, 15-20; Visalia, 22-27; Bakersfield, Dec. 5-11.

RAYMOND, THE GREAT.—(Maurice F. Raymond, mgr.)—Bordeaux, France, Oct. 25-30; Liverpool, England, Nov. 3-10; Dublin, Ireland, 14-20; Glasgow, Scotland, 23-30.

TURNING THEM AWAY

THE Ewd. Armstrong Musical Comedy Co.

Now Playing to Capacity Business, Grand, Vancouver. The Best Musical Comedy Company on the Pacific Coast

WHY?

Because We Have the Best Shows. Because We Have the Best Comedians.

Some Class to This Bunch

WILL ARMSTRONG, EDW. ARMSTRONG, GUS LEONARD, GEO. HOWARD, MISS ETHEL DAVIS, MISS CLARA HOWARD, MISS DOBOTHY LEE

And a Chorus of Ten Baby Dolls

We Played Pickwick, San Diego, 20 Weeks. We Play Here 35 Weeks.

CALIFORNIA MANAGERS: Write us for time after January, 1910.

EDW. ARMSTRONG, Manager.

OLGA NETHERSOLE.—(Wallace Munro, mgr.)—Redlands, Dec. 25; Los Angeles, 27-Jan. 1; San Diego, 3; Santa Barbara, 4; Bakersfield, 5; Fresno, 6; Stockton, 7; Sacramento, 8; San Francisco, 9-23; Oakland, 24-25.

SIS HOPKINS (J. R. Stirling.)—Milwaukee, 24, week; Waukegan, 31.

THE CLIMAX.—Everett, Oct. 30; South Bend, Nov. 1; Chehalis, 2; Ellensburg, 3; North Yakima, 4; Pendleton, 5; Walla Walla, 6.

THE GIRL QUESTION (Western.)—(H. H. Frazee, prop.)—San Diego, Oct. 31-Nov. 1; Santa Ana, 2; Pomona, 3; Riverside, 4; San Bernardino, 5; Redlands, 6; Phoenix, 8-9; Bisbee, 10; Douglas, 11; El Paso, 12; Albuquerque, 15; Santa Fe, 16; Las Vegas, 17; Rocky Ford, 18; Leadville, 19; Grand Junction, 20; Salt Lake, 21-27; Ogden, 28; Park City, 29; Rock Springs, 30.

THIRD DEGREE (Robt. Priest, adv.)—Monterey, Nov. 1; San Jose, 2; Fresno, 3; Stockton, 4; Sacramento, 5; Marysville, 6; Chico, 8; Red Bluff, 9; Eugene, 11; Salem, 12; Astoria, 13; Portland, 14; Seattle, 21; Victoria, 29; Vancouver, 30-Dec. 1; Bellingham, 2; Everett, 3; Tacoma, 4-5; Aberdeen, 6; South Bend, 7; Chehalis, 8; Ellensburg, 9; North Yakima, 10; Walla Walla, 11; Spokane, 12-14; Colfax, 15; Wallace, 16; Missoula, 17; Anaconda, 18; Butte, 19-21.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR CO.—(Western.)—(Brady & Grismer.)—Leadville, Oct. 30; Salt Lake City, Nov. 1-3; Ogden, 4; San Bernardino, 6.

TIME, PLACE AND GIRL (Western), (H. H. Frazee, prop.)—

San Jose, Oct. 31; Marysville, Nov. 1; Woodland, 2; Reno, 3-4; Minnemukca, 5; Elko, 6; Salt Lake, 7-13; Ogden, 14; Provo, 15; Grand Junction, 16; Glenwood, 17; Leadville, 18; Salida, 19; Colorado Springs, 20; Trinidad, 21; Goodland, 22; Norton, 23; Beatrice, 24; Omaha, 25-27; St. Joe, 28-29; Junction City, 30.

TOO MANY WIVES, with Joseph Morris (Mittenthal Bros. Amusement Co., Inc., mgrs.)—Salt Lake, Dec. 12, week; San Bernardino, 25; Los Angeles, 26; San Diego, Jan. 3; Redlands, 4; Bakersfield, 5; Fresno, 6; Oakland, 7-8; San Francisco, 10, week; San Jose, 17; Stockton, 18; Sacramento, 19; Marysville, 20; Chico, 21; Medford, 22; Portland, 24, week.

Paris Model Disbands

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 25.—The Parisian Model Company closed in Spokane, 23d. The company reorganized and went out in The Soul Kiss. Grace Hazard, who headed the Parisian Model Company, has left for New York. Christine Towles goes to San Francisco to take up a veudeville engagement, and Miss Gardner goes to Kansas City.

As the Sun Went Down is a new play by Geo. D. Baker, which Arthur C. Aiston will present here early in 1910. This play has so far been received with universal acclaim in every city so far visited, and the notices given it have been unanimous in praise for play, company and production. The play is one which, while laid in the Western country, is not sensational, but tells a heart story of genuine interest and is filled with bright comedy. The company is headed by Estha Williams, well known here for her splendid work in other of Mr. Aiston's former companies. The production is an elaborate one, requiring the services of a special baggage car for its transportation.

The Greatest

Cast of

Singers

Headed by

THOS. H. PERSSE
Tenor

EDITH MASON
Soprano

Now Booking Season 1909 & 10

The Persse-Mason Co.

In the New Operatic Comedy

The Singing Bandits

Book and Music by HERMAN PERLET

THOS. H. PERSSE.....Sole Proprietor
LOUIS LISSNER.....Manager

Permanent Address: Dramatic Review, Van Ness Theatre Building, San Francisco

Everything Complete

New Scenery

Excellent Music

Quartette of Comedians

GRAND OPERA HOUSE, St. Paul, Minn., Week October 24

Bijou Theatre

Minneapolis,

Minn.

Week October 31

AS THE SUN

WENT DOWN

By Geo. D. Baker

With

ESTHA WILLIAMS

Bijou Theatre

Milwaukee,

Wis.

Week November 7

Address: ARTHUR C. AISTON, Room 304, 1505 Broadway, New York City

THE SAN FRANCISCO DRAMATIC REVIEW

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Published Continuously Since 1880. The Only Theatrical Publication in the Great West

Ten Cents a Copy—$4.00 a Year

San Francisco, Saturday, November 6, 1909

No. 11—Vol. XXI—New Series

Myrtle
Vane

May Become Alaskan Miner

T. Daniel Frawley and his company returned to Seattle October 21, after a stay of several months in Alaska. "My winter plans depend upon two cablegrams I will receive from Manila and Honolulu within two days' time," said Mr. Frawley in an interview. "If the terms therein are favorable I shall leave Seattle with a majority of my present company next month, sailing direct to Manila and opening there on Christmas day, and then playing Hongkong, Shanghai, the Japanese cities and Honolulu until April 1. I will then return to Seattle, and on June 1 will leave here with a theatrical company for Iditarod and the Yukon river towns. If the cables from the Orient are not favorable I shall remain in Seattle for a rest until January 1, then sail to Valdez and in company with my manager and my partner, Billy Butler, go in over the ice to Fairbanks and Iditarod to look after three mining claims we now have there. In that case Joe Riley will bring up a company in June to support me in a new line of society dramas in the towns I have named. In any event my future is linked to that of Alaska. I think that Alaska today is what California was in 1849, the land of wealth and promise. I had a big and profitable season at all points. By the way, we played The Spoilers in Fairbanks at a time when nearly all of the characters portrayed in the play were in that town. They adjourned court and the lawyers and jury all came over to see our play. And The Spoilers won the case then pending which, curiously enough, was just such a claim-jumping proposition as the play tells about. Make no mistake about the character of Alaskan audiences. I played to the finest assemblages at Dawson that I have ever faced as an actor. Every box was taken every night, and solid rows of the house were filled by people in immaculate evening dress. They want only the best plays there."

Here is a Mother for Some Actor

A matronly woman giving the name of Mrs. Potter and saying she is the wife of a railroad man, insisted that Stanley G. Fields, an actor in the Fifty Miles From Boston company that appeared at the Clunie Theatre last Saturday night in Sacramento, is her missing son who has been absent from home for four years. Her persistent efforts to become the mother of the young man annoyed him and it was not until he had explained many times over that he was never in Sacramento before in his life and had buried his mother two years ago at Pittsburg that the woman gave up her claims of relationship. Mrs. Potter saw Fields' picture in a San Francisco paper when the show was in this city and going to San Francisco talked with him over the telephone. She gave him an accurate description of himself, including his broken nose. He said he was coming to Sacramento and would see her there. When the train came into the depot there on Saturday morning Mrs. Potter was there to meet Fields and rode up town on the car with him. Mrs. Potter declared that he was deceiving her and even told the performer, who is 25 years old, that a local bank holds a $20,000 estate for him. It is not believed that Potter is the woman's name. She has been seen around the Clunie considerably and was known there by the name of Drekson.

Bert Swan Goes Insane

After giving away to overwrought nerves and insulting his fellow-performers and his audience at the Pan-tages Theatre in Tacoma, Oct. 13, Bert Swan, who has trained alligators, was removed from the stage and taken to the city jail, where a charge of insanity has been filed against him. Swan during his vaudeville act performs a number of remarkable swimming feats in a glass tank. In the course of the act he remains under the water for a great length of time. He gives three performances a day and this strain on his nerves, combined with drugs which he takes to quiet them, is believed to be responsible for his present condition. For the past five weeks his erratic manner on the stage has caused the management considerable worry and fellow performers much alarm. While performing in the tank he rose to the surface and, placing his hand to his nose hurried, under his breath an insulting epithet at his audience. Manager Darling was notified and, after apologizing to the audience, announced that Mr. Swan's engagement for the week was closed. Later Swan was removed to the city jail and charged with insanity. For the sake of Swan's sister and his little girl, who travel with him, the management will endeavor to have him placed in confinement where treatment for his nerves can be given. His sister, Miss Mabel Swan, who is also an expert swimmer, continued the act at Portland. "Mr. Swan has for weeks been regarded by the members of the company as a dangerous person," said Alexander Pantages. "The trouble began in Spokane when he addressed vicious remarks to the members of the bill. He did the same thing in Seattle, but when reprimanded said he would refrain. On account of his nervous condition we overlooked this as much as possible, but our performers have threatened to quit working with him. We have much sympathy for his sister and little daughter and will do everything we can to secure proper treatment for him."

Collier to Play in London

Charles Frohman has just entered into a new contract with A. & S. Gatti, of the Vaudeville Theatre, London, by which William Collier and an especially selected company will settle in London for a repertoire engagement of considerable length, as the star attraction of the Vaudeville Theatre, which is now occupied by F. Anstey's farce, The Brass Bottle. Mr. Frohman has decided that after this year Mr. Collier will only play engagements in London, New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago. The first Collier London season will consist of this repertoire of plays: The Patriot, Caught in the Rain, The Man from Mexico and a new play upon which Mr. Collier is now at work.

JIM MAGRATH writes: Los Angeles, Oct. 23.—Here for two weeks; San Bernardino next two weeks. Best regards to all. Our act went big.

HOME OFFICE
BURBANK THEATRE BUILDING
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Oliver Morosco's Plays

Ready for Stock

The Judge and the Jury      The Halfbreed
The Empress and the Soldier
In South Car'liney

Is the New Majestic a winner? Well, we guess yes

MOROSCO'S
BURBANK THEATRE
Los Angeles, Cal.
"The Best in the West"
The Leading Stock House.

Hamburger's MAJESTIC Theatre
The Handsomest in the West
Cost $300,000.00
Oliver Morosco, Lessee & Mgr
For time address JOHN CORT

Bequest for Theatre's Enemies

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The will of Mrs. Mary S. Robinson, the writer of children's stories, who committed suicide, leaves $20,000 for the support of "disabled persons of good character who do not attend theatrical performances."

Opera Notables Injured

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A taxicab skidded and turned turtle in Irving Place before daylight today, and Andreas Dipple, one of the directors of the Metropolitan Opera House, and G. Stengel-Sembrich, husband of Mme. Sembrich, the singer, were severely injured.

Spotlights

Rachel Crother's new play for Mary Mannering will not be known as Kiddie. Originally taken from a short story Miss Crothers held the opinion that the title of the play should remain the same. However, the piece will be known as A Man's World. The full cast in support of Miss Mannering includes Terese Dale, Helen Ormsby, Charles Richman, John Sainpolis, Grant Mitchell, Arthur Barthel and Little Gertrude. Miss Mannering began her season at the Princess Theatre, Montreal, October 18.

Tom Lewis, who will be remembered for his great hit as the detective in the original production of Little Johnny Jones, is coming with Geo. M. Cohan and his company in the production of The Yankee Prince. He appears as Steve Daly a prize fight promoter. He is a talented comedian.

RENO, Nev., Oct. 15.—After elegantly furnishing a cottage in Holcomb Street in this city, Mrs. Theodora Raymond, known in New York as Teddy Gerard, the actress, has returned to New York. She has taken her friend, Miss Broderick, with her, and her attorney, James Boyd, reports that she will not return to this city, although it was her intention to sue for a divorce after staying here the required length of time. Mrs. Raymond spent more than $2,000 furnishing her home in this city, and her other expenses during the month were about $1,400. Attorney Boyd says that undue publicity caused Mrs. Raymond to leave Reno. He declares that the reporters and correspondents in Reno are driving many wealthy divorcees from the city by their persistent practice of publishing facts concerning their plans.

The Great Marshall Show, opened a two weeks' engagement at the Empire Theatre, Eureka, Thursday, Oct. 14th, and Mr. Marshall reports a record-breaking run so far. The roster of the company is as follows: Edward C. Marshall, Sherlock and Holmes, Musical Fletcher, Ethlynde Roberts, Eddie Van and the Abbotts.

As the Sun Went Down, which is announced for its first appearance in this city at the Colonial Theatre, is a new play by Geo. D. Baker, and it will receive marked attention for the reason that it will be produced under the direction of Arthur C. Aiston, a manager who has given us numerous plays of merit and several excellent stars, his latest productions in our city having been Tennessee's Pardner, At the Old Cross Roads, Jane Corcoran in Pretty Peggy, and other plays. As the Sun Went Down has so far received unlimited praise in every city that it has so far visited this present season. The company is one of great merit and is headed by Estha Williams, who has the support of such excellent, prominent and well-liked people as Edwin Walter, W. A. Whitecar, Arthur E. Chatterdon, Phil Connor, Arthur W. Bentley, R. F. Sullivan, Wm. Sexton, Jenny Dunbar, Flora Byam, Margaret Millar and several others of equal note. While the play is one of Western atmosphere, it is not of the wild melodramatic type, but is one which tells a story which combines great heart interest, intense situations, and is full of bright and taking comedy lines. Manager Aiston, whose record in this city has been to produce only the best of plays, scenically mounted completely and carefully, and always having a first-class company, has in As the Sun Went Down a new play which will probably more than duplicate the great eight years' success of At the Old Cross Roads.

MRS. IRENE FRIZELLE ISMAN, wife of Felix Isman, theatrical promoter, was last Wednesday granted a decree of divorce in the common pleas court of Philadelphia.

Hotel St. James

Cor. Van Ness Ave. and Fulton St.
San Francisco, California

Headquarters for Agents and Managers

Half Block from Van Ness Theatre.
Friars meet at the St. James every Friday night.

F. P. SHANLEY, Manager, formerly of New York

Opening the New Theatre

The opening ceremony at The New Theatre at Central Park, West Sixty-second and Sixty-third streets, New York, this afternoon will be a notable one. The doors of the theatre will be opened at 4 o'clock for the reception of invited guests. About 5 o'clock the entré act bells will ring and the guests will assemble in the auditorium. On the stage will be seated between thirty and forty prominent invited guests and the founders of the theatre, about thirty in all, with their president, Wm. K. Vanderbilt, and J. Pierpont Morgan, who will be their spokesman on this occasion. Governor Charles E. Hughes and United States Senator Elihu Root, who are to make the principal addresses of the day, will also be upon the stage. The formal part of the programme will begin with an overture by a full orchestra from the Metropolitan Opera House. Then will come the ceremony of the delivery of the keys from the builder of the theatre to the architects, Messrs. Carrere and Hastings. The keys will then be transmitted by the architects to Mr. Morgan, who, representing the founders, will speak a few words of acknowledgment. He will then declare The New Theatre open to the public. Following the acceptance of the keys, Mr. Morgan will introduce Governor Hughes and Senator Root. After the addresses the full chorus of the Metropolitan Opera Company will sing an ode, written for the laying of the cornerstone of The New Theatre by Percy Mackaye, the dramatist. The founders have arranged a very pretty and unique ending for the ceremony. When the curtain has finally descended upon this, the audience will rise and sing America and leave the theatre to reassemble at 8:30 o'clock, when they will witness a dress rehearsal of Shakespeare's tragedy, Antony and Cleopatra, which will serve to open the playhouse to the public the following Monday night. The rehearsal will be in reality a complete performance of the play.

Desertion Charge Reveals Sad Case

OAKLAND, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Myrtle Gipson, formerly a member of the James Hackett company, who has charged her husband with desertion, was arrested this afternoon at her apartments in the Oxford House, 610 Fourteenth street, on suspicion of having committed numerous thefts. The husband, Clarence L. Gipson, member of a wealthy Pasadena family, is also a prisoner, but has been able to give bail. Gipson claimed to the detective that his wife had committed a theft at the Portola restaurant in San Francisco. That, he declared, brought on a quarrel in which his wife twitted him with having disagreed with his father and having been compelled to take work at Los Angeles as a teamster. The incident across the bay made Gipson inquisitive about his wife's antics before he was married to her. He said that he was soon convinced that she was a thief and feared that she would be detected. He grew anxious to leave his wife, whose arrest at any time might put him under suspicion of being a thief, so he planned the desertion of which she complained. Upon investigating the detectives found in her apartments a suit case filled with silk, towels and napkins bearing the marks of hotels, and silverware and glassware from various hostilities. Then Mrs. Gipson broke down and confessed that she had committed numerous thefts at Los Angeles. She said she was the wife of Lawrence Barry, an actor who died a few years ago. She herself was on the stage, traveling as Myrtle Barry, and played the role of Nancy in James Hackett's last production of The Crisis. Ill luck came upon her with the death of her husband. Not able to retain her theatrical work, she was obliged to become a cashier in a Los Angeles restaurant. While so employed she met Gipson, who, being in disfavor with his family, was working as a teamster in the same city. Mrs. Gipson admits that she took silverware from her employers and from hotels, and that the silks found in her room were stolen from Hamburgers store at Los Angeles.

Letter List

Letters remaining in The Dramatic Review post office:

LADIES

B	K
Barlin, Allie	Kent, Louise
Brissac, Virginia	Knapp, Adeline
Baker, Mrs. F.	L
Bull, Miss Lilly	Lewis, Ada
C	M
Chandler, Juliette	Marshall, Mabel
D	Miller, Marion
Darel, Bertha	Murray, Anita
Drew, Georgia	P
Desmond, Paula	Platt, S.
F	Pitt, Marguerite
Fisher, Lillian	S
Foster, Addie	Selbre, Evelyn
Fay, Flossy	T
G	Thompson, Maybell
Galvin, Mrs. James	W
Graham, Hilda	Willingham, Florence
H	White, Mrs. Thurlow
Haynes, Georgia	Williams, Lillian

GENTLEMEN

B	Howe, O. W.
Brown, Chas.	Harcourt, Gerald
Barron, Fred C.	J
Beggo, L.	Johnson, Chas. M.
Benham, Harry	K
Bradford, James H.	Kolb & Dill
Brel, R. W.	L
Bassett, R. W.	Lessner, Louis
Ballard, R. H.	Lewis, Eugene
Bracht, Edmund W.	LeMoine, Chas. J.
C	Leon, Randolph
Curtis, W. B.	Love, Eugene
Charman, Fred C.	La Rosa, A. I.
Cummings, Ralph E.	M
Clarke, Thos. H.	McCullough, E. J.
Cooper, Leo	MacQuarrie, A.
Cripps, Kernan	Moore, D. R.
Cuttler, Fred	Millon
D	Mitchell, Eddie
Dumont, Arling	P
Daly, Wm.	Parker, E. D.
Daintre, Carl	Q
Dupuy, Harrington	Quillinan, E. J.
Durand, Eddie	R
Douglas, W. A.	Rawland, D.
Delamatre, A. G.	Rankin, G. W.
Diemer, Joseph	Richardson, Frank
E	S
Ealand, T. H.	Stormer, Wm.
Emery, C. M.	Selig & Co.
Eckhardt, Ollie J.	Swift, J. Lionel
Everett, E. J.	Stafford, Eugene
F	Salisbury, Monroe
Fitch, G. W.	T
Flynn, Ed	Turner, W. O.
French, Chester	Thorn, Wm. L.
G	Tannahill, E. D.
Golding, Alfred	Thomas, W. L.
Gillard	Trebell, Thos. T.
H	V
Harrison, James	Viriden, Lew
Healy, Frank	Vance, Harry
Hall, Norman	W
Howard, Frank B.	Walker, Lawrence

The Orpheum

The Orpheum program for next week will have as its chief attractions: Our Boys in Blue, a military spectacle which introduces seventeen men and one woman. The latter appears as a Red Cross nurse, while the men represent Uncle Sam's soldiers. The act opens with an infantry drill that is

ANNUAL TOUR OF THE ELLEFORD COMPANY
 IN LATEST DRAMATIC ROYALTY SUCCESSES
 Pacific Coast Representative for Brady and Grismer's
MAN OF THE HOUR and WAY DOWN EAST
"A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI"
W. J. ELLEFORD, Sole Proprietor and Director
FRANK WYMAN, Manager
 Permanent Address, Francis-Valentine Co., 285-287 13th St., S. F.

wonderful in its precision and is done so rapidly that the eye can scarcely follow the various evolutions. Lulu McConnell and Grant Simpson will delight with a bright little comedy called A Stormy Hour, by Lester Longorgan. The little play depicts the domestic misunderstandings of a newly wed pair and a foolish quarrel between them. It abounds in fun and introduces Mr. Simpson in a congenial role as the young husband. The Tempest and Sunshine Trio, consisting of Florence Tempest, Little Sunshine and Junie James, will be a particularly attractive incident of the coming bill. This trio of fascinating young beauties was a feature of Ziegfeld's first revue, The Follies of 1900. Miss Tempest is a clever boy impersonator on the order of Vesta Tilly and her "chappy" delineations are always a decided hit. Those Russian-Roumanian gladiators, Bobby Pandor and brother, appropriately styled The Modern Hercules, will present a series of athletic poses on a specially constructed cabinet, having for a background a black cycloramic curtain. They conclude their performance with some clever gymnastic work which illustrates their marvelous staying power. Next week will conclude the engagements here of Minnie Seligman and William Bramwell in their highly successful drama, The Drums of Doom. The Bounding Gordons and the Bootblack Quartette. It will also positively be the last of the marvelous chimpanzee, Charles the First. A new series of motion pictures will interestingly finish the performance.

Valencia Theatre

Once a theatrical favorite in San Francisco, always a favorite, has again been demonstrated at every performance this past week by the rousing reception tendered Eddie Foy, the unique comedian who won his laurels in this city years ago and now stands in the topmost rank of funmakers in America. He is the same old Eddie Foy, with his curious art greatly matured since his last appearance here, ten years ago, and with the same grotesque makeups and the same subtle methods, rendering him a comedy paradox, yet irresistibly funny as to results. Mr. Hamlet of Broadway, his present medium, is not a burlesque on Hamlet. It is a lively, tuneful, splendidly staged and finely appointed musical extravaganza, in which there is not a homely broiler or show girl or a tuneless voice. Foy basks for a few brief moments in the spotlight as the mirthless Dane, but he promptly transfigures that doleful character into a personage of hilarious fun, and by a quick succession of anti-climaxes he brings on a spontaneous and continuous upheaval of mirth. The last week of Eddie Foy and the big Shubert company in Mr. Hamlet of Broadway will commence at the Valencia Theatre this Sunday evening, with the only matinee Saturday, and from present indications, standing room will be at a premium during the rest of the engagement. Billy, a highly original face that kept immense audiences at

New Oxnard Opera House

OXNARD, CAL.

Best stage between Frisco and Los Angeles. Playing all of the best shows that come to the Coast. Doing good business. Write for open time.

GONZALES OPERA HOUSE

GONZALES, CAL.

New, well appointed theatre, electric lighted. Full stock of new scenery. C. H. WIDEMAN, Mgr.

WOODLAND Opera House

WOODLAND, CAL.

Greatest show town for good shows in the West. A few good dates open in September and October. Stage big enough for any production. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

Hill Opera House

PETALUMA, CAL.

JOHN R. ROCHE, Lessee and Manager

The finest theatrical town outside of the big cities in the West. Magnificent new theatre, with stage large enough for any attraction, playing regularly from $500 to $700 a night. Booked by Great Western Theatrical Circuit.

287 Thirteenth St., S. F.

BARCROFT Opera House, Merced

Entirely remodeled. New stage, big enough for any production. Stage equipped with new scenery. Merced has 4,000 population. For time write F. R. BARCROFT, Manager.

Santa Cruz OPERA HOUSE

Santa Cruz, Cal.

L. A. KNIGHT, Manager

Rental or will play first-class companies on percentage

H. Lewin

H. Oppenheim

GORDAN TAILORING CO.

928 Market St., Bet. Powell and Mason
 FINE CLOTHES MODERATE PRICES
 No Branch Stores

NEW AUDITORIUM

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CAL.

Seating capacity, 1,000; new stage; new scenery; stage thirty feet deep, sixty feet wide; large enough for any production; a population of 5,000 to draw from; now booking for 1909-10.
 Address WALTER A. CLARK, Mountain View, Cal.

Daly's Theatre, New York, laughing for six months, will follow Mr. Hamlet of Broadway, coming direct from the metropolis.

Alcazar Theatre

John Ince, the Alcazars new leading man, will make his first appearance in San Francisco next Monday evening as Teddy North in "The Cowboy and the Lady." No better medium of bringing out Mr. Ince's acting qualities could have been chosen, as the character of the Eastern college man in a western environment will enable him to simulate both pathos and humor and display in varied garb his physical advantages. He will be seen in the dress suit of gentility and also in the picturesque costume of the cattleman. Evelyn Vaughan will play Mrs. Weston, Bessie Barriscale will be charmingly cast as Midge, and all the other Alcazar favorites will have well fitting roles. As the play calls for realistic staging, some effective pictures may be confidently expected.

Madison's Budget No. 12, Just Out
 Parent's Stationery Co., 818 Van Ness Avenue, S. F.

Spotlights

Of the Clyde Fitch plays now in the hands of the Shuberts, "The City," a modern drama of business, which might find a parallel in the recent history of C. W. Morse, will be the first to be brought out. Mr. Fitch took the manuscript of "The City" to Europe, where just previous to his death he put on the finishing touches. The second Fitch piece to be produced by the Shuberts will be "Kitty and the Canary," which, as previously announced, was especially written for Zelda Sears. "We are fortunate in having the completed manuscript of both of these plays, but he will be missed just the same," says Lee Shubert. "Mr. Fitch's work, however, never stopped with the editorial 'thirty.' Each play of his that we have produced was not only rehearsed by him, but the players were his own selection. In fact, Mr. Fitch served as stage director, property and wardrobe man and scenic artist."

There is a report out that Dick Ferris will take Florence Stone and a company to Honolulu.

The New Theatre has announced the cast of Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra," with which the playhouse will open its first season Monday evening, November 8. E. H. Sothorn will play Mark Antony, a role in which he has never appeared, and Julia Marlowe, Cleopatra, a part new to her. A. E. Anson, an English actor, will be the Octavius Caesar, and Rowland Buckstone, the Aemilius Lepidus. Sextus Pompeius will be played by Ben Johnson; Domitius Enobarbus, by William McVay; the Clown, by Ferdinand Gottschalk; and Enos, by Charles Balsar. The role of Octavia will be assumed by Beatrice Forbes Robertson, and that of Charmian, by Jessie Busley. Iris will be impersonated by Leah Bateman-Hunter, a young English actress. Others to appear at the premiere include Messrs. Henry Stanford, Albert Bruning, Jacob Wendell, Jr., Pedro de Cordoba, Lee Baker, Howard Kyle, William Harris, Harry Melick, Reginald Barlowe, Robert Vivian, G. F. Hannan-Clark and Albert Cross. The tragedy will be repeated Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday evenings and Wednesday and Thursday afternoons. Thursday evening, "The Cottage in the Air," a new modern comedy by Edward Knoblauch, a young American author, will be given its first performance. "The Cottage in the Air" will be in quite a different vein from Mr. Knoblauch's previous play, "The Shulamite," in which Lena Ashwell appeared here and in England. The comedy will be repeated Saturday afternoon and evening.

"As the Sun Went Down," a new production with Estha Williams in the title role, opened at the High Street theatre Monday to enthusiastic audiences. The play which is still in its infancy and, in fact, has only been on the road but six weeks, proves a winner in many respects for its characteristic pictures of western life, and religious sentiments. Four big acts prettily staged are used in conveying this western romantic melodrama to the public minds and a strong and capable cast assume the various roles. Although ammunition and gun powder as well as one or two fist encounters are witnessed during the progress of the first three acts and also a pistol duel, yet there remains in the fourth and last act a strong and particularly well balanced and refined finale.—Columbus (Ohio) News.

Articles of incorporation for the Globe Theatre Company of San Diego have been filed by W. H. Palmer, S. A. Palmer, E. W. Palmer, O. F. Palmer, and Walter Fulkerson, for the purpose of erecting a theatre, at an estimated cost of $150,000, at the northwest corner of Third and C streets, San Diego. The promoters expect to begin construction work before Christmas. W. H. and S. A. Palmer are present lessees of the Pickwick Theatre in San Diego. Walter Fulkerson was formerly manager of the Grand in the same city and the Empire in Los Angeles.

The Shuberts have engaged the following players for "Mrs. Dakon," the four-act play by Ruth Jordan, which begins its season next week: Jessie Bonstelle, who will play the lead in place of Florence Roberts, who did not like the part; Laurette Taylor, F. S. Barrett, C. A. Chandos, Charles Rowan, Thurlow Bergen, William Childs, Ann Warrington, Henry Gibbs, Ethel Martin, Anna Wynne and Janet Arthur.

Max Figman claims that Manager John Cort has given him the best supporting company this season that he has ever had. Among the players are Messrs. Ernest C. Warde, Hallet Bosworth, Sydney Price, George Centre, Herbert C. Denton, Arthur C. Davis, Thomas H. Krueger, J. H. Stuart and the Misses Lolita Robertson, Sylvia Starr, Gladys Fairbanks Murray, Minnie Barrie and Vera Townsend.

Max Figman is busily engaged rehearsing a new farcical comedy which he will present on his Western and Pacific Coast trip, which begins at Duluth on Thanksgiving day.

McIntyre and Heath are coming to the Coast with their new musical diversion called In Hayti. Klaw & Erlanger will send the production across the continent by special train of seven cars.

Gottlob and Marx have arranged with Charles Frohman for the appearance in San Francisco during the present season of nearly every one of his most prominent stars. John Drew, Ethel Barrymore, Marie Doro, Maude Adams, William Collier, Otis Skinner, Wm. H. Crane and Francis Wilson are among those to come West.

Chicago has decided to rigidly enforce the laws prohibiting the employment of children in a theatre, and as a result many new and successful plays will have to steer clear of the Windy City altogether.

Manager Eddie Hall has just finished remodeling the stage of the Holister Opera House.

A big New York musical attraction is bound for the Pacific Coast, consisting of Julian Edwards' charming comic opera, The Gay Musician, which will be shortly heard in this city at the theatre controlled by the Shuberts of New York. The company is under the management of John P. Slocum, who will be remembered here as the manager for a number of years of the tours of the late Richard Mansfield, and who also brought here Margaret Sylva in Princess Chic. The Gay Musician ran last season 100 nights at Wallacks Theatre, New York, and has everywhere been hailed as the neatest, daintiest and most refined musical attraction seen on the stage in many years.

Klaw & Erlanger have arranged to send their immense production of The Round Up to this city early next year. It is said to be the greatest play of the West ever produced.

Len Behymer on behalf of the Shuberts is negotiating for the Isis Theatre of San Diego. He has also practically closed a deal to play the independent shows in the Garden Theatre, San Jose.

The Bandiola company that came from the north with Lena Rivers, after a disastrous trip, is planning to go out next week. The company of eight people is being recruited here, and is somewhat handicapped by having no pictorial.

Unless something unforeseen occurs, the New Columbia Theatre will be ready for occupancy in two months' time. There is a great amount of work yet to be done, but the contractors have put on additional shifts and are gaining time each day.

Victor Moore, who will be remembered for his success in the role of Kid Burns in Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway, will be seen here in The Talk of New York. In the new play the character of Kid Burns is continued, but with an entirely different environment. The musical play is one of George M. Cohan's latest.

Fritzi Scheff will play an engagement of two weeks at the Van Ness Theatre in December, appearing in her latest success, The Prima Donna.

The final performance of Charles Klein's great play, The Third Degree, will be given at the Van Ness Theatre this Sunday night. Fernanda Eliscu and Paul Everton in the principal roles have distinguished themselves as players of great artistic worth.

Since Miriam Nesbitt began playing the part of the pretty telegraph operator in The Traveling Salesman, she has become an enthusiastic student of telegraphy, and in the railroad station scene actually clicks off the message to Bob Blake.

ALBUQUERQUE, Oct. 26.—Sousa's band to well filled house, 19. McEwen, the magician, 21, 22 and 23. Corinne in Mlle. Mischief, 25, to full house. People standing. The people of Albuquerque are good theatre-goers and a good company may be sure of a most satisfactory reception. CAP AND BELLS.

Pearl Evans

There is a charming, pretty young woman in vaudeville this season, who is entitled to the big badge of courage and quick wit. While playing here at Pantages on her opening day, Oct. 24, Pearl Evans, of Smith, Evans and Williams, saved a child from being run over by a big, swiftly moving automobile. But for her bravery and quick appreciation of the youngster's danger there would have been another death added to the long list of auto victims. Miss Evans, who has a sweet, appealing voice and a most delightful personality, has been very successful this season and expects to be seen next season at the head of her own act. She has previously to her vaudeville engagements starred at the head of her own company.

ROBERT GRAU has just published and placed on sale an interesting book of theatrical and musical affairs, called "Forty Years' Observation of Music and the Drama." An edition de luxe is sold by subscription at $5. Mr. Grau is located at 42 Union Avenue, Mt. Vernon, N. Y. His book should be in every library and upon the desk of every theatrical manager.

LEVY'S BIG TRUNK STORE

INCORPORATED
COAST AGENTS
FOR THE
Taylor Trunks
687 Market St., S.F. opp. Kearny Phone Douglas 3192
GENERAL REPAIRING

Nanyang Industrial Exposition

Nanking, China

MAY TO NOVEMBER, 1910

China's First National Exposition

One Hundred Million Population within Radius of One Hundred Miles

ONLY TEN SHOWS ON THE MIDWAY

Thirty per cent. You erect buildings.

Can arrange to work the great MANILA CARNIVAL, February 7th to 17th, 1910.

If you cable, prepay answer. Address,

GEORGE MOOSER

Representative

P. O. Box 623, American Consulate, SHANGHAI

Cable Address, MOOSER, SHANGHAI.

Novelty Theatre, San Francisco

TO RENT

By the day, week or month. Fine, comfortable theatre, seating 1,200 people. Large stage.

SPECIALY ADAPTED TO POLITICAL MEETINGS

Los Angeles Will Be Invaded by Julian Johnson's Play on November 14

LOS ANGELES, November 4th.—Ferris Hartman and his clever company have come to us to stay. It certainly is a satisfaction to know that we are to have a permanent stock organization, playing good musical comedy. Mr. Hartman hopes to have a theatre of his own in the near future and this will enable him to put on larger productions than are possible in his present location. This week the Bankers show takes place at the Mason Opera House. It opens Thursday night and will be given for three nights. Julian Johnson's Invasion will be given on the stage of the Burbank Theatre the week of November 14. William Yerance, who for several months has been a member of the Burbank Company, will, in a fortnight, return to the Belasco Company. Friday afternoon the fifth annual benefit of the T. M. A. will be given at the Auditorium. The program is as follows: Harry Girard, Agnes Cain Brown and Roland Paul, who will sing a trio from one of the famous operas, Charles Ruggles, assisted by Beth Taylor and Margo Duffet, in a sketch entitled Billy Job, the third act of The Ringmaster; Henry Stockbridge and Fay Bainter in a song and dance specialty, an act from Brown of Harvard by the Burbank Company, Walter Sheck and the Olympic Six, Walter de Leon, Muggins Davies and the Hartman chorus, Ferris Hartman in a monologue, the Big City quartet from the Orpheum, a duet by Josephine Islieb and Oscar Walch of the Hartman Company, the headline act from the Los Angeles Theatre, Goldie Snyder in a series of living picture poses, Harry Clive and Mai Walker from the Orpheum, Lewis S. Stone and the Belasco Company in an act from The Regeneration, Blossom Seeley and the Fischer chorus and the comedian and chorus from Fifty Miles from Boston, at the Majestic Theatre.

Cinderella in Flowerland is being rehearsed by 100 young people of Glendale, under the direction of Cora Belle Howes, for presentation next Friday and Saturday nights. The proceeds will be devoted to a fund to establish a drinking fountain in the suburb. Mr. Morosco is trying out something new at the Majestic Theatre this week. On Wednesday afternoons he will offer a bargain matinee, reducing the price of seats to one third the usual amount. This week Kennedy and Kimble succeed The Allen Curtis Company at the Walker Theatre. Part of the company will go to Denver with Allen Curtis. Arthur Clamage, Charles Figg and Ed. P. Foot will join the new company at Fischers. Next week the Alphin company will move to the Unique Theatre. Al Franks and Laurel Atkins remain with the company. Next week Eva Vance will join the Hartman Company and will play the wardrobe mistress in The Mayor of Tokio. Arrangements are progressing rapidly for the Hospital benefit. It will be given November 10, 11, 12 and 13, at the Temple Auditorium. Professor Napoleon is a musical extravaganza and calls for a large number of participants. Much interest has been shown in the affair owing to the social prominence of many of those taking part. Miss Alice Weeks of The Ringmaster Company is improved in health but will not rejoin the company here. Her place is being filled by Anna Lee. Next week Kelly and Massey's Lyric Musical Comedy Company opens at Fischer's Theatre. The company will be directed by James T. Kelly.

AUDITORIUM—The Ringmaster is the Shubert attraction at the Auditorium this week. This play of modern business life and business methods is by Olive Porter who, we are told, was a stenographer in the office of a Wall street firm. While in this office she gathered the material for her play. The story tells of the financial struggle between Richard Hillary the Ringmaster and John Le Baron, an idle, good natured young man who is in love with the daughter of the Ringmaster. Hillary's methods are discovered to be dishonest and Le Baron refuses to enter into his scheme. Of course right and love triumph in the end. The characters are all clearly drawn and particularly those of the business men. Miss Porter has studied these men and she knows whereof she writes. Frederick Montague plays Richard Hillary and he is very convincing in the part. H. S. Northrup gives a good picture of John Le Baron. The work of Harry Crosby and F. A. Yelvington in the character parts of Ex-Senator Craven and Kingsley McElroy is perfect. Alice Weeks plays the leading feminine role and does well. Monday night Miss Weeks was ill and Anna Lee, who has a small part in the production, stepped into the part with less than an hour in which to prepare her part. The play is absorbing from the first to the last curtain, the stage pictures are attractive and the whole a very strong performance.

BELASCO—This week we have another one of the Belascos big productions. Owen Kildare's The Regeneration is the bill. The story concerns the people of the slums and the fight that many of them make to lift themselves up after some good angel has showed them what they may have in this life if they only make the effort. Lewis S. Stone appears in the role created in New York by Arnold Daly, that of Owen Conway. It is impossible to imagine that any one could play the part any better than does Mr. Stone. He seems an ideal Owen Conway. Miss Magrane as Marie Deering is all that the part demands, her perfectly clear enunciation adds much to the charm of the character. Richard Vivian, as Mickey the Dip; William Freeman, as a detective; Howard Scott, as Casey; Charles Giblyn as Dempsey and Frank Camp, as "Skinny," all do good character work. Miss Farrington as Nellie does a fine piece of work. Beth Taylor is pleasing as Ollie. James Guy Usher is well cast as Arthur Ames, in love with the settlement teacher, Miss Deering. The company individually and collectively is to be congratulated for its excellent work in this production.

BURBANK—Rida Johnson Young's play of college life, Brown of Harvard, is holding the boards at the Burbank this week. There is a large cast and all of the company, with several extra people, are required to put on this very interesting play. The plot of the play is not so complicated as to tire the audience, but ones imagination is taxed to the utmost at times. There are the usual characters that appear in a college, and rowing is the athletic sport of which we hear in the story. The play has been put on here several times by local stock companies and is very well known. All of the acting is consistent and intelligent. Mr. Beasley is seen as Tom Brown, David Hartford is cast as Thorne, Harry Mestayer as Wilfred Kenyon, Henry Stockbridge, Willis Marks, Wayland Trask and others as college men. Miss Hall, Miss Taylor and Miss Margo Duffet all do particularly fine work. The whole production is exceedingly well done.

MASON—The Mason Opera House is dark for the first half of the week and the Banker's show holds the stage for the last of the week, commencing Thursday night.

MAJESTIC—50 Miles From Boston is from the pen of the versatile actor-manager-playwright, George M. Cohan. There is a mighty good story mixed with plenty of good fun, and also several snappy songs including Harrigan and A Small Town Gal. 50 Miles From Boston leads us to a small town with its village band and the inevitable volunteer fire department and the center of all village gossip—the village postoffice. Edwin Belden, as Jed Woodis, is splendid and gives a good, true bit of acting. There are several clever character impersonations, those of Richard Bartlett, Grace King and Laura Bennett deserving special mention. In addition, the work of Frank Buoman, Dan Bruce, Edward O'Connor, May Maurice and Helen Young is satisfactory. The balance of the cast, as well as a good chorus, help to make an exceedingly entertaining show.

GRAND—The Blue Moon is the vehicle that is being used by Ferris Hartman and his company to entertain the patrons of the Grand for the current week. The piece itself is not so good as some others produced by this excellent company, and the bulk of the work of making the thing a success depends on the efforts of Ferris Hartman himself and the leader of the orchestra, Mr. Raynes. Mr. Hartman of course has the Jimmy Powers role, in which he is the hit of the show. He deserves a great deal of credit for making the piece "go" because it is a bad show. Dorothy Morton makes her first appearance with the company this week. She has a very charming soprano voice which she surely knows how to use. Mr. Walsh pleases with his fine voice this week as he always does. The comedy and character roles are entrusted to Muggins Davies, Walter Catlett, Walter de Leon, Joseph Fogarty and Josie Hart. The stage settings and costumes are pretty and the chorus does well in some very catchy songs.

ORPHEUM—From the ranks of the "legitimate" comes James Young, who is the headliner for this week. The sketch, Wanted, a Sister, is different from the usual vaudeville skit in that it has a legitimate story to tell and its action is logical. Mr. Young is ably assisted by Lorayne Osborne and a competent little company. Mary

Norman is always assured of a welcome, and this time, as usual she has something new. Her impersonations of stage folk, both before and behind the curtain, as well as her always fascinating types of society girls, are done in that fetching manner that makes Mary Norman such a favorite. Ed F. Reynard, a ventriloquist, is a little out of the ordinary in that line of work, as he carries a complete village of characters with him, which although made of wood tell a story of a day in Hicksville, all done very cleverly. Sig. Ancilotti with his dog of foreign importation has something new in a mind reading stunt, because it is done by the dog, and while there is a trick, it is kept in the dark. Edna Aug, with her types, remain from last week, and is as interesting as ever. Henry Clive with Mai Sturgis Walker are still one of the best on the bill. The balance of the holdovers are The Big City Quartette and the dainty Mysotis ballet dancers. New motion pictures complete a delightful bill.

LOS ANGELES—A Breeze from Bonnie Scotland, is the headliner at the Los Angeles Theatre this week. It is a pleasing skit by William Herman. There is good singing in this Scotch act and also good impersonations. There is one other sketch on the bill. This is A Fishermans Luck, by Ada Woolcott and company. It is a fair number, although a bit overdrawn. Pritzkow and Blanchard do some good yodeling. Buckley's trained dogs furnish one of the best things on the program. They do dance steps and all kinds of things that one does not expect dumb animals to do. The La Darres appear in a ladder equilibristic act. Their work is clever. Fay Caranza, sometimes called the "Spanish Nightingale," sings several ballads. She has a strong soprano voice that has been well cultivated. New motion pictures conclude a very good bill.

FISCHER'S—For his farewell week at Fischer's Theatre, Charles Alphin is offering Othello for a Day. Harry Oakes plays an Irishman, Mr. Mendel a Dutchman and Mr. Morris an Italian. These three form a trio of woman haters and the funny situations made by this combination are very entertaining. Miss Rockwell sings several of Mr. Alphin's new compositions. Blossom Seeley, Flo Sherlock, Richard Kipling and Leonard Brisbane are seen to advantage in their respective parts.

UNIQUE—La Vall and Bernard are presenting a trapeze act at the Unique this week. Their ease and grace make them the head of the bill. Boss and Claire have a comedy act and they surely do get all the laughs. My Wife's Mother, is the title of the piece being given by the Unique players. Annie Baumann and Laurel Atkins are two new members of the company. Miss Baumann appears in the title role and Miss Atkins is well cast. Al Frank, James Spencer, Herbert Cramer, Miss De Lane and Miss Salmon all have parts that particularly suit them. Motion pictures and an illustrated song complete the bill.

FLORENCE EMERY.

EVELYN SELBIE WRITES: Scaguay, Alaska, Oct. 14.—Have had a delightful season with Mr. Frawley and expect to be home about Nov. 1st. Alaska is a great country.

Correspondence

